Hoover and Britisher Express Nations' Amity at Battle Scene

On the old battlefield at Kings Mountain, South Carolina, where American colonists routed British redcoats in the engagement that marked the turning point of the Revolutionary War, President Hoover, and an official representative of the British government expressed present-day Anglo-American peace and amity today. Mr. Hoover, shown above, was the principal speaker at a gigantic celebration marking the 150th anniversary of the historic battle while Ronald Ian Campbell (below), counsellor of the British embassy at Washington, attended the British government's representative. The map shows the location.

FIVE-DOLLAR BILLS TO START CIRCLE OF PROSPERITY HERE

If you receive a five-dollar bill today or within the next few days with a slip of paper sewed onto it, put your name on the slip of the paper, and get rid of that bill by the quickest route you can. Then call the Daily News and tell the editorial department to whom you gave the bill.

You may not realize it, but that act will directly contribute to better times in Cisco. It is part of a plan to keep several five-dollar "Williams" in perpetual motion about Cisco for an indefinite length of time. The idea was adopted at a meeting of Cisco merchants yesterday afternoon in the chamber of commerce offices, when it was planned that several of these bills, placed in 10 travelling in an endless circle about the city would create an astonishing buying power, pay an unlimited number of bills and in short — start a buying and paying movement that will knock old man depression for a row.

Each one of these bills carried with it an obligation to keep it in motion. The amount of paying and buying it will do can be figured by multiplying the number of times it changes hands by five. If it changes hands 20 times in one day it will buy $100 worth of goods or pay $100 worth of bills. Ten such bills changing hands 20 times each day will buy $1,000 worth of goods or pay $1,000 in accounts.

The whole idea is based upon the cooperation of the citizens who agree to see better times in Cisco. Some of the bills will fall into careless, unconcerned hands and will be lost to circulation right there but there are doubtless enough earnest people in Cisco who are eager to see their city get ahead and genuinely eager to help, to keep a large proportion of these busy bills circulating freely about the city. "The value of the movement will do no good unless the bills are kept up with. They cannot be kept up with unless each person handling

FRIDAY IS PROCLAIMED SCOUT DAY

Citizen Called Upon to Boost the Boys Organization

Friday, October 10, has been officially declared Boy Scout day in Cisco by proclamation of Mayor J. M. Williamson. The proclamation calls upon the citizenship to devote that day to learning more of the purposes and ideals of the Boy Scout movement and especially urges them to attend the Scout circus which will be presented Friday evening at 7:30 at the high school auditorium.

More than 100 Boy Scouts from over the Oil Belt council territory will participate in this circus. The Cisco troops will have the most prominent part in the program which is aimed at both entertaining those who attend and informing them of the work being done by the Scouts.

Members of the Rotary club today are undertaking to sell a large number of tickets for the circus. The executive committee here are devoting themselves earnestly to arousing interest in the event.

A program of exceptional interest has been prepared for the circus.

SINGERS WILL HOLD MEET AT ATWELL SUNDAY

The Eastland county singing convention meets Saturday night and Sunday in regular semi-annual session at Atwell, just across the county line in Calhoun county and southwest of Seranton, J. M. Smith, of Eastland, secretary of the convention, announced today. The convention met last at Flatwoods.

A large attendance is expected at both the Saturday night session and the all-day Sunday session. Dinner will be served on the grounds Sunday at noon and all singers and lovers of singing are invited to attend the convention. Many noted singers and song writers of this and adjoining counties will be present.

Officers of the convention which were elected at the last meeting are Blalock of Seranton, president; Looney Jackson, vice president; and J. M. Smith, secretary. Officers are not to be elected at this meeting.

The Eastland county singing convention is one of the oldest if not the oldest singing convention in this section of Texas, having been organized and meeting regularly for more than 35 years.

Mary Will Remain in Motion Pictures

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Mary Pickford has abandoned plans to appear on the legitimate stage in New York this fall and will continue in motion pictures, Joseph M. Schenck, head of United Artists, announced today upon his return from the east.

The producer also denied persistent reports that Howard Hughes young multi-millionaire producer from Texas, had acquired an interest in United Artists.

$2,168 Bequeathed to Confederate Home

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—The state Confederate home here was richer today by $2,168 bequeathed to it by Henry B. Gerhart, to be used for the comfort and pleasure of veterans there. Gerhart, a southern soldier who died at Albuquerque, N. M., made a similar gift to the Confederate home at Biloxi, Miss. The check for the $2,168 was received today by the state board of control. The will made no explanation of why the Texas and Mississippi homes were selected for the donations.

TRIUMPH OF CARBOHYDRATES OVER COD LIVER OIL PAINS DOCTORS IN SESSION AT KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9.—When carbohydrates triumphed over cod liver oil as stamina producing nutriment in a wrestling ring here, doctors attending the eighth annual conference of the Southwest Clinical Society lifted their eyebrows in surprise.

Joe Bonomo, who boasted that he was raised on licorice sticks from his father's candy factory and thought all canes were made of candy until he was 21 years old, triumphed in two straight falls over Buck Olsen, who drank cod liver oil for breakfast, lunch and dinner in his native Sweden.

The good doctors were more than surprised—they were pained. After hours spent in dry and technical clinical sessions, the wrestling matches in convention hall last night constituted a sort of holiday for the visiting physicians.

Perhaps it seemed good to hear someone talk about excellent health instead of complaining about everything in the book from athlete's foot to housemaid's knee. At any rate, Bonomo, who used to be a film strong man, bulged out his muscles for the doctors, boasted he could tear in two any volume of materia medica, and sent the physicians back to their convention after rubbing it in a little by telling how jelly beans and jaw breakers made him that way.

Another Surprise
But Bonomo did not furnish the only surprise yesterday. Dr. William S. Baer of Baltimore lectured to the convention the startling disclosure that some open wounds can best be disinfected by letting a swarm of certain insects crawl over the torn flesh. Dr. Baer conducts an insect hatchery in Baltimore, started after he found during the war that insects on the battlefield often kept wounds disinfected on shell-torn soldiers who had been without medical attention for hours.

Dr. John Lovett Morse of Indianapolis and Florida painted an unappetizing picture of what will happen if employers do not keep red noses, sneezes and coughs out of their establishments. He advocated a business utopia in which all employees suffering from common colds would be promptly sent home.

Dr. John Lovett Morse of Boston, who was a well-known baby doctor long before most of the visiting physicians had obtained their licenses, surprised the audience by intimating modern babies might be undergoing a little too much scientific rearing.

HOLIDAYS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS ARE ANNOUNCED

The holidays to be given the Cisco public schools during the present term have been designated by the school board and announced as follows according to Secretary Frank Walker of the board.

Armistice day, November 11;
Thanksgiving day, November 27;
Christmas holidays, beginning December 23, 1930, and extending to January 6, 1931.

No other holidays will be given Mr. Walker said.

According to the records in the office of the county superintendent at the county seat, the Cisco public schools have an enrollment of 1,383 this year. This does not correspond with local records but has been taken by the county superintendent and the state department as the official record for the transactions occurring between the schools and the state and county educational agencies, it is understood.

FOUR MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE FACE DIRECTORS

SWEETWATER, Oct. 9.—Four matters of great importance to west Texas will confront the new board of directors of the west Texas chamber of commerce when they convene here Saturday.

The most outstanding topic on the business roster is the protest to be filed with the state board of education against geography textbooks picturing the western plains as "semi-arid land largely unsuited to agriculture."

A report from the drought relief committee, a proposed constitutional amendment for taxing university lands, and the approval of the proposed Texas and Pacific Northern railroad from Big Spring to Vega will be placed before the directors. It is also probable that a report will be received on stamp and poster sales.

ABILENE, Oct. 9.—Two cases involving the financial status of the city of Cisco in which New York and Ohio interests are seeking collection of alleged past due interest on bonds and warrants of the city were continued in the federal district court today by Judge James C. Wilson.

In the two cases a Toledo, Ohio, bond company asks payment of $17,371 interest on bonds and warrants claimed past due. The plaintiffs claim that they hold bonds totalling $1,133,000 against the city.

Hawks Adds Another Record

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Captain Frank Hawks, who holds the transcontinental air speed mark, has added another record to his collection. He now has the honor of going to and coming from an out-of-town ball game faster than anyone else ever did.

Capt. Hawks left Curtis-Wright airport at Valley Stream, L. I., yesterday and landed at William Penn airport, Philadelphia, just 24 minutes later. It was the fastest time on record between New York and Philadelphia.

$100,000,000 IN U.S. CONTRACTS WILL BE LET

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—More than $100,000,000 in new public building contracts will be let by the treasury in 1930 in carrying out an expanded building program which the administration planned as an aid to business recovery.

Answering a republican congressional critic who wrote President Hoover recently complaining that the treasury was not expediting the enlarged building program as rapidly as possible, assistant treasury secretary Ferry K. Heath today made public figures showing greater public building activity than ever before.

The treasury is now working under an aggregate program calling for expenditure of $58,000,000 over a 10-year period which began in 1925. The annual limit was increased by congress last session from $5,000,000 to $50,000,000. This provision was made retroactive and the treasury can spend the accrual of $43,000,000 immediately.

BRAZIL MOVE AGAINST REBEL FORCES STARTS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 9.—The federal offensive against revolutionaries in the south was started from the state of Santa Catharina today under leadership of Gen. Nepumeceno da Costa.

General da Costa, commander of the fifth military region at Florianopolis, advised Heitor Pentecoste, vice president of the state of Sao Paulo that the offensive had been started and "everything continues well."

While Santa Catharina federal leaders were directing the offensive between the two rebel states, Sao Paulo was preparing for a drive southward against rebels in the adjoining state of Parana. About 4,000 volunteers joined the federal forces at the city of Sao Paulo. Government sources reported successful progress against rebels in the central region, with Belo Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes state, as the "key" objective.

VOCATIONAL SERVICE IS CLUB THEME

The Rotary club program today was in charge of E. P. Crawford, chairman of the vocational service committee of the club. Henry Drumwright and Mr. Crawford appeared on the program. Mr. Drumwright in a talk on the "Relation of Employer to Employee" and Mr. Crawford in a discussion what vocational service as it is understood in Rotary means.

One new member was introduced to the club today. He is E. A. Murrell. The Boy Scout circus to be presented at the high school auditorium tomorrow evening at 7:30 came in for considerable discussion, members of the club being urged not only to attend the circus but to give it their personal support in other ways.

2 MORE STILLS ARE TAKEN BY COUNTY FORCES

The section of the county south of Nimrod was the scene of renewed prohibition raids by two county officers yesterday when two stills and 1,200 gallons of mash were taken by Sheriff Virge Foster, Deputy Steele and Constable R. L. Wilson.

No arrests were made in connection with the raids but charges will be presented to the grand jury for action during the present session.

One still was of 60-gallon capacity and the other of 110-gallon. They were of copper. Five cak barrels, two metal vats were taken. Each of the stills appeared to have been in operation for a considerable period.

AWAITS MORE ADVICE FROM WEST TEXAS

Says He Will Be Guided by Prevailing Opinion of People

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Governor Dan Moody at noon today announced that he will await additional advice from west Texas on the need of immediate state aid before deciding whether or not to convene the legislature for drought relief. "I will be guided by the prevailing opinion of the people there who are in position to judge the necessity," the governor said.

Prior to recent rains, he said, most of the communications he received urged a special session. Since rains, most have expressed the belief that prospects are so improved that the session will not be needed.

FARRISH AWAITS ANSWER

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—State Senator Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock was here this morning waiting for Governor Dan Moody's answer to his request for a special session of the legislature to relieve drought suffering.

"Farmers are selling their chickens and their milk cows to tide them over," Parrish said "they need immediate aid so they can raise something to give them a basis of credit next year."

Thirty counties should be aided, he said. Parrish proposes that the state lend the counties money as was done in 1918 but with additional safeguards. He would not permit the counties to relend the funds directly but require them to buy the feed and seed needed and distribute it instead of cash. "No one can buy gasoline with it then," said Parrish.

The cost of a special session has been greatly overestimated, the west Texas senator said. He thinks it need not cost more than $20,000. It need last but a few days, he said, and will not require a large force of employees like a regular session.

LONG NAMES SECRETARY AS DEPT. HEAD

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 9.—Miss Alice Lee Grosjean, Gov. Huey P. Long's young and pretty private secretary, presided over the department of state today as Louisiana's first woman to hold that position.

Miss Grosjean's elevation to an office in his cabinet was announced by the governor yesterday. A few hours after the death of James J. Bailey, who was serving his fourth term, Bailey's death after a week's illness of pneumonia, was unexpected.

The new secretary is an attractive brunette 24 years old. She entered the governor's service when she was eighteen, two years later she divorced her husband, James Terrell of El Dorado, Ark. During the recent senatorial campaign which resulted in Long's nomination Terrell threatened to sue the governor for alienation of Miss Grosjean's affections, but the suit was never filed.

The young governor's meteoric political career has been a succession of startling incidents but probably no act of his caused as much surprise as his appointment of Miss Grosjean. The governor said, however, that he was following precedent.

"I feel that Miss Grosjean is competent to fill the office," Long said. He added that she had the endorsement of political leaders.

Miss Grosjean is a member of a prominent Louisiana family, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Grosjean of Shreveport. She has been Long's adviser in his political campaigns, and helped him direct his recent fight for the senatorial nomination.

Long has been a stormy figure in state politics ever since he first ran for public service commissioner. His tenure as governor has been marked by bitter political feuds and efforts to have him impeached.

MOTHER LEAVES CHILDREN AND FACES DEATH

Says Farewell Hard, But Recovery Easy Due to Crazy Water

In May, 1929, I was critically ill with Rheumatism; in fact, I was an invalid and had to be helped around. My husband decided to bring me to Mineral Wells, as it looked as if there was no hope for me if I remained at home. But I had no confidence in Mineral Wells; in fact, I did not believe that anything or any place would relieve my suffering.

You can imagine how I felt when I told my children "Good-bye" when I did not expect to see them again.

I arrived in Mineral Wells on May 10th, last year, and in one week of the Crazy Water Treatment, I was able to walk, and thirty days from the time I arrived I was well again, only a little weak.

I heartily recommend to everyone suffering from diseases caused by faulty elimination that they spend a few days rest at the Crazy Water Hotel in Mineral Wells, Texas, the home of Crazy water.

Baby Lindbergh to Choose Own Career

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., will choose his own career when he comes of age, according to an interview with his father in the November issue of the Pictorial Review.

Col. Lindbergh laughed when the interviewer asked him about his present plans for his son's future.

"Our son has hardly reached the age to have his future determined for him," the Colonel was quoted as saying, "and in any case, it is a question he can best decide for himself when the time comes."

Col. Lindbergh revealed that he and Mrs. Lindbergh plan to visit Mexico and South America again soon on an extended tour.

"Both Mrs. Lindbergh and I have a great affection for Mexico for many reasons," he is quoted as saying.

Lubitsch-Kraly Encounter Closed

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—The widely heralded Ernst Lubitsch-Hans Kraly fistic encounter was closed today when the film director fired a parting shot at Kraly and Mrs. Helen Lubitsch, his divorced wife, as he prepared to leave for New York.

"They can have Hollywood all to themselves," Lubitsch said. "All I want is peace and I hope I find it in New York. I like Hollywood and I hope to come back in six months or a year, but in the meantime I hope they have a good time."

The director struck Kraly on the crowded dance floor of the Embassy club here at benefit party sponsored by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks.

Ambassador to Russia, last night was named queen of love and beauty at the 52nd annual ball of the veiled prophet, an unknown "Sovereign" who holds his "court" here once yearly.

Perryton.—Second annual North Plains Poultry show will be held December 5-8.

PONIES SNAP INTO WORK FOR AUSTIN GAME

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—Under clouded skies and on a rain soaked gridiron, the travel-worn and battle-scarred Southern Methodist University Mustangs began their preparation for the Austin college game here Friday.

The workout was spirited even though three of the star regulars were missing from the line-up with injuries received in the Notre Dame game last Saturday. S. M. U.'s brilliant half back, Speedy Mason, and Malcolm Powell, the Ponies regular center both have their knees in casts and are sure to be out of the line-up for three weeks.

Neely's injured ankle is not serious but is likely to bother him for a week or two. With the exception of these men the entire squad is in great shape with only a few bumps and minor injuries to help them remember the great battle that they displayed against the Irish last Saturday.

The players as a whole are quite disappointed in the outcome of the Notre Dame tussle but their spirit is not broken. They are already talking of the conference race, believing that every team in the conference are waiting to bounce them. The Ponies will point to every game.

The game with the Kangaroos Friday is not being taken too lightly in the Pony camp. Ray Morrison fully realizes that the boys are due for a let down and he is pushing his men hard, letting them understand that the Kangaroos is no slouch outfit. Three weeks ago the T. C. U. Horned Frogs got a taste of the Sherman crew's power and were glad when the final whistle blew to save their narrow margin. The Mustang mentor will send his regulars into the game taking no chance for a slip-up.

Bob Gilbert, the regular quarterback will take the helm again after two weeks nursing a bad shoulder. That will throw Kattman back to his old position at half and Sprague will replace the injured Mason at the other half, leaving Hopper at full. The new guards will more than likely be used in the line. Riley and Neely were both injured in the Notre Dame game and the Pony coach will not give them much chance to re-hurt the old injuries with the conference race only a week off.

Burleson and Tarrance will likely be the men at guards. Skeeters and Butler will be at tackle. Butler will be captain for the day and will play most of the game if it is sure. Tate will be ready to replace either Skeeters or Butler if either retires. At ends will be Long and Koonz, both of whom starred against the Irish and came out with hardly a scratch.

Coach Griggs boasts of a veteran eleven at Austin college this year and will be plenty of trouble to an opposition. In Henderson at half back, Griggs has a back who can carry the mail with plenty of drive. Lillis and Flewharty are veterans and able aids to Captain Henderson in the backfield, while co-captain Kelleher is a classy pass receiver.

This game is scheduled to be played at 3:30 Friday afternoon at the S. M. U. stadium.

South Bend.—Beautiful new school building formally dedicated.

OVER-CONSUMPTION BLAMED FOR PRESENT COTTON CRISIS

By J. S. YEAGE R

It is a very serious question that quite a number of promoters over the state are advancing for a special call of the legislature for the purpose of forcing cotton farmers to cut their production for the year of 1931.

It is a very serious question that should be thoroughly understood and studied well before any such a move should be undertaken. It is to me that it is not so much a question of overproduction, as underconsumption judging by figures I have in my possession. There is no buying power in the stock and market of last year, and the market of this year has been below the cost of production and this has thrown so many out of employment. There are more than 300,000 people out of employment at the present time and the best estimates available. These have no buying power, as they have no funds to purchase the necessities of life, such as food, clothing, and shelter.

The cotton industry of the south is all that we have to furnish employment for the people, as we do not have many manufacturing enterprises that would furnish as most of them are located in the northern states. Now, to a law that would limit the cotton acreage to about one-half of what we have been planting would reduce the number of people out of employment and it seems this would tend to aggravate the conditions that we now have, as thousands of others would be thrown out of work who are now employed in the cotton industry. If the government were to discontinue to try to help the situation by building roads, public buildings, and other utilities that would furnish labor for the masses, to more uses for cotton goods and to bring back the foreign trade that we have lost in the last few years—a loss of about 50 per cent in the last three years.

Want Give Relief

The following figures will show the reduction in acreage will not be the relief sought, as we will see for example the year of 1920, the world produced 20,100,000 bales of cotton and we had world consumption, for the same year, of 17,906,000 with a carry over of 11,185,000 bales and the low for that year was 10,000 bales, the high point and ten years ago.

In 1921 the world produced 15,400,000 bales with a consumption of 19,846,000 bales and a carry over of 9,823,000 bales, the low that year being 20,350 bales, the high 31,300. In 1922 the world produced 19,700,000 bales with a consumption of 20,631,000 with a carry over of 7,772,000 bales, the low for that season were 23,500 with high 27.65. In 1924 produced 24,800,000 bales, consumed 23,847,000, with a carry over of 6,791,000 bales, the low at 22.15 for low and high. In 1925 we produced 27,900,000 bales with a consumption of 25,364,000 bales and a carry over of 7,774,000 bales, high low being 17.85 for low and high. In 1926 the production was 28,180,000 bales with a consumption for the same period 26,040,000 bales with a carry over 10,280,000 bales, the high and low being 12.15 for low and 19.20 for high.

In 1927 we produced 23,828,000 bales with consumption of 26,012,000 bales and a carry over of 12,000 bales, the high and low for season being 17.00 low and a high of 23.90. In 1928 we produced 23,000 bales and a consumption of 26,308,000 bales with a carry over of 10,336,000 bales, the high for the season, 17.65 for low and high of 21.65. In 1929 the world produced 23,852,000 bales and consumption for the period of 23,000 bales with a carry over of 4,000 bales with an estimated price of about 17.00 for the season. It is not to be observed from the above figures that the consumption has increased far more than the production, as we had in 1920 a carry over of 11,185,000 bales and August first of this year it has been reduced to 9,994,000 bales, or in 1921, 1,191,000 bales less than in 1920, notwithstanding the big crop of 18,000,000 bales of American cotton in 1926. Judging by the above figures, it seems there is no need for a law to curtail the cotton production so long as we are producing more than we are consuming.

Carry Overs Compared

It will also be noted from the above figures that in the year 1921 we had a carry over of 14,269,000 bales and the low for that season was 12.80 and the high was 23.75, and this year with a carry over of 9,994,000 bales, or more than 4,000,000 bales less than in 1921. The low for December this season is 10.25 which is 250 points lower than at that time and it now seems the market will go lower. The figures also reveal the fact that in 1929 we produced 26,900,000 bales against an estimated production of 25,750,000 bales for 1929. In other words the production has increased 22 per cent to the period, while the consumption for 1929 was 17,906,000 bales with an estimated consumption for 1930 of 23,209,000 bales, or 41 per cent for the period. With no buying power in the United States since the crash in the stock market in 1929 it seems that these figures are conclusive that it is not over production but under consumption that is causing the low prices for cotton this season and the want of buying power. The world that is taking the American cotton that is being grown and use it at a good price, provided the conditions improve so that the millions of people that are idle can be employed at living wages that will give them a buying power that is needed to stimulate business.

In 1926 the world consumed 26,308,000 bales and there are many more people to be clothed and will use cotton goods now than then, besides the automobile industry is using more and more cotton each year to carry on their business and this industry will continue to increase the use of cotton.

Lost Export Trade

There are many more reasons than too much cotton that has ruined the American farmer. We have lost our export trade and there is a reason for this. If the American farmer had heeded the advice given them by the Dallas News a few years ago in their campaign to grow more cotton on fewer acres they would not likely be in the predicament they are in today. The farmer is not altogether to blame, as the local buyer comes in for his share also as he will get out and tell the farmer to buy high priced staple planting seed, then in the fall when the cotton begins to move the first farmer that comes along with half-and-half cotton he will pay him just as much for that as he will his neighbor for a bale of 7-8 to 13-16 cotton and this discourages the farmer who purchased the good seed and he goes away out of humor and says there is nothing to this seed business any way. So the next year he plants more short cotton and instead of reducing the supply we have more short cotton each year and now we have more than 4,000,000 bales of untenderable cotton that is counted in the carry over each year. According to the United States government report we had 24.6 per cent of all American cotton which was less than 7-8 staple which is untenderable on contracts, the largest amount on record for any year. The exports of American cotton in 1926 was 10,926,000 bales and in 1929 a little less than 7,000,000 bales, or a falling off of more than 3,900,000 bales, or a fraction of more than 30 per cent in three years. The world's consumption of American cotton during 1926 was 15,770,000 bales while that of foreign cotton for the same period was only 9,756,000 bales. In 1929 the consumption of American cotton had been reduced to 13,800,000 bales while that of foreign cotton had increased to 11,000,000 bales. The trade on foreign cotton had gained about the same amount that we had lost on American cotton. We have lost the sale of about 2,000,000 bales and should foreign buyers have to come into the American market and purchase this 2,000,000 bales that we lost in 1929 within the next thirty days we would see a bull market such as we have not seen since the days of Daniel Sully in 1905 when he cornered the cotton market and put the price up about ten cents a pound in a very short time, but our foreign trade, or a large part of it, is gone and unless the American farmer will grow a better grade of cotton the foreign buyers will not return, so he can buy short cotton cheaper elsewhere than in America, hence it is just business for him to purchase his supplies where he can get what he wants for the least money.

Concerted Effort

There should be a concerted effort among the farmers and gun men and all other business men who are interested in the cotton industry in any way, to encourage the farmer to plant good seed for the year of 1931 and to grow more cotton and better cotton on fewer acres. The farmers should band themselves together to see that the men who grows staple cotton should have what his cotton is really worth and not permit some local buyer to come along and pay a hog round price for all he buys and should see to it that the man who tries to buy cotton in this manner would have to leave town to get any business. This kind of buying is being done in various places this season. I have seen buyers give the man who raises half-and-half cotton just as much as he would the man who grows staple of 7-8 or better when in the market there is a difference of 200 points or better, in the value, and do not believe the man who buys the cotton at a hog round price does not put that difference in his pocket because there is where he makes his money. He will pay the man with the half-and-half for example, eight cents when his cotton is really worth seven and a half and the next man who comes along with a bale of 7-8 will receive eight cents when his cotton is really worth nine cents. Therefore the man with the short cotton gets five dollars per bale more than he is entitled to, while the man with the staple cotton loses five dollars—a condition that is unjust and will get worse until the farmers who grow the staple cotton demand that they receive the value of their cotton. In my judgment we need no legislation, as with a proper effort of the farmer to grow better cotton and with employment to the idle, there will be a buying power everything will adjust its self in time just it always has.

Getting out my beaters too early?

YOU HAVEN'T heard about my famous 'Alaskan' bridge party? I thought everyone knew about it by now. It happened about this time last fall. The weather seemed ideal. I worked like a Trojan and resolved never to attempt such a large party again. Along about ten o'clock that morning I thought it was getting chilly but I was so busy that I didn't notice it much. At two o'clock I began to worry because it was decidedly cooler, and by four it was so cold everyone was playing in their wraps. I was simply frantic . . . every heater I had was stored away . . . anyhow, it was too late to get them out. You can't imagine how embarrassed I was, because practically every friend I have was there. It cured me though . . . the weather will never trick me again!"

Now is the time to get out your gas heaters to avoid any uncomfortable periods and perhaps embarrassing situations. Weather statistics show that during the fall in this section of the country we always have unexpected cold snaps blow up with but a moment's notice. Drop in at your local gas company or gas appliance dealer and inspect the latest model heaters they have on display. There is a gas heater, especially designed, for every room of your home. You will enjoy their new beauty and be glad to learn of their increased efficiency.

Determined Squad of Spur Bulldogs Coming to Cisco

GAME WILL BE PLAYED SATURDAY

Visitors Are Confident They Will Give the Lobos Trouble

By JEPHIA CRAIG
Dickens County Times

SPUR, Oct. 9.—Determined and only slightly hopeful of victory the Spur Bulldogs will go to Cisco Saturday for their first night game and second class A contest of this season. Leaving by 19 to 14 to Pampa the first week in September, the Spur team is more confident entering this game than they were over a month ago at Pampa.

Coach Taylor will probably start Captain Bruce Pickett, Jim Hahn and Joe Hahn and Adrian Rickles, four of the football backs in what Taylor calls a "tactical" position. Pickett, 193, is a powerful punter, plays fullback and quarterback and runs the offense under 11 seconds. Joe Hahn, 175 pounds, is playing his first year but is power to be reckoned with on offense. Jim Hahn, 170, class B, carried a half last year. In his second season and is a far better all round player than he was last year. Rickles, veteran quarter and half is light but is a terror on both offense and defense.

At ends, Barrett, Dodge and Ross are action. Barrett is a veteran and is one of the best high school ends in Texas, weight 184. Gene McCormick, 173, will probably start at center. At guard, Buster Morgan, 150, light but fast and full of fight will be one side and probably Stephens, a first year man, 173 pounds will start. As tackle, Emmert, 150, who carries misery to the Pampa linemen, and Ragsdale, 190 veteran of last year, will form a combination that will be well known by the Cisco backs before the game is over.

Spur has almost two full teams of reserves that can be depended upon in case of necessity.

It is estimated that over 100 fans from here will see the game and lead their aid to the Bulldogs.

BIG DAM CHATTER

The outstanding conference game in the oil belt district this week will take place at Ranger Saturday afternoon when the Ranger Bulldogs confront the always dangerous San Angelo Bobcats. And O, what a meeting that will be. It is a meeting of two teams of the bitterest rivalry but more than that it brings together those two worthies of the skirmish lines who have been valiantly sparring each other with Big Berthas or printers ink for the past two weeks.

As host and guest the mutual barrage of the scribes will cease while the young men of the Bulldog and Bobcat persuasion do battle on the turf. Boyce House advances against the Bulldogs, and Honey Cross who serves in the same capacity for the Bobcats, have provided the rest.

of the district with plenty of entertainment in their stivings for psychological effects and we shall see next Saturday what the results of their on-game efforts will be.

Fastland and Senevater will play Friday afternoon at Eastland, Breckenridge and Big Spring play at Big Spring, and Ardmore goes to El Paso for a game with the El Paso Tigers Friday.

We are just in receipt of an article on the Spur team from Jephia Craig, of the Dickens County Times, which is published in today's paper of the News. Craig gives the probable lineup of the Spur eleven as follows:—Barrett, 150; Dodge, 170; at Ross, 175.

Tackles—Emmert, 184, and Ragsdale, 190.
Guards—B. Morgan, 150, and Stephens, 170, center, McCormick, 170.
Full—Pickett (Capt.) 193, Hahn—Joe Hahn, 170, and Jim Hahn, 170.
Quarter—Rickles, 150.

If the Spur team is as smartly coached and as seasoned as its record for the season and last season, we opine that the Lobos are not going to have any "game" going through that bunch. The line is likely enough to make it a variable some way, and the backfield equally heavy has not only power but exceptional speed. There are ten 10-second men in the secondary and they are heavy enough to make speed count in offensive drives.

The game is Saturday night and you may be assured that it will be worth its price of admission.

We now turn to statements from our esteemed contemporary in re the Cisco Lobos. So says Boyce House:

Cisco has come in for copious comment since the 71-0 victory over Brownwood. And I think that was Coach Chapman's intent in rolling up such a staggering score. His team was being generally picked as the most likely to win the district anyway, therefore other teams would be more or less on their guard when they met the Lobos. So why not strike terror to the hearts of the opposition? Why not chill them with dread? Why not beat them in advance? Hence the slaughter of Brownwood. And other things. It has been a long time since Cisco has won the district championship. Perhaps there was the further intention of giving the Lobos an abundance of confidence for the clashes with Breckenridge last year's state champions; Ahilene, who has beaten Cisco the last three years, and Ranger, who has conquered the Lobos four out of their last five meetings.

Without seeking to detract any rightful glory from Cisco's crushing conquest of the Lions, had you ever stopped to think that, under the lights, the ball—especially for such tricky plays as the Lobos use—is harder to keep up with than in daytime, also that the Cubs team was meeting a club that had already been 5-0 and therefore was out of the race; also that the Brownwood team was more or less crippled as the result of the previous game with Ranger; also that the Cisco first stringers were in action almost all of the game? Then consider, on the other hand, that Ranger played Brownwood 5-0 and the Lions were still undisciplined and were in good condition and that the Bulldogs won 32 to 0, with a full team of reserves playing the entire last quarter. And also that Cisco, in achieving its 71-sided victory, took the air wherever Ranger, if it has a passing attack, did not answer it, only one pass being tried. But, anyway, we must all admit Cisco has a great team.

But we needn't worry about Cisco. The Bulldogs don't play the Big Dam team until Nov. 11.

SIMMONS TO OPEN OFFICIAL SEASON FRIDAY

ABILENE, Oct. 9.—With a well earned tie with the T. C. U. Horned Frogs hanging from their belts, the Simmons University Cowboys are preparing to blow the lid off the Texas conference football race as practice opens this week. They will meet the strong St. Edwards Saints here Friday night in the first conference game for the season and other schools will be watching closely to see what team gets a head start in the 1930 race for conference honors.

Cold rain drove the Cowboys indoors for Monday's workout and Coach Cranfill worked his men hard on some new offensive tactics. The whole afternoon was spent in studying assignments. Cranfill is a strong believer in dummy scrimmage and he gave his men plenty of it Monday afternoon on the indoor basketball court.

The T. C. U. battle left the players all in good shape except Ribble and Sanders who sustained minor injuries. They will be all right before the St. Edwards game. In fact, Marshall, fullback, and Clark, half will be in better shape, barring mishaps this week, than they were for the Horned Frog tilt.

The Cowboys coaches do not consider the 0-0 tie with T. C. U. a "moral victory." Rather they consider, that under the circumstances, Simmons should have won the game, but they are not wasting any time worrying over the fact that a 15 yard penalty halted their drive on the T. C. U. 4 yard line.

COUNTY GAINS TWO FARMS
MONTROSE.—The 1930 census listed only two farms for San Juan county. At the last census it was the only county in Colorado which had no agricultural tracts.

FUTURE OF MACK'S TEAM IS PONDERED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The world series is over and the Philadelphia Athletics have retained their world championship against the challenge of the St. Louis Cardinals, but baseball fans here pondered today over the future of Connie Mack's team.

Even while winning, the world champions showed weak spots which are quite likely to become more pronounced over another long season's grind.

With George Earnshaw and Lefty Grove in the prime of their pitching career, and Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx and Mickey Cochrane showing no signs of slowing up, Connie Mack has the nucleus for another great team for 1931.

Replacements, however, must be found to round out the Athletics next season. Bing Miller, veteran right fielder, is nearing the end of his career, and George (Mule) Haas seems to have lost his batting punch, although still a ball-hawk in the outfield.

Max Bishop and Joe Boley played steady baseball around the keystone sack in the world series, but both are slowing up.

Bishop still is one of the best head-off men in baseball because of his keen batting eye, and his ability to get walks.

The A's outfield reserves are not so promising. Homer Summa, veteran who formerly played with Cleveland, was recalled from the Pacific coast league late in the season and Jim Moore, the Dallas, Texas league rookie, doesn't seem to measure up to major league standards.

MARSHALL, Oct. 9.—College of Marshall Tigers were to leave today for Lafayette, La., for a Saturday clash with the southern college crew. The Tiger machine

FORT WORTH, Oct. 9.—Fans attending the dedication of the new T. C. U. bowl here Saturday need not be surprised to find both the Razorback and Horned Frog elevens firing the same type of plays at each other as the dust settled after the first kick-off.

Despite rumors that Coach Bill Thomsen has some trump cards up his sleeve to show the southwest conference, both Thomsen and Coach Francis Schmidt belong to the same school of trainers. When Schmidt was mentor of the Arkansas, Thomsen was his assistant.

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—"Nig" McCarver, the Cy Leland of the T. I. A. A. was the main study of the Texas Longhorns today as they prepared for the invasion of the Yellow Jackets from Howard Payne

In training to stop the brilliant runs of McCarver, the Steers are also preparing for November 15, when they encounter a bigger threat in the person of Cy himself.

Another reason for anxiety among Longhorn fans is the doubt as to how Howie and Wining will handle the center job.

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 9.—The Tulane Greenies will possess a decided weight advantage over the maroon and white eleven of Texas A. & M. in the opening day feature of the State Fair of Texas in Dallas Saturday, probable time at 170 pounds per man, the Tulane forward wall averages 195 pounds against A. & M.'s 189 average. With the exception of Byron McGrill, veteran tackle who received a heavy wrist in the Nebraska tilt, the Aggie line-up is expected to be the same that faced the Cornhuskers. Oran Dawson, 220-pound tackle, will take McGrill's place.

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—Scrimmage sessions on the Mustang gridiron Wednesday afternoon sent Porter, young end, to the sidelines to join Weidon Mason, star halfback, and Malcolm Powell, center. Mason and Powell may be out of the fray for two more weeks with torn knee ligaments.

The Austin college eleven is rated "tough" but despite the competition Coach Ray Morrison expects Thursday afternoon from the Kangaroos he intends to keep some of his first stringers on the sidelines, rather than bruise up his best shots for the Baylor battle the following weekend. The Bear scrap is to be fought in Waco.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 9.—Arlington Dornis was inspected Wednesday by A. E. Flowers, Dallas, secretary of the Texas Jockey club. Improvements are being made for the second annual racing event November 1 to 11. Additional stables will accommodate 400 horses.

MARSHALL, Oct. 9.—College of Marshall Tigers were to leave today for Lafayette, La., for a Saturday clash with the southern college crew. The Tiger machine is badly crippled through injuries to four important cogs: Howard, Hess, Dean and Wimberly.

On Friday the Marshall Mavericks hurl themselves against the powerful Zebras of Pine Bluff, Ark., who have several times run away with the Arkansas state championship.

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—Miss Hilda Urbankie, Austin, turned in a brilliant 86 Wednesday afternoon to lead the opening day's play in the Dallas Woman's Golf association's first annual invitation medal play tourney. She completed each nine in 43.

Two strokes in the rear was Mrs. C. C. Cary, Dallas, present state title holder. Mrs. Dan Chandler, Brook Hollow, and Mrs. Clyde Anthony of Palestine, Texas, shared third place honors. Mrs. Anthony won low net honors when she carried a 79 with a twelve-stroke handicap.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 9.—Netmen of Texas Christian university meet the tennis teams of Southern Methodist university here this afternoon. Conference tennis schedules do not begin until next spring. Today's contests are comparable to spring football sessions in that sport.

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—Prizes will be awarded to winners in the Texas Kennel Club Dog Show from the United Chihuahua to the largest German shepherd, Richard Bartholomew, movie star, is awarding a loving cup for the best Chihuahua. The show will be held Oct. 17 to 19. Entry lists close Friday Oct. 10.

Notre Dame Stars Are Nursing Injuries
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 9.—Larry Mullins, varsity fullback, and Dick Donoghue, tackle, will be kept out of Notre Dame's battle with Navy Saturday. Coach Rockne announced today. Both stars are nursing injuries and with reserve fullback Svaold and Kurth, a newcomer to the tackle berth, showing good form, Rockne plans to take no chances on injury to the regulars further.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Adventure enters the life of Celia Mitchell, 17, when she learns her father she has supposed dead and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, John Mitchell, and her Marguerite grandmother.

Margaret Rogers, her mother, divorced Mitchell and remarried and is now a widow. Barney Shields, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl and fore leaving Baltimore. Celia promised to be loyal to her father. She is lonely in her new home. Mitchell asks Evelyn Parsons, a beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections and agrees to invite the girl to her home. She is lonely in her new home. Mitchell asks Evelyn Parsons, a beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections and agrees to invite the girl to her home.

as the ones you knew in Baltimore?"
"Oh, there weren't any — I mean."
"No young men in Baltimore? Nonsense. You know you can trust me, Celia. Who's the one lad in your heart?"
"There isn't—that is, we—"
"What's his name?"
Celia forgot her caution.
"There is someone," she said shyly. "I mean there's a boy I like awfully well. He's—well, he doesn't earn very much yet, but he's going to some day. He's a newspaper photographer, and he does the most exciting things. Of course we aren't really engaged, but he says some day he's going to marry me. You'd like him, too, Mrs. Parsons. I know you would! He's tall and slim, and he has the most wonderful eyes. They're gray, Barney's his name."
"Barney," Mrs. Parsons repeated. "Is that all?"
"Barney Shields. Don't you think it's a pretty name? I do. And oh, Barney's always been terribly nice to me."
There was a far-away look in Celia Mitchell's eyes. She was thinking how tender and gentle Barney Shields' voice could be. She could see his gray eyes looking at her. Celia forgot about Mrs. Parsons. She did not see the hard, lightning line about the older woman's mouth.

"Did your mother approve of this engagement?" Evelyn asked.
"But we really aren't engaged! We couldn't be. You see, Barney said it wouldn't be right because he hasn't enough money, and he didn't want me to give up coming to New York and everything. Of course mother likes him, but she doesn't know he said anything to me about getting married. I thought it would only worry her."
"But do you care for him, a lot?"
Celia nodded her head. It was comforting to have someone to whom she could talk in this confidential way. Mrs. Parsons seemed so understanding.

"I suppose," Evelyn went on carefully, "you miss your mother a great deal?"
The girl's face sobered.
"Lots," she agreed.
"Does she ever come to New York?"
"Oh, no. She couldn't do that. You see, mother works. She does sewing for Marrot's shop. It's a very nice place, she's worked there for years and years."
Mrs. Parsons' brows raised expressively.

"Tonight," Celia went on impulsively, "my father said something awfully nice. He said I reminded him of mother when she was a girl. Wasn't that sweet?"
With the light behind Evelyn Parsons' head and her face in shadows the girl could not see the angry flare which crossed the woman's face. Celia would have been amazed if she could have caught the cruel glint in Evelyn's blue eyes.

A moment passed. Then Mrs. Parsons said, rising, "That was charming. But it is dreadful of me to keep you awake like this. Forgive me. I'll slip along, and in the morning we can talk to your heart's content. Good night, dear Celia."
"Goodnight."

Mrs. Parsons closed the door behind her. Celia extinguished the bed lamp and in 10 minutes she was asleep again.

In the morning they had breakfast at a table set on the shady end of the porch. It was a glorious day, cool but bright with sunshine. There was a bird bath at the left and throughout the meal a chorus of tiny songsters kept up a cheerful serenade.

Celia could scarcely finish her muffins for constantly praising Larchwood. She was looking cool and dainty herself in her sleeveless white frock. Mrs. Parsons, pouring the coffee, seemed pleased at Celia's enthusiasm. There was no sign this morning of the angry hours the widow had spent the night before.

"And what would you like to do this morning?" she asked Celia.
The girl said she would like very much just to follow the gardener around and ask questions and, if it would be all right, to dig in the ground here and there and pretend she was really helping the flowers to grow.

Mrs. Parsons laughed. "If Ben is willing and will let you where you want, and where not to, I guess you can garden to your heart's content," she said. Ben was the gray-haired gardener who had taken care of the grounds around Larchwood for 20 years. He was taciturn when Celia found him climbing a hedge of spirea bushes. When Ben found she was a willing listener to his tales of prize roses and chrysanthemums which he had raised, the morning sped along and they became close friends. The gardener sent her back to the house bearing one of his choice blue roses.

In the afternoon Celia wrote a letter to Barney Shields and another to her mother. She told both of them about the week-end visit, adding to her mother her love, several chapters of the new novel, now going, and in neither letter, however, did she write anything about Tod Jordan. She had begun to wonder if she could have been mistaken about seeing him with Mrs. Brooks.

They drove to the country club for dinner. Mrs. Parsons seemed to have a great many acquaintances, and she introduced Celia to everyone. After dinner there was dancing, and Celia found that apparently it made no difference with most of these young people that they had never seen her before. Evelyn played bridge and Celia had plenty of dancing partners. A large part of the evening she spent with a good-natured youth whose first name was "Red," and who seemed to have no other friends.

They were dancing when Mrs. Parsons came to say it was time to drive home.

"Oh, Mrs. Parsons," the girl said as the car sped over the winding road, "I'm so glad you asked me to stay! Today has been wonderful!"

Evelyn acknowledged this with a smile. "We must plan more wonderful days," she said.

There was excitement from the minute Celia appeared at the breakfast table next morning.

"Surprise!" Mrs. Parsons greeted her. "Lisi just telephoned. She's having a swimming party this afternoon, and you're invited. I've already accepted the invitation for you. Of course you want to go! Kate and Walter Carr are going to stop for you at 2 o'clock."

Yes, Celia wanted to go. She ran upstairs as soon as breakfast was finished and packed her swimming things. She had a great green beach case large enough to hold her jersey suit and cap and the little Japanese clogs for her feet.

After that she did a good deal of fretting until two o'clock arrived, and down the driveway she saw the brilliant blue roadster Walter Carr drove. Celia was waiting when the car stopped. Amid gay cries she climbed into the rumble seat and the roadster whisked away.

It was nearly an hour's drive to the beach. The place was a boat and swimming club, which seemed to be the favorite resort of the young people in Lisi Duncan's crowd. There was a large white club house with broad verandas, best houses and smaller buildings and, stretching as far as the eye could see to right and left, a beach of clear, gleaming sand.

Beyond was Long Island Sound. The dark green, rolling water plumed and splashed and broke in foam-topped waves.

Lisi was waiting to greet them. "Hurray!" she cried, "Hurry up and get dressed! Everybody else is here."

Celia followed Kate to the dressing rooms. There were a dozen girls there getting into bathing attire. Most of them were browned by sun. There was much joking and laughing. In less than five minutes Celia had pulled on her one-piece suit and tied a gay orange bandanna about her head. Then she stepped into the clogs and ran after Kate Duncan out onto the beach.

No one thought of introductions. There were young men waiting down on the shore. Some of them were already in the water.

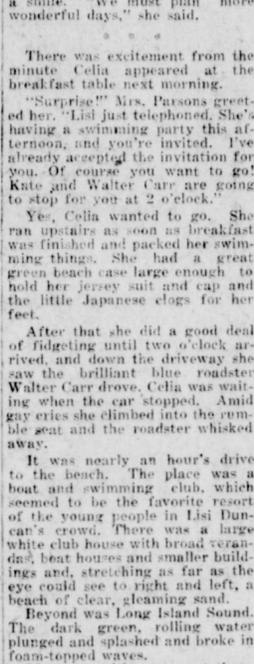

"Hello, there!"
She was facing Tod Jordan. Evidently he had just come from a dip.

"How do you do?" said Celia. Then she turned and, with a running dive, plunged into the water. She began swimming rapidly with easy strokes.

Jordan walked away. He turned as a sharp cry cut the air.

A Simple Cure for Tired Husbands

"I'd love to come over some evening, Ann, but when Fred gets home at night he's so all in and irritable that I don't know what to do—and that's not his nature at all. I'm getting worried about him."

"I know how you feel, my dear, and I think I know something that will help. My husband used to be the same way. Then I noticed he could hardly wait to get his shoes off, and that gave me an idea. I had read and heard about Herron's fitting shoes so wonderfully that I persuaded him to try them. The result is absolutely marvelous!"

BANKER TERMS AMENDMENTS FORWARD STEP

DALLAS, Oct. 9. — The proposed Constitutional Amendments, to be submitted at the November election, providing for an improved legislative procedure, and adjusting the salary and mileage of the legislators, were termed a forward step by Fred F. Florence, noted Dallas banker, Monday.

"It is no longer possible to dispense of the State's legislative business satisfactorily in the 60-day period of time allotted thereto by the constitution of 1876," Mr. Florence said. "The remarkable growth that has occurred in this state has brought with it complicated and pressing problems that demand mature consideration by the legislature. Under our present plan, these intricate problems are necessarily hurriedly considered. This frequently results in poorly constructed legislation, or in failure to take any action to correct conditions. No legislature, in my memory has confined itself to the 60-day session. There have been regular one or more called sessions of each legislature for many years past. The proposed plan, calling it to do for a 30-day period to be given over to the introduction of the measures, and a 30-day period in which committee hearings will be held, and a final period devoted to the discussion and passage of the measure proposed, should produce more wholesome legislation. It would seem that this plan would obviate the necessity for special sessions, an end that is much to be desired.

"I believe that there will be an actual reduction in the number of legislative days, if these measures carry. I am informed that the legislature has been in session on an average of 137 days per term during the past fourteen years. Much of this time, was taken up in organization incident to the extra sessions. The proposed 120 day term will really provide the legislature with more working time, and, at the same time, reduce the average length of the legislative session.

"The need to increase the salaries of the legislators to $10 per day during the regular session, is obvious, and of course the proposal to reduce the allowance for mileage from the 20 cents per mile allotted during the horse-and buggy days, is an appropriate one," Mr. Florence said.

Mr. Florence has just returned from an extended business trip to the north and east, during which he attended the convention of the American Bankers Association at Cleveland, Conditions in Texas, he said, are comparatively better than they are in other sections of the country.

SOLONS FACE IMPORTANT LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — Important legislation, both new and belated, awaits the short session of the seventy-first congress which will convene in less than two months.

The record breaking drought, the London naval treaty, unprecedentedly low prices of cotton and grain, the senate's investigation of campaign expenditures, census statistics, and charges of manipulation of prices on the Chicago board of trade by Soviet agents and others, have created new demands for legislation.

In addition, the short session will face the old Muscle Shoals problem, prohibition legislation, proposals for regulating inter-state bus traffic and railroad consolidation legislation, all of which have perplexed former sessions.

Tax problems probably will provide one of the major issues for the December session. The administration has indicated it will seek to continue the $160,000,000 tax reduction voted in the last session for one year only, because of the depression. President Hoover also in his Cleveland speech suggested investigation of the tax on capital gains.

One of the first problems of the short session will be to provide relief for farmers left penniless and without credit by the drought.

The senate campaign expenditures committee will submit its report on the first day of the short session, and Chairman Gerald P. Nye has announced he will seek new legislation to curb excessive campaign expenditures.

Famous Specialist on Meat Cuts to Hold Demonstrations During Fair

D. W. Hartzell, beef specialist of the National Livestock and Meat Board, with headquarters in Chicago, will conduct demonstrations of meat cutting in Dallas during Beef Cattle Week at the State Fair of Texas, it was announced here by Frank P. Holland, president of the Texas Breeder-Feeder association, under whose auspices the annual State Fair Feeder Show and Auction Sale is being held.

A number of demonstrations of butchering to the best advantage will be conducted here by Mr. Hartzell.

He will conduct demonstrations on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of Beef Cattle Week, and among these demonstrations will be those held for chefs, business men, retail butchers, housewives, home economic students, and the public in general.

Arrangements for the demonstrations are now being worked out.

R. L. Marquis has been named chairman of arrangements for the demonstrations by President Holland. At a preliminary meeting held here recently, it was decided to hold some of the demonstrations downtown, some in the schools of Dallas and at least two at the State Fair. The two to be held on the fair grounds will be held probably on Tuesday and Friday of Beef Cattle Week, which will run from October 11 to 26.

The meat from which the various cuts will be made during the demonstrations will be furnished by the Armstrong Packing Co., of which Mr. Marquis is president.

The demonstration will include both beef and lamb cuts. In addition to the demonstrations there will be extensive displays of meats and the various cuts in a specially arranged exhibit in the Livestock and Dairy Products Building which is now under construction at the State Fair.

WILL HAND DRY PROBLEM TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — President Hoover's law enforcement commission plans to hand the prohibition problem to congress for solution, early in December.

Prohibition is dominating the autumn session of the commission, which began here yesterday. Chairman Wickerham revealed in a press conference he hoped to make a definite prohibition report shortly after congress convenes.

From an informed source, the United Press learned today this was considered likely to quiet the commission's congressional critics. The theory was advanced that as soon as responsibility for acting on a commission report were passed on to congress, the commission would be able to pass out of the prohibition picture to devote itself to call investigation of other crime problems.

At the initial fall meetings, the commission accepted the resignation of its former secretary, Max Lowenthal, wealthy New York lawyer, and named Wickerham's secretary, William F. Barry, his successor.

The issues underlying the break between Lowenthal and the commission still were withheld.

Hoover and Britisher Express Nations' Amity at Battle Scene

On the old battlefield at Kings Mountain, South Carolina, where American colonists routed British redcoats in the engagement that marked the turning point of the Revolutionary War, President Hoover, and an official representative of the British government expressed present-day Anglo-American peace and amity today. Mr. Hoover, shown above, was the principal speaker at a gigantic celebration marking the 150th anniversary of the historic battle while Ronald In Campbell (below), councillor of the British embassy at Washington, attended the British government's representative. The map shows the location.

FIVE-DOLLAR BILLS TO START CIRCLE OF PROSPERITY HERE

If you receive a five-dollar bill today or within the next few days with a slip of paper sewed onto it, put your name on the slip of the paper, and get rid of that bill by the quickest route you can. Then call the Daily News and tell the editorial department to whom you gave the bill.

You may not realize it, but that act will directly contribute to better times in Cisco. It is part of a plan to keep several five-dollar "William" in perpetual motion about Cisco for an indefinite length of time. The idea was adopted at a meeting of Cisco merchants yesterday afternoon in the chamber of commerce offices, when it was explained that several of these bills, say 10, travelling in an endless circle about the city would create an astonishing buying power, pay an unlimited number of bills and in short—start a buying and paying movement that will knock old man depression for a row.

Each one of these bills carried with it an obligation to keep it in motion. The amount of paying and buying it will do can be figured by multiplying the number of times it changes hands by five. If it changes hands 20 times in one day it will buy $100 worth of goods or pay $100 worth of bills. Ten such bills changing hands 20 times each day will buy $1,000 worth of goods or pay $1,000 in accounts.

The whole idea is based upon the cooperation of the citizens who want to see better times in Cisco. Some of the bills will fall into careless, unconcerned hands and will be lost to circulation right there but there are doubtless enough earnest people in Cisco who are eager to see their city get ahead and genuinely eager to help, to keep a large proportion of these busy bills circulating freely about the city. The value of the movement will do no good unless the bills are kept up with. They cannot be kept up with unless each person handling

Friday, October 10, has been officially declared Boy Scout day in Cisco by proclamation of Mayor J. M. Williamson. TRIUMPH OF CARBOHYDRATES OVER COD LIVER OIL PAINS DOCTORS IN SESSION AT KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9.—When carbohydrates triumphed over cod liver oil as stamina producing nutrient in a wrestling ring here, doctors attending the eighth annual conference of the Southwest Clinical Society lifted their eyebrows in surprise. Joe Bonomo, who boasted that he was raised on licorice sticks from his father's candy factory and thought all cases were made of candy until he was 21 years old, triumphed in two straight falls over Buck Olsen, who drank cod liver oil for breakfast, lunch and dinner in his native Sweden.

The good doctors were more than surprised—they were pained. After hours spent in dry and technical clinical sessions, the wrestling matches in convention hall last night constituted a sort of holiday for the visiting physicians.

The will made no explanation of why the Texas and Mississippi homes were selected for the donations.

Since rains, most have expressed the belief that prospects are so improved that the session will not be needed.

DAILY BIBLE READING

Exodus 2:3-5:10

- And when she could no longer hide him, she took for him an ark of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and she laid it in the flags by the river's brink.
- And his sister stood afar off, to wit what would be done to him.
- And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to wash herself at the river; and her maidens walked along by the river's side; and when she saw the little ark among the flags, she sent her maid to fetch it.
- And the child grew, and she brought it unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. And she called his name Moses; and she said, Because I drew him out of the water.

SPEND IT, QUICK!

A number of enterprising Ciscoans have started a five-dollar perpetual motion club. They held a meeting yesterday and declared that the only thing Cisco needs now to bring back a prosperous local condition is to start a buying movement. With this movement going strong merchants will be able to buy more goods and give more employment, business will pick up along all lines, accounts will be cleared up and activity will return to normal so that everybody will receive the benefit of the new prosperity, they declared.

Something is needed to initiate this buying movement so a number of them agreed to each start a five dollar bill on a spending trip. To get more of these bills started the group organized, named a chairman and appointed a committee to do some visiting among the rest of the merchants.

Each bill that is started out on its buying travels will have a strong slip of paper attached. Each person into whose hands the bill falls is obligated to spend it profitably, either in the payment of an account or the purchase of necessary goods, and to spend it immediately. The idea is to get rid of the bill at once, passing it on in an endless circle of profit. One bill may pay a dozen accounts in one day, buy a hundred dollars worth of goods. Indeed, the amount of work that one can do is amazing. Twenty or fifty such bills circulating continuously would create an astonishing improvement in local conditions.

Each person into whose hands one of these bills falls is expected to write his or her name upon the slip of paper attached and to call the Daily News informing the paper what each has done with the bill. In this way a check upon the work that the currency is doing will be kept and interest in its mission sustained. Obviously the value of the idea depends upon the interest which Ciscoans have in the prosperity of their town. The Daily News cannot keep a check upon the routes taken by these messengers of good unless those who handle them are willing to help the movement along to the extent of keeping the newspaper informed. Merely the names of those handling the bills will be used, what is purchased or what account is paid is immaterial and will not be published.

If you think anything of Cisco and the mutual prosperity of its citizens get behind this movement. If one of the bills falls into your hands, as it certainly will if the idea is carried out, get rid of it as if it were hot.

It will be interesting to learn about the circulation of a piece of money, anyway.

WRONG IDEALS.

Various and sundry ideas are being advanced now for the relief of distressed conditions in the cotton industry. From all sides we hear cries for a special session of the legislature to enact laws that will compel the farmer to help himself by cutting down his acreage. There are several things the matter with this proposal. First it is doubtful that a constitutional and acceptable measure can be shaped by 1940, considering the slow process of Texas legal machinery—indeed, it is doubtful that any measure of the character can be made constitutional under any circumstances. Second it is not fair to penalize Texas farmers, or to force them to relief measures when the good intended of the measures is eclipsed by an unlimited license in other cotton states.

J. E. Garrett, of the Texas Bank and Trust company, of Corpus Christi, suggests a typical banker remedy. He would so organize the banking industry that the farmer who refuses to cut down his acreage in accordance with the banker's idea would be denied credit. That might do some good but it fails to solve the faults found in the legislative suggestion. It is discriminatory in effect.

The trouble with the entire list of remedies suggested is that they are based upon conservative ideas. Conservatism has its place and is an essential part of the commercial structure. But what the agricultural industry needs now is a strong dose of genuine aggressiveness. It needs to spend more time upon its outlets and not so much upon its sources. It can't with any credit to itself be placed in the position of whittling down its statute. It must, if it is to continue the essential foundation of a free democracy, step to the forefront and elbow with the rest of the industries, provide itself with room for vigorous expansion. The same old rule that people cannot stand still, they must go backward or forward, applies to agriculture as certainly as to any other industry.

What cotton needs, what wheat needs, what the farmer as a whole needs, is leaders with vision who can organize the industry upon a foundation of aggressiveness. Agriculture must establish itself a power in the markets if it is to get ahead.

OTHER OPINIONS

RELIEFS federal drought relief conferences. If over a mountain labored and The captains of industry, the brought forth a mouse, it was the kings of finance and the dictators of the bureaucracy in Washington were summoned together in solemn convention; there was much serious talk; much cheering and tumult arose. And so what effect?

Farmer whose crops have dried up, whose cattle have died or been sold for want of food and water and whose granaries are empty were told by plenipotentiary conferees to see their local bankers.

That was the promise of relief held forth to men whose farms can not now support the encumbrances upon them and who know better than anyone else that their local banks are not in a position to advance them more money. Perhaps the "farmers' friends" down in Washington forgot that excessive farm loans wrecked countless banks early in the last decade and that many banks are still trying to "get out from under" as a result of the post war collapse of farm values.

The white house drought relief "program" was most unfair to the small banks of the agricultural country. It shifted the burden from the politicians, who voluntarily assumed it for political reasons, to the banks which have been carrying most of the farmers' burdens for ten years and which can not assume more of it. The Hoover administration can not thus easily place the responsibility upon the hard-pressed rural banks.

Results are secured by confidence, push and energy.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

By POLITICAL ANALYST

Ross S. Sterling encountered in first act in preparation for the governorship, some of the disappointment and disillusionment that besets a governor.

Just as others have learned, Mr. Sterling found that when you consult people in confidence, sometimes they get excited and spill the beans.

In this case, he asked over long distance for information and suggestions of friends. Then he found his resignation as highway chairman was announced at the moment he actually filed it, and his wishes disclosed for reorganizing the commission before they had been worked out with those concerned. As a result, the news was printed while it was news and not when it became a "handout" statement.

He is a newspaperman, in that he owns one of the large papers of the state. But even so, he is going to find early in his governorship that he will increase his peace of mind by keeping all his official acts exposed to the public. The alternative is having no confidants and a revival of the "I have nothing to say!"

Now the "big fat boy" who is to be governor will get out of the state, partly to dodge persistent office seekers, partly to get a longer perspective on his coming duties and problems.

Much of the policy and perhaps some of the major measures of his administration likely will be formulated by him while he is out of the range of the self-sacrificing individuals who would offer their help in running the state.

Mr. Sterling's campaign gave a hint that he will come forward with a definite demand that the 53-cent tax on sulphur be raised to the $1 level that was attempted this year.

This implies he will ask perhaps a general revising and raising of the indirect or production and sales taxes from which the state will look for increased revenues.

Some of his friends foresee that he will call together the best statesmanship and the ablest taxation expert knowledge in the state after the general election and before he is inaugurated, to have his policy put into definite form and definite measures in readiness for the tussle with the legislature in January and February.

Further evidence that a legislative session during the final three months of the present term is practically impossible was given in the fact that no special election was called for the re-naming of Senator Walter C. Woodward, or someone from his district for the far end of the term. Woodward resigned last spring when his father was to be confirmed by the senate. His district is one affected by the late drought and would need representation. Senator Woodward has been nominated for the 42nd legislature starting in January.

LONG NAMES SECRETARY AS DEPT. HEAD

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 9.—Miss Alice Lee Grosjean, Gov. Huey P. Long's young and pretty private secretary, presided over the department of state today as Louisiana's first woman to hold that position.

Miss Grosjean's elevation to an office in his cabinet was announced by the governor yesterday, a few hours after the death of James J. Bailey, who was serving his fourth term. Bailey's death, after a week's illness of pneumonia, was unexpected.

The new secretary is an attractive brunette 24 years old. She entered the governor's service when she was eighteen, two years later she divorced her husband, James Terrell of El Dorado, Ark. During the recent senatorial campaign which resulted in Long's nomination Terrell threatened to sue the governor for alienation of Miss Grosjean's affections, but the suit was never filed.

The young governor's meteoric political career has been a succession of startling incidents but probably no act of his caused as much surprise as his appointment of Miss Grosjean. The governor said, however, that he was following precedent.

"I feel that Miss Grosjean is competent to fill the office," Long said. He added that she had the endorsement of political leaders.

Miss Grosjean is a member of a prominent Louisiana family, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Grosjean of Shreveport. She has been Long's adviser in his political campaigns, and helped him direct his recent fight for the senatorial nomination.

Long has been a stormy figure in state politics ever since he first ran for public service commissioner. His tenure as governor has been marked by bitter political feuds and efforts to have him impeached.

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 9.—

MOTHER LEAVES CHILDREN AND FACES DEATH

SAYS FAREWELL HARD, BUT RECOVERY EASY DUE TO CRAZY WATER

In May, 1929, I was critically ill with Rheumatism; in fact, I was an invalid and had to be helped around. My husband decided to bring me to Mineral Wells, as it looked as if there was no hope for me. I remained at home. But I had no confidence in Mineral Wells; in fact, I did not believe that anything or any place would relieve my suffering. You can imagine how I felt when I told my children "Good-Bye," when I did not expect to see them again.

I arrived in Mineral Wells on May 10th, last year, and in one week of the Crazy Water Treatment, I was able to walk and thirty days from the time I arrived I was well again, only a little weak.

I heartily recommend to everyone suffering from diseases caused by faulty elimination that they spend a few days rest at the Crazy Water Hotel in Mineral Wells, Texas, the home of Crazy water.

Baby Lindbergh to Choose Own Career

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., will choose his own career when he comes of age, according to an interview with his father in the November issue of the Pictorial Review.

Col. Lindbergh laughed when the interviewer asked him about his present plans for his son's future.

"Our son has hardly reached the age to have his future determined for him," the Colonel was quoted as saying, "and in any case, it is a question he can best decide for himself when the time comes."

Col. Lindbergh revealed that he and Mrs. Lindbergh plan to visit Mexico and South America again soon on an extended tour.

"Both Mrs. Lindbergh and I have a great affection for Mexico for many reasons," he is quoted as saying.

Lubitsch-Kraly Encounter Closed

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—The widely heralded Ernst Lubitsch—Hans Kraly fistie encounter was closed today when the film director fired a parting shot at Kraly and Mrs. Helen Lubitsch, his divorced wife, as he prepared to leave for New York.

"They can have Hollywood all to themselves," Lubitsch said. "All I want is peace and I hope I find it in New York. I like Hollywood and I hope to come back in six months or a year, but in the meantime I hope they have a good time."

The director struck Kraly on the crowded dance floor of the Embassy club here at benefit party sponsored by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks.

PONIES SNAP INTO WORK FOR AUSTIN GAME

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—Under clouded skies and on a rain soaked gridiron, the travel-worn and battle-scarred Southern Methodist University Mustangs began their preparation for the Austin college game here Friday. The workout was spirited even though three of the star regulars were missing from the line-up with injuries received in the Notre Dame game last Saturday. S. M. U.'s brilliant half back, Speedy Mason, and Malcolm Powell, the Ponies regular center both have their knees in casts and are sure to be out of the line-up for three weeks. Neely's injured ankle is not serious but is likely to bother him for a week or two.

With the exception of these men the entire squad is in great shape with only a few bumps and minor injuries to help them remember the great battle that they displayed against the Irish last Saturday.

The players as a whole are quite disappointed in the outcome of the Notre Dame tussel but their spirit is not broken. They are already talking of the conference race, believing that every team in the conference are waiting to bounce them. The Ponies will point to every game.

The game with the Kangaroos Friday is not being taken too lightly in the Pony camp. Ray Morrison fully realizes that the boys are due for a let down and he is pushing his men hard, let-

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Until I came to Dr. Brown I had not been able to eat solid food of any kind for nearly two years. I had an ulcer in my small intestine, also thyroid gland trouble, and low blood pressure.

I had been to five doctors in different parts of the state, but none of them were able to help me very much, they all wanted to operate.

When I heard of Dr. Brown I came and stayed at his sanatorium for six weeks and went home completely cured. What he has done for me, he can do for anyone. My only regret is that I did not hear of him sooner.

In the six weeks I stayed at his Sanatorium I saw what seemed like miracles performed in cures, where other methods of treatment had failed.

I heartily recommend Brown's Sanatorium.

OVER-CONSUMPTION BLAMED FOR PRESENT COTTON CRISIS

By J. S. YEAGE R
It is quite a number of prominent over the state are advocating a special call of the legislature for the purpose of forcing cotton farmers to cut the acreage for the year of 1931.

It is a very serious question which should be thoroughly understood and studied before any such call is undertaken. It should be noted that it is not so much a question of overproduction, as overconsumption judging by figures I have in my possession. There is no buying power in the market of last year, and the market of all commodities has fallen below the cost of production. This has thrown so many out of employment. There are over 300,000 people out of employment at the present time. These have no buying power. They have no funds to purchase the necessities of life. Much suffering is being done.

The cotton industry of the south out all that we have to furnish employment for the people. We do not have many manufacturing enterprises that would furnish work for most of them are located in the northern states. Now, to limit the cotton acreage to about one half of what we have been planting would vast number of people out of employment and it seems this would tend to aggravate the conditions that we now have, as thousands of others would be thrown out of work who are now employed in the cotton industry. If the government is to try to help the situation should encourage the building of more railroads, public buildings and other utilities that would furnish labor for the masses. To more uses for cotton goods and to bring back the foreign trade that we have lost in the few years—a loss of about 10 per cent in the last three years.

Went Give Relief

The following figures will show reduction in acreage will not be the relief sought, as we will for example the year of 1920, the world produced 20,000,000 bales of cotton and we had a consumption for the same year of 17,000,000 with a carry over of 11,850,000 bales and the low for that year was 10,000,000 bales and the high for that year was 15,000,000 bales with a consumption of 10,846,000 bales over of 14,289,000 bales—the low on record. The low for that year was 12.80 with a high of 23.10. In 1922 the world produced 19,000,000 bales, the world consumption for the same period 21,375,000 with a carry over of 9,223,000 bales, the low for that year being 20.35 and the high 31.30. In 1923 we produced 19,700,000 bales with a consumption of 20,631,000 bales, the low for that year was 17.72 and the high 27.65. In 1924 we produced 24,800,000 bales, consumed 23,847,000, with a carry over of 6,791,000 bales, and the low at 22.15 for low and high. In 1925 we produced 27,900,000 bales with a consumption of 25,364,000 bales, the low for that year was 17.85 for low and high. In 1926 the world produced 28,180,000 bales with a consumption for the same period 24,000,000 bales with a carry over of 10,230,000 bales, the high and low being 12.15 for low and 19.20 for high.

1927 Production

In 1927 we produced 23,828,000 bales with a consumption of 26,012,000 bales and a carry over of 12,816,000 bales, the high and low for that year being 17.00 for low and a high of 23.90. In 1928 we produced 25,000,000 bales and a consumption of 26,000,000 bales with a carry over of 10,336,000 bales, the high for the season, 17.65 for low and a high of 21.05. In 1929 the world produced 25,852,000 bales and a consumption for the period of 26,000,000 bales with a carry over of 9,000,000 bales. The high for the season being 10.28 for low and about 17.00 for the high. It will be observed from the above figures that the consumption has increased far more than the production, as we had in 1929 a carry over of 11,185,000 bales and August thirty first of this year it has been reduced to 9,994,000 bales, or 1,191,000 bales less than in 1929, notwithstanding the big crop of 13,000,000 bales of American cotton in 1926. Judging by the above figures, it seems there is no need for a law to curtail the cotton production so long as we are consuming more than we are producing.

Carry Overs Compared
It will also be noted from the above figures that in the year 1921 we had a carry over of 14,289,000 bales and the low for that season was 12.80 and the high was 23.75, and this year with a carry over of 9,994,000 bales, or more than 4,000,000 bales less than in 1921. The low for December this season is 10.28 which is 250 points lower than at that time and it now seems the market will go lower. The figures also reveal the fact that in 1920 we produced 20,000,000 bales against an estimated production of 23,750,000 bales for 1929. In other words the production has increased 22 per cent for the period, while the consumption for 1920 was 17,000,000 bales with an estimated consumption for 1929 of 25,209,000 bales, or 41 per cent for the period. With no buying power in the United States since the crash in the stock market in 1929 it seems that these figures are conclusive that it is not over production but under consumption that is causing the low prices for cotton this season and the want of buying power. The world will take all the American cotton that is being grown and use it at a good price, provided the conditions improve so that the millions of people that are idle can be employed at living wages that will give them a buying power that is needed to stimulate business.

Lost Export Trade

There are many more reasons than too much cotton that has ruined the American farmer. We have lost our export trade and there is a reason for this. If the American farmer had heeded the advice given them by the Dallas News a few years ago in their campaign to grow more cotton on fewer acres they would not likely be in the predicament they are in today. The farmer is not altogether to blame, as the local buyer comes in for his share also as he will get out and tell the farmer to buy high priced staple planting seed, then in the fall when the cotton begins to move the first farmer that comes along with half-and-half cotton he will pay him just as much for a bale of 7-8 to 15-16 cotton and this discourages the farmer who purchased the good seed and he goes away out of humor and says there is nothing to this seed business any way. So the next year he plants more short cotton and instead of reducing the supply we have more short cotton each year and now we have more than 4,000,000 bales of underdeveloped cotton that is counted in the carry over each year. According to the United States government report we had 24.6 per cent of all American cotton which was less than 7-8 staple which is underdeveloped on contracts, the largest amount on record for any year. The exports of American cotton in 1926 was 10,926,000 bales and in 1929 a little less than 7,000,000 bales, or a falling off of more than 3,000,000 bales or a fraction of more than 30 per cent in three years. The world's consumption of American cotton during 1926 was 15,770,000 bales while that of foreign countries for the same period was only 9,756,000 bales. In 1929 the consumption of American cotton had been reduced to 13,800,000 bales while that of foreign cotton had in-

"We are feeding the cow that is milked in the north," Talbot declared.

Determined Squad of Spur Bulldogs Coming to Cisco

GAME WILL BE PLAYED SATURDAY

Visitors Are Confident They Will Give the Lobos Trouble

By JEPHTHA CRAIG

Dickens County Times
SPUR, Oct. 9.—Determined and only slightly hopeful of victory the Spur Bulldogs will go to Cisco Saturday for their first night game and second class A contest of this season. Losing by 19 to 14 to Pampa the first week in September the Spur team is more confident entering this game than they were over a month ago at Pampa.

Coach Taylor will probably start Captain Brode Puckett, Jim Hahn and Joe Hahn and Adrian Rickles, four of the first backs in west Texas class B football. Puckett, 190 pounds, plays fullback and quarterback and runs the center under 11 seconds. Joe Hahn, 175 pounds is playing his first year but is power to be reckoned with on offense. Jim Hahn, 170, class B, district 2 half last year is in his second season and is a far better all round player than he was last year. Rickles veteran quarter and half is light but is a terror on both offense and defense.

At ends, Barrett, Dodge and Ross. Barrett is a veteran and is one of the best high school ends in Texas, weight 180. Gene McCormick, 170, will probably start at center. At guard, Buster Morgan, 150 light but fast and full of fight will be one side and probably Stephens, a first year man, 170 pounds will start at tackle. Emmert, 180 who dealt misery in the Pampa linebackers, and Baedake, 180 veteran of last year, will form a combination that will be well known by the Cisco backs before the game is over.

Spur has almost two full teams of reserves that can be depended upon in case of necessity. It is estimated that over 100 fans from here will see the game and lend their aid to the Bulldogs.

of the district with plenty of entertainment in their striving for psychological effects and we shall see next Saturday what the results of their pre-game efforts will be.

Eastland and Sweetwater will play Friday afternoon at Eastland. Brockridge and Big Spring play at Big Spring, and Abilene goes to El Paso for a game with the El Paso Lions Friday.

We are just in receipt of an article on the Spur team from Jephtha Craig, of the Dickens County Times, which is published on today's page of the News. Craig gives the probable lineup of the Spur eleven as follows:

Ends—Barrett, 190; Dodge, 170, or Ross, 175.
Tackles—Emmert, 180, and Baedake, 180.
Guards—E. Morgan, 150, and Stephens, 170; center, McCormick, 170.
Full—Puckett (Capt.), 190.
Half—Joe Hahn, 175, and Jim Hahn, 170.
Quarter—Rickles, 150.

If the Spur team is as smartly coached and as seasoned as its record for this season and last indicate, we expect that the Lobos are not going to have any picnic going through that bunch. The line has weight enough to make it a veritable stone wall, and the backfield, equally heavy has not only power but exceptional speed. There are two 10-second men in the secondary and they are heavy enough to make speed count in offensive drives.

The game is Saturday night and you may be assured that it will be worth its price of admission.

We now turn to statements from our esteemed contemporary, in re the Cisco Lobos. So says Boyce House:

Cisco has come in for copious comment since the 77-0 victory over Brownwood. And I think that was Coach Chapman's intent in rolling up such a staggering score. His team was being generally picked as the most likely to win the district anyway, therefore other teams would be more or less on their guard when they met the Lobos. So why not strike terror to the hearts of the opposition? Why not chill them with dread? Why not beat them in advance? Hence the slaughter of Brownwood. Another thing: It has been a long time since Cisco has won the district championship. Perhaps there was the further intention of giving the Lobos an abundance of confidence for the clashes with Brockridge, last year's state champions; Abilene, who has beaten Cisco the last three years; and Ranger, who has conquered the Lobos four out of their last five meetings.

Without seeking to detract any rightful glory from Cisco's crushing conquest of the Lions had you ever stopped to think that, under the lights, the ball—especially for such tricky plays as the Lobos use—is harder to keep up with than in daytime; also that the Cisco team was meeting a club that had already been beaten and therefore was out of the race; also that the Brownwood team was more or less crippled as the result of the previous game with Ranger; also that the Cisco first stringers were in action almost all of the game? Then consider, on the other hand, the Ranger played Brownwood seven times more or less and were in good condition and that the Bulldogs won, 32 to 0, with a full team of reserves playing the entire last quarter. And also that Cisco is achieving its 7-p-sided victory, took the air whereas Ranger, if it has a passing attack, did not uncover it, only one pass being tried. But, anyway, we must all admit Cisco has a great team.

But we needn't worry about Cisco. The Bulldogs don't play the Big Dam team until Nov. 11.

SIMMONS TO OPEN OFFICIAL SEASON FRIDAY

ABILENE, Oct. 9.—With a well earned win, the T. C. U. Horned Frogs hanging from their belts, the Simmons University Cowboys are preparing to blow the lid off the Texas conference football race as practice opens this week. They will meet the strong St. Edwards Saints here Friday night in the first conference game for the season and other schools will be watching closely to see what team gets a head start in the 1930 race for conference honors.

Cold rain drove the Cowboys indoors for Monday's workout and Coach Cranfill worked his men hard on some new offensive tactics. The whole afternoon was spent in studying assignments. Cranfill is a strong believer in dummy scrimmage and he gave his men plenty of it Monday afternoon on the indoor basketball court.

The T. C. U. battle left the players all in good shape except Ribble and Sanders who sustained minor injuries. They will be all right before the St. Edwards game. Hence the Marshall, fullback and Clark, half will be in better shape, barring mishaps this week, than they were for the Horned Frog tilt.

The Cowboys' coaches do not consider the 6-0 tie with T. C. U. a moral victory. Rather they consider that under the circumstances, Simmons should have won the game, but they are not wasting any time worrying over the fact that a 15 yard penalty halted their drive on the T. C. U. 4 yard line.

COUNTY GAINS TWO FARMS
MONTROSE—The 1930 census listed only two farms for San Juan county. At the last census it was the only county in Colorado which had no agricultural tracts. Aransas Pass and Ingleside are seeking water connections.

FUTURE OF MACK'S TEAM IS PONDERED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The world series is over and the Philadelphia Athletics have retained their world championship against the challenge of the St. Louis Cardinals, but baseball fans here pondered today over the future of Connie Mack's team.

Even while winning, the world champions showed weak spots which are quite likely to become more pronounced over another long season's grind.

With George Earnshaw and Lefty Grove in the prime of their pitching career, and Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx and Mickey Cochrane showing no signs of slowing up, Connie Mack has the nucleus for another great team for 1931.

Replacements, however, must be found to round out the Athletics next season. Bing Miller, veteran right fielder, is nearing the end of his career, and George (Mule) Haas seems to have lost his batting punch, although still a ball-hawk in the outfield.

Max Bishop and Joe Boley played steady baseball around the keystone sack in the world series, but both are slowing up.

Bishop still is one of the best lead-off men in baseball because of his keen batting eye, and his ability to get walks.

The A's outfield reserves are not so promising. Homer Summa, veteran who formerly played with Cleveland, was recalled from the Pacific coast league late in the season and Jim Moore, the Dallas, Texas league rookie, doesn't seem to measure up to major league standards.

In training to stop the brilliant runs of McCarver, the Steers are also preparing for November 15, when they encounter a bigger threat in the person of Cy himself. Another reason for anxiety among Lohghorn fans is the doubt as to how Howie and Wining will handle the center job.

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 9.—The Tulane Greenies will possess a decided weight advantage over the maroon and white eleven of Texas A. & M. in the opening day feature of the State Fair of Texas in Dallas Saturday, probable line at 170 pounds per man, the Tulane forward wall averages 195 pounds against A. & M.'s 189 average. With the exception of Byron McGrill, veteran tackle who received a broken wrist in the Nebraska tilt, the Aggie line-up is expected to be the same that faced the Cornhuskers. Oran Dawson, 220-pound tackle, will take McGrill's place.

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—Scribble sessions on the Mustang gridiron Wednesday afternoon sent Porter, young end, to the sidelines to join Weldon Mason, star halfback, and Malcolm Powell, center. Mason and Powell may be out of the fray for two more weeks with torn knee ligaments.

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—Prizes will be awarded to winners in the Texas Kennel Club Dog Show from the tiniest Chihuahua to the largest German shepherds. Richard Barthelme, movie star, is awarding a loving cup for the best Chihuahua. The show will be held Oct. 17 to 19. Entry lists close Friday Oct. 10.

BIG DAM CHATTER

The outstanding conference game in the all belt district this week will take place at Ranger Saturday afternoon when the Ranger Bulldogs entertain the always dangerous San Angelo Bobcats. And O what a meeting that will be. It is a meeting of two teams of the bitterest rivalry but more than that it brings together those two worthies of the skirmish lines who have been valiantly sparring each other with Big Bertha's or printer's ink for the past two weeks.

LAURA LOU BROOKMAN
AUTHOR OF "MIDNIGHT ROMANCE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Adventure enters the life of Celia Mitchell, 17, when she learns that her father has supposed dead.

as the ones you knew in Baltimore?"

"Oh, there weren't any—I mean."

"No young men in Baltimore? Nonsense. You know you can trust me, Celia. Who's the one lad in your heart?"

"There isn't—that is, we—"

"What's his name?"

"Celia forgot her caution. 'There is someone,' she said shyly. 'I mean there's a boy I like awfully well. He's well, he doesn't earn very much yet, but he's going to some day. He's a newspaper photographer, and he does the most exciting things. Of course we aren't really engaged, but he says some day he's going to marry me. You'd like him, too, Mrs. Parsons. I know you would! He's tall and slim, and he has the most wonderful eyes. They're gray. Barney's his name.'"

"Barney," Mrs. Parsons repeated. "Is that all?"

"Barney Shields. Don't you think it's a pretty name? I do. And oh, Barney's always been terribly nice to me."

There was a far-away look in Celia Mitchell's eyes. She was thinking how tender and gentle Barney Shields' voice could be. She could see his gray eyes looking at her. Celia forgot about Mrs. Parsons. She did not see the hard, tightening line about the older woman's mouth.

"Did your mother approve of this engagement?" Evelyn asked.

"But we really aren't engaged! We couldn't be. You see, Barney said it wouldn't be right because he hasn't enough money, and he didn't want me to give up coming to New York and everything. Of course mother likes him, but she doesn't know he said anything to me about getting married. I thought it would only worry her."

"But do you care for him a lot?"

Celia nodded her head. It was comforting to have someone to whom she could talk in this confidential way. Mrs. Parsons seemed so understanding. "I suppose," Evelyn went on carefully, "you miss your mother a great deal?"

The girl's face sobered.

"Lots," she agreed.

"Does she ever come to New York?"

"Oh, no. She couldn't do that. You see, mother works. She does sewing for Margot's shop. It's a very nice place. She's worked there for years and years."

Mrs. Parsons' brows raised expressively.

"Tonight," Celia went on impulsively, "my father said something awfully nice. He said I reminded him of mother when she was a girl. Wasn't that sweet?"

With the light behind Evelyn Parsons' head and her face in shadow, the girl could not see the angry flare which crossed the woman's face. Celia would have been amazed if she could have caught the cruel glint in Evelyn's blue eyes.

A moment passed. Then Mrs. Parsons said, rising, "that was charming. But it is dreadful of me to keep you awake like this. Forgive me. I'll slip along, and in the morning we can talk to our hearts' content. Good night, dear Celia!"

"Goodnight,"

Mrs. Parsons closed the door behind her. Celia extinguished the bed lamp and in 10 minutes she was asleep again.

In the morning they had breakfast at a table set on the shady end of the porch. It was a glorious day, cool but bright with sunshine. There was a bird bath at the left and throughout the meal a chorus of tiny songsters kept up a cheerful serenade.

Celia could scarcely finish her muffins for constantly praising Larchwood. She was looking cool and dainty herself in her sleeveless white frock. Mrs. Parsons, pouring the coffee, seemed pleased at Celia's enthusiasm. There was no sign this morning of the angry hours the widow had spent the night before.

"And what would you like to do this morning?" she asked Celia.

The girl said she would like very much just to follow the gardener around and ask questions and, if it would be all right, to dig in the ground here and there and pretend she was really helping the flowers to grow.

Mrs. Parsons laughed. "If Ben is willing and will tell you where you can dig and where not to, I guess you can garden to your heart's content," she said. Ben was the gray-haired gardener who had taken care of the grounds around Larchwood for 20 years. He was taciturn when Celia found him clipping a hedge of spirea bushes. When Ben found she was a willing listener to his tales of prize roses and chrysanthemums which had had raised, the morning sped along and they became close friends. The gardener sent her back to the house bearing one of his choice black roses.

In the afternoon Celia wrote a letter to Barney Shields and another to her mother. She told both of them about the week-end visit, adding to her mother's note several paragraphs about her lovely new gown. In neither letter, however, did she write anything about Tod Jordan. She had begun to wonder if she could have been mistaken about seeing him with Mrs. Brooks.

They didn't see the country for dinner. Mrs. Parsons seemed to have a great many acquaintances, and she introduced Celia to everyone. After dinner there was dancing, and Celia found that apparently it made no difference with most of these young people that they had never seen her before. Evelyn played the bridge and Celia had plenty of dancing partners. A large part of the evening she spent with a good-natured youth whose first name was "Red" and who seemed to have no other name. They were dancing when Mrs. Parsons came to say it was time to drive home.

"Oh, Mrs. Parsons," the girl said as the car sped over the winding road, "I'm so glad you asked me to stay! Today has been wonderful!"

Evelyn acknowledged this with a smile. "We must plan more wonderful days," she said.

There was excitement from the minute Celia appeared at the breakfast table next morning.

"Surprise!" Mrs. Parsons greeted her. "Lisi just telephoned. She's having a swimming party this afternoon, and you're invited. I've already accepted the invitation for you. Of course you want to go! Kate and Walter Carr are going to stop for you at 2 o'clock."

Yes, Celia wanted to go. She ran upstairs as soon as breakfast was finished and packed her swimming things. She had a great green beach cape large enough to hold her Jersey suit and cap and the little Japanese clogs for her feet.

After that she did a good deal of fidgeting until two o'clock arrived, and down the driveway she saw the brilliant blue roadster Walter Carr drove. Celia was waiting when the car stopped. Amid gay cries she climbed into the rumble seat and the roadster whisked away.

It was nearly an hour's drive to the beach. The place was a boat and swimming club, which seemed to be the favorite resort of the young people in Lisi Duncan's crowd. There was a large white club house with broad verandas, boat houses and smaller buildings, and stretching as far as the eye could see to right and left, a beach of clear, gleaming sand.

Beyond was Long Island Sound. The dark green, rolling water plunged and splashed and broke in foam-topped waves.

Lisi was waiting to greet them. "Hurray!" she cried. "Hurry up and get dressed! Everybody else is here!"

Celia followed Kate to the dressing rooms. There were a dozen girls there getting into bathing attire. Most of them were browned by sun. There was much joking and laughing. In less than ten minutes Celia had pulled on her one-piece suit and tied a gay orange bandanna about her head. Then she stepped into the clogs and ran after Kate Duncan out onto the sand.

No one thought of introductions. There were young men waiting down on the shore. Some of them were already in the water.

"Hello, there!"

She was facing Tod Jordan. Evidently he had just come from a dip.

"How do you do?" said Celia. Then she turned and, with a running dive, plunged into the water. She began swimming rapidly with easy strokes.

Jordan walked away. He turned as a sharp cry cut the air.

Evelyn Parsons entered the house. She wore a fluttering turquoise negligee.

"Oh, my dear! I didn't think you were asleep—I wouldn't have woken you."

Celia propped herself up on one elbow and rubbed her eyes. She smiled.

"What's happened?" she asked. "Has anything happened? No, I only came in for a bed-chamber. Shut your eyes again! Don't go! Anyhow I'm awake. My—your look lovely in that blue."

Mrs. Parsons wrapped the garment about her and sat on the opposite side of Celia.

"Have a good time this evening," she asked carelessly.

"Yes, I did. And I enjoyed the afternoon, too. Lisi's wonderful tennis player, isn't it?"

"Lisi's good at sports," Mrs. Parsons agreed, "except the rather want one of attracting the young lady had more dancing than she knew what to do with tonight."

"Oh, Mrs. Parsons—"

"No need to blush. I saw it all. And why not? All men like to dance with such a pretty girl as you are, Celia. I must have been often. You'll make all parties successes."

It was the sort of talk to which Celia's age is susceptible. Mrs. Parsons casually brought Tod's name into the conversation.

"He was ever so popular on board," Evelyn said. "My dear, you were women and girls who only dogged his footsteps. He didn't pay the slightest attention any of them. I guess that's why he didn't help but notice how attractive he was from the minute he saw you. Of course, he's that dandy that usually does attract—"

"Oh, but you're mistaken, Mrs. Parsons. He was just being polite to me. And anyhow I only danced with him once."

Celia said these things because she wanted to hear Mrs. Parsons' opinion. Perhaps if Evelyn thought Jordan had been impressive it might be true.

"Only once? Why, that's impossible. I know he came to me half a dozen times this evening asking me if he could find you. Celia Mitchell, I do believe you've been snubbing!"

Celia laughed.

"I couldn't," she said. "I didn't know how to."

"Well, that to someone else, my dear, is a very young girl's answer. Evelyn Parsons. Well, I only hope you won't be too hard on the little creatures. Tell me—do you like these young men as well as I do?"

BANKER TERMS AMENDMENTS FORWARD STEP

DALLAS, Oct. 9. — The proposed Constitutional Amendments, to be submitted at the November election, providing for an improved legislative procedure, and adjusting the salary and mileage of the legislators, were termed a forward step by Fred F. Florence, noted Dallas banker, Monday.

"It is no longer possible to dispose of the State's legislative business satisfactorily in the 60 day period of time allotted thereto by the constitution of 1876," Mr. Florence said. "The remarkable growth that has occurred in this state has brought with it complicated and pressing problems that demand mature consideration by the legislature. Under our present plan, these intricate problems are necessarily hurriedly considered. This frequently results in poorly constructed legislation, or in failure to take any action to correct conditions. No legislature, in my memory has confined itself to the 60 day session. There have been regularly one or more called sessions of each legislature for many years past. The proposed plan, calling for a 90 day period to be given over to the introduction of the measures, and a 36 day period in which committee hearings will be held, and a final period devoted to the discussion and passage of the measure proposed, should produce more wholesome legislation. It would seem that this plan would obviate the necessity for special sessions, an end that is much to be desired.

"I believe that there will be an actual reduction in the number of legislative days, if these measures carry. I am informed that the legislature has been in session on an average of 137 days per term during the past fourteen years. Much of this time was taken up in organization incident to the extra sessions. The proposed 120 day term will really provide the legislature with more working time, and, at the same time, reduce the average length of the legislative session.

"The need to increase the salaries of the legislators to $10 per day during the regular session, is obvious, and of course the proposal to reduce the allowance for mileage from the 20 cents per mile allotted during the horse-and buggy days, is an appropriate one," Mr. Florence said.

SOLONS FACE IMPORTANT LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — Important legislation, both new and holdover, awaits the short session of the seventy-first congress which will convene in less than two months.

The record breaking drought, the London naval treaty, unprecedentedly low prices of cotton and grain, the senate's investigation of campaign expenditures, census statistics and charges of manipulation of prices on the Chicago board of trade by Soviet agents and others, have created new demands for legislation.

In addition, the short session will face the old Muscle Shoals problem, prohibition legislation, proposals for regulating interstate bus traffic and railroad consolidation legislation, all of which have perplexed former sessions.

Tax problems probably will provide one of the major issues for the December session. The administration has indicated it will seek to continue the $160,000,000 tax reduction voted in the last session for one year only, because of the depression. President Hoover also in his Cleveland speech suggested investigation of the tax on capital gains.

One of the first problems of the short session will be to provide relief for farmers left penniless and without credit by the drought.

The senate campaign expenditure committee will submit its report on the first day of the short session, and Chairman Gerald P. Nye has announced he will seek new legislation to curb excessive campaign expenditures.

Famous Specialist on Meat Cuts to Hold Demonstrations During Fair

D. W. Hartzell, beef specialist of the National Livestock and Meat Board, with headquarters in Chicago, will conduct demonstrations of meat cutting in Dallas during Beef Cattle Week at the State Fair of Texas, it was announced here by Frank P. Holland, president of the Texas Breeder-Feeder association, under whose auspices the annual State Fair Feeder Show and Auction Sale is being held.

A number of demonstrations of butchering to the best advantage will be conducted here by Mr. Hartzell. He will conduct demonstrations on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of Beef Cattle Week, and among these demonstrations will be those held for chefs, business men, retail butchers, housewives, home economic students, and the public in general. Arrangements for the demonstrations are now being worked out.

R. L. Marquis has been named chairman of arrangements for the demonstrations by President Holland. At a preliminary meeting held here recently, it was decided to hold some of the demonstrations down town, some in the schools of Dallas and at least two at the State Fair. The two to be held on the fair grounds will be held probably on Tuesday and Friday of Beef Cattle Week, which will run from October 11 to 25.

The meat from which the various cuts will be made during the demonstrations will be furnished by the Armstrong Packing Co., of which Mr. Marquis is president.

The demonstration will include both beef and lamb cuts. In addition to the demonstrations there will be extensive displays of meats and the various cuts in a specially arranged exhibit in the Livestock and Dairy Products Building which is now under construction at the State Fair.

WILL HAND DRY PROBLEM TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — President Hoover's law enforcement commission plans to hand the prohibition problem to congress for solution, early in December.

Prohibition is dominating the autumn session of the commission, which began here yesterday. Chairman Wickerham revealed in a press conference he hoped to make a definite prohibition report shortly after congress convenes.

From an informed source, the United Press learned today this was considered likely to quiet the commission's congressional critics. The theory was advanced that as soon as responsibility for acting on a commission report were passed on to congress, the commission would be able to pass out of the prohibition picture to devote itself to call investigation of other crime problems.

At the initial fall meetings, the commission accepted the resignation of its former secretary, Max Lowenthal, wealthy New York lawyer, and named Wickerham's secretary, William F. Barry, his successor. The issues underlying the break between Lowenthal and the commission still were withheld.
