"We invite anyone who would care to attend and learn our plans to be at this meeting." Wesbrooks said.

The contractor's superintendent and two of his key people have moved mobile homes to a location in the north part of Cross Plains.

"We will be here at least four months," he said.

The two projects will not join. There will actually be a gap of about four miles. It will extend from a point near the John D. Montgomery home to the main intersection in Cross Plains.

There will be no stoppage of traffic because of construction. Flagmen will be on duty and every precaution taken to keep the flow of vehicles moving at a safe rate of speed.
