North Pecos, Concho Draw Exploration

Exploration has been planned in Pecos and Concho counties.

Oil & Gas Producers, Inc. of Midland plans to drill No. 1-B Sadie Reed as a 2,250-foot wildcat in Pecos, eight miles southwest of Imperial.

Location is 330 feet from northeast and 1,670.1 feet from northwest lines of section 20, block 10, H&GN survey, one location northwest of the firm's No. 1-A Sadie Reed, a scheduled 2,300-foot wildcat re-entry, on which reports are not available.

Re-Listed Test
Energy Producing Properties, Inc., operating from Midland, has rescheduled as a 2,024-foot wildcat, its No. 1-Q Iowa Realty Trust, previously scheduled as a test in the Pecos Valley (low gravity) field of Pecos.

It spots 1,650 feet from northeast and 2,310 feet from northwest lines of section 21, block 10, H&GN survey, 24 miles northeast of Fort Stockton.

Concho Try
The Concho County explorer, a 2,450-foot Hope lime test, is slated by Fortune Drilling Corp. of San Angelo. It is No. 1 Henderson.

Location is 467 feet from north and 933 feet from east lines of section 1, GC&SF survey, abstract 1061, seven miles west of Eden and 1/4 mile southeast of the six-well King sand oil area of the Speck, South multizone field.

Schleicher Area Gets New Horizon

Hanson Corp., Midland, has completed No. 1 C. S. McMillan as a Strawn lime gas discovery in North Schleicher County, 3/4 mile northeast of the one-well R.E.G. (Harkey) gas field.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 269,300 cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio of 125,000-1. Gravity of the distillate was 60 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 5,878-5,897 feet, which had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and acidized with 1,000 gallons.

A re-entry, originally drilled by Texaco Inc. as No. 1-C. S. McMillan, it was plugged and abandoned Oct. 10, 1958, at 6,125 feet.

It was cleaned out to the old total depth. Under ground elevation of 2,432 feet, the following tops were picked: Flippen, 2,890; Palo Pinto, 4,848; Canyon reef, 5,038; upper Strawn, 5,358 and Strawn lime, 5,858 feet.

The well is 1,900 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 60, block M, GH&SA survey, abstract 1758, 12 miles southeast of Christoval.

Midland Oil Pool Strike Is Offset

Tom Brown, Inc., Midland, has scheduled No. 1 Wyllie as a 3/4-mile northwest steep to the Pennsylvania oil opener and lone well from that job in the Braun field of Midland County.

It has a depth objective of 11,000 feet. Location is 660 feet.

Scattered Returns Indicate Coal Pact Gaining Approval

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—United Mine Workers officials expressed optimism today that a new contract would be approved by the rank and file, as scattered returns indicated a slim majority favoring the pact.

UMW President Arnold Miller had asked locals not to release preliminary vote totals "so as not to prejudice those still voting."

Gaining Approval
But scattered returns representing some 16,000 miners, about 13 per cent of the union's 120,000 working bituminous coal miners, showed the agreement was gaining approval from about 52 per cent of those voting.

District 12 in Illinois reported a vote of 4,194 for the contract and 4,368 against. But a UMW spokesman said the margin of defeat in that district was not as large as had been anticipated.

Announcement Expected
A union spokesman in Washington said the UMW expected to have enough results in by Thursday afternoon or evening to be able to make an announcement.

Early figures in eight Pennsylvania locals showed 683 votes for and 568 against the contract — representing a 58.4 per cent turnout in those locals. In another local, in Cambria County, the vote was 277 against, 160 for.

But in Alabama's District 20, a union spokesman said the vote was 2,130 to 995, with the largest local in the district still out.

Snowstorms hampered voting Monday and UMW President Arnold Miller ordered an extension through Wednesday. A union spokesman said the final results probably would not be available until Thursday.

A union spokesman said that even if the new pact is ratified, the earliest work could resume in UMW mines would be at midnight Sunday.

The UMW pulled its 120,000 members out of the pits Nov. 12 when the old contract expired, halting work at mines that produce 70 per cent of the nation's bituminous coal.

Prompts Layoffs
The strike has brought on layoffs for another 25,000 workers whose jobs are dependent on coal, especially employees in the steel and rail industries.

The miners, who earned $42 to $50 a day under the old contract, are voting on a new pact agreed upon by the UMW's 38-member bargaining council and the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association.

It calls for a 64 per cent increase in wages and benefits over the three-year contract period. It also includes numerous mine safety provisions to which Miller had given first priority in bargaining.

DJ Average Below 600 Level At Noon

NEW YORK (AP)—Recession and coal strike worries dealt the stock market its second sharp loss in a row today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 9.62 at 593.40 — only 9 points above the 2-year closing low it touched Oct. 4. Losers overwhelmed gainers by 9-4-2 in accelerated trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .92 to 61.76.

Sirica Suggests Plan In Lieu Of Trial Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica proposed today that written questions be submitted to former President Richard M. Nixon in lieu of having him testify at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Sirica opened the day's court session by asking attorneys for the five defendants whether they had any objection to his contacting the doctors who examined Nixon last week to ask whether the former president is well enough to answer written questions.

The court-appointed panel of three doctors had reported that Nixon would not be well enough to appear even at a question-and-answer session in his home in California until Jan. 6. That would be well beyond the expected conclusion of the trial.

No Objections
None of the lawyers had any objection to making an inquiry of the panel and Sirica sent his law clerk to contact Dr. Charles A. Hufnagel, the chairman of the panel.

But chief prosecutor James F. Neal expressed reservations about allowing Nixon to answer written questions, saying "we have had a number of statements about Watergate from the former president, none of which was satisfactory."

He did not, however, express any opposition to calling the doctors.

Returns To Stand
The judge's suggestion came as H. R. Haldeman returned to the stand for a second day of cross-examination.

Haldeman said Monday that orders from Nixon prevented his telling the Watergate grand jury that the White House had a clandestine taping system.

"You didn't mention tapes and you hoped they wouldn't be revealed," said assistant prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste Monday as he began to cross-examine Haldeman at the Watergate cover-up trial. The questioning was to continue today.

Under Orders
"I was under orders from the President of the United States that it would not be disclosed," said Haldeman. "It was not a matter of my hopes, it was my instructions."

But Ben-Veniste noted that Haldeman had resigned as Nixon's chief of staff two weeks before his May 14, 1973 grand jury appearance.

"I still considered myself subject to orders given to me during the term of my service to the President of the United States," Haldeman replied.

U.S. Will Sell Two Million Ounces Of Gold Jan. 6

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will sell two million ounces of gold, valued officially at $84.4 million, from its government-held gold reserves, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today.

Simon also said the government will not ask for a postponement of the right for Americans to buy gold after Dec. 31.

He said the government gold will be sold at a public auction on Jan. 6 and that sales would be in quantities of 400-ounce bars.

Simon made clear the Jan. 6 sale of gold is directly connected to the decision of Congress to permit Americans to own gold, ending a 41-year-old ban on the private ownership of the precious metal.

He said that if the government considers selling additional gold in the future, although probably in smaller amounts.

Rockefellers' Assets Total Over $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller's chief financial advisor testified today that the Rockefeller family has assets of just over $1 billion but is "totally uninterested in controlling anything."

"The family members are simply investors," J. Richard Dilworth testified at House Judiciary Committee hearings on Rockefeller's nomination.

Dilworth is general manager for Rockefeller Family & Associates, which manages stocks, trusts and investments for 84 members of the Rockefeller family.

First Accounting
Giving what he called the first public accounting of the family's aggregate assets, Dilworth said they include $244.2 million in investments owned outright, $738.6 million in family trusts and $51.2 million in investments held in trusts, for a total of $1.034 billion.

Although Dilworth said in an opening statement that family members do not directly control any of those investments, he said each investment "is subject to periodic review both by the client" and himself.

Agree To Release
Members of the Rockefeller family agreed to public release of the total figures, Dilworth testified, but indicated that they would assert their right to privacy against disclosure of details of their investments, except for those of Nelson Rockefeller.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House voted overwhelmingly today to override President Ford's veto of legislation to increase veterans' school benefits by 22.7 per cent.

LONDON (AP)—The price of gold slumped more than $6 an ounce to $178 an ounce on European markets today after a Washington announcement that the U.S. government will auction two million ounces of gold next month from its reserves. Some London dealers immediately suspended trading while others told inquirers they were too busy with the rush of selling orders to talk.

Five of Texas International Airlines' seven daily flights serving Midland were canceled today, and four customer service employees stayed off the job as a strike against the airline by ground personnel entered its third day.

Freight workers remained on the job, however, to service two flights due this afternoon, a spokesman said.

Jim Duke, Texas International manager here, said the flight situation could change at any time.

He said freight personnel at Terminal service both Texas International and Continental Airlines and are not affected by the strike.

He said flights to Air Terminal including the 954 out of Roswell, 696 and 696 out of Albuquerque, N.M., 912 and 947, both out of New Orleans, La., had been canceled.

The two flights due at Air Terminal today include a flight from New Orleans due to land at 3:18 p.m. and another from Los Angeles due to land here at 4:15 p.m. The 3:18 p.m. flight leaves Terminal for Albuquerque while the 4:15 p.m. leaves Terminal for Dallas.

Meanwhile, The Associated Press in Houston reported a spokesman for Texas International said the overall impact of the walkout was expected to be minimal.

The next two weeks historically is a period of a deep traffic valley," Jim O'Donnell, Texas International vice president, said Monday.

The 1,100 Airline Employees Association, representing station and clerical employees, called the strike Sunday morning.

O'Donnell said the union was asking for pay raises of more than 50 per cent over the next two years. However, John Hayes, the union's regional representative at Houston, said the union had asked 16 per cent over two years and the airline has offered 12.3 per cent.

Late Monday, Capt. Bill Kreick, spokesman for Texas International pilots, said they will continue to fly. He also said pilot representatives sent either up to or aimed at that objective.

Ford's claims for the agreement, which will run from 1975 to 1985 once technical details are worked out, came under immediate challenge from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

In a telephone interview, Jackson said that "the total number is way out of order when you count the thousands of nuclear warheads that will be produced."

The Russians will be able to build "a new missile system when they don't have any now," he said, referring to the current lack of Soviet MIRVs.

In addition, the Washington Democrat said the cost of meeting the ceilings will be extraordinary.

Ford opened the news conference by segregating topics into two categories. He dealt first with the strategic arms question and then turning to domestic matters, primarily the economy.

He repeated his assertion that inflation remains the na-

Ford Acknowledges Pact Allows Continued Weapons Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new U.S.-Soviet strategic arms agreement allows both countries to continue costly nuclear weapons buildups over the next decade, President Ford has acknowledged.

In a news conference Monday night, Ford said the accord, worked out last week in Siberia with Soviet Communist Party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, allows each country 2,400 long-range missiles and bombers.

Of that quota, both nations can place multiple warheads

MIRVs — on 1,320 missiles. Although the President said this agreement "put a cap on the arms race," he described a situation in which both countries have great flexibility in increasing the number of MIRV missiles as well as the lifting power of each missile — "throw-weight" in military-diplomatic jargon.

For instance, the Soviet Union has about 2,200 long-range missiles, none of which is believed to carry multiple warheads. Moscow can and is expected to install MIRV warheads on up to the 1,320-missile limit.

The United States already has 522 of its 1,710 offensive missile force carrying multiple warheads. Ford made it clear Monday night the United States will push its MIRV program to the limit.

"We do have an obligation to stay up to that ceiling," he said of the figures worked out at the Vladivostok summit. "The budget that I will recommend will keep our strategic forces derlying health and strength of our economy," Ford said.

Since in his mind inflation is the "deadly, long-range enemy," Ford asked Congress to act before it adjourns later this month to cut the fiscal 1975 budget by $4.6 billion, while providing $2.6 billion for public service jobs to offset rising unemployment.

The question of costs also involved the arms agreement. Ford said, "We will probably have to increase our military (See FORD Page 2A)

Mills Draws Rebuke From Former Opponent, Newspaper For Association With Stripper

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, amid conflicting statements about his health and a movie career for stripper Fanne Foxe, has been rebuked by his former election opponent for his renewed friendship with "The Tidal Basin Bombshell."

The criticism was issued Monday by Republican Judy Petty of Little Rock, Ark., as Mills returned here from a weekend appearance on stage in Boston with Miss Foxe, who now strips under the name "The Tidal Basin Bombshell."

Miss Foxe, whose real name is Annabel Battistella, also has performed under the name "The Argentine Firecracker."

Mrs. Petty said Mills' actions with the 38-year-old stripper have brought ridicule "to the people who placed their trust in him."

"Mr. Mills' re-election was not a mandate to continue his affair with the Argentine Firecracker," said Mrs. Petty, who declined during the campaign to make an issue out of an October incident when park police stopped Mills' car in Washington and Miss Foxe emerged from the auto and jumped into the Tidal Basin.

Meanwhile, a Little Rock newspaper which supported Mills' re-election, the Arkansas Gazette, said in an editorial today that if Mills "cannot forego his public indiscretions and if he prefers the life of show business to the life on Capitol Hill, he should resign his congressional seat to devote fulltime efforts to his 'new life of work.'"

The editorial also said that voters "didn't re-elect Wilbur Mills to make appearances in burlesque theaters nor, for that matter, to engage his energies in scenario writing and Hollywood talent scouting."

Following his appearance on Saturday with Miss Foxe in Boston, Mills told a reporter the next day that he had written a movie script that would make the stripper a star. He also said he had done a take-off on former President Richard M. Nixon that he had submitted to a film producer.

However, he said here Monday that he had only been joking. "I only said I was thinking about writing a script," Mills said. "I don't know anything about script-writing."

Even so, he said he had some ideas he could pass along to others for a successful movie idea.

Mills said he traveled to Boston and appeared on stage "to dispel all these innuendoes." He said he would not have made the appearance if he was trying to hide a clandestine relationship with the woman.

Mills also moved to scotch rumors that he and his wife might be considering ending their 40-year marriage. "Certainly not," he said. When his wife was asked in a telephone interview if she and her husband might separate, she replied: "That's a very personal question. I have no comment."

The congressman said here he is tired and looking forward to a rest after the current House session ends, but added that there was nothing to reports he had suffered a heart attack. However, in Boston he told a newsmen he was under heavy sedation for a heart condition, adding that it was his second attack.

can say you forgot, too, can't you?"

Dean agreed that could be done, running the risk of being accused of perjury, and Nixon added: "That's right, just be damned sure you say I don't remember, I can't recall."

Tapes Disclosed

Only a tight handful of White House aides, including Haldeman, knew about the White House taping system until Alexander P. Butterfield disclosed it during Senate Watergate testimony on July 16 last year.

Ben-Veniste had brought out that Haldeman told the grand jury that he wanted to be "candidate, volunteering and help out," but that he said there were no records he could provide except his telephone logs.

"I think you testified there were no other records on the face of the earth that would reflect contacts with other people," said Ben-Veniste. "But you didn't mention tape recordings, did you Mr. Haldeman?"

"No sir," was the reply.

Ben-Veniste, a persistent cross-examiner who drew frequent rebukes from the judge for interrupting the witness, asked Haldeman whether he and the President had not discussed "a way you could evade giving truthful answers to the Senate (Watergate) committee."

"No sir," said Haldeman.

Ben-Veniste asked if he didn't discuss the use of "I don't recall" as a device to duck tough questions.

"I don't recall," said Haldeman.

Bad Health, Says Albert

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert said today he thinks Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., is in bad health and "it has had an impact on his whole system."

But Albert turned away questions at a news conference as to whether House leaders are considering replacing Mills as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mills underwent an operation last year for a back ailment, but has said since he fully recovered.

American arsenal to the new limits.

Another potentially large expense could come out of the arms agreement if the United States should try to match the Soviet Union in the one area where it is already clearly superior.

The President said the agreement has no limit on "throw-weight" or on the number of MIRVs that can be placed on any missile.

"If there is an inequity in throw-weight, that can be remedied," Ford explained. "If we decided to go to a heavy throw-weight, we can add a greater number of individual warheads."

The decision apparently will be up to the American military leadership to challenge the Russians in this area, according to the news conference statements.

If the United States makes that turn, it would cost billions of dollars since intelligence sources estimate Russian throw-weight at three or four times that of American missiles, administration sources said.

telegrams to the union, airline and the National Mediation Board urging immediate resumption of negotiations.

O'Donnell said at present the carrier plans to maintain 65 per cent of its normally available capacity and 46 per cent of scheduled flights.

"We are serving 24 of the 50 airports we usually serve," he said. "This is a schedule we can continue as long as we have to."

However, he said the strike will cause some traffic loss for the airline and shifting personnel around its system will incur additional expense, he said.

Although members of the International Association of Mechanics honored picket lines, management personnel are providing maintenance which continues to be monitored by the Aeronautics Administration, O'Donnell said.

O'Donnell said pilots and flight attendants showed up Monday in what he called a "perfect performance." O'Donnell said the strike's greatest impact is in the smaller cities.

FEA Issues Regulations To Equalize Cost Of Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Administration has issued regulations which may bring down the cost of home heating oil on the East Coast while producing price increases in central and northern states.

The regulations are designed to equalize the cost of crude oil among refiners and the cost of fuel oils among distributors.

FEA general counsel Robert E. Montgomery Jr. said Monday the program should cause little or no net change in the total cost of oil nationwide, but may bring lower prices in some areas and higher prices in others.

He said that FEA has estimated that the East Coast, particularly New England, may save $30 million a month by gaining greater access to price-controlled domestic oil, moderating the impact of higher imported oil prices.

At the same time, he said, those areas of the country which have benefited in the past from greater access to price-controlled domestic oil, particularly the landlocked central and northern states, may see their oil prices increase somewhat as they pay a larger share of the cost of imported oil.

The equalization program, which takes effect over the next two months, is intended to remove the unequal costs and prices created by the previous two-tier price control system.

A similar equalization regulation also was adopted by FEA to protect competition among marketers of two major petroleum products: number two distillate and residual fuel oils.

Meanwhile, a Senate report disclosed that seven of the nation's largest oil companies pay five per cent or less of their net income in federal income taxes.

The report, based on confidential returns over the last five years of Exxon, Mobil, Shell, Texaco, Gulf and Standard Oil of Indiana and California, showed the companies made extensive use of deductions to reduce their effective tax rates to, in one instance, as low as 1.32 per cent.

Freezing cold was still putting up stubborn resistance to a promised warming trend today across about the northern two-thirds of Texas.

Skies were generally clear except for clouds over the south tip of the Lower Rio Grande Valley and part of the Lower Texas Coast.

Houston JP Says Bell Must Refund Deposits Promptly

HOUSTON (AP) — Justice of the Peace Kenneth Pacetti ruled Monday that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. must refund a customer's deposit in full within two months after it is made.

A company spokesman said he foresees no full return of deposits in similar cases until Southwestern Bell exhausts all appeals. Southwestern Bell is holding about $4.2 million in Houston area customer deposits, he said.

Pacetti ruled in a small claims court case that a 1940 city ordinance entitles a University of Houston law student, Ralph Koopman, to a full refund plus 6 per cent interest on his $50 deposit made Aug. 27 when his phone was installed.

Koopman said the company returned only $25 and told him he could only get back the portion covering local service. Bell lawyer Herb Richie told Pacetti the company keeps part of the deposit to cover possible losses on long distance calls.

Congressional Democrats Cut Arkansan's Power, Authority

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democrats who will dominate the new House have voted major changes in their party, electing a liberal activist to head their caucus and cutting the authority of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills.

The process which began Monday, the first day of an organization caucus, was scheduled to continue today and throughout the week. The caucus was expected to vote today to increase the membership of the Ways and Means panel from 25 to 37, which could make possible a shift of its majority from conservative to liberal.

Assignment Power

The caucus voted Monday 146 to 122 to strip the Democratic contingent of Ways and Means of its power to assign party members to other committees.

Assignments now will be made by the Democratic Steering Committee. That panel is composed half of the House leaders and their appointees and half chosen regionally by the caucus membership.

The decision was a blow to Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. The Arkansas Democrat burst again into the news over the weekend with a public renewal of his friendship with a stripper who plunged into the Washington Tidal Basin in October after a late-night party with Mills and others.

Backers of the change said the move was set and votes lined up before Mills appeared on stage with the stripper at a Boston night club over the weekend.

Burton Heads Caucus

Rep. Phillip Burton of California was elected caucus chairman Monday, 162 to 111 over B. F. Sisk, also of California. Sisk, who had campaigned for party unity, said he will work with Burton but fears the election might be seen as a sign Congress will be "flying off into the wild blue yonder."

But Burton proclaimed, "The winds of change have reached the House." The prior caucus chairman was Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., whose term in that post expires with the present Congress.

The meetings Monday of the Democratic caucus and the Republican conference were the first such sessions under new rules that provide for organizing Congress before it convenes next month.

Incumbent leaders of both parties were re-elected: Carl Albert, D-Okla., speaker, subject to the formality of House confirmation; Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., majority leader; John J. Rhodes, R-Conference chairman, Anderson, Ariz., minority leader; and John B. Anderson, R-Ill., re-elected by Charles E. Wiggins of California.

Republicans outnumbered by Democrats at least 291 to 144 in the new House, had comparatively little to do and concluded their conference Monday.

At the Republican organization meeting, Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., was elected Republican whip over John N. Ernenborn of Illinois and Jerry L. Pettis of California. The post day.

They said those boards have interlocking directorates with 91 major U.S. corporations with combined assets of $640 billion.

In a Feb. 28, 1973, White House tape, former counsel John W. Dean III tells then-President Richard M. Nixon that an FBI official thought the story of the wiretaps may have leaked to the press through Rockefeller's learning of them and telling Kissinger.

Asked about that account, Rockefeller testified to the House committee two weeks ago that the FBI official was simply wrong and that Rockefeller first learned of the wiretaps from news stories.

Dilworth is head of Rockefeller Family & Associates, which manages the Rockefeller family holdings and trusts.

Two University of California professors presented the committee Monday night with a study they made on the impact of Rockefeller family wealth.

They said their principal finding was that Rockefeller family representatives are among directors of 40 corporations with assets of some $70 billion.

OSCEOLA, Mo. (AP) — Eight patients died early today in a fire that swept the north wing of the Sac-Osage Hospital in this west central Missouri town of 900, a hospital spokesman said.

Firemen said the blaze was discovered about 12:30 a.m. in the one-story, brick structure formally opened only five years ago.

The hospital spokesman said six of the patients were found dead at the scene and that two others died a short time later. He said the deaths were attributed to heat and smoke.

The names of the victims were withheld until relatives could be notified.

Pioneer 11 Craft Changes Name, Heads For Saturn

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Pioneer 11 changed names today and headed for Saturn, after a perilous but successful confrontation with Jupiter's deadly radiation.

The unmanned, 570-pound spacecraft dipped to within 26,600 miles of the surface of boiling, gaseous Jupiter at 9:22 p.m. PST Monday, coming three times closer than Pioneer 10 a year ago and climaxing a 21-month, 630-million-mile voyage.

At 10:24 p.m., scientists received a signal that the spacecraft had survived its close approach to Jupiter and was on its way to make man's first probe of mysterious, ringed Saturn in September 1979.

Drawing Shown

"I officially rechristen this spacecraft 'Pioneer-Saturn,'" James C. Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said at a midnight news conference. He then undraped a huge color drawing of the spacecraft hovering near Saturn.

"It flew into the fiery mouth of a dragon and got scorched a little, but now it's headed for Saturn," said Robert S. Kraemer, director of NASA's planetary exploration programs. "It's a tough little bird and with a little luck it will make it."

Scientists threw up their hands in relief when they received a signal from the spacecraft after it successfully passed through Jupiter's searing radiation. The signal came a little more than an hour after scientists lost contact with the probe when it ducked behind Jupiter and reached a speed of 107,000 miles per hour — 25,000 m.p.h. faster than any man-made object ever has flown.

Normal Operation

The spacecraft was operating normally after its encounter with Jupiter, although some minor irregularities were reported in a device that measures subatomic particles and another that makes infrared measurements, said Dr. John Wolfe, Pioneer project scientist based here at NASA's Ames Research Center.

"Since we're alive now I am sure we are going to stay that way," Wolfe said. "We got zapped with protons a little more than we expected, but we got less electrons."

He said the spacecraft was hit twice by micrometeorites. Scientists had expected it to be hit at least five times, and more hits could have damaged its instruments.

Strong Force

Wolfe also said Pioneer 11 data indicated Jupiter's magnetic force was twice as strong as that of earth.

The spacecraft departed the planet's dangerous radiation belt and, using Jupiter's gravitational pull as a slingshot, headed for Saturn, a journey of 3 billion miles from earth. The trip will take the spacecraft 100 million miles above earth's orbital plane and higher than any spacecraft has ever flown.

It is expected to rendezvous with Saturn in September 1979 and provide new information about that mysterious, ringed planet.

PARTS OF INSTRUMENT PANEL—A Trans World Airlines worker removes parts of the instrument panel from the area on Paris Mountain near Bluemont, Va., Monday where a TWA jetliner crashed Sunday. A total of 92 persons lost their lives in the crash. (AP Wirephoto.)

Authorities End Search For Bodies, Now Seek Cause Of Jetliner's Crash

UPPERVILLE, Va. (AP) — Authorities have ended their search for the bodies of 92 persons killed in the crash of a Trans World Airlines jetliner and now are seeking the cause of the crash.

Investigators recovered the plane's flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder Monday. They said they hope the instruments will enable them to determine why the Boeing 727 slammed into a fog-draped peak Sunday while approaching Dulles International Airport.

Firefighters and other searchers climbed over the mountainside Monday to find the bodies of the 85 passengers and seven crew members. O.R. Dube, Loudoun County fire marshal, said, "There might be pieces of bodies left, but no whole bodies."

The National Transportation Safety Board declined to speculate on causes of the crash. But other officials acknowledged the runway being approached by the plane was used infrequently and does not have a full "instrument landing system."

The plane should have been at 3,400 feet at the time it crashed near the top of the 1,754-foot-high mountain.

The full instrument landing system tells the pilot whether he is on the correct course, both horizontally and vertically.

Attached to the motion was a letter from Samuel Dash, the former chief counsel of the Senate Watergate Committee, supporting a reduction in sentence "in the interests of justice."

Dean has been in prison since Sept. 3. He pleaded guilty to the single obstruction of justice charge a year ago.

Car Vandalism Cases Reported

Two reports of vandalism to cars, were reported to police here Monday. In both cases the windshield and the right front windows of the car were broken out.

Ronnie Holman, 4705 Bowie St., said approximately $235 damage was done to his car, while Debbie Melton, 3010 Michigan St., told officers that approximately $230 damage was done to her automobile.

Dallas Attorney Indicted On False Statement Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dallas lawyer Edward L. Markham Jr. has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges that he made false statements to the U.S. Patent Office.

The Justice Department said Markham was accused of making false statements in 1970 and 1972 in connection with an application on an inexpensive form of housing construction.

The three-count indictment returned Monday in U.S. District Court in nearby Alexandria, Va., also accused Markham of concealing important facts about the applications.

The indictment said the application attempted to convince the patent office the construction techniques were discovered by Edris Roberts of Santa Ana, Calif., and Billy J. Shipley of Bryan, Tex., when the actual inventor was Orlando F. Klein of Dallas.

The charges against Markham carry a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each count.

Two Major Sugar Producers Reduce Wholesale Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's largest cane sugar refiner has announced its first price reduction in more than 18 months, and two other major refiners have followed suit.

But the cut of approximately five cents a pound is not expected to help the consumer immediately, as retailers still haven't caught up with recent wholesale boosts in sugar prices.

On Monday, Amstar Corp., the largest refiner, and Sucrest Corp. both announced a $5.20 cut in the price of 100 pounds of grocery store sugar that brings it down to $66.75. The third refiner, CPC International, announced a drop of $5.10 for 100 pounds.

But the $3.47 wholesale price for a five-pound bag under the new Amstar and Sucrest price scale is actually higher than the retail price in most supermarkets, which is based on the wholesale prices of several months ago.

More Executions Of Former Leaders Seen In Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — More executions of Ethiopia's former feudal leaders are expected in reprisal for terrorist bomb attacks in Addis Ababa.

The ruling military council blamed supporters of deposed Emperor Haile Selassie for explosions at noon Monday in the city hall and in a downtown hotel. The official casualty count was 13 injured, but witnesses said at least six persons were killed and dozens were injured.

The military council accused supporters of the old regime of trying to spread confusion and chaos and said it would take drastic action. Other sources believed the bombs and another one set off Saturday night were the work of the Eritrean Liberation Front. The ELF recently threatened to carry its 10-year guerrilla campaign for the independence of Eritrea province to the capital.

The military council executed 60 members of the old regime on Nov. 23 but is holding about 150 others in the cellars of the Grand Palace for military trials which are scheduled to start Wednesday. Selassie is confined to a suite in the palace.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Dec. 3, the 337th day of 1974. There are 26 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1967, surgeons at a Cape Town, South Africa hospital reported a successful human heart transplant, the first of its kind.

On this date — In 1808, Madrid surrendered to French forces under Napoleon.

In 1818, the former Confederate president, Jefferson Davis, was put on trial for treason in the U.S. Circuit Court for Virginia.

In 1894, the Scottish writer, Robert Louis Stevenson, died in Samoa.

In 1944, in World War II, American troops crossed the Saar River in Germany.

In 1962, London was blanketed by one of the worst fogs in years. Scores of people died of sulphur dioxide poisoning before the fog lifted four days later.

In 1966, six U.S. supersonic jets were shot down during air raids close to Hanoi in North Vietnam.

Ten years ago: Police at Berkeley arrested 796 University of California students in removing demonstrators from the school administration building.

Five years ago: Sixty-two persons aboard a French jetliner were killed when the plane crashed into the Caribbean after takeoff from Caracas, Venezuela, en route to Paris.

One year ago: Israel's first premier, David Ben-Gurion, was buried in the settlement where he had spent his final years.

Today's birthday: Singer Maria Callas is 51.

Thought for today: Happiness is a way station between too little and too much — Channing Pollock, American writer, 1880-1946.

EPA Says Jan. 1 Enforcement Date Stands

HOUSTON (AP) — The Jan. 1 enforcement date of the Environmental Protection Agency's controls on "indirect sources" of pollution will not be extended, EPA Administrator Russell E. Train says.

Train said the agency has taken "a good hard look" at extending the date but has no present plans to change it.

Train was asked at a news conference Monday what would change his mind about implementing the new controversial enforcement program.

"Convince me that it is wrong," he replied.

Construction Approval Starting Jan. 1 the new program will require EPA approval of construction of major new shopping centers, apartment complexes and other projects with parking for more than 1,000 cars.

The goal is to prevent concentrations of auto traffic that would violate federal limits on carbon monoxide pollution.

The EPA administrator said the EPA is not out to stop future growth but to assure that projects are designed so that federal air standards are not violated.

He said in most cases the challenged projects will be able to satisfy EPA objections with some relatively simple design changes to improve such features as traffic flow.

Cocaine Charges Reduced Against Carr Collins III

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas County grand jury returned indictments Monday against nine men, including wealthy businessman Carr P. Collins III, stemming from raids Nov. 22 in which 14 ounces of cocaine were seized.

The grand jury apparently reduced a charge against Collins, who was indicted for possession of cocaine although he originally was charged with the delivery of cocaine. Possession of the drug is a second-degree felony carrying a sentence of two to 20 years imprisonment.

Delivery, a first-degree felony, carries a sentence of five years to life imprisonment.

The other eight defendants were indicted as originally charged.

Dear Abby
 -By Abigail van Buren

Tell Them They're Not Included in Will

DEAR ABBY: I am a 74-year-old childless widow. My husband left me a nice home and well off financially. Some close relatives are now pressing me to sell my house, buy a trailer, and move to another state so they can look after me.

Abby, I don't need "looking after." If that day ever comes, I plan to use my money to live out my days in a nice nursing home. I can certainly afford it.

These relatives ignore everything I say to them in this regard and keep pressuring me to sell my home and make plans to live near them. I am sure if I were penniless, they wouldn't be so eager to look after me.

My will does not include any of my family. Everything is going to charity.

In case you think I'm getting senile, let me assure you that I am not. How do I get these relatives to leave me alone?

PESTERED

DEAR PESTERED: Assure them emphatically that if you ever feel the need of their help, you will let them know. Then mention the fact that you are leaving everything to charity.

DEAR ABBY: Exactly a year ago today we lost our only child—a beautiful 16-year-old boy. He and I were returning home from a fishing trip in blinding rainstorm. I skidded, lost control of the car and we landed in a ditch. My son's neck was broken and he died before I could get him to a hospital. I walked away with a small cut on my nose.

My wife hasn't been the same since. I know she blames me for the boy's death, but I give you my word, I wasn't going fast. I wasn't careless, and it was one of those freak accidents that couldn't be helped. I've tried to explain this to her a thousand times, but she doesn't seem to hear me. We're practically strangers, Abby, and I can't snap her out of her depression. I once suggested that she get psychiatric help and she said she wasn't "crazy."

Can you help me? We once had a good marriage.

NOT GUILTY

DEAR NOT: Your suggestion of psychiatric help is the only solution if you can't persuade her, perhaps someone whose judgment she trusts can. Your family doctor? A clergyman? A dear friend? Others who have suffered similar heartbreaking tragedies have found their way back to normalcy and peace of mind with professional help. I urge you to find a way to lead her to it.

DEAR ABBY: I feel sorry for the bride who was afraid the best man would spoil her wedding because he was in a wheelchair.

When I was married seven years ago, my father, who could walk only with the help of crutches, "walked" me down the aisle. (He offered to let my uncle walk me so he wouldn't "slow up" the wedding procession, but I wouldn't hear of it.)

I wore a slim long wedding gown so it wouldn't get in his way, and when we walked down the aisle together there wasn't a dry eye in the church.

Today Daddy uses a wheelchair, and if I were being married now I would push his wheelchair down the aisle just to have him there.

I love your column, Abby. It has often helped me. Maybe I can help someone now.

Misery Upon Misery

If you think you have problems, troubles, difficulties of various kinds . . . just consider the people of Bangladesh.

Peter B. Kann, author of a series of articles appearing in The Wall Street Journal, says that Bangladesh well may be the world's poorest and most hopeless nation.

He then goes into an on-the-spot, detailed description of conditions in that barren, small nation, which has nothing whatsoever going for it. Just reading the articles will make the poorest persons of most any other nation feel well-off in comparison.

Few persons most anywhere are aware of the human misery which exists in that poor land. And even more recently a tidal wave has swept the country.

Kann, discussing the nation's misery, economic woes, lack of resources and land, over-population, its politics of escapism and psychology of despair, says they all combine to make Bangladesh hopeless from every standpoint.

"Americans may talk these days," he wrote, "with a kind of grim fascination, about the possibility of world depression. Bangladesh is so depressed in every respect that an American's worst fears might well be a Bengali's highest hopes."

Some of the conditions about which Kann writes almost are unbelievable. Yet, there they are, ever present.

There is talk by some persons of utter collapse and chaos in that faraway country within one to five years. Other observers seem to think the Bengalis somehow will make it. There is no getting around the fact, however, that conditions are miserable — and getting worse.

Kann points out that the world has been fairly generous in aiding Bangladesh. Approximately $2 billion has been committed to Bangladesh since it achieved nationhood in 1971. The United States has been the largest single aid contributor, as might be expected, with approximately $500 million, including food shipments.

But all this aid hasn't been sufficient to relieve the terrible situation there. Problems continue to mount.

This presents a problem worldwide in scope, a problem which will be difficult to solve.

Kann tells of an aid-to-Bangladesh consortium held earlier this month in Paris to consider what amounts to a Bangladesh aid request of $800 million to $1 billion a year. Judging from the reaction of some donor nations, it is said that Bangladesh will be lucky to get half what it thinks it needs.

A real problem? Yes, Bangladesh has just that.

Yes, It Does

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON—By the year 2000, the United States is supposed to be bustling along on energy produced largely by clean, inexpensive nuclear reactors. The "energy crisis" would then be a thing of the distant past.

The old folks would tell their incredulous grandchildren about blackouts and brownouts the way today's young are told of the great Depression of the '30s.

Billions of dollars have already been committed to this end. But evidence reaching us from inside the Atomic Energy Commission indicates it could all be an expensive, dangerous pipedream.

Critics have loudly raised questions about the safety of the process. They note that one per cent of the projected radioactive materials could poison the entire planet if released into the atmosphere.

But the stacks of internal documents we have obtained from the AEC make clear there is an equally grave danger that the nuclear program simply will not operate for technical reasons.

Here is the situation: Uranium is the fuel now used to generate power from the nuclear reactors. If uranium alone is used, the United States will have all but exhausted the supply by the mid-1980s.

Mother Nature has partially taken care of the problem. The reactors produce a rather useable fuel, plutonium, as a byproduct. The plutonium only has to be reprocessed and the future fuel supply problem would be conquered.

However, the recycling process has become tangled. The first nuclear recycling — or reprocessing — plants are supposed to be working by 1977. But they are in jeopardy from a snake nest of technical problems, and AEC stalling.

This leaves the industry with the problems of where to store the highly radioactive spent fuel — the plutonium — until it can be processed into new fuel. It cannot be stacked like piles of excess coal in a vacant lot or stored in simple drums like oil. Enormously complex containers must be built to make sure its poisons do not pollute the air, toxify streams and taint the earth.

Working nuclear plants must periodically discharge one quarter of their fuel supply into a safe storage area so they can be stocked with new fuel. And some emergency cooling basins must always be on standby for unexpected discharges in case a reactor begins to leak or otherwise malfunction.

Unfortunately, many nuclear plants do not have enough storage spaces for the normal refueling process, much less for a nuclear crisis. Indeed, the AEC internal documents estimate that at least 11 of the 50 or so reactors now working are in this volatile predicament.

An October memo to AEC's Regulation Director L. Manning Munizing compellingly raises the possibility for the first time that the storage problem may force shutdown of presently working plants.

"Prompt and decisive action now appears necessary if we are to avoid the potential shut-down of two or more current reprocessing recently because it was not workable.

The failure is consistent with the Light Water Reactor reprocessing history. Only a single firm has been able to reprocess LWR plutonium, and that was on a small scale. It, too, shut down at least temporarily because, according to an AEC memo, "the operating experience gained in this period indicated that the radiation exposure to plant personnel was excessive."

Only one other reprocessing plant is in the works. Allied Chemical first hoped to open its Barnwell, S.C., plant in late 1974 or early 1975. The "start-up" date now is late 1977, but most observers feel that present problems will push it back still another 10 to 15 months.

One problem industry faces is the AEC's refusal to issue a clear-cut standard for the plutonium reprocessing plants. The guidelines keep shifting, industry complains.

Meanwhile, if the reprocessing plants are not operating by the mid-1980s when uranium runs short, the Light Water Reactors will have to limp along on stockpiled plutonium, which up to now has been zealously hoarded for weapons use.

RAY CROMLEY Charity Alone Will Not Feed The World

WASHINGTON (NEA)—When I was a boy, every Thanksgiving and Christmas we dutifully gathered up cans of vegetables, home-made or store-bought pies, cakes and other foods and made up baskets to be delivered to the hungry in our neighborhood.

By these deeds, our consciences were satisfied and we could conveniently forget these unfortunates for another year.

Later the government got into the business and supplied aid of a sort more or less around the clock. This left us free for other matters.

In neither case did we do much to help these unhappy people fend for themselves. There have been some remarkable operations such as Goodwill Industries and some experiments such as the Job Corps. But we have been startled of late by reports that poverty seems to have been passed down from parent to child. Sons and daughters of those on welfare are now grown up and on welfare themselves.

All of this is a prelude to a discussion of the great famines which now beset the world. Almost every day in the mail we receive literature asking for help and enclosing distressing pictures of children which tear our hearts.

We in the United States are giving some food, probably more than any other nation. It is not enough to meet this river of hunger. We are asked to give much more. All Right. Few of us can stand by and watch people die of hunger. Bad luck to us if we could. But like the Christmas and Easter baskets, and welfare, these food gifts solve no problems. They only get us by today. They do not answer tomorrow's hunger.

My mind turns to a young Chinese from Taiwan I met several years ago in South Vietnam. He'd had a series of failures in attempting to organize the farmers in his area into joint ventures aimed at helping themselves. But he'd recently had a breakthrough and his eyes were bright. The farmers in that district were on the way. They needed help to be sure. But in the main they now had the know-how to take the lead in their own development.

I think of a friend of Korean ancestry who helped farmers in another area start their own local banks. None had much money but by pooling their funds and with a nest egg of outside money, they were in a position to help each other in time of trouble and to lend funds at reasonable rates for seeds and essential farm equipment.

I recall, too, the retired American farmer who has lived for years in Laos teaching the men and women in his neighborhood the basic methods followed on his old-style family farm. And an old friend in Japan who, for three decades interrupted only by World War II, has taught the Japanese in one rural area the concepts of animal husbandry.

I know of the small teams of dedicated scientists working in laboratories in a handful of developing countries nurturing new varieties of staple foods suitable to atrocious soils and unwholesome climates.

At a recent science conference, one speaker urged that this country establish in colleges of underdeveloped countries, a chair or laboratory of applied plant research whose major function would be the development of new, hardy species suited to unhappy soils, and the genetic nurturing of higher-yield plants for the better agricultural areas.

These are the kinds of simple, effective action, small-scale in themselves but highly significant in the aggregate which, multiplied, can reduce greatly the amount of starvation in this world.

If U. S. foreign aid is to have any meaning, it must concentrate more than it has in the past on these techniques.

NOVAK'S COMMENTS— Pity The Second-Class Power, Among Others

By RALPH NOVAK
The Pentagon has been complaining a lot lately that if we don't hurry up and start spending more money on weapons and equipment, we are going to become a "second-class power." The Pentagon, however, never explains exactly what it means to be a second-class power, so for clarification we consulted Otto van Overkill, chairman of the International Power Rating Commission.

"The question is very simple," Overkill said. "On the one hand, you have got your 50th-class powers, such as Upper Volta, Liechtenstein and North Dakota. On the other hand, you have got your first class powers, such as the U.S.A., the Soviet Union, China and IBM."

"Now if somebody became a second-class power, that means they aren't allowed to fight with the first-class powers anymore. And if they try, they get 11 points added to their aggressiveness rating but they lose 177 points from their discretion index—the better-part-of-value record."

"Also, second-class powers are not allowed to invade anything higher than a 19th-class power, and your second-classers are not allowed to join in discussions about whether or not it is a good time for the end of the world, although they are allowed to send observers."

Overkill said that the criteria for deciding who is a second-class power are very strict.

"The most important thing, of course, is how much money you spend for bullets and tanks and stuff," he said. "That's why it's always better to buy a new fighter plane that costs $4 million apiece than it is to buy one that costs only $1 million. You want to keep your spending average right up there with the leaders."

"Another important criterion is the number of admirals and generals you have. As everyone knows, if you have a lot of admirals and generals—and they have fancy cars—and private golf courses—you must be a pretty tough country."

Though Overkill's position requires him to be neutral toward any powers he may have to rate, he concedes off the record that he is pulling for the U. S. to remain a first-class power.

"Look, I'd hate for the Chinese and the Russians to be able to go around saying, 'Nyaah, nyaah, second-class power, second-class power' when you Americans have been up there with the firsts for such a long time," he said. "After all, it took a real first-class power to fight the Vietnam war, didn't it? It takes a real first-class power to be able to afford the F-14, doesn't it?"

"And just think of what might happen if the U. S. became a second-class power, pretty soon the Russians might decide they had enough missiles after all. They'd stop spending so much and then they'd become a second-class power. Before you know it, they'd all be a second-class powers and then they might not have so much inflation. Everyone would be happier and they wouldn't even need power ratings anymore."

"Then I'd become as obsolete as a manned bomber. That would be a fate worse than death."

BERRY'S WORLD

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The 23-year old driver couldn't have picked a worse car to hit.

Police said the man turned north on a south-bound one-way street and rammed a car parked on the street. The parked car was shoved into a pickup truck parked nearby.

The parked car was owned by Akron policeman Harry Hackenson. The pickup truck was owned by policeman Richard Mullins. The crash was observed by four Akron policemen whose shift had just ended and who were leaving the nearby City-County Safety Building to return home.

The driver was charged with driving while intoxicated, driving the wrong way on a one-way street, failure to control and driving without a license.

John D. Knittel Wed In Midland

Midland Lutheran Church was the setting at 7 p.m. Friday for the marriage of Catherine Shaw of San Angelo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Shaw of Colorado City, and John D. Knittel, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Knittel, 1000 Delmar St.

A rainbow candelabrum with white tapers and green foliage formed the background for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. David Herman. Mrs. Robert Scott, organist, provided wedding selections.

Mrs. Jan Foltz of San Angelo was matron of honor. Mr. Knittel served his son as best man. Usher was Clifford Miller, uncle of the bridegroom, and Joey Knittel, brother of the bridegroom, lighted the candles.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of candlelight silk designed in Princess style featuring long tapered sleeves with ecru lace trim. She carried a nosegay of mums, carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Foltz wore a formal dress of floral design. A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church with Linda O'Brain, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Clifford Miller, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Paul Knittel of San Angelo, grandmother of the bridegroom, serving in the house party.

The couple is residing here at 500 Devonian St.

Pre-Nuptial Party Honors Couple

Vicki Browder and her fiance, Mark K. Leaverton, were honored Saturday with a party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. McCullough, 2207 Harvard St.

Miss Browder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Browder Jr., 1408 Cuthbert St., and Leaverton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Leaverton of Lubbock, will be married Dec. 21 in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity.

Co-host couple and co-hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Darwin and Mrs. Raymond Lynch.

Assisting with hospitalities were Nancy Lynch, Mrs. David Hurta of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Geoffrey Barnett of Houston.

Arrangements of mums, carnations and daisies in autumn colors decorated the serving tables. Centering the registry table was an enlargement of a snapshot made on the bride-elect's 10th birthday with Miss Lynch, Mrs. Hurta and Mrs. Barnett pictured with her.

Special guests were the parents of the engaged couple, his brother, Clay Leaverton of Lubbock, and the bride-elect's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Browder III.

Attending were approximately 70 guests.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Current News Stories Saved For Grandchildren

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I have saved many of the newspapers with headlines and stories relative to the momentous events of the past few months. The day will come when my grandchildren will appreciate them as they study history and current events. I would like to know the best way to preserve these papers.—MRS. E. S.

DEAR MRS. E. S. — I would roll the papers and then seal them with tape so they are completely air tight. Perhaps some reader will know of and send a different idea.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is that supermarkets do not have special counters for senior citizens with mini-size packages of meat, fruit and vegetables which would help limited budgets as the regular size packages hold too much and cost too much. Being able to buy smaller quantities would allow the aged more variety in their meals.—PEARL

DEAR POLLY — Elaine who has an iodine stain on a wood bowl will find that iodine is soluble in alcohol. I think it would be worth a try on wood. It works well on cloth, linoleum, etc.—MAE

DEAR POLLY — Elaine should try putting cornstarch on the iodine stain on her wooden bowl. Dampen the bowl, apply the cornstarch and leave it on an hour or so. It should draw out the stain but the cornstarch must be damp. This has worked great for me on all materials.—WILMA

DEAR FRIENDS — The finish on the wood will have something to do with the way anything works on the iodine stain. Heavy varnish or shellac would be a protection and probably make the stain easier to remove while unfinished wood has nothing to prevent the penetration of a stain. It might be very difficult to remove unless one wants to try sanding.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — For the first time I have been knitting with two strands of yarn knitted at the same time. I discovered that by slipping a small plastic marker or ring over the two ends before starting my work helps keep the two yarns closer together and the ring is just pushed along ahead of the knitting.—MRS. D.I.

DEAR POLLY — A dear elderly friend gave me a collection of old keys that she had saved for over 80 years. Their nice shapes inspired me to spray them gold and then hang them on our Christmas tree as ornaments. This made the loveliest tree and a very sentimental one, too — Helen.

DEAR READERS — I was intrigued with Helen's suggestion for a Christmas tree decorated with keys. Most of us would be surprised at how many old discarded keys we have tucked away here and there and golden keys attached to gold cord for hanging would give a most unusual effect.—POLLY

Recipe Shower Fetes Miss White

Cathy White, bride-elect of Ben New, was entertained recently with a recipe shower in the home of Mrs. Edward Gideon, 1604 Neely St. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Gideon's daughter, Becky, and her mother, Mrs. J. J. Suggs.

Guests were received by the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. George White. A hand-decorated recipe box done in Blue Onion design, a gift to the honoree, centered the guest registry table.

On the serving table was an arrangement of large white Fuji mums, paper white narcissus and cornflowers in an antique crystal compote. Silver and crystal appointments were used. Members of the house party included Mrs. Jack Chase, Mrs. Robert Cowan, Leslie Cowan, Mrs. John Foster, Mrs. Will Gardner, Mrs. Jack Hitt, Mrs. W. C. Osborne, Mrs. Aubrey Gideon of Houston and Mrs. Michael Gideon of Austin.

Corsages were presented to the honoree, her mother and members of the house party. The couple will be married Jan. 25 in the First United Methodist Church in Austin.

I'm going rapid —

Senator Says He Received Donations From Bell Officials

LUBBOCK (AP) — A newly elected state senator says he received no contributions from the late T. O. Gravit.

Democrat, disclosed the contributions Monday after his name surfaced in a news story from San Antonio concerning Bell political campaign policies.

Hance said his records indicate he received $100 from Sam Holcomb and $50 from M. L. Kopf last October. Holcomb and Kopf, both of Dallas, are vice presidents in Bell's Texas operation.

Hance said he knows neither of the two Bell executives. Gifts Encouraged — Ward K. Wilkinson, vice president and supervisor of Bell's public affairs department, said Monday that executives were "encouraged" to contribute to the campaigns of political candidates but he refused comment when asked if they were coerced to do so.

Southwestern Bell has denied such coercion and other allegations made after Gravit, former head of Bell's Texas operation, killed himself Oct. 17 at his Dallas home.

Gravit's family and another former Bell executive, James Ashley of San Antonio, have since filed a $29.2-million slander and libel suit against the company.

Charges Denied — Bell officials have denied, among other things, that some 140 of its top executives were under orders to contribute earlier this year to Texas politicians favored by the company.

Hance's name was mentioned in personal records of Gravit, indicating that Gravit wrote checks to five Texas politicians last April.

Included in the papers was a note on the letterhead of Wilkinson, a Bell lobbyist, that said: "Need $100 check to Ken Beat Dock (sic) Blanchard the Demo. Incumbent in primary."

He said he received the checks from Holcomb and Kopf after a breakfast meeting with two Bell "legislative representatives" in Lubbock.

Hance said one of the two, Clint Smith, asked him if he were having trouble raising money. Hance told him he was and he said, "We'll try to get you some help."

Nothing Wrong — Hance said, "I'd appreciate it." He added, "and that was it." I don't think there's anything wrong with that."

Said Hance: "A contribution from an individual, whether he works for Bell or some other corporation, is not illegal or unethical. But, if he were forced to contribute by that company it would be illegal on his part. I think if the candidate knew the contribution was forced, it would be unethical or questionable to accept it."

He said, "Under no circumstances would I accept a contribution if I knew someone was being forced to give it."

In San Antonio, Ashley, described as an internal investigator, said he contributed money to politicians "as a condition of employment with Bell."

He told the San Antonio Express-News that until 1966 Bell executives gave $50 to $100 a month each in cash, depending on their rank.

"In 1966, the top men were given $1,000 raises with the provision most or all of it go back to the company in special political assessments," Ashley was quoted as saying.

"Finally, when the law barring corporations from making political contributions went through, the present method was adopted. Ma Bell suggests, and we write our personal checks accordingly. If challenged, we are simply to say these are the candidates of my choice."

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (AP) — John Eisenhower, son of the late President, is writing a weekly newspaper column on national and world events.

Eisenhower's column started today in the Daily Republican. "I've written about the past," Eisenhower said. "Now I want to comment on the present."

Eisenhower, who lives in this community northeast of Philadelphia, is author of two books — "The Bitter Woods," a best-seller about the Battle of the Bulge, and the recently released "Strictly Personal."

Mexico's Top Outlaw Dies In Gunbattle

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government successfully ended its biggest manhunt in modern history with the death of Lucio Cabanas, the country's top guerrilla outlaw, in a blazing gunbattle with the Mexican Army.

Cabanas' death Monday morning in the rugged mountains north of Acapulco where he had lived for eight years was a sweet victory for the government, which had committed 20,000 soldiers to bring him out.

A teacher-turned-guerrilla, Cabanas was a legend in his own time but remained an enigma in life and death. Some remember him as a cruel bandit who killed, robbed and kidnaped for money. Others thought of him as a modern-day Robin Hood robbing the rich to help the poor.

Observers said Cabanas might have gone on for years if he hadn't kidnaped Sen. Ruben Figueroa last May when the millionaire transportation magnate tried to negotiate a truce.

Best Known Leader — Cabanas had become Latin America's best known guerrilla leader since Ernesto "Che" Guevara, and Figueroa's kidnaping was the so-called straw that broke the camel's back. The government mobilized 20,000 of its best soldiers to find Cabanas in Mexico's biggest peacetime military operation.

Last Sept. 8, the soldiers struck pay dirt. They trapped Cabanas' band, killed 17 of his followers and liberated Figueroa. A government spokesman said the army had struck a mortal blow against Cabanas' band and predicted Cabanas himself would fall before the year ended.

The grim prediction became reality at 9 a. m. Monday on the "El Otatal" ranch, 13 miles northeast of Tecpan, which is 75 miles north of the Pacific resort of Acapulco.

10 Others Killed — A Defense Department statement said 10 members of the guerrilla band died alongside Cabanas. Another 17 guerrillas were killed in an earlier shoot-out with the army Saturday. The statement said two soldiers were killed and five wounded in the two encounters.

Cabanas, either 36 or 37, was a sixth grade teacher who fled to the hills when a local controversy over school uniforms ended in bloodshed in May 1967. He had taught in the little village of Atoyac, just a few miles from where he died.

Cabanas became a follower of another rebel teacher, Genaro Vazquez Rojas, and was little known until after Vazquez' death in an automobile accident in 1972.

The thin, swarthy former teacher with dark hair and dark eyes picked up the flag of his fallen comrade, declared war against the government and published a manifesto saying he was seeking "a socialist government" for Mexico.

Cabanas liked to claim his revolution was a continuation of the 1910 peasant uprising led by Emiliano Zapata, the famed Mexican guerrilla who was betrayed and killed by the army.

Some compared him to Guevara, an Argentine who fought with Fidel Castro, then became a Cuban revolutionary hero and was killed in the Bolivian jungle in 1967.

Small Band — The Cabanas band was always thought to be small. Some said there were never more than 250 active, hardcore followers. One Cabanas lieutenant captured in 1971 put the headquarters at 35 armed men.

During his eight-year reign of terror and political action, Cabanas took credit for the liberation of Vazquez Rojas from jail, numerous bank robberies, kidnappings and most recently the murder of the Acapulco police chief within two blocks of his office and the kidnap strangulation of a wealthy Acapulco widow whose family had already paid a sizeable ransom.

In the succession of the modern-day Mexican revolutionary movement, it seems inevitable that the banner of popular rebellion will now pass to the urban terrorist groups.

The leader of these groups is considered to be the 23rd of September Revolutionary Movement, which has claimed credit for bombings of American businesses, kidnappings and robberies throughout the country.

Bombs Exploded — Two weeks ago, 13 bombs exploded in three Mexican cities injuring four persons and heavily damaging government offices, banks and business establishments, several American-owned.

The bombings demonstrated sophisticated communications and organization and police said they were the most seriously coordinated attack since the clandestine urban guerrilla groups stepped up their terrorist campaign five years ago.

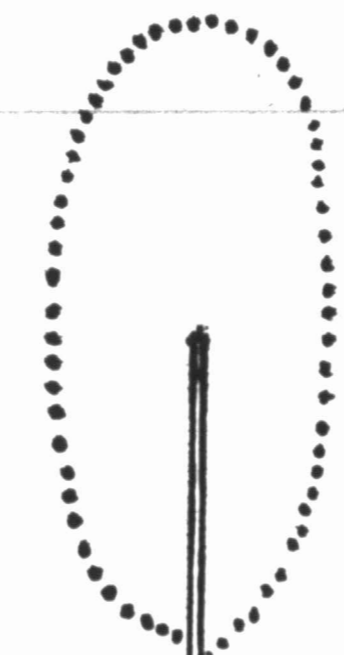

They came just two days after the government announced the arrest of six alleged members of Cabanas' group.

Convicts Allege Prison Brutality — HOUSTON (AP) — About 13 prisoners testified Monday before a federal grand jury investigating alleged brutality at Texas Department of Corrections units.

The convicts, from the Re-trieve Unit in Brazoria County, testified about a work stoppage and sit-down demonstration which occurred last June.

The prisoners alleged they were mistreated by guards.

Lee Youth Center Chatter

By TANYA JONES, BECKY HALL and LINDA EWAN

Just like Thanksgiving Vacation, this Chatter will be short and sweet.

Victory is sweet as the Lee Basketball Team well knows. They came away from the Seventh Annual Tall City Basketball Tournament last Friday and Saturday with the Championship trophy. They clinched the title by beating Lubbock Monterey 70-67 in an exciting overtime game.

Junior Miller and Brett Blackwell made the all-tournament team. All coaches, players, and trainers should be congratulated. This makes a total of five wins and no losses so far this season.

Tuesday night, our Rebel Roundballers will be playing Hobbs in Hobbs. After their victory over Hobbs, they will participate in the Plainview Tournament on December 5, 6, and 7. Our men are working hard and have a rough schedule, so when you see them in the halls, be sure and wish them luck.

Basketball isn't the only kind of tournament our Rebs will be in next weekend. The Speech and Drama Departments will be in Big Spring for an important meet this Saturday.

Talk it up Rebs!

The Chatter writers need your help in writing your Chatter. We still have the Chatter-box in the Youth Center. If you hear or know of any news, write it down and put it in the Chatter-box, or give it to one of the Chatter writers.

Note: 22 more days to Christmas!

Counting, Tanya, Becky, Linda

P.S. There is a 100 Club meeting at the L.Y.C. at 7:30 tonight.

P.S.S. Glad so many Rebs came home for the Holiday and supported the Basketball activities.

Ford Boosts Prospects U.S. Will Build Bigger Missiles Under Accord

By FRED S. HOFFMAN (An AP News Analysis)

WASHINGTON (AP) — While proclaiming the arms race "capped," President Ford has boosted prospects that the United States will build bigger missiles to make sure Russia does not gain a major advantage in nuclear warheads.

Ford's statement Monday night that his new agreement with Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev put "a firm ceiling on the strategic arms race" referred only to the number of weapons "delivery systems," principally missile launchers.

But the agreement provides no limitation on the size and lifting power, or "throw-weight," of those missiles, or on the number of warheads they can carry.

To Install Missiles

A new family of Soviet missiles is reported nearing installation, probably with multiple independently targetable warheads (MIRVs).

These missiles are rated by U.S. intelligence experts as having between three and seven times the throw-weight of the American Minuteman missile. Some of these new Soviet missiles have been tested with six and eight warheads, compared with the Minuteman's three MIRVs.

U.S. defense officials repeatedly have voiced concern that by the early 1980s the Russian throw-weight advantage, translated into thousands of accurate nuclear warheads, could threaten U.S. missiles in their underground launch silos.

Danger Cited

Officials have said this would seriously weaken the U.S. striking force which is relied on to deter nuclear war.

"If there is an inequity in throw-weight, that can be remediated," Ford told his news conference. "If we decide to go to a heavy throw-weight, we can add a greater number of individual warheads," the President said.

He indicated he would abide by U.S. military judgment on this.

With this kind of encouragement, defense officials are likely to push for a new missile system to replace the Minuteman, although a decision on what form that system will take still is at least a year away.

Approaches Studied

A number of possible approaches already are being studied, including mobile missiles that could be fired from giant transport planes, trucks, trains or barges.

Mobile missiles would be very difficult for the Soviets to knock out in a surprise attack, compared with missiles in fixed silos.

Although Ford said he plans to keep spending on strategic arms at about the present level, it is difficult to see how a new missile system could be developed and installed without spending additional billions of dollars over a period of perhaps eight years.

At one point, Ford seemed to be suggesting that there might be some reductions in U.S. weapons programs. But he later clarified that by saying that the agreed limits on delivery systems would result in a cut-back on the Soviet side.

Sugar Exports To Help Taiwan Offset Oil Costs

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Republic of China's ambassador to the United States says Taiwan's sugar exports help offset expensive oil imports for the island country.

James C. H. Shen said, "We export as much sugar as we can. We fill an annual quota to the United States of somewhere between 50 and 60 metric tons."

He added, "We produce 800,000 tons of sugar every year and consume one fourth of it."

Shen said a deposit of natural gas on Taiwan also has made his government optimistic about easing high energy costs.

Shen, a journalist educated at the University of Missouri, was in San Antonio for Monday night's National Chinese Opera Theater.

INMATES ALLEGEDLY ALLOWED TO DO SURGERY— Prison Panel Is Preparing Report

AUSTIN (AP) — The Joint Committee on prison reform started preparing its final report to the legislature today after hearing that prison inmates hospital aides are allowed to perform surgery.

The committee also was asked for help by the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles in getting a sizable increase in its budget for parole officers.

"On one visit to the 'Walls' hospital, we went into the operating room and watched an inmate perform minor surgery on another inmate, after another inmate had given the patient an anesthetic," committee staff director John Albach reported Monday.

Skill Praised

He said a Texas Department of Corrections physician "praised the skill of these inmate surgeons" and said they were allowed to perform surgery as complicated as repairing severed Achilles tendons.

"It is legally and ethically clear that none of these operations should have been performed by inmates," Albach said.

Pardons and paroles board chairman William Skelton agreed in the main with a staff report criticizing the parole system, and asked for help in getting funds to hire more people to work both inside and outside the prisons.

He said the typical Texas parole officer supervises about 85 parolees, compared with a national standard of 35.

With the present staff, "we don't feel like we can give the service we ought to to the public, to the inmate, to the parolee," Skelton said.

Supervision Urged

He agreed with a committee staff recommendation that all inmates, even those who serve their full sentences, should be placed under some kind of mandatory supervision upon release.

The report recommended elimination of the Texas Department of Corrections' "operative veto power" over paroles.

Parole decisions and eligibility are heavily influenced by ratings given a prisoner by the Texas Department of Corrections, including his warden, said the paper submitted by staff member Mary Ann Beaty-Arnold.

"One warden felt it within his discretion to change an inmate's disciplinary status on a last-minute basis if he feels that the inmate is particularly deserving or undeserving of parole. While it is inherent in the duties of the warden's office to make disciplinary decisions, this admitted practice—if true on other units as well—puts TDC in absolute control of which inmates may be considered for parole," she said.

"Such control seems contrary to all expressed rules of consideration for parole, and the board of pardons and paroles should remedy this situation as soon as possible."

Proposal Made

The report recommended elimination of the constitutional requirement that all paroles be finally approved by the governor. "The parole hearing officers indicated that the governor's office often operated as a bottleneck in the parole system," the report said.

The staff report said the hearing officer and parole counselor should have the power to make binding decisions on parole, with the three-man board breaking ties and hearing appeals.

Another report by John Albach said the prison system has dragged its feet in implementing the work release and furlough program authorized by the legislature four years ago.

100 Participate

Only 100 prisoners take part in the program, he said, and these are limited to those with only six to 18 months left to serve on their sentences.

"By limiting participants in the programs to only those inmates who will soon be released, TDC has reduced the programs, to little more than minor adjuncts to the pre-release programs," Albach said.

"There is no reason why TDC could not expand its designated sites to include suitable buildings as work furlough centers in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso, San Antonio, Austin or any other appropriate Texas community."

Ministers Threatening To Sue Over Home Economics Class

NEW MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — Two Baptist ministers are threatening to sue school officials over required sixth-grade home economics courses that they say encourage homosexuality in boys.

The Rev. Lynn Mays, a minister at Faith Baptist Temple, claims the courses "usurp the authority of the home" and force children "into a situation that is foreign to his or her traditional role."

"By having a young boy cook or sew, wearing aprons, we're pushing a boy into homosexuality. It's contrary to what the home and the Bible has stood for. When God set up the human race, there was a division of sexes. A woman's place is in the home. That's where God put them, barring unusual circumstances."

"We'll take it to the U.S. Supreme Court if he have to. My son doesn't want to be a sissy," said the Rev. James Clemmons, associate minister at Faith Baptist Temple here.

The course is a required subject for sixth-grade students. But the Rev. Mr. Clemmons' 11-year-old son, James, was recently exempted from home economics courses at Schaghticoke Middle School by the school board.

"If people demonstrate a serious religious reason for not participating in an activity, we make adjustments. This is the first year that we're experimenting having sixth-grade boys and girls taking both home economics and industrial arts courses. It's working out well. Youngsters like it and we're not changing the program," said Daniel Center, school superintendent.

Center said he "can't acknowledge or accept" the ministers' contentions.

"We haven't meant to hurt any youngsters. From our observations both boys and girls look forward to these classes enthusiastically."

He said the home economics and industrial arts classes last 18 weeks with one 45-minute session each week. Both courses are mandatory for sixth-grade students, he added.

More Woes Piled On Areas Hit By Snow

By The Associated Press

Snow or freezing rain brought hazardous driving from the lower Great Lakes into the Northeast today, piling more weather woes on some regions still digging out from a monster weekend storm.

Heavy-snow warnings were in effect for parts of Vermont, northern and western New York and the mountains of West Virginia. Freezing-rain warnings covered parts of Ohio and Maine. Storm warnings were posted for Lake Ontario and gale warnings for Lakes Huron and Erie, the New England coast and the northern and central Pacific coast.

The season's first major snowstorm stranded thousands of motorists, or forced them to abandon their autos, in southern Michigan and adjacent sections of Ohio, where it dumped 18 to 20 inches of snow Sunday and Monday. Ranging into the Southeast, the storm piled as much as 15 inches of snow in southwest Virginia and up to 2 feet in mountain areas of West Virginia.

It also brought numerous power outages, traffic accidents and school and business shutdowns from Michigan to Maine. But the foul weather also brought out the best in many people. In southeastern Michigan, where the heaviest snow of the century measured almost 19 inches, teen-agers joined to push car after car up an interstate highway ramp. A policeman picked up a pregnant woman and rushed her to the hospital by snowmobile.

The Red Cross went into action to help the more than 11,000 persons stranded in Michigan, among an estimated 35,000 stranded there and in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

More than 20 persons suffered fatal heart attacks in Michigan alone while shoveling snow.

Some schools and businesses which were closed from Michigan to New England and into Appalachia on Monday planned to reopen today, depending on local conditions. But many remained closed, hoping to resume operations Wednesday. Detroit public schools and many others in southeastern Michigan were among those closed again today.

Two newspapers in Michigan, the Detroit News and Wayne Daily Eagle, failed to publish Monday editions. The snow forced cancellation of state and local governmental meetings. The judge and jury failed to show up for a murder trial at Detroit's Recorder's Court.

Maryland called out National Guard units to help clear snow from western parts of the state Monday and to rescue an estimated 2,000 stranded motorists.

In Kentucky, where many schools were closed Monday and today, seven children were injured in a school bus accident.

Elsewhere, light snow moved into the Pacific Northwest mountains and rain fell on the coast. More than an inch of rain fell at Portland, Ore. Light snow also spilled into the northern Plains.

In contrast, fair weather spread over areas from Southern California to Florida and into the central Plains, the middle Mississippi Valley and the upper Great Lakes region.

Miami Back As Super Swingers

MIAMI (AP) — Paul Brown watched Miami's defending National Football League champions thrash his Cincinnati Bengals 24-3 Monday night and sighed, "They're back in the Super Bowl swing."

The Dolphins, who have been in the past three Super Bowls and won the last two, agreed. "This was our best performance of the year," said Miami Coach Don Shula, whose team can assure itself of its fifth straight playoff berth by beating Baltimore Sunday.

Quarterback Bob Griese, who completed 11 of 13 passes for 118 yards and threw four-yard scoring passes to Mercury Morris and Jim Mandich, said the Dolphins have the ability to excel in crucial games.

"It's nice to know when the chips are down and it's a big game, we're going to get it," said Griese.

The Dolphins' defense held the Bengals to just 66 yards rushing, 61 of the yards coming in the second half. Ken Anderson, the American Football Conference's leading passer, was held to 119 yards on 14 pass completions — 100 yards below his average.

Cincinnati's biggest scoring threat was killed in the third quarter when Anderson was tackled by linebacker Bob Heinz for no gain on fourth down at Miami's four yard line.

The Bengals only score came on a 29-yard field goal by Horst Muhlmann after Miami's Mercury Morris fumbled at the Dolphins' 22. It was the only flaw made by the Dolphins, who in turn recovered three of five Cincinnati fumbles.

The Dolphins got a 43-yard field goal from Garo Yepremian and ended the scoring with a two-yard run by Benny Malone in the fourth quarter.

A key factor in Miami's 30th straight win at home was the running of fullback Larry Coonka, who came back from a nagging ankle injury to total 123 yards in 24 carries.

"There wasn't much" argued about that one," said Brown of the game. "We had trouble getting receivers downfield. You're allowed one check (on a receiver) and they were doing it effectively and legally."

Brown's own playoff hopes all but died with the defeat. The Bengals, 7-5, would have to win their final two games while Pittsburgh, 8-3-1, would have to lose both for Cincinnati to win in the AFC Central Division.

Safety Dick Anderson summed up the Dolphins' outlook, saying, "We have to keep playing games like this to win and get into the playoffs and Super Bowl. They are all most games from here on out."

Baseball Studies Expansion

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Major league baseball officials took up the subject of expansion today while everyone waited for the big trades to break at the annual winter meetings.

Expansion was on the National League agenda with owners due to get a report from a special committee set up last August to study the possibility of additional clubs.

"There's a lot of pro and con regarding expansion," said NL President Charles S. Feeney Monday. "It's going to get a lot of discussion." The American League, on the other hand, does not have expansion on the agenda; but President Lee MacPhail said: "I'm certain it will be discussed."

The majors already have indicated that they will add two teams in each league for the 1976 season.

New Orleans and Seattle, which have domed stadiums under construction, and Toronto, which broke ground for a new stadium last month, are considered leading candidates.

Denver and Honolulu also have been asked to be considered and have representatives here.

Washington, D.C., also is pressing for a franchise. In recent years, two clubs have been moved out of the nation's capital, which may wind up with the Baltimore club which is up for sale. It's possible the team would play a split season at Baltimore and Washington.

Approval of expansion is not expected at these meetings. The nation's economy is regarded as the major concern for not taking that step now.

The lack of players was emphasized Monday when the major leagues held their draft of minor leaguers. Only three were chosen at a cost of $25,000 each.

The Chicago Cubs chose catcher Tim Hosely from Tucson of the Pacific Coast League, the New York Mets grabbed outfielder Jorge Roque from Puebla of the Mexican League, and Boston chose second baseman Kim Andrew from Rochester of the International League.

Meanwhile there was little action of the trading front. Tommy Harper was the first name player to go — dealt by the Boston Red Sox to the California Angels for infielder Bobby Heise.

Harper, 34, is a 12-year veteran who can play the outfield and third base, but Manager Dick Williams said he would probably use him as a designated hitter.

Harper batted 237 with five homers and 24 runs batted in last season. He has a .257 lifetime batting mark and is an adept base stealer.

Heise, 27, fills the need of a reserve infielder following the retirement of Dick McAuliffe after last season. The Angels had purchased Heise from Tulsa in mid-season. He batted .267 in 29 games for California.

In other developments, the St. Louis Cardinals purchased right-handed pitcher Bill Parsons, 26, from the Oakland A's and the Atlanta Braves acquired right-handed pitcher Roger Alexander, from Midland, from the Milwaukee Brewers to complete the Hank Aaron deal.

The Braves previously received outfielder Dave May in exchange for the home run king.

Although all sides are denying it, Rusty Staub apparently now is a member of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Staub, a New York Mets' outfielder for the past three seasons, is part of a three-way deal which also includes the Detroit Tigers, according to sources at baseball's annual winter meetings.

The Phillies, in turn, have sent catcher Bob Boone to the Detroit Tigers. The Mets obtained center fielder Mickey

Pack, Pecos In Rematch; Rebels Travel To Hobbs

By BOB DILLON
Coach James Cagle's Midland Bulldogs hope to snap a two-game losing streak tonight while Midland Lee, with a perfect 5-0 record, takes on the powerful Hobbs,

N. M. Eagles in Hobbs in basketball action. Midland lost to El Paso Austin and Lubbock Monterey in the Tall City Invitational this past weekend after beating Del Rio, 74-59 while Lee raced past Hereford, El Paso Austin and Monterey to win its fourth Tall City crown, but the Rebels had to go into overtime to beat the tall Plainsmen, 70-67.

Hobbs is reported to have one of its stronger teams in recent years, but will be playing without two lettermen in John Baber and Ltrail Jones who are still playing football for the Eagles who play Albuquerque Del Norte for the AAAA championship this weekend. The next time Lee faces Hobbs in the Lee Gymnasium, in two weeks Coach Ralph Tasker will have the services of those two athletes.

Victoria Transfer Hits Money Snag

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Coach James Cagle's Victoria, Tex., franchise of the Texas League. The Toros still owe the city to Jackson has not been completed because certain financial conditions have not been met, according to local reports.

Bobby Bragan, league president who is attending a meeting of the National Association of Baseball Leagues in New Orleans, told the Jackson Clarion-Ledger that "certain stipulations" must be met before the league officially and definitely can approve the transfer.

The franchise of the Victoria Toros, is still owned by Cal Rockefeller, now of Jackson and formerly of Victoria.

Bragan, when asked if the stipulations meant that Rockefeller must meet financial obligations in Texas totaling a reported $40,000 or more, said "yes."

The Toros went to Victoria at the start of the 1974 season and the report said Rockefeller had promised city officials and fans that the franchise would remain there for a minimum of five years.

The report said he signed a five-year lease on a city-owned park. It said the Toros played 56 home dates at Victoria during the 1974 season and drew a total of 48,649 fans.

The Toros still owe the city $6,000 on the park lease, the reported because certain financial conditions have not been met, according to local reports.

City Manager John Lee of Victoria said he was disappointed with the proposed shift and related angles.

"We are disappointed Mr. Rockefeller is moving out after signing a five-year lease," Lee said. "We feel that everything considered, the club was given good support here, in comparison with the manner in which other minor league clubs are supported."

Lee said his city had filed suit against the club seeking payment of the balance owned on the park. He said the lease called for a $12,000 annual payment to the city and that Rockefeller had made $5,000 payment and a $1,000 payment.

Bragan confirmed that Rockefeller was attempting to sell the Victoria franchise.

He said that if the sale goes through, the money will be used to discharge the Toros' financial obligations in and around Victoria.

6-5 Junior Miller and 6-0 Gary Parson at the forward slots and 6-5 Jeffrey Jackson at center. Miller, a junior, will jump center at the start of the game.

Tasker will start Kevin Keeling, 6-7 senior at a post slot; Donnie Thompson, 6-3 senior along with Ken Williams, 6-4 junior; Garland Taylor, 6-0 senior and Royce Cooper, a 5-10 senior or Benny Hicks, 5-8 senior.

Midland, meanwhile, sports a 3-2 record compared to Pecos' 0-2 mark, but the Pack had trouble with the Eagles in Pecos last week, winning, 57-52.

Tonight's game is the only one on tap this week for the varsity until it travels to Hobbs, Dec. 10 for a date with the New Mexico power.

Cagle will most likely start Bobby Chinn, 6-2 senior; Greg Smith, 6-2 senior; Donnie Roberts, 6-5 senior; Michael Cobb, 6-5 senior and Terry Nelson, a 5-8 senior against Pecos.

Pecos will go with 6-2 Kenneth Williams; 5-11 Maurice Bolton; 6-1 David Terry; 6-1 Ray Cameron and 5-10 Linvel Mosby.

Cameron scored 16 points and Williams 14 against Midland in the first meeting of the two teams, while Roberts canned 17 for MHS and Smith 11.

Lamesa Captures Fourth Cage Win

LAMESA — The Lamesa Golden Tornados swept to their fourth basketball victory of the season without a loss Monday night by downing the Big Spring Steers, 71-51.

Lamesa got balanced scoring with four players in the double figures.

Brian Meeks led the attack with 18 points followed by Dave Flemming with 13. Melvin Robinson chipped in with 12 and Eddie Spencer had 11.

Jeff Spencer tallied 13 points to lead the Lamesa junior varsity to a 59-44 win over the Steer JV.

Lamesa faces Odessa Ector tonight in Odessa and then plays in the Lake View Tourney Thursday and Friday.

Tex Watson talks about
The West Texas Gas Supply

You hear a great deal about the competition for the natural gas in West Texas these days. It is rightfully a matter of interest and concern to every citizen of this area. It has some serious implications.

Natural gas has been an important factor in building West Texas and will continue to be. Most of the businesses and industries in our area depend, directly or indirectly, on a continuing supply of natural gas. A lot of people's jobs depend on it. So, we must see that they have it.

We will have to pay more for it than in the past... the competition for gas has never been so fierce. But by working together, and without outside interference, we'll have the gas energy we need today and in the future. Gas will still be your best energy buy.

The Wolfpack, who ended UCLA's string of seven consecutive NCAA titles last year, whipped East Carolina 90-81 Saturday night in its season opener, with All-American David Thompson pouring in 38 points. On the strength of that showing, N.C. State retained the top spot in this week's poll with 876 points and 37 first-place votes from the panel of sports writer and broadcasters around the country.

UCLA, which lost four of last year's five starters to graduation, posted easy victories over Wichita State and DePaul and held onto the second spot in the poll with 796 points, including seven first-place ballots.

Bobby Knight's Indiana squad, which opened its campaign with a 113-60 romp over Tennessee Tech Saturday night, held third place with 796 points and one first-place vote.

Maryland crushed Richmond 105-81 in its opener and was rated No. 4 with 441 points, while South Carolina, which opened its season with an 86-74 triumph over Bucknell Monday night, was ranked fifth with 423 points, including the only other first-place vote.

Louisville was ranked sixth and Kansas seventh. Both opened their seasons Monday night, Louisville nipping Houston 91-87 and Kansas trouncing Augustana, S.D. 86-50. Marquette, North Carolina and Southern California completed the Top Ten.

Alabama headed the Second Ten, followed by Purdue, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Memphis State, Providence, Arizona, Michigan and Houston. Minnesota, despite whipping North Dakota State 80-47 in its only game last week, dropped out of the Top 20. The Gophers were ranked 18th last week. Houston was the lone newcomer to the Top 20.

TODAY IS THE DAY — This gentleman is known as Mr. Heisman, and the Downtown Athletic Club of New York decided Archie Griffin will get the trophy, representing the outstanding player in college football. (AP Wirephoto.)

ANTHONY DAVIS HIGH ON LIST— Griffin Heads Heisman Race

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Griffin, a speedy and powerful tailback who weaved his way to a national rushing record as the leader of Ohio State's crunching ground attack, was named winner of the 1974 Heisman Trophy today.

The fourth of seven sons of James and Margaret Griffin of Columbus, Ohio, the 5-foot-9 Griffin became only the fifth underclassman in 40 years to win the award as college football's outstanding player.

Griffin, a junior who has gained an NCAA record of 100 or more yards in 22 consecutive games and who led the nation in total rushing yardage this year, was presented as the Heisman winner at the Downtown Athletic Club. His selection had become almost a foregone conclusion as the 185-pound runner continued his record assault throughout the 1974 season. The award now gives Griffin a chance to do what no other player has ever done—win the Heisman twice. In becoming the 36th offensive back to win the award,

Griffin completed a sensational string of performances that dates back to the opening game of the 1973 season, when he was a sophomore. Last year he placed fifth in the Heisman voting.

"I've never had a player like Arch," said Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes. "He's remarkable not only because he is the best runner we have ever had, but also because of the way he blocks and his over-all ability as an athlete. If ever anyone was deserving of the Heisman Trophy it is Archie Griffin."

In the 1974 season, Griffin, who already is the all-time Ohio State and Big Ten leading rusher, was the key to the Buckeye attack, carrying 236 times for 1,620 yards, an average of 147.3 yards a game as Ohio State posted a 10-1 record. He scored 12 touchdowns. Griffin will appear in his third consecutive Rose Bowl game on

Oklahoma Reigns Supreme

By The Associated Press
The Oklahoma Sooners have finished the regular 1974 college football season atop The Associated Press rankings.

In their final game Saturday, Oklahoma defeated Oklahoma State 44-13 and earned 49 first-place votes and 1.178 of a possible 1,220 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

It marked the fourth week in a row for Oklahoma in the No. 1 position. The Sooners, on probation and ineligible for postseason competition, completed their campaign with an 11-0 record.

Alabama was runner-up for the fourth consecutive week. The Crimson Tide, also 11-0, shaded Auburn 17-13 last Friday and received 12 first-place votes and 1,094 points. Alabama plays Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl the night of Jan. 1.

Ohio State and Michigan, which finished a week earlier, held onto the 3-4 positions with 982 and 828 points respectively. But Southern California climbed from sixth to fifth thanks to that incredible 55-24 rout of Notre Dame, which dropped the Irish from fifth to ninth and killed any lingering dreams of a second straight national championship.

The new national champion will be crowned by The AP following the bowl games. The final poll will be released at 6:30 p.m., EST, on Thursday, Jan. 3, 1975, to morning papers of Friday, Jan. 3.

Despite its loss to Alabama, Auburn rose from seventh to sixth. Penn State moved up from 10th to seventh by trouncing Pitt 31-10 and Nebraska, which finished a week earlier, jumped from ninth to eighth. The Cornhuskers replaced Texas A&M, which lost to Rounding out the Top Ten is Maryland, the highest position of the season for the Terrapins, who also finished the regular season a week ago. The Second Ten consists of Texas, Baylor, North Carolina State, Michigan State, Miami of Ohio, Texas A&M, Brigham Young, Florida and Arizona, with Pitt and Wisconsin tied for 20th.

Last week, it was Maryland, Miami, N.C. State, Michigan State, Houston, Baylor, Texas, Pitt, Inconsin and BYU. Houston was the Top Twenty's only casualty. The Cougars bowed to Tulsa 30-14 and dropped out while Arizona and Florida moved back in.

Badgers Lose, 59-46

FORT STOCKTON — The Class AAA Fort Stockton Panthers gunned down the Class AA McCarney Badgers, 59-46, Monday in basketball action. Bert Rainwater flipped in 18 points to pace the winners while Eric Tabb scored 14 for the losers. Teammates Sam Gutierrez and Leland Bolen followed with 12 and 11, respectively. It was McCarney's opener while Fort Stockton stands 2-1. Fort Stockton won the JV game, 54-29.

KERMIT — The Odessa Permian Panthers had their hands full before defeating San-Gloss AAA Kermit Yellow Jackets, 60-57 in a non-district basketball game Monday.

James Hunter led the Panther attack with 15 points. Permian is 2-1 on the year with the win.

Lewis Thinks Louisville Is Better Than Expected

By The Associated Press
University of Houston basketball Coach Guy Lewis says Louisville is better than he expected despite the Cardinals' high ranking.

The sixth-ranked Cardinals edged Houston 91-87 Monday night in the college basketball season opener for both teams.

Two other Top Ten clubs played season openers Monday night. Fifth-ranked South Carolina beat Bucknell 88-74 and seventh-ranked Kansas whipped Augustana, S.D. 85-60.

Louisville took the lead for good on Junior Bridgeman's basket on a goal-tending call with 21 seconds left and the Cardinals managed to hold on to defeat the 20th-ranked Cougars in a contest that was close all the way.

The goallending call on Houston's Maurice Prestley gave Louisville an 88-87 lead and Bridgeman, also fouled on the play, sank the free throw for an 89-87 advantage.

The Cougars managed to get the ball during the last seven seconds for one final shot to try for a tie score but Louis Dunbar's short jumper rolled over the rim and into the hands of Louisville's William Bunton, who was fouled. He sank two free throws for the final margin.

"To be honest, I'd have to say they are better than we expected, despite their lofty ranking," Lewis said.

Otis Birdsong of Houston was the top scorer with 26 points followed by Dunbar with 18. Wesley Cox hit 21 for Louisville and Allen Murphy added 20 for the Cardinals.

South Padre Island Development Booming

By GARY GARRISON
SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Tex. (AP) — Signs urge passersby to "Own a Piece of Paradise on Padre Island." But the way people are buying land here and erecting structures, some believe it may become something less than heavenly.

Highway Department office at Pharr, said the department is only committed to build the road to the Willacy County line, 13 miles farther.

Moss said one problem is lack of sewage facilities. He estimates it costs $800-900 per unit to build septic tanks for condominiums.

A solution to the sewage problem is coming, says Don Crow of Cameron County Fresh Water Dist. No. 1.

Heights and Laguna Vista normal premium. Rising water insurance coverage is through the federal flood insurance program.

"South Padre Island" is both the name of a newly-incorporated village and a geographical description. It is on the southern tip of Padre Island, one of the many thin, sandy geological formations which stretch for hundreds of miles along the Texas coast as islands or peninsulas from Galveston on the north to the Mexican border.

Southern Padre Island is the farthest south point in the United States except Puerto Rico and some of the Florida Keys.

Beach Changed
Driving along the strip of lands, it is hard to realize that where the motels, condominiums and fried chicken places now stand this was virtually virgin beach less than 20 years ago.

Ironically, it was a hurricane that caused much of the present building boom and some believe it will take another to end it.

The boom started after Hurricane Beulah slashed across the island in 1967. The belief was widespread that the island had taken the worst nature could offer and had survived rather well.

Only eight years ago, the Sea Grape Motel was the last construction of any size as one drove northward up the island. That motel now is virtually at the midway point of northward development.

Money Pinch Hurts
The boom has been only slightly hampered, promoters say, by tight money.

Will development every reach the Port Mansfield Cut 35 miles north?
Realtor Herb Moss believes that expansion to the cut is inevitable.

There are people who oppose further development and encroachment on the diminishing untouched area. But few will say anything publicly. A businessman explained that he could be hurt by speaking out against what most on the island consider their livelihood.

Don and Judy Veach, a couple who dropped out of what they call the Houston "rat race" and came to this area to live are the most outspoken opponents of more development.

They make their small living by conducting tours of the upper parts of the island. There the visitors can look for shells and other objects that wash up on the beach. Or, like 15th century explorers, they can just soak up the beauty of a landscape unmarred by utility poles, billboards or other signs of civilization.

Reasons Stated
"There's nothing to stop them from making it wall-to-wall condominiums all the way to the Mansfield Cut," Mrs. Veach said.

"Some people might think we're being hypocritical speaking out against island development while we make money by taking people on tours," Veach said.

"If they won't sell another piece of property, I'd never take another person up the beach," he declared.

"I'd never go on that beach again if I thought that would save it," his wife added.

But the Veaches are realistic enough to know that they alone cannot stop development. "I don't expect them to leave a foot of it untouched," Mrs. Veach said.

Open Beach Law
Realtor Moss is quick to point out that many people mistakenly believe the undeveloped land is a park or public property.

"Someone owns all of it," Moss said.

Moss says he does not believe the island will be overdeveloped as long as Texas has an open beach law. The public always has the right to the beach.

One of the sales points developers use at South Padre Island is the Padre Island National Seashore.

It is now impossible to reach the main part of the national seashore by land vehicle from the developed southern end of the island.

Would-Be Robber Frees Hostages

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A would-be robber who wanted to go home for Christmas released five hostages unharmed and surrendered after police agreed to fly his mother here from Dallas.

John L. Gilliam, 26, was booked Monday for investigation of robbery, kidnap and burglary. Raymond J. Tompkins, 25, an alleged accomplice, was arrested earlier after unsuccessfully posing as a released hostage. He was booked on the same charges.

Marie Maxwell, Gilliam's sister, said in a telephone interview from Texas that Gilliam's parole officer from a previous robbery conviction had refused to let him go to Dallas for Christmas.

"It would have been the first time in 20 years the whole family — seven brothers and two sisters — would have been together for Christmas," she said.

She said Gilliam, a Vietnam veteran, hadn't seen his mother, Louise Gilliam, in three years.

"Those weren't the best laid plans of mice and men right from the beginning," Police Inspector Tim Casey said of the bungled holdup and standoff at Petrin Plaza Market near the Golden Gate Park Panhandle.

"The whole thing blew up in their face."

Casey said the pair's first goof was to tell store guard Chico Garcia to "act natural" after he was forced to open the door by two men wearing ski masks. Garcia went instead to the front office and told the secretary to call police.

The pair, armed with two .38-caliber pistols, took seven early morning supermarket workers hostage and held them in a boiler room to wait for an employee with the combination to the safe.

Meanwhile, 25 heavily armed police surrounded the store. When the gunmen found out they fired a single shot over the head of a hostage and retreated with their victims to an upstairs office. Police said the robbers threatened to kill themselves and their hostages.

Police said that about an hour after they surrounded the market, three persons emerged, all of whom identified themselves as hostages. But officers said they discovered that one was actually one of the bandits.

The episode ended some 45 minutes after it began when Gilliam released the remaining hostage and gave up.

DALLAS (AP) — A decision has been delayed on whether Omega-Alpha, Inc. should be placed into receivership.

Dean Gandy, bankruptcy referee, agreed to the delay Monday at the request of the company's lawyer, William H. Tonsley. Tonsley asked the ruling be delayed until testimony is heard in federal bankruptcy court on whether nine banks should be allowed to foreclose Omega-Alpha's Okonite stock.

The company claims it needs the stock in order to rearrange its debts under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Act. Omega-Alpha, founded by James Ling, filed for bankruptcy under that plan in September.

One of its creditors, First Pennsylvania Bank, is seeking to have the firm placed in receivership under Chapter 10 of the Bankruptcy Act. The bank and two other creditors called in a $13 million loan to Omega-Alpha.

If the creditor banks are allowed to foreclose the Okonite stock, the Omega-Alpha would collapse since Okonite is the only operating company of the Ling enterprise.

Stern Complaint Issued Against Talent Company

DALLAS (AP) — Federal officials have issued a stern complaint against a Fort Worth talent agency that allegedly defrauded thousands of would-be singers with promises of stardom.

Richard Gately, a lawyer in the Dallas office of the Federal Trade Commission, said Monday that Soundtrack Chevell Industries, Inc., and five individuals associated with it will have a chance at a Dec. 20 hearing to say why it should not refund more than half a million dollars received from clients.

Gately said that under the complaint the firm would be dissolved and the individuals could not again engage in the talent promotion business.

Those cited in the complaint include two officers, William F. Temple and Helen Temple of Clarksdale, Miss., a former officer, Gene Temple of Independence, Mo.; and two former salesmen, Lonnie Temple, of Bessemer, Ala., and Tommie Tubb, Rt. 1, Aledo, Tex.

The complaint alleges the talent agency advertised and conducted free auditions in various states and then asked prospects to sign contracts for which they were required to pay $1,000.

It further states that some prospects were asked to travel to Fort Worth for their "signing." Company representatives allegedly promised they could successfully promote aspiring singers because they knew persons in the recording industry and they would select songs specially suited for the clients' voices.

Don and Judy Veach, a couple who dropped out of what they call the Houston "rat race" and came to this area to live are the most outspoken opponents of more development.

They make their small living by conducting tours of the upper parts of the island. There the visitors can look for shells and other objects that wash up on the beach. Or, like 15th century explorers, they can just soak up the beauty of a landscape unmarred by utility poles, billboards or other signs of civilization.

Reasons Stated
"There's nothing to stop them from making it wall-to-wall condominiums all the way to the Mansfield Cut," Mrs. Veach said.

"Some people might think we're being hypocritical speaking out against island development while we make money by taking people on tours," Veach said.

"If they won't sell another piece of property, I'd never take another person up the beach," he declared.

"I'd never go on that beach again if I thought that would save it," his wife added.

But the Veaches are realistic enough to know that they alone cannot stop development. "I don't expect them to leave a foot of it untouched," Mrs. Veach said.

Open Beach Law
Realtor Moss is quick to point out that many people mistakenly believe the undeveloped land is a park or public property.

"Someone owns all of it," Moss said.

Moss says he does not believe the island will be overdeveloped as long as Texas has an open beach law. The public always has the right to the beach.

One of the sales points developers use at South Padre Island is the Padre Island National Seashore.

It is now impossible to reach the main part of the national seashore by land vehicle from the developed southern end of the island.

John Turney, superintendent of the national seashore, said no road will be constructed because the area is to be left in its natural state.

Development northward depends on extension of Park Road 100. The road now is 12 miles long.

New Orleans Officials Fear 'Gator Problem In Summer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Winter winds swept Louisiana this week and the alligator population of New Orleans began its long winter nap, to the relief of wildlife officials.

"Right now the hibernating alligators pose no problem," Joseph C. Madere of the New Orleans police department's ecology squad said Monday.

"But next summer, we'll have a big problem."

The problem for city officials comes when surprised residents find alligators on their property. Last year a woman in a housing subdivision with canals found a 10-foot gator outside her sliding glass door. Another family found one in its swimming pool. Police have received reports of gators pulling dogs into canals and eating them.

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission gets about 200 calls a year from New Orleans residents who want gators removed.

The trouble began about 10 years ago when New Orleans, whose marshes contained many alligators before the city became a metropolis, had to contend with a state law outlawing alligator hunting. In 1970 the federal government declared alligators an endangered species.

"Alligators haven't had to fear man in more than a decade," said Madere. "And they've grown into 10-and 12-footers who have absolutely no fear of man."

A wildlife commission spokesman estimated there are 40,000 alligators in the populated areas of metropolitan New Orleans—not including the 50 square miles of marshland within city limits.

Matching Contribution Campaign Set For Hospital Expansion Fund

A matching building fund contribution campaign has been announced by members of the Midland Memorial Hospital Building Fund Campaign Committee.

During a Monday press conference, co-chairman of the fund committee, Midland oilman John J. Redfern Jr., and Kenny Jastrow, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, announced that the matching contribution campaign is designed to bring in another $800,000 and get the expansion fund to its proposed goal of $2.5 million. Jastrow said 300 contributors in Midland have donated $1.7 million to the hospital building fund to date, and said, "we have another $285,000 in pledges, but we need matching funds from the community to help get the fund to its goal of $2.5 million."

Jastrow said, "Several persons in Midland have donated over $100,000 each to the hospital expansion fund," but noted, "there are at least 100 citizens of substance in our city who have not donated." Jastrow said these 100 citizens could "help very much" in bringing the building fund to its goal.

He said that for every dollar contributed by a major donor another dollar of matching funds would be supplied by other members of the community, if all goes according to plan.

Jastrow said that $285,000 in pledges have been offered and that the individuals "wanted to give the money this year" if matching funds could be supplied by the community.

The co-chairman said the pledges came from donations by three individuals who realized "the critical need for the continued growth of Midland Memorial Hospital."

Redfern urged all of those present to "support the expansion fund campaign," and said, "The oil and gas business has been good to us in Midland, so now let's see if we can make some of our prosperity work for the community in the form of a bigger and better hospital."

Attorney Delivers Eulogy At Hunt Funeral Services

DALLAS (AP) — Texas oil billionaire H. L. Hunt made his most successful deal when he joined the church, a retired Hunt Oil Co. lawyer said in a eulogy.

"It was the biggest trade he ever made. He traded the here for the hereafter. And he was pleased," Sidney Latham said during memorial services Monday.

Hunt died Friday after a lengthy illness and was interred during private committal services Monday.

However, earlier, 1,800 persons filed by the open casket at memorial services in the First Baptist Church. One man, who church spokesmen said apparently was an ex-convict Hunt once befriended, drew a rapier from a walking stick and gave a stiff salute over Hunt's body.

June Hunt, a daughter pursuing a music career in Memphis, Tenn., opened the service with a hymn, "It Is Well With My Soul."

She sobbed softly on returning to her seat in the 2,500 capacity sanctuary.

Latham ended his eulogy urging Hunt's critics to let him rest in death.

Political conservatives viewed Hunt as a great spokesman; liberals considered him a symbol of the far right and big business.

But Hunt preferred the term constructive. He said he aimed his money at better government and once told a national television audience that the last really good president was Calvin Coolidge.

Mrs. Dolph Briscoe Sr.

Hunt sponsored such conservative radio programs as Life Line and Facts Forum, wrote a newspaper column with the help of a ghost writer and published numerous books.

Latham and Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the church, applauded Hunt for his faith in America, his battles against communism and his love of family and honor.

Hunt's family took seats at the service as the organist softly played "America" and left the sanctuary to a swelling "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Hunt was born Feb. 17, 1889, the youngest of eight children of a Confederate war veteran.

He quit school in the fifth grade, five years later inherited $5,000 from his father and by 1920 had parlayed that into his first million by trading in Arkansas oil fields.

His real wealth came in the East Texas fields after which he moved to Dallas. Estimated on Hunt's wealth range up to $2 billion.

Legal papers filed in various court cases on wiretap charges involving some of the Hunt family and remarks by employees indicate a titanic struggle may evolve over the estate.

A judge has impounded some of the records in various suits bearing on the issue.

Zoning Change, Plat Approved By Commission

Planning and zoning commissioners approved a request for a zone change and a final plat for the Glen Arden Annex and Colony Place during Monday's brief session.

The request of C. N. Hancock for a commercial zoning for property at 804 S. Terrell St. gained the commissioners approval. John White told the commission he would establish a garage at the location if the zoning was changed from local retail.

Commissioners approved a final plat of two lots in the Glen Arden Annex and Colony Place made by Cyril Wagner Jr.

Wagner made the plat application in order to expand his residence and re-dedicate an alley to the city.

Personality Curl, Swirl Salon Uses New Foil Wrap Hair Frosting Method

A new foil wrap method of frosting hair has been introduced by Faye Miles, in the Personality Curl and Swirl Beauty Salon in Town and Country Shopping Center Mall. By the foil wrap method, even long hair can be frosted without the long and painful method of pulling hair through a cap. All Personality Curl and Swirl hair dressers have been trained in this new professional method of frosting. For the holidays, frosted hair can be yours in less time and painlessly, even if your hair is long.

Protecting and keeping your hair at its best during the holiday season interests all Faye Miles gives some hints for good looking hair at all times.

First use a conditioner if hair is over dry from the time spent in chlorinated pools and the sun. A good permanent to keep you looking good during the active holiday season ahead is a must. Faye recommends the Redken Trichoperm introduced last year. An outstanding feature of the Trichoperm is that it has to be oxidized by drying under the dryer. Redken Trichoperm comes in two types, 122N for all hair except bleached or double processed, hair and 144B for highly tinted, double processed or bleached hair. The Redken Trichoperm will not burn hair. The 122N is the first permanent ever made with no ammonia and no acid.

Trichoperm is perfect for the blow-dry hair styles that need body.

If color or frosting is desired, it can now be done the same day with the proper conditioning.

Also if you have a scalp problem, Redken has Trichoscap, a scientifically formulated line of scalp treatments. Curl and Swirl can now offer you an important new professional service. You can get the scalp care and conditioning treatments you need.

Common scalp problems are too oily or too dry conditions that are embarrassing, obvious and uncomfortable. Trichoscap is a system. Planned by your cosmetologist, it is an individualized treatment program to correct and maintain improved scalp condition. With the Trichoscap Treatment Basics you get the benefit of not only professional products but of professional experience and expertise.

Ask your hairdresser about all your hair needs, the next time you are in Personality Curl and Swirl. The experienced staff gives personal friendly and individual attention to customers. No appointment is ever necessary at Personality Curl and Swirl in the Town & Country Shopping Center.

Why Not Give Stock This Year?

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—“Would you like to buy your kids a Christmas gift at a discount? A gift that should last well beyond the six-hour destruct time of so many toys? A gift that is educational and even profitable?”

“Don’t interrupt, there’s more,” said a salesman, an earnest but gaunt figure. “Listen,” he said, and he related how this simple, inexpensive gift might:

“Protect against inflation, help pay educational costs or provide a start for a future business, teach the owner about our economic system, probably inspire him to great wealth and...” There was a pause: “Help a poor broker.”

Stocks Depressed
While almost every traditional gift is higher in price this year, stocks are depressed, so much so that few people seem to be considering them as gifts. Even the New York Stock Exchange has dropped its holiday promotion.

The Securities Industry Association, which speaks for brokers, feels that this year might be a better time than ever to give shares as gifts, mainly because of the bargain prices.

Nobody can guarantee those prices will rise again, but if the past is a criterion there’s a very strong likelihood they will. And youngsters have a long time that can be used waiting. Giving gifts of stock to minors once was a complicated undertaking.

Now there are laws in every state that permit gifts to minors of securities—and in some states gifts of insurance and annuity contracts—with a parent retaining custodial responsibilities.

Procedure Simple
The procedure, while simple—almost any brokerage house can handle the transaction—is a serious matter. The giver never can take back the gift, although the custodian may sell the securities if the proceeds are used for the youngster’s benefit.

While prices of many blue chips are low, a prospective buyer must also consider that a commission must be paid. On orders of less than $2,000 that commission is negotiable, which means it might pay to shop around.

Merrill Lynch, the largest brokerage house, offers this illustration of charges on some small orders:

One share at $15 a share... about a $5 minimum.
10 shares at $15 a share... $8.14
100 shares at $15 a share... $34.65

Orders should be placed well ahead of Christmas in order for the transaction to be completed. Ordinarily it takes five business days for the certificate to be readied and sent to the buyer.

Emotional Condition
“Infantile autism” is a severe emotional and biological condition that makes children unresponsive to the world around them.

State Help Said Answer To Tax, Crime Problems

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Mayors of the nation’s cities have been told they should look to the states instead of the federal government for assistance in overcoming tax and crime problems.

Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, D-Utah, chairman of the National Governors’ Conference, said states have failed fully to meet their responsibility to units of local government.

Patrick V. Murphy, president of the Police Foundation, said crime is destroying parts of some cities and that the attitude at the state level seems to be to let the mayors shoulder the burden alone.

State Responsibility
“Demand that state governments accept their responsibility,” said Murphy, former police commissioner in New York City and Washington, D.C.

Rampton and Murphy spoke Monday at the National League of Cities convention being attended by more than 4,000 municipal officials.

Rampton said that, despite soaring costs, the states generally have been in rather good financial positions while cities and counties have been encountering fiscal difficulties.

Property Tax Elimination
“We should look seriously to the possibility of eliminating the property tax,” he said.

He also said revenue sharing has been a necessary adjustment to equalize revenue sources because of the near preemption by the federal government of the income tax field.

“However, it is merely an adjustment, and we should look forward to restructuring our tax sources at all levels of government so that each level on its own will have adequate sources of revenue,” he said.

“We could then return to a situation where the level of government which has the responsibility for rendering a service also has the responsibility for establishing tax levels.”

Ken's Rent-It Center Helps Make Parties Fun

Holiday parties should be fun. Ken's Rent-It Center, 2900 West Wall, can assist the host and hostess to enjoy their own parties, as well as the guests who come.

Plan your holiday party needs, then see Ken's Rent-It. Owner Ken Richards has all the things you seldom use but need for the holidays to aid you in selecting your party needs from his extensive inventory that includes many different styles and qualities.

Perhaps you need only chairs. Ken has them. Or, you may need everything for that big holiday party that you give just once a year. It may include tables, chairs and all the appointments for decoration and service. Whether you need a few forks, a silver coffee service, punch bowl service, or everything to make your party a happy, well organized affair, select your party pretties from Ken with confidence.

The convenience and economy of renting those seldom-needed items instead of buying them and having the problem of upkeep and storage, will make your holiday party giving fun for both host and hostess.

When you see the array of party pretties and party necessities, you may well be amazed at the many items available for rent. Items you hadn't even thought of that will make your Christmas or New Year party the most talked about party of the year.

Perhaps a winter wedding is scheduled. You may want to hold a reception in your home, or give the bride a shower. Check with Ken's for whatever you need to make it a special occasion. It will save wear and tear on your nerves and make your affair well above average, even in the rush of holiday entertainment.

Want to be in perfect shape for that holiday party? Ken can rent items such as exercise equipment. See it all at Ken's Rent-It Center, 2900 West Wall St. or call 694-6641. Ken's wishes you the best holiday yet.

Two Marines, Child, 2, Drown

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP)—Two Marines and a child drowned in a boating accident near here.

They were Gunnery Sgt. James M. Miracle, 37, of McKinney, Tex.; S.Sgt. George Pound, 37, of Painted Post, N.Y., and Elene Wyasket, 2, daughter of Cpl. and Mrs. Iram Wyasket Jr. of Vernal, Utah.

The child's parents, suffering from exposure, were in fair condition at a hospital.

A spokesman said their boat apparently capsized as it was making a turn Sunday at New River Inlet. High winds and heavy seas raked the coast Sunday.

From The Easy Chair

by Hines

A closed mouth gathers no foot.

Good character, like good soup, is usually homemade.

Most of us would be willing to accept advice from people smarter than we are — if we could find any.

Inflation has one good result — nobody marries for money anymore.

A flatterer tells us exactly what we really think.

We'll be flattered at Hines-Wood Upholstery Co., 5109 Andrews Highway, 694-8891, if you will let us come to your home and show upholstery samples and show you how you can save by reupholstering.
