Ranger's Big Second Half Beats Buffs; Early Next

Visiting Ranger Bulldogs used a strong second half to defeat Cross Plains Buffaloes 27-7 in a District 10-A football contest Friday night. The loss dropped the home-standing Herd's record to 2-2 in league play and to 3-4-1 in the season. Cross Plains and Bangs are deadlocked for third place in the conference race.

Head Coach Donnie McMillan noted the Herd now has just two seniors on the team, but feels replacements for injured players will gain a lot of experience in the contests with Early and Bangs. Cross Plains will travel to Early Friday night for another 10-A battle. The Longhorns boast a 3-1 league mark and a season record of 5-3.

City Plans Holiday Tuesday, Nov. 11

Most downtown businesses in Cross Plains will be closed all day Tuesday, Nov. 11, in observance of Veterans' Day or, if preferred, Armistice Day. This year Veterans' Day is to be observed throughout Texas on November 11 as a result of legislation enacted by the 64th Texas Legislature which restored the holiday to its original date. For several years the holiday has been noted on the last Monday in October because of federal legislation.

No special activities are planned in Cross Plains, although many area cities do plan special events. Most retail stores in the downtown section will be closed all day for the holiday. Grocery stores, service stations, eating establishments and convenience stores along highways into Cross Plains are expected to remain open all day.

A quick check by the Review staff Tuesday revealed businesses planning to be open next Tuesday include post office, JRB Supermarket, Cross Plains Review, Foster Grocery, service stations, Randall's Super Market, cafes and convenience stores. General concerns planning to be closed are Cross Plains Discount Center, Mayes Flowers Shop, Neal Drug, Bryan Variety, Citizens State Bank, Higginsbothams, City Hall, West Texas Utilities Co., Lane's Variety Bishop Chevrolet Co., Hornsby Electric Co., Western Auto Store, Johnson's Dry Goods and possibly others which time did not allow the Review to contact.

General Rain Soaks This Locality Sunday

Gentle but steady rain soaked the parched Cross Plains area last Sunday. The rain, which began falling early Sunday morning and lasted for two to two and one-half inches and over at some places. In Cross Plains the official gauge measured 2.17 inches. Up to 2.80 inches were reported within the city.

The moisture was hailed as the best rain this area has received this year, and some termed it a "million dollar" rain. It was considered a boon for winter grain crops and early winter pasturage. It did halt the peanut harvest, however, in its last stages when the rain came. There were some crops which had not been dug however.

There was not much runoff of water, as the dry ground soaked up the water almost as fast as it fell. Two and one-half inches were measured in the Cottonwood, Atwell and Sabanno communities by Charles Waggoner, Alton Tatom and Edwin Erwin, respectively. Sterling Odom also gauged 2.50 inches in the Rowden area which reported totals ranging from two inches to the 2.50 inches. The Burkett community received an even two inches, and C. McDonald's gauge at Pioneer showed 2.10 inches. The Louis Richardson gauge at Cross Cut measured 2.15 inches.

Pipeline Work Begun To New Waterfield

City of Cross Plains has begun work laying the pipeline to the new waterfield a couple of miles north of town. Work was begun last Friday digging the ditch for the pipe. That work has been contracted by Mike Kelley of this city. City of Cross Plains workmen were laying the six-inch plastic pipe. The city recently ordered 12,000 feet of the high test pipe.

It was not immediately learned how long it is expected to take to get the new waterfield connected to city water facilities. A list of proposed textbooks for use by Texas schools next year is available for review by local school patrons at the office of the high school building. The list of books has been approved by the State Textbook Committee, and Cross Plains schools will adopt texts from this list.

LOCAL MAN FIGURES 61 EMPLOYEES NORM

Harold Garrett of Cross Plains and Congressman Omar Burleson have recently had correspondence concerning the financial crisis facing New York City. Garrett noted that in a letter from Congressman Burleson "he expressed his argument with me that we should not 'bail out' New York City"; explaining for one reason they (New York) have 51 employees for every 1,000 population.

The local businessman explained, "If Cross Plains operated on that basis, we would require 61 people on our city payroll". Cross Plains operates efficiently with six full time employees, about one-tenth that which New York City seems to require.

2 Sisters Re-United After 40 Years

Mrs. Ed Petty of this city received the "surprise of a lifetime" this last week when she learned of the whereabouts of a sister whom she had not seen for about 40 years. Each had thought the other was probably deceased. Miss Eula Bryant of Austin called mutual friends in Knox City on the slim chance they would know of Mrs. Petty's address. Miss Bryant came here last Saturday and stayed through Sunday, with a promise to return at Christmastime. Mrs. Petty reported the wonderful, exciting visit they had last week end, with her children here sharing the joy of seeing this "long-lost" relative.

TEXAS TALK

By Glenn Winfrey

Solar heat collectors on a commercial scale will probably show up on the farm before anywhere else. Exactly when solar energy units can practically be used is still an open question. Certainly not right away, but tests performed in six states by the Agricultural Research Service indicate that low temperature drying of grain by use of simple solar collectors is technically feasible. Technically feasible and economically practical are often some distance apart. It appears this is still the case with solar drying since the main thing the ARS testing ascertained was a need for more tests. The new series of tests will be conducted during the next two years and will provide more information on economics of the various commercial systems as well as increasing the technological information available on solar energy collection.

PERRY JENNINGS BACK HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Oscar (Peggy) Koenig returned to her home here last Saturday following about 10 days in Houston where she was with her daughter, Mrs. Perry L. Jennings, and family during Mr. Jennings' stay in a hospital there.

He has been returned to his home but will have to enter the hospital again in the near future for more tests and treatments. He will be required to have a lot of bed rest during this period of adjustment.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. (Buddy) Thate of Lake Brownwood and Cross Plains and his mother, Mrs. Sam Swafford of this city spent all of last Saturday driving east through a lot of peanut country, as far as Dublin where they had lunch, then to Stephenville, and then north through Palo Pinto county and then back home. They reported a most enjoyable day and the country air was superb, trees, hills and dales beautiful.

Area Rattlesnake Den Yields Large Reptiles

A den of rattlesnakes near Cross Plains has thus far yielded 13 reptiles, seven of which have measured five-feet or longer. They have been taken by R. B. Dillard and helpers.

Dillard, officer in the Hear of Texas Snake Handlers Club reports there are still snakes in the den, one of which is believed to be even larger than the 70-inchers taken a few weeks ago.

The helpers caught additional reptiles Monday afternoon, and in demonstrating handling, he was bitten by one of the larger snakes. The single fang mark on his leg required no medical attention. Dillard said, "The Good Lord takes care of me," and he does not seek treatment after being bitten. He has been struck several times in the past.

The Cross Plains man plans to use the reptiles in snake handling demonstrations in coming months.

The War That Wasn't All Hell, written by Frank Smith and published in the Coronet in Footnote to History in 1938.

In spite of its fratricidal strife, the American Civil War had, very often, friendly interludes. During intervals between battles, for instance, the pickets of one side made acquaintances with the soldiers at enemy outposts that blossomed into lifetime friendships after the war, and it was regarded as bad form to shoot at a picket stationed in an exposed spot.

During the long siege of Vicksburg, there were frequent truces so that soldiers might pick blackberries between the trenches—they were the best cure for diarrhea, the most common army ailment. And one day, in the midst of potshooting a private of the 11th Wisconsin announced: "I'm going out to shake hands with them Rebs." He clambered out of his trench, and out came a Johnny Reb to meet him; a moment later hundreds of soldiers from each side were shaking hands, talking about the mistakes of their generals, and comparing their sweetheart's photographs. After a time, a Union General appeared, scolded both sides, ordered them back to their rifle pits, and pot-shooting began once more.

When for a long time the Rapidan and Rappahannock Rivers in Virginia were the dividing line between opposing army outposts, there were regular truces during which hundreds of naked Yanks and Rebs bathed together.

Southern officers took pride in the conduct of their troops during their rare invasions of enemy territory. When Pickett's Division was marching through a little Pennsylvania town on the way to Gettysburg, a little girl ran out on the porch of her home and waved a Union flag in the Confederate's faces. General Pickett tipped his hat in salute and each man in the long line followed suit.

Traditional Ceremonies In The U.S.

Fiesta in Santa Fe

In 1712, 60 years before the Boston Tea Party, Santa Fe, New Mexico, celebrated its first annual Fiesta in commemoration of the re-establishment of Spanish rule over the Indians, independence since the rebellion in 1680. In the year 1939 was its 227th celebration. It would start outside the city with the burning at the stake of "Zoborra" which was Old Man Gloom, a colossal papier-mache effigy embodying everyone's personal troubles of the last year. Zoborra was a mechanical monster; his great jaws opened and closed, his terror filled eyes would roll, and moans came from the mouth as the spectators gathered to watch him writhe and struggle to free himself as the fire reached him. Finally his fiery skeleton toppled to each. Then, every care burned away, the merry-making began. A laughing, singing crowd of Spanish-Americans, tourists, cowboys, Indians, hurried to the ancient plaza along winding streets lighted by thousands of Luminarias. Candles set in sacks weighted with sand which outlined old adobe walls and the roofs of every building. Painted Indians danced about huge bonfires to the beat of drums. Everywhere was music, a band strolling troubadours with guitars, age-old songs and the latest jazz. Sunday there was a mass at St. Francis Cathedral, followed by an accurate reenactment of the pageant of Spanish re-entry into the city. In the evening, as impressive candlelight procession made its way from the cathedral to the Cross of Martyrs, erected on a hill out side the city in honor of Friars killed in 1680. The next day the frivolous "Hysterical Parade" burlesques current events and important personages. There was the Conquistadores Ball at night and then the Luminarias go out, and the Fiesta in Santa Fe was over.

This was written in the year 1939. I wonder if this fine old traditional ceremony still is celebrated? Or has it died out as many others have? How can our children stay interested in the past and feel pride in their belonging if their minds are not kept fresh about how it all began?

We need to go back to the old time celebrations, enjoy them and teach them to our children. Oh, I so hope Santa Fe still holds her traditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Glenn and son stopped by the store this past week. They had been to San Angelo to get Mrs. Glenn's mother, Mrs. Lee Lavihell, and take her back to Omaha, Neb. with them. I understood that Mrs. Lavihell was kin to the Freddy Thates.

Micky Cowan of Houston visited Mr. Lyda Harris and Mrs. Veda DeBusk week before last.

Thank you, Lyda, for the nice supper you brought me this past week. I was back in the bed for a few days this last week and Lyda took care of me. Also visiting with me while I was ill were Anna Golson and Robin and Mary Nations.

Visiting the Otis Mayfields recently were Elvie and Bill Hamilton of Andrews and their daughters Devi and Dona. Also Mr. and Mrs. Windel Mayfield and Kelly and Kristy of Corsicana.

The Seventy-Four Club met at the Otis Mayfields home recently and the ladies laved it on the men again. They won five to four. Otis said he knows those ladies are not beyond cheating. The gang consists of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davee, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Mayo, and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Watson.

I just heard from Bill Davee and he had to tell me that the men took care of the ladies in last night's game of seventy-four. Bill said they got Mrs. Roger Watson and Bill Mayfield to talking about their grandchildren and that took care of that.

The Coleman Boxing Club motored over to Goodfellow Air Force Base for a night of fights week before last. The club won seven fights. Coleman is quite proud of their boys as they were all of their fights. The fighters were from Coleman, Ozona, Goodfellow Air Base. The Coleman Club took a young man from Blanket along with them by the name of Tom Hickey. Now Tom didn't win his fight but it is believed that he didn't have all his mind on fighting. You see Tom married that very morning, and he took his bride on the bus with him to the fights that night.

Joe Golson drove his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Golson, over to Bronte Sunday morning to visit with the J. L. Golsons. Lew has been very ill in a San Angelo hospital, but is doing quite well at this time. He underwent lung surgery two weeks ago and had an inactive part of a lung removed. We understand that the inactiveness was caused by blood clots that had entered the lungs two years ago when Mr. Golson was so ill, and that he should be up and around and doing better than he has in these two years. Here is a big hug from me, brother, and I'll bet you can play a game of ping pong before long that will sit that Jake and Michell in the shade.

Monte Garrett was rushed to a Coleman hospital, later transferred to Abilene, suffering a heart condition Saturday Nov. 1. We hope she is doing better at this time, and wish her a speedy recovery to health.

Hi, Raymond and Monte. Hope you are resting well at this time. Have a good week.

Mrs. C. A. McGee had as guests recently her brother and his wife, Tom and Polly Wingfield of Yucaipa, Calif., and while here they visited their sister in Leakey and her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Vergil Stacy, in Kerrville, with whom they had lunch.

Number five: We must study the Bible realizing that the Bible itself makes a clear distinction between the Old Testament and the New. In Mt. 26:28 the Lord said "For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins". In Heb. 9:15 we have: "And for this cause he is the mediator of the new testament, that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance". Then in verses 16 and 17 of Heb. 9 we read: "For where a testament is, there must also of necessity be the death of the testator. For a testament is of force after men are dead; otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth." In Heb. 10:9 the Record says, "He taketh away the first that he may establish the second". In Heb. 8:8 Paul quotes God as saying, "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah:..." Then, in verse 13 Paul comments: "In that he saith, A new covenant, he hath made the first old. Now that which decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away." In the Old Testament we have type; in the New Testament we have anti-type. In the Old Testament we have shadow; in the New Testament we have the substance (that which made the shadow). In the Old Testament we have copy; in the New Testament we have the original. In the Old Testament we have figure; in the New Testament we have the real. In this connection, let me suggest that you study carefully: I Pet. 3:21; Heb. 10:1; Heb. 9:9; Heb. 9:23. The Old Testament prepares the way for the New. The Old Testament is the New Testament concealed; the New Testament is the Old Testament revealed.
