TAKES MILLIONS TO RUN TEXAS

Annual Report of Comptroller at Austin Filed

JUDICIARY COSTS MOST

Pensions Second and Interest on Public Debt Third in List

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 5.—The annual report of the comptroller for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1905, shows that it cost exactly $3,617,884.68 to run the state government for the fiscal year from Sept. 1, 1904 to Aug. 31, 1905. The most expensive branch of the government is the judiciary, which cost the state $85,129.11. Pensions is the next heaviest expense, which amounted to $275,226.76, then follows the interest on the public debt and the various state institutions.

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—In reply to reports that he had yielded to the pro-railroad senators to the extent of accepting of a special court of transportation to try railroad rate cases the President has declared to all callers that he would see his whole program in congress fail before he would yield a jot on this question. That the leaders among the house insurgents against the statutory bill have not profited from their experience in delaying their party on a solely party issue is evidenced by the efforts they now are putting forth in conjunction with the outside lobby to defeat the measure in the senate.

Asks Cousin in New York to Deny Divorce

Countess Enters Plea. PARIS, Feb. 5.—Countess Boni de Castellane, formerly Miss Anna Gould, today entered a plea for divorce from her husband. The defense alleged that Blevier suffered his injuries because of his negligence, and that she used her cane in self-defense. Mrs. Reidler, who is a well preserved, vivacious woman, spoke with firm voice and was not at all flustered by being brought into court in her extreme old age. She denied the charges, but confined herself to answering the questions with as few words as possible.

Architects Complete Lines for New Structure

SHAPED LIKE FLATIRON

Will Face Carnegie Library. Bacon Saunders to Be the Builder

Fort Worth is soon to have the tallest building in North Texas in a ten-story office structure which will be erected within a short time on the southwest corner of Houston and Ninth streets. Not only will Fort Worth have the highest building in this part of the state, but the building will also be a smaller example of the famous Flat Iron building of New York city.

At least this is in accordance with present plans, and there seems to be no doubt but that these plans will materialize. The new building will be erected by Bacon Saunders upon the property which is now occupied by a two-story brick building, which will be torn down to make way for the new structure. It will have ten stories, besides the basement. The frontage on Houston street will be the same as that of the present building, eighty-two feet. It will be triangular in shape, as it is to be built upon the lot, peculiarly shaped, for which the division of the Jennings and Daggett surveys at this point is responsible.

MANSON SNUBS KING EDWARD

Courier Refuses to Act as a Royal Attendant

(Copyright, 1906, by W. R. Hearst) Special to The Telegram. LONDON, Feb. 5.—For the first time since the days of the late Mr. Gladstone's premiership, a courier has had the courage to refuse absolutely to serve the king as a personal attendant. Although only very few people are aware of the facts, and no one would dare to publish them, it is well known at court that Lord Monson was one of the few people whom the king specially marked to be one of his lords in waiting under the new government. A number of the household appointments are made by the premier, but it is always understood that the king can choose his own personal attendants.

To his majesty's astonishment and indignation Lord Monson wrote, declining as courteously as possible to obey "the command." Sir Arthur Ellis, one of the oldest members of the royal household was almost speechless at this "amazing refusal" and vented his wrath on Lord Monson, who is his relative by marriage. Lord Monson, however, merely explained to the king personally that nothing would induce him to serve under such a premier as Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman, whom he dislikes most cordially. The king, of course, was exceedingly annoyed, as he rather likes Sir Henry, but he likes Lord Monson even more and he soon forgave him.

Servant Alleged a "Terror" Miss Helen Mar, the popular American reciter, who in private life is the wife of Mr. Roland Clensy, the Irish violinist, is just beginning to understand the meaning of the servant problem in a flat. Mr. and Mrs. Clensy occupy a flat in Bloomsbury and they have a servant who may be described as a "perfect terror." To the Clensys themselves the servant seems to be a terror, but to other servants, but the other tenants have risen as one man and now threaten proceedings against "the terror," who has however prepared potatoes about and smashing the windows of the other flats in the building. Miss Mar has told her friends that if she is to go to court she will have to describe her occupation as a "story-teller" which would of course be a little against her.

"Where Did Dowie Put It?" Question Convulsing Zion City

MRS. DAVIS COTTON, BRIDE WHOSE MARRIAGE IS CONVULSING ZION CITY.

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Gladstone Dowie, son of the "First Apostle," hurried today from an eastern train to the one bearing him to Zion City, but found time in the interim to denounce as "nonsense" the reported osulatory attempt of an actress on his unkissed beard and to reaffirm his decision to keep silent regarding his mission until he had reached Zion City. "There is nothing to say at this time," he said. "That will come later. My father is in excellent health and will return shortly."

What about the profits from the lace and candy factories? Who has charge of the money accruing from the order that people should pay a tithe upon their property? It is understood soon as Dowie returns a demand will be made for a thorough accounting of all funds received and of all disbursements for the last seven years. Another question convulsing Dowie and his followers is that of the marriage of the Christian Catholic church last Sunday resulted in the formal exclusion from Zion of Governor John J. Speicher, by Alexander Dowie, the "apostle." Speicher had permitted the marriage to take place, but he had called the bride to the altar, the bride being the sister of Cotton's first wife, deceased.

SIX GIRLS WANT TEXAS HUSBANDS Postmaster at Temple Gets Letter From Massachusetts Special to The Telegram. TEMPLE, Texas, Feb. 5.—The following letter was received here at the postoffice today and is an indication that the "tall young" man is about to come into fashion if the dictum of the east has anything to do with setting styles in masculinity, as it has in many other matters. The letter is given herewith: "Dear Sir: I am going to ask you to do me a favor. I would like to get the name of some young fellows who would like to correspond with me, so I am going to ask you to help me. There are six of us girls who are chums and we are going to write to six different states of the United States, and I picked out Texas, so if you know any between 18-25, I wish you would answer and I want him tall, as eastern girls like tall fellows. So I am going to close, hoping I will hear from you soon. From yours truly, P. S.—I am 18."

SECOND CAVALRY HOME First Squadron Returns From Philippine Islands By Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—The United States transport Logan arrived yesterday from Manila. On board were the first squadron of the Second cavalry, headquarters and band, and a full complement of casuals. Among the passengers was General Butler D. Price. General Price retired from the army at his own request having been forty-two years in the service. Major H. L. Scott, governor of Jolo, was also a passenger.

OSAGE FARMER GOLD BRICKED

Found Mysterious Chest—Paid $400

Special to The Telegram. SEDAN, Kan., Feb. 5.—An old tradition of the Osage Indians concerning vast treasures of hidden wealth in the northern part of their reservation has been recalled by one of their number being "goldbricked" a few days ago. For many years it has been a well-known fact, or at least so considered among the Osages, that in the great gold excitement days of 1849 and the early '50s some Colorado miners on their way across what is now the Osage reservation with vast amounts of gold were waylaid by the Indians and all but one of their number killed. They were bound for Missouri, according to the often-told story, and had secured their gold in the far west. After his companions had been killed the one remaining miner buried the gold somewhere in the neighborhood of Elkin, Kan., and went on toward Missouri. That was the last ever heard of him and the massive and mysterious history of the hidden gold became tradition.

Prepare to Dig Up Gold Mr. Boulanger became chagrined in the belief that men were looking for the hidden gold on his place, so when two strangers came to his place a few weeks ago with a proposition to induce the gold on shares, after locating it with a machine which they had, they found a man ready and keen for a trade. They related to Mr. Boulanger the old story of the Osage gold and he had already heard of it. A deal was quickly struck, the proposition to induce the strangers were to bring on their machine for locating the gold and in return were to get a liberal share of it. One of the men was from Missouri and this, of course, recalled to Mr. Boulanger the story of the hidden gold in Missouri, which, according to the story, he lost his wealth years ago. This strengthened his credulity, and he had a sort of faith in the machine. This part of it whirled mysteriously about several times and then pointed toward a certain spot. The machine was a three men, armed with all kinds of tools for quick excavating. They dug down two feet and were stopped by a flat rock. This was the assumed authority during Dowie's absence in Jamaica, to waive all objections. Cotton and his bride have been suspended from membership in the church.

FOURTH WEEK ENDS Gaynor-Greene Trial Drags Along Special to The Telegram. SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 5.—The major part of the session Saturday in the Greene and Gayner case in the United States court was devoted to the introduction of evidence designed to show that in furtherance of the conspiracy, which Nelson was charged with, he had been advised to jump at the terrible one. So, let's look for a good, fast go, with honors about even at the end of the trouble.

NEW YORKER TELLS HOW IT FEELS—Lost on New Orleans Race Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—How it feels to be buccinated out of $50,000 in a fake wireless wire-tapping game was told by a New Yorker who was in the city yesterday. He was in the city yesterday, in Judge Foster's court in general sessions. Felix is complainant and chief witness against Christopher Tracey, who is accused of being one of the men in the scheme that parted Felix from his money. Another "wire tapper" named Nelson, who was arrested with Tracey, has disappeared.

WHIPPING POST BILL UP Measure for Punishment of Wife Beaters to Receive Consideration Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The house committee on the District of Columbia has reported without commendation of any sort the Adams bill providing the whipping post as a punishment for wife-beating in the District of Columbia. This action of the committee places the bill on the house calendar and it will come up on district day. Ten votes were cast in favor of reporting the bill and three against.

NELSON TO FIGHT TERRY MCGOVERN

Contest at Philadelphia Mar. 14, Six Rounds Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—After considerable more delay, fuss, quibbling and haggling than occurred at last summer's peace conference, a match has been finally arranged between Battling Nelson and Terry McGovern, and a sign of relief is heard from many directions in consequence. It certainly was a hard struggle for all interested. The mix-up will take place at Philadelphia on March 14, and although it will only be of six rounds duration, there is a possibility that pugilistic history will be made, even in that short length of time. If the once-dreaded Brooklynite bears out his declaration that he is "as good as even" and wades into Mr. Nelson with his customary vim, there is liable to be a new claimant for lightweight honors as a result. McGovern has even gone so far, banking on a favorable outcome of his bout with Nelson, as to claim a meeting with Joe Gans for the lightweight crown. All of which is, of course, exceedingly interesting to the durable Dane and his admirers.

BASEBALL NOTES Billy Murray says the new baseball park at Jersey City will be the largest in the country—225 by 400 feet. "Chief" Zimmer, who has been umpiring for a couple of years, will earn a meat ticket as catcher for Nashville. An exchange announces that Rochester has purchased Charley Moran of this city from the Indianapolis Club. Gene De Montreville says he is sure that Moriarty, the former Toledo player, will make good at third for the Highlanders. Danny Shay, the Cardinal shortstop, has asked for his release. He is a delicate ball tosser and finds that the "California" club is best for him. Gene de Montreville says Cammie Mack will miss Lave Cross before the season is half over and expresses his opinion that a Lavey will be of great value to the Nationals. Dale Gear, formerly a pitcher and outfielder for the old Senators, will be found in the Birmingham outfield this year. He has been with Kansas City since he left Washington. Muggsy McGraw has employed "Robbie" Robinson, formerly with the local club, as utility infielder. Robbie is a fine minor leaguer, but just falls short of being a major league quality. Few players have received more midwinter notices than Leapor, the Eastern Leaguer, who is booked to play second base for the Highlanders. Past infielders who can bat above .300 are extremely rare. The salary lists of most National League clubs will not be so large as last season's. Brooklyn and Boston, who have obtained some real players this winter, are among the few clubs who will pay more. Boston Nationals will use Bridwell at short, switch Abbatichio to second, and place Brain at third base, which will give the Benetaters the best infield they have had since the days of Collins, Long and Lowe. Should the rules committee adopt a measure making it optional whether a pitcher goes to bat, wouldn't Charley Hickman be the boy to do the slugging for the boxmen, while Stanley Johnson and Anderson looked out for the outfield? Eddie Hahn, the star of the Southern League last year, made such a good start with the Highlanders last year that he is expected to be in the line-up of the club since the days of Collins, Long and Lowe. NELSON TO FIGHT TERRY MCGOVERN

Contest at Philadelphia Mar. 14, Six Rounds Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—After considerable more delay, fuss, quibbling and haggling than occurred at last summer's peace conference, a match has been finally arranged between Battling Nelson and Terry McGovern, and a sign of relief is heard from many directions in consequence. It certainly was a hard struggle for all interested. The mix-up will take place at Philadelphia on March 14, and although it will only be of six rounds duration, there is a possibility that pugilistic history will be made, even in that short length of time. If the once-dreaded Brooklynite bears out his declaration that he is "as good as even" and wades into Mr. Nelson with his customary vim, there is liable to be a new claimant for lightweight honors as a result. McGovern has even gone so far, banking on a favorable outcome of his bout with Nelson, as to claim a meeting with Joe Gans for the lightweight crown. All of which is, of course, exceedingly interesting to the durable Dane and his admirers.

BASEBALL NOTES Billy Murray says the new baseball park at Jersey City will be the largest in the country—225 by 400 feet. "Chief" Zimmer, who has been umpiring for a couple of years, will earn a meat ticket as catcher for Nashville. An exchange announces that Rochester has purchased Charley Moran of this city from the Indianapolis Club. Gene De Montreville says he is sure that Moriarty, the former Toledo player, will make good at third for the Highlanders. Danny Shay, the Cardinal shortstop, has asked for his release. He is a delicate ball tosser and finds that the "California" club is best for him. Gene de Montreville says Cammie Mack will miss Lave Cross before the season is half over and expresses his opinion that a Lavey will be of great value to the Nationals. Dale Gear, formerly a pitcher and outfielder for the old Senators, will be found in the Birmingham outfield this year. He has been with Kansas City since he left Washington. LOOKS GOOD TO EXHIBITORS

The Fort Worth Fat Stock show, which is scheduled to be held during the coming month, is attracting favorable attention at the hands of the Texas press, and they are speaking of the enterprise in the most flattering terms. The large premium list that has been hung up for breeders and exhibitors is highly complimented as an evidence of Fort Worth progressiveness and liberality. The Texas Stockman and Farmer, published at San Antonio, says:

The premium list issued by the management of the Fort Worth Fat Stock show, to be held in March, looks mighty good to breeders and prospective exhibitors. Premiums offered for this show have always been liberal but this year the amount offered is several thousand dollars larger than ever before. This liberality on the part of the people of Fort Worth is what has built up their fat stock show to its present high standard. It takes money to prepare live stock for the showing, and lots of it. The premium money won by the most successful in the show ring is not large enough to hardly more than pay their expenses while at the show, but live stock breeders appreciate a good fat premium, as it helps to cut down the immediate cash outlay. The Fort Worth Fat Stock show will continue to grow in size and popularity just so long as the management continue to show breeders encouragement and consideration.

The enterprising people of Fort Worth can always be depended upon to do the right thing in the proper manner. The Fat Stock show is the pride of every progressive citizen of this live and progressive city, and each and every one of these is determined to do his full duty in the matter of promoting the enterprise and making it the success it should be.

The management of this enterprise is centered in live and progressive hands. They realize that they are not building for today, but for all time, and there exists a determination to make this great annual event something that will be worth the careful attention of every representative of the live stock industry in the entire country. The International exposition at Chicago, and the Royal at Kansas City, had best begin to already look to their laurels. The young giant of the Southwest has designs on this fat stock show business, and when Fort Worth goes after a thing it can always be safely set down as landed.

Visitors to the coming Fat Stock show can rely upon the fact that it will be well worthy their patronage and attention. In fact, it is going to be the biggest proposition of the kind ever seen in the Southwest.

JUDGE BELL LEADS FOR GOVERNOR

The race for governor is warming up considerably, and from every portion of the state come the most cheering reports as to the strength that is being developed by Judge C. K. Bell of this city. S. J. Henry, one of the leading lawyers of Texarkana, and a shining light in East Texas politics, thinks that Judge Bell is an easy winner. He says:

It is my candid opinion and conviction that Judge C. K. Bell, of Fort Worth, is by far the strongest man in the field, not only in all parts of northeast Texas, but also in west and central Texas.

The race this year seems to be between Judge Bell and Judge Brooks, but I sincerely believe that in the battle of ballots, in our approaching Democratic primaries, the Fort Worth man will prove an easy winner. The campaign is already growing hot, and the intensity of the Democratic zeal and fervor is simply something remarkable for this early stage of the game displayed by the enthusiastic supporters of the four candidates now in the field. It has been so for several months up our way, you might say for the past six or seven months. And the campaigning over there by the candidates themselves has caused the political pot to boil at a higher heat than is usual at the preliminary periods of gubernatorial races. In my opinion the race for governor this year, in which more interest is manifested than in any and all other races for other prominent positions, is going to be the most lurid and intense that we have experienced in Texas for the past twelve years, when the four candidates turn loose their eloquence and line up their hosts of warriors. It is certainly going to be a battle royal and no ground surrendered until the winner comes out first under the wire in the primary elections next summer.

In reply to your question as to what part the great masses of our citizens will take in the fight, I shall say that the great, throbbing, strong heart of the Democratic voters of north and northern Texas, where we have such large Democratic majorities as you know, will be aroused to such an enthusiastic extent that you will think that another Hog and Clark campaign is on.

The Democrats of our grand state do not smile with favor on a candidate, occupying the woolstack of one of our highest appellate courts, holding the scales of justice evenly balanced and then availing himself of the prestige and glory of that exalted office to hoist himself into the lofty position of chief executive. Judge Brooks ought to resign his office and dismantle himself of the judicial ermine and march forth an untrammelled gladiator to war and make the fight in an open field, standing on his merits as a man.

Such men as Judge Alton B. Parker, resigning his judicial position to run for President, and Judge C. K. Bell, positively declining to run for attorney general again when his last term expired, have commended themselves to every true Democrat. Judge Brooks rushes into the press to tell his compatriots that he will not resign but will hold on to that fat public seat until his term expires. I presume that he made this grand flourish of trumpets after he had seen the handwriting on the wall and butted up against the Bell band wagon. But, really, if Judge Brooks is going to keep the office of high judge until his inauguration as governor, ought he not to again rush into print and inform the public upon what Elijah he will cast the mantle of his judge's office about next January?

As to my observation and information, gathered from other sections of the state, I must say that it has been a most agreeable surprise to me, at both Austin and San Antonio, to learn the great strength and the numerous strong supporters that Judge C. K. Bell has down here. I veritably believe that if James B. Wells does not run (and I trust that he will not this year) Judge Bell will sweep all of this west and southwest country. He is a lovable character, and I find that people everywhere speak of him in the warmest terms of praise as to his standing as a man and his record as a public official.

WILL GARFIELD CLEAR THE PACKERS?

Will Commissioner Garfield clear the big packers of the charges that are pending against them in the federal court in Chicago? That is a question that is being asked by press and people from one end of the United States to the other, and there appears to be a very strong impression that all the work the government has done at so great expense in trying to bring these people within the meshes of the law will prove futile, and all on account of the fact that Commissioner Garfield appears to have talked too much. He seems to have been so strongly imbued with the idea that he was qualified to speak as the representative of the United States government, that he was in effect the government dealing with the packers. Such is the trend of the testimony that has been brought out in the trial of the cases at Chicago during the past week.

The packers not only claim that they were promised immunity from punishment in consideration of imparting the desired information, but they are proving it by such witnesses as Charles G. Dawes, former comptroller of the currency. They are proving it by such men as Louis C. Krauthoff, a leading Chicago attorney, who told the court a very straight tale.

Mr. Krauthoff began his testimony by narrating an interview with Commissioner Garfield at the Chicago club April 13, 1905, in the presence of Charles G. Dawes, president of the Central Trust company, and Samuel McRoberts of Armour & Co. This was the opening of the negotiations conducted by the commissioner for the purpose of making the investigation authorized by congress of the packing industry.

Mr. Garfield said he realized the disinclination of business men to disclose secret matters of business, but he added that he had mapped out a plan by which none of the secrets of the business would be disclosed to the newspapers or be used by other departments of the government. I told him my clients were in a very delicate position and that the newspapers were full of matters pertaining to them. I told him that if the law was valid there was no doubt that he could compel my clients to testify. I said the packers were confronted with the risk of feeding the flames of public opinion and furnishing newspapers and magazines with material, and that state officers were then attacking us in various places. I told him that if the result of the submission to his requirements were to be further newspaper notoriety and litigation I would, of course, contest the law.

I asked him about some of this information getting to the newspapers, and even to the department of justice, and he told me not to have any apprehension on that score. I then asked what use the President of the United States wished to make of the information, and he answered, with emphasis, that of course the President of a great nation would not allow anything to which any one could take exception.

Commissioner Garfield seems to have been willing to promise anything in return for the information he sought, and it is even averred that he went so far as to assure the packers that the policy of the administration would be to protect them. It is barely possible that he had in mind the fat subscriptions the packers had made to the Republican campaign fund when he made his suggestive announcement, and honestly believed they had thereby purchased immunity from punishment for any infraction of the law. He did not stop to consider the fact that the sympathy of President Roosevelt was with the live stock interests of the country in the fight they were making for the abrogation of a great evil, and the executive was pledged to bring things to an immediate showdown. He seems to have arrogated to himself the right to make any kind of a promise without figuring on what might be the consequences, and he made a bundle of the entire affair that reflects discredit upon both himself and the national administration.

There appears to be one element of consistency in Commissioner Garfield's actions, however. He tried to guarantee the packers the promised immunity by administering a copious dose of whitewash. He was unable to find the best trust, but he passed the information he had gleaned in that direction under the table to the department of justice, with the suggestion that if it would look closer it might find something for its trouble. As for himself, he was in honor committed to the solemn declaration that there was no beef trust, and the men engaged in the packing business were actually operating their big plants at a death loss. He did his level best to deliver the goods, and as a result, he has found himself squarely in the middle of a very serious predicament.

What the result of the beef trust trial will be it is impossible to see at this time. But to the individual who has kept an eye on the general situation it appears very plainly that Commissioner Garfield has succeeded in quering the whole business. It begins to look as if the government is up against the hardest feature of the situation in the person of Commissioner Garfield.

Tarrant county will have more qualified voters this year than any other county in the state except Dallas, and next year we will show Dallas a thing or two that will cause her to ponder seriously.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

Some of our candidates for governor have one point in common with the Honorable C. Dewey, senator. And that is the tenacity with which they hang on to a job with a salary to it—Childless Post.

And there is another point of similarity. Some of these candidates for governor have some very "ram-bunctious friends" who are advising them against their best interests.

Colonel Lyon has a great job and there are many men who would like to have it. He is high executioner and headman to those whom he desires to decapitate and dictator to the President on Texas federal appointments and member of the national committee—Sherman Democrat.

It takes a clear head an iron hand to hold the turbulent Republican forces of Texas in line and Cecil Lyon is showing himself to be the man for the job. He is doing his work faithfully and well.

The Ohio senate has had its railroad passes cut off. It then voted to reduce the fare to two cents in that state. Wonder why it had never thought the public needed a reduction before?—Clarendon Chronicle.

All over the country the people are demanding the abrogation of the free pass evil, and the railways should now be protected in their willingness to accede to the popular demand. The legislator who attempts retaliatory measures for the loss of his pass should be promptly retired from public service.

The Hon. T. M. Campbell favors the creation of a state department of agriculture. He believes this can be accomplished without additional expense to the state by cutting off useless expenditures in other directions. This is an issue on which all classes can unite.—Houston Chronicle.

Texas already has an agricultural department on a small scale, but it has always been treated in a very niggardly manner. The only real interest felt in the situation seems to develop among candidates during election year.

William Jennings Bryan is still the greatest American statesman on earth, if he is on the other side of the globe. He grows in wisdom and fights the enemy in and outside of the Democratic party in open conflict. He will never be a slick politician for he "would rather be right than President"—Sherman Democrat.

Bryan is a real statesman, but, unfortunately, he is a statesman out of a job. He may never be President of these United States, but there are millions of husky Americans who will always believe he is justly entitled to the honor.

A deal of interest is being taken in the race for where the last legislature fell down. Common sense of honesty—we presume both—were greatly lacking in both branches of the last Texas legislature. No matter how capable a governor we may have, he can't do much with such a body of representatives as we had last time. Visitors who saw the legislature in session unanimously dubbed it the farce of all farces.—Arlington Journal.

The people of Texas should exercise great care in the selection of their legislative material this year. Only the best men that can be found in every district should receive the nomination.

John Brisben Walker sold his magazine, the Cosmopolitan, his valuable property, Kingsland Point, and everything else he could readily dispose of to satisfy the indebtedness of the Mobile company whose losses exceed $1,700,000. Mr. Walker also returned to every stockholder the amount of his investment with interest, and now is dependent on building up the Twentieth Century Magazine for his reinstatement in the business and magazine field. It is certainly refreshing and most highly commendable to find one such instance along the weary highway of modern commercialism. Mr. Walker's company lost out through the popularity of the gasoline motor over steam.—Austin News-Tribune.

An honest man is said to be the noblest work of God, and John Brisben Walker has proved himself to be just that kind of a man. His action in the premises is quite different from what would be naturally expected from the high financiers developed in the vicinity of New York.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Many a worthless man has a good disposition. A man who gets what he deserves has his troubles. If you would be respected and happy, mind your own business.

Laziness isn't exactly a crime—but it is the next thing to it.

Not all women who are proud of their figures are expert calculators.

The way of the transgressor is to acquaint himself with the law in his line.

He who considers himself a wit is apt to be considered a bore by others.

It's impossible to convince a girl that exercise at a wash tub improves the complexion.

If a man is attentive to his wife it is either because he loves her or is afraid of her.

Women may be able to make cake according to directions, but they can't manage husbands that way.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS

The world is full of men whose intentions are good. Opportunities are never advertised in the Lost and Found column.

When a fellow cracks his funny bone he doesn't laugh in his sleeve.

It's a story with a sad ending that finds its way into the waste basket.

Any married man knows the difference between a reason and an excuse.

The actor only recognizes two seasons—when he has a job and when he hasn't.

Marriage is a lottery, and some men aren't satisfied with their luck until they have tried it four or five times.—Philadelphia Record.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

There is very little real need of noise for anything but boat whistles and arguments.

Maybe women are such poor mathematicians from force of habit at figuring their age the way they do.

If a man made as much money as his wife tells her friends he does, he would owe twice as much as he does.

What a girl likes about going to matinees is the different ideas she gets of all the ways she ought to be made love to.

Whether a woman wants to trust a man depends not on how much he is to be trusted, but on how much she likes him.—New York Press.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

The most stubborn, unprogressive, conservative science on earth is the science of medicine.

The mind of the regular physician of the old school is closed to progression. With might and main, he combats any idea which does not originate with his school. He would let a patient die rather than see him saved by some impertinent newcomer with unorthodox ideas.

In olden days all human ailments were treated with bleeding and purging. Thousands and tens of thousands of sufferers were hurried into premature graves through the blind ignorance of physicians.

In more modern times similar results have followed the free use of drugs and the surgeon's knife.

There has been for the past twenty years an increasing mania among physicians and surgeons to slash the human body and cut out various organs which were causing disturbances to the system.

Civilized society is filled with men and women today who are physically incompetent beings, while the laboratory shelves of every fashionable physician give evidence of the mutilation to which patients have been subjected.

Esculapius, Hippocrates and Galen, the ancient Greek physicians, were the fathers of medicine and surgery. The Arabians introduced chemistry into the practice. Bleeding was introduced at an early date and continued up to within fifty years. The next great event was the discovery of the circulation of the blood by Harvey. He was at the time, 1619, court physician to King James I. and professor of surgery in the royal medical college of London, England, which institution is still in existence.

His description of the mechanism of the heart and its action, forcing the blood through the body, was scoffed at by the profession.

He was maligned unmercifully, and it took him the best of his life to regain the respect and confidence of his profession.

In the same way the regular school has met each progressive step in medicine. Homeopathy was derided and abused and made its way through a path filled with roaring lions. Osteopathy was insulted and ridiculed, and many of its practitioners were forced into court rooms to substantiate their right to the name of physician. The Homeopathic school, which had suffered so much from "allopathy," is now united with its persecutor to "down" osteopathy.

But osteopathy did not, and will not, be "downed." It is, on the contrary, very much in evidence, and daily proving itself a blessing to humanity. The water curists, electricity and absorption were all steps forward in medical therapeutics, and were all violently attacked by the older schools. Now comes the latest and best of all—the "Light" treatment, and of course darkness is opposed to light, and the drug doctor and the surgeon with his whetted knife, aching for an operation, object to this newcomer in the world of science.

But the old schools practicing the giving of large quantities of drugs and the free use of surgery are on the wane, and a change is gradually being effected through the light school of medicine, which will be of great benefit to mankind in combating virulent and deadly forms of diseases which the older forms of practice are unable to combat.

Occasionally a progressive mind is found in the old ranks. I met an emaciated doctor recently who had given up drugs and knives in favor of light. He said in speaking of the matter:

"All light is simply borrowed from the sun, and the value of sunlight is beyond compare. Germ diseases lurking in the human system, multiplying in darkness, cannot bear the beams of light thrown upon them any more than the unhealthy mould and fungus growth, in a darkened room, can exist when the windows are thrown open and a flood of God's sunlight thrown in to purify and cleanse.

"Even the most dreadful of all diseases, cancers and tuberculosis seem to recede under the powerfully purifying action of these internal sunbaths.

"The world is full of prejudice and bigotry still, and the active professional man either has no time to investigate the new order of things or is not broad enough to grasp them.

"Light is life, and if this fact is fully appreciated there will be fewer desolate firesides and broken homes than through the old order of practice and drugs. Ten operations are performed here to one in European countries, and the practice has become a menace and a sad."

Dr. Christholm Williams, of the West London hospital, reports ten cases of cancer cured by light. Scores of cases can be found here by those who care to investigate.

The mania of reputable surgeons and physicians to remove important organs from the human body is little less than criminal today. The science of the future will look upon the "operations" of this era with horror, much as the civilized nations regard cannibalism now. It is almost a necessity for a man who wishes to perpetuate his family name and blood to ask a woman before proposing marriage if she has been upon the operating table of any fashionable physician.

The number of young women who in early youth are rendered barren for life by these surgeons is appalling.

Not one case in 100 is necessary.

Other methods would have saved life and sex privileges.

I have known a woman who believed in the efficacy of water, given internally and externally, to save a sister woman from the knife, after a consultation of specialists had decided that an operation alone could keep her alive.

I have known many cases, after similar assertions, to be cured absolutely by light; others by osteopathy, others by absorption.

With the discovery of the power of the violet ray and the Roentgen ray to drive out congestion and cure supposedly incurable maladies, without the aid of medicine and without the touch of the knife, it seems as if the divine command, let there be light, was about to be fully obeyed at last.

A woman was recently carried into one of the institutions where light is used for disease, and in a few weeks relieved of a malady which five years ago would have necessitated an operation by skilled surgeons. I saw her, convalescent and able to walk about, and overflowing with gratitude to God for his wonderful light, which science had turned to such blessed use.

There is still a higher plane for humanity to reach: the plane where the light within each soul shall be able to cast out all disease and cure all indisposition.

Metaphysical science has made this possibility an established fact. But we are not all of us, or many of us, in truth, sufficiently well posted or sufficiently awakened to make use of the spiritual violet ray which lies in every mortal man or woman.

Only now and then, and here and there, do we find one who has attained this goal; just as only here and there is a physician sufficiently advanced to employ light to cure disease.

By and by all reputable doctors will use it in place of medicine or the knife; and in a still later "by and by," the electric light will give place to the spiritual light, which is only a higher vibration of the same element. Meantime let the great truth be spread broadcast that not one invalid in 1,000 today need subject himself or herself to an operation, if he or she will first investigate the power of light to restore the body and its troublesome organs to a healthful state.

"Let there be light, and there was light."

TEXAS WEATHER

It's freezing down in Texas now, With thunder on the side, And lightning flashing through the snow, While all the folks who ride On railroad trains are in the drifts Exceeding deep and wide.

That's Texas, land of cotton bolls And other tropic things That call for sun and summer time -Of which the poet sings When he dipped in rose red ink His pen from bluebird's wings.

That's Texas, but in New York state, Where cotton doesn't grow, Nor other tropic things, except On fruit stands, don't you know, We're on our hunkers praying for A blizzard full of snow.

We're having sun and summer time, While furs and skates and those Are hustled to a back seat by The early blooming rose, And we can't have a thaw because, So far, there's nothing froze.

The Weather Bureau's got its stuff Turned upside down, and what The Texas climate ought to have Is what New York has got, And vice versa, which is why New York is so darned hot.

Mme. Gadski in New York Meets With Praise from all Critics

MME. JOHANNA GADSKI.

Regarding the appearance of Mme. Johanna Gadski, who will sing at the Majestic Thursday night, the New York World said: "Mme. Gadski gave her solitary New York song recital at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon. Since her retirement from the forces of the Metropolitan Opera House this wonderfully voiced singer has been devoting herself to song recitals, save in Munich, where she graces the summer festival plays with her operatic treasures. The long program of songs sung by Gadski yesterday afternoon seemed to have been composed with an idea of pleasing music-lovers of many musical tastes rather than of following out some one coherent artistic scheme. The entire group of songs was devoted to Robert Franz songs, while the two remaining groups were by Brahms, MacFadden, Weber, Fichte, Schumann, Schubert, Chelios, Cornelius, Ansermet, Reger, Strauss, La Forge and Van der Stucken. "That Mme. Gadski has a splendid voice is with every hearing impressed upon the listener. It is a voice of remarkable freshness and virile beauty, wonderfully trained and effective. With strength and youth mirrored in her voice she is able to sing a long program with no sign of fatigue. But knowing the power that lies beneath this singing of some comparatively simple songs, there arises in the listener the feeling that the greater forces, the greater Gadski, is being held in leash, that her melior is that of the operatic stage, where her accompaniment is a Wagnerian orchestra. In a word, Mme. Gadski is an opera singer by every token and right, and never at any time since she left the Metropolitan Opera House has she been in such tremendous need of that institution as she is at present. According to her own high standards, Mme. Gadski had moments yesterday when her voice was not at its best. These lapses were but momentary, and the very fact that they mention is proof of the excited vocal measures by which she is to be judged. They are also to be accounted for by the fact that recently Mme. Gadski has undergone a slight nose operation, the results of which were occasionally registered in her lapses from pitch. But these details did not mar in general the very lovely singing that was to Mme. Gadski's credit. "Frank Le Forge played remarkably sympathetic accompaniments and also was represented on the program among the composers by a very good song.

CANADA PLANS ROADS

Twenty-Three Railways to Be Constructed Soon. NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A special to the Tribune from Toronto says: A great system of branch lines tributary to the Grand Trunk Pacific will come before parliament at the meeting of the Grand Trunk Pacific company on Monday. It is estimated that not fewer than twenty-three branch lines is planned. Many of them will serve as feeders to the main trunk system through the northwest, drawing business from points north and south of the main line. This program is hardly likely to escape without opposition from the Canadian Pacific when such a sweeping increase into territory where the latter company has long enjoyed a monopoly is planned. The cry is bound to be heard that the Grand Trunk is seeking a blanket charter, but if the company can show that it intends to give competition and improve its service, the construction of the new lines will be a boon to the country.

COLDEST DAY OF YEAR HERE

Minimum Figure of 13 Degrees Recorded

A minimum temperature of 13 degrees recorded at 8:20 o'clock Monday morning marked the low point of the cold wave which swept over Fort Worth Sunday. When that record was reached a steady increase in temperature began, continuing through the morning. Total drop in temperature was forty degrees, the decline having started with the thermometer at 64 degrees, making the change one of the most severe of the winter. The weather was the coldest of the year, and but 22 degrees above the cold record of 8 degrees below zero recorded Feb. 13, 1899.

At the local weather bureau statement is made that the "cold wave" warning was sent out at 10 o'clock Saturday night, but delayed in transmission. Reports received Monday morning showed the cold weather centered over the Great Lakes, temperature reports as low as 48 degrees below zero being recorded this figure coming from White River, Canada, on the northern shore of Lake Superior.

Rain is reported in the country west of Texas and a large area of warm territory following the cold wave. Of the forty-nine weather bureaus with reports on the map issued at the local office, there are only seven that did not experience temperatures below freezing, and these were in the South Atlantic states, where the cold wave had not yet arrived. Ten stations reported zero or under as a minimum for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 o'clock Monday morning. The lowest temperature reported in Texas was but 8 degrees above zero. Minimum temperatures at the other Texas weather bureaus were: Abilene 14, Corpus Christi 30, El Paso 30, Houston 22, Galveston 35 and San Antonio 20.

Official statement of the weather conditions is as follows: "The cold wave conditions prevail throughout the country, with the exception of the extreme southeast and southwest. The high barometer area of cold wave conditions is central over Minnesota, causing temperatures varying from 48 degrees below zero in the upper lakes, to zero conditions as far south as St. Louis, and central Kansas. Freezing rain in California and Arizona, and the southeast low is causing rain in Virginia and snow in Illinois and Pennsylvania, accompanied by high winds."

Or Any Severe Sickness Druggist R. A. Anderson Advises Fort Worth People to Take Vinol

Mrs. S. C. Berry of Middleton, Conn., writes: "The grippe left me in a very weakened condition, no appetite, thin, nervous, no vitality and a bad cough. I had hemorrhages, and nothing seemed to help me. I read of what your cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, had done for others and decided to try it. I found that it soon gave me a hearty appetite, my cough disappeared, my health and strength returned until I felt like a new creature. I consider Vinol a wonderful medicine, as it makes strength and vitality so fast."

Our local druggist, Mr. R. A. Anderson, says: "We have never sold in our store a more valuable strength-creator and health restorer for the convalescent than Vinol. This is because Vinol contains in a concentrated form all of the vital principles of cod liver oil, but without a drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work. Vinol tones up the digestive organs and renews the strength of every organ of the body."

We ask every person in Fort Worth who has been ill to try Vinol on our guarantee to build them up and make them well and strong. We return money if it fails." R. A. Anderson, Druggist.

Our Daily Short Story

HIDDEN GOLD OF THE SHIFTING SANDS

An Extraordinary Adventure in the Mountain Mine Lands of West.

(Copyright, 1896, by Short Story Publishing Co.)

One evening I found myself in front of a little cabin, nestled at the foot of a great mountain, and facing a level stretch of sandy plain, dotted with clumps of sage brush.

As I dismounted I saw coming slowly toward me the figure of a man. His long hair and longer beard were snow white, and his tall form was bent as with the weight of years.

I asked permission to stay all night. He readily assented, and led the way into the cabin, where he soon prepared supper.

When the table had been cleared away I confided to him my mania for "prospecting," still persistent after years of fruitless efforts to "strike it rich."

"A mania you call it," he said; "and rightly, too, as are all other forms of our greed for gold. God knows no one can realize this truth more bitterly than I."

"Eighteen years ago this month I discovered a rich ledge, bearing gold and silver, up the mountain side about a mile. I had high hopes and worked hard, for I possessed the mightiest incentive that can nerve a man to wrest a fortune from fate—a loving little woman back in New England awaited my return.

"For some time I worked as man can work only when nerved by such hopes as were mine. But I was soon forced to the conclusion that I must have assistance and machinery to develop my mine. One day I set out on foot across the mountain in search of someone who would advance the necessary capital. Upon reaching town I went straight to the postoffice, where, as I expected, I found a letter from my sweetheart.

"I need not tell you that my letter contained a story as old as love itself—the story of woman's faithfulness. "For a long, long time I lay in my little bunk yonder, praying for death, and then there grew in my mind the suggestion of suicide.

"I got up at last, and dragged myself outside the cabin. Sitting in the sunshine, I lifted my eyes to the westward, and then leaped to my feet, shouting for insane joy. A great bank of gray clouds lay almost touching the mountain tops.

"You noticed this evening the level stretch of plain to the eastward. The soil is a loose, light sand, and the terrific winds which occasionally sweep down over the mountains play mad pranks with it. Great hills and lowlands are piled up and scooped out, familiar landmarks are obliterated, and new ones unconsciously rise from the clouds I saw the promise of one of these periodic storms, and like an inspiration to my muddled brain came the idea of fashioning myself a grave in which I could lie down, allowing the wind to wrap me deeply in a winding sheet of sand.

"It wasn't far just out yonder at the foot of a giant sage brush that I chose the spot for my grave. I worked rapidly, pausing for an occasional reassuring glance at the bank of clouds. I had scooped out the sand to a depth of perhaps three feet, when the point of my spade unexpectedly came in contact with a hard surface. I knew that the sand was from ten to twenty feet deep, and that it was impossible that I could have reached bedrock so close to the surface. A few moments' work cleared away the intervening sand, disclosing a flat, round rock. Using my spade as a pry, I lifted the rock slowly from its resting place, and perhaps you can imagine my surprise when I discovered the dark mouth of a well. I secured a pitch stick from the cabin for a torch, and returned to follow this new 'lead' to its conclusion. At the bottom of the well, on one side, was a small opening.

Scattered about the floor were rude implements of stone, specimens of primitive pottery—small jars, covered and uncovered—bowls and arrowheads and spear points. I knew at once that I had discovered the dark mouth of a grave, and was not surprised to see three grinning skeletons in one corner. "I turned again, in idle curiosity, to the pottery. I caught the eye of the jar nearest me. I cautiously thrust my hand into the mouth, and lifted it full to the light; and then I dropped upon my knees, staring stupidly at my open palm, asking myself if I were dreaming. Onces of pure, bright gold! I laughed aloud, moving from jar to jar. All told the same story save two; gold, and full almost to the brim; gold enough for a king's ransom, and all mine for the taking. It was rich now, but O God, of what use? With the irony of an accursed fiend, fortune had waited until I was ready to die, and my hopes were already dead, and then overwhelmed me with her golden shower. I raved and cursed. Presently I grew calmer. Riches meant poverty, and poverty could go back to my old home and live like a prince, her next door neighbor. So long I gloated over my suddenly acquired wealth, and my wild imaginings of revenge, that the charcoal house at the chamber extinguished my torch, leaving me in Egyptian darkness. Groping about, I caught up one of the precious jars and worked my way to the opening.

"All night long the wind raged with a fury I have never known since in the long years of my residence here. When morning came, my first thought was of my treasure house. I hastily dressed and stepped outside. The sun was just above the horizon, smiling genially upon the quiet landscape, which some way or another I had reached. I returned to the cabin disappointed, but thinking myself very lucky to have fetched one jar with me, I stopped and stroked its ugly sides with a miser's tenderness. Then, to reassure myself by a sight of the yellow dust, I put my hand into the jar and lifted it full to the light.

"White, red and yellow beads! In the darkness I had got hold of one of the only two jars in the grave which the glittering heap of yellow sand in did not contain gold.

"From that day to this I have been searching for the entrance to the grave, and have cast up and down, and north and south, and east and west, and have covered the mountain with my steel-shod pole, I've sought in vain for that grave. The sky had become overcast as he ceased, and the soft sighing of the pines told of a rising wind. "It is going to blow tonight, and that means no sleep for me," said my host, "but you are tired. Let me show you where to make your bed."

"For hours I lay awake, thinking how curiously the man's early history coincided with my own. The mania for gold, the incentive to treasure hunting—love for a beautiful woman, the exile to the mountains, all were the same; only in my case the woman loved was found to me by my wife until I had made a fitting home for her.

When I awoke the sun was streaming in at the open door of the cabin. I went outside to look after my horses.

As my eyes traveled carelessly across the plain they were arrested by an object lying at the foot of a giant shrub, an object so like the figure of a man that I ran swiftly toward it, with a strange fear tugging at my heart. Lying on his back, his white face upturned to the smiling sky, I found my old host, his madness cured at last. Graped firmly in both hands, and lying partly across his dead body were the steel-shod pole, the point thrust deeply into the loose sand, the corner, whom I brought from a settlement across the mountains, took possession of his effects, among which we found the broken jar and the beads. For two days I traveled, and then a thought, which had haunted me ever since I found the old man lying dead, caused me to retrace my steps; my suspicion proved correct. I found that the point of his staff had touched the rock, the entrance to his long-sought treasure house, and the shock of joy had killed him. The interior of the grave was as I had described it to you, and—but why go into details? Fortune, not death, cured my mania and satisfied my ambitions. A month later I was married to Agnes.

My Ships

If all the ships I have at sea Should come a-sailing home to me, Should come a-sailing home to me, So many ships as there would be, If all my ships came home to me.

If half my ships came home to me, And brought their precious freight to me, Ah, well, I should have wealth as great As any king that sits in state, So rich the treasure there would be, In half my ships now out at sea.

If but one ship I have at sea, Should come a-sailing home to me, Ah, well, the storm-clouds then might me, And the storm-clouds then might me, If that one ship came home to me.

If that one ship went down at sea, And all the others came to me, Weigh'd down with gems and wealth untold, With honor, riches, glory, gold— The poorest soul on earth I'd be.

If that one ship went down at sea, And all the others came to me, Weigh'd down with gems and wealth untold, With honor, riches, glory, gold— The poorest soul on earth I'd be.

If that one ship came not to me; O skies, be calm! O winds, blow free! How all my ships safe home to me; How all my ships safe home to me; To nevermore come sailing back, Send any, all that skim the sea, But send my love-ship home to me. —ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Two-inch Finger Nails

In the healthy adult the average growth of the finger nails is one thirty-second of an inch per week. They grow faster in health than in sickness. In summer than in winter, and in the hands which are kept in the fastest on the middle finger and slowest on the thumb and little finger.

The finger nails are, therefore, all retarded in from 120 to 140 days. The toe nails are four times longer in growing than the finger nails.

Some years ago many learned Asiatic physicians, leaving their native countries, under which they were bent in the strangest curves and folds. Travelers gave the length as three inches and even more.

The best sutures give the extreme length to which the finger nails grow as just upon two inches, when they become corrugated and break off.

When the Sun Comes in at Your Window

Just on this o'er before the fray, And the rule will give you grit: The bitter-sweet of yesterday Is today's own sweater-bit!

Take life easy— Take life breezy: Live the hour you live, Joys and troubles Alike are bubbles; Nor lasting measure give. This morn's pet sorrow Will hold tomorrow Her sides in mocking glee. Hence please her never, Live smiling ever.

A new you're born each dawn; The tears best worth Are the tears of mirth. You'll shed when you are gone! So on this o'er before the fray, And the rule will give you grit: The bitter-sweet of yesterday Is today's own sweater-bit! —Brooklyn Lite.

SOCIAL SEASON

In celebration of the twentieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Sangunet, a number of their friends were guests at their beautiful home at Arlington Heights Saturday night.

The friendships of years were represented, happy faces spoke as well as did their words the good wishes of these friends tried and tested. Mayor Powell, who spoke eloquently of the occasion, referred to the day twenty years before when he was Mr. Sangunet's best man at his marriage and reiterated the friendship that had lasted unbroken through the years.

A game of cards was a part of the evening's pleasure, prizes of handsome china going to Mrs. Matson, Rowland D. Williams and Miss Virginia Bunting, the latter the scorer's favor.

Luncheon of salad, oyster patties, pickles, ice cream, cake and coffee was served and the health of Mr. and Mrs. Sangunet was drunk, the men joining in "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

At the bottom of the house, the gifted daughter of the house delighted with several numbers. A tender sentiment was suggested late in the evening when Miss Imogene Sangunet, the gifted daughter of the house, played her favorites, Rowland D. Williams sang merry melodies, Miss Imogene Sangunet, the gifted daughter of the house, played her favorites, Rowland D. Williams sang merry melodies, Miss Imogene Sangunet, the gifted daughter of the house, played her favorites, Rowland D. Williams sang merry melodies.

After the distribution of the prizes, Mr. Sangunet presented to Mrs. Sangunet a duplicate of the engagement ring worn during the courtship and which was subsequently lost. It is a magnificent setting in a solid gold bed of fifteen faultless diamonds. In the elegant dining room with its Dutch finish and furnishings were displayed the rare and beautiful china that affection had sent in celebration of the day.

The guests were Mayor and Mrs. T. J. Powell, Dr. and Mrs. Mattie, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Reyer, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Peak, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kane, Mr. and Mrs. William Bryce, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bunting, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Flournoy, Mrs. Harris, Mississippi, Mr. and Mrs. Duke Burgess and Mrs. Walter Ross, Mrs. Lily Burgess Smith, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Sangunet, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland D. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. McCart, Mr. Sangunet and Mrs. Wortham, Misses Belle and Virginia Bunting, Charlie Mattison, Madeline McCart, Gladys Sparrow.

The European Club held their regular meeting Saturday afternoon, Miss Laneri directing the study of Italian music. The program was rendered by Miss Gregg and Mrs. Matthews, while a piano duet was given by Mrs. Jaccard and Miss Tomlinson. Choral practice was directed by William J. Marsh. The club will join the city celebrating and will probably take part in the joint concert to be given at Handley at the opening of the season.

white chiffon. Both the front and the backs are laid in box plaits, which are stitched at their edges to give an effect of tucks, while the sleeves are quite novel, the upper portions being loose and finished with the bands. The waist is made over a smooth lining which, however, is made without darts, and is gathered at the waist line and stayed with a straight band of material, the lining extending sufficiently below to insure comfort. The chemise is faced onto the lining and the little square yoke, or trimming band, conceals the edges of the waist. The sleeves are made over smoothly fitted linings, which are faced to form the deep cuffs, and there is a narrow pointed belt at the waist. The closing is made invisibly at the center back. The quantity of material required for the medium size (14 years) is 3 yards 21, 2 3/4 yards 27 or 1 3/4 yards 44 inches wide with one yard of all-over net to make as illustrated. STOCKS

Dull and Featureless Market—Initial Weakness, Followed by Reaction. Close Was Steady

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Opinion on the street is somewhat unsettled as the result of multiplicity of unfavorable developments over the holiday, chief among which is the impending strike of the mine workers...

Before midday, however, the decline was checked and the market developed a better tone on renewed buying by the bull party. All issues regained their early losses, and while the trading throughout the balance of the session was featureless, aside from the important buying of A. C. P., the general list ruled steady and with some upward incline.

New York Stock Quotations. Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Stocks ranged in prices on the New York Stock Exchange today as follows:

GRAIN

Wheat Crop Benefited by Cold Wave. Prices for Futures Decline—Corn and Oats Weak

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 5.—Wheat was rather dull today and the reports of snow throughout the grain belt had a depressing effect on prices, tending to offset the bullishness of the weekly visible statement. Cables reported opening prices in Liverpool about as due on our close of Saturday and on the first call here prices were unchanged...

Corn prices were adversely affected by the weakness of wheat and the heavy trading in the visible statement showing an increase for the week of 499,000 bushels. Closing prices were 1 1/2c higher...

Oats were active, but prices were lower, the close showing a net loss of 1/2c to 3/4c. The visible supply statement for the week shows a decrease for the week of 402,000 bushels...

Provisions were active. Realizing during the initial trading caused a temporary lowering of prices, but later renewed buying set in and the market firmed up. Closing prices were at a net loss of 2c to 3c.

Receipts. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 19 cars; corn, 560 cars; oats, 269 cars.

Chicago Grain and Provisions Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—The grain and provision markets ranged in prices today as follows:

COTTON

Prices Break 30 Points—Bears Hammer Persistently—Partial Recovery Effected—Close Steady

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The cotton market was quiet during the early trading. Liverpool opening prices were hardly up to expectations, but the local market was not affected, opening prices being unchanged to 3 points higher.

Following the call there was short selling and some liquidation from Saturday buyers, with the result that the market weakened and before the opening of the first hour near positions were selling at a net loss of 3 to 11 points.

As the session progressed the volume of selling became greater, and the market experienced another genuine bear raid, prices eventually receding to a net loss of 12 to 13 points.

New Orleans Cotton Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 5.—The cotton market opened steady, with prices 2 points lower to 1 point higher.

There were occasional attempts to bring about a reaction, but a rumor that Mr. Price would issue a circular at noon showing 10,271,000 bales shipped to February 1, rather intimidated the trade and checked any inclination to buy.

There were heavy selling during the session for local and American account and the close was weak, with prices at a net loss of 1 to 2 points.

Spot prices advanced 4 points, to 6.90c for American middling. Sales, 12,000 bales, of which 9,200 were American, valued at $1,500,000.

LIVESTOCK

Monday's Receipts

Table with columns for livestock types (Cattle, Calves, Hogs, Sheep, Horses and mules) and their respective counts.

Monday's Review and Sales. Receipts of cattle on this market today were 1,600 head, including calves.

The beef steer market included two loads of fairly finished steers, several loads of partly fed steers and a few loads of grassers. The latter were neglected on the early market, while the heavy fed steers sold steady, bringing $2.90.

Cows and Heifers. The market for butcher cows was extremely active, and strong. The quality was extra good, and net tons sold at $2.85.

Calves were in good supply, and the quality showed some improvement over the week before. The market seemed to have waked up from the dullness of last week, and a betterment was noted in prices, though the late loss was not fully regained.

Hogs had a good run, 2,800 head, and the top of the run was large, the two rittors selling at a good price.

There were heavy selling during the session for local and American account and the close was weak, with prices at a net loss of 1 to 2 points.

Table with columns for livestock types (Cattle, Calves, Hogs) and their corresponding prices.

Patterson Strikes Against Party Coercion

Violates Constitution

Says Senator Who Yields Degrades His Own State

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Senator Patterson caused a sensation in the senate today by introducing a resolution relative to the rights of senators in voting on treaties.

The resolution was similar to that of Senator Patterson, declaring that a treaty like the Dominican treaty should not be made the subject of party election, but he withheld it when he heard that Patterson had proposed a resolution.

Mr. Tillman objected to the present consideration of the Patterson resolution, as it was a question of personal privilege.

Mr. Patterson said it was not, and gave notice that he will discuss the resolution tomorrow.

HOUSE TO STOP ARMY GRAFTING

Mileage for Traveling Pocketed By Officers

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The house committee on military affairs, of which Representative Hull of Iowa is chairman, has determined to put an end to graft in the army.

The committee is searching for other leaks in the law, which permit diversion of money into the pockets of interested parties.

"We estimate that $50,000 has been paid out in mileage," said Hull, "to which the recipients were not entitled. They got hold of the money by evading the law, which congress has enacted for the express purpose of introducing economy in transportation."

The intention of congress was to reduce the amount of money an officer should receive who was under orders to the Philippines.

The law state specifically that only actual expenses shall be paid between the United States and its insular possessions, but we have found that officers have been ordered to Nagasaki, Japan, or Shanghai, or even down to Hong Kong, and thence to Manila, traveling with no exception of the law.

They have received mileage when they should be reimbursed only for their actual expenses, and the latter amount to about $1 a day, while mileage for the trip amounts into the hundreds.

An officer going to Manila by way of Europe receives more than $200 in mileage. If ordered to Manila he goes direct from San Francisco and the mileage is cut down two-thirds.

To Be Encouraged. "Do you think young people should be encouraged in literary effort?" "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "I would rather have people write their impressions of things in general than insist on telling them to me."

TOWNSHIP SET ASIDE. Statehood Reservation in Montana to Be Divided

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Before the railroad debate began in the house today, two bills were passed, one providing for the setting aside of townships in the Flathead Indian reservation in Montana. The other authorized further expenditures of $60,000 for county improvements from the sale of townships recently Oklahoma.

An hour to oppose the railroad rate bill was yielded to Mr. Littlefield of Maine.

WONDERFUL PLANTS

Have Nearly All Animal Senses—See, Taste and Feel

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A special to the Herald from Baltimore says that Dr. Henry S. Conrad of the botanical department of Johns Hopkins university, after continuing experiments with plants, has discovered that some fern plants have all the senses of animals except hearing.

"We have never been able to discover any way in which they are susceptible to sound," said Dr. Conrad yesterday, "but in seeing, feeling and tasting they are developed."

"The sandbar, a plant which grows in the swamps about Baltimore, probably knows the sense of taste to a greater extent than any other."

"With a single exception," says Dr. Conrad, they can recognize light, and the direction from which it comes; they feel the slightest wound, they discriminate in taste, they have a sense of direction, whether they are turned in the right direction or not, and are influenced by electric currents passing near them."

MARKET HOUSE TO BE ERECTED

Council Committee to Recommend Plan

Report recommending the acceptance of the offer of the Fort Worth Market Square Company, assuring the erection of a market house in this city, will be made to the city council today night.

Three hundred feet fronting on Belmont street will be purchased by the city, giving a total frontage of 600 feet, along this street.

The report will call for the acceptance of the offer made by the company, according to the statement made by Alderman Waggoner, chairman of the committee, to which the matter has been referred.

Under the provision of the offer, the city secures the ground immediately west of the county court house for market house purposes, agreeing to buy additional ground for a farmer's market and to erect a building to cost not less than $10,000. Permission to build an auditorium over the market house is also required to be given by the city in accepting the offer.

M'CLE

FIRST DAY MAIL RACE WON BY FRISCO-KATY

Thirty Days' Contest for St. Louis Business Begun

COTTON BELT DELAYED

Made Higher Average Speed, But Got Into Fort Worth Late

 First Day's Results *****

- ★ Frisco-Katy—67 1/2 miles in 17 hours and 24 minutes; average speed, 39.3 miles an hour.
- ★ Iron Mountain-Cotton Belt—70 1/2 miles in 17 hours and 23 minutes; average speed, 40.5 miles an hour.

The race between the Frisco-Katy and the Iron Mountain-Cotton Belt for the mail contracts from St. Louis to Texas began Sunday and the first score was made by the Frisco-Katy combination. This is only one of thirty days during which the races will be run and the Iron Mountain and Cotton Belt have not lost hope by any means. The actual running time of the Iron Mountain-Cotton Belt was faster than that made by the victorious road and there were delays experienced which may not happen again in thirty days. The Frisco-Katy train left St. Louis at 2:48 a. m. and arrived in Fort Worth at 8:10 p. m., making the distance of 67 1/2 miles in seventeen hours and twenty-four minutes. The Iron Mountain-Cotton Belt left St. Louis at 4:42 p. m. and arrived here at 10:05 p. m., making the mileage of 70 1/2 miles in seventeen hours and twenty-three minutes. The Iron Mountain-Cotton Belt beat its schedule, which called for eighteen hours for the trip, but owing to drawbacks it did arrive here on time and lost the race.

Left St. Louis Late

The Frisco-Katy train, which was scheduled to leave St. Louis at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, left that city sixteen minutes late, but it arrived here at 8:10 p. m., exactly on time. The train left St. Louis as a fast mail train on the Frisco and was delivered to the Missouri, Kansas and Texas at Vanita, I. T. At Denison it overtakes the Katy Flyer, which left St. Louis the previous night and comes via that train into Fort Worth. The Frisco delivered the train to the Katy at Vanita, I. T., eight minutes ahead of time. The Katy fast mail train left Vanita exactly on time. The fastest time reported on the Frisco run was from Afton to Vanita, where a distance of twenty miles was covered in thirteen minutes. The Iron Mountain-Cotton Belt fast mail train arrived at Fort Worth at 10:05 o'clock Sunday night, one and

PEACE SHAFT PLAN HEARD

Monument to Warriors of North and South Proposed

At regular session of R. E. Lee camp, U. C. V., Sunday afternoon C. C. Cummings, camp historian, read a communication from Columbia Post, G. A. R., of Chicago, pertaining to the proposed erection of a peace monument in memory of the soldiers and sailors of the north and south. It is intended that congress shall be asked to make an appropriation to assist in its erection and a similar request will perhaps be made of the legislatures of the different states. No action was taken at the meeting, but it will be brought up at the next regular session of the camp, a resolution pertaining to it having been prepared by Historical Cummings.

CHINAMAN FREED

Charge Against John Hong Dismissed by Court

Judge Prewett of the corporation court City Prosecutor Virgil Parker and the officers of the court were entertained Monday morning with some Chinese dialect, the meaning of which was slowly interpreted to the court. It is exceedingly rare that a Chinaman finds his way to the court and the defendant, John Hong, was accompanied by several other Chinamen, all of whom felt a deep interest in the outcome of the case. The testimony of John Hong, who was before the court to answer to a charge of fighting, was interpreted to the court through another Chinaman, who spoke but little English himself.

STORY OF DIVES CALLED PARABLE

Rev. D. C. Limbaugh Says Pictured Hell Is Figurative

"The Worth the Human Soul" formed the subject of the discourse by the Rev. D. C. Limbaugh at the Unitarian services Sunday morning at the temple on Taylor street. He said:

"It is the teaching of the church, and has been the belief of unnumbered generations of Christians for nearly twenty centuries, that of the human soul born into the world the majority have been lost, and that of those who live and move and have their being in our midst at this hour, the most, when the tomb closes over them, will be cast into those scorching lakes of fire which traditional religion pictures to us, and from which there is no hope of escape through all eternity. This belief is peculiar to the Christian religion and is derived by the church from its construction of the utterances of Jesus, and of these utterances we are reminded of the parable of the fig tree which Jesus told in the parable of the fig tree, while the rich man, now suffering torment in hell, lifts up his eyes to Lazarus and begs a drop of water to cool his parched lips.

MONAHANS STOCKMAN SAYS WELL STOCK IS WINTERING

H. A. Wren, from Monahans, was in Fort Worth last week with six cars of cattle. "I am not altogether a cowman, but have interests," he said, "for I am partner in business with H. N. Garret of Midland, who is altogether a stockman. I attend to the stock of the Monahans and, although Garret owns a half interest, he had rather look after his own footings than that of the packers in cars, and therefore he never comes about."

NO ACTION TAKEN

Carpenters to Consider Open Shop Announcement Wednesday

No official notice has been given the carpenters' union by the planning mills of the city regarding the intention of the city mills nine hours a day, and as open shops on and after Feb. 12. Garret will be taken by the Carpenters' Union is not known. The organization has its regular meeting Wednesday night, and at this time it is thought that action will be taken and plans made regarding the matter.

LITTLE CHANGE SHOWN IN TEACHERS' CONTEST

Little change is shown by the votes in the Teachers' contest this morning, for the reason that they came in so heavily yesterday afternoon and night that the counting force was unable to finish the count in time for this afternoon's paper.

Many curious queries have come in as to who was the teacher mentioned in yesterday's story, for whose hand sturdy but slight gladiators fought so warily. This information is a dead secret, and cannot be divulged until the wedding is announced, so it will be impossible to answer any further queries on the subject.

I VOTE FOR

School Teacher in the.....grade.....building, as the most popular teacher in Fort Worth and vicinity in The Fort Worth Telegram's Popular School Teacher Contest. This contest closes at 9 o'clock a. m. Friday, Feb. 9. The winner will be presented with TWELVE BOX SEATS at the MAJESTIC THEATER, for the Saturday Matinee, Feb. 10.
