Duck hunters, particularly along the South Texas coast, are urged to "look a little harder and shoot a little slower" this year.

This announcement comes from the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service. It all came about when the Federal boys threw a little unannounced hitch in this year's regulations concerning canvasbacks and red heads.

Cans and reds are in short supply this year. But nothing was said about this until the new regulations were announced. Under these regulations you are limited to two of either or one of each.

This is quite a blow to the hunters on the coast along the Laguna Madre from Corpus Christi to Brownsville. Here the reds pile up by the thousands in rafts. They decoy well to spreads around blinds.

Many hunters in South Texas violently disagree with the Federal boys about the reds and cans being in short supply. Apparently they were when the census was made in Canada in the early spring. However, later studies indicate there was a heavy late crop. It is possible we may have a paradox this year, millions of ducks, and a law which says they can't be shot.

This is just one of the tragedies that go with wildlife studies. There can be many mistakes made. Most of them are made in behalf of wildlife protection, however, and all good sportsmen will abide by the rules. Those who don't will, of course, be prosecuted.

Incidentally the migration of waterfowl from the north already has started along the entire Central Flyway. Now there are many ducks on the Texas coast, and even on the smaller impoundments throughout the state.

Late counts indicate that both duck and goose populations are at a fairly high level. This is good news to Texas duck hunters.

OLD AUTOS PAY OFF—About six months ago, after much study by biologists and a lot of complaining by people who knew it wouldn't work, the Game & Fish Commission dumped a couple of hundred old auto bodies off Port Aransas, in 60 feet of water.

This experiment cost about $7,000. There were all kinds of charges that money being paid for fishing licenses was being wasted by dumping these old wrecks into the Gulf. A goodly number contended that no one ever would catch a snapper around them.

Seems they are right. No one has caught a snapper around them yet. The trouble is there are so many other fish roaming around the old bodies that the bait can't get down to the bottom (where the snappers are) before some other big fish catches it.

Now hundreds of boats roam about the artificial reef, daily. This success was no surprise to the biologists, who often have a hard time getting a job done because the curbsome biologists don't believe in it.

Anyway, this artificial reef business is growing. Up in the New England states a sportsman's club located some 14,000 empty beer kegs. They filled them half full of cement and dropped them into the water. If some other places worn out barges have been used. Also proposed is the use of worn-out railroad dump cars for artificial reefs.

Watch our Texas coast for more and better fishing. We are told that the state is to build a new and larger "snapper bank" in the vicinity of Port Isabel.

REMEMBER WHERE — When you get a strike from a big, black bass, make a mental note of that spot. Go back there often. Blacks seldom stray far from their original habitat.

TAKE ALONG A TOWEL—Any fisherman who has let a newly caught denison of the deep slip from his grasp just as stringing time arrived will appreciate this tip. Take along a hand towel or a small bath towel the next time you go fishing.

Grab the fish with the toweled hand and you'll not only have a firmer grip but you'll keep the fish odor off your hands.

Gloves will do the trick also, except that you either have to wear them continually or take time to put them on and pull them off with each catch.

Be sure to wash the towel, or gloves, well before you leave the water. A fish-smelling towel or glove can get pretty rank overnight, especially if left in a closed compartment, such as tackle box, or car trunk.

MORE LIFE FOR STARTER CORD—To lengthen the life of the starter cord on your outboard motor (or power saw or power mower for that matter) rub the cord with a cake of beeswax or a candle. It will double the life of your cord.

NOTE OF APPRECIATION

Words are inadequate to express my appreciation for the many kindnesses shown me by friends during my stay in the hospital and since my return home. The flowers, visits, cards and gifts were a real source of pleasure to me.

DRIVING TIPS GIVEN

Austin.—Technique in driving, as in any field of activity, is developed to the point of perfection only after much practice and experience, it was declared today by J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association.

"The stars in sports, music and on the stage did not develop their talents overnight," he said. "Neither does a driver become a real pro at the wheel without knowing the rules of safe driving and following them faithfully."

The safety official called attention of Texas motorists to the five fundamental tips for safe driving during winter months:

1. It's Up To You. You know that driving conditions are less favorable during the winter. It's up to you to winterize your car, to winterize your driving techniques—and to winterize your determination to avoid accidents.
2. Keep Windshield and Windows Clear. Be sure that your wiper blades, your heater, and your defroster are operating properly. Clean frost and ice from the windshield and from all windows of your car. Ventilate to keep the inside of your windows from fogging.
3. Get The Feel of the Road. In order to avoid unintentional sliding or spinning of your wheels, occasionally try your brakes or gently press your accelerator while driving slowly and as traffic and highway conditions permit. Then adjust your speed to road and weather conditions.
4. Follow At A Safe Distance. Keep well back of the vehicle ahead so that you will have plenty of room to stop. It takes three to 12 times as far to stop on snow and ice as it does on dry pavement. You may find it hard to explain why you couldn't stop when the other fellow did.
5. Pumping Your Brakes. The best technique for stopping on slick roads, while maintaining full control of your car, is a fast up-and-down pumping of your brakes. Jamming and "freezing" on your brakes is almost certain to lock your wheels. This is likely to throw your car into an uncontrollable and dangerous skid.

"Faithful adherence to these rules will help even the newly licensed driver to become proficient in operating his vehicle under hazardous conditions," Musick declared. "The person who conscientiously applies these rules will develop driving techniques that will move him from the clumsy skidding and stalling class into the expert class."

Paul Revere made George Washington's first set of false teeth.

John Adams was the first U. S. ambassador to England.

POSTMASTER URGES EARLY MAILING OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Postmaster F. R. Anderson said today, "Christmas may seem quite a way off, but nevertheless, we're starting our annual 'Mail Early for Christmas' campaign immediately, because there's every indication that the 1958 Christmas season will set an all-time mailing record."

The Postmaster said further that right now is the time to plan your Christmas card and gift mailings. The first thing to do is to check your Christmas card list very carefully—make sure that each address, particularly on mail to larger cities, includes full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

He went on to say that by a little advance planning, a lot of headaches can be avoided when the Christmas rush is on.

"Medicine To Produce Health, Has To Examine Disease"

*(Author's Name Below)

Modern practice of medicine differs greatly from ancient methods. A research team of scientists, pharmaceutical chemists and physicians are continuously studying the causes of the different diseases.

Once they are known, it is only a matter of time before cures are discovered. Physicians now have better methods of diagnosis and treatment. Medicines are formulated to attack the cause. Sometimes, if we have no known chemical that will help, our chemists invent one by synthesis. That is why the medicines your physician now prescribes can help you more than ever before.

IT'S THE LAW . . . In Texas

THINK BEFORE SIGNING

Whenever you are asked to sign something, your signature should be a warning signal that in some way you may become legally obligated by what you sign.

Usually you are asked to sign something as a result of a business transaction, such as a contract, a receipt, an order, a release, an option, a mortgage or a deed. For your own protection, you should clearly understand what you sign, why you are signing it, and what the consequences may be. It is rarely possible for a person who has signed a document to avoid its legal effects.

You can decrease your legal risks by always taking these precautions before you sign anything:

Know what you are signing and what the document contains. Understand clearly what it means. Don't be confused by its title—a "statement" may be a release of all your claims, or a "contract" may be a negotiable promissory note. "Co-signing" a note may result in your having to pay it.

Read everything in any document. Clauses in fine print may be important. Remember, too, that oral promises not included in writing may be unenforceable. Take nothing for granted.

Check and verify the document. Be sure the dates, prices, names and conditions filled in are correct. You are bound by what it says, not by what you thought it said.

Ask questions. Inquire about conditions and items of importance to you. Don't sign unless you understand what it means. Language clearly stating what you want can be inserted. If substantial sums are involved, consult with your attorney.

Retain a copy. Be sure the proper persons sign. Request and retain a copy. Record it, if necessary, with the proper public official.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

State Health Notes

If you're looking for something to be thankful for in these ominous times, consider this: More than one-half million Texas babies were born hale and alert during the two-year period between September 1936, and August 1938. That adds up to an average of some 688 new babies per day. For the same time period 147,000 Texans died—representing a ratio of more than three births for every death, a fact clearly worth being thankful for.

ments to birth certificates were duly attached. Almost a quarter of a million people asked for certified copies of their birth records. Just to process these requests required more than 550,000 trips to the files which now contains more than 11,370,000 records of births and deaths.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin—Texas state colleges and universities should concentrate on doing the best job possible of one thing—higher education.

To do this, some other things—like student medical service, intramural athletics and certain extension services—will have to be cut loose from tax support.

This is the gist of a report to be presented to the next Legislature by the Commission on Higher Education. Reached after prolonged study and discussion, the Commission's recommendations, if adopted, would be a significant and far-reaching step toward directing state spending on higher educational institutions toward "pure academic pursuits."

Commission will ask the Legislature for the largest appropriation in history, about $67,000,000 annually, for the state's 18 tax-supported colleges and universities. This would be $10,000,000 a year more than is presently provided. Extra money would be used to provide more teachers, better faculty salaries, improved library and research facilities.

On the other hand, the Commission turned thumbs down on the conducting of a number of extra-curricular activities at state expense. Things which the Commission recommends the Legislature NOT include in the higher education budget: (1) intra-mural athletics, (2) free or low-cost medical services for students, (3) the 17-year-old Cotton Research Council and the Rodent and Predatory Animal Control Service, (4) a bureau of business research at Texas Tech, (5) Texas A&M's Texas Transportation Institute and (6) operation of museums as a part of five schools.

Legislative Horizon—Beginning of the 56th Legislature is a little more than seven weeks away. Each week brings forward more touchy problems the lawmakers will have to wrestle.

Some are new; some have been chewed over in many previous sessions. Examples:

Cities vs. City Employees—Texas League of Municipalities recently voted to ask the Legislature to step out of the field of regulating city employees' salaries, hours and benefits. It's a purely local concern, said the league. State Association of Firefighters and Police Officers Association took a dim view of the proposal. Executives of the two groups met in Austin, promised a fight against "legislation which would erase all the progress of the past 20 years."

Farm Irrigation—Texas Farm Bureau delegates voted to ask the Legislature to make it a little easier for them to get a permit to use small ponds on their property for irrigation. At present, farmers may dam up to 200 acre feet and use it for household and domestic purposes. To use it for irrigation, they must get a special permit, reportedly difficult and expensive. Irrigation from farm ponds brought a hot contest between city and rural forces during the water legislation debates in the first special session, fall, 1957.

Traffic Safety Laws—Texas Safety Association, plus other groups, are pushing for legislation aimed at reducing road fatalities. Points in the program: (1) allowing for the results of "drunkmeter" (chemical tests for alcohol) tests to be introduced in court as evidence in driving while intoxicated cases, (2) stronger traffic law enforcement, (3) provision for enough highway patrolmen to do the job, (4) changing speed laws to meet standards of new roads, (5) improved traffic courts, (6) a uniform drivers license law and (7) universal driver education.

Medical Payments—People approved a constitutional amendment to allow for medical payments to persons who receive state welfare checks. Next Legislature will have to pass a new law to put this into effect. Question is, how big should payments be? Other states average $5 a month for adults, $3 for children. Such a scale in Texas would cost an estimated $8,000,000 a year.

Advertising—Voters also approved an amendment allowing for state-supported advertising of Texas' advantages. But margin of approval was narrow, foreshadowing some wrangling over how big a thing the program should be.

More School Days—Less fishing and more studying time may be in the offing for Texas school students.

State Board of Education voted to recommend to the Legislature that the present 9-month school year be extended to 10 months. Earlier this month the Hale-Aikin study committee decided to recommend 9½ months of schooling.

A spokesman for the Texas State Teachers Association said he thought teachers were generally favorable to a longer year. More will be known after TSTA has its annual convention in Fort Worth over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Among groups that already have expressed opposition are the operators of summer camps and resorts. A longer school year would mean less time for them to be in operation.

Other questions sure to be raised are the extra costs coming at a time of financial strain and the possible ineffectiveness of study during hot weather weeks.

But probably the sharpest division of thought will be between parents

(for) and children (against). Credit Rates Upheld—State Insurance Department's drastically reduced credit insurance rates are back in effect again.

Last spring the Department issued an order which in effect, cut in half the legal rate that could be charged for credit insurance. Cosmo Ins. Co., Amarillo, and others sued in Austin district court and obtained a court order preventing the Department from enforcing the new rule.

But the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals reversed this. It held that Cosmo was entitled to a court hearing as to whether the new rates were just and reasonable. Meanwhile, they're in effect.

ICT Suit Re-filed—A suit charging scores of well-known persons and financial institutions with a share of the blame for ICT's ill-fated history has been re-filed in an Austin district court.

It was originally filed last June when V. I. Taylor was receiver for the case. Then there was a complicated shake-up and turnover in the liquidator-receiver's office, bringing in an almost all-new team. Now the suit has been filed again with the name of the new receiver, C. H. Langdeau, substituted on the papers.

This probably is the granddaddy of all damage suits. It asks $15,000,000 damages. Defendants include such renowned names as Lloyds of London and Republic National Bank of Dallas.
