Senate Passes Bill With $460,000 For Screwworm Effort

Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association Wants Work in West Texas

Sutton county ranchmen were encouraged this week by the news from Washington that the Senate had passed the $460,000 item for screwworm control work in South-west and Southeast United States.

At 10:30 Wednesday morning the following telegram was received by the NEWS from Tom Connally, Texas senator, in Washington:

"Pleased to advise Senate has passed agricultural appropriation bill containing item of four hundred sixty thousand dollars for blowfly eradication work."

The House of Representatives passed the measure February 28. Some concern had been felt for the future success of the bill as the Budget Bureau had not approved it at that time. In January, Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture

The first secondary screwworm fly was captured in the fly trap being operated on the Joe Berger Ranch last week, according to O. G. Babcock, Bureau of Entomology employee working at the Ranch Experiment Station.

Mr. Babcock will be glad to receive from ranchmen screwworm specimens that may find. They may be in tin or pasteboard containers (with small amount of soil) which should not have holes punched in it.

If the ranchman prefers, he may leave the container at the NEWS office.

The primary fly will appear in wounds first, Mr. Babcock reminded this week. Nearly all of the flies this winter have been of the black blowfly type.

ture in the cabinet of President Roosevelt outlined to Daniel W. Bell, acting director of the budget, the manner in which the money, if and when available, would be spent.

Slightly more than $55,000 will be spent by the regional headquarters in the southwest for supervision, purchase of supplies and miscellaneous materials for distribution in states of this area.

"Educational work" in the southwest will entail an expenditure of $85,570 of the $234,110 allotted to educational and control work in the southwest.

"Testing and determining new control measures in the southwest" will cost $19,250, according to the estimate of Mr. Wallace. Expense of educational and control work, and the handling and treating of livestock will be carried on by state and local agencies. Direct control of all of the work is the responsibility of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the Department of Agriculture.

Efforts have been made for many months by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association to have the blowfly eradication work for the southwest centered in this section.

O. G. Babcock, of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, is stationed at the Ranch Experiment Station near here and the hope has been expressed by many that the blowfly work in the southwest might be done at the Station.

LEA ROY ALDWELL TO STATE INSPECTION WORK

Investigation work for the Old Age Assistance Commission, San Angelo district, will be assumed early in April by Lea Roy Aldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Aldwell.

For several months Mr. Aldwell has been employed in the Production Credit Corporation office in Crystal City. He came here Saturday but will return to Crystal City before beginning work out of the San Angelo office.

The San Angelo district includes eleven West Texas counties. There are three others to be engaged in the investigation work besides Mr. Aldwell.

HILLMAN BROWN TO WORK FOR PEARSALL DRUG FIRM

A Sonora resident since 1919, Hillman Brown, son of Mrs. Maysie Brown, will leave soon after April 1 for Pearsall where he will be employed at Martin's Drug, business firm there.

The Browns formerly lived in Alabama.

Since the summer of 1934 Mr. Brown has been employed at the Corner Drug Store. He was graduated from high school here in 1930 and later was a student in Schreiner Institute, Kerrville, and Texas Technological College, Lubbock. He was a student at Schreiner one year and at the Lubbock state school two years.

Six are employed exclusively for sales work in the Martin store, according to Mr. Brown who was in Pearsall Sunday. The town had a population of 2,536 in 1930 but is experiencing an unusual growth because of oil development in Frio and other South Texas counties.

For several months Mr. Brown has been co-editor with Preston C. Lightfoot of the Sonora Lions Bulletin. He is also a member of the publicity committee of the Lions Club.

First Ball Game of Season Here Friday

Wake Newcomer in Concho Basin League This Year

The crack of the bat against the schide is to be heard in Sonora for the first time in the 1936 season Friday afternoon, April 3, when the Station A Sonora team takes the field against a team of Aztec from Mexico City.

E. Aldwell attended a meeting in San Angelo Tuesday night when plans for the 1936 Concho Basin League season were formulated.

First official practice at the Humble Station A diamond Sunday attracted eighteen players. Another practice session was held Thursday.

New men who are trying out for the team this year are:

Jack Brown, formerly a player for Mason in the Hill Country League, who recently had a try-out with the San Antonio team;

T. M. Tomberlin, Station B employee who formerly played with Junction;

"Red" Martin, a first baseman from San Angelo;

Lacey Noble, formerly a Hill Country League player who is employed in highway construction work in this section;

George Ard, Station B employee; L. T. Barber of Eldorado, formerly a player with Mose Sims' barnstorming group out of Abilene.

Lowake, Concho county town, has been admitted to the league this year. Others who have entered teams are Miles, Veribest, San Angelo and Sonora. Neither Rowena nor Eola has entered the league this season.

The league schedule has not been arranged, according to A. L. Ohlenburg of the Station A team, but the Sonora nine will open the season at Lowake April 12. Two games will be played.

LUMBER COMPANY MAKING NUMBER OF IMPROVEMENTS

Extensive improving and remodeling work is to be done at the Wm. Cameron & Co. business place during the next few weeks, according to W. C. Warren, manager. The work has been started.

The office has been rearranged with little increase in floor space used but to permit a more efficient use of the area. The wareroom is being re-arranged with a doorway being located in a different place than heretofore.

A long sales counter has been added in the office room where shelving will be arranged differently and painting and papering done.

Mrs. Hightower's Father Buried

In Mertzton at 2 o'clock today funeral services were conducted for F. G. Carter, who died of a heart attack in San Angelo Wednesday. Mr. Carter, 65, was the father of Mrs. Alton Hightower of Sonora. A native Texan, Mr. Carter had been a ranchman in Irion county twenty-six years.

Award of Merit To Be Won By Sutton Auto Service Man

State Will Recognize Work of Station Operator Who Improves Place

The Sutton county service station business man who makes his place of business the most attractive of its type in the county will receive an award of merit from the state highway department this year for the first time.

Mrs. W. L. Davis, chairman of the Filling Stations and Garages committee of the beautification organization, Saturday explained to the business firms the basis on which they will compete for a metal plaque showing their excellence of work. The plaque contains this wording:

This Service Station Awarded First Place For Attractive Appearance in This County

The signature of Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, and of the local committee of three judges, to be appointed by Mrs. Roy E. Aldwell, county chairman, appears at the bottom.

The contest ends May 28 and the award will be made June 1. A station which wins the distinction three successive years may retain possession of the plaque as long as it keeps up the standard of perfection. Once lost, the plaque cannot be competed for by that

Washington and Texas Men Meet at Experiment Station

Intensive study of the problem of co-ordinating federal and state activities in soil conservation was done Thursday and Friday when six Washington, D. C., and Texas men met at the Ranch Experiment Station for a conference.

Dr. B. Youngblood, economic investigator, Indian Field Service, Department of the Interior, was here from Washington. Doctor Youngblood was director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station when the Ranch Experiment Station was established in 1915.

The group discussed at length the possibilities of soil conservation work in Texas.

Those who took part in the meeting were:

Dr. W. C. Lowdermilk, associate chief of the Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D. C.;

Maurice Connelly chief technician for Dr. Lowdermilk;

H. V. Geib, regional director, Division of Research, Soil Conservation Service, Amarillo;

Louis P. Merrill, Regional Conservator of District 4, Soil Conservation Service, composed of Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana, with headquarters in Fort Worth.

A. B. Conner, Director, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station.

W. H. Dameron, superintendent, Ranch Experiment Station.

Cake Bakers Vie For Prizes As Sisters Win First Places

Sonora people weren't very surprised Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. John Hamby received first prize in a cake contest at the NEWS Kitchen Chautauqua; nor were they surprised when it was announced that her sister, Mrs. J. C. Morrow had won second prize.

Both of the ladies have been renowned for several years for their ability to bake cakes. They are the daughters of Mrs. Stella Stanley to whom, the NEWS believes, they probably owe their keen sense of taking the right amount of this ingredient and that ingredient and producing a cake that is pleasing both to the eye and to the palate.

Many Cooperate With NEWS

The contest was the concluding feature of the second annual Cooking School sponsored by the NEWS, national advertisers and local merchants. Mrs. Johnetta Howard was the lecturer.

Cooperating with the NEWS were the following:

West Texas Utilities Co., N. T. Poindexter, manager, and Leslie Nance, salesman; Piggly Wiggly (Earl Lomax and Louie Trainer); E. F. Vander Stucken Co., Ralph Trainer, manager; Falfurrias Creamery Co.; Jaques Manufacturing Co. (K C Baking Powder); Morton Salt Co.; Mrs. Tucker's Shortening.

Nine cakes of several types were

Small Girl Gives Cake

Addie Thorp, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thorp, baked a cake with the intention of entering it in the contest, announced for women. She very generously contributed it to be sold. Another cake was given by Mrs. Maysie Brown to be sold but was not entered.

Winners and the prizes given them were:

First, Mrs. John Hamby, $5 in currency; second, Mrs. J. C. Morrow, $2.50 photograph given by Allen Studio, San Angelo; third, (Continued on page 8)

LARGE FISH POOL BEING BUILT BY WAREHOUSE FIRM

When the Sonora Wool and Mohair Co. decides to cooperate in a county-wide program of community beautification it does it in a "large" way.

Already with one of the most attractive business buildings in Sutton county, the company is building a forty-foot pool alongside its building, for lilies and goldfish. The side of the building has attractive shrubbery and the pool immediately in front of this growth will give an unusually good effect.

At the front of the building the company has another pool, made of tile, which has both fish and flowers in it.

The new pool is about eighteen inches deep and four feet wide. It is of concrete with brick used as an upper edge facing. The construction work is being done by Fred Smith of Mertzton, with the aid of W. J. Fields, Jr., manager of the company, and George D. Chalk, bookkeeper.

Baptist Pastor To Accept Mason Call

Resignation of the Rev. Frank Nixon To Be Made Sunday

Beginning next week the Rev. Frank Nixon, pastor of the Baptist Church here since July 15, 1934, will be pastor of the First Baptist Church in Mason.

The Reverend Mr. Nixon's announcement of his resignation as pastor of the church was given the NEWS Thursday morning in the following letter:

"I have accepted the call of the First Baptist Church of Mason, Texas and will take up the work there the first week in April. I shall offer my resignation to the church here at Sonora next Sunday morning (March 29). Next Sunday's services will be my last services as pastor of the Baptist Church here."

The Reverend Mr. Nixon, Mrs. Nixon and their children, Edwin, Weldon and Dorothy Nell, came here from Clifton, Texas, where he had held a pastorate for four years. His first service as pastor in Sonora was conducted July 15, shortly after the members had begun to use their new building.

Mrs. Nixon is a sister of Mrs. T. C. Murray of Sonora. The Reverend Mr. Nixon is a brother of the Rev. Charles Nixon, Llano, Methodist presiding elder and former pastor of a church in Del Rio. He is known to many Sonora people as a result of his work as Lions Club district governor several years ago.

While here the Reverend Mr. Nixon has been a member of the Lions Club and at present is chairman of the Citizenship Committee of that organization.

LEE JOY RECOVERING IN SAN ANTONIO HOSPITAL

Hospital attention for ten days will be required for Lee Joy, Sutton county highway crew employee, who is recovering in San Antonio from injuries received shortly after noon Friday.

Mr. Joy and other employees were returning to work on the county road which runs past the golf course. As the truck went around a curve he was thrown to the road, suffering a broken collar bone and the fracture of his skull in two places.

In a letter to Mrs. Alvis Johnson Wednesday, Mrs. Cash Joy, who is with her son in San Antonio, said that he was much better but that he would be a patient there for about a week longer.

The Joys live in the Camp Allison community.

SONORA GIRL, JUNIOR AT SCHOOL, ON HONOR ROLL

Included in the honor roll of the College of Arts and Science at the University of Texas, announced this week, is Miss Alice Lucille Sawyer, daughter of Mrs. Mae Sawyer.

Miss Sawyer is a junior at the University.

Only other students of this immediate section who "made" the honor roll were five whose homes are in San Angelo and Emmitt Cecil Wilson, Jr., of Christoval.

H. T. Parvin is dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Twelve Players in "Three Wise Fools" at Eight Monday

Profit From Lions Club Three-Act Play To Be Used For Two Major Projects

With prospects of a "capacity house" when the curtain is raised at eight o'clock Monday night, members of the cast of "Three Wise Fools," Lions Club production will end a six weeks rehearsal period Saturday night.

Although ticket sales are expected to be about 1,250 it is believed that the high school auditorium, where the play will be enacted, will take care of the spectators. Although it seats only 563, a large number of tickets have been sold outside of Sutton county.

Those who have not bought tickets before the night of the play will be admitted for a small charge at the door.

A Benefit Production

The play, a three-act comedy embodying both drama and mystery, has twelve players, ten of whom are men. Nearly all of the men are members of the Lions Club which is to use net profits of the production for its school luncheon work and in beautification work at Sonora cemetery.

Preston C. Lightfoot, publicity manager, has written the following synopsis of the play and brief descriptive matter of the Sonora people who will have parts in it:

The scenes are in the living room—distinguished for its simplicity, reflecting knowledge and breeding—of an old house on North Washington Square, New York City.

The role of the "Three Wise Fools" is portrayed by: Dr. Joel Shelton as Theodore Findley, a financier of late middle-age who has used much deliberation in laying out his life and affairs; Jodie Trainer as Dr. Richard Gaunt, a psycho-analyst and a member of the Rockefeller Institute, who is also of late middle-age—distinguished, polished, and with the grace, poise and repose of manner which comes with the mastery of his profession; W. C. Gilmore as Hon. James Trumbull, renowned as a judge and possessing an air of dignity and tranquility.

"Chained By Habits"

Dr. Gaunt, the eminent psychologist, has come to the grave realization that they, the three musketeers, are in mortal danger due to the fact of their being chained by habits and harnessed by custom until they are knee-deep in ruts. He stumbles on a great discovery, theorizes and advocates a high order of tonic emotion be supplied the sympathetic system, throwing off their chains, climbing out of their ruts, and rolling among the buttercups and daisies.

Youth, color, danger, excitement, revolution come their way, stabbing their spirits wide awake, and who could this youth be?

Many Work On Play

Miss Lita Ray is portrayed as Miss Fairchild, a girl of delectable personality, playing the feminine lead; Miss Pauline Davis as Mrs. Saunders, the maid; Jack Pfeister as Gordon Schuyler, a nephew of Theodore Findley (who proves to be quite a problem to him); Hillman Brown as Benjamin Suratt, the crook; F. T. Jones as John Crawshaw, schoolmate of Findley; Kenneth Crawford as Poole, a detective; Cecil Allen as Gray, a butler; Floyd Dungan as Clancy, a detective; A. L. Baker as Douglas, another butler.

Those who have had a part in the staging of the play are:

Director, Dr. Joel Shelton; properties, N. T. Poindexter and Mrs. W. C. Gilmore; music between acts, Miss Elizabeth Francis and Mrs. Joel Shelton; publicity, Preston C. Lightfoot; play committee, W. C. Gilmore, George D. Chalk, Hillman Brown, Dr. Joel Shelton; ticket sales committee chairmen, G. H. Hall and C. H. Jennings; W. E. James and W. J. Fields, Jr.

Follow Directions To Bake Good Cakes

Care in Measuring Will Help Insure Best Results

Knowing that baking powder leavens cake, it is natural to assume that adding an extra half teaspoon to the amount specified in a recipe will give a cake greater lightness. However, that is not true, and the best plan to follow is to use the amount recommended on your powder can.

Because of the increased efficiency of K C and some other baking powders in use today, representing about 8 per cent of the baking powder consumed, they should be used properly to insure successful bakings.

The following rules will be helpful in bringing about desired results:

First, always use the amount specified on your baking powder can. This proportion has been worked out as best for that particular type.

Second, measure carefully; remember that an excess amount of any baking powder does not produce best results. A level teaspoonful means that you must level off with a knife.

The baking powder used in the cooking school is one of the most economical and efficient products entering the kitchen. Properly used it will produce for you the finest of baked goods. You will be convinced of this by giving it a fair trial and observing results obtained.

You can get additional helpful information and a number of practical, tested recipes by sending for the K C Cook's Book. A copy will be mailed, postage paid, if you will send your request, with the slip taken from a can of K C Baking Powder, to Jaques Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill.

NEW APPARATUS TO PICTURE VAST AREA

Multilens Camera Covers 600 Square Miles.

New York.—For the use of the United States coast and geodetic survey, and for mapping at higher levels than heretofore has been practicable with multilens equipment, the Fairchild Aerial Camera corporation of Long Island City has completed the world's largest multilens aerial camera, Sherman M. Fairchild, president of the company, disclosed. This huge, fully automatic apparatus has nine F4 lenses mounted vertically. Eight of them have steel mirrors to reflect the oblique pictures. The camera and the accessories required for photographic flight weigh 636 pounds.

Standing 38 inches high and with a maximum diagonal cross section of 38 inches, the camera uses one large film which weighs 25 pounds and can take 100 exposures, for all lenses. At an altitude of 30,000 feet 600 square miles of the earth's surface can be photographed at one simultaneous exposure.

Motors Operate Shutters.

After the camera is in operation the operator merely has to keep it level by means of two spirit levels. The shutters are operated by an electric motor of 1-200th horse power.

Designed by Lieut. O. E. Reading of the coast and geodetic survey and engineers of the Fairchild organization, the camera is to be used by the government bureau in its extensive national mapping program. Tests will be made shortly in Washington, Mr. Fairchild said, on the ground and in flight.

The new camera is said to have four and a half times the stereoscopic parallax of the single lens and five lens cameras now in use, making it practical to extend the advantages of stereoscopic mapping—securing contour maps from aerial photographs—to more level terrain than is possible with present equipment. Its longer focal length obtains greater detail than is possible with former five lens cameras of those of ten lenses which are pairs of five lens machine.

Mirrors Are Innovation.

On top of the camera is the film magazine and its operating mechanism which includes a suction pump which keeps the broad film flat and smooth, while running below this is a chamber in which are the nine vertical lenses and below again are the eight stainless steel mirrors of astronomical type. These mirrors constitute one of the innovations of the new camera. Each is 9 1/2 inches long, 5 inches wide, and 5-16-inch thick. They are supported on a frame of alloy steel, forming an octagonal cone. This frame, which weighs 45 pounds in the finished camera, was machined from a casting weighing 700 pounds.

It is the focal length of 8 1/2 inches which makes possible the use of a nine lens camera at high altitudes where the air is relatively smooth and where the plane therefore can be flown with few variations from a straight, level course. This feature, it is believed, will minimize the amount of correction necessary in the laboratory.

Elephant Makes Little

of Mighty Large Job

East Orange, N. J.—An elephant—the kind that never forgets—obligingly shifted its weight in an overturned truck until it had righted the vehicle, and then went for a walk through town.

Its name is "No-Name" and it was being moved to a circus' winter quarters in New York when the truck capsized. No-Name weighs 8,700 pounds and the truck might have been by the side of the road yet if No-Name had not rolled over and brought it upright again.

The accident broke No-Name's chains and he ambled down the street. He paused once to snatch a box of prepared toast from a woman's hand, swallowed both toast and box. Then he wandered through a wide door into a garage and settled down for the night next to an automobile.

Stop Watch on Sun

Washington.—The National Geographic society announced that it would spend thousands of dollars to hold a stop watch on the sun for 2 1/2 minutes next June to see if the solar system is running on time.

A joint expedition of the society and Georgetown University of Washington will travel half way around the world to Orenburg, USSR, to study a total eclipse June 19.

The pictures will be taken in accurate time calibrations and will show whether predictions of the eclipse are correct.

Block-Long Sign Lighted Saturday

Sea Scene Subject of World's Largest; On Broadway

New York, March 25.—A huge electric display, the largest of its kind the world has ever seen, will be illuminated on New York's famous Broadway for the first time Saturday night.

Extending the full block from 44th to 45th Street on the east side of Broadway, the sign towers ten stories high and represents a million dollar investment.

In direct contrast to the other quick-flashing, eye-jerking electric signs that line Broadway, the new spectacular will be keyed to a slow-motion tempo. The display depicts a tropical sea-scene with gigantic multi-colored fish gliding about in gentle movements among rhythmic waves of sea-green light. Bubbles rise lazily to the top of the sign. The Wrigley chewing gum company, for whom the sign has been designed, carries out the soothing psychological effect with the message "Steadies the Nerves."

The sign contains 1,084 feet of neon tubing, and almost 70 miles of insulated wire—enough wire to run two lines between the cities of Baltimore and Washington. It uses 29,508 lamp receptacles which, if stacked end to end, would make six piles, the height of the Eiffel Tower. Eight tons of galvanized sheet metal are used in the sign proper.

The annual wattage consumed by the sign is sufficient to operate all the radios in the United States for two hours, while the electric current required for the display would serve every need of a city of 10,000.

The Automatic Electric Range Is the Answer.

Every member of the family appreciates wholesome, well-cooked food. It's necessary to health! However, few people realize, except the housewife, the toil and drudgery necessary to prepare three meals a day. Just think of preparing over a thousand meals a year beside the many other laborious duties of a housewife.

Many West Texas homemakers have found a happy solution in the elimination of unnecessary toil in the kitchen. Today, the modern mother can place an entire meal in the oven of her range, set the oven control and time control and return home hours later to find a "piping hot" meal ready to serve. This is the marvel of automatic electric cookery!

AT THE intersection he stood staring dully before him at nothing in particular. It was three o'clock in the morning and a chill breeze whined down the long breadth of Hollywood boulevard. In the light of far-spaced street lamps, the cloud bank low overhead glowed with an opaque saffron hue.

He moved away from the curb, crossed Vine street, and walked slowly, aimlessly southward. To speak of life bereft of worth and meaning is one thing; truly to feel that anguished void, as did Lloyd Corrigan, is quite another.

It must be understood that Corrigan was no mooning adolescent. At thirty-four a man does not grieve glibly. Those who knew Corrigan at Zenith studio thought of him as "odd." The film town's night haunts never saw him, and his cool, impersonal treatment of the women in his casts had been the despair of more than one ambitious beauty.

Then Clarissa Brent came back and in a single instant, literally, the world was altered for him. Arm in arm with Neal Carothers she walked onto Lloyd's set one morning; he looked at her and at her smile, and found at last a reason for existence. Not love alone was born, but jealousy and hate and fear as well. The enmity of man for man where woman is concerned sprang up in him, blind but unquenchable, turning upon Neal Carothers.

With savage sharpness he recalled the weeks of doubt and inner turmoil. At Corrigan's age one's initial moves en amour are rarely faultless. Timidity and inept hesitations mar that perfect manhood which success demands. And so it had been with Lloyd. He saw that now, too late, and the perception was as salt upon an open wound.

Clarissa Brent had returned to pictures. Within ten days of their first meeting she was under Lloyd's direction, playing a small role in "Tonight in Budapest." Neal Carothers, through coincidence or his own conniving, was also cast.

She went to dinner with Lloyd on three consecutive evenings; they attended the opera and a party and the circus together. Bit by bit, confidence commenced to surge in Lloyd's breast, bolstered, too, by Carothers' obvious pique over the new familiarity.

At six last evening they had completed final retakes. Lloyd walked with Clarissa to her dressing room.

"Well, it's done," he said, "and that calls for a celebration. How about this evening?"

She smiled at him, a sweet apologetic smile.

"I'm so sorry; I've promised Neal. He's asked me a question that needs answering right away. I'm sure you understand. Good night."

Suddenly out of that gloom, just ahead, loomed a brilliant light. It fell in a yellow square across the sidewalk and Lloyd saw that it came from the window of a small restaurant. Then, abreast the place, he recognized it. Everyone in the film capital knew that hole-in-the-wall cafe, known as Edward the Epicure's.

Somewhat this spot of brightness seemed a comforting relief from the dual blackness of the night and of his mood. Corrigan turned down his coat collar and went in. Warmth and pleasant odors and gay music from a radio behind the counter greeted him. He took a seat near the far end, ordered coffee, and almost immediately saw them.

In the first booth, not twelve feet away, they sat—Clarissa with her back to him, Carothers facing. But they were absorbed in conversation and each other; obviously neither had seen him.

All at once the radio had been turned down, and with a start, Lloyd found himself listening to their voices.

"... then you really agree with me," he heard Carothers say, "that this is the best solution?"

"Yes, my dear, I do," replied Clarissa quietly; "we've tried it long enough to see it won't work, so now's the time to call quits while we're still good friends. After all, divorce needn't be a nasty mess, especially when you're so understanding about—well, my own interest in directors."

The waiter was waiting, encouragingly. Lloyd pushed his cup forward.

"Give me," he said a trifle hoarsely, "some more coffee. And listen—you can put a slug of brandy in it this time."

A place of interest in Quaretero, Mexico, is the little chapel which encloses the pillar at which Emperor Maximilian was shot in June, 1867, ending an effort to set up royalty in America. A wreath of artificial flowers rests on the shaft.

Coming of the Aryans

The first of the Aryan populations came to Europe some 3,000 years ago or less, and quite possibly were themselves of mixed racial type, in which, however, the Nordic, or fair-hated man of northern Europe and Russia prevailed.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Because of a large amount of other news the report of last week's Scout activities could not be published last Friday.

The Explorer Patrol, with A. W. Awalt and Dewitt Lancaster as leaders, enjoyed a trip March 15 to the Wilkinson Ranch near Menard. Those who went were: Jack Shurley, Kenneth Babcock, A. W. Awalt, Wesley Sawyer, Reggie Trainer, Lloyd McGhee, Louis Davis.

The day was started with an arrowhead hunt; then we saw the old San Saba mission before going on to the river. A chilly swim was enjoyed by some of the boys while the others cooked dinner.

The supply of spoons was short so bark from trees and shells from the river were cleaned and fashioned into spoons that were quite usable. After dinner Mr. Wilkinson showed us how crops were irrigated — an interesting explanation, too, for most of the boys knew nothing of raising crops in this manner. A bit later we went to Menard for ice cream, furnished by Mr. Wilkinson, then saw the Scout Hall there. It is a rock building known as the "Louis Ball Lodge."

All of the boys appreciate Mr. Wilkinson's kindness for letting them come there and for his aid in pointing out things of interest.

Camporee Next Week!
In Eldorado April 3 a district "Camporee" will be held. The Sonora boys hope to win this as they have several others in recent years. Eldorado, Ozona and Sonora will compete.

At our March 17 meeting the Rattlesnake Patrol challenged the others to fire-by-flint-and-steel and water-bailing contests for the next meeting. Both will be events in the Camporee.

The Scout troop most advanced, by March 31, will be given an award at the Camporee. In the advancement contest, as of March 17, the patrol standings were: Rattlesnake, 345; Flying Eagle, 285; Flaming Arrow, 125; Longhorn, 115.

Thirty Scouts and one leader were present—the most that has attended a meeting this year.

Meeting March 24th
We spent the time discussing the Camporee next week in Eldorado. The Rattlesnake Patrol won the fire-by-flint-and-steel contest. Regular practice will begin Wednesday night on contests scheduled for the Camporee. The Scoutmaster will appreciate help from older boys and other leaders during the practice period each evening.

In the advancement contest the Rattlesnake Patrol led with 405 points, the Flying Eagle had 355; the Longhorn, 170; the Flaming Arrow, 150.

Offered a $60.30 WPA job, the visitor declined; $100 a month, plus washer, or nothing. Mayor Gehan was left with the wash.

A good resolution to make during—

"Mohair Week"

"I hereby resolve to specify mohair upholstery when I buy a car or upholstered furniture."

It pays the man who raises cotton to encourage the consumption of cotton. The same goes for mohair. If every one in the Angora-raising section makes it a point to specify mohair upholstery when buying automobiles or furniture, they benefit accordingly. Not only in a business way, but PERSONALLY. For mohair is top value for upholstery. Top value in style, comfort, wearing quality and ease of cleaning. For a DOUBLE BENEFIT, be sure your new car and new upholstered furniture are MOHAIR-TRIMMED.

"NEWS" TO ONE MAY NOT BE SUCH TO SOME OTHER ONE WHO READS

If the newspaper reporter isn't too enthusiastic when you say you have some news, there's a reason. He wants to know whether it is actually news or something else.

Many organizations, both national and local, ask newspapers if some news would be acceptable. The editor or reporter is always glad to get news and answers in the affirmative. Perhaps the first two or three offerings are real news, something of interest to readers, actual events or happenings.

But it isn't long until good old propaganda rears its head. The "news" turns out to be an exposition of the theories of the organization, a mild form of advertising to promote its aims and objects, cleverly worded reasons why there should be more members. In many cases, the publicity is to help some one hold a job at a satisfactory salary.

Newspapers are usually generous in giving free publicity to worthwhile undertakings. But demands always far exceed what is reasonable. Many of those responsible for supplying the news either cannot or will not distinguish between events and free publicity. They think in terms of putting over an idea instead of providing interesting information.

Anyone worth his salt around a newspaper office knows the readers will soon tire of this stuff. A few who are particularly interested in a certain organization or undertaking may read it, but 99 per cent of the subscribers hardly give it a glance.

When the editor tries to do something about it, he takes a chance on incurring the ill will of a few persons. They are likely to think the newspaper unfriendly just because the paper wants more news and less publicity and propaganda material. Consequently, editors and reporters are probably overly suspicious and like to find out what is offered comes within shooting distance of the correct definition of news before they grab it.—Stanford (Kan.) Courier.

More Automobiles Being Sold

Austin, March 25.—New passenger automobile registrations in Texas during February showed a moderate increase over both the preceding month and the like month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Total new car registrations in fourteen representative Texas counties were 5,327, an increase of 2.9 per cent over the month before and 6.6 per cent above February, 1935. For the first two months of the year sales in these counties were 13.1 per cent above those of the corresponding period last year. The increase over a year ago was again most marked in the upper intermediate and highest price brackets; the lowest price group showed a decline.

Sutton County Will Be Represented On Centennial Map

Route Linking Chief Texas Cities To Use Old Spanish Trail Through Sonora

One hundred dollars collected in 1929 for the purpose of publicizing the Old Spanish Trail route through Sonora is to be used to secure pictorial representation for Sonora and Sutton county on a gravure map of a "Centennial Circuit," traversing about 2,000 miles of Texas.

That was the action decided upon Thursday afternoon by a group of Sutton county citizens after they had heard F. R. Senor of San Antonio explain in detail a scenic map which he is to publish in folder form, practical for the traveler's use yet small enough to be mailed in an ordinary long envelope.

In return for the $100 a picture of sheep and goats is to be used as one of 100 pictures surrounding the map. Caption material is to call attention to the fact that Sonora is "The Capital of the Stockman's Paradise."

The map will show, as the best route to see the most of Texas' scenic and historical spots, the highway connecting Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and El Paso. Super-imposed on the map will be illustrations and information concerning the points of interest in various portions of Texas.

The first 100,000 of the maps are to be distributed through bureaus of the Automobile Club of America in proportion to where money is being spent to advertise the Central Centennial Exposition and other Centennial celebrations. Arrangements have also been completed, according to Mr. Senor, to sell the folders to hotels and other firms in Texas.

On the reverse side of the sheet on which the map is printed will be city maps of Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and Fort Worth. Surrounding each will be pictures of points of interest there and of principal hotels.

Tells of Crowds Expected
 Mr. Senor says that unbiased estimates are that twenty-six per cent more people will visit Texas this year than went to the Century of Progress in Chicago. He declared that unless a practical, interesting routing through the state is given visitors they will not see points of interest and communities will fail to profit as much as they should.

Mr. Senor declares that forty-three of the fifty Texas towns and cities on the "Centennial Circuit" which are to be solicited for representation on the map have accepted his proposition.

The meeting at the First National Bank to hear Mr. Senor explain his proposition was called by John Eaton, Lions Club president. Included were Lions Club directors as well as about fifteen other citizens.

SUTTON BUSINESS DONE LAST YEAR TO BE GAUGED

An "inventory" of the business done in Sutton county in 1935 is to be made in the next few weeks, according to M. D. Shirley of San Angelo, an assistant supervisor under E. E. Murphy, district supervisor in the twenty-seven counties of the twenty-first congressional district.

The work is to be done for the Department of Census and all of the information received is confidential, only passing through the San Angelo office before it is handled in Washington. The department is concerning itself only with the volume of business done and the payrolls.

Mr. Shirley said while here Thursday that it is possible that the Sutton and Schleicher county work would be done by the same individual.

Tabulations made in Washington, relative to the Sutton county business volume, will be supplied business men of the county in a general form.

Five Children of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schwiening Confirmed

To the Alfred Schwiening family, their children and grandchild, as well as the Rt. Rev. William T. Capers of San Antonio, bishop of the West Texas diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Wednesday was truly confirmation day.

In the afternoon the bishop confirmed, by telephone from Sonora, a report in San Antonio that he would be married June 3 to Mrs. Louise Meyers of Memphis, Tenn. The "confirmation" in that case was in the newspaper sense of the word.

At night in a service at St. John's Episcopal Church the bishop, who was accompanied here by the Rev. Frederic M. Brasier, of Kerrville, rector of the church here, confirmed five Schwiening children—Mrs. Ralph Jones, Harold, Alfred, Jr., Curt and Louise Schwiening. The "confirmation" at night was in the ecclesiastical sense of the word.

Harold Alfred Schwiening, Jr., 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schwiening, was baptized during the same service.

Bishop Capers said that his marriage would be in Memphis at the Grace Episcopal Church of which Mrs. Meyers is an active member. She is a member of one of the pioneer families of the Tennessee city.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

Improving Raw Material

While visiting a large industrial plant, I watched a crew of men unloading box cars at the warehouse. At one side an inspector checked each piece of raw material on the trucks. Usually his only remark was "O. K.," but sometimes he gave a load more careful inspection, often ending with the one word

"Condemned." To my question the inspector replied, "This condemned material is defective. We can't turn out a good product from it, which also means that it won't make money for us."

My reflections were not pleasant. "Where making money is concerned," I thought, "only the best material will do, no expense is too great. But in building parents, citizens, home builders and workers we must take the raw material that comes and do wonders with it at no cost."

Of course we can't return defective children like so much material, but we could do a great deal toward correcting their defects. If we attach importance to reading, for example, let's learn all we can about each pair of eyes. If a child is tired and inattentive at school, let's find the cause and then do what we can to correct it. In short, if we in the school gave as much attention to our raw material as the industrialist does to his, I am sure we would send a better product into society.

How to help your child learn will be discussed in Dr. Ireland's next article.

A nag a day keeps your friend away.—Dean E. V. White.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

There's always something to be learned about New York. For instance, I never heard of Sniffen court until recently. It isn't much of a street. Starting at East Thirty-sixth, in the Murray Hill section, it runs only half a block and then stops. Once, it was a part of the old Porter farm. The small house that is the home of Russell A. Pettingill, engineer and architect, who moved here five years ago from Chicago, goes back to the old farm days, it having been the barn on the place. Mr. Pettingill, however, has turned it from early Manhattan to early New England. The outer door was once used by none other than Governor Bradford of Plymouth colony. Various fittings, as well as furnishings, came from other ancient New England homes.

Then there is Broadway. If the original Dutch name were used, it would be Breede Weg, but it would mean the same thing. In the beginning, Broadway was really a broad way. It was entirely below Wall street and Bowling Green was once a part of it. In 1710, it was paved with cobblestones. By 1790, Broadway had lengthened materially, since the first sidewalk built in New York was on Broadway between Vesey and Murray streets. Now Broadway is the longest street in the city, from Battery place to Two Hundred and Sixty-second street, which is the Yonkers line. As a matter of fact, Broadway keeps right on going all the way up to Albany. But according to many columnists, the real Broadway extends from Forty-second to Fifty-third street.

Speaking of streets, Park Row comes into mind. Not only was Park Row the "cradle of the oldest American newspapers," but the quick-lunch system was also born there. Dolan's and Hitchcock's were the most famous of the quick and cheap places. Johnny Meehan, who ran Dolan's and sliced the corn beef, knew everybody in that section of the town. So when he gave a greeting it might have been to the late Theodore Roosevelt, then police commissioner, or some other notable. Or it might have been to some humble scribe to whom a dime meal was a sole safeguard against hunger. When the World passed out of the picture, Park Row lost the last of its newspapers. In late years it has also lost much of its picturesqueness, being now merely a street busy largely with Brooklyn bridge traffic.

In the old days, Park Row also had its full quota of saloons. In establishments known as "dead houses," a bum for a nickel, could have all the whisky he could suck through a hose, provided he didn't take a breath during the operation. Breathing meant detachment from the barrel and legend has it some of the customers could have qualified as pearl divers.

Reverting to Broadway, when Edgar Allan Poe established his Broadway Journal, he wrote: "Broadway is confessedly the finest street in the first city of the world. Wall street pours its wealth into its broad channels. All the elegance of our continent permeates through it. The most elegant shops in the city line its sides; the finest buildings are found there. Its pavement has been trod by every distinguished man that has visited our continent."

Some parts of that are still true. But I wonder what Edgar Allan Poe would think of flea circuses, hot dog stands, game parlors, soft drink stands and some of the added features that now turn the dignified Broadway of old into a modern carnival. And I wonder what he would think should he encounter some of the present-day Broadway wise guys and chiselers—and some of the dames of the crooked street that once was wide.

Residents of a huge Chelsea district apartment house now do not have to walk to the movies. Starting at seven o'clock each evening, a big sight-seeing bus makes half hourly calls to pick up patrons of a Greenwich Village theater. The patrons are also returned home at half hour intervals. There is no charge for the service.

Again the shattering of the illusion that New Yorkers are time-harried. Recently, the exterior of the year-begrimed Hippodrome was given a scrubbing with live steam. So many New Yorkers stopped to watch the proceedings that the police had to open up sidewalk room for pedestrians. And steam baths for buildings are no novelty.

Maybe it's old, but I've just heard this variation of Willie Howard's "Come the Revolution." A Union Square orator, in the midst of a fiery speech, declared that with the revolution there would be "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth." An old lady spoke up with the assertion that she had no teeth. "Madam," replied the orator. "Come the revolution and teeth will be supplied."

Yeomanettes File Applications for Bonus

It's not only the men veterans of the World war who are applying for the bonus, according to Marie Gore, commander of the all-feminine Yeomanette post No. 487, of the American Legion, in Los Angeles. She gathered some of the members together and they prepared applications for their bonus payments. "The girls in our post, 34 of them, all served under the colors and did men's work during the war," Miss Gore said.

Hair Dressing May Be Adapted To Type

Spring Fashions Require Thought About the Coiffure

Denton, March 25. — After you have bought your new spring hat, bring it home and try it on. Now look at your hair. Does it do justice to the hat? The season's strongest challenge in coiffures is "away from the hairline," and it's one of the most flattering accents, not only for youth, but for the older face as well.

All sorts of individually becoming things can be done. A forward dip over the temple, or a few soft curls high and just forward of the ear, will soften a thin face. Center parts are lovely, and are particularly smart with an upward dip over each temple. Not everyone, however, can wear a straight and narrow path right down the middle of their head, so be particularly sure that you're the type.

If you have red hair, remember the color carries it. Too many curls only make it look "frozzy" and take away that smooth sheen that is essential to beautiful hair. A particularly smart curl concession that might be used is a few wisps of curled half bangs on one side of the forehead.

Height can be gained for the round face by dressing the hair back across the ears and low on the neck in two tiers of thick puff curls. This, however, is a severe hairdress, and should be used with discretion.

The coming of spring finds the famous puff curls that gained such popularity during the winter months, gradually disappearing. When the March winds blow, it's hard to keep them in perfect order, and girls at Texas State College for Women have turned to a more carefree coiffure. They trim their hair, leaving the ends just long enough to curl up, and then comb them out together. With one of two waves, this fashion is unusually effective.

Margaret Howell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Franklin Howell, has been out of school this week as she was ill of influenza.

PREPAREDNESS

A dangerous mountain road may really be safer than a wide, smooth, level highway. The average driver says to himself as he skims along the skyline of the high hill section: "What a place for accidents! Must be a lot of them here."

Whereupon he slows down and becomes more cautious. He keeps a sharp eye out for all possible hazards. He doubles his alertness and thinks about safety. In other words, he anticipates trouble and therefore usually doesn't have any.

The same thing usually happens when one has to drive during a storm. Statistics show that most highway accidents occur on good dry highways in good weather. The perfect road, because of its very perfection, seems to lull our sense of caution.

It's a pretty good rule in driving, to always expect the unexpected, to be ready for any emergency that may arise; regardless of where we are driving.

Safe driving today is a man-sized job requiring skill, alertness, steady nerves and constant attention.

Fort Stockton Man Wants State Office

H. L. Winfield, Former Officer in Pecos County

Seeking to represent the many Texans in the twenty-ninth senatorial district, made up of twenty-seven counties, H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton recently announced himself as a candidate for the state senate at Austin.

The NEWS this week carries Mr. Winfield's announcement in its "Political Announcements" column.

The twenty-seven counties embraced in the portion of Texas Mr. Winfield would serve comprise the largest senatorial district in Texas. El Paso is the largest city in the territory and a large part of southwest Texas is included. Ken Regan of Pecos, present state senator, recently announced that he would not be a candidate for the office this year.

In telling of Mr. Winfield's announcement the Fort Stockton Pioneer recently said:

"Mr. Winfield is a native Texan, born in 1888 in Zavalla county and educated in public schools of San Antonio. He came to Fort Stockton 23 years ago as a young man, and has lived here since that time. He worked first in a law office, then became deputy clerk from 1911 to 1915. In the latter year he entered politics actively for the first time and was elected tax assessor of Pecos county.

"He served two terms in that office and then was elected county and district clerk. He was elected to this office five times, without opposition.

"When Pecos County State Bank was organized in 1928 Mr. Winfield was made a director and vice-president. A short time later he was elected to the presidency, a position he holds at present. In addition to his banking interests, Mr. Winfield owns a 25,000-acre ranch southeast of Fort Stockton, is president of the Stockton Realty & Abstract Company, and has oil interests in the Pecos Valley and Masterson pools.

"He is a former mayor of Fort Stockton and is at present the president of the Fort Stockton Lions Club."

SHOWS HOW TO BE OWN BLOOD DONOR

U. of Illinois Doctors Urge "Storage" of Fluid.

Urbana, Ill.—Put your blood in the bank and draw it out when you most need it.

Or if you come through your operation nicely and don't need it, donate it to a hospital, where it may save a life.

"Blood insurance," the doctors who are working on this latest scientific miracle call it. They are Drs. Maurice Vischer and Bernard Fantus, both of the University of Illinois Medical school.

Doctor Vischer has been experimenting successfully with "canned" or preserved blood, while his confrere, Doctor Fantus, is more interested in the practical application of the experiments.

Expectant mothers would be the principal beneficiaries of the blood insurance plan, Doctor Fantus pointed out recently.

But any person with a surgical operation in the offing, he added, could protect himself by arranging in advance to have some of his own life fluid drawn off and preserved for possible emergency.

Doctor Fantus is hoping that the County hospital will be the first to install the needed equipment. If such equipment were installed, he said, it would be the means of saving at least 200 lives a year.

The fluid, when drawn off, is preserved in flasks, with sodium citrate added to prevent clotting, and kept at an even temperature of one degree, centigrade, or just above the freezing point. It can be kept for three weeks before it begins to disintegrate.

The blood of expectant mothers, Doctor Fantus explained, was especially desirable in that it contained a natural hormone which prevents bleeding.

The blood drawn from an accidentally dead body within six hours after life has ceased to exist, can, and will eventually serve the same purpose, Doctor Fantus said, adding:

"One dead body can supply six times the amount of blood a living donor can furnish, and in the near future many of the dead will be the means of saving human life.

"Widespread education will be needed to overcome the prejudice against making such use of the dead.

"Still, it is a rather inspiring thought that even in death we can make some contribution to humanity."

"Tattling" Cat Is Pet

at Prison in California

Folsom Prison, Calif.—Folsom prison's pets are becoming almost as well known as some of the institution's inmates.

First there was Rusty, "stool pigeon cat," who still roams the old cell block with more freedom than anyone, even the guards. Then came Blue, the blue-gray offspring of Rusty. And Blue adopted as his constant companion Chris, a tiny finch which was found deserted atop the prison wall.

Rusty became famous some ten years ago as the "stool pigeon cat" who unfailingly discovered prisoners when they broke rules by preparing food in their cells. Now and then a prisoner constructs a crude toaster or electric stove, secretes it in his cell and smuggles food there from the mess table, with the idea of preparing a snack before turning in for the night.

On such occasions Rusty may be depended upon to head directly toward the cell from which the aroma of food emanates, sit outside and meow. Invariably this attracts a guard and the offending prisoner is placed in solitary.

Task of Moving River at Nice Is Undertaken

Nice, France.—The gigantic task of moving a river to make way for an airdrome is facing French engineers.

The mouth of the Var, a large river near Nice, is to be diverted. For some years the mouth has been gradually silting up, and a delta has been forming under the surface of the water.

It is proposed to move the river bed 200 yards to the west so that the delta becomes dry land. On this will be built their airdrome.

The moving of the river also will obviate the grave danger of flooding, which threatens villages on its upper reaches. At present, owing to silting, the water cannot flow into the sea fast enough to prevent large quantities of water gathering in threatening mass upstream.

Heart on Right Side, So Bullet Misses It

Perth Amboy, N. J.—Thanks to a tangled anatomical make-up, Mrs. Anna Krasko, twenty years old, may live, physicians said. During a New Year's celebration she was shot through the left breast. Physicians said the bullet would have penetrated the heart of an ordinary person, but Mrs. Krasko's heart is on the right side.

STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS A CANDIDATE

L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, recently announced that he would again be a candidate for that office.

A statement of his candidacy says that Mr. Woods has been able, with the cooperation of several agencies, to raise the State Available School Fund to its statutory maximum of $17.50. The school levy has been reduced, it is asserted, from thirty-five cents to twenty cents on the $100 property valuation.

Sonora Team Third in Meet at Barnhart

Juniors Will Compete in Meet in San Angelo Tomorrow

Although not equaling its record at Veribest recently, members of the Sonora high school track squad brought from Barnhart Saturday afternoon eight ribbons, one medal and a silver trophy cup.

In the Junior division Vernon Morris romped home with first place in the 50-yard dash and second in the 100-yard while Taylor, a teammate, came out second in the high jump.

Morris' work in the 50-yard was particularly commendable as his time of 5.6 seconds established a record for the Range Country track and field meet, held for the fifth time Saturday. The previous record of 5.7 seconds was established in 1932, the second time the meet was held.

In the Senior division Babcock accounted for five of Sonora's six points by winning the half mile run in 2:17, beating Graves of Big Lake, Lawson of Midland and Bybee of San Angelo. The other Sonora point came as a result of its placing fourth in the mile relay.

The Sonora Junior team finished in third place, giving way to Junior and Crane who finished in that order. Morris lacked only three-fourths of a point of being high point man in the meet.

Saturday the Junior boys will compete in a meeting being sponsored by the San Angelo Junior High School. Events will start at 10 o'clock in the morning. Only boys fifteen years of age or less will contest. There will not be any trophies but it is thought that a large number of West Texas towns will send teams.

business man until two years later.

Salient reasons for the sponsoring of such a contest, according to Mrs. Davis, are the promotion of greater comfort for the traveler and to further a state-wide appreciation of beauty and cleanliness. Distribution of the 10 points on which the business places will be judged is as follows:

Generous distance between station and pavement, 30; absence of unnecessary and unsightly signs, 20; general appearance, 10; cleanliness of rest rooms, 10; neatness of premises, 10; maintenance of building, 10; planting of flowers, shrubs, etc., 10.

What Price Safety Instruction?
Atlantic City, N. J., March 25.—It cost Harry Blair $4 for trying to do two things at once. Hailed before a judge for speeding, his alibi was "My car-radio was on and I was too busy listening to a speaker for the National Safety Council against speeding to notice I was driving fast."

Lions Told About Mohair Week Value

Miles Club Will Have Group Meeting April 9

Final check-up on ticket sales to the Lions Club play "Three Wise Fools" Monday night was decided upon for Saturday afternoon at five o'clock when the Lions Club met in its weekly luncheon session Tuesday noon.

A committee composed of John Eaton, Hix Hall, W. C. Warren and W. E. James reported late Wednesday that less than 200 of the 1,250 tickets remained unsold.

The importance of Mohair Week, this week, was emphasized and all Lions were urged to buy more products manufactured of mohair. C. H. Jennings told of the Wildlife Conference, described in detail in last week's NEWS, which he is attending in Austin today.

Tardiness of the president, John Eaton, Tuesday noon was punished by placing him "in durance vile" with his wrists handcuffed to a pillar in the room.

Collier Shurley was a guest at the luncheon.

George H. Neill told of the appeal of the American Red Cross for $25 for flood relief.

The Miles Lions Club will entertain at 8 o'clock Thursday, April 9, for all clubs of the group who send members to represent them.
