Those Vitamins!

ALWAYS READY to take advantage of popular fancy, unscrupulous organizations headed by high-pressure promoters seem determined to exploit public health to the last degree. They are particularly active in the vitamin field. When you are tempted by wild advertising claims to buy and take vitamin preparations, remember that you probably do not need them at all. If you feel that you do, consult your physician. He alone knows the type of vitamin you may need, if any. Rely on his advice. We are in position to fill promptly any prescription he may write.

HOG PRODUCERS SHOULD WATCH PRODUCTION TRENDS

College Station—Hog producers in Texas and the nation are worried about the prospects for continued good prices. They are wondering, says John G. McHaney, extension economist, whether production increases are going to be overdone with resulting lower prices to follow in the months ahead.

McHaney says the total spring pig crop for 1957 will probably be a little larger than the one in 1956 but that slaughter will continue below last year until the end of 1957. The difference, though, will narrow in the months ahead and prices will probably stay above last year until November or December.

On March 1, 1957, farmer in the nine principal hog producing states held 2 per cent more pigs three months of age and younger than a year ago. They also reported that 1 per cent more litters would be farrowed in March, April and May and 3 per cent more during June, July and August. At the present, says the economist, it appears that 4 to 5 per cent more hogs could be available for market by late Fall and Winter. Prices will react to the increased production with the greatest price differences coming in December 1957 and January 1958.

McHaney says no change in the demand for farm products, including pork and lard, is expected during the next 12 months and that changes in hog prices will result primarily from changes in supply. Hog profits will be determined in the months ahead by how well producers keep supplies and demands in balance.

The economist advises hog producers to keep a close watch on future production trends. Present hog prices and the prospect for lower feed grain prices for the Fall of 1957 will aid expansion and increase the changes for lower prices in the spring of 1958. The efficient producer will probably not need to make any major adjustments but should be on the alert for changes which will make his operation even more efficient.

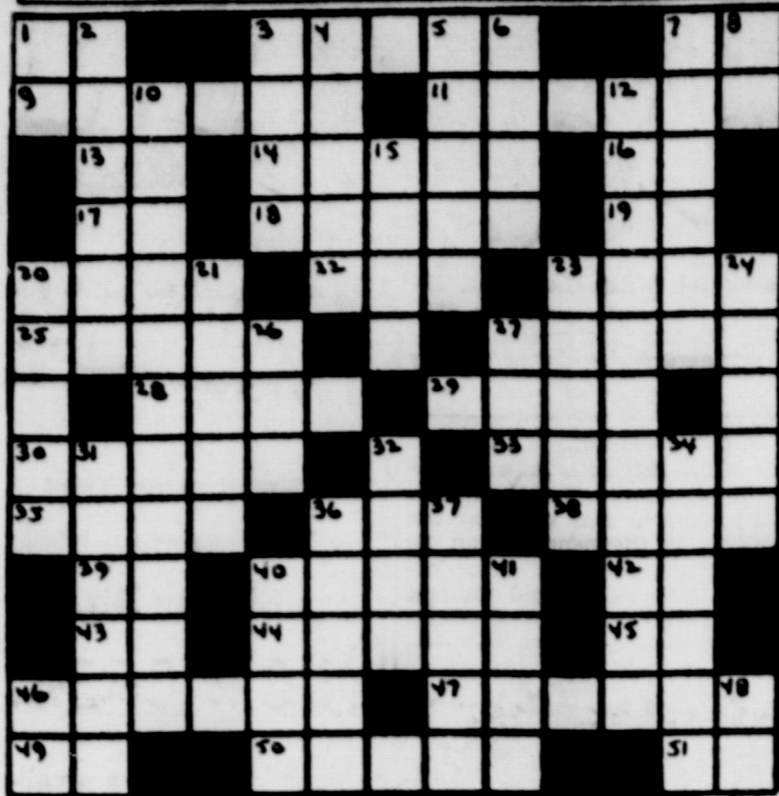

Lower prices, on the other hand, could result in losses or no profit for the inefficient producers, concludes the economist.

SHOES FOR A GOOD BOY . . . Peering through a window, since he cannot go inside, is a young man on the verge of receiving a pair of moccasins. They are being carefully made for him by a patient at the Legion State Tuberculosis Hospital (near Kerrville). The patient is Ascencio Medina of Pearsall. The "peerer" is Amado Garces, Jr., who helps offset Medina's loneliness for his own five youngsters. Deerhide for the moccasins was donated by Texas hunters, conveyed for tanning to California by the Air Force's "Operation Deerlift" and returned to become the property of Texas TB patients in State hospitals. TB associations over the State help with salaries of therapists who teach patients to make moccasins and other articles.—(Photo by LaFayette Reed of Kerrville).

A.A. Traditions

The mythical "man in the street" who knows how drunks behave, even in their sober moments, often has occasion to wonder how the society of Alcoholics Anonymous, with more than 200,000 assorted ex-problem drinkers, ever manages to hang together.

There is, however, no denying the fact that A.A. has flourished since its founding in 1935. Today there are approximately 7,000 local groups of men and women who "share their experience, strength and hope with each other, that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism." These groups are in about 70 countries in nearly every section of the globe. Each year sees several hundred new groups come into being.

What keeps these once irresponsible, often "hopeless" people from being embroiled in the kind of problems—social and organizational—that, from their very nature, other societies have to face?

The first most pertinent answer is that A.A. is not really an organization. There is no hierarchy, no government, even at the local level. There are no dues or fees, no rules or regulations. And no one, not even the oldest members (those with the longest period of sobriety) ever speak for the movement locally, nationally or internationally.

A.A. as an international fellowship has never had a single rule, although occasionally a local group may experiment with "regulations." The only true rule-maker in A.A. might be called John Barleycorn, Mr. Alcohol himself. For the members of this unique fellowship have observed over the years that if they happen to get too far out of line in their thinking and acting about the business of staying sober, some one is apt to get drunk. Since every member is in the Fellowship for the express purpose of NOT being drunk, it is generally agreed that it doesn't make much sense to defy the fund of common sense experience that has been accumulated over the years.

This experience, culled from observation of A.A. operations in thousands of groups, has been reduced to 12 simple statements. These statements are known in the society as The Twelve Traditions and are regarded as helpful guides to the continuing survival of the loosely-knit A.A. group structure.

The average A.A. member is likely to be a bit more interested in these "Traditions" than is usually the case in some organizations with rigid constitutions and by-laws. This heightened interest stems from the fact that the A.A. member, feeling that he owes his continuing sobriety to the existence of the movement, is determined that it shall, in fact, survive. He knows that if A.A. does not survive, his own survival is threatened. The risk may seem remote to the outsider, but most A.A. members prefer not to take it.

Briefly stated, the Twelve Traditions read as follows:

1. Our common welfare should come first; personal recovery depends on A.A. unity.
2. For our group purpose, there is but one ultimate authority—a loving God as He may express himself in our group conscience. Our leaders are but trusted servants; they do not govern.
3. The only requirement for A.A. membership is a desire to stop drinking.
4. Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or A.A. as a whole.
5. Each group has but one primary purpose—to carry its message to the alcoholic who still suffers.
6. An A.A. group ought never to endorse, finance or lend the A.A. name to any related facility or outside enterprise lest problems of money, property and prestige divert us from our primary spiritual aim.
7. Every A.A. group ought to be fully self-supporting, declining outside contributions.
8. Alcoholics Anonymous should remain forever non-professional, but our service centers may employ special workers.
9. A.A. as such, ought never be organized; but we may create service boards or committees directly responsible to those they serve.
10. Alcoholics Anonymous has no opinion on outside issues, hence the A.A. name ought never be drawn into public controversy.
11. Our public relations policy is based on attraction rather than promotion; we need always maintain personal anonymity at the level of press, radio and films.
12. Anonymity is the spiritual foundation of all our Traditions, ever reminding us to place principles above personalities.

The important Twelfth Step on Anonymity simply means that, in print or on the air, a member's relation to the society is kept anonymous. Occasional "breaks" of anonymity have occurred in the past but they have been the exception, not the rule.

In Memory of James Lynn Brashear

GOD'S LENT CHILD
"I'll lend you for a little while
A child of mine," God said,
"For you to love the while he lives,
And mourn for when he's dead."

It may be six or seven years,
Or forty-two or three,
But will you, till I call him back,
Take care of him for me?

He'll bring his charms to gladden
You,
And (should his stay be brief)
You'll have his lovely memories
As a solace for your grief.

I cannot promise he will stay,
Since all from earth return;
But there are lessons taught below
I want this child to learn.

I've looked the whole world over
In search for parents true,
And from the things that crowd
Life's lane
I have chosen you.

Now will you give him all your love?
Nor think the labor vain?
Nor hate me when I come to take
This lent child back again?

I fancied that I heard them say:
"Dear Lord, Thy will be done,
For all the joys Thy child will bring,
The risk of grief we'll run.

We will shelter him with tenderness,
We'll love him while we may—
And for the happiness we've known,
Forever grateful stay.

But should Thy angels call for him,
Much sooner than we've planned,
We'll brave the bitter grief that comes
And try to understand."
