2 Clyde Men Admit Calf Theft Charges

Two Clyde men have admitted to Callahan County officers the theft of four head of cattle. The pair was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriffs Tod Newton and N. L. Long, Jr. and Don King of the South-western Cattle Raisers Association. They are Talmage Rightmer, 25, and David Cisneros Ramos.

Ramos was first brought in for questioning and signed a statement admitting guilt and implicating Rightmer. Rightmer was arrested last weekend and charged. He, too, signed a confession.

Both men were lodged in Callahan County jail with bonds set at $2,500. The statements admitted theft of two whiteface calves from Hub Kniffen and two more from the Dugan Ranch. Both places are north of Clyde. The thefts occurred the nights of March 6 and 8. The animals were sold at Weatherford and are expected to be recovered. Ramos said that he was paid $35 for his assistance in catching the calves and helping to load them in Rightmer's pick-up truck.

Band Comes Close To Coveted Award

An old nemesis — concert playing — again cost Cross Plains High School Band a sweepstakes championship in Interscholastic League contests at Abilene Saturday. Sweepstakes recognition is dependent upon a unit winning class I ratings in marching, sight-reading and concert playing. Local musicians won the top grade in marching in San Angelo last Autumn. At Abilene Saturday they garnered a class I in sight-reading but dropped to a grade II in concert playing. The same deficiency cost the band sweepstakes laurels last year. Only class A schools winning sweepstakes designation in this area were Merkel and Ozona.

Scattered Showers Monday, Tuesday

Norman Coffey at Cottonwood reported exactly the same amount fell there as was received at Atwell. Sabanno community gauged a half inch, said Mrs. Edwin Erwin. Sterling Odom reported that .40 of an inch was received at his place one mile south of Rowden. Mrs. Delma Dean said that 1.20 fell at Pioneer.

CROSS PLAINS, TEXAS

Sheep And Cattle Raisers Of This Area Were Bitter Foes

The cattle and sheep industries in Texas began about the same time. They grew up side by side in the same location. Sooner or later there was bound to be a clash between the cattle and sheep men. These clashes came to be called the "sheep wars."

The sheep wars were not restricted to any one area. Episodes occurred all over west Texas from the Rio Grande to the Panhandle. The area just west of Cross Plains was the locality for one phase of the sheep wars.

Cattlemen were the aggressors in the clashes. Cattlemen and cowboys disliked sheep. They hated the shepherd. They never missed an opportunity to belittle him. If a cowboy met a shepherd in town, he bleated like a sheep. On the range he threatened the herder with bodily harm.

Cowboys on the range, in groups of two or three, would ride through a herd of sheep, roping them and dragging them to death. They shot sheep with their pistols. They would fire over the heads of sheepmen as they sat around their campfires at night. A few sheepmen met death at the hands of the cattlemen.

Cattlemen were the first into the region of Callahan County. The area of the county lying west of the post-oak belt and stretching to the valley of Pecan Bayou and beyond is a region of mosquito grass territory. The cattlemen entered this section of the country as trail drivers. They saw its possibilities and established cattle ranches.

Whenever the cattlemen found good grazing land he claimed the range whether he owned it or simply used state owned lands, he regarded anyone else as an intruder. If a sheepman came along he looked upon him with suspicion and animosity.

The animosity of the cattlemen toward the sheepmen stemmed from the belief that cattle would not eat grass over which sheep had been grazed. The cattlemen believed also that sheep ruined the range by cropping the grass too short.

The big sheep boom in Texas came between 1870 and 1884. During this period the sheep "drifter" appeared on the scene. The drifter was a sheepman with a few hundred sheep and little or no regard for anyone else. He was a roacher. He drove his herd into the best ranges. He insisted on watering his sheep wherever he found water.

If a drifter found a range he liked, he grazed it. One of the favorite tricks of the drifter was to remove a wheel from his wagon and hide the wheel. When warned by the cattlemen to move on, he offered the lame excuse that the wheel had been sent to town for repairs.

The cattlemen soon learned the trick and usually proceeded to search every brushy spot and ravine until the missing wheel was found. Then they threatened the drifter and he moved on to some other section.

Three Callahan County cattlemen were running herds between Burnt Branch and Pecan Bayou as early as 1879. In 1879 the first drifter appeared. They threatened him and he moved into Coleman County. In the summer of 1881, a second drifter arrived in the region. The cattlemen threatened him but he refused to leave. Cowboys from three cow outfits caught him on the range and killed over 100 of his sheep. He followed the first into Callahan County. It was in the early spring of 1882 that a sheepman moved into the range just west of Burnt Branch. This man was not a drifter. He was a legitimate sheepman with a herd of over 2,000 sheep.

This sheepman built sheep pens and erected a two-room house. He brought along a Mexican herder to care for the sheep. The cattlemen warned him to move on. He told them that he liked the country. He stated that the range belonged to the state and that he had as much right to it as they had. He also informed them that he had come to stay.

About the middle of June he made a trip to Belle Plain, leaving the Mexican herder in charge of the sheep. While the owner of the sheep was in town his house and sheep pens burned. Arriving home late in the afternoon, he found the premises in ruins. He then went to look for the herder and the sheep. The Mexican was not to be found. He had left the country. Dead sheep were everywhere.

The public never learned who had burned the property or who had killed the sheep.

Two days later the sheepman started moving his herd to Schleicher County. In the new locality he became owner of one of the largest sheep herds in Texas.

WTU Lady Kegiers Hold 3-Game Edge

West Texas Utilities' four representatives in Cross Plains Ladies Bowling League stopped Lucille's Beauty Salon 3-1, increasing their first place margin to three games, Monday night.

Pancake's Truck Stop initiated a four game rally, moving into second place at the expense of Foster's Grocery.

Hightower's Boot Shop and Johnston Truck & Supply battled to the last frame, neither gaining an appreciable edge, with a 2-2 split the result.

Minnie Dallas' 182 was adequate for high game honors, while substitute Joan Waits occupied the runner-up position with a 163.

Peggy Golsen topped 416 pins, an average of 138, gaining the top high series berth.

Action next week pits hard-pressed West Texas Utilities with Pancake's Truck Stop, Lucille's Beauty Salon will oppose Johnston Truck & Supply, and Foster's Grocery will antagonize Hightower's Boot Shop.

With only five more weeks of competition remaining, Cross Plains Ladies League standings look like this:

	W	L
West Texas	30	10
Pancake's	27	13
Lucille's	25	15
Johnston	16	24
Hightower's	12	28
Foster's	10	30

What Is Forced Pooling?

Under a forced pooling law, the owner of a lease may make application to the Railroad Commission for the creation of a "pooled unit" by which all persons owning any interest in the oil or gas thereunder would have their properties forcibly pooled or combined.

Compulsory pooling is sought in Texas by the major oil companies. House Bill 510 by Wayne Gibbens of Breckenridge would create such a law under which any part of a tract of land could be forcibly pooled with the lands of others and without the consent of all parties concerned.

Free Enterprise System Threatened

A compulsory pooling statute, such as House Bill 510 sponsored by Mr. Gibbens, would force additional government controls upon the people. It would actually permit the confiscation of one's property for the benefit of a few wealthy out-of-state corporations.

Would you stand idly by and permit your property to be seized without warning or proper notification under due processes of law? Of course not! Yet, at this very minute in Austin, plans are being made to confiscate oil and gas rights in the State of Texas.

Such a law would destroy the free enterprise system that built this State and Nation and made it prosper and grow and substitute in its place a foreign-like form of confiscatory collectivism.

Cross Cut Man's Job Offer 53 Years Late

A. (Toad) Baucom, well-known Cross Cut man, received offer of a job this week. It was, however, delayed in the mails 53 years.

A post card sent him from Childress Aug. 23, 1911, but which he failed to receive, was handed to him over the week end while he was in Vernon.

The card was mailed by Don Dunn, who asked that Toad come to his place and help pick cotton in 1911.

"The crop is great," the card said.

Actually the postal card was taken from a mail box by a kinsman of the Cross Cut man, who intended to hand it to him. He was away at the time, though, and delivery was not completed until last week end.

"Do you suppose I should reply to the job offer?" Toad asks.

Farm Bureau Official Praised For Defending The Landowners Against The Forced Pooling Bill

Noting that the Texas Farm Bureau at its state convention in San Antonio passed a strong resolution supporting property rights, the Texas Landowners and Independent Oil and Gas Producers Association commended the organization for its stand.

The Landowners' resolution praised the leadership of Farm Bureau leader C. H. DeVaney, Legislative representative Charles Huff and Ed McKay for their help in defeating House Bill 510, the compulsory oil and gas pooling bill at the last session.

The Farm Bureau was also cited for making a valiant effort to pass legislation that would give the landowner the right to try cases involving appeals from the Railroad Commission in district courts where the land is located.

The Texas Landowners and Independent Oil and Gas Producers are very grateful for the help furnished by the Texas Farm Bureau," the resolution states.

As one landowner put it, "They ran it through committee early in the session; they could have had an extra year and still it wouldn't have done them any good."

Credit was accorded to approximately 100 members of the House who steadfastly indicated in informal polls that they would oppose any form of HB 510.

Although the pressure continued for consideration, it was finally conceded by the bill's author Representative Wayne Gibbens of Breckenridge and its co-authors Reps. George Cook of Odessa and Maurice Duke of Wichita Falls that theirs was a lost cause.

How The Forced Oil Pooling Bill Authored By Mr. Gibbens Would Affect The Land Owners And Taxes

Remember: Under House Bill 510, large lessees — including the Government and big foreign oil companies could bring about forced pooling of any size tract without the consent of the landowner. There is No Limit on tract's size or shape.

Compulsory Pooling Also Would:

- Create many hardships, expenses, inconveniences, legal appeals, etc.
- Cut down on drilling, oil field employment.
- Open doors for further foreign oil imports.
- Favor the major out-of-State producers.
- Apply to all reservoirs and be retroactive.
- Affect 18,500,000 acres of State-owned lands and 3,000,000 school children.
- Require appeals to be filed and prosecuted in Austin.
- Force additional Government controls upon the people.
- From Texas Oil and Landowners News.
- Put a Seasoned Man, who would not place this burden on the people and wreck the state revenue.
- YOU MAY EXPECT YOUR SALES TAX TO GO TO 4 OR 5 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR IF THIS BILL EVER PASSES, STATES ROGER Q. EVANS.

PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

PAYROLLS

. . . sparkplug for economic growth

Payrolls pay off when new manufacturing industry begins operation in a town. Memphis, population 3500, is a good example. Pictured above is the Hall Plant, a unit of Burlington Industries, famous textile manufacturers. It brought a payroll to this Texas Panhandle town for more than 100 employees, mostly women, and has become an important addition to the local economy.

National studies show that payrolls, which come from 100 basic new jobs in a community, add 100 more homes such as the total electric Gold Medallion home pictured left . . . increase retail sales by $331,000 annually . . . create three new retail establishments . . . bring 359 new people including 91 school children . . . and add 97 more car registrations.

This is another PATTERN FOR PROGRESS.

American industry is on the move . . . expanding, relocating, and establishing new product facilities all over the Nation. Here is another opportunity for communities to seek new manufacturing payrolls. WTU suggests that every community give serious consideration to this opportunity, since payrolls are, as we have seen, a sparkplug for economic development and growth.

Evans Presents His Views

ROGER Q. EVANS

It is now time that the issues in the State Representative race be spelled out in plain language, states Roger Q. Evans of Baird who opposes Wayne Gibbens.

The people of this district have a right to know the current issues and views of the candidates, in the five county district.

The office of State Representative has become a vital cog in the economy of our state and the citizens of said State. Over a five billion dollar appropriation faces the next session of the legislature. This money will go to state agencies, which will affect the lives of not only our school children but our adult life.

It is the opinion of Roger Q. Evans that the problems so grave and vital to our economy and the destiny of this state that a person well versed in the ups and downs of the ups and downs in our economy, that a seasoned, experienced person in the problems of government can better spend your tax dollar than a person with little personal experience.

Mr. Evans, knowing many of the pitfalls, and who is broad enough to know the tricks of lobbyists, and who has the intestinal fortitude to defend the rights of our people against their clever schemes, is seeking the job as a hand to represent you in the Texas Legislature.

Here is how he stands on many of the issues. He makes the following pledges:

I PLEDGE

To support an Educational Program — including teacher increases and adequate school facilities — that will place Texas on par with other states.

I PLEDGE

To introduce and fight vigorously to re-earmark the old 10 cent Confederate pension funds to accrue to the now widowed veterans and their widows of any war as a Veteran Widow Relief Fund.

I PLEDGE

To give full support to all phases of agriculture and livestock — to fight against the encroachment of foreign beef products wherein it affects our markets and production.

I PLEDGE

To give every aid and assistance to our retired and disabled citizens by trying to amend the restrictive laws — permit, under certain conditions, a recipient of old age pension, social security and other pensions, to earn money through self-employment or part-time employment through programs established for the ones able to work so as to improve their economy.

I PLEDGE

To work with all agencies of the city, county and state governments to improve our economy through added payroll taxes to be provided through self-made projects — I have confidence this can be accomplished by establishing in each county a County Senior Citizens Industry Inc. to work out the details to manufacture products to be sold commercially through a five-county marketing program.

I PLEDGE

That if you elect me as your state representative by vote on May 2, 1964, as long as I draw the $4,800 per month my services will belong to the five counties in proportion to the population of the counties. I will work with the state agencies to develop jobs and open opportunities to our citizens to make life more liveable for this fast growing population of our citizens who have been the backbone of our defense civilization.

I PLEDGE

To energetically fight to protect the rights of property owners on all phases of their constitutional rights and work to defeat any legislation that tries to give powers of attorney to state agency to control your oil, gas and other minerals under the surface of your land. House Bill 510 sponsored by my opponent tried to do this to land owners in the last session of the Texas Legislature.

To congratulate the Farm Bureau Legislative Director and membership for so vigorously fighting against the Forced Land Bill No. 510 sponsored by Mr. Gibbens.

The bill was opposed by Land Commissioner Jerry Brown, the Sheep and Goat Raisers Assn., the Independent Farmers Owners Assn. and others.

I PLEDGE

To support and vote to see that our tax dollar, before being appropriated, will produce a dollar in return in services to the people of the State. I shall work to minimize in said appropriations which will go a long way toward meeting most of the need for new taxes. Spending the tax payer's hard-earned tax money, is truly a grave responsibility and merits the most rigid test of NEED to the agencies requesting appropriations and to do this you need a seasoned experienced man who knows these problems.

I PLEDGE

To support better rural roads and highways with additional lateral roads.

I PLEDGE

To work for Industrial Development in our cities and towns — to re-establish some of our lost business. I have been asked to express myself on two or more very controversial issues. In stating my views I well realize that I will live and will gain support by others.

I lived through and experienced the economic breakdown in business in a radius of 100 miles of the Arlington area, and saw when it got so corrupt that the governor called a special session of the Legislature to repeal the law of embezzlement. I do not believe in legalizing for tax purposes otherwise, any thing that will demoralize, and provide opportunities for further break through on the moral issues of our State.

Caddo Peak Was Scene Of One Of Last Great Indian Battles In This Section; Only 6 White Men Survived

By Dr. T. R. Havins

West Caddo Peak stands immediately north of Highway 36 between Cross Plains and Abilene. Hundreds of cars carrying hundreds of people pass along the highway every day. The people see the little mountain standing as a sentinel, two or three hundred feet higher than the surrounding terrain, and cedar that grows on its sides, just as it grew a century or more ago.

If the shin-oak brush and occasional cedar could speak, it could relate an interesting and tragic story. The shin-oak and cedar witnessed one of the most hotly contested battles between white men and Indians that ever occurred on the Texas frontier.

It was in October, 1837, that Lieutenant Vanthuysen and 17 other white men left the Texas settlements on the lower Colorado River and turned northward.

The record of the expedition relates but one name, that of Lieutenant Vanthuysen. Who were the others? We do not know. Nor do we know from what point on the Colorado they left.

The party of 18 men ascended the Colorado River to the mouth of Pecan Bayou and then traversed that stream to its source. Their journey took them to the region of Callahan County, several miles southwest of Clyde.

On the return trip from the head of Pecan Bayou, they left the river and made their way to West Caddo Peak. The record does not mention from which direction they approached the little mountain. They were traveling east or southeast. Evidently, they were on the north, the west, or the south side when trouble overtook them.

The trouble was a force of about 150 Waco, Keechie and Caddo Indians. All of these were enemies. Riding with these tribes were some 50 or more Delawares, who were on friendly terms with white men.

If Vanthuysen and his companions had known the habits of West Texas Indians, they could have avoided trouble. What they did not know was that the Indians used very high elevation throughout the area knives. Invariably, they approached closely to such elevations in traveling through the country. Sometimes they traveled miles out of their way to reach such landmarks. Ignorance of this Indian custom cost the Vanthuysen party dearly that day.

On sighting the Indians, the white men dismounted and took refuge in a ravine that ran downward from one side of the peak. The Indians hid themselves among the shin-oak and cedars.

Both sides were well armed. The white men had rifles, the remainder being well supplied with bows, arrows and Bowie knives.

The battle began with the Indians pouring their arrows into the ravine. The white men hoarded their ammunition, firing from cover of the ravine when an Indian showed himself in the open. After about an hour and a half of indecisive fighting, the Indians used one of their favorite tricks. They set fire to the tall grass that grew on the mountainside. At the same time, they cut off the soldiers' downstream retreat.

The fire and smoke drove Vanthuysen and his men from the cover of the ravine. Four white men went down, victims of rifle fire. The remaining 14 held a council. Off to one side they saw 50 Delaware. The enemies being held in reserve. Had the white men known they were friendly, they could have escaped in that direction.

The 14 men determined to charge the Indians downstream. Crouching and inching along, they moved about 100 feet. They charged in a full run. Eight of the number failed in the attempted break. Their bodies were filled with rifle balls and arrows. Only six escaped the howling Indians. Three of these were wounded.

Hiding in a dense thicket, the survivors waited. Night came on and they traveled by star direction. They reached Turkey Creek in the morning. There they killed a deer and cooked a portion of it. They washed and bandaged the wounds of the three men who were injured. They hid in a live oak thicket during the day.

Knowing the habit of the Indians to travel in a general northwest-southeast direction, they reasoned that by traveling due east they would be less likely to encounter the Indians. For four days they hid in thickets, traveling only at night. Their boots wore out from walking, and they cut off the legs of their trousers and bandaged their feet. After the first four days they traveled in daylight and made better distances.

Three weeks from the day of the fight they came to a Kickapoo Indian village on the Trinity river near the present site of Dallas. The Kickapoo were friendly and received them with kindness. After a rest of nearly a week, the Indians provided them with ponies. From the Kickapoo village they made their way home.

OMAR BURLESON

INCOME TAX REDUCTION

The income tax reduction bill that became effective in April of 1964 had the vote and support of OMAR BURLESON who has long felt that tax relief for the public was one of the most important issues before Congress.

LIMITED BEEF IMPORTS

OMAR BURLESON introduced a bill in Congress to limit the imports of beef from foreign countries. With a 25% wholesale price decrease caused by foreign imports this bill would provide a broader market for the ranchers and cattlemen. Retail prices remain high.

REDUCE FEDERAL BUDGET

Long an advocate for lower federal spending, OMAR BURLESON, in his 18 years in Congress, has voted to reduce the federal budget from three to 13 BILLION dollars each of his nine Congressional terms. He has never voted to reduce defense expenditures.

CUBAN EMBARGO

During the Cuban affair OMAR BURLESON introduced a bill for a complete embargo on trade with that country. He voted against the sale of wheat to Russia, recognizing that it would encourage our allies to sell to Cuba which they have done in fact.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Because the present form of the Civil Rights bill contains provisions to limit the freedoms of all Americans, he voted against it. He is for the constitutional guarantees for all Americans regardless of status.

LIMITED OIL IMPORTS

In 1949 OMAR BURLESON introduced the first bill to limit oil imports, and then voted for the bill that gave the President of the United States power to limit or abolish oil imports.

REDUCE COMMITTEE BUDGETS

As chairman of the House Administration Committee, OMAR BURLESON has consistently reduced the spending of congressional committees. He reduced Adam Clayton Powell's committee spending budget by 50%.

FOREIGN AID

OMAR BURLESON has voted against foreign aid since the late 1940s. The recent reaction in Congress as to drastically reducing foreign aid and discussion about abolishing it proves him correct.
