Gardner Dry Goods Company's Big Ad.

The firm of Gardner Dry Goods Company is announcing in this week's Journal their big Semi-annual Sale. The announcement is in the way of a double-page spread, and is the largest advertisement ever printed in the city of Muleshoe.

J. M. Mareh and the force have been busy this week mailing out the large circulars to the trade. The sale started yesterday and will continue until Saturday, June 4.

The store is brim full of real bargains, and the sales force has been increased to take care of the trade. Bead the big ad, and hurry to get your share of the bargains before they are picked over.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or Any Constable Of Bailey County Greeting:

You Are Hereby Commanded, That you summon, by making publication of this Citation in some newspaper published in the County of Bailey, if there be a newspaper published therein; but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, once each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, F. G. Lock, Julia McBrayer, J. D. McBrayer, J. H. Lock, F. M. Lock, Margaret Kirk and Delin Kirk, whose places of residences are alleged to be unknown, and Eva Trimble, T. B. Trimble, Robbie Halter and J. E. Halter, who are alleged to be non-residents of the State of Texas, and the heirs of C. E. Lock, deceased, and the heirs of R. L. Faulkner deceased, to be and appear before the Honorable District Court at the regular term thereof, to be held in the County of Bailey, at the Court House hereof, in Muleshoe, on the 6th day of June, 1927, then and there to answer Plaintiff's Amended Original Petition filed in said Court on the 4th day of May, A. D., 1927, in lieu of the Original Petition filed May 29th, 1925, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 115, wherein Mrs. Eva S. Coldren is Plaintiff and W. W. Lock, Mrs. R. L. Faulkner individually, and Mrs. E. L. Faulkner, as she is Administratrix of the Estate of R. L. Faulkner, deceased, Minnie Lock Tipton, L. D. Tipton, Mrs. C. E. Lock, Fannie McKinley, C. L. McKinley, F. G. Lock, Julia McBrayer and J. D. McBrayer, J. H. Lock, F. M. Lock, Margaret Kirk, Delin Kirk, Eva Trimble, T. B. Trimble, Robbie Halter, J. E. Halter, and the heirs of C. E. Lock, deceased, and the heirs of R. L. Faulkner, deceased.

The nature of the Plaintiff's demand being as follows, to-wit: A suit upon four promissory notes for the sum of $666.66 each dated January 1st, 1921, due on or before 3, 4, 5 and 6 years after their date, executed by C. D. Lock and W. W. Lock, payable to the Plaintiff, Eva S. Coldren, bearing interest from their date at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, payable annually as it accrues, and providing that past due principal and interest shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, and stipulating for 10 per cent additional on the principal and interest due as attorney's fees; said notes given in part payment for the East one-half of the South-east Quarter of Section 23,

Santa Fe Ry. Boosts 4-H Club Work

Club members in Bailey County are to be given a chance to win a free trip to the Sixth National Boys' and Girls' Club Congress in Chicago next December. The Santa Fe Railway has just expended 63 trips, with all expenses paid, to club winners in 9 states. Texas is offered 19 of these awards. The other states to benefit are Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and and Texas.

The trip will be awarded to the boy or girl making the best record in crop or livestock projects in each of the winning counties traversed by the Santa Fe and having the services of a full time extension agent who operates under the direction of the Agricultural College.

Because of the wonderful results which club work is bringing in benefits to farm boys and girls, and for agricultural progress along their lines, is the reason why the executives of the Santa Fe are not only continuing their support, but are increasing it for the coming year.

This is the fifth year that the Santa Fe has offered champion 4-H club members educational trips to the National Club Congress held during the National Livestock Exposition in December, when 1,200 farm boys and girls and their leaders from all over the United States and Canada are royally entertained, instructed and justly praised as the hope of America's agriculture.

Our farm boys and girls realize that now is the time to decide to win one of these trips to Chicago, and hundreds of them are enrolling with their local leaders in 4-H club work, in order to carry their work to completion by autumn.

Let's have a Bailey County 4-H club member bring down one of the Santa Fe prize trips, and be one of Texas' representatives at Chicago this fall.

The Methodist church is being treated to a coat of stucco this week. This is going to add much to the appearance of the building, as well as the comfort of the congregation. We are glad to see these improvements going on.

Mrs. C. D. Gupton, accompanied by Mesdames L. S. Barron, Ray Griffiths and Byron Griffiths, spent Friday at last week in Clovis.

Edward K. Warren Subdivision, Block W, Bailey County, Texas, and to recover the sum of $84.40 taxes paid by Plaintiff; and said petition further alleging that the said land was conveyed by Plaintiff to C. E. Lock and W. W. Lock by deed dated January 1st, 1921, in which the Vendor's Lien was expressly retained to secure the payment of said notes, interest thereon and attorney's fees, and praying for judgment for the amount of said notes, interest thereon from January 1st, 1923, and for a foreclosure of the Vendor's Lien against said land.

Herein Fail Not, And have you before said Court on the said first day of the next term hereof, this writ, with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Muleshoe, Texas, this 4th day of May, A. D., 1927.

(Seal) C. C. MARDIS, Clerk District Court, Bailey County, Texas. (12-15)

Unknown Soldier's Tomb Symbol of Memorial Day

Memorial Day is a holiday that is celebrated throughout the United States on May 30—a "holy day," when we honor our soldier dead.

In late years it has taken on a significance which it never before had, because it emphasizes the fact that we are a UNITED STATES—united in our reverence for one national shrine. That shrine is the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery, and in it is symbolized, as by nothing else, the true spirit of Memorial Day.

There is an interesting article called "The Unknown Soldier," by Elmo Scott Watson, in this issue of The Journal. It tells how America honors her greatest heroes—those who "keep the binnacle of the unknown dead." Be sure to read it, for it will give you a new conception of what Memorial Day means to all of us.

The Woman's Missionary Union met in the home of Mrs. Ross Glaze Tuesday in the country. There were twenty members present and one new one. Everyone reported a nice time. And they ate all the ice cream and cake they could. The members gave Mrs. Taylor White a kodak, so she can make snaps on her trip this summer. Her Sunday school pupils were also present and gave her a handkerchief shower.

As the social was changed for this week, the W. M. U. will meet at Mrs. Dan Winn's for a lesson in Royal Service on Tuesday, May 24. Reporter.

Baileyboro Bugle Call

Yes, we are still playing baseball. Saturday's game with Morton resulted in our favor, the score being 19-7. We played Rogers Sunday on their diamond. They trimmed us, score 2-0. Pop up, folks; don't be discouraged!

Mrs. G. L. Blackshear gave a tacky party for the young folks Saturday night which was an enjoyable affair. True Dyer and Mrs. Luther Ragsdale were awarded prizes for being the two tackiest. Let's have another party soon.

We had Sunday school Sunday and good singing, with a good attendance. Prayer meeting was held at the usual hour Wednesday night. Don't forget divine services.

The two Brannen girls of Arch, N. M., were visitors here last week.

The school base ball school teams went to Inez Friday and played a game and won it, the score standing 22-5.

Permanent Camp Grounds for Scouts

Work has already started on the permanent camp ground for the Boy Scouts in the Eastern New Mexico Area.

At the meeting of the Council in Roswell April 22, G. B. Jewett and M. J. McDonald donated to the area 40 acres of land in Potato canyon, in the Sacramento mountains. The camping committee has lost no time and lumber is being hauled now to the ground for the erection of the buildings. No event in the history of the area has created more interest than this start toward a permanent camp, and it now appears that the camp will be even more complete for this summer than had been hoped for.

The camp will start about July 1. It is expected that there will be a total of 300 boys in the camp this summer, which will be a big increase over any previous camp. The accommodations will be far superior to anything in the past, which assures not only a better time for the Scouts, but more effective work. The summer camp is not only a recreational affair, but a real Scout program is carried out in each period. As in the past, there will be adequate adult supervision, assuring competent attention to every boy enrolled.

Every boy in the area is urged to notify his Scout master at once that he will be in camp. The schedule for the different troops will be announced later, only about 80 boys being accommodated at one time.

S. R. Mitchell and wife left last Friday for Memphis, Texas, where they will be for a period, after finishing the job of installing the local waterworks system on which he was superintendent. Being pleasant, affable people, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, and also the young men composing the crew, made numerous friends here. The crew went to Mack, Colo., in the north-western part, to be engaged in similar work. So Muleshoe will soon have good, pure water—good as any in this state, and as the town continues to grow we will have an abundant supply of fine water for all the people, a valuable asset to any place.

Humble Oil Test Drilling Around 3,000 Ft. Level

On checking up on the Humble Oil Test nine miles northwest of Muleshoe yesterday morning, the workmen report drilling in gyp and red rock around the 3,000-foot level.

They have been having fine luck with the work for the past two weeks. The setting of eight-inch casing will likely start this morning, one of the men said.

The major oil companies of West Texas are watching this test, and a great deal depends on the outcome of the well and the formations passed through.

It may spout and spatter in a stream soon on the prairie, then we'll have "He," too! Who knows?

You may get through the world, but 'twill be very slow If you listen to all that is said as you go;

You'll be worried and fretted and kept in a stew.

For meddlesome tongues must have something to do—And people will talk.

If quiet and modest, you'll have it presumed That your humble position is only assumed—

You're a wolf in sheep's clothing, else you're a fool;
But don't get excited; keep perfectly cool.

For people will talk.

And then if you show the least boldness of heart, Or a slight inclination to take your own part.

They will call you an upstart, conceited and vain;
But keep straight ahead, don't stop to explain—

For people will talk.

If threadbare your dress and old-fashioned your hat, Some one surely will take notice of that.

And hint rather strongly that you can't pay your way;
But don't get excited, whatever they say—

For people will talk.

If your dress is in fashion, don't think to escape,
For they'll criticize then in a different shape;

You're ahead of your means, or your tailor's unpaid, But mind your own business, there's naught to be made—

For people will talk.

Now, the best way to do is to do as you please,
For your mind if you have one, will then be at ease.

Of course you will meet with all sorts of abuse;
But don't think to stop it—it ain't any use—

For people will talk.

STORY FROM THE START

In the small New Jersey village of Stratford, in the year 1749 Richard Lindsay, who tells the story, gives an exhibition of his marksmanship to a group of villagers and a stranger, with whom they afterward dine at the tavern. The conversation turns on a notorious pirate, whose ship, the Black Panther, is thought to be in the vicinity. Next morning Lindsay, after his ducks, is sitting in a "blind" when three strangers land on the beach near him. They buy a chest and then one of them, Burford, recognized by Lindsay as the man he talked with the day before, kills one of his companions. Lindsay's presence is discovered. The third man is Captain Barclay of the Black Panther. The three men, Barclay, Lindsay and the stranger, Barclay meets there a youth to whom he bears a remarkable resemblance, Robert McAllister, whom Barclay captured on his way to his own plantation in Jamaica. Barclay has sworn to kill the rider McAllister, and Lindsay, to act as a spy in his uncle's household. He refuses to do this. Lindsay is asked to take his place. Realizing his helplessness and under threat of death, Lindsay agrees to assume young McAllister's name and take his place in Andrew's household. The Black Panther comes upon a plundered ship, with it on board murdered.

The men, after vociferously signifying their acceptance of this plan, went forward, while the captain and Burford, descending into the cabin, began poring over their charts of the Caribbean, debating upon the best way to keep way on the schooner during the night. For reasons which they did not reveal, they seemed sure that the Shark had headed south, and accordingly we laid our own course in that direction.

With the first dawn of day, the lookout at the masthead lustily announced the presence of a vessel, and before we had time to get excited, as he paced the deck with an air so vengeful and so savage that I was glad to stay as far from him as possible. Yet as the day advanced his mood gradually altered to one of grim mirth, for everything appeared to favor our fortunes, and to injure those of the enemy. When the breeze sprang up, as it presently did, it came light and puffy from the north and east, and we, in the sailor's phrase, "brought the wind up with us," and the steadily nearer and nearer to our foe, until the captain, gazing through his spyglass, announced that she was without doubt the Shark, and that she was a white flag, with the sable panther, to be displayed at the peak.

Presently, however, the wind increased to a steady breeze, and I, being totally ignorant of our surroundings, thought of the old adage that a stern chase is a long chase, and expected every instant to see the captain's mood change. But to my surprise, he remained as cheerful as ever, and as soon as the opportunity offered I asked Burford the reason for the captain's good humor. He pointed that directly to the southward, in the shape of a crescent moon, stretched a line of low banks, resembling the famous Caymans, so close to the surface that to be once among them meant certain shipwreck. Into this bay we were now driving the Shark; it was no longer possible for her to escape us; she would have to fight.

"But why did she walk into such a trap?" I asked.

Burford shrugged his shoulders. "Perhaps," he answered, "she counted on her fuse burning true. Perhaps all hands, from the captain down, were roaring drunk. And they have one chance yet, though a slender one. There is a channel through the banks, but there aren't three men in Jamaica who know it, and it's not likely that they have one of those three on board the Shark now."

All this time we were drawing closer, and now at last we made ready, in anticipation of our adversary's suddenly altering his course. The shouting night. Surely, I reflected, I was to have a taste of real fighting now; and at the thought of the women and children I had seen lying on the surface of Gull's deck, I welcomed the conflict. My companions, to be sure, were vile enough, but they could not be worse than the men who were to risk my life to strike one good blow in revenge.

Yet still the Shark did not alter her course; still she bore on, and I could see, from the look on the captain's face, that he did not understand her maneuvering. "She can't be going to try the channel," he cried. "Look at the color of the water; they're almost on the shoals now." But the next moment, leveling his glass, he exclaimed: "They are going to try it. I know that nigger at the wheel; it's Brown Moore, the best pilot in Jamaica. D-n them, they'll give us the slip after all."

He was half frantic with the violence of his rage. His swarthy face was flushed almost purple, and he ground his teeth in the extremity of his passion. Then, by a sudden change, he happened to fall on me. "Here, you sharpshooter," he cried suddenly, "help me off that helmsman. And quick, too, or we'll be ground ourselves."

I had my rifle in my hands, and thus ready for the expected battle, and thus had no alternative but to carry out, or rather to try to carry out, the captain's command. At once, therefore, I stepped to the rail, dropped on one knee, and making in this novel situation, the best allowance I could for the different courses the two vessels were steering, I calculated my distance and set my eyes, yet, as I did so, I was conscious that something blinded my aim; and while at the time, perhaps, I could not have put it into words, I now know what the trouble was. When I aimed at a squirted in a tree top, or at a black duck feeding in the sound, I aimed to kill; every nerve in my body was bent to that one purpose; all was concentration, and I was aware of nothing else in the world. But now, shooting at a negro who I knew was bent to that one purpose, I aimed half-heartedly, not really wishing to hit the mark. And I scored a clean miss, though the bullet, indeed, could not have gone far, for, for the pilot, who was looking forward, instantly turned and waked a hand at us, while holding the Shark true to her course.

"D-n you, I thought you were a marksman," he cried, and seizing a rifle from Burford's hand, he made an attempt to shoot me. But he was not caring to endanger his hold over us by exposing himself to their derision if he missed, he thought better of it and handed the rifle to me. "Try again," he said; and to Burford he commanded: "Load the boy's rifle as quick as you can."

I could not but admire the quickness with which his mind worked. To load my own arm again was the best, possible judgment, for in delicate work like this the thorough knowledge of one's piece is essential. And accordingly, though I held as true as I could with Burford's rifle, I had no great expectation of dropping my man. What the result of the shot actually was I shall never know, if the negro were hit, he gave no sign; but I have always imagined that the bullet struck him, though not in vital spots. In any event, he remained erect at his post, and the Shark continued to glide down the entrance of the channel.

And now, in this desperate crisis, I realized, for the first time, that the negro's was not the only life in danger. The captain's dark face turned actually livid, and he, as if to steady his nerves, whipped a pistol from his belt and leveled it at my head. "You kill that man on your next shot," he said in a tone of the most dreadful and ominous calm, "or so help me God I'll scatter your brains over this deck."

At the same instant Burford handed me my rifle. Once more I dropped to my knees, and took a moment to calculate distance, velocity of wind, the allowance that must be made for the different angles at which we were firing, and, as I had done by custom, I banished from my mind all thoughts of ships, of sea and sky, and of everything in the world save that which lay before me. I fired, and the report, and forming, against the background of the white malsail, a magnificent target. "His life or mine," I thought grimly, and pressed the trigger. This time there was no suspense; simultaneously with the report, the negro's hands loosened their grip on the wheel, his arms flew upward, and he fell into the sea. He slid headlong down the leek.

"Well shot!" roared the captain. "Well shot, my bully!" And then, with a gasp, he turned to Burford, then find the channel; they won't have two men on board that know it. In five minutes by my watch, they'll be away on a crumpled deck, and there hung fast.

The captain's face was transfused with an unhealthy red, and he cried: "Look at her! Her starboard guns pointed at the bottom of the sea, and her port guns pointed at the sky. Here, the crew of the Shark; we can knock her to pieces as we please."

It was evident that he spoke the truth. Heeled over as she was, her guns were under no strain, and she only remained for us to begin, at our leisure, what would be not a battle but a slaughter. Bearing down a trifling distance, she came to anchor, and paying no more heed to her scattered musketry fire than to the buzzing of so many hornets, we gave her with our broadside, the first of our about, and followed suit with our starboard guns, while Burford, presently handed our long Tom, and the two splinters flew from her rail; huge holes gaped through her exposed and unprotected hull; what a few moments before had been a trim and beautiful vessel was now a hopeless wreck.

Presently Burford came running aft.

"Those that are left," he cried, "are manning the boats. They're going to run for it." And to prove the truth of his words almost at once we saw three boats put off from the Shark, endeavoring, as best they could, to keep the bulk of the wreck between themselves and us. Yet with each succeeding stroke that they took, the difficulty of avoiding our fire became greater. Burford's deadly aim with our long Tom shattered one, leaving those of the inmates not killed outright struggling in the water; while a whole broadside trained on the second reduced her to a light plight. The third, however, managed to get out of reach, and I imagined that the captain would let her go, trusting to the elements or to rival freebooters to finish them in a fitting manner. But I had not yet plumbed the depths of his hatred for McAllister or any one connected with him, and to the shout of "Boarders away!" our fastest longboat was lowered and manned, rigged forward with a contrivance new to me, a V-shaped piece of wood, narrow end forward, and with an opening like a loophole on either side of the apex. When this was for I realized when the captain ordered Burford and myself to take our seats behind it, armed with muskets, and a plentiful supply of ammunition. Then the captain himself took the Port of the Devil.

Four days later, on a bright and cloudless evening, a light breeze brought us within landing distance of the island, when the captain approached to give me my parting instructions. "In a very few moments," he said, "the Shark will set you ashore. As soon as you land, make your way to the nearest town, which lies about two miles inland. Port of the Devil, they call it, and it is a fine place. There is an inn there, named—rather misnamed—the Palace of Delight, where all the young bloods, sea and land, meet to match their race horses and to make love to the girls. I advise you to do none of these things; any one of them may fasten pretty quarrel on your hand. Spend the night at the inn and have a care that you bar your door. Tomorrow press on to the plantation; find Shively and tell him you are McAllister's nephew. He will ferry you over to the island in the lagoon. Tell your uncle your story thus. Your name was captured by a pirate and burned to the water's edge. You yourself, after performing prodigies of valor, leaped overboard in the darkness and the next morning floated ashore in a landing-boat which brought you to the island. Invent any details you please, but I advise you not to be more talkative than you can, as matters stand, the less said the better. In two weeks' time I'll meet you at this very point, as soon after sunset as you can get here. And you must have the whole story for me. Don't bother your head with plans; I'll attend to those. I want the facts; all about McAllister, the house, the carriage, the points where he has hidden the treasure. Here are a brace of pistols and a knife, and here is your rifle, and here is a purse with a score of dollars. And here is Burford, so farewell."

I took the arms, delighted to have my rifle once more in my possession. And a moment later I was seated in my first set out for the schooner, but seated in the stern with Burford, while two of the crew sent the light craft racing up by the side of the schooner. As the boats' bow grounded on the sand, I took leave of Burford, cleared the distance from bow to stern in one flying glance, and watched the men shove off, turn the gig's stern about, and go speeding away again out to sea.

My feelings, however, I forgot all else in the beauty of the tropic night. For some time I stood—absorbed in the loveliness of the scene and in my own thoughts, until finally came to myself with a start. This was certainly not advancing toward the Port of the Devil, and with one last look at the sea, and the faint outline of the schooner far in the distance, I turned my face inland.

There could be but one outcome to the struggle. Our boat was lighter.

Simple Device Made Revolution in Music

According to manuscripts, the playing of the steel guitar, which is the modern Hawaiian music, famous throughout the world, was originated by a Hawaiian lad in 1838, who found that by placing an article on the fingerboard of the guitar while playing, a novel sound could be produced. The boy Joseph Kekuku, then a student at Kaneohe school, first got the idea when he placed a piece of coral on the fingerboard and brought a new twang from the instrument. This was followed by experiments with the blade of a pocket knife and results were obtained by a piece of thick steel for the purpose. The "new music" took the islands by storm and later spread over to the Hawaiian Islands.

"The Hawaiian inventor of the Hawaiian 'steel guitar,'" says surveyor, "is the most significant contribution of Hawaii to the world, the introduction of an entirely new technique for the playing of stringed instruments, at least as far as the western world is concerned, although the Japanese employ a similar our men were fresh and unbound, while it was evident, from the irregular stroking of their oars, that some of their rowers were already badly hurt, and that they were only rowing from dread of their impending doom. And when our rifles began to speak through the loop-holes, and men, here and there, began to pitch forward and lie still, then, as the saying is, we came upon them hand over fist. Finally they abandoned their oars, and essayed a scattering fire from rifled and pistols, but it was their last effort; demoralization had seized them, and when we came alongside the few survivors were dispatched in one fierce rush. The captain, cool and businesslike as ever, stowed in their boat with an ax, and laid the bodies of the dead float free for the scavengers of the ocean. Two of our crew lay quiet with upturned faces, and with small round holes in their foreheads; they also were tossed over, to join the grim fates of the others.

"And now, my bullies," cried the captain, "we'll lay alongside and see what this shark has longed in her maw of gold, and all for us. Give way, lads, and tonight we sleep like kings."

STOPPING THE TRAFFIC

Nick and Nancy used to often wonder why Daddy so seldom said anything about the traffic in the city.

Whenever they had been to the city they were always at first afraid of all the noise and the quantities of cars and automobiles and trucks that moved so quickly along the streets.

After they had been there awhile they realized that everything was so beautifully managed by the big policemen that there was nothing to be frightened at.

But they always thought that seeing so much traffic was wonderful.

"Everything goes just like clockwork in the city, doesn't it, Daddy?" asked Nancy one morning.

"Yes," said Daddy, "it certainly does, as a rule."

"But I must tell you of a funny thing that happened one evening in a very busy part of the city."

"A cat discovered there was a piece of glass broken in the window of a butcher shop."

"You can't just imagine how cleverly and neatly and quickly the cat got through that window!"

"There was one light burning in the shop, although, of course, the shop was closed for the night."

"And then didn't the cat have a feast!"

"Never before had she known the joy of having everything she wanted to eat at one time with no stopping."

"Some people saw what a good time the cat was having and stopped to watch her, although, of course, they were so amused."

"It was just like seeing a funny play when the cat picked out the choice morsels nearest and play with them and then eat them."

"The crowd of people grew more and more, the street became so crowded that no one could pass by."

"Soon it was so thick with people that the cars and automobiles could not pass."

"But the cat had eaten as much as she wanted of all the butcher's large supply of good things, a watchman suddenly appeared on the scene."

"With the help of a good many men the watchman finally succeeded in getting the crowd to move, and then he got into the shop."

"But the cat simply leaped out of the window again and disappeared in a side alley, where probably she lived, as a rule, on bits she could pick up."

"Such a looking butcher shop as it was now, for even if the cat had not quite eaten everything, she had tried everything, and she had eaten a surprising amount even for a hungry cat."

"Well," said one person who had been watching the cat, "I think that the cat is the cleverest one I have ever seen."

"Not only does she want to eat, but she knows just when to escape in time after a splendid meal, and what a surprising amount of everything at once, she stopped the traffic of cars and automobiles and trucks and people who might have been in a hurry to get somewhere."

In Other Words

A schoolgirl paraphrased the line "To bicker down the valley," from Tennyson's poem, "The Brook," as follows: "We have an undignified quarrel in a low place among the hills."

Another girl, given the line from "Lochiel," "He stayed not for brains," paraphrased it: "He never stopped for a mechanical contrivance to reduce speed by means of friction!"

A Give Away

Margaret is only seven years old, and somewhat of a mischievous trickster on occasion her mother, hoping to be particularly impressive, said "Don't you know that if you keep on doing naughty things, your children will be naughty, too."

Margaret dimpled and cried: "triumphantly, 'Oh, mother, how you're giving yourself away.'"

What prepared Willie—'Did I learn, Johnny, teacher?' Teacher—'Why do you ask?' Willie—'they'll want to know as soon as you're gone.'

A Slight Precaution

Non—Can you sign your name with your eyes shut? Father—Certainly. Non—Well, shut your eyes and sign my school report.

Men of Proved Bravery
Have Moments of Fear
What is the main quality of a hero's Fearlessness, isn't it? You'll say, in discussing the chief character of a favorite book, "Why, there isn't anything he's afraid of." Often you wish that you were like him.
It's hard to be absolutely unafraid.
A courageous leader of big game, for instance, who will face lions and tigers without a tremor, often will dread crossing a busy street, through traffic that you would navigate without a single thought. He feels safe in the jungle, where he is at home. A lion as big as a house couldn't scare him but he loses his head in traffic because it is unfamiliar to him.
Most of your fears, if backed into a corner, will turn out to be as thin as a halloween ghost. Next time you are afraid of something, examine it from all angles and see whether it is really as terrible as it seems. It probably won't be.—Washington Star.

Birthstone Now Made
Matter of Authority Historical records of many races concerning the symbolic significance of birthstones have been examined by a committee appointed by the National Jewelry Association, Emerald and agreed list has been adopted.
As a result, the association has assigned the various stones to the months in the following order: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, bloodstone; April, sapphire; May, emerald; June, turquoise; July, onyx; August, carnelian; September, chrysoberyl; October, aqua marina; November, topaz; December, ruby.

This list coincides closely with the beliefs of the ancient Roman, who, however, favored the aqua for May, emerald for June, and sardonyx for September.

W. N. U., DALLAS, NO. 21-1927.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON ONE knows where he was born. It may have been in Maine or in California, Minnesota or New England, but the name of Louisiana. But the name of the state doesn't matter after all. For he was an American.
No one knows in what outfit he served. It may have been the Infantry, the cavalry or the artillery. Or he may have worn the silver wings of aviation. But the branch of the service doesn't matter. He was a soldier—a fighting man.
No one knows where or how he died.
It may have been in Belleau Wood or at St. Mihiel, or somewhere on the Western Front in a famous battle. But that doesn't matter, either. The thing that matters is that "he died fighting" and the flag for which he died was the Stars and Stripes.

No one knows his name. It may have been Smith, or O'Brien or Cohen or Schwartz or Smolicki, or it might have been Paul or Lances. The name by which he was once known in the day school on some Indian reservation out West. But his name and the nationality of his parents are not things that matter. He now bears the proudest name that any man can bear.
"The Unknown Soldier."

Five years ago they brought his body back across the Atlantic and on November 11, 1922, they placed it in a white marble tomb in a famous cemetery near the nation's capital—a soldier home from the wars. Since that time the great men of his own country have honored their heroes respectively by their last resting place.
To it have come the great of other lands. A queen of royal European blood, princess, generals, admirals, statesmen, have laid their wreaths upon his tomb.

But all of this homage is as wearing compared to that which is being offered up in the hearts of all Americans on May 30, 1927. For the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery is a national shrine in battle "over there" whose names and personal histories were unknown. The honor paid to this one of the 4,000, whose identity will forever remain a mystery, symbolizes more than a nation's grateful remembrance of the thousands of men who lost their lives in the World War. It is the incarnation of the spirit of Memorial Day, a day observed by all nations in which the word "united" in its name has a new significance, a nation pausing in grateful remembrance of all the soldiers who gave their lives in all the wars in which their country has ever been engaged. And it is here in Arlington, where the Unknown Soldier sleeps, that President Coolidge, as the commander-in-chief of all American soldiers and the first citizen of the land, will voice America's tribute to her soldiers dead on Memorial day this year.

The first memorial to the unknown dead was erected in Arlington in 1862.
It was the impressive monument of rough-hewn granite and polished marble (pictured above) which bears the following inscription: "Beneath this stone repose the bones of 211 unknown soldiers gathered after the war from the fields of Bull Run and the route to the Rappahannock. Their names are not identified but their names and deaths are recorded in the archives of their country; and their grateful citizens honor them as of their noble army of martyrs. May they rest in peace." Underneath is a great vault of solid masonry, 30 feet deep and 200 feet square, in which are stacked the humble pine-wood coffins containing the bones of the soldiers. Nor are these the only unknown dead in Arlington. It was before this monument that were held the famous General Orders No. 11, issued by Gen. John A. Logan, commander of the U. S. A., calling for the strewing with flowers or other means decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country.

War in its very nature is a tragedy, but saddest of all things connected with war is the tragedy of the unknown dead. For some soldiers war means moments of exaltation in the knowledge of a sacrifice worth while, of heroism which will send his name ringing down the years and of tender care of the poor shell of his body after the spirit has fled. But to others it means privation, pain, the same exaltation, the same heroism but with it death, his name forgotten, and only a headstone marked "Unknown" to show where this bit of human wreckage was consigned to Mother Earth.

Considering the vast armies which the United States put into the field in the World War, there was a surprisingly small number of unknown dead. Of approximately 4,000 Americans killed in that conflict only 4-600 were listed as "unknown" at the time the body of one of them was selected for the nation's highest honors to be buried in Arlington as "The Unknown Soldier." Since that time persistent investigation has cut down the number until now the War department reports something over 1-000 still listed as unidentified.
The reason for the smallness of the list of unknown dead in this war lies in the simple little aluminum identification tags which each man in the A. E. F. wore. Two of these tags, each about the size of a silver half dollar, were worn around the neck.
One suspended from the other, on the case of an officer, his name, rank and regiment, corps or department, and in the case of the enlisted man, his name and serial number. If the wearer was killed one tag was affixed with him and the other was usually attached to the cross at the head of his grave. Whenever practicable a

Cilicia Ranked High Cilicia was Tarsus, which was the birthplace of St. Paul. He was, as he said, with pardonable pride in his birthplace, a citizen of no mean city.
About 90 years before the missionary journeys of St. Paul, Cicero, the famous Roman orator and politician, was appointed governor of Cilicia, and of the adjacent island of Cyprus.
Resourceful Preacher An outbreak of scarlet fever at Durham, Conn., made it advisable to discontinue church services temporarily. The fact that not all of his parishioners have radios did not keep Rev. Raymond Gosso, of the Congre-Sundays sermon to his flock. The sermon that he had prepared for delivery was broadcast through the mails to members of his parish.

H. J. R. No. 32
Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas by adding thereto Section 60, Article II so as to provide that the Legislature may fix the compensation of certain county officers by salaries and fees, commissions and other prerequisites; providing for an election and making appropriation to pay expenses of the election.

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of
the State of Texas:

Section 1. That the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto another section to be known as Section 60, Article 16, to read as follows:

Section 60. The Legislature may provide compensation for certain district and county officers, to-wit:

The District Attorney, County Judge, County Attorney, Sheriff, County Clerk, District Clerk, County Tax Assessor and County Tax Collector, by prescribing their duties, and fixing salaries in lieu of fees, commissions and other perquisites as now provided by the Constitution.

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held on the first Monday in August, A. D.
1927, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon "For amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas giving the Legislature power to provide compensation for the District Attorney and county officers through salaries in lieu of fees, commissions and perquisites as now prescribed by the Constitution," and Section 3. There is hereby appropriated out of any money on hand in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars or as much thereof as may be necessary to defray the expenses of the holding of this election, including the expense of printing notices and advertisements.

Sec. 4. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

S. J. R. No. 24
Proposing an amendment of Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system.

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of
the State of Texas:

Section 1: That Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 2 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices, five of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court unless he be, at the time of his election or appointment, a citizen of the United States and of this State, and unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years and shall have been a licensed lawyer for seven years and, during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a court of record or such practicing lawyer and Judge together. Said Chief Justice and Associate Justices shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their offices six years, or until their successors are elected and qualify, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. In case of a vacancy in the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, the Governor shall fill the vacancy until the next general election for State officers, and at such general election the vacancy for the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the qualified voters of the State. The Judges of the Supreme Court who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office unless the present Constitution and until their successors are elected and qualify. When this amendment takes effect, the Governor shall immediately appoint six additional Associate Justices of the Supreme Court for terms of office so that the terms of two of such appointed Associate Justices shall expire with the term of office of each of the present members of the Supreme Court and upon the qualifications of such new Justices, the Commission of Appeals of the State of Texas shall terminate.

Section 3 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only, except as hereinafter specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in the cases in the Courts of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the several courts of civil appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a statute of the State is held void, and to questions of law arising in such other cases of which the Courts of Civil Appeals have appellate jurisdiction as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the Legislature may authorize direct appeals from the County and District Courts in any case where a statute of the State has been declared void.
The Supreme Court and the Judge thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus and writs prescribed by law; and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, the said Court and the Judge thereof may issue the writs of man-datus, procedendo, certiorari, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to issue in such cases as may be specified except as against the Governor of the State. The Supreme Court shall also have power to remove any Judge of any court, as by the Court may be determined, to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to justify the super exercise of its jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capitol for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by the Court. The present statutes defining the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court not in conflict herewith shall continue in effect until repealed or altered by the Legislature. The Supreme Court shall appoint a Clerk, who shall give bond in such manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law, and he may hold his office for four years, and shall be eligible for re-election. The Clerk shall receive such compensation as the Legislature may provide.

"Against the amendment to the State Constitution amending Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system."

If it shall appear from a return of said election that a majority of the votes cast have been cast in favor of said amendment, it shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Texas.

Sec. 3: The Governor shall issue his proclamation calling said election and have the same published and said election held in accordance with this resolution and the Constitution and laws of this State; and return shall be made and the votes canvassed and counted as provided by law; and if said amendment is adopted by the required vote of the qualified electors of this state, the Governor shall issue his proclamation as required by law.

Sec. 4: The sum of twelve thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury to pay for publication of the proclamation calling said election and any expense of the State in submitting said amendment and holding said election.

H. J. R. No. 25.
Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas amending Article VIII by the insertion of Section 1-A therein authorizing the Legislature to provide for the separation of the objects of taxation for State purposes and for the support of the counties, districts and political subdivisions of the State and Counties, and authorize the Legislature to provide for the levy of an ad valorem tax for or other form of tax for State purposes only, and for local purposes only; authorizing the Legislature to provide for the classification of objects of taxation and providing that rates shall be equal on the various objects of taxation for limitations upon taxation.

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of
the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by inserting therein Section 1-A, as follows:

Section 1-A. The Legislature may separate the objects of taxation for State purposes from the objects of taxation for the support of the counties, districts and political subdivisions of the State and counties; and may provide for the levy of an ad valorem tax, or other form of tax, on certain classes of taxable property, or on other objects, for State purposes only (including school purposes); or upon certain classes of property, or other objects, for county or local purposes only (including school purposes). In no event shall the rate of such taxes exceed the sum of the limits of such taxes fixed by this Constitution for State, county and other local purposes. The Legislature may provide for the classification of objects of taxation. Taxation shall be equal and uniform.

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional amendment shall be submitted
to a vote of the qualified electors of this State, at an election to be held the first Monday in August, A. D.
1927, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon the following:

"For the amendment to Article 8, inserting Section 1-A, providing for changing the taxation system so that the State may derive its income, in whole or in part, from other sources than the ad valorem tax."

"Against the amendment to Article 8, inserting Section 1-A, providing for changing the taxation system so that the State may derive its income, in whole or in part, from other sources than the ad valorem tax."

Sec. 3. The Governor of this State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation ordering an election to determine whether or not the proposed constitutional amendment, set forth herein shall be adopted, and to have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. The State Treasury, not otherwise appropriated to defray the expenses of printing said proclamation and of holding said election.

Santa Fe Economy

Increases Capacity—Decreases Costs

Operating results on the Santa Fe for the year 1926 show, on the whole, substantial improvement over the year 1920 following Gov- ernment control.

Revenue tons per train mile increased in 1926 to 709.70 tons from 569.21 in 1920.
Average daily movement per freight car increased to 37.01 miles from 31.56 miles.
Average revenue per ton mile of freight decreased to 1.203 cents from 1.316 cents.

In 1920 it used 16.4 lbs. to move a passenger car one mile, and in 1926 it used 13.6 lbs., the saving being 2.8 lbs., or 17.07%.

The total fuel saving for the year 1926 is equivalent to 1,756,180 tons, costing $7,744,754 at 1926 prices.

This conservation of fuel has been accomplished by a carefully worked out policy of

1. Lengthening locomotive runs, so less fuel is used in firing up and less time lost in cooling locomotives.
2. Reducing train delays.
3. Larger locomotives, bigger trains, and heavier carloads in which shippers have rendered very valuable aid.
4. Using the best fuel saving devices.
5. More scientific firing and handling of locomotives and trains by the men.

We Ask Your Continued Assistance in Meeting These Transportation Problems.

And we promise you our best efforts to render steadily improved service, although the Fuel Crew and Train Limit laws in some states limit greatly our possibilities for further economies.

W. B. STOREY, President
The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway System.

Two Items of Economy in Operation Deserve Particular Attention:

FIRST is reduction of "loss and damage" freight.

In the year 1920 this totaled $2,817,596; in 1926, $1,350,429. If the rate of loss and damage in 1926 had been the same as in 1920 the total would have been $3,298,302, or 2.44 times as much as was the case. Loss and damage meetings devoted to careful study and instruction, the co-operation of all classes of employees handling freight, and better packing, marking and general co-operation by shippers have accomplished this saving.

SECOND is conservation of fuel.

In 1920 locomotive fuel cost the Santa Fe $28,372,475; in 1926 the cost was $22,604,116.
In 1920 the Santa Fe used 185 lbs. of fuel to move 1000 gross tons, excluding the locomotive, one mile in road service, and in 1926 it used 133 lbs., a saving of 52 lbs., or 28.11%.

W. Turner, whose residence is unknown, to be and appear before the Honorable District Court, at the next regular term thereof, to be holden in the County of Bailey, at the Court House thereof, in Muleshoe, Texas, on the 6th day of June, A. D., 1927, then and there to answer a Petition filed in said Court on the 4th day of May, A. D., 1927, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 235, wherein Mary Turner is Plaintiff and G. W. Turner is Defendant. The nature of the Plaintiff's demand is as follows, to-wit: Suit For Divorce: That on or about the 27th day of April, A. D., 1917, the Plaintiff was lawfully married to Defendant, and they continued to live together as man and wife until on or about the 22nd day of January, A. D., 1927, when, by reason of the cruel and harsh treatment, and improper conduct toward Plaintiff by Defendant; she was forced and compelled to permanently abandon him, since which time they have not lived together as husband and wife.

That during the time she lived with Defendant as his wife, she had four children by him, to-wit: Ruby Estelle Turner, a girl 9 years of age; Ruth Catherine Turner, a girl 7 years of age; Debra May Turner, a girl 5 years of age, and Sarah Mildred Turner, a girl 4 years of age.

That since the 22nd day of January, A. D., 1927, Defendant has failed to provide for the support and maintenance of the Plaintiff and her children.

Wherefore Plaintiff prays the Court that Defendant be cited to appear and answer herein; that on final hearing she have judgment dissolving the marriage contract now existing between Plaintiff and Defendant; that Plaintiff have the care and custody and education of said children; for costs of suit and for such other relief, special and general, in law and equity, that she may be justly entitled to.

Herein fail not, and have you before said Court, on the said first day of the next term thereof, this Writ, with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Muleshoe, Texas, this 4th day of May, A. D., 1927.

D., 1927, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court, on the 5th day of May, A. D., 1927, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 236, wherein C. E. Dotson is plaintiff and F. O. Walden, et al. are defendants. The nature of the plaintiff's demand being as follows, to-wit:

Suit on 8 Vendor's Lien Notes, being Notes No. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, Notes 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 in the sum of $615.62 each, and Notes 8 and 9 in the sum of $615.64 each, all of said notes dated October 12, A. D., 1925, and executed by the defendant, F. O. Walden, and payable to the defendant, Ray Adair, said notes bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. Note No. 2 due on or before January 1, 1927, and one note due on or before January 1st each year thereafter. These notes were executed as part of the purchase price for the West half (W 1-2) of Section Sixty-one (61), Block "Z," W. D. and F. W. Johnson Subdivision, Bailey County, Texas, conveyed by the defendant, Ray Adair, to the defendant, F. O. Walden, as shown by deed recorded in Volume 16, page 504, Deed Records of Bailey County, Texas. The defendant, Ray Adair, for a valuable consideration, transferred said notes to the plaintiff herein as shown by said transfer recorded in Volume 16, page 507, Deed Records of Bailey County, Texas. Plaintiff alleges that the defendant, F. O. Walden, has failed and refused to pay Note No. 2, which was due and payable January 1st, 1927; and that said notes provide that the failure to pay any one of said notes or any interest due on same, shall at the election of the holder of said notes mature all of said notes. Plaintiff alleges that he is the lawful owner and holder of said notes, and prays for judgment foreclosing his Vendor's Lien on said above described premises.

Herein fail not, and have you before said Court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this Writ, with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Muleshoe, this 5th day of May, A. D., 1927.

WOMEN CAN NOW DO MORE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Keeps Them Well

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in factories with hundreds of other women and girls.

There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain works in the Unifolac factory making overalls. Mrs. Chamberlain writes that she got the "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

Relieving Pain With a Reading Lamp

A SMALL reading lamp has great possibilities in its light rays, as a reliever of pain.

While large wattage lamps are necessary for deep therapy, to produce general bodily reaction, a small nitrogen reading lamp will relieve the local rheumatic pain, or the twinge of neu-

6 things to understand about used car allowances

- 1. When you trade-in your used car for a new car, you are after all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.
2. Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
3. Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
4. The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
5. An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
6. First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

S. J. R. No. 33.
Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas removing from the Constitution all limitations as to the amount of compensation of officers, the compensation and expenses of said officers to be as provided by law, and fixing the compensation of the Governor, and providing that said amendment shall be effective on and after January 1, 1929, and not sooner.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas be writs of quo warranto and mandamus section to be numbered Section 30a which shall read as follows:

Section 30a. Any provisions of the present Constitution of Texas fixing or limiting the amount of salary or compensation of officers and members of the Legislature are hereby repealed and hereafter said officers and members of the Legislature shall receive such salary or compensation and expenses as now provided until otherwise provided by law. The salary of the Governor shall be Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00) per year, and no more, payable monthly, and he shall have the occupancy, fixtures and furniture.

The salary or compensation of any member of the Legislature shall not exceed fifteen hundred dollars per year, and actual traveling expenses from the place of residence to the capital and returning for each session of the Legislature, as shall hereafter be provided by law; and provided that, no change of salary or compensation from that now provided by the Constitution shall become effective until the first day of January following the first general election held after adoption of this amendment.

Section 4 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall consist of three Judges, provided that the Legislature may increase the number to five, and a majority of the Judges shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of a majority of the Judges shall be necessary to the decision of any case. Said Judges shall have the same qualifications and receive the same salaries as the Judges of the Supreme Court. They shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their offices for a term of six years. The Judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office under the present Constitution and laws.

Section 5 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of the State in all criminal cases of whatever grade, with such exceptions and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, and the Legislature may confer original jurisdiction upon it to issue writs of mandamus, procedendo and certiorari in criminal cases. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have the power to issue the writ of habeas corpus and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, issue such writs as may be necessary to enforce its own jurisdiction. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have the power, upon affidavit or otherwise, to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to the exercise of its jurisdiction. Said Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capital for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by it. Said Court shall appoint a clerk who shall give bonds in such manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law, and he shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the Court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said Court, and said clerk shall receive such compensation as may be prescribed by law.

Section 6 (of Article V): The Legislature shall, from time to time, divide the State into such number of Supreme Judicial Districts as to it may seem necessary, not exceeding twelve at any one time, and shall have the power to re-district the State at any time, and shall establish a Court of Civil Appeals in each of said Districts, which Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and not less than two Associate Justices as the Legislature may provide, who shall have the qualifications as herein prescribed for the Justices of the Supreme Court, provided that the aggregate number of Judges of all of the Courts of Civil Appeals shall never at one time exceed thirty-six. Each of the existing Courts of Civil Appeals shall continue until otherwise provided by law. The Courts of Civil Appeal shall have appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of their respective districts, which shall extend to all civil cases of which the District Court or County Courts have original or appellate jurisdiction, under such restrictions and regulations as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the decisions of said Courts shall be conclusive on all questions of fact brought before them on an appeal or error. Said Courts of Civil Appeals shall hold their sessions as such places as may be designated by the Legislature and at such times as may be prescribed by law. Said Justices shall be elected by the qualified voters of their respective Districts, at a general election, for a term of six years, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. Said Courts shall have such other jurisdiction, original and appellate, as may be prescribed by law. Each Court of Civil Appeals shall appoint a Clerk in the same manner as the Clerk of the Supreme Court, which Clerk shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by law. The Judges of the Courts of Civil Appeal who may be in office when this amendment takes effect shall hold their offices until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Section 7 (of Article V): The State shall be divided into as many judicial Districts as may now or hereafter be provided by law, which may be increased or diminished by law. For each district there shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, at a general election, a Judge who shall be a citizen of the United States, and of this State, who shall have been a licensed lawyer for four years next preceding his election, and during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a Court of record in this State, and shall receive for his services such compensation as may be prescribed by law. He shall receive his election, and during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a Court of record in the District in which he was elected, who shall reside in his District during his term of office, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and shall receive for his services such compensation as may be prescribed by law. He shall be re-elected, and during that time shall hold the regular terms of his Court at the County seat of each County in his district, at least twice in each year, in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The Legislature shall have power, by general or special laws, to authorize the holding of special terms of the court or the holding of more than two terms in any County for the dispatch of business. The Legislature shall also provide for the holding of District Court when the Judge thereof is absent or is, from any cause, disabled or disqualified from presiding. The Supreme Court or the Chief Justice thereof may assign any District Judge to any District in the State other than that for which he was elected, with all the powers of a resident District Judge of the District to which he is assigned, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Legislature, or by the Supreme Court in the absence of such regulations enacted by the Legislature. The District Judges who may be in office when this amendment takes effect, shall hold their offices until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Sec. 8: Said proposed amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Monday in August, A. D. 1927, at which each voter opposing said amendment shall scratch off of the ballot with pen or pencil the following words printed thereon:

"For the amendment to the State Constitution amending Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system and each voter favoring said amendment shall scratch off of the ballot in the same manner, the following words printed thereon:

Sec. 2: Said proposed amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Monday in August, A. D. 1927, at which each voter opposing said amendment shall scratch off of the ballot with a pen or pencil the following words printed thereon:

"For the amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas removing from the Constitution all limitations as to the amount of compensation of officers, the compensation and expenses of said officers to be as provided by law, and fixing the compensation of the Governor, and providing that said amendment shall be effective on and after January 1, 1929, and not sooner;" and each voter favoring said amendment shall scratch off of the ballot in the same manner, the following words printed thereon:

"Against the amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas removing from the Constitution all limitations as to the amount of compensation of officers, the compensation and expenses of said officers to be as provided by law, and fixing the compensation of the Governor, and providing that said amendment shall be effective on and after January 1, 1929, and not sooner."

If it shall appear from a return of said election that a majority of the votes cast have been cast in favor of said amendment, it shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Texas.

Sec. 3: The Governor shall issue a proclamation calling said election, and have the same published and said election held in accordance with this resolution and the Constitution and laws of this State; and return shall be made and the votes canvassed and counted as provided by law; and if said amendment is adopted by the required vote of the qualified electors of this State, the Governor shall issue his proclamation as required by law.

Sec. 4: The sum of five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury to pay for publication of the proclamation calling said election and any expense of the State in submitting said amendment and holding said election.

Approved March 29, 1927.

CONOCO AMALIE MOTOR OILS

CONOCO dealers can now supply you with Conoco Amalie Motor Oil in the proper consistency for your particular motor. It will be worth your while to try it, for this oil has the unqualified approval of the experts who have designed and perfected motors for 207 automotive vehicles. These engineers have learned by actual tests that Amalie, 100% pure Pennsylvania oil, does a 100% lubrication job. And these engineers know that oil is the life-blood of the motor. If the oil breaks down, so does the motor.

Made from premium crudes from the famous Butler and Franklin fields in Pennsylvania, Conoco Amalie Motor Oil gives lubrication unsurpassed by any other oil in the world. It stands up under the most intense heat. It retains its viscosity—thus sealing the pistons and greatly reducing crankcase dilution, the cause of so much costly wear and tear on the motor.

Conoco Amalie is not a "tramp" oil. Every batch is sampled and tested in the laboratory before being packed in the drums and cans from which you get it. Look for the Guaranteed 100% Pennsylvania Oil trade-mark on the Conoco Amalie container—at your service station or garage. Then you will be sure to get the right oil for your motor—the kind of oil that the manufacturer of your car wants you to use.
