El Salvador Is Tiniest Nation of the Americas

El Salvador is one of the most progressive and intensely cultivated countries in the Western hemisphere, according to a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

Although "Salvador," as the name of the country is generally abbreviated, seldom appears in the news. It is distinctive in many respects among the republics of Central and South America. El Salvador is the smallest country, independent or dependent, on the mainland of either North or South America, and, excepting Haiti, the smallest nation in the Western hemisphere. It is the only country between Canada and Colombia without an Atlantic as well as a Pacific seaboard, and it has the densest rural population on the mainland of the Americas. In an area about equal to that of Maryland live nearly 1,500,000 people.

Although it is fringed with rich tropical forests along its Pacific seaboard, and with volcanoes around its inland frontiers, the greater part of the country is situated on a healthful well-watered and fertile plateau about 2,000 feet above sea level. Coffee is the chief crop, comprising about 80 per cent of the exports of the country.

The most unusual export of El Salvador, however, is the misnamed "balsam of Peru." Balsam, which is used for medicinal purposes, is the sap of a tree native to El Salvador. But the early Spaniards shipped the sap to Peru, where it was reshipped to Spain.

Cakes of Salt Used as Money in Asia, Africa

Salt as a standard in the history of commerce antedates the gold standard. As a medium of exchange salt was widely used in many ancient countries. The Mogul conquerors of India made decrees hundreds of years ago regulating the standard of salt that was used for money. In Asia and Africa cakes of salt were frequently used for money.

Besides being used as money, salt in days gone by was a powerful developer of commerce. Being essential to life and unavailable to tribes remote from the sea, from which the substance was obtained by evaporation, trade routes were early developed to provide the transportation of salt. For hundreds of years a caravan route was maintained between Palmyra and Syrian ports. Even today much of the caravan traffic in Sahara is largely in this precious commodity.

The oldest road in Italy is not the Apennian way, but the "Via Salaria," the salt road along which salt was anciently carried from the evaporating pits at Ostia to the Sabine territory.

Musical Sea Water

Science has cleared up the mystery of the musical sea waters off the English coast, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. For ages fishermen have steered their craft in the vicinity of the perilous shores in fogs by listening to the "sound" of the water. Through long experience these men could tell their exact position in proximity to reefs and rocks, as well as the safety of deep water, by listening to the various sounds coming from the depths. It has been found that this "music" is caused by various ocean currents scraping different kinds of sea bottom. The metallic sounds coming from certain quarters are said to be due to currents striking submerged rocks, ringing them like a bell. Every bay and headland and strait has its own note, which fishermen learn in time and recognize even in time of dense fog. These notes serve as guides for the small craft in thick weather.

Indian Foe Honored
Cornplanter was the name given to a Seneca Indian, who was one of the deadliest foes of the whites during the Revolutionary days, but who came later to be a great friend of the whites. He was a half breed, his father having been a white man, John Abeel, a trader. He fought against the English at the time of Braddock's disastrous defeat and carried on his warfare against the Revolutionists. He was known as an honorable man despite his opposition to the settlers and Pennsylvania eventually erected a monument to his memory.

Will You Let Your Child's Eyes Limp Through Life?

NOTICE the next time you are in a crowd of people just how many of them are wearing glasses. Why is it that so many eyes are defective? In a great many cases it is because of poor lighting and improper use of the eyes in childhood. If you permit your child to read, to study, or even to play where there is not enough light or where there is blinding glare you are making a mistake that may be disastrous. Take care now to prevent your child's eyes from limping through life. Good light cannot be obtained from bare lamps, or lamps improperly shaded. Use good light to eliminate harsh contrasts—between bright and dark areas. Enjoy the benefit of plenty of light, for it is inexpensive, and new eyes cannot be bought for any price. Let our home-lighting specialist tell you how to arrange your lamps, and get the full value of the light you buy. This service is free.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

HARVEY'S SWAN SONG—

TO THE VOTERS OF SUTTON COUNTY:

I have no alibi to offer. I met a square and, as far as I know, fair defeat in the recent primary. I concede that a majority of two voters in Sonora precinct and a total of thirty-eight over the county consider Judge Johnson the better man for the place and for the good of the county.

To those who supported me I can find no words with which to express my appreciation. Words are a poor vehicle with which to convey our thoughts and are totally inadequate to express true thankfulness which, I believe, comes from the heart and soul.

To those who voted against me I make one more request—that you greet me with a warm handshake when we meet in order that I can feel that in losing a vote I have not lost a friend.

I close with an earnest request for all to co-operate with the administration of the victor because the interests of the county supercede all personal political ambitions.

Sincerely,
—HARVEY WALKER.

Historic Masonic Building More
Than Hundred Years Old

Old Milledgeville, Ga., often mentioned in American Masonic tradition, was the scene recently of the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the dedication of probably its most noted building, known as Masonic Hall.

Plans for this building were developed in 1833 and carried forward to completion by three of the Masonic bodies now occupying it. The four groups using the building are: Benevolent Lodge No. 3, chartered in 1817; Temple Chapter No. 6, chartered in 1820—the second oldest in Georgia; Georgia Council No. 4, chartered in 1826; Plantagenett Commandery No. 12, Knights Templar, chartered soon after the building was completed.

More Than Century Old

The slogan of the AAA crop reduction programmers should be "Let the tail go with the hide."—Wilmington (Del.) Evening Journal.

Hall, is chairman of the board of the self-perpetuating trustees of the building.

Building Is Picturesque

Unique, with an open spiral staircase extending from the first floor to the cupola, most of the materials of this four-story brick building were brought from Savannah by ox carts and on rafts up the Oconee River.

Among its appointments are a banquet hall on the first floor, replete with kitchenette, silver, linen, etc.; club accommodations on the second floor; lodge rooms on the third, and storage space on the fourth.

A greatly prized piece of furniture in the lodge room is an old-fashioned chair upholstered in rich red velvet. In it was seated the Marquis de LaFayette when he visited and presided over a meeting of Benevolent Lodge No. 3, in 1825.

In reviewing the old records of the building it was discovered that only one amendment to its constitution was made during its existence of more than 100 years. This occurred in 1856, when it was provided that the board of trustees should consist of seven members instead of nine, and that any member moving away from the city should be automatically dropped.

Saw-Whet Owl Not Much Larger Than a Sparrow

A rasping sound, like that of a file being scraped over the teeth of a saw, coming out of thick evergreens at night will tell you that somewhere among the needles of those trees there is concealed Michigan's smallest owl, not much larger than a house sparrow, but a vicious, beneficial little yellow-eyed demon for all that. It is the Acadian owl, also called the saw-whet or sparrow owl, a dainty little bird, considerably more common than is usually supposed.

Early in May the Acadian owl hatches its young. Its nest may be an old woodpecker hole or a cavity in a tree or decayed stump. It is during the time when its young are being fed that this owl is worth a dozen cats or mouse traps around a farm or granary, for mice make up the chief part of its diet. Doubtless chipmunks, squirrels and occasionally a bird fall prey to its keen claws, but the score is about 17 to 2, that is, 17 mice against two birds or insects.

There are many descriptions of the songs of the saw-whet owl, and of course, this name gives a clue to one of them. Some describe the songs of the saw-whet as resembling the soft gurgling sounds produced by water flowing from the neck of a bottle, entirely devoid of any rasping or filing quality. Ernest Thompson Seton describes a "dripping water song" of the Acadian owl. He says:

"As I waited in the black woods, I heard a sweet sound of dripping water. I did not know of any spring so near, and in the hot night, it was a glad find. But the sound led me to the bough of an oak tree, where I found its source. Such a soft sweet song: full of delightful suggestion on such a night:

"Tonk tank tenk tink
"Ta tink a tonk a tank a tink a
"Ta tink tank ta ta tonk tink
"Drink a tank a drink a drunk.
"It was the 'water dripping' song of the saw-whet owl."—Detroit Free Press.

Wrecking of Vessel Led to Settling of Bermuda

The wrecking of the vessel Sea Venture, one of the nine ships sailing to the early settlement of Virginia under the command of Sir George Somers, led eventually to the settling of Bermuda. When it was only eight days from its destination, the small vessel ran into a storm, lost touch with its companion ships and began to sink.

After three days, notes a writer in the Detroit News, the crew gave up in despair, drank all the liquors on board and prepared to die. Just then, according to an old account, "Sir George Somers, sitting upon the poop of the ship where he sat three days and three nights together, without meals, and little or no sleep, most wishedly and happily declared land."

It was Bermuda and the Sea Venture fortunately lodged between two rocks so that the entire company of 150 men not only got to shore, but also salvaged most of their goods and provisions. There were plenty of hogs, berries and wild birds for the crew to live on, and from Bermuda cedar Sir George fashioned two more boats, with which he at last reached Virginia.

Sir George, however, had not seen the last of the islands. He sailed back to Bermuda to get supplies for the Virginia colonists and died there. Today his heart lies buried in the historic town of St. George's, named in his honor.

Thursday

The names of the days of the week which are so familiar to us had their origin in pagan times. Thursday is so called from the name of the old god of the Teutons, Thor. In Scandinavian mythology, Thor held the place of the most powerful of the gods, the god of thunder. So huge was he that his great weight prevented his descending to earth by the rainbow bridge when the other gods came down from heaven. Thor was the patron of the peasants, and after their death he entertained them as his father Odin entertained the people of the higher classes. Thor was the possessor of a marvelous hammer which, when it was hurled, caused the thunder to resound throughout the world. This hammer had the wonderful property of returning to the hand of Thor each time it was thrown, thus giving its owner great power.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Chase Was Not "Ruined"

Once when a southern master, who had stopped in Cincinnati with a slave girl, Matilda, attempted to take her back into slavery, Salmon P. Chase appeared in her behalf, as he frequently did in similar cases without expectation of pecuniary reward. After the hearing of this case, a gentleman of repute who had been present, referring to Chase said: "There goes a promising young lawyer who has just ruined himself." That gentleman fully realized how unpopular in those days was the defense of the enslaved and friendless. Still, the man who had "just ruined himself" rose to be United States senator, twice governor of the state, secretary of the treasury, and finally chief justice of the United States.

No One-Tusk Elephants
There is no species of elephant with only one tusk. In some instances one of the tusks may be broken in combat or in uprooting trees; very often one tusk is smaller and thinner than the other. The narwhal, a whale sometimes called the "sea unicorn," as a rule has one long spiral tusk, though occasional specimens have two tusks.

Animal Like Duck
The platypus, or the duckbill, of Australia, is an animal even though it has a bill like a duck and lays eggs to hatch its young. It possesses fur and not feathers and cannot fly, and can hardly run. Its normal body temperature is lower than any other warm-blooded animal. It is a real freak and belongs to the past ages.

ALLOT 110 MILLIONS FOR NEW BUILDINGS

Post Offices to Be Erected in 626 Towns.

Washington.—The administration has announced plans for the immediate expenditure of $110,000,000 in the construction of federal post offices and government buildings in more than 600 towns throughout the land.

Announcement of the program came from Postmaster General James A. Farley and Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., accompanied by a carefully detailed list of cities and towns in each state which are to be affected.

626 New U. S. Buildings.

In all, 626 communities in every state and four territories have been selected for new federal buildings, according to the announcement. Half of the program—302 buildings—will be undertaken with the $65,000,000 authorized for that purpose in the recently enacted deficiency-emergency appropriation bill.

In selecting the projects to be included in the new program Mr. Farley and Mr. Morgenthau stated they were guided by the language of the deficiency bill directing that they "endeavor to distribute the projects equitably throughout the country so far as may be consistent with the needs of public service," and "with a view of relieving country-wide unemployment."

The announcement by Farley and Morgenthau said:

"The acquisition of the necessary land and the preparation of plans and specifications will be taken in hand immediately with a view toward getting the contracts on the market and awarded within the shortest practicable time.

"Preference is being given to those projects for which the government has previously acquired the necessary real estate for building purposes, so that an immediate start may be made in the preparation of plans and specifications. In all other cases the real estate will be acquired as rapidly as possible."

191 Lack U. S. Buildings.

"Of the 302 projects," the announcement added, "there are 191 communities selected which do not have any federal building at the present time and where the average postal receipts amounted to approximately $29,500 per annum."

"In selecting the new list of building projects, the secretary of the treasury and the postmaster general have given consideration to the locations of the 324 projects already authorized under other funds but which have not been placed under contract. Those will also be placed under contract as quickly as plans and specifications can be prepared.

"Every effort will be made in the carrying through of this program expeditiously with a view to relieving unemployment throughout the nation."

Millions Lost in Oil Racket by U. S. Citizens

Fort Worth, Texas.—Another angle in the federal government's war against crime and racketeering is unravelling here in a drive to dry up Fort Worth and north and east Texas as an oasis for promoters of oil and mining schemes.

Using Fort Worth as the seat of their operations, promoters have fleeced the public out of more than $200,000,000 in this area in the last 14 years, according to federal investigators.

Postal investigators estimate that cases docketed within the last year have represented a loss to investors of more than $58,000,000 in fake oil and mining promotion.

With the fever of "get-rich-quick" prevalent throughout this area since the advent of oil, Texas has been a haven for fleecers, offering one of the most lucrative fields in the nation.

A staff of five government attorneys now is concentrating on the prosecution of mail fraud defendants already docketed on the federal court calendar here. There were more than 100 such cases when they began work.

Black Beauty in Real Life

Methuen, Mass.—Fiction's Black Beauty has a real life counterpart here. It is Vic, now spending her last days at the Methuen Vacation farm. Thirty-six years ago, A. L. Pease served her mistress, Mrs. A. V. Pease, proprietor of a Haverhill lunch room, before being retired "on pension."

Peacocks Predict Changes in Weather

Milwaukee.—Peacocks at the Washington Park zoo have proven to be reliable weather prophets. On dry days the birds seldom utter a sound, but as humidity increases and rain is in the offing, they start to cry. As a storm becomes more imminent the cries become louder and more frequent. Usually by the time the storm breaks the peacock section is a virtual bedlam.

Rats Are Smart

Rats can be singularly resourceful at times and work together with good effect, according to Wonders of Animal Life. This authority states that these animals will employ a sort of living trolley for the purpose of carrying an egg or other object too large to be held in the jaws. One animal will lie on its back, carrying the egg, while others will pull it along by its tail to the desired destination.

Ancient Weapons of War Retired Farmer's Hobby

Beaver Dam, Wis.—Weapons of war ranging from Indian arrows heads to German machine guns have been collected for a period of many years by August Smith, Beaver Dam, a retired farmer and former member of the Wisconsin National guard.

He has more than 3,000 arrow heads in his collection in addition to 300 stone hammers and axes and about 300 guns. His collection includes the rifle with which Sitting Bull is supposed to have been killed.

Dog Sorrows Over Pig

Aberdeen, Wash.—Saddened because John Gartner, mill engineer, killed and ate his bosom friend, a little pig, Gartner's dog disappeared. The dog and pig had been raised together from babyhood and when Gartner killed the pig the pup sniffed the porker's body, howled and ran away.

Mr. Sutton County Mrs. Citizen Miss

we thank you!

Both contestants in any contest cannot win. That should be realized by anyone who contests with his fellow men. Unless he does so he errs and does himself an injury by his fault.

Some of us have lost, others have been returned to office without the efforts necessary to defeat any opponent, still others have defeated other Sutton County citizens.

Now that the election is over and the people have made their choice, all of us want to thank YOU for the support given during the campaign. Two silver cups and a number of medals for proficiency in various camp activities were won at Camp Waldemar, near Hunt, Texas, by Miss Elizabeth Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell R. Martin, who live twenty-eight miles south of Del Rio. Miss Martin is a niece of Mrs. Ed Mayfield of Sonora.

One of the cups was given Miss Martin for being the best swimmer of the low senior groups, the other was won, with Miss Eugenia McMurray of Lufkin, Texas, in the tennis doubles. The tennis cup has never before been won by low seniors.

Three progress medals in riflery, one for work in advanced tap and ballroom dancing and a Junior Life Saving emblem were also won by Miss Martin. Her parents, accompanied by their nephew, Stanley Mayfield, attended the horse show and other events at the close of the first term of camp.
