

Strawn Zone Pay Opener Seen In Eddy

A Strawn gas discovery has been indicated in Eddy County, N.M., with the flowing of gas at the maximum daily rate of 5 million cubic feet, on a drill-stem test at Robert K. Hillin of Midland, No. 1-DWU - Federal, 1 1/4-mile northwest outpost to the opener and lone well in the Winchester (Morrow) gas field.

Tool was open 30 minutes on preflow on the test taken from 9,865-10,015 feet. Gas surfaced in an unreported time, flowing initially at 4.2 million cubic feet per day and increasing to 2 million cubic feet daily before the tool was closed for one hour. On the second 1 1/4-hour flow period, it flowed gas at the rate of 1.1 million cubic feet daily, increasing to the maximum of 5 million cubic feet per day during the last 45 minutes of the test. Fluid surfaced in 25 minutes, flowing distillate at the estimated rate of 15 to 20 barrels hourly, on an unreported choke. Recovery was 585 barrels of distillate and 180 feet of heavily oil- and gas-cut mud.

Flowing pressures were 605-871 pounds; one-hour initial and three-hour final shut-in pressures were 4,456 and 4,152 pounds, respectively. Drilling continued below 10,038 feet on an 11,300-foot Morrow contract. An earlier drillstem test from 9,014-9,094 feet, flowed gas at the maximum daily rate of 2.26 million cubic feet daily. Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 34-19S-28E, 12 miles northeast of Carlsbad.

North Pecos Test Flows Oil, Water

Thunderbird Resources Corp. of Midland continued production tests through unidentified perforations at 5,864-5,884 feet, which had been acidized with 1,000 gallons, at No. 1 Bullfrog, Pecos County scheduled 6,400-foot wildcat, 12 miles southwest of Imperial and 3/4 mile southwest of the opener and lone well in the Blowing Sand (Devonian) gas field.

It was flowing 60 per cent oil, 40 per cent formation water, no gauge reported, through a 24-inch choke. Perforations at 5,915-5,966 feet have been squeezed. Location is 1,787 feet from southwest and southeast lines of section 37, block 3, H&TC survey. The Blowing Sand opener, Thunderbird's No. 1 Blowing Sand, was completed in October 1972 for 14.5 million cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-condensate ratio of 103,000-1, through perforations at 5,741-5,759 feet. It was drilled to 8,336 feet and picked the top of the Devonian at 5,703 feet, Silurian at 5,835 feet, and Fusselman at 5,988 feet.

Death Claims Lyndon Johnson

Kissinger Flies Home Amid Rash Of Peace Rumors

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger conferred with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho for 3 hours and 45 minutes today and then flew back to Washington, ending a negotiating session that the White House said was to complete a Vietnam peace agreement.

Kissinger and Tho emerged from their secret meeting and posed shaking hands in front of the International Conference Center on Avenue Kleber in sight of the Arc de Triomphe.

But they gave no indication whether the cease-fire agreement now was complete or whether further decisions were required from President Nixon or President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

It was noted, however, that official U.S. and North Vietnamese photographers were admitted to part of the session.

No Statement On Leaving Kissinger flew into Paris late Monday night. By the time he drove to Orly Airport to take off for Washington today he had spent little more than 16 hours in the French capital — much shorter than his previous negotiating visits.

He told newsmen waiting as he moved to his plane that he had no statement to make.

Nor was there any immediate comment from the other parties to the negotiations.

But the news agency Agence France-Press reported shortly (See KISSINGER Page 8A)

Importance Stressed The obvious importance of the presidential address was underscored by a Ziegler announcement that Nixon will meet with the entire Cabinet at 7 p.m. and the five top Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress at 8 p.m.

An expanded bipartisan congressional meeting will be held at 7-9 p.m. Wednesday.

The importance Nixon attaches to his address seemed evident as Ziegler told newsmen there would be no customary advance distribution of a prepared text.

From Oval Office The President, who requested broadcast time from the major tv and radio networks, will speak from the Oval Office of the White House.

Congressional leaders invited to the 8 p.m. session were Senator Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., House Democratic Leader Thomas O'Neill of Massachusetts and House GOP Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan.

Even as we mourn his death, we are grateful for his life, which did so much to make those dreams into realities. Johnson's deeds matched his dreams of civil rights and social progress, said others in an hour-long session.

President Nixon, the day after he paid tribute today to Lyndon B. Johnson as the president whose domestic achievements were overshadowed until his death by the war he couldn't end.

"No man had greater dreams for America than Lyndon Johnson," said Nixon of his predecessor in the White House.

"Even as we mourn his death, we are grateful for his life, which did so much to make those dreams into realities. Johnson's deeds matched his dreams of civil rights and social progress, said others in an hour-long session.

praising the five-year administration of the President whose death stunned the capital Monday night.

In a refrain echoing through the appraisals by many of Johnson's associates, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said:

"As President, his brilliant leadership on the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965 have earned him a place in the history of civil rights alongside Abraham Lincoln.

"And his efforts to help the poor, the sick and the oppressed stand out as landmarks of America's concern for those too weak to help themselves."

Thrust into office by tragedy, Johnson coped first with the mounting racial strife of the mid-1960s, but watched the nation become more deeply rent by the thousands in Vietnam.

Former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who coalesced anti-war forces behind his surprisingly strong challenge to Johnson's expected bid for re-nomination by the Democratic party in 1968, said of the dead President:

"If he was to be faulted, it was not for lack of dedication or lack of commitment, but for taking upon himself or to himself too much of the burden and of the responsibilities of government."

On March 31, 1968, Johnson shocked the nation with the announcement that he would neither seek nor accept re-nomination.

Johnson's vice president, Hubert H. Humphrey, reflected on that day:

"He and Lady Bird, Luci and her husband came up to our apartment. He said, 'Could I talk to you alone?' Then he told me what he was going to do. He said, 'I've done everything I could to try and end the war. I've tried the Pope, I've tried the Russians, I've tried the Poles, the French... I'm going to make another supreme effort. Hubert, I want peace in Vietnam more than anything.'"

But Humphrey recalled that of the most important advances peace negotiations unless he withdrew from the campaign, former Secretary John B. Connally, Johnson protegee, said: "The country has lost a great leader."

"I really have a feeling," he said.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, roundly defeated by Johnson in 1964, said: "The country has lost a great political leader... a dedicated American, and I have lost a friend, the memory of whose friendship I will forever cherish."

Sen. George McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee long at odds with Johnson over Vietnam, said the Texan "did more to advance public support for education and civil justice than any other president."

His public career was "marked by a deep sense of compassion for his fellow citizens."

Terence Cardinal Cooke, archbishop of the New York Roman Catholic Archdiocese, said Johnson "strove to extend the vast resources of the nation to all Americans. May his courageous spirit and his faithfulness in bearing public responsibility continue to inspire the leader of our country."

History Of Heart Trouble The former President had a history of heart trouble dating to 1955. He suffered what was termed a major heart attack in April 1972 and was hospitalized with chest pains last July.

With him at death were three Secret Service agents, Dr. David J. Abbott of Johnson City, the plane's pilot and the wife of the foreman of the sprawling LBJ Ranch, to which he retired after leaving the White House.

As Johnson was flown to San Antonio, his wife, Lady Bird, was contacted by radio telephone in a car about a block from the LBJ Library, about 80 miles from the family ranch. She immediately went by helicopter to San Antonio, arriving at Brooke hospital before her husband's body. A family spokesman said Mrs. Johnson had prepared breakfast for the former President before going to Austin on business. The (See FORMER Page 8A)

IN SERIOUS MOOD—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who died Monday, has a serious expression as he listens to a question from Walter Cronkite of CBS during an interview at the LBJ Ranch Jan. 12. The subject of the interview was civil rights. (CBS news photo via AP Wirephoto.)

Funeral Service To Be Thursday In Washington

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of the United States, whose dreams of a Great Society were damped by divisions at home over a war in Asia, is dead of a heart seizure.

The 64-year-old Texan was pronounced dead at 4:43 p.m. CST Monday aboard his private plane at San Antonio International Airport.

Johnson's body will be flown to Washington to lie in state in the Capitol rotunda and receive the nation's final tribute.

Interment In Family Cemetery

Johnson's coffin will be carried on a horse-drawn caisson in a procession to Capitol Hill Wednesday afternoon. A ceremony will be held in the rotunda.

Funeral services will be held Thursday in Washington's National City Christian Church, after which the body will be returned to Texas for interment in the family cemetery on the LBJ Ranch.

Before the body is flown to Washington, it will lie in state from noon CST today until 8 a.m. Wednesday at the LBJ Library in Austin. There will be a full honor guard.

(See Pictures, Stories Pages 4A, 9A)

The heart seizure ended a distinguished public career which saw Johnson rise from simple Texas roots to both houses of Congress, to the powerful post of Senate Democratic leader, which earned him the reputation as a masterful politician, to the vice-presidency and finally to the presidency after the assassination of John F. Kennedy in 1963.

As the first Southerner to hold the presidency since Andrew Johnson, his accomplishments in the domestic fields of civil rights, Social Security, education and housing were highly praised. He was credited with pushing through social programs Democrats had been trying to enact since the New Deal days of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

When Johnson inherited the presidency, he inherited the war in Indochina. Following his election as chief executive in 1964 by a landslide margin, he greatly expanded the U.S. involvement in Indochina and opposition to the war mounted at home. The war eventually was a major factor in his dramatic announcement in March of 1968 that he would not seek re-election.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, roundly defeated by Johnson in 1964, said: "The country has lost a great political leader... a dedicated American, and I have lost a friend, the memory of whose friendship I will forever cherish."

Sen. George McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee long at odds with Johnson over Vietnam, said the Texan "did more to advance public support for education and civil justice than any other president."

Utility Crews Work Overtime To Repair Area Storm Damage

Area utility company crews continued overtime work today to repair hundreds of broken poles and lines snapped by a Saturday night snowstorm which, some reports said, dumped eight inches of snow in less than two hours in northeastern Andrews County.

Utility line damage was extensive all along a belt of snow generally measuring from three to five inches from Seagraves and Seminole to Andrews and eastward through northern Martin, southern Dawson and northern Howard counties.

The damage to lines was comparable to what you would expect from a tornado, or worse," one Andrews utility company official was quoted as saying.

The "unusually wet" snow fell so fast that ice built up three inches thick on many lines in the area.

Its weight broke more than 100 Texas Electric Service Co. poles, 120 Cap Rock Electric Cooperative poles, and hundreds of other telephone and oil field electric poles and lines.

The brunt of the unusual storm-damage from which was compounded by strong gusty winds—missed cities in the area, although snowfall measured five inches at Seminole, three inches at Lamesa, 2 1/2 inches at Andrews and a similar amount around Big Spring.

Officials said line damage in the heavy snow belt was even more extensive than that from a more widespread ice storm in the area two weeks ago.

By late Tuesday, power had been restored to most homes in the sparsely populated area, but many oil wells were still off for lack of electricity.

Officials noted that it was the eighth measurable snowfall of the winter — which is about twice the usual number for the area.

5,000 Icelanders Flee Volcano On Tiny Island

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—An armada of fishing boats and planes evacuated 5,000 Icelanders early today from a small island off the southeast coast after a volcano on the island erupted for the first time in history.

By dawn the lava had reached the outskirts of Vestmannaeyjar, the only town on the island of Heymaey. But by then only 300 of the 5,300 islanders remained to be taken off.

The sea around Heymaey was lit up like a busy street by the lights of the hundreds of fishing boats the government rushed to the island 75 miles southeast of Reykjavik.

Several Homes Ablaze Ashore the lava had not reached the houses of Vestmannaeyjar yet, but several were ablaze from the heat of the flow.

The islanders drove their livestock and pets to the harbor and the airstrip in hopes of getting them away. There were no casualties reported and no panic.

Living Costs Rise Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for eggs, fresh vegetables and household services pushed up the cost of living by 0.3 per cent last month, giving the nation a 3.4 per cent rate of inflation in 1972, the same as 1971.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today the consumer price index went up to 127.3 per cent of the 1967 average, meaning that it cost consumers $12.73 to buy the same basket of goods that $10 bought in 1967.

But the December increase was figured at only 0.2 per cent when the department subtracted the usual seasonal influences from the statistics. On a seasonally adjusted basis, food prices showed no change over November. But they went up by a sharp 0.5 per cent on an unadjusted basis.

Indirect January Warning

The BLS issued an indirect warning that the January index will show sharply higher food prices. Wholesale prices of food went up sharply in December, but not all of the impact was reflected in the December Consumer Price Index.

The BLS said price information for two indices is collected at different times of the month, adding that there is generally a time lag between wholesale price increases and their reflection at the retail level. In addition, it said, not all wholesale price increases are passed on to the consumer.

The report showed the Nixon administration went over its 1973 target of trying to cut the rate of inflation to three per cent or below at the end of the year. During Phase 1 and Phase 2 economic controls, which were abandoned by President Nixon early in January, consumer prices went up 3.2 per cent, the report said.

food purchased at grocery stores climbed by a sharp 0.6 per cent, but this is a usual increase for December, the BLS said.

Non-food commodities rose by 0.1 per cent on an unadjusted basis and 0.2 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The main reason for the rise was new car price increases put into effect in early December on an order approved by the Price Commission.

The price of services went up by 0.4 per cent in December, the report said.

In Phase 3, the Nixon administration has retained wage-price controls in the food, construction and health industries. Most of the rest of the economy was freed from direct mandatory controls. The administration said it will challenge any price increase out of line with voluntary standards.

In another report, the department said average weekly earnings of workers went up by 2.7 per cent last year. The increase for December was 0.1 per cent.

Average gross weekly earnings rose 7 per cent last year to $135.78. The average in 1971 was $126.91.

Texans Mourn Loss Of Former President Johnson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Texans mourned the loss of a fellow Texan, Lyndon B. Johnson, both as a man and a president.

"The country has lost a very great man," said U.S. District Court Judge Sarah T. Hughes, who swore in Johnson as president after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas. "He carried through many reforms including a complete revampment of the civil rights laws."

"A giant of our age is gone," said Gov. Dolph Briscoe. Johnson attended his inauguration last Tuesday. "If one word could describe Lyndon Johnson, it would be 'compassion.' He was a great leader, a great president, a great legislative tactician. But most of all he was a man who cared for people."

"I think his greatest legacy is going to be in the great body of health and education legislation that he signed," said former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, Democrat. "He was an unusual person. He was tough and mean or he was the most generous person you ever saw."

"No man in recent times has made a greater contribution toward making America truly a land where opportunity is just and equal," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

George Christian, former White House press secretary under Johnson, said he would always remember him "for his capacity for loving the people of this country and for wanting to help them. With that he has a great capacity for friendship and for loyalty and all of us who have had anything to do with him loved him and I think he loved us."

Some Texans learned of his death at a party honoring Texas Rep. Wright Patman, dean of the U.S. House.

About 250 senators, congressmen and administration officials were halted in their partying Monday by the words of Patman.

"We have just lost a great President."

Patman, who met Johnson when Johnson was a lanky 12-year-old taken by his state legislator father to the Texas Capitol, had been handed a note by a House leader saying: "LBJ just passed away."

"I had the saddest duty that I ever had to perform then," Patman said in an interview, "to announce the passing of one of the finest and dearest public servants in our lifetime."

Patman asked the people to leave. Many did so in tears.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, a friend of Johnson, said, "No President ever cared more deeply for the people or worked harder for them."

Texas' senior senator who succeeded Johnson, Republican

John G. Tower, said, "Lyndon Johnson was a superb leader in the Congress and the presidency. Confronted by the critical and fast-moving events of the day, he always did what he conceived to serve the greatest good for the greatest number. It remains for history to judge his performance, but I believe that judgment will be overwhelmingly favorable."

Rep. Jack Brooks, a Beaumont Democrat who was close to Johnson, said, "He gave his life and worked hard to see that everybody in this country had a better opportunity to enjoy its benefits."

"He had no bigotry on a basis of race or creed or where people came from, no prejudice as to whether they were rich or poor. I think he really loved people and he enjoyed his presidency."

Brooks had just finished reading a hand-written note from Johnson thanking him for sending a clipping when a secretary came into his office, sobbing out the news that the former president was dead.

Rep. J. J. Pickle of Austin was Johnson's closest personal friend in the Texas delegation and was Johnson's congressman. Pickle called Johnson "perhaps the most human of our chief executives."

"My heart is broken at this sad news," Pickle said. "Lyndon Baines Johnson was a man who acted more for the good of the American people than any president in modern times."

Former U.N. Ambassador George Bush, now chairman of the Republican National Committee, said Johnson was "a man of great conviction, a politician in the finest sense of the word and a leader of men." He said he and his wife "had a unique personal relationship with President Johnson and we feel deeply the loss of a wonderful friend."

Rep. George Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee from Lubbock, said he and his wife spent two days with the Johnsons at their ranch last October and "LBJ was looking great. He had that same drive as in former days."

Mahon said he didn't always agree with Johnson "but he was far and away the superior of any President in the past 25 years in getting things done in Congress. In my opinion he was a world statesman and will so be recorded in the history books."

One of Johnson's longtime aides, former Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson, was in town for the weekend and heard the news of Johnson's death at the Patman party.

He said Johnson "wanted

three things for the people of America: a society which would properly house and clothe and feed and educate the people in order that each might have his or her own best chance for success; a society which could live proudly at peace with all the world; and a society where all men and women—as equals—could share in creating new breakthroughs and achieving new conquests which would make the 21st Century better than the 20th."

Watson said he believes that Johnson "worked so hard at these projects... he weakened his own heart and cut short his own life."

"Yet he never lost his love for the people of this land," Watson said, "and to the day he died he was magnanimous to his enemies, affectionate to his friends and still filled with a great love for his country."

Ranch, Washington Tugged At LBJ

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson often talked longingly about retiring to his native Texas hill country. Yet both localities could be called "home."

Johnson, who often claimed he never wanted to be president, stood in the family graveyard at the ranch shortly after decisively defeating Republican Barry Goldwater in the 1964 campaign.

"If Goldwater had won the election," he said—and pointed to his own gravesite—"that's where I'd be right now."

Yet he frequently voiced intentions to retire to teaching, his occupation until Washington captured him in 1931. He wanted to build a presidential library at the University of Texas in Austin—a building that would encompass an auditorium where he could give some lectures.

LBJ was a most contradictory man.

Wanting to do good and act as peacemaker at home and abroad, he edged himself into the war in Vietnam that contributed directly to rioting and discord at home, and to his own retirement.

On March 21, 1965, even as full-scale war loomed as an increasing possibility, Johnson strolled through his rather tiny boyhood home in Texas and talked about wonderful things he hoped to accomplish.

Quoting experts, he said a 10-year crash program could eradicate cancer and heart disease—"if heinous men don't get us into war."

Few who knew Johnson believe he wanted the war he got. In private conversation during the critical early months of escalation, he talked only in terms of quickly convincing Hanoi, through a limited show of force, that the longstanding conflict should be ended through negotiation.

Most of us who heard him were convinced he really believed then that his strategy would work.

"I want to make a touchdown for you if you'll let me," he said.

The goal line eluded him, even as he struggled tantalizingly close to it in his final weeks in office. Yet he kept hoping—and praying, with daughter Luci's "little monks," at a Roman Catholic church in a rebuilt ghetto area here.

Retirement, once viewed as an inviting prospect, seemed less so as the moment neared. The 36th President yearned for the final touchdown that never came.

Early in March of 1968, as friends wondered what would keep him alive.

The conflicting allures of the Washington power center and the frame ranch house on the banks of the Pedernales were evident to all who knew him. Both localities could be called "home."

Johnson, who often claimed he never wanted to be president, stood in the family graveyard at the ranch shortly after decisively defeating Republican Barry Goldwater in the 1964 campaign.

"If Goldwater had won the election," he said—and pointed to his own gravesite—"that's where I'd be right now."

Retirement, once viewed as an inviting prospect, seemed less so as the moment neared. The 36th President yearned for the final touchdown that never came.

Early in March of 1968, as critics within his own party began attempting to deny him a second presidential nomination, Johnson flew to Marietta, Ga., to attend the unveiling of a new military transport, later to win fame of a sort as the C5A. Aging Carl Vinson, recently retired from the House, was there.

"He told me he never felt more productive and contented in his life," Johnson related when he got back aboard Air Force One.

Mrs. Johnson leaned toward him and said gently, "Dear, it proves that you can leave town."

The President said nothing in response. But within the month he abdicated, in effect, saying he hoped it would lead to peace in Vietnam.

A friend in Maryland, Spiro Agnew, was startled and rather saddened. Before long, he journeyed to the White House to talk in private with the retiring President who shared with him a streak of political populism.

The Johnson-Agnew friendship was known to relatively few at the time. It was founded on Agnew's stout defense of LBJ's Vietnam policies.

If the Indochina war blighted Johnson's final months in office, he carried with him always great pride in his espousal of causes aimed at bettering the lot of blacks and poor people.

The depth of his commitment seemed evident in a 1964 campaign speech delivered before the first integrated audience at one New Orleans hotel and broadcast live on television throughout Louisiana and Mississippi.

Johnson recalled that the late Sam Rayburn, soon after election to the House, sought advice from an aging senator from Mississippi.

The old senator told young Sam he was going home before he died to give his constituents one last "good Democratic speech."

Johnson went on quoting the senator:

"They haven't heard a good Democratic speech since Reconstruction. Every year at election time, all they ever hear is 'nigger, nigger, nigger.'"

Lyndon Johnson lost Louisiana and Mississippi.

Young Kansan Kills Four, Self

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A young man went on a shooting rampage in three neighboring houses in North Topeka Monday night, killing four persons and wounding another before taking his own life, police reported.

Authorities said no motive had been established for the shootings—by the 24-year-old man. The victims were related, witnesses said.

Names of the dead were not available immediately.

The wounded woman gave her name as Darlene McCray, 44, of Kansas City, Mo., who came to Topeka earlier Monday to visit her mother.

Reyes Sentenced To Prison Term

Felix Reyes, 35, received formal sentencing this morning in 142nd District Court and was given five years in prison for possession of heroin.

Reyes, who is from California, was staying at 305 E. Louisiana St. when he was arrested, pleaded guilty to the charge on Dec. 12.

Ex-Pupils Recall Johnson

HOUSTON (AP)—It was many years ago, but Mrs. Fred W. Bartels remembers her handsome debate teacher as a man who "smiled at all the girls and danced with them at dances."

Sam Houston High School, where Lyndon B. Johnson taught debate in the depression years of the 1930s, is a gaping, empty derelict, and the young girls and boys who were his pupils are now on the far side of middle age.

They still remember
But they remember him. They remember he dated some of the younger faculty members and the year he led the Sam Houston Debate Team to a championship and the defeat of their arch rivals of Reagan High.

Mrs. Evelyn Collins remembers. "He was brilliant, of course, always. Really a dynamic personality, and of course we thought the world of him."

"He was tall and thin, and everybody thought he was real handsome," she said. "But most of all he was the kind of a person you really believed in and wanted to do what he told you."

Great Talker Even Then
Even though it was during the Depression and money was scarce, Mrs. Collins recalled, he talked the publisher of the Houston Press into a $100 gift to the debate team when they won a championship.

Mrs. Bartels said Johnson lived with his uncle, George D. Johnson, who taught civics at Sam Houston. The uncle used to tell everyone in his classes that his nephew was going to be president of the United States someday.

Mrs. Fern Lyons said she was impressed with the rapport Johnson had with his pupils. But she was most impressed she said, because he "was very handsome and very good looking, with black, wavy hair."

Lamar PTA Meets Wednesday

Sgt. Fred Johnson will speak on "Crime Prevention" for a meeting at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday of the Lamar Parent-Teacher Association in the cafeteria of Lamar Elementary School.

The speaker also will discuss the "Helping Hand" program. Mrs. Ronald Branch, president, urges all parents with or without students in Lamar, to attend the program. A nursery will be provided for pre-school children.

Early Midland Program Topic

Featured speaker recently for a Texas Day program and luncheon for Midland Woman's Club in the club house was Smith Ray, Midland attorney. The Fine Arts Club was the hostess club. Ray was introduced by Mrs. George F. Vanaman. The invocation was given by Mrs. Robert Truitt.

The history of "Early Midland" beginning in 1880 through 1930, at the time of the oil boom, was traced by Ray. He stressed the importance to the area in the early days of water and wells and windmills; the value of barbed wire fencing. He told the group that many of the settlers came from Virginia, Ohio, Missouri and other states.

Ray paid tribute to leaders in the early days who had faith in Midland and aided in its growth and progress.

Junior League Of Midland Meets New Provisionals

Newly elected provisional members invited into membership in the Junior League of Midland, Inc., were introduced to the membership at a brunch given by sustaining members of the league today in the home of Mrs. Frank Cowden Jr., 3202 Racquet Club Drive.

The provisionals are Mrs. Larry Bell, Mrs. Boley Bart Embrey, Mrs. Carl C. Foulds, Mrs. Richard Frey, Mrs. Donald Ferguson, Mrs. Byron Greaves, Mrs. John Greer, Mrs. Frederic William Hall, Mrs. Donald Hewett, Mrs. Parker Humes, Mrs. H. Kelly Ireland, Mrs. Allen Lindsey, Mrs. Brock Mars Mann, Mrs. Bruce McKague, Mrs. Gordon Marcum, Mrs. William Morgan, Mrs. Don Ormand, Mrs. John Phillips, Mrs. Frank Powell, Mrs. Glenn Reynolds, Mrs. Kenneth Steward, Mrs. Wayne Ulrich and Mrs. Claude Wynn.

These young women will spend the next four months in an intensive provisional training course covering the league and their community. In the fall, they will staff the league's Next-to-New Shop at 509 W. Illinois St.

The purpose of the Junior League is educational and charitable and is to promote volunteerism to develop the potential of its members for voluntary participation in community affairs; and to demonstrate the effectiveness of trained volunteers. The provisional course is an integral part of that training. The first half of the course is a study of the Midland League and its structure and of the Association of Junior Leagues, of which the Midland group is a member. The second half is designed to familiarize the provisionals with their community in the areas of history, local government, education, recreation, cultural arts, health and social services. To achieve a well-rounded view of the community, field trips will supplement talks by guest speakers. Upon completion of the provisional course and election to active membership next year, these young women will serve their community through active participation in the projects of the league.

Mrs. Robert Davenport is provisional chairman, and Mrs. Charles Morgan Jr. is assistant chairman. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Glenn Rogers, Mrs. Don Dunbar, Mrs. Donald Bishop, Mrs. Ferrell Davis, Mrs. Milton Nickel, Mrs. John Steele Jr. and Mrs. Patricia Baskin.

Shell Employees Hold Family Night

The Shell Midland Employees Club and Central YMCA co-sponsored a family night Saturday in the Y for employees of Shell Oil Co. and Shell Pipe Line Corp. and their families.

Basketball, volleyball, handball, racquet ball, table tennis, swimming and trampolines provided the entertainment.

The club has approximately 400 members and their families and each year sells memberships to finance club activities. Shell Oil Co. also makes a financial contribution to help defray costs. Club activities have included a shrimp boil and game party, theater night, barbecues, bowling parties, Christmas dance, stag night, square dancing and children's day.

The 1973 club officers are Cole Letteney, president; Don Beaudry, vice president; Shirley Jarrell, secretary; Larry Attai, treasurer; and Marty Thjeme, membership chairman.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Mrs. Legard G. Lettwich of Effingham, Ill., was among 14 career missionaries appointed recently by the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board.

A school teacher in Farina, Ill., Mrs. Lettwich will work with her missionary husband, who is superintendent of missions in Effingham.

A native of San Angelo, Tex., Mrs. Lettwich attended high school in Midland, Tex., and was graduated from Hardin-Simmons University.

Mrs. Lettwich joins a mission force of more than 2,200 volunteers working in all 50 states, Panama and Puerto Rico.

Dear Abby

No Redress For Dress Code

—By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Man, do we have a problem! About 100 junior and senior high school students in Oklahoma need your help. Ours is a small-town school and the school board is so old fashioned it isn't even funny. They set up a dress code for girls saying we can't wear our dresses any shorter than three inches above our knees. And they even tell the boys how long to wear their hair. They can't have it any longer than their collars.

Abby, everyone is so uptight here they are failing in their luncheon for Midland Woman's Club in the club house was Smith Ray, Midland attorney. The Fine Arts Club was the hostess club. Ray was introduced by Mrs. George F. Vanaman. The invocation was given by Mrs. Robert Truitt.

The history of "Early Midland" beginning in 1880 through 1930, at the time of the oil boom, was traced by Ray. He stressed the importance to the area in the early days of water and wells and windmills; the value of barbed wire fencing. He told the group that many of the settlers came from Virginia, Ohio, Missouri and other states.

Ray paid tribute to leaders in the early days who had faith in Midland and aided in its growth and progress.

DEAR ABBY: You wrote, "You will always be your mother's daughter regardless of who your father's wife is." You are wrong. It should be "WHOM" because the entire phrase "who your father's wife is" is the object of the preposition "of."

Should your experts on English language prove me incorrect, I bow to the fact that language usage is a living thing, and as such is always changing.

WIFE AND TEACHER

DEAR WIFE AND TEACHER: Don't teach the above, because you are wrong. "Who" is correct, because it is the subject of the clause, not the object.

DEAR ABBY: I came up with what I thought was a brilliant idea in the way of New Year's resolutions for married folks.

The husband should make up a list of resolutions for his wife to follow, and the wife should make up a list of resolutions for her husband to follow. For example, he might have me resolve never to ask him to stop on his way home and pick up something from the store, because that's my job and I have all day to do it. And I might have him resolve always to call me and tell me if he knows he'll be late getting home.

My husband told me he thought it was a very foolish idea and I should forget it.

Personally, I can't see what anyone would have to lose except some bad habits that irritated the spouse. On Jan. 1, both parties would sit down together, exchange lists, and bar-

Berry Family Tours Spain

Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Berry and their son, Christopher, recently returned from a trip to Valencia, Spain, where they visited their daughter and sister, Marsha, a junior language student at the University of Valencia.

Miss Berry and her brother are both graduates of Lee High School. He is a sophomore at Trinity University, where Marsha also studied during her freshman and sophomore years.

One summer she attended the Technical Institute in Monterrey, Mexico. Last year she worked in New York City for an engineering firm and also attended college classes.

The family made an extensive tour of Spain and observed Marsha's 21st birthday with a champagne luncheon on Dec. 29.

They were in Seville, Cordova, Madrid and other historical cities of Spain, as well as the Balearic Islands.

On Jan. 5 the family watched a colorful Epiphany Eve parade, featuring Spanish children, who celebrate and receive gifts on Epiphany as children in the United States do on Christmas Day.

Before returning home, Mr. and Mrs. Berry treated their son to a trip to Paris, France. Mr. and Mrs. Berry spent last June in France.

Chapter Conducts Ritual Ceremony

A preceptor ritual was conducted for Mrs. Ennis Cox and Mrs. Jack Howard during a recent meeting of the Preceptor Alpha Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in the home of Mrs. Charles Matthews, 3303 Windsor Drive.

Mrs. Russell Sexton, assisted by Mrs. Bill McCoy and Mrs. Ben Crowell, conducted the ritual, which was arranged by Mrs. Gene Holmes, vice president.

A letter thanking the chapter for a contribution was read from the Texas Hematology Laboratory.

Mrs. Sexton appointed Mrs. Howard to serve as recording and corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Matthews presented the program on her life, in keeping with the program book, "Know Thy Sister."

Oldtimers Club Card Party Held

The Oldtimers Club met recently in Ranchland Hills Country Club for bridge games. The bridge winners were Mrs. Charles Mott, high, and Mrs. Jim Coker, second high. The special prize was won by Mrs. Charles McHugh. Mrs. Ennis Cox and Mrs. Lewis McGuire received the bonus prize.

Gifts of appreciation were presented to Mrs. J. T. Gist and Mrs. William Gillett, outgoing president and vice president of the club.

Mrs. Wayland Pope was introduced as a new member. Guests were Mrs. J. L. Norton and Mrs. Coker.

U.S. Planes Pound Red-Held Positions Over South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Despite reports of an impending ceasefire, U.S. bombers hammered North Vietnamese positions across South Vietnam with the heaviest strikes in five months today and Monday.

Military sources said it was part of a combined effort to minimize an expected Communist land grab.

U.S. fighter-bombers carried out 374 strikes and the big B52s added another 80 during the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today, U.S. officials said. It was the largest number of strikes since Aug. 22, when 375 were reported.

South Vietnamese military sources said captured Communist documents and reconnaissance indicated that enemy troops and supplies are moving from the Cambodian border southward along the Saigon River corridor toward Saigon.

The main staging area was said to be the Michelin rubber plantation, 40 miles northwest of the capital, where South Vietnamese forces suffered almost 400 casualties in the last week.

Fighting was reported to have tapered off in the area, but field officers were anticipating renewed attacks.

Other North Vietnamese forces were said to be moving from the Cambodian and Laotian borders toward the major cities of Pleiku and Kontum in the central highlands.

More than half of the U.S. fighter-bomber strikes were in the northern quarter of South Vietnam, where Hanoi's troops are trying to hold on to a 10-mile strip of land below the demilitarized zone which they seized during the Communist offensive last summer.

Scattered fighting was reported across South Vietnam from the DMZ to the Mekong Delta.

Shell's Pasadena Plant Again Gets Walkout Notice

HOUSTON (AP) — Shell Oil Co.'s giant Pasadena plant was put on strike notice Monday, the second time such a notice was received from the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

Last week the OCAW warned Shell to prepare for a strike by Wednesday unless an acceptable two-year contract was reached. However, the union withdrew the notice before the date was reached.

Monday the union said it will strike "sometime this week," unless a contract is reached.

Lee Youth Center Chatter

By PAM BOHRER, DIANA NORTHINGTON & CARLA NANCE

Hey, Rebs. — You know what we're going to do tonight? BEAT THE BULLDOGS!

Sounds great, huh? The district championship-bound Rebels really put it on the Abilene Eagles last Friday night in a scorching basketball thriller, 79-60. Don Bradley scored 34 points to lead the team to its 21st victory in a row. No. 22 will be tonight as Lee runs over those crosstown Puppies. Everyone come in-time to see the J.V. win at 6, with the Mighty Varsity playing immediately after, at 8. The games are in the MHS gym, so be sure to go early and witness the BASHING OF THE BULLDOGS!!

The racquet-ears opened their season with a 16-8 victory over Odessa Permian Saturday. Congrats to the tennis team! Some single winners were Doug Diann Berry, Mary Helling-Crumley, Steve Hilliard, Gary Cole, Mike Jobe, Chad Shaw, Ron Allega, Robert Stiles, Steve Erck Henry and Susan Nance. The doubles teams who pulled out victories were Doug and Rick Crumley, Steve Hilliard and Gary Cole and Rob Hill, Mike Hill, Susan Garrot, ert Stiles, Sara Mills and Shar-Grimes, Susan Shaw and Cotton Barton, and Christy Branum and Susan Nance. The team is playing in a tourney this Saturday on the LHS courts. Lots of luck to the Rebels!

Baseball Business

Baseball season is about to begin and eight girls have been chosen to help keep score, pick up bats and helmets and to help out in various ways. This year's batgirls will be Jana Roberts, Jackie Smith, Terri Colley, El-len Beach, Becky McCuiston, Carol Bohannon, Lou Neely and Laura Hughes. Congrats!

Amarillo Tascosa won sweep-staks in the annual Tall City Invitational Speech Tournament held here last Friday and Saturday. Since MHS and LHS hosted the tourney, neither's speech team entered in the competition. Muleshoe took second place and Andrews won third. Congratulations to Carry McCallum, Barron Frith and Mike Hester! These Rebels made the Texas All-State Choir. That is a very high honor and we are proud of these three Rebs. Way to go!

New Student

Remember that Beca Fischer, a new foreign exchange student from Brazil, will arrive at the airport at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday. Be sure to meet her and make her semester in Rebelland one she will never forget.

The Spanish Club had a "bring covered dish" dinner last Thursday night at Ann Becker's house. About 50 people were present for the feast. Also, an ancient Christmas custom from Mexico was celebrated. Everyone brought a small gift and, when entering the house, they took off their shoes, only to find a present in them when leaving. This represented the coming of the three wise men. A pinata was hung and broken. Mimi Cummings and Sharon Naert were the guest speakers.

Julia Pendleton was awakened Saturday morning by a roomful of giggling girls. Barbara Johnston and Sheryl Dixon hosted a kidnap breakfast for Julia.

The sleepy-eyed girls attending were Rhonda Cartwright, Cynda Brown, Diane Magee, Debbie Turner, Tracy Leath, Lana Lar-son and Karen Raabe.

Mimi Cummings had a "get together" last Friday night after the basketball game. Many Rebs came and helped John Stark celebrate his 17th birthday. Some of those seen eating cake and jiving to the sounds of "Grand Funk" were Scott Hammond, Gary Baggs, Anna Vick, Ann Becker, Carolyn Reavis, single winners were Doug Diann Berry, Mary Helling-Crumley, Steve Hilliard, Gary Cole, Mike Jobe, Chad Shaw, Ron Allega, Robert Stiles, Steve Erck Henry and Susan Nance. The doubles teams who pulled out victories were Doug and Rick Crumley, Steve Hilliard and Gary Cole and Rob Hill, Mike Hill, Susan Garrot, ert Stiles, Sara Mills and Shar-Grimes, Susan Shaw and Cotton Barton, and Christy Branum and Susan Nance. The team is playing in a tourney this Saturday on the LHS courts. Lots of luck to the Rebels!

Monday night, in the Lee YC, Rebels were "wheeling and dealing for big prizes." The Junior Council and 100 Club sponsored the event. Rick Folger, Rick Dunn, John Simon, Clayton Holcomb, David Tilley, Lou Nelly, Jana Roberts, Jooee Reynolds and Anna Vick were the senior "prizes." Fred Sides, Mickey Simon, Jan Caffey, Missie Mitchell, Carla Terger-son and Janet Gieb were the lucky juniors. Keith Bishop, Jay Frazier, Ronnie Farrish, Gary Bowman, Brad Stephenson, Jan-ette Moore, Tanya Jones, Pam Kelly, Laura Chandler and Gay-ette Lott were the sophomores up for bids. Some lucky people will have these "prizes" at their service during the next few school days.

"Bullitt" will be showing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Mid-land YC. A good idea would be to start attending these shows. Get into the "Go to the YC movie" habit. After all, these movies are for your benefit. "Play Misty for Me" is planned for March 1. Mark these dates on your calendar!

That's about it for this week, Rebs. See ya tonight!

DUMP THE DOGS

Pam, Diana & Carla

P.S. Many Rebs helped with the speech tourney as timekeep-ers, guides, etc. One timekeep-er — Karen Haskell — was so taken with a good looking strong-voiced debater that she forgot to show the time cards and, for about three minutes, But she caught up in time.

Catholic Leaders Deplore High Court Abortion Decision

By BARRY SCHWEID
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic church leaders have deplored the Supreme Court decision guaranteeing American women the right to have medical abortions during the first six months of pregnancy.

Otherwise, there was mixed reaction to the court's 7-2 ruling Monday that the states may interfere with this "right of privacy" only in the last three months of pregnancy, when the unborn child is developed enough to live outside the mother.

John Cardinal Krol of Philadelphia, the highest-ranking Catholic prelate in the United States, called the decision "an unspeakable tragedy" and said, "It is hard to think of any abortion recommended by her son in the 200 years of our history which has had more disastrous implications for our stability as a civilized society."

Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle of Washington, D.C., called the decision "a catastrophe for America." "It is a shocking display of a few men arrogating to themselves the judgment of what stage the life of an unborn child may be terminated," he said.

Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma said the issue is one for state legislatures. "I deeply regret this additional intrusion by the federal government into matters the state should resolve," he said.

The ruling struck down a Texas law that had made it a crime for doctors to terminate pregnancies, except "for the purpose of saving the life of the mother."

The court also disapproved by a 7-2 vote provisions of a Georgia law. These required advance approval of a hospital committee and concurrence of two additional physicians before a woman could have an abortion recommended by her doctor.

Thirty other states have laws similar to the Texas statute. Thirteen additional states have laws like Georgia's. Since the handful of remaining states ready permitted medical abortion virtually upon demand, the ruling will have nationwide impact.

Dallas School Dropout Wins Case, Still Loses

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A 27-year-old white high school dropout from Dallas who got pregnant, got fired, and got mad has won the right for all women to obtain an abortion.

She was listed only as "Jane Roe" on the class action suit in which the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the Texas abortion law and apparently similar laws in other states.

And although she won the case, she had the baby anyway.

H.R. lawyer, State Rep. Sarah Weddington of Austin, said she continued her pregnancy while waiting to see if any further Texas legislation on abortion would be (the baby) too long and also to avert the possibility that the Supreme Court would declare it neutral on the subject," he said.

Ms. Weddington concealed the identity of her client, but her state representative, said, "I am very pleased because of the impact this decision will have on the lives of the many women who in the past have suffered because of the current Texas law," she said.

"I am humble to be able to represent the class of women affected by this decision and decision. I fear it reflects an ever-lesening respect for the sacredness of life in our society," a Dallas federal court in 1970 he said.

The court overturned the Texas statute, but the state appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which twice heard arguments before Monday's historic ruling. Reaction elsewhere over Texas was generally guarded, with most officials waiting to get a detailed look at the decision.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked Atty. Gen. John Hill for his evaluation of this ruling and for the alternatives open to Texas as a result of the Supreme Court's decision.

Li. Gov. Bill Hobby wanted to continue her pregnancy while waiting to see if any further Texas legislation on abortion would be (the baby) too long and also to avert the possibility that the Supreme Court would declare it neutral on the subject," he said.

Ms. Weddington concealed the identity of her client, but her state representative, said, "I am very pleased because of the impact this decision will have on the lives of the many women who in the past have suffered because of the current Texas law," she said.

"I am humble to be able to represent the class of women affected by this decision and decision. I fear it reflects an ever-lesening respect for the sacredness of life in our society," a Dallas federal court in 1970 he said.

San Antonio City Council Rescinds Hospital Action

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — City councilmen rescinded Monday a resolution to aid North Vietnam's Bach Mai Hospital in Hanoi, and drew praise and criticism alike.

The council met in emergency session to take another look at a resolution passed by six members of the nine-member body Thursday.

The resolution had asked San Antonio residents to contribute to the reconstruction of Bach Mai, which the resolution's proponent, Dr. Robert Hilliard, said "was bombed by U.S. planes 'by mistake'."

Lubbock — A total of 365 students in the College of Agricultural Sciences qualified for the dean's honor list for the 1972 fall semester, according to Dean Anson R. Bertrand.

To qualify for the honor list, a student must be enrolled in 12 hours of courses, excluding pass-fail courses, and have at least a 3.0 grade point average. Texas Tech uses a 4.0 grading system.

Midland students recognized for their high academic achievement in the College of Agricultural Sciences are:

Gary D. Bellomy, park administration, 3708 Gulf St.; Terri L. Greenwood, range management, 3811 Cimmaron St.; Gerald C. Nobles, animal business, Box 1748; Joseph T. Lupardus, park administration, 2801 Dengar St.; Andrew E. Reed, park administration, 914 County Club Drive; Terry J. Routh, park administration, 806 Harvard St.; Cathie J. Townsend, pre-veterinary, 3510 Stanolind St.; Charles A. White, horticulture, Star Route A.

Welfare Forum Slated Thursday

New budgetary procedures from the Texas Department of Welfare will be discussed in an open forum at 8 p.m. Thursday in room 101 of the Carver Building.

New procedures, which will result in lowering, raising or denying payments to welfare recipients, will be explained, and questions will be answered by the department's financial services staff.

Most of Bolivia's 424,163 square miles is sparsely inhabited.

 2 sticks (1 cup) butter or margarine
 2 cups salad oil
 Sauce for Dipping

Cut beef into 3/4 inch cubes. Carefully trim off all fat and connective tissue. Place meat in bowl and refrigerate. Prepare a sauce for dipping. About 20 minutes before serving, heat together in a saucepan the butter and salad oil. When the mixture bubbles and begins to brown, pour it into a 2 quart fondue dish, leaving any solids in bottom of saucepan. The hot fat should not be more than 2 inches deep. Place it on the stand over heat. When the fat begins to bubble, invite each guest to spear a cube of beef with fondue fork or bamboo stick and lower it into the hot fat. Cook 2 to 3 minutes. Push meat off fork onto individual plate or eat from disposable bamboo stick. Dip into a sauce of your choice.

Former President Johnson Dies Of Heart Seizure spokesman quoted her as saying, "His health seemed no different than it had been recently. He seemed a bit quieter but was in good spirits."

After spending more than an hour in San Antonio, Mrs. Johnson returned to Austin and joined her daughter, Luci, and son-in-law, Patrick J. Nugent, for the return to the family ranch to discuss funeral arrangements.

"The Johnson's other daughter, Lynda, and her husband, Charles S. Robb, flew to Texas from Charlottesville, Va., where Robb is a third-year law student at the University of Virginia. A plane was provided by President Nixon.

The news of Johnson's death drew immediate tributes from the White House, the halls of Congress and the streets of America.

"No man had greater dreams

Air Force One To Carry Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is sending Air Force One, the same craft that brought the body of John F. Kennedy here from Dallas nine years ago, to Texas to bring Lyndon B. Johnson here for funeral rites.

The big jet also is the airplane on which Johnson took the presidential oath shortly after Kennedy's assassination on Nov. 22, 1963.

PERSONAL FRIEND—

Mrs. Hodge Shocked At Johnson's Death

Mrs. J. Howard Hodge, 2002 Humble St., prominent Midland clubwoman, who had been a close personal friend of President Johnson during his entire political career, this morning expressed shock and grief at Johnson's death.

"I had hoped that he would have many more years of relaxed life and enjoyment in his if town," he continued. "The volcano just didn't enter my mind. But when I looked out of the window, it was plain what had happened."

Women, children and hospital patients were flown out despite a rain of hot ash falling from the sky. The other residents left by boat. Officials for a time feared the harbor at Vestmannaeyjar might be closed by the oozing lava, but this danger did not materialize.

Town Close By

Vestmannaeyjar is only 150 yards from Heilgafell, the volcano that had not erupted since the Vikings discovered Iceland in 984 A.D. But the first outpouring of lava flowed away from the town and into the Atlantic, and it was some time before the flow moved toward the houses.

Ships of Iceland's large fishing fleet and its five coastal patrol boats were sent to the island. All buses in Reykjavik were commandeered and dispatched to Thorlakshofn, on the southern coast, where the rescue armada was landing the evacuees.

Quake Precedes Flow

The eruption was preceded by a small earthquake Monday. Then during the night a fissure 2,000 to 3,000 yards long split open and began spewing out lava and ash.

Volcanoes are comparatively common on Iceland, where most of the Kentucky-size main island is formed from lava.

The present eruption is about 20 miles northeast of where an undersea eruption in 1963 created Surtsey, a new island made of lava, where there had only been ocean before.

Jets To Produce Much Less Smoke

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within a year, we'll all be much less aware of jet planes overhead, including those of us who live near airports. So says Air Transport Assn., which reports that engines in the new generation of jets are designed to produce minimal smoke and noise, and these will constitute 13 per cent of the total fleet.

The association says that by the end of 1973, 51 per cent of the fleet will have "retrofitted" engines, which are sharply modified to cut smoke.

for America," said Nixon, leading the nation in tribute. "Even as we mourn his death, we are grateful for his life, which did so much to make those dreams into realities."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the vice president under Johnson, termed the Texan "a strong man who cared for the weak."

"No man gave more to the struggle for human rights nor asked more of us in the battle against racism and discrimination," said Humphrey. Johnson's death came 28 days after that of former President Harry S. Truman, leaving the nation without a living former chief executive. Nixon ordered flags on all federal buildings, already lowered to mark Truman's death, flown at half staff for 30 days following Johnson's death.

Gives Account

At a news conference in Austin several hours after Johnson's death, Tom Johnson, a former business associate and news secretary not related to the family, gave this account of the seizure:

At 3:50 p.m. CST, Johnson, who routinely took a nap after lunch, called the ranch switchboard and asked that a Secret Service agent be sent to his bedroom. Agents Ed Nowland and Harry Harris dashed 100 yards from their quarters within a portable resuscitator. They arrived in about two minutes and began to treat the former President. The third agent, Mike Howard, arrived within minutes and the trio attempted mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Dr. George McGranahan, who took over as Johnson's personal physician last July, said it was aboard a plane in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, that Vice President Johnson was sworn in as 36th President of the United States after Kennedy here today to say that I need your help. I cannot bear this burden alone. I need the help of all Americans and all America.

He went on to ask congressional action on civil rights and social legislation left in the wake of Kennedy's death at San Antonio. The finding was that Johnson went before a joint session of Congress and a speech interrupted 30 times by applause, the Democrat from Texas declared:

"An assassin's bullet has thrust upon me the awesome burden of the presidency. I am here today to say that I need your help. I cannot bear this burden alone. I need the help of all Americans and all America."

Catholic College Names President

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The directors of Incarnate Word College here have made Sister Margaret Patricia Slattery the sixth president of the institution, the college announced Monday.

She had been serving as acting president since Sept. 25 while a committee of the Catholic institution deliberated on a permanent successor to Dr. Earl Jones, who resigned June 1 due to poor health.

Shortly after adjournment today the senators and representatives boarded chartered buses to the LBJ Library where Johnson's body will lie in state until early Wednesday.

All senators and representatives were asked to be present at the library at 1 p.m. when Gov. Dolph Briscoe, accompanied by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Price Daniel Jr. placed a wreath at the bier of Johnson.

Both houses quickly passed a resolution making Thursday an official day of mourning in Texas with all state offices closed. The resolution was proposed by Briscoe.

Lyndon Johnson Fought Hard To Bring Equality To All

By KENNETH J. FREED
WASHINGTON (AP) — "We Shall Overcome." The words of the civil-rights anthem rolled out across the nation in the distinct tones of the South. Lyndon Johnson of Texas was telling America to live up to its promise of equality.

The commitment to civil rights for blacks came late to Johnson—he had once voted against an anti-lynching law. But, when it came, it came with all the strength, cleverness and stubbornness that was in him, and there was plenty of it.

And it stayed. When he stood before Congress and in front of television cameras in 1965 to say "we shall overcome," he was not spouting rhetoric convenient for a Democratic party leader.

In one of his last public acts, former President Lyndon Johnson stood on the steps of the library he had built as a monument to himself in Austin, Tex., to say America still owed its blacks what they deserved as a birthright—equality.

Owed Its Blacks

"To be black is not to stand on a level ground," he said last Dec. 12, nearly four years past the time he needed to be concerned about acceptance.

But he was concerned; enough to spend an exhausting day trying to retie the strands of a tattered civil-rights coalition that had come apart from age and inner doubt.

It was this concern, and the record he built as 36th president, that was in the memories of many who mourned after hearing of Johnson's death Monday night.

The Rev. David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and Organizer of the Poor People's March in Washington during Johnson's administration, said "the nation, the world, black people and poor people in particular lost one of the greatest friends of democracy."

But, Abernathy went on, "I think his greatest contribution rests in the fact that he could lift himself beyond the barrier of sectionalism, refusing to be a Southerner clinging to a dead and unjust society."

Thurgood Marshall could speak as one who knew firsthand of Johnson's commitment to blacks. Johnson named him the first black to serve as a justice on the Supreme Court.

Marshall said: "In his private and official acts, President Johnson will go down in history as the one president who did all in his power to promote humanitarianism—the equalitarian principle of the equality of man."

Civil Rights Law

Johnson's desire to move into the vanguard for racial equality first was evident in 1957 when, as Senate Democratic leader, he turned his back on his colleagues from the South and engineered passage of the nation's first civil-rights laws since Reconstruction.

Johnson took another step, and pushed the country with-him, in 1964 when, as President, he convinced Congress to go along with another, much stronger civil-rights bill.

Johnson got his bill, but he got it partly because he cloaked its passage in the memory of the murdered John F. Kennedy.

In 1965 another, even stronger, bill to protect and further the rights of blacks and other minorities came to Congress, and Johnson used all his magical charm, and the credits owed him from more than a quarter century in Congress, to get passage. And the victory was his, without qualification.

It was then, 1965, that Johnson stood on the mountain, hailed as the rightful successor to the man who had taken blacks out of bondage a century before—Abraham Lincoln.

But the fate that was spared Lincoln by an assassin's bullet hit Johnson full in the face—disillusionment by blacks who felt rightfully or not that the share of the Great Society delivered them was really short change.

Watts, Detroit

First came Watts, then Detroit and Bedford-Stuyvesant and Newark—blacks in a rage against whites and that included the white resident of the big white house at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. in Washington, D.C.

Johnson ordered a federal investigation of the riots, but when the reports came in blaming the national government for not doing enough he reacted defensively.

Then, on April 4, 1968, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated and the nation's capital city erupted in riot, with whole blocks turned into infernos only 10 blocks from the White House.

Here, with machine-gun-equipped soldiers guarding the executive mansion and as smoke drifted over the city, Johnson rededicated himself to his commitment.

Speaking over national television and radio, he said: "The dream of Martin Luther King has not died with him."

"Men who are white, men who are black, must and will join together now as never in the past to let all the forces of division know that America shall not be ruled by the bullet but by the ballot of free and just men."

By now, Johnson was already a lame duck, hounded by the dissent and frustration of a failing Vietnam policy into renouncing any attempt at reelection.

Hopes, Dreams

And with his hopes for another term in the White House went his dreams of entering history as the man who delivered to all Americans "the promise of the Declaration of Independence, dreams he expressed in the same 1965 speech in which he pledged 'we shall overcome.'"

"I want," he said that day, "to be the president who helped to end hatred among his fellow men and who promoted love among the people of all races."

LBJ Expected To Die Soon, Neighbor Says

By LEE JONES
STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — Lyndon Johnson expected to die soon, says a neighbor who watched the former president light a cigarette recently and remark, "I am just going to go ahead and enjoy it."

Death came to the nation's 36th president Monday afternoon.

J. O. Tanner, who lives along the Pedernales River, about two miles from the LBJ Ranch here, said he and his wife visited with Johnson at Johnson's ranch last Wednesday.

LBJ's Prediction

"He said two or three times that he just wasn't going to live very long," Tanner said. "We commented several times that he looked good and had real good color. He had, I thought, a good outlook, except for the few times he said he wasn't going to live very long."

Tanner said Johnson said he doubted he would live to see completion of both a national park and the LBJ State Park along the Pedernales.

Tanner remembered Johnson lit a cigarette during the visit although the former president had suffered from heart trouble.

"He said, 'I can't really see how it would shorten my life and I'm sorry but I'm not feeling very well. I am just going to go ahead and enjoy it,'" Tanner quoted Johnson.

Neighbors generally reacted with shock and sadness to Johnson's death and said they remembered him as a friendly man who was likely to show up with presents at Christmas and with help when needed.

"He was a wonderful neighbor, we thought, all these years we have lived here together," said Mrs. Ernest Hodges, whose ranch adjoins the LBJ Ranch.

"If anything came up he was willing to help us all in what we were trying to undertake," she said.

She said that the Johnsons came by Christmas Day with a box of candy, a fruit cake and a fifth of Scotch whisky.

"Every Christmas he has been here, he has never failed to give us that," she said.

Art Kowert, publisher of the Fredericksburg Standard, covered what apparently was Johnson's last public appearance Saturday when Johnson helped Lady Bird plant the first of 100 redbud trees along Ranch Road I, which passes in front of the LBJ Ranch.

Mrs. Kowert said Johnson "was not his usual bubbly self and said, 'I'm sorry but I'm not feeling very well.'"

Last Public Speech Dealt With Rights Issue

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Civil rights were the pride of Lyndon Johnson's presidency—and also the subject of his last public speech.

At a civil rights symposium at the LBJ Library on the University of Texas campus here Dec. 12, Johnson said blacks and Americans "are working now where they were not working 10 years ago." But, he said, no one should "delude himself that our work is done."

Johnson, under whose administration the Voting Rights Act and other important civil rights measures became law, won the applause of blacks and whites after responding to criticism from the Rev. A. Kendall Dallas Jan. 1. He appeared on Smith, an unscheduled speaker when Dolph Briscoe was sworn empty ritual honoring one in as governor of Texas.

Johnson replied, "It's a lot easier to want to do what's right than it is to know what's right."

And the former chief executive called for Americans to "overcome unequal history."

"We cannot obscure this blunt fact," Johnson continued. "The black problem remains membered: 'If our efforts what it has always been—the time, if our will is strong, if problem of being black in a our hearts are right and if white society. That is the problem to which our efforts have companion—then, my fellow not yet been addressed. Americans, I am confident that 'Where we have been concerned in the past for groups as groups, now we must become more concerned with individuals as individuals. As we have lifted from groups the burden of unequal law and custom, the next thrust of our efforts must be to lift from individuals those burdens of unequal history."

And Johnson, who left the presidency in a time of great public dissent, urged black leaders to discuss their grievances with President Nixon.

On Podium

Before his death the silver-haired former president made a public appearance with his after responding to criticism from the Rev. A. Kendall Dallas Jan. 1. He appeared on Smith, an unscheduled speaker when Dolph Briscoe was sworn empty ritual honoring one in as governor of Texas.

When President Nixon was taking the oath of office in Washington Jan. 20, Lyndon was making what was to be his last public appearance—a tree planting ceremony with his wife Lady Bird in Stonewall, near his LBJ Ranch.

But his words from the civil rights symposium were still remembered: "If our efforts what it has always been—the time, if our will is strong, if problem of being black in a our hearts are right and if white society. That is the prob-

Vietnam One Of Johnson's Deepest Disappointments

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the beginning of Lyndon B. Johnson's presidency, Vietnam was a shadow on his horizon. At the end, it cast a pall ranging far across his administration.

Controversy Stirred

"The strain of prolonged engagement in a distant war stirred deep controversy among our people," Johnson said later. "The war created or deepened divisions—between the President and Congress, between 'doves' and 'hawks,' between generations..."

So it was in a Vietnam speech, March 31, 1968, announcing a scaleback of the U.S. air assault on North Vietnam in a move to promote peace negotiations, that Johnson dropped his ultimate bombshell: "I shall not seek, and I will not accept, the nomination of my party for another term as your president."

Johnson's deep disappointment shows in his memoirs, "The Vantage Point." He wrote: "I regretted more than anyone could possibly know that I was leaving the White House without having achieved a just, an honorable, and a lasting peace in Vietnam."

At the start, when Johnson stepped into office in November 1963 following John F. Kennedy's assassination, Vietnam admittedly was a difficulty. Kennedy had sent 16,000 U.S. troops there, largely under the label of advisers and technicians, Johnson was to swell the force to some 540,000.

In his first hours in the White House Johnson was briefed on foreign affairs. While South Vietnam "gave me real cause for concern," he recalled, "compared with later periods, even the situation in Vietnam at that point appeared to be relatively free from the pressure of immediate decisions."

Peace Candidate

In the presidential election the following year Johnson rated himself as a Vietnam "peace" candidate as against his more militantly anti-Communist Republican opponent, Barry Goldwater. Johnson won the election in a landslide.

Yet various plans already were under way within the administration, as the secret Pentagon papers later showed, for more forceful action in the Indochina conflict.

In August 1964 the Navy reported attacks by North Vietnamese patrol boats on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin. The affair spurred sponsorship by the administration of a congressional resolution that was to be a center of controversy in ensuing years during Johnson's Vietnam buildup.

The Tonkin Gulf resolution was passed by Senate and House by lopsided majorities. In it, Congress gave its support to the President for "all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression."

Johnson maintained the Tonkin Gulf measure gave congressional support to the deeper U.S. involvement in Vietnam. Critics vigorously disputed this.

Troops Introduced

In February 1965 Johnson began the U.S. air assaults on North Vietnam. He followed up that spring with the introduction of U.S. combat troops whose number eventually swelled to more than half a million.

Meanwhile, he was accompanying the military stepup with a continuing series of unsuccessful peace moves.

In April 1965 he delivered a major address at Johns Hopkins University urging Hanoi to join in trying to reach a settlement. In October 1966 he journeyed to Manila to join with Vietnam allies in proposing a peace solution.

He sent diplomats around the world on secret and public peace-seeking missions, sometimes accompanied by pauses in the U.S. bombing of the North.

Finally, in November 1968, Johnson was able to reach a bomb-halt-negotiations deal with North Vietnam which led to the Paris peace parley. The negotiating sessions at the French capital got under way just after Johnson left office and have continued intermittently since.

In one of history's coincidences, Johnson's death came the day before an initialing of a Vietnam peace pact under the administration of his successor, President Nixon.

Left Springboard

Johnson felt that he had left a springboard for Nixon to use toward peace in Vietnam when the new President entered office in January 1969.

"I felt I was turning over to President Nixon," he said, "a foreign-policy problem that, although serious, was improving; an ally that was stronger than ever before; an enemy weakened and beaten in every major engagement; and a working forum for peace."

imposed on new financing for Model Cities and urban renewal, as well as for manpower-training programs.

In addition to the temporary measures applying to current fiscal-year spending, administration sources are predicting cuts of up to 50 per cent in programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development—another Johnson legacy—when Nixon sends his fiscal 1974 budget to Congress next week.

Nixon's previous budgets have curtailed operations of the poverty-fighting Office of Economic Opportunity. Some major OEO programs, such as Head Start, have been shifted to other agencies or eliminated completely.

Of all the social programs Johnson pushed through Congress, perhaps the most enduring has been Medicare, the system of medical care for the aged financed through Social Security.

Medicare was first proposed by President John F. Kennedy, but Kennedy couldn't get it through Congress, Johnson did.

LBJ, Lady Bird Wed With $2.50 Sears Ring

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dan Quill helped get Lyndon and Lady Bird married.

He bought the ring, arranged for the church, minister and wedding party, and even went down to the courthouse and applied for the marriage license.

"I remember everybody was broke then. We had a hard time, Mister," said Dan J. Quill of the 1934 wedding in San Antonio of his longtime friend Lyndon B. Johnson and Claudia Taylor.

Quill, 74, a retired San Antonio postmaster, remembered that LBJ called him from Texarkana Nov. 17 and told him to arrange for the wedding that evening at St. Mark's Episcopal Church.

As the Johnsons' 30th wedding anniversary, Quill reminisced that hastily telephoned orders were not an uncommon procedure for the LBJ of those days.

Got A Dozen Rings

About an hour and a half before the wedding, Lady Bird asked if he (Quill) had bought the ring.

"No," he replied. "You've been passing jewelry stores all day long on your way from Texarkana."

Quill then ran to a Sears, Roebuck store to buy the ring. He didn't know the size, so he talked the clerk into giving him a dozen assorted sizes. After Lady Bird picked out one that fit, Quill returned the other 11 and paid "the magnificent sum of $2.50" for the 12th.

"That was my wedding present to them," he said. Quill also smuggled a $3 bottle of wine into the St. Anthony Hotel to save money on the reception costs.

Johnson and Quill met while

LBJ was a secretary to Rep. Richard Kleberg, D-Tex. It was Kleberg who recommended Quill for the postmaster's job and it was President Lyndon Johnson who kept him in his post three years beyond mandatory retirement age.

"His critics, they caused him all the unhappiness," Quill said after the death of his friend and benefactor.

"The legislation that he passed has never been appreciated by the people... He is going to be missed, I'll tell you that. He's going to go down in history as a great president."

Galveston Fires Chief Of Police

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Glenn Stanford, police chief here for the last two-and-a-half years was fired Monday and Police Lt. D. K. Lack named acting chief by City Manager John Unverferth.

The firing ended a bitter year for Stanford which had seen the City Council pressure Unverferth to fire his police chief and several black groups demand his resignation.

Echeverria Sends Sympathy Message

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican President Luis Echeverria sent the following message to President Nixon expressing sympathy of the death of former President Lyndon B. Johnson:

"In the name of the people and government of Mexico, please accept my most sincere condolences on the occasion of the grievous death of Lyndon B. Johnson, ex-president of the United States of America."

Fateful Speech Sparked Escalation

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson used the dedication of a college building in this central New York city Aug. 5, 1964, to make public a fateful commitment that thrust the United States even deeper into the Vietnam War.

IT WAS A WARM summer day and as he spoke, U.S. Navy planes were attacking North Vietnamese boats and shore installations in retaliation for what were described as assaults on Navy ships in the Gulf of Tonkin earlier in the week.

That was how the speech became to be known. It was Johnson's Gulf of Tonkin speech and he delivered it before upward of 20,000 persons at a ceremony opening the Newhouse Communications Center at Syracuse University.

"Aggression — deliberate, willful and systematic aggression — has unmasked its face to the world," Johnson told the gathering.

"THE WORLD REMEMBERS — the world must never forget — that aggression unchallenged is aggression unleashed," he said. "The government of North Vietnam is today flouting the will of the world for peace. The world is challenged to make its will against war known and known clearly, felt and felt decisively."

Next day Congress passed the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, giving Johnson the power to take all necessary means to repel armed attacks on U.S. forces.

AT THAT POINT began a steady escalation of American involvement in Vietnam that reached a peak of more than half a million troops by the time Johnson left the White House four and one-half years after his Syracuse speech.

Many Of Great Society Programs Being Dismantled

By GAYLORD SHAW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Many of Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society social programs are being dismantled at the time of his death, victims of a budget squeeze and his successor's different approach to domestic problems.

Model Cities, urban renewal, housing subsidies and manpower training are among the Johnson-era programs falling before President Nixon's budget ax.

But other major legislative accomplishments of Johnson's term—especially Medicare and antidiscrimination laws—will long endure.

Three factors have prompted Nixon's moves to phase out or sharply curtail Great Society social-spending programs.

First is their steadily rising costs. Nixon wants to hold federal spending this fiscal year to $250 billion, and next fiscal year to about $270 billion. To do this mandates sharp cuts in big-ticket programs.

Second is the fact that Nixon and many of his key advisers hold that many Great Society programs are, as White House aide John Ehrlichman put it, "inherently unworkable."

Third is Nixon's view that revenue sharing is a better way to attack major social ills.

In the last month, a number of Great Society programs have been hit by a series of cutbacks, freezes and fund impositions.

Housing Moratorium

For example, an 18-month moratorium has been placed on all new commitments for federal housing subsidy programs for low- and middle-income families, a federal-aid system established by legislation Johnson initiated.

Likewise, a freeze has been imposed on new financing for Model Cities and urban renewal, as well as for manpower-training programs.

In addition to the temporary measures applying to current fiscal-year spending, administration sources are predicting cuts of up to 50 per cent in programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development—another Johnson legacy—when Nixon sends his fiscal 1974 budget to Congress next week.

Nixon's previous budgets have curtailed operations of the poverty-fighting Office of Economic Opportunity. Some major OEO programs, such as Head Start, have been shifted to other agencies or eliminated completely.

Of all the social programs Johnson pushed through Congress, perhaps the most enduring has been Medicare, the system of medical care for the aged financed through Social Security.

Medicare was first proposed by President John F. Kennedy, but Kennedy couldn't get it through Congress, Johnson did.

Spaghetti Supper

The Midland High Choir Boosters will stage a fund-raising spaghetti supper in the MHS cafeteria from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, just prior to the Peruvian-MHS basketball game.

A spokesman for the organization said spaghetti, salad and a choice of beverage will be served for $1.

Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.

The Audi 100LS The Porsche 911 The Porsche 914

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.

It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)

The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.

A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsche has proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.

The car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.

We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.

At the auto show we'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.

And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they work.

The way they work.

Auction Tonight To Close 973 Livestock Show

Lee Schweitzer of the Midland County 4-H Club showed the champion lamb in both the fine wool and medium wool divisions in Monday morning's lamb judging of the Midland County Livestock Show.

The champion crossbred lamb, belongs to Sharon Wise of the Midland FFA.

No reserve champion awards were presented in the lamb competition.

In the next round of judging early Monday afternoon, Terry Glover's swine was judged champion hog Glover is a member of the Midland County 4-H Club, as is James Crook, who showed the reserve champion hog.

Kathy Knox and Beau Estes, both of the Midland County 4-H Club showed the champion and reserve champion breeding heifer, respectively. Linda Hancock had the champion steer, while Bobbie Jo Howard exhibited the reserve champion.

Judges for the Monday competition included Frank Brownfield, lams; Jim Allison, swine; and Jay Lee Mareck, cattle.

Today at 1 p.m., more than 25 West Texas judging teams were to test their skills in the annual invitational judging contest. The event comprised of two fat lamb classes, two fat steers classes, a heifer class and two market hog classes, is sponsored by the Midland Jaycees.

The annual three-day livestock exhibition will end with the official presentation of show awards at 6:30 p.m. today, followed by the auction of steers, lams and swine at 7:30 p.m. Tommy Marricle of Snyder will be the auctioneer.

Included in the awards presentation will be the presentation of the Leslie E. Floyd Memorial Showmanship Awards, including a trophy for best showmanship in each of the show's four divisions: calf, lamb, swine and horse.

Granting similar awards will be the Girls Showmanship Awards, sponsored by W. E. Chaney of Rusco Chemical Co. Again, showmanship in all four categories will be honored.

Falling Beam Hurts Midland Man, 20

Gus Trevino, 20, of 2817 Delano St. received chest and leg injuries this morning when a 1,500-pound cement beam fell on him.

At noon today, he was listed in fair condition in Midland Memorial Hospital with possible internal injuries and multiple contusions and abrasions.

Trevino was taken to the hospital by Thomas Ambulance where X-rays disclosed that he had not received any broken bones in the mishap.

The industrial accident occurred shortly after 9 a.m. today in the plant yard of the Featherlite Block Co., located at Industrial St. and Midkiff Road.

The beam, about 10 feet long, struck Trevino a glancing blow across the right side of his body after the fork lift he was operating ran into, and toppled, the masonry unit.

Standefor Rites Conducted Today

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p.m. today in the North A and Tennessee Streets Church of Christ for John Prather Standefor, 52, who died Monday in a hospital here.

Bill Walker, minister, officiated. Interment followed in Resthaven Memorial Park under direction of Newnie W. Ellis Chapel.

Pallbearers were Dick Lowery, Charlie Robertson, Clay Courter, Joe Farris and David Holland of Houston, and Mickey McKandies of Odessa.

Craddick Submits Fire Course Bill

AUSTIN — Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland has introduced a bill in the Texas House to exempt volunteer firemen from tuition and lab fees for courses they are required to take in fire science.

"All employed firemen are exempted from the tuition and fees for these courses, and I feel that those firemen who voluntarily take on this dangerous public service certainly should not pay for this special training," Rep. Craddick, the senior Republican in the House said.

TO SEEK CHANGE IN LAW— Commissioners Reluctantly Raise Court Reporters' Pay

Midland County commissioners raised the salaries of two court reporters Monday afternoon and then resolved to seek a change in the law which required them to raise the salaries.

The commissioners will ask the state legislature to give commissioners the responsibility of setting salaries to be paid from county funds.

Now, the law lets the district judge set salaries of his court reporter and the county adult probation officer. The judge of the domestic relations court sets the salary for his court reporter. These salaries must be paid by the county.

Also, the state sets the salary of one employee in the child welfare office and the salaries in the commodity food program. The county pays these salaries and is reimbursed by the state for those in the food program.

The salaries of the district judge and the domestic relations court judge, which must be the same, are set by the state. According to the commissioners, part of the district judge's salary is paid by the state but all of the domestic court judge's salary is a county expenditure. The court explained it is requesting an attorney general's opinion on whether county funds can be used for that type of activity and said it would consider May's request if the attorney general okays the expenditure.

Delayed action on a request by Gary Haberer of Lubbock to rent the County Exhibit Building for five days, Feb. 28-March 3, for a recreation equipment show.

Library Board
— Appointed three persons to the County Library Board. These are Parker Humes, Mrs. J. H. Ramsoure and Doug Henson. Mrs. Ramsoure has been filling an unexpired vacated position. Humes and Henson are new appointees. They will serve three-year terms.

— Approved trips for County Clerk Roselle Cherry and District Clerk Ruby Murry to attend a County and District Clerks Association conference Feb. 13-15 at College Station.

— Discussed a County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas conference Feb. 7-8 at College Station.

— Were invited by County Auditor Irma White to attend the Area County Auditors Association meeting here Friday. Representatives of 37 surrounding counties have been invited for discussions of auditors' problems.

No Action Taken On Training Center Request

Midland County Commissioners Monday took no action on a request for $15,000 for a work training center for handicapped persons.

The request came from Bob Dickson, primary spokesman for a large group from the Mental Health-Mental Retardation organization attending the meeting.

The MH-MR group currently is sponsored equally by the City of Midland, Midland County, City of Odessa and Ector County.

The group will ask each of the four governing bodies for $15,000 out of revenue sharing receipts to underwrite the training center. It was scheduled to talk with Midland city councilmen at today's regular meeting.

The purpose of the center is to pick up where other programs leave off and develop the adult handicapped.

Work Skills
It would teach work skills in addition to etiquette an employee needs to retain a job, would give the handicapped a chance to work at the center and then would place them in jobs outside the controlled environment, Dickson said.

A recent study of Midland and Odessa showed there are about 100 to 120 adult mentally retarded and multi-handicapped persons who would be immediate potential candidates for this facility, according to a written explanation of the program presented by the group Monday.

According to the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, it costs $300,000 to $500,000 to keep a person in a state school for life.

The local group believes 80 per cent of the persons who would go from here to state schools could go through this school instead and become productive citizens instead of liabilities.

The group wants to establish two centers, one here and one in Odessa.

The $30,000 from the city and county governments here would be used in the Midland center and that raised in Odessa and Ector County would be used for that center.

Judge, Commissioners To Work With Group

County commissioners are, by virtue of their positions, members of various organizations, committees and boards.

Commissioners have chosen the organizations they will work with this year. They are:

—Durward Wright — City-County Health Unit (Pre-Natal Clinic), Midland Industrial Foundation, Midland Memorial Hospital, Regional Health Citizens Advisory Committee and ex-officio member of the chamber of commerce board of directors.

—Charlie Welch — Midland Community Action Agency Inc. board of directors, Culver Youth Home, Exhibits Building, Livestock Association, Midland County Historical Survey Committee and Dorsey Residence and Regional Water and Sewer Studies.

—John Thomas — Midland Community Action Agency Inc. board of directors, Midland County Historical Museum, County Flower Fund Committee, Midland Community Center for Mental Health and Mental Retardation, Midland County Public Library board of directors and parking lot committee and Regional Transportation Studies.

—Win Brown — County Annex Building Committee, Downtown Parking Lot and Old Garage Property committee, Fairview Cemetery board of directors.

Jacoby Scores At Backgammon

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Oswald Jacoby, 70-year-old contract bridge star, rallied in the final 30 minutes of a two-hour final to win the Seagrams World Championship of backgammon.

Jacoby, the eighth-seeded veteran from Dallas, trailed 17-16 late in the match Sunday but defeated Edward Burns, 65, a Santa Barbara, Calif., businessman, 26-19 for his fourth tournament victory in 12 contests here and abroad.

Jacoby's backer, Chicago socialite Charles Wacker III, earned $25,000 for a $2,000 investment in the player auction.

Burns' backers earned $14,000, less a $1,100 sale price.

Rites Slated Today For Mrs. Davidson

ABILENE — Services for Mrs. Mamie Odessa Davidson were to be at 3 p.m. today in Elliott's Funeral Home, at Abilene.

Mrs. Davidson, 55, died Sunday afternoon in her home here after a sudden illness. She was a sister of Mrs. Beatrice Davidson of Midland.

Other survivors include her husband, two sons, two daughters, two other sisters, two brothers and six grandchildren.

From Dark To Light

Way back in mid-November, Coach O. W. Follis of Lamesa and Coach Edd Farmer of Andrews brought their respective squads to Midland for a scrimmage session with Midland High's Bulldogs, and neither coach at that time, was prepared to make any rash statements about their basketball teams. In fact, both coaches seemed to be a bit on the defensive when asked what kind of teams they would field. After last Friday night, both headmasters should be able to answer that question without flinching.

Last Friday, Andrews and Lamesa won the first half crowns in their respective divisions, both with perfect 6-0 loop marks.

The Mustangs of Andrews escaped with a 58-55 victory over Fort Stockton while Lamesa belted hapless Lake View 58-30 to end the first half of district action in 2-AAA and 3-AAA. The two teams also own the best marks in the area cage circles with the Mustangs setting with a 19-4 record and the Tors with a 20-3 mark.

Each club only needs a tie in the second half of action to learn the outright district championships, and this corner feels that both squads are home free.

The Mustangs catch Odessa Ector and Fort Stockton at home this time around and those were the only two squads to give the Mustangs any trouble. Andrews won a 55-50 overtime contest against the Eagles on foreign soil and won by three over the Panthers. Andrews also catches Seminole's Indians at home tonight, and if the Mustangs could pull out just two victories over those three squads, it would probably put them in the playoffs.

Lamesa, on the other hand, was virtually uncontested in the first half as the Tors won easily on six occasions. The second half schedule also favors the Tors, who catch Lubbock Estacado and Lubbock Dunbar on the home court.

The only apparent blemish on the Tors second half schedule comes when Lamesa faces second place Brownfield in the Cub domain. Even a loss here would probably give Lamesa a tie for the second half championship, so the Tors appear to be well headed for the 3-AAA crown. Lamesa won the first outing between the two clubs with an easy 72-55 verdict.

Strength To Weakness

Coach Farmer says that the play of two 6-5 juniors has made the difference in his ball club. Ronnie Pearson and John Turnage were unknown quantities entering the current cage season, and had only junior varsity experience before winning starting berths with the Mustangs.

"We knew what Leach (Jim) and Roberts (Wayne) could do because they played for us a year ago," said Farmer. "But the play of the two juniors has been better than we really expected. It's been the difference in our team."

Leach, who stands at 6-3, seems to be the spark of the Mustangs offense, and in a game against Monahans, which this corner witnessed, his hustle and leadership ability kept the Mustangs running. With the above combination the Mustangs have become a potent outfit.

The dynamic brother duo of Kent and Harry McCurley has provided the Tors with scoring punch this season, and both are veterans from a year ago. There is no doubt that these two are the key to Lamesa success. Both play defense exceptionally well, and when both are hot from the floor, opponents fear the safety of the scoreboard. Add Jim Roberts and Greg Cannady to the attack and it's easy to see why the Tors own one of the best records around.

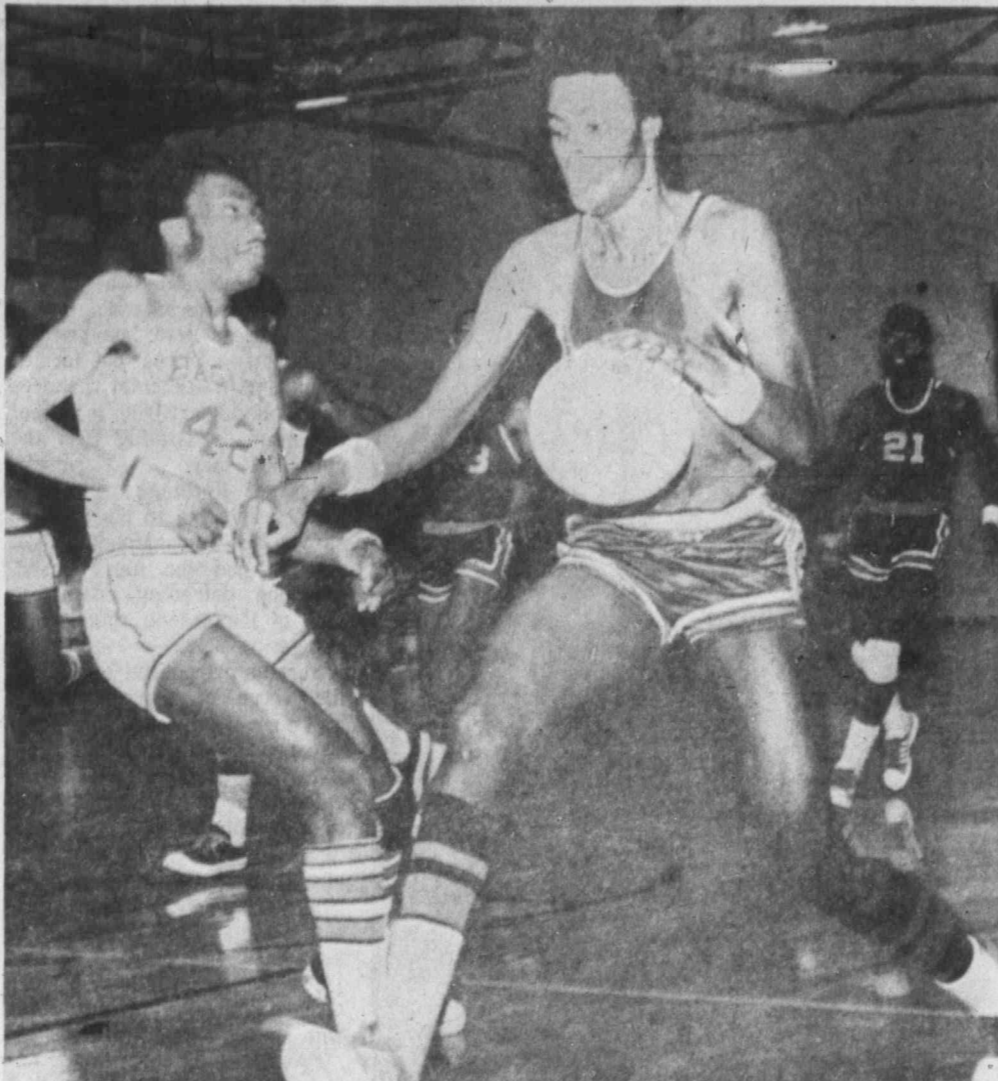

"This team seems to play its best when the chips are down," said Follis Friday night. "We have played bad against some poor clubs, but we were lucky enough to win them."

Follis feels that the Brownfield game will hold the key to the second half, but he has to be pretty confident at this point.

Baring any unforeseen injuries, Andrews and Lamesa should own district titles and a playoff berth, which seems to make the eyes drift to the North where District 1-AAA sports the awesome Levelland Lobos. Levelland is currently 21-0 on the year and can sew up the first half title tonight with a victory over Canyon.

Two of Lamesa's three losses have come at the hands of Levelland. If Andrews wins the district title in 2-AAA, they will catch Levelland right off the bat and Lamesa could meet the winner of that contest in the regional playoffs.

It's still early to be making that kind of prediction, but this corner still feels that Levelland holds the fate of two pretty good ball clubs.

HERE I COME — Six-10 Ron Taylor dribbles toward the basket and Abilene defensive player moves out of way in recent action at MHS gym. Tonight Taylor will lead the Midland Bulldogs against Midland Lee's Rebels, winners of 21 straight.

All-Star Game Loses Two Top Performers

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — With Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Rick Barry missing, the West will be hard pressed tonight to score a third straight victory over the East in the National Basketball Association's 23rd All-Star game.

Chicago will host the classic for the first time and a capacity crowd of 20,000 is expected for the nationally televised contest, 8 p.m. CST.

Jabbar, the former Lew Alcindor and super star of the Milwaukee Bucks, announced his withdrawal Monday night for "personal reasons."

Barry, the high-scoring ace of the Golden State Warriors, suffered an ankle injury in Milwaukee Sunday and had to withdraw. Jabbar will be replaced by Bob Love of the Chicago Bulls and Barry's replacement will be Connie Hawkins of the Phoenix Suns.

It was not known to what extent Jabbar's withdrawal had to do with an incident over the weekend when seven members of a Muslim sect to which Jabbar belonged were killed in Washington, D.C. Jabbar once owned the residence where the killings took place but had donated it to the Muslim group.

Without Jabbar, West Coach Bill Sharman of the Los Angeles Lakers will have only two players—Walt Chamberlain of the Lakers and Nate Thurmond of Golden State.

Tom Heinsohn will direct the East squad for the second straight year. Although the East holds a 1-1 edge in the series which began in 1951, the West won the last two games.

The West won 108-107 in 1971 and by a 112-110 count last year on Jerry West's basket with two seconds left. West, along with Los Angeles teammate Chamberlain, will be making a 13th All-Star appearance to tie the record set by Bob Cousy.

Featuring the West attack will be 6-foot-11 Nate Archibald of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings. Archibald, the NBA's leading scorer, was the top vote-getter in the All-Star balloting.

Heinsohn will have two of his Celtics in the starting line-up—John Havlicek, who will be making his eighth All-Star appearance, and Dave Cowens.

Also scheduled to start for the East is colorful Pete Maravich of Atlanta, who will be making his first All-Star appearance. Maravich probably will team at the guard position with Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks.

Dave Debusschere, also of New York, figures to be a starting forward for the East.

Pro Players Make Moves In NFL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The pro football travel business picked up Monday with Johnny Unitas bound for San Diego, Mike Tillemann heading for Atlanta and John Hadl apparently waitlisted on a flight to somewhere in National Football League country.

Unitas, Baltimore's 17-year super quarterback but victim of a youth movement last season, was sent packing from the Colts to the San Diego Chargers for what Baltimore General Manager Joe Thomas called "future considerations." He declined to elaborate.

Then, the Houston Oilers sent disgruntled defensive tackle Mike Tillemann to Atlanta for the Falcons' first choice in next week's NFL draft.

Unitas, who has completed more passes for yardage, and more touchdowns than any other passer in NFL history but is closing in on his 40th birthday, had insisted since he was benched in favor of youthful Marty Domres after five 1972 games that he would not return to the Colts.

Rankin Seeks Lead

Tors, Mustangs Open Second Half

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

Rankin's talented Red Devils will face their most serious challenge of the season tonight when they host Clint in a battle for the District 6-A cage lead.

The home court advantage gives the Devils a slight edge going into tonight's league lead battle, but both teams own a 6-1 district record as 6-A enters the final stages of loop competition. Clint defeated Rankin in the first meeting between the two clubs, and the winner of today's outing will have the foot in the door as far as the district title is concerned.

Clint's only loop loss came at the hands of the Sanderson Eagles in the first half of district action. Sanderson had the home court edge in that bout, and the Devils are hoping that advantage will help them tonight.

In other 6-A action tonight, Iraan hosts Wink and Sanderson travels to Marfa in a couple of "so-what" contests.

The Andrews Mustangs and Lamesa's Golden Tornados earned first half titles last Friday with victories over Fort Stockton and Lake View respectively, and both teams open second round loop action in their respective districts tonight.

The Mustangs open the second half action in District 2-AAA at home against the Seminole Indians. Andrews won the first half with a 58-55 victory over Fort Stockton.

The Mustangs need only a tie in the second round to earn the district title, so a win tonight would edge Andrews a step closer to their goal. Seminole was the pre-district favorite, but finished the first half with a 3-3 mark.

Lamesa's Tors were virtually uncontested in District 3-AAA, and ran to an easy 6-0 mark to win the first half. The Tors open second round action tonight at home against hapless Colorado City, which finished with a 1-5 first half mark.

In other 2-AAA action, Kermit hosts Monahans while Pecos travels to Fort Stockton. Ector draws the open date.

In 3-AAA second round openers, Lubbock Estacado hosts Lake View while second place Brownfield entertains Sweetwater. Lubbock Dunbar is idle.

District 7-AAA continues its heated race tonight with a couple of key contests on the slate. Stanton's surging Buffaloes lead the pack with a perfect 4-0 reading in district action.

The Buffs can record a first half sweep tonight when they host Ozona's Lions, but this loop decides the winner on the basis of a full round robin schedule.

Coahoma's Bulldogs are only one step behind the Buffs with a 3-1 reading. The Bulldogs travel tonight to McCamey tonight, and must win to stay in the thick end of the league race. McCamey

SPORTS

18—TUESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1973

Lee's history, the old one was eight, and it's the best string for Stueckler, who is pushing toward the 375-win mark as a coach.

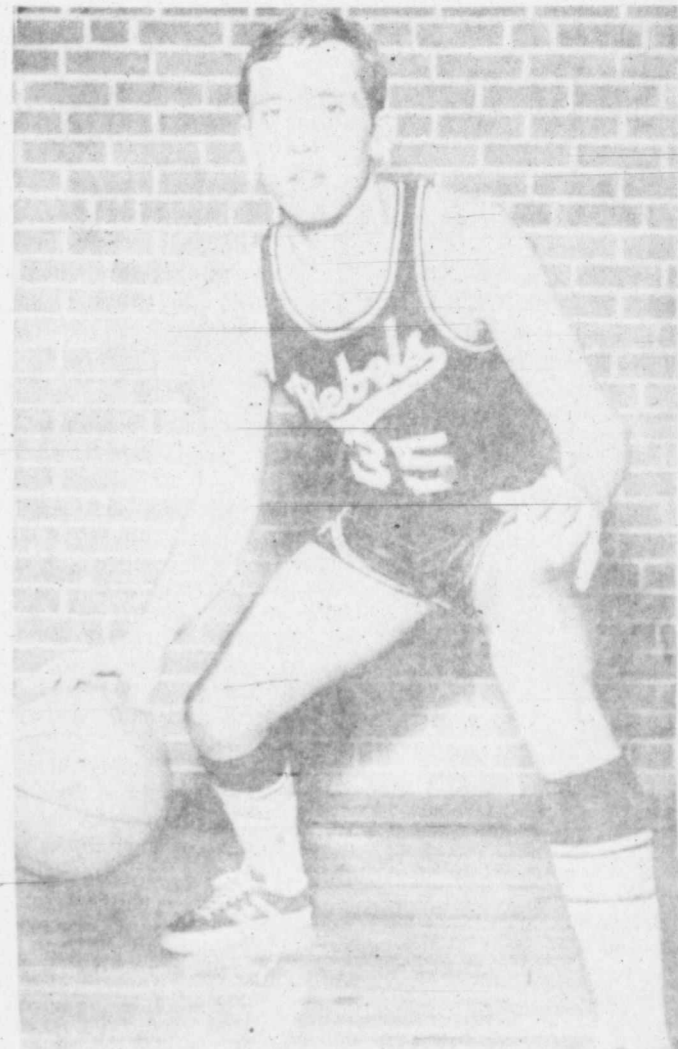

"Last time I was involved in a league game this big," said Stueckler, "was back in 1961, just before I came to Lee, when we (El Paso Austin) met Bel Air for the title before 5,000 fans at UTEP... we lost."

Coach James Cagle feels his Bulldogs will be ready. The Pack needs a win to tie for the first-half title. If Lee wins, Midland must win the second half to force a playoff for the district title.

"I was more worried about the Cooper game Friday night than I was about Lee," Cagle said. "Before you take that wrong, I knew we'd give a good effort against Lee, win or lose, but you can never be sure how your team will play against a 1-4 team."

The JayVee game promises to be a good one, too. Midland is 16-5 and tied with Abilene High in district at 3-1. Lee is 13-9 and has a 4-2 district record.

MHS Sophs Down Rebs

Coach Bill Sears' Midland High sophomores set the stage tonight's big basketball showdown between the Bulldogs and Rebels by romping past the Lee sophomores, 83-59, Monday night in the Midland gymnasium.

Midland had five players in the double figures and it paid great dividends as it took a 28-10 first period lead and was never headed after that. Donnie Roberts led the winners with 16 points followed by Terry Nelson with 15 points. Jackie Wells added 14 more while Terril Littlejohn and Greg Smith chipped in with 12 each.

Lee only had one player — Kent Carpenter in the double figures with 15 points. The game was never in doubt as both Sears and Jack Stephenson substituted liberally during the ragged contest. Midland held on to a 55-22 advantage at halftime and led 72-40 going into the final period.

Lee managed to outscore MHS in the second half, 37-28, but it was too late. Tonight the Midland and Lee junior varsity tangle at 6:15 p.m. in the MHS Gymnasium with the varsity battle to follow at 8 p.m. The doors of the gym will open at 5:45 p.m. with the first 1,600 fans through the doors and after that, the doors will be locked on a first-come-first serve basis.

PREWITT WORRIED—

SMU Offense Hurting Because Of Gambling

By DENNE H. FREEMAN Associated Press Sports Writer Southern Methodist basketball coach Bob Prewitt, bleary-eyed from watching film, thinks he knows why the Mustangs haven't gotten off to a fast start in the sizzling Southwest Conference basketball race.

"We've got too much gambling instinct in us," Prewitt says. "We try for the home run at times. I don't want to take away our fast break but we've got to be more selective in our play."

SMU was the pre-season favorite to capture the SWC title but has compiled a 4-9 overall record and a 1-1 mark in league play, including a pulsating 79-77 victory over Rice last Saturday night.

"We haven't played good defense and our outside shooting isn't consistent," said Prewitt. "That's two of our main problems. We haven't played consistent basketball for 40 minutes."

SMU hosts Texas Christian tonight while SWC co-leaders Arkansas and Texas Tech also are at home.

Arkansas enters Baylor and Rice is at Tech. In the other SWC battle, Texas is at Texas A&M. Arkansas and Tech are 2-0 while the rest of the SWC teams are 1-1 except for Texas and TCU, each with 0-2 league slates.

"Tech, Arkansas and A&M are for real," said Prewitt. "They've been playing well since the season began. Texas was coming on until it lost Larry Robinson. You just don't lose a player like Robinson without it hurting you. Texas still has fine personnel and is very capable."

Prewitt said Mustang stars Sammy Hervey and Ira Terrell have nagging injuries that may be with them most of the season.

"Sammy has a jammed finger and Ira has a bruised thumb," Prewitt said. "It could be that way the rest of the year for them."

Asked if the conference race was as wild as he expected, Prewitt replied: "All I know is my stomach keeps turning over. I guess that answers the question."

Biles Continues On Streak As Tulsa Chalks Up Victory

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Willie Biles is playing his first basketball season as a guard for the University of Tulsa, and for the second week this season his torrid shooting has brought him honors as Missouri Valley Conference player of the week.

Biles, a 6-foot-3 junior transfer, won the designation for his 63 points in two games last week as Tulsa built its conference record to four victories and no losses—good enough to lead the conference.

Biles, from Memphis, Tenn., had 23 points as the Hurricane defeated St. Louis 58-57. Then he came back with 40 points Saturday night as Tulsa beat West Texas State 87-84. He also picked up 15 rebounds in the second game to lead the team effort.

"It's really an honor to be player of the week in the Valley," Biles said. "This is a tough conference. We don't play conservative basketball, so the recognition here means a lot."

Biles also drew praise from his coach, Ken Hayes. "Sammy High gave us a 100 percent effort against St. Louis with a great second half effort, but it was Willie who won it for us with a tremendous pressure shot from the baseline," Hayes said of Biles' game-winning field goal with just seconds left.

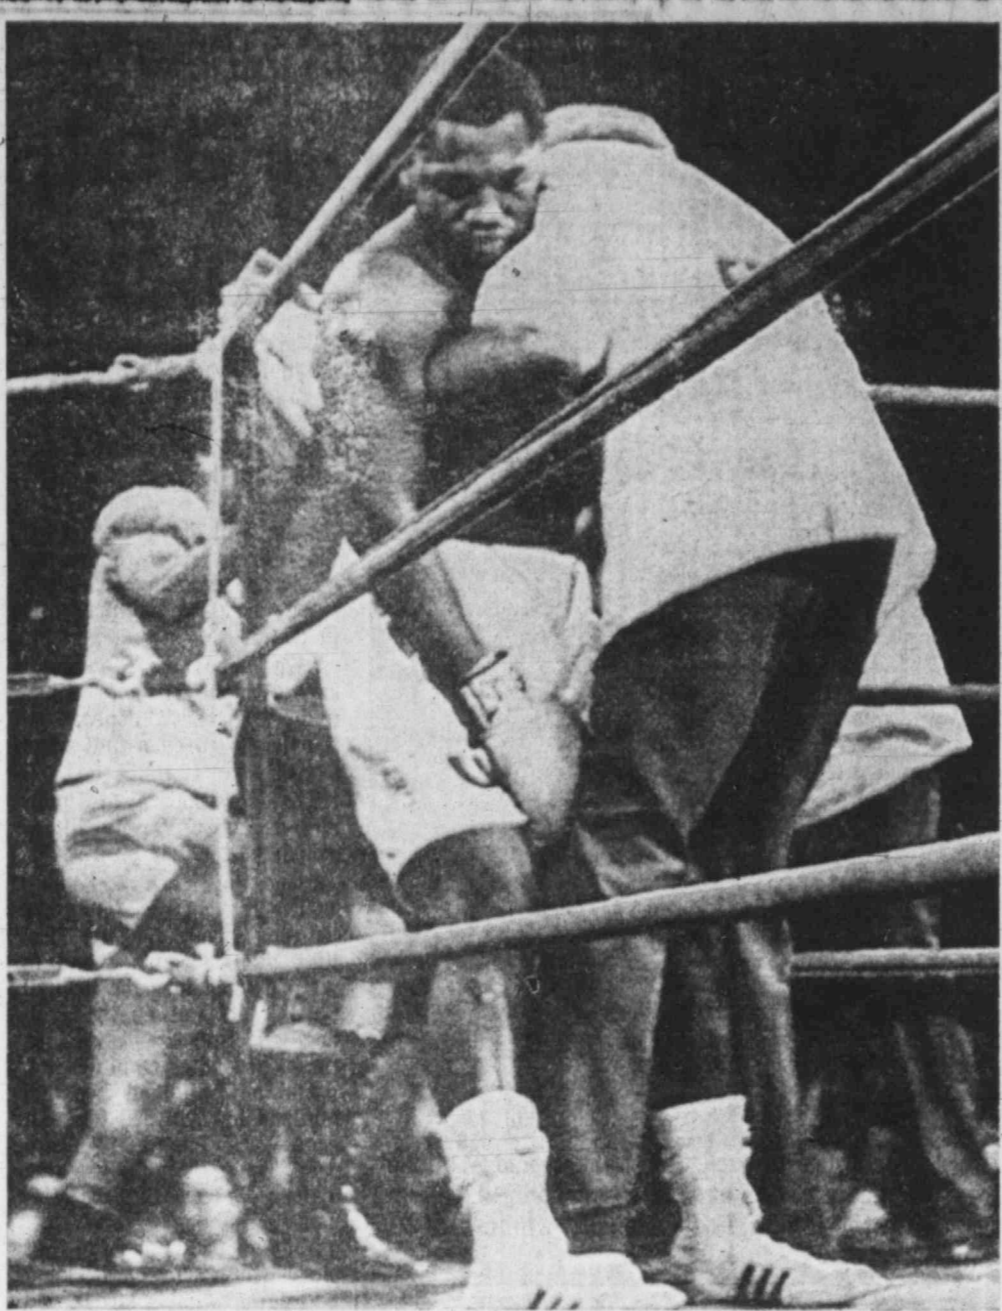

Midland Fighters Capture 2 Titles

The Midland Jaycees Boys Club boxing club began preparations for a weekend amateur boxing tournament in Pecos after bringing home two titles from Kermit over the weekend.

Roscino Zarate defended Keith Bettis, Jal, N.M., 100, Buddy Callahan beat Jim Salazar, Jal, N.M., while Burton Callahan lost to Wes Davis, Kermit, in the Kermit Tournament.

The Midland Country Club will hold a best ball foursome golf tournament with full handicap Saturday at the Club course.

Entry deadline is Thursday and all members interested in entering the one day affair can sign up at the pro shop.

Bruins Retain Lead As NCS Closes In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS and some new additions—in the remaining places.

UCLA, moving in on college basketball's all-time winning streak, and North Carolina State, moving in on UCLA, continue to run 1-2 in the Associated Press weekly poll.

The top-ranked Bruins, after improving their streak to 59 with two victories over the weekend, polled 41 first-place votes for 838 points.

The Wolfpack, meanwhile, remained second but managed to cut into UCLA's 104-point lead of last week. North Carolina State, which received the only other first-place vote, had 756 points. Last week, it was UCLA by 778 to 674.

North Carolina also moved up, going from fourth to third, in the nationwide voting from Memphis State; No. 18 Kansas sports writers and broad-casters. The Tar Heels took 20 votes over third from Maryland with 581 points.

After Maryland, which had new casters, Florida State and Oregon State were tied for fourth with 555. Louisville, Penn.; Santa Clara; St. Joseph's Pa.; Southern Cal; Syracuse; Tulsa; Vanderbilt; VPI.

Spitz Named Top Athlete

By HUBERT MIZELL Spitz, a flop at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, churned to Spitz buried his image as an unprecedented seven gold Olympic medals at the Munich Olympic Games and today was a land-slide winner as 1972 Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year.

The mustachioed Californian today came eight hours before he was named the most popular athlete of the year in a poll of sports newsmen. Golf-famous Black Tuesday of murder Jack Nicklaus was runner-up with 62 and baseball pitcher Steve Carlton received 61.

Johnny Bench and Dick Allen, baseball sluggers from the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago White Sox, respectively, tied for fourth with 20 votes. Not only a hero, the 22-year-old Spitz is a sex symbol. He's a mixture of Burt Reynolds, Omar Sharif and Joe Namath whose body is sold on posters at $2.95 per.

He peddles razor blades, milk, etc., on television, billboards and in printed ads. Spitz has made more deals than Monty Hall in the past four months.

Showbusiness agents now manage the kid from Sacramento, predicting he will be a millionaire before age 25. His appeal to the giggly-girl set may be reduced next month when Mark takes a bride.

Spitz, a Jew, left in secrecy after Arab gunmen made a murderous intrusion at the residence of Israel's Olympic team. He had to come home to feel like a hero again.

Foreman Wins Title Frazier Floored Six Times

By WILL GRIMSLEY KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — The boxing world woke up today with a new heavyweight champion, a 24-year-old former delinquent whose mild manners and tender heart belie a fist of the most devastating pairs the game has seen.

George Foreman sent Joe Frazier spinning to the ice blue canvas six times Monday night and stopped the fierce, hard-punching defending champ in 1:35 of the second round in a staggering upset.

Foreman appeared almost on the verge of tears moments afterward when newsmen swooped down on him in his tight little dressing room in the catacombs of Kingston's National Stadium.

"I didn't want to hurt him any more," he said. "I kept begging Yancey Durham (Frazier's trainer and manager) to stop it."

The swiftness of the turnover of boxing's most prized crown was almost unbelievable. Frazier, a brawling ex-slaughterhouse butcher, had failed his way through 29 opponents as a pro, knocking out 25 of them, and 22 months ago had beaten Muhammad Ali in the so-called Fight of the Century.

Matched against the untested Foreman on this sultry tropical island in a bizarre atmosphere, Frazier had been installed a 3% favorite.

Certainly, he and his supporters had no idea that he would lose the title under such circumstances and thus forfeit what promoters had said would be a $20 million extravaganza between Frazier and Ali in June, probably in Houston's Astrodome.

Now the heavyweight division is in disarray. Foreman is the new king and will call the shots. Neither Frazier, who insists he wants a rematch, nor Ali, who is waiting in the wings, is in his immediate future.

"I am not thinking about any big fights now," he said afterward. "I want a long rest. I want to go home and see my new daughter."

"After that, I want to go all around the country—to Houston and cities like that—and talk to kids. I want to tell them they can do anything they want if they try. I am an example."

The new champion received $375,000 against 20 per cent of the fight's gross while Frazier was guaranteed $850,000 against 42% per cent, but it is Foreman who now is in a position to talk to promoters in million-dollar terms.

"I saw him before the fight," said Angelo Dundee of Miami, trainer for Ali. "I said, 'George, we want to talk to you after you win' and he smiled and said, 'you know, Angie, you're one of my favorite people.'"

Dundee was one of the few experts who predicted a victory for the young giant who grew up in a disadvantaged background in Texas, once played hide-and-seek with the cops and had his life turned around by joining the Job Corps.

A blow to boxing's big manipulators, who now must completely redesign their future plans, Foreman's triumph was heady wine for the Jamaican majority in the surprise crowd of 36,000 who almost filled the combination soccer field and cycling drome that is Kingston's National Stadium.

When the battered and bleeding Frazier was led to his corner and referee Arthur Mercante raised the right arm of the new champion, the crowd went wild. Jamaicans had made Foreman their personal hero during the last week of his training. They even cheered him when he shadow-boxed.

Earlier in the day, Frazier had attempted to outstare the challenger at the weigh-in, at which the champion tipped the scales at 214 and Foreman at 217 1/2.

"I'm going to sit you on the ground, George," Frazier warned his rival. But Foreman didn't scare easily. Frazier, a renowned aggressor, who has whipped his opponents into submission with a head-bowed, bore-in attack that resembles a berserk pile-driver, came out swinging. But Foreman didn't back up an inch. His 6-foot-3 inch frame erect in his familiar stand-up style, he lashed out with twisting left hooks.

Snap. Frazier's head went back but the champion continued to move forward, swinging. Snap, snap. Midway through the first round, Foreman caught the champion flush on his bearded chin with a thundering uppercut. Frazier crumpled to the floor but bounced up, taking the regulation eight-count.

Frazier hung on gamely but moments later, a pair of thudding rights dropped the champion a second time. Before the end of the round, a third smashing blow sent Frazier spinning underneath the bottom strand of red rope.

The champion's eyes were glazed and his legs were like jelly when he staggered to his corner at the end of the round. As the bell for the second round sounded, Frazier came out courageously, throwing left hooks. A crashing right to the jaw sent him to the canvas for the fourth time.

The referee had trouble getting Foreman to a neutral corner. Foreman walked toward Frazier's corner and began looking at Yancey Durham, the champion's manager, as if asking him to intercede and stop the fight. But Yancey didn't interfere.

Frazier rose unsteadily to his feet and then—boom, boom—two left hooks by Foreman sent the champion reeling to the floor again. For the second time, Foreman pleaded with Frazier's corner to throw in the towel but there was no response. Frazier rose again and again a fustilant sent him into the ropes and down to the floor. This time Durham jumped into the ring. The time was 1:35 of the second. It was over. There was a new champion.

Pre-Season Best For Pro Bowl

By DENNE H. FREEMAN DALLAS (AP) — Tex Schramm, general manager of the Dallas Cowboys, believes the Pro Bowl between National and American Football Conference All-Stars "should be played at the start of the season not at the end of it."

Schramm said he was "disappointed at the overall reception to the game here but it was no different than the reception in Los Angeles the last few years."

The AFC defeated the NFC 33-28 Sunday before an announced crowd of 47,879 in Texas Stadium. It was the game's debut outside of Los Angeles.

"The Super Bowl is now the No. 1 sports classic in the country and anything after it is anti-climactic," Schramm said. "I think the National Football League should consider moving the Pro Bowl to July either on its own or replacing the College All-Star game."

Schramm said it wouldn't help "to hold the game a week before the Super Bowl. You couldn't use the Super Bowl players in some years it might take something away from the game."

He said that the Pro Bowl "has all the potential to be a great game... a great attraction."

Schramm said it would be impossible to play the game in the middle of the season like baseball, hockey and basketball showcase their All-Star games.

"You could never stop the season for a week because of the injury situation for one thing," Schramm said. "Also, it would hurt the momentum of a winning team. We would get into a situation of having to fight even more dropouts."

He added "Also, you wouldn't really have anything to base the selections on at that time of year."

Schramm said a mid-season game would project the regular season "into Christmas."

'It's This Way, Or Else'

Another one of those "do as we say, or lose federal funds" things is before the Texas Legislature.

The Traffic Courts Study Committee has recommended five pieces of legislation to bring Texas laws up to national standards and avoid the loss of $29.5 million in federal aid each year.

Requiring all justices of the peace and municipal court judges to be lawyers. Those now serving as judges could continue to serve if they complete a 40-hour course on the duties of their offices.

Making all JP and municipal courts, courts of record, thus eliminating the present requirement of an entirely new trial when a defendant appeals.

It has been pointed out that federal funds will not be cut off by the Department of Transportation so long as the state "is making good faith effort and reasonable progress" toward compliance with national traffic court standards.

The Lone Star State has been eyeing these particular matters for some time, with some progress having been made. Whether or not the effort will be judged as meeting the "good faith" requirement is unknown.

But when the legislators consider the chances of losing the federal aid, they undoubtedly will make sure they are in the ball park in this regard.

It is said that Texas gets $25 million a year from the federal highway fund and $4.5 million from federal highway safety funds.

Now, of course, there are NO strings attached to these federal funds... as long as the state, in this case, follows federal regulations! It is and always has been thus, but most individuals, states and agencies have to learn the hard way, over and over again.

The committee report said that justices of the peace in 173 of Texas' 254 counties are limited to $5,000 a year, with commissioners courts having the right to vote salaries smaller than this.

The committee recommended — wisely — that the salaries be separated from any relationship to fines collected by the courts.

The legislature can take it from there.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: Quarrel over closed doors in Banking Committee.

WASHINGTON — There is increasing pressure on Congress to throw open its closed doors, air out its smoke-filled rooms and let the public observe its inner workings.

In an earlier column, we told how Senator John Tower, R-Tex., had fought against opening the doors of the Senate Banking Committee.

From the secret transcript, here is the story of how Tower maneuvered to keep the committee meetings closed:

The move to open the doors was made by Senators William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Robert Packwood, R-Ore. Packwood tried to reassure those who preferred secrecy by telling them how the open-door policy had worked in the Oregon legislature.

"Most of the press didn't bother to come in, very few of the public or lobbyists," Packwood recalled. "And you remove the one stigma or onus that is always thrown at us about secrecy, and really lose nothing by opening them up."

But Tower objected. "We have to consider the effect of our decision on other committees of the Senate..." he protested.

"In that it does involve broad Senate policies, we should defer action on it. Therefore, I move to table it."

Tower's motion would have had the effect of killing the open-door proposal, but not a single senator gave him verbal support.

Later, he returned to the attack. "This is a matter that involves radical departure from Senate policy," he huffed.

Tower's Tactics Again, he asked for tabling, and again, no one spoke in support. But Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., signaled the clerk to call the roll.

Tower lost, nine to six. But the tough, little Texan refused to accept the majority decision.

"We shouldn't vote on a matter of this kind today," he snorted. "Therefore, I would probably keep the committee in session for some time today."

Because he had been unable to pigeonhole the Proxmire-Packwood proposal, in other words, he was prepared to keep talking to prevent it from coming to a vote.

Proxmire conceded that Tower could keep them there "until we are exhausted" and, therefore, tried to pin him down.

"Will you agree (to) vote in two weeks, a week, something?" asked Proxmire.

The senator from Texas shook his head. "I am not prepared to agree to a time certain..." he said.

"I am the guy that is going to get the bad press on it, get in the Washington Post tomorrow morning, and so I am willing to without a final vote, and the Senate Banking Committee's doors remained closed. Footnote: In the secret roll those who voted with Tower to table the open-door proposal were Senators John Sparkman, D-Ala., Harrison Williams, D-N.J., Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, Bill Brock, R-Tenn., and Robert Taft, R-Ohio.

President Nixon Flexes His 'Muscle' Of Office

WASHINGTON (NEA)—People in this city seem absolutely obsessed with President Nixon's behavior since his re-election. Yet, with all the reporting and all the comment on his isolation, his failure to consult and explain, there is something elusive here.

Maybe the mystery is that there is no mystery. We may simply be witnessing a coming together of elements about Mr. Nixon, and about the presidency, which are highly familiar both to the professional White House watcher and the average American.

Let's look at some of them, one by one. —First, the growth in the use of presidential power relative to congressional power has been going on a long time.

From that time forward, the progression has been steady, moderated only slightly by Dwight D. Eisenhower's more limited concept of his office.

Wars showed presidents — and people — how the presidency could be used. After that, people perceived the White House as the great power center.

The perception was underscored by a constant run of foreign crises, in which the president acted both with speed and great constitutional freedom.

—Second, this entire trend was quickly recognized as peculiarly suited to the interests and the special make-up of Richard Nixon.

The foreign field is his great love. In it his feeling is one of confidence both in his knowledge and in his capacity to make decisions.

Furthermore, in an office where "loners" are not uncommon, he is the loner almost without parallel. He is not a man who consults widely, nor one who ever feels easy with many people.

—Third, Mr. Nixon over the years could watch a Congress jostling strong leaders, falling into disparate parts, not using its powers. Once in the White House, it was an irresistible temptation to underline congressional ineffectiveness by pressing ever harder with presidential initiatives.

—Fourth, he has just won an overwhelming re-election verdict. One could argue that it was basically a default victory over an ineffectual opponent.

But its magnitude also gave the ring of an endorsement. You could say this vote is a "new element," but there is another way to see it.

Presidents before Mr. Nixon have won smashing triumphs and history advises that such victors — especially when they do not have to run again — often feel emboldened to use their powers to the fullest, even to the point of overreaching.

If Mr. Nixon now is doing that, as even some of his friends believe, it is not, then, that he is in a mighty good contract and that it is up to him to take the safe line of play to bring the slam home.

He sees that he won't make it if West holds four trumps to the king or if either opponent holds all five trumps.

The hand is a cinch against any other trump combination except that if he finesesses and West scores a singleton king it will be all over.

Therefore, our careful player lays down the ace of trumps at trick two. The sun bursts through the clouds; birds sing; everyone is happy except East and West.

—Fifth, the rapidly rising money supply pumping consumer demand ever higher, and with things like hi-fi sets, fur hats and other desirables under control, demand was beginning to tug heavily at these uncontrolled foods.

The publication expressed hope that "if the heavy consumer demand is allowed to work a bit on hi-fi sets and fur hats, thus forcing those prices up too, it may well relieve some of the pressure on steaks and eggs."

This paints a picture of Americans rushing around with a lot of money in their hands, looking for things to spend it on. Since the prices of hi-fi sets and fur hats were artificially frozen, they "bid up" in the classical economist's phrase, the uncontrolled prices of steaks and eggs.

It is a fact, of course, that when people have extra cash to spend, they may indeed begin to eat more steaks, thus putting pressure on the supply.

But eggs? Hamburger? Chicken? The soaring prices of these and other basic food items are the result of people spending money simply for the sake of spending money?

And now, under Phase III, consumers are going to stop eating so much and start bidding up the prices of hi-fi sets and fur hats?

Economics is an old, if still inexact, science. But "let 'em eat fur hats" seems to be something new under the sun.

IT WAS A REFRESHING departure from the usual dismal fare that makes up so much of daily newspaper reading — the hullabaloo stirred up by the "plot" of the Atlantic City Commission to change the names of Baltic and Mediterranean Avenues, which, along with other of the city's streets, have been immortalized on the Monopoly board.

The story is now history: How when there will be electronic scanners in the post offices, check each piece of mail deposited and determine if mailing same will humiliate post-office "service" personnel.

And when these folks no longer have to stoop to the handling of junk mail, no doubt the door class will quit wasting their time on junk people.

D. E. SCOTT Crossroads, U.S.A.

Crossroads Report by D.E. Scott. Includes a small illustration of a man.

Dear Editor: Lots of discussion goes on about how the dignity of post office employees is offended, having to associate with junk mail.

In fact, the time may come when there will be electronic scanners in the post offices, check each piece of mail deposited and determine if mailing same will humiliate post-office "service" personnel.

And when these folks no longer have to stoop to the handling of junk mail, no doubt the door class will quit wasting their time on junk people.

DON OAKLEY COLUMN—Phase III—Something New Under The Sun?

By DON OAKLEY NEW YORK (NEA) — Much can be said for and against Phase III, President Nixon's decision to end price controls in all but a few areas of the economy, and most of it has been said by any number of economists, congressmen and news analysts.

One of the more curious defenses, however, was voiced by the Wall Street Journal.

The problem with the previous program (Phase II), the Journal editorialized, was that it was beginning to leak badly, particularly through the prices of steak, eggs and other raw foods that count heavily in our budgets.

"With the rapidly rising money supply pumping consumer demand ever higher, and with things like hi-fi sets, fur hats and other desirables under control, demand was beginning to tug heavily at these uncontrolled foods."

The publication expressed hope that "if the heavy consumer demand is allowed to work a bit on hi-fi sets and fur hats, thus forcing those prices up too, it may well relieve some of the pressure on steaks and eggs."

This paints a picture of Americans rushing around with a lot of money in their hands, looking for things to spend it on. Since the prices of hi-fi sets and fur hats were artificially frozen, they "bid up" in the classical economist's phrase, the uncontrolled prices of steaks and eggs.
