Clyde Man Has First New-Crop Peanuts

First peanuts from the crop of 1968 have been marketed in Cross Plains. They came in Friday and were brought by L. C. Spitzer, who lives five miles south of Clyde. Spitzer had three loads, aggregating 650 bushels. All were grown on dryland fields. The nuts were delivered to Cross Plains Grain and Peanut Company and were being dried Tuesday.

A check with three local handlers of peanuts: Farm & Ranch Supply, Inc., Pioneer Co-op and Cross Plains Grain & Peanut Company indicated that it would be late this month before harvest gets into full swing. Price for this year's peanuts will be between $10 to $15 more per ton, depending upon grades. Managers of the three local peanut handling concerns were agreed Tuesday morning that prospects for this year's crop are excellent. Consensus was that it would surpass last year's yield and might equal that of 1966, when peanut production in this area hit record proportions.

Individual farmers interviewed expressed the opinion that one more rain in about a week or 10 days would be helpful to the crop. Beryl M. Lusk, Sabanno grower, who has both dryland and irrigated fields, reports that he has not yet watered any of his peanuts. "Thus far the rains have come just right," he said.

Amendment Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of 14 proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution which will be explained weekly in order in which they will appear on the official ballot to be voted Nov. 5. These analyses are intended to be unbiased.

The second proposed amendment which you will vote FOR or AGAINST, reads as follows: "A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, amending Section 51-a of Article III by raising the limit on the amount that may be expended in any one year out of state funds for Public Assistance payments only to 75 million dollars ($75,000,000); providing for the necessary election, form of ballot, proclamation and publication."

Proponents say that this amendment does not make an appropriation but rather allows the legislature greater discretion in meeting the needs of all four classes of welfare recipients in the state by raising the ceiling on the use of state funds for this purpose from $60,000,000 to $75,000,000.

They point out that Texas has consistently been in the lowest percentiles of the nation with respect to welfare, ranking 50th in administrative cost per recipient for old age assistance, 44th in per cent receiving old age assistance, 49th in assistance in aid to dependent children and 45th in assistance in aid to permanently and totally disabled.

Because aid for dependent children allotments are based on a family of four, the higher ceiling provided by the proposed amendment would make it possible for the legislature to have greater discretion in giving budgetary consideration to larger families. Further, the proposed amendment would permit consideration to be given to last year's four per cent rise in the cost of living for all four classes of recipients.

Opponents claim that while the large overall expenditure of state funds which this amendment would authorize would increase each recipient's income only a few dollars a month, it would require $15,000,000 in new funds at a time when the state is already hard pressed to meet existing financial obligations. They contend that instead of encouraging dependency on public welfare, the state should begin to draw a line in combating growing socialism and the welfare state.

Callahan Choked Full Of Government Bodies

How many governmental bodies are in operation in Callahan County to administer the affairs of the local population? How many, by way of comparison, have other communities across the country set up for that purpose?

According to a special survey conducted by the Census Bureau, more agencies are used locally to carry on the business of government than is the case in most areas.

The facts and figures are brought out in a 460-page report released by the Department of Commerce under the title "1967 Census of Governments." It is the first such study since 1962.

They are conducted every five years to determine what it takes, in number and make-up of governmental units, to provide residents of each area with school services, water supply, police and fire protection, sanitation, health and welfare needs and the various other required services.

In Callahan County, it is shown, these functions are carried on through 14 governmental bodies, 12 of which have property-taxing powers. In 1962 the number was 11.

A breakdown of the total reveals that there are 4 municipal governments in the county, no township governments, five independent school districts, the county government and four special districts.

In terms of population, the number of these public agencies is above that found in most localities, the survey shows. Locally, there is one such agency for every 470 residents.

This compares with one for every 720 five years ago.

Nationally, there were 81,253 local governments in the United States at the beginning of last year, a decrease of almost 10,000 since 1962.

The change came principally in the number of school districts which dropped from 34,678 in 1962 to 21,782 in 1967. It came chiefly from widespread school reorganizations and consolidations.

On the other hand, the number of special districts, those concerned with public housing, flood control, soil conservation, bridges toll roads, and the like, increased by nearly 3,000 in the five-year period.

Area Schools Wait Report Due Sunday

Musgrove, state representative from this district, says he has read the report of the Governor's Committee on Education which will be made available Sunday and that it offers sweeping application for Callahan, Eastland and Palo Pinto Counties.

The committee was appointed by Gov. John Connally three years ago after the 59th legislature had voted on the study of education in Texas.

Musgrove said, "The report is very comprehensive, especially in the financing area. It will have broad, sweeping application to Eastland County, which now has eight or nine school districts. The two other counties affected most in my district will be Palo Pinto and Callahan."

"I expect, however, that teachers and school administrators will be very pleased. I was amazed at the financial proposals. At this time I can give no specific information on proposals. This will be released on the official date."

Musgrove said the report deals with organizational structure of schools, basic programs, spending requirements, and financial foundations to produce quality education throughout Texas. He said that the purpose of the three-year study was to make Texas a leader in the nation's public education.

The report answers such questions as:

What should be the goals of the public education system?

What programs and services must be provided to achieve these goals?

What must be done to staff the system with competent, dedicated, professional personnel?

What organizational structure will permit the systems to function most efficiently?

What financial changes are required to underwrite the cost of long-range plans for national leadership in education achievements?

Musgrove said the committee used 128 sample school districts for the three-year study, which included Breckenridge, Cisco, Baird, Abilene, Hawley, Sweetwater, Snyder and Ira.

The schools over the state were selected to give a cross section for the study. Musgrove ventured that the minimum standard section of the report will cause the most concern at the local level.

He said, "I would not stop short of predicting the governor will call a special session of the legislature to enact this proposal designed to make Texas the leader in public education."

The official report comprises some 76 pages.

Forty-five candidates for places on the local junior high school Mighty Mite football team greeted Head Coach John Geer last week as practice sessions began. About 16 of those saw action in last year's campaign, according to Geer.

The roster includes 26 eighth graders and 19 seventh graders. An additional 20 sixth graders are expected to report for that class' grid squad in about a week. Geer said that we will begin working with the sixth grade as soon as we get the seventh and eighth graders lined out. Les Cowan, high school head coach, will assist Geer with the junior high graders.

After about 10 days of practice, Coach Geer said that he was looking for an improvement on last year's 2-4 record. "Although we will be smaller in size over all," Geer opined, "the backfield should have pretty good speed."

First game of the season will be with Santa Anna, there, next Tuesday beginning at 7:30 p.m. an open date which is presently in the Mite schedule, will be filled with an opponent if at all possible, according to Geer.

Complete Mighty Mite schedule appears elsewhere in this issue.

Roscoe-Buffs Scoreless

The Bisons met Rosco Ployboys in the initial "practice game of the season last Thursday at McMurry Stadium in Abilene. The two squads battled to a scoreless draw.

Cowan rated the Buff defense as "looking good," and said that the team has worked primarily on defense during the pre-season workouts. Roscoe penetrated to the Bison five once during the two and a half hour practice, but failed to score in four downs. "We were concerned about the new players," the coach said, "but they came through on defense."

Buffaloes lost both safeties, both corner backs and one line-backer by graduation from the 6-4 record team last year.

Offense Ragged

Cowan said that the offense looked ragged, but noted that emphasis had been placed on defense during the first eight days of pre-season drills.

The Herd drove to the Roscoe 12 during one thrust, but the drive died on a fumble. Cowan noted that a lot of work would be devoted to offense in the next few practice sessions.

Bufs are looking for players to replace all three running
