In Saigon, the military command said fighting tapered off across South Vietnam, with the situation at Xuan Loc, the besieged provincial capital 40 miles northeast of Saigon, "quiet."

White flags and banners of surrender fluttered from every building and shop in downtown Phnom Penh to welcome the black-uniformed Khmer Rouge forces. Rebel troops hugged Cambodian army soldiers and took them aboard their armored personnel carriers for a victory parade along the waterfront.

Flags Hoisted
Government gunboats steamed up and down the Mekong and Tonle Sap rivers on the east side of Phnom Penh, hoisting white flags and banners. "The white flag means cease-fire," an officer said, adding that display of surrender flags had been ordered by the Cambodian military command.

Uniform Property Tax Plan Gains Panel Okay

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Tax Committee today approved a bill setting up a uniform statewide system for assessing property for taxation. Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, the sponsor, said he hoped the House Calendar Committee would give it a high priority and set it for House debate next week. Peveto insists his bill is a necessary precondition for any meaningful public school finance reform because all school money bills would base state aid on market value of taxable property within a district. Under the bill, all evaluations

Reading Of 94 Makes Tall City Nation's Hot Spot

The Tall City was the nation's hot spot Wednesday as the thermometer shot up to a summery 94 degrees.

The day's maximum, however, failed to break Midland's own record for the day, which was 96 recorded in 1937.

More of the same is predicted for today, with the temperature expected again to reach the middle 90s. Friday will be somewhat cooler, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal, as the mercury drops back near 80.

The low mark this morning was 60, and tonight's cool point is anticipated to range in the middle 50s.

Meanwhile, warm winds from the south and southeast fanned moist air inland from the Gulf of Mexico today, covering the (See HOT SPOT Page 2A)

Cottle Gets Wildcat Site

Gus Edwards, Abilene, filed application to drill No. 1-A Arbie Biddy, a 6,800-foot wildcat, in Cottle County, 10 miles southwest of Paducah.

Location is 3,800 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of E. W. West, abstract 25, ¼ mile southeast of the same operator's No. 1 Arbie Biddy, scheduled deepening operation.

No reports have been released on No. 1 Biddy, which was to be deepened to 5,800 feet as a wildcat.

Pumping Well Opens Field

Pecos County gained a discovery and an offset to a newly opened field.

C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc. of Midland completed No. 1 Pecos-State as a Tubb oil strike in North Pecos, 16 miles west of Girvin.

It was completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 67 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio too small to measure. Production was through perforations at 3,473-3,485 feet, which had been acidized with 2,500 gallons. Drilled to 3,598 feet, it has 5½-inch casing set at 3,550 feet, and is plugged back to 3,537 feet.

Top of the Clearfork was picked at 2,950; lower Clearfork at 3,340 and Tubb, at 3,460 feet, elevation not available.

Location is 1,980 feet from southeast and southwest lines of section 96, block 10, H&TC survey, ¼ mile northeast of the depleted 3,500 Clearfork discovery in the Masterson field.

Stepout Planned
C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc. plans to drill No. 2 Duncan as a ¼-mile southwest stepout to the two-well Wodlag (Queen) gas field of Pecos, eight miles southwest of Girvin.

Drill site for the test, slated to 1,500 feet, is 1,000 feet from north and 2,700 feet from east lines of section 1, block 228, A&NW survey.

Strawn Prospect In Eddy Testing

Morris R. Antwell, Hobbs, N.M., was making production tests in the Strawn at No. 2 Western Reserves-Federal, ¼-mile west outpost to the dual Strawn and Morrow opener, and one Strawn well in the Avalon field of Eddy County, N.M.

It flowed gas at the daily rate of 2.428 million cubic feet daily, with a heavy spray of condensate, for an unreported time, on a 20-64-inch choke and perforations at 9,805-9,840 feet, which had been acidized with 6,000 gallons.

Earlier, it swabbed dry through Morrow perforations at 10,829-10,839 feet, which had been acidized with 4,000 gallons.

Drilled to 11,000 feet, where 5½-inch casing was seated, the well is plugged back to 9,990 feet.

It has been shut in to await pipeline connection.

It is 2,832 feet from north and 1,960 feet from east lines (Continued On Page 16A)

Jury Begins Deliberations In Connally Bribery Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jury in the John Connally bribery trial began deliberating its verdict today after one juror was replaced with an alternate at the last minute at the insistence of the defense.

The male juror was excused after the special prosecutor informed the judge that the juror's wife spoke frequently with a woman employee of the Special Prosecutor's Office.

Defense lawyer Edward Bennett Williams asked that the juror be excused after considering the matter overnight.

No explanation for the substitution was offered in court, but doubt that he is guilty.

The judge told newsmen later that he excused the juror even though he felt there was no reason to believe the juror himself had acted improperly.

The juror was replaced by a woman alternate, leaving the makeup of the jury at eight women and four men.

Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart spent half an hour giving the jurors their final instructions, telling them they must acquit Connally of the two bribery charges against him unless each of the 12 is convinced beyond reasonable

Supreme Court Decision May Prompt Changes In Provisions Of Clean Air Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court decision making it easier for states to grant exceptions to smokestack emissions controls may lead Congress to change provisions of the Clean Air Act.

The court ruled 7-1 Wednesday that states may grant variances to individual polluters as long as the states do not jeopardize the achievement of national goals for improved quality of the outdoor air.

The justices rejected environmentalists' arguments that exceptions to antipollution tables should be permitted only when "essential to the national security or the public health or welfare."

Richard E. Ayres, an attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council, said the decision will have "very serious adverse effects unless Congress chooses to amend the law."

"I have confidence that Congress will take action to remedy the breach that has been opened," Ayres said.

The council was a party in the case and had challenged a program adopted by the state of Georgia.

A subcommittee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee is currently considering amendments to the Clean Air Act.

Jeff Schwartz, a subcommittee counsel, said the panel would shortly be considering a number of changes affecting variances.

One would give industry a choice of putting in the required equipment or paying a penalty.

Schwartz said the subcommittee would undoubtedly take the court's action into consideration.

In the Senate, a subcommittee of the Public Works Committee will resume hearings on the Clean Air Act next Monday.

Authorization for appropriations under the act expires June 30, unless extended.

A spokesman for the Environmental Protection Agency said the court's decision would enable states to approve variances extending beyond the deadlines for achievement of air quality standards.

The variances could go into effect only if the EPA as well as the states found they did not jeopardize the over-all air quality goals.

The Clean Air Act, passed in 1970, required states to come up with plans to meet prescribed air quality standards within three years of the plan's adoption.

Justice William O. Douglas dissented from the court's decision without writing an opinion. Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. did not participate.

Lee High Band Wins Top Awards In UIL Contests

Lee High School was one of five area high schools to take sweepstakes awards for first division ratings in marching, concert and sightreading during Tuesday's and Wednesday's University Interscholastic League band competition.

Also garnering sweepstakes were Fort Stockton, Monahan, Odessa and Permian high schools.

Wednesday's portion of the contest for Class 3A schools in concert and sight reading, respectively, resulted in these ratings: Pecos, II and II; Fort Stockton, I and I; Monahan, I and I; Ector, III and IV; Andrews, II and II, and Kermit, II and II.

Ratings in Class 4A competition were Lee, I and I; Midland, II and II; Odessa, I and I; Permian, I and I, and Big Spring, II and I.

Ford Delays Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has delayed for 60 days a threatened strike against the nation's railroads by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks.

The 250,000-member union voted to walk out at 12:01 a.m. Friday, but Ford invoked emergency procedures under the Railway Labor Act to allow union and management negotiators additional time to resolve their contract dispute.

Declaring the matter a national emergency, the President appointed a three-member fact-finding board Wednesday to investigate the dispute for up to 30 days. The board's findings will be taken back to the negotiators, who will then have another 30 days to reach an agreement.

The union will be legally free to strike after the 60-day period.

Union President C. L. Dennis said he was gratified by Ford's action and that the union was prepared to present its case to the board as soon as hearings are arranged.

Ford said he acted on the recommendation of the National Mediation Board, which decided that a railroad strike "threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive a section of the country of essential transportation service."

Seven other railway unions accepted a new three-year contract earlier this year, but Dennis said his members "won't settle for an inadequate or sub-standard agreement simply because other unions found it satisfactory for their members."

The contract provided for a 41 per cent boost in wages and benefits.

Cease-Fire, Heavy Rains Calm Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A torrential rain and a cease-fire calmed Beirut today after four days of street fighting.

Palestinian guerrillas and leaders of the right-wing Phalangist party called on their young warriors and supporters to dismantle their street barriers and return home. The two factions were forming joint patrols with Lebanese security forces to enforce the truce.

Isolated firing and a few explosions were still heard in some areas. But one Palestinian spokesman commented: "These are only natural skirmishes among diehards."

An estimated 150 persons were killed in the street fighting that started with a clash between Palestinians and members of the Phalangists' private militia at the dedication of a Christian church Sunday afternoon. Later other leftist and rightist groups joined in.

Most residents of the city stayed home, but at least 20 bystanders were reported among the dead. The government refused to order the army or the police to intervene, demonstrating the fragility of its authority.

The cease-fire was negotiated by the secretary general of the Arab League, Mahmoud Riad, and a Lebanese parliamentary committee headed by Moslem leader Musa Sadr.

The Phalangists, a party of Christian conservatives who maintain a well-armed militia of about 5,000, have clashed repeatedly with the Palestinians. They charge that the 12,000 guerrillas who are based in Lebanon create violence in the country and attract Israeli attacks.

Pentecostal Minister Challenges Criswell To Debate Over 'Tongues'

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A Pentecostal minister here has challenged Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Dallas, to a debate over Biblical scriptures dealing with "speaking in tongues."

Dr. Criswell earlier this week told an evangelism conference in Dallas that the practice of speaking in tongues is "senseless, idiotic, heretical, divisive and hurtful" to Christianity.

The Rev. Marvin A. Hicks issued the challenge Wednesday.

Dr. Criswell, whose church is the world's largest Southern Baptist Convention congregation, said women are responsible for the practice which is common among Pentecostal groups and others in the charismatic movement.

"On behalf of the 5,000 ministers of the United Pentecostal Church I hereby challenge your statements," wrote the Rev. Mr. Hicks. "I offer the following proposition for public discussion for four nights in First Baptist Church or any suitable auditorium.

There was no immediate response from Dr. Criswell.

Puppets Entertain Throughout Years

By BUROKER and HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

Puppets have been popular for centuries. Not only did the Greeks and Romans enjoy them, but so did American Indians long before the coming of the white man. From very simple creations to extravagant theater productions, this form of entertainment is known to almost all historical times and cultures.

There are also several types of puppets which can be moved by strings, wires, rods, hands, fingers or magnetic attraction. Whether they are complicated creations or the simplest forms of hand puppets, characters so created can become very endearing and provide a lot of fun both for the performer and those who view a staged production.

Shut-ins and very young children prove excellent audiences, especially when they discover how easily they, too, can become puppeteers.

For a very basic form of entertainment, a pair of simple pictures and only two fingers on each hand are required to create an amusing illusion.

Two roly-poly clowns are easy to sketch freehand. They can have painted faces and pom-pom hats and look alike, or be made entirely different.

The pictures will be slightly different, however.

On one clown figure, instead of drawing legs and feet, cut two round holes just big enough for your index and middle fingers to slide through past the second knuckle.

These become the clown's lower limbs.

Attends Party

MIDKIFF — Mrs. Lolbe Vaughn of Midland Rebekeah Lodge No. 91 attended a recent party honoring Florence Elder, outgoing district deputy president.

On the second clown, draw the entire body except for arms and hands. This time, your thumb and ring finger of the other hand will substitute for these body parts. For extra realism, you can paint black on your fingernails for boots, or make bright mittens of red or any other color.

Work out a play or skit, including names and activities for each clown. One might be the clumsy type, always sitting or sliding down. (He can try to do the splits, too.) The other performer can be a gabby type who talks with his hands and waves his arms a lot.

These two clown puppets, one on each hand, can face each other or the audience.

Try to use two different voices, or get a friend to help stage your production. Either way, you can create a little theater in which clown capers can become surprisingly lively and appealing.

TO EXTEND INVITATION — The Symphony Singers of the Midland Symphony Guild will extend an invitation to members of the Texas Women's Association of Symphony Orchestras to have the 1977 spring TWASO convention in Midland. The invitation will be issued at the TWASO state convention being held today and Friday in Austin. Mrs. John Hansen composed a special invitation song. New member, Mrs. Dale Gorsuch, was introduced.

Being Federation Day, Mrs. Larry Stapp, federation counselor, gave a short review of each federation department.

Mrs. David Miller, delegate to the Western District convention held recently at Alpine, reported on the activities and awards received by the club, which included a first in Texas Heritage; a second in international affairs; a second on the yearbook; and a second on the president's report. Mrs. Jerry Hudgeons was in charge of the "Fashions For Fun" style show. Mrs. Tommy Cook, club member, was second place winner. The club also won the award for having the most in attendance.

It also was reported that the Junior Woman's Club was hostess for a tea honoring the Outstanding Club Woman of the Western District, Mrs. Harry Harrison was the club's nomination.

The entree was Zahle Lebanese Grilled Chicken, accompanied by tossed salad, Zeytinyagli Fasulya Green Beans, Cabbage Rolls, Pashtidat Yerakot (mushroom Moussaka) and Khabe Marbook (Lebanese flat bread). The dessert was Gavia Hafta at Glida (fruit and wine Cassata) and Baklava (cookies with nuts and syrup).

'Code Of Behavior' Given

While dinner should be an occasion of family harmony, all too often the evening meal is fraught with dissent. What is clearly needed is the following "Code of Behavior at Mealtimes," a copy of which should be conspicuously posted in the dining room.

CLEANLINESS: Children are required to wash all visible moving parts, i. e., hands, faces, ears. There is nothing quite so revolting as eating opposite someone with a Chiquita Banana label on his forehead or "I Love Edgar Winters" written on her hand in green ballpoint ink.

FOOD: Any comments on the quantity or quality of the food are restricted to those of an affirmative nature. Rhetorical questions such as "Why do we always have to have crummy old beefs?" are detrimental to morale. Food is to be consumed as quickly as is politely possible, using only the utensils provided, i. e., there will be no manual arrangement of peas to spell "I Love Edgar Winters."

PHYSICAL RESTRICTIONS: Tipping chairs is positively disallowed, as are intricate balancing acts involving glasses of milk. Elbows and knees are to be kept off the table.

CONVERSATION: Each member of the family may choose one topic and browbeat it for three minutes. Son may use his three minutes to describe how to make an amplifier. Daughter may explain how she is going to take a paper route to earn enough money to send for a Mark Eden

Jelly side down
By NANCY STAHL

Bust Developer: Mother may muse aloud on the difficulty of removing carbonized chicken pie from the inside of an oven. Father will use his three minutes for silence. Any topic is allowed, with the exception of those discussions beginning "Guess what I saw on the sidewalk on the way to school!"

Other officers named were Mrs. W. F. Prothro, vice president; Mrs. T. G. Turpin, treasurer; Afton Fendren, secretary; Mrs. John Caldwell, reporter, and Mrs. Herman Morton, corresponding secretary.

It was reported the volunteers made more than 1,000 cup cakes which were taken to hospital patients in observance of Easter.

Persons interested in becoming members of the auxiliary may contact Mrs. Dave Tidmore, 684-7669, or Mrs. E. M. Braselton, 682-9845.

East opens the bidding with one diamond, and South doubles for a takeout. South has a skimpy hand for this action, but he has good support for both majors. South shows his whole hand when he doubles, and he expects to pass thereafter unless forced to bid.

North shows his strength by making a cue bid in the enemy's suit. In response to the takeout double he bids two diamonds.

This does not promise shortness or control in diamonds. It merely says "Partner, I have 12 or more points and good reason to believe we have a fit. Keep bidding until we reach game even if you have minimum for your takeout double."

Must Bid

South must bid something, and two hearts is his natural choice. Whether South bids hearts or spades, North is ready to raise to game.

The defenders take two diamonds, but South ruffs the third diamond. Declarer draws trumps and tries the club finesse. When this succeeds, the contract is assured. If South guesses which opponent has the queen of spades, he will make an overtrick; but even if he misguesses, he must still make the game contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner doubles the opening bid of one club, and the next player passes. You hold: S-Q 4 2 H-9 6 4 D-J 8 7 C-9 7 6 3. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. Your only "long" suit has already been bid. You must respond in the cheapest three-card suit and hope for the best. Do not dream of passing. The weaker your hand, the more essential the takeout.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Young Couple Being Foolish

DEAR ABBY: My younger brother and his wife are both 23. I guess you could call them "hippies." They live in a large house in the country with a lot of other hippies.

My brother's wife is expecting her first baby in a few months, and she plans to have it at home with the others in the home "helping." Another woman who lives in the home is having a baby next month, and they expect to learn everything they need to know then.

Although both these kids are bright and not ruined by drugs they won't listen to any "old wives' tales" or to their lab-technician brother-in-law about the dangers of this. My brother's wife is Rh negative.

They say they live only 10 minutes from a hospital, and that's enough.

Can you give me some good arguments for convincing them not to go through with their plan? What do your medical advisers say?

DEAR J.: I agree that this young couple is foolish not to have a prenatal examination to be sure that the mother can anticipate a reasonably normal birth process.

Failure to do this could endanger the lives of both the mother and the new infant during birth. The couple are seriously underestimating the possible problems and complications that could arise if they think that watching one delivery will teach them "everything they need to know." There is nothing wrong with wanting to have the delivery at home, but they would be well-advised to at least have an experienced midwife present to assist them.

DEAR ABBY: Can a girl get pregnant from kissing with her mouth open?

WORRIED IN CHICAGO

DEAR WORRIED: No. But it's a good beginning.

DEAR ABBY: You once remarked that a woman of 65 was not exactly an ancient relic yet—or words to that effect.

Well, that is my age, and that is also my feeling.

I am presently keeping company with a very fine gentleman. He is refined, cultured, lonely—and 80 years old.

I could be interested in him if I were sure we could have a "real" marriage. My problem is how to find out.

J.: What do you think, Dear Abby? I have heard men in their 70s and 80s boast that they are as "young" as they were 30 years ago, but of course I never knew whether they were telling the truth. Is it possible?

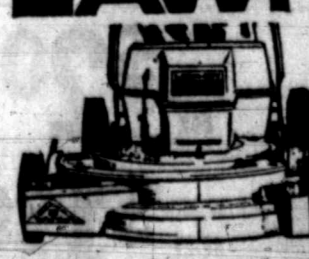

I wouldn't want to marry a man who could do nothing but talk. Don't use my name please. Everybody here knows me.

NO GAMBLER IN NEVADA

DEAR NO: It is possible or a man to be sexually-active as long as he lives—no matter how old he is. But the only way you can find out if you can have a "real" marriage with this cultured gentleman is to ask him. And pray that he's not just another "talker."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Cambodia Wasn't Planned; It Just Happened

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

For the United States, Cambodia wasn't planned. It just happened, without formal alliance or agreement.

The fateful step was taken almost exactly five years ago with a combined American-South Vietnamese invasion that the Nixon administration called an "incursion." From then on it was all downhill. Phnom Penh surrendered today.

The American military involvement in the three Indochina states was supposed to end in 1973. The last vestige of it was supposed to be in Cambodia where, at the order of Congress, the bombing halted that August. But the political, economic and ideological entanglements remained, and now Cambodia's fate can alter the whole Indochina picture.

How did this situation develop into what it is now?

American involvement really began right after World War II with aid to the French as they sought to re-establish their colonial authority. Washington had regarded Southeast Asia as strategically vital to American security, and even more so after the Communists swept over China. Washington saw communism as a Soviet-dominated monolith about to knock over nations like so many dominoes.

Communist Ho Chi Minh's Viet Minh by 1954 drove the French out and assumed authority over North Vietnam, and the United States stepped into the vacuum in the South. Cambodia had won independence in 1953 under Norodom Sihanouk, then called king, but the ancient Buddhist kingdom that called itself Kampuchea was unlucky in its geography, caught between two mighty world blocs in a political struggle.

Attempt Made

Hanoi sought to use a Vietnamese minority to impose its domination on Cambodia, and the antiroyal, anti-Communist Khmer Issarak (Free Khmer) movement also opposed him. But Sihanouk, then in his 30s, was popular, despite a playboy image, and prevailed, probably because many Cambodians considered him the only honest man in high office.

Prince Norodom — he retained the hereditary title after making himself chief of state in 1960 — could have claimed a title as the world's most dedicated neutralist, but the world wouldn't let him stay that way. American troubles with Sihanouk began accumulating in 1965 after the major war escalation in South Vietnam. The cause was the sanctuary enjoyed by Communist-led Viet Cong on Cambodian territory.

Sihanouk, who had already renounced American economic aid, broke relations with Washington, charging repeated violations by American planes. Sihanouk pictured himself as caught between two forces. On one hand were the Khmer Rouge, mainly Cambodian Communists, who the prince said "sold their bodies and souls to China." The Khmer Rouge had a Politburo, support from China and protection from North Vietnamese regulars camped in Cambodia. It developed slowly into a fighting organization on its own, but was a shadowy force, difficult to identify. Its outstanding leader is Khieu Samphan.

The other force Sihanouk called "Khmer Blues," or those elements, many in the military, favoring American aid. Things reeled along in this confusing way until March 1970. Sihanouk, on tour abroad, was in Moscow when his premier, Lt. Gen. Lon Nol, ousted him in a coup. A week later came the fateful Nixon administration decision to invade against Viet Cong hideouts. This soon had Cambodia up to its national neck in the Indochina war.

In China, Sihanouk presided over GRUNK and PUNK, unlovely French acronyms for the United Royal Government and the United National Front. He got both Chinese and North Vietnamese help to mount a war against Lon Nol.

Attitude Changes
The Soviet Union cautiously sat on the fence, keeping its embassy in Phnom Penh, unwilling to move until sure which way the political winds might blow. From his exile home on Peking's anti-Imperialist Street, Sihanouk blasted the Russians as betrayers, and they in turn lashed him in newspaper articles. This went on for three years. Then the Soviet attitude changed abruptly. Why?

When Congress ordered an end to the bombing in Cambodia, Moscow evidently detected the knell for Lon Nol. Then Sihanouk had the support of most "nonaligned" nations for whose favor Moscow constantly contests with Peking. In October 1973, the Soviet Embassy left Phnom Penh and thereafter Moscow recognized Sihanouk.

North Vietnam had been generous with both Chinese and Soviet arms for the Khmer Rouge and could reduce its troop presence to what was needed to keep supply lines moving smoothly.

In Phnom Penh, five years after the U.S. "incursion," the regime could claim sovereignty over less than 15 per cent of the land and a quarter of the people.

The rebels had all the options: they could try for a quick kill or rely on attrition, waiting for the capital to fall like rotten fruit, or perhaps be pulled down by its own enraged young officers.

Lon Nol, 61 and half-paralyzed by a stroke, left the country March 31, and since then his successors have been looking for a way to negotiate some sort of settlement to end the fighting.

On the other side, Sihanouk had said he expected to return, but nursed few illusions that he would be anything more than a figurehead. He has predicted that when the Khmer Rouge has no more use for him it will "spit me out like a cherry pit." As for the Khmer Rouge, it has a ruling Politburo, but it is a shadowy affair and little is known about it.

ALMOST THERE—Midland College art students Bob James Grant and Nancy Henderson help construct a kiln to be used in ceramics projects. Located in the campus art court, the finished product will be 6½ feet tall and house six burners.

Midlander Enters Marathon Tall City Attorney Set For Boston Run

By JAN WILLIAMS

There's an easier way to get a bowl of Irish stew than running in the Boston Marathon, but Tevis Herd likes to do it the hard way.

Herd, a Midland attorney, will run in the Boston Marathon April 21, and he expects his only reward will be the traditional bowl of Irish stew for those who finish the race.

"I know I'm not going to win," Herd said. "I do it because I enjoy it."

It will be the second time for Herd to run the 26-mile, 385-yard event through the streets of Boston — an event he calls the "Mecca for distance runners."

Herd has an impressive background which qualifies him for the marathon. He won the state high school mile championship while a senior at Midland High School in 1960. He also ran on The University of Texas track team while a student there.

Running with Herd in this year's marathon will be his brother, Dan, an Austin attorney.

Dan is also a former track star at Midland High School and made it to the state finals for mile runners in 1966. The Boston event, however, will be only his second marathon.

Herd, who has run a total of six marathons, takes the event very seriously and prepares himself by rigorous training and a special diet a week before the race.

"I've been training for the past six months. I started by running 30 to 40 miles per week and now I'm up to about 70."

As for the special diet, Herd calls it a carbohydrate loading diet.

"You run a good hard run so you deplete most of your glucose. Then you don't eat anything but protein for three or four days, then only carbohydrates for three or four days. This process stores up a reserve of glucose which helps to sustain you through the race."

Herd, who is six feet, 155 pounds, says he probably loses seven to eight pounds in the process of running one marathon.

The ideal size for a runner, Herd says, is five feet, 10 inches and 133 pounds.

Herd says he should find some hills to run up to prepare himself for the race.

Good For Waist

The marathon is an event which all of Boston turns out for, since it is a holiday in the state, Patriots Day.

Herd says possibly one disadvantage in his training for the race, is the lack of hills here to run up.

Heartbreak Hill

"There are lots of hills in Boston. One hill, called Heartbreak Hill is 2.1 miles." The marathon is an event which all of Boston turns out for. Since it falls on Patriots Day, a state holiday, most businesses are closed.

"It's really the runners day in Boston," Herd says. "The newspapers publish the names and numbers of all those running, and people call out your name as you pass them. It's very encouraging."

To qualify for the Boston Marathon, one must be at least 19 years of age, and have run a previous marathon in at least three and one half hours.

Herd and his brother qualified by running in the Whitecock Marathon in Dallas two months ago.

Tougher Competition

When Herd ran in the Boston Marathon in 1972, he placed 166 in a field of 1,200. He says, however, to run the same as he did then, would probably place him 250 now.

"There's more interest in the race now, and as a result the quality of runners has improved. I'll be pleased if I finish in the top 300 this year."

Herd says he expects the winner will probably finish the race in two hours and 13 or 14 minutes. He hopes to finish in around two hours and 55 minutes.

"There may be 200 or 300 ahead of me, but hopefully there will be 1,000 behind me."

Herd says 15 to 20 women will participate in the field of 1,800 runners.

"It is becoming more popular among women," Herd says. For the past three years, women have officially been able to run in the Boston Marathon (previously they were banned from it). I expect there will be more women participants this year, since the number seems to be increasing every year."

Herd says it's lonely running in Midland, since not many people seem to participate in the sport. The only local marathon is in Odessa, with others in the state in Austin, Dallas, Galveston and Houston.

Herd says most good marathon runners limit themselves to two or three marathons per year.

"It drains you physically and emotionally. It takes so much out of you, it takes a while to get over it."

Although he has never won a marathon, Herd says he'll continue to try. And who knows — maybe someday he'll win more than a bowl of Irish stew.

Alexandria Edges Mets In TL Action

By The Associated Press

Aran Abu singled home the winning run in the ninth inning to pace Alexandria to a 4-3 victory over the Jackson Mets that moved the Aces into first place in the Texas League's East Division.

In other games Wednesday night Arkansas' defeated Lafayette 7-2 and San Antonio squeaked past Midland 4-3. Shreveport, leader of the West Division, and second place El Paso were idle.

Craig Clark of Alexandria had tied the score at three runs apiece to start the ninth inning. Roger Coe, 1-0, was the winning pitcher.

At Little Rock the Travelers collected 14 hits to back pitcher Tony Gonzalez and help him pick up his first victory of the season. Doug Clary and John Young each had three hits for Arkansas.

Palmer Shows Stuff

MURCIA, Spain (AP) — Arnold Palmer provided some of his famed American-style excitement in his first Spanish Open golf tournament Wednesday.

Palmer toured the front nine of La Manga course in four-over-par 40 then charged home with four birdies and a 32 for a par after the first round.

Palmer was four strokes off the pace and two strokes in front of fellow U.S. touring pro Jerry Heard, the defending champion.

Wilson Influence Felt With Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—The Tom Wilson influence is being felt in Texas A&M spring football drills.

Wilson, the new offensive coordinator from Texas Tech, was an All-Southwest Conference quarterback for the Red Raiders in the 1960s. He was hired by A&M Coach Emory Bellard to work with the A&M offense—particularly the quarterbacks.

NMSU Golfer Cops Lead In College Tournament

HOUSTON (AP)—Cricket over six other golfers, who shot Musch of New Mexico State two under par 70. That group straddled in two long putts, including one from 60-feet to fire zona State. Mark Triggs, Southern Methodist, Van Gillen, Houston, Ardy Bean, Florida, and take the first round individual lead in the 21st annual All-America Intercollegiate Association Intercollegiate All-vitational Golf tournament.

Musch ran in three birdies on the front nine and carded two more on Nos 15 and 16 before getting his only bogie of the day at No. 17. Musch's 60-foot birdie putt came on No. 4, his first of the round. He had a 25-foot putt for a birdie on No. 15.

Host University of Houston, which has won all but four of the annual AAI tournaments, took the first day team lead by a two stroke margin over defending champion Florida, 289-291.

North Texas State was another shot back at 292 followed by Florida State, at 293 and Oregon, Alabama and Arizona State, all at 295.

Bear Quarterback Suffers Injury

WACO (AP)—Quarterback Mark Jackson of Carlsbad, N.M. received an ankle injury and reserve tailback Johnny Phillip of Richmond suffered a possible broken bone in his left leg Wednesday as the Baylor Bears wound down spring training with a brief scrimmage.

Head Coach Grant Teaff said Phillip would definitely miss Saturday night's Green and White game and that Jackson was "doubtful" at this time.

Otherwise Teaff had praise for his offensive unit, and quarterbacks Jackson and Charlie Parker of Wylie.

"They are reading the defenses better than they have all spring and making the offense look good," Teaff said.

Lee JV Downs Big Spring, 11-6

Don Salinas cracked out two singles and a triple to pace the Midland Lee JV to an 11-6 win over Big Spring Wednesday as Dick Schmidt whiffed nine and walked only one in notching the pitching victory.

A four-run first and six-run fourth did the trick for Lee as Brent Huckabay and Van Kimbrow each collected two hits.

Lee's JV hosts Midland's JV at 4 p.m. today.

Pacers Sweep San Antonio In ABA Playoff

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Winning playoff games should be old hat to the three-time American Basketball Association champion Indiana Pacers, but Wednesday night's 115-100 victory over the San Antonio Spurs was something to savor.

This was to be a rebuilding year for Indiana after a housecleaning of aging veterans. And, after finishing a distant third in the ABA West, the experts didn't give the young Pacers much of a chance against the menacing second-place Spurs.

But Indiana, with two rookies starting, beat the Spurs the first two games in San Antonio, grabbed a 3-0 series lead and finally finished off the visitors in six games.

Now Indiana is faced with the prospect of an even tougher series against Denver, the team with the best record in professional basketball this season. They'll begin Sunday at Denver, where the Nuggets are 40-2 this season.

The other semifinal series between Kentucky and St. Louis gets under way Monday night in Louisville.

The main reason the Pacers will be able to make the trip to Denver are a pair of players with styles as different as night and day—bullish George McGinnis and glass-smooth Billy Knight.

McGinnis, a 6-foot-8 veteran forward and an ABA superstar, did what was expected of him in the crucial game. He scored 32 points, pulled down 23 rebounds and handed out a career record 14 assists.

Knight, a 6-7 rookie forward, showed his constant cool with 33 points and 11 rebounds. And 14 of those points came in the second period when the Pacers turned a one-point deficit into a 14-point lead that never shrank below 10 the rest of the way.

As the champagne corks and beer tabs popped and the shouts of cheer echoed in their spacious Market Square Arena dressing room, the Pacers enjoyed their victory as though they themselves hadn't been confident it would happen.

"They double-teamed and even triple-teamed George (McGinnis)," the slim, good looking Knight said with a happy smile. "So, when they do that, George looks for me."

"He gets the assists, anyway," Knight said with a laugh.

Asked about playing Denver with the Nuggets holding the homecourt advantage, Knight was about to answer when reserve Charlie Edge leaned in with a smile and said, "San Antonio had the home advantage, too."

Knight then added, "We match up real well against Denver. We'll do our best and I think it could be good enough."

Big Three Will Report To Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP) — Coach John McVay welcomed with one word, "beautiful," the news Wednesday that Larry Csonka, Jim Kick and Paul Warfield definitely would play with the Memphis Southern next season.

"The people in Memphis have long wanted the super names and now they have them," he said.

McVay said the appearance of Csonka, Kick and Warfield will mean "at least another 10,000" persons at each game.

Southern owner John Bassett Jr. had said earlier that he would assign the former Miami Dolphins trio to another franchise if it would mean saving the World Football League. But Chris Hemminger, WFL president, announced Wednesday that the three definitely would play in Memphis.

Bassett had been negotiating with the Chicago franchise for Csonka and Warfield, but said at WFL meetings in New York Wednesday that he "never wanted to give them up, we didn't intend to—and at the meeting today we simply refused to." Chicago now is seeking to build its franchise around quarterback Joe Namath.

Bassett acquired the three Dolphins in a $3.5 million package deal last year.

McVay said he will have no problems working the trio into the Southern lineup.

"We need five backs anyway," said McVay, referring to Csonka, Kick and returning veterans J. J. Jennings, Willie Spencer and John Harvey.

"Now we have five great running backs and adding Warfield to our receiving corps is great, just great," he said.

Last year the backfield was riddled by injuries as the Southern finished with the WFL's best record, 17-3, but lost in the playoffs.

Utility Power Shortages Feared By 1978

WASHINGTON (AP) — The utility industry, backing warnings from federal officials, says recent cancellations of power-plant construction plans may impose power shortages on the nation as early as 1978.

In a special report late Wednesday, the National Electric Reliability Council said such a situation could lead to "some form of rationing or planned power supply curtailment" with severe impacts on the economy and lifestyles. This is the same conclusion reached by Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb.

The council's report contained new estimates appearing to promise adequate electric power for the next decade — but only if the U.S. economy and its energy demand remain depressed.

Economic recovery, without a reversal of the trend to cut back power plant construction, would bring the threat of brownouts and blackouts everywhere except in the western states, the report indicated.

The entire southern tier of states and the East Coast could see their safety margin of reserve generating capacity virtually disappear, just about guaranteeing serious problems, the report showed.

In north central states, reserve capacity might be marginally adequate but too low for comfort, it said.

In most regions, power shortages could be avoided if power-plant construction improves or if the economy does not improve, the report showed.

But one region — Illinois, eastern Wisconsin and the northeastern half of Missouri — seemed headed for a tight power supply no matter what, indicating that at best the area

Light Turnout Expected In Voting On Amendments

Midland voters may be going to the polls in light numbers Tuesday to vote on two proposed constitutional amendments. Absentee voting ends at 5 p.m. Friday.

One would hike Texas legislators' annual pay from $4,800 to $7,200 and the other would raise from 6 to 10 percent the ceiling on state and local governments' contributions to employ retirement plans.

The percentage is that of the wage earners' pay.

In the general election of 1973, voters statewide rejected a proposed constitutional amendment to hike legislators' salaries to $15,000.

Through Wednesday, 22 had voted absentee in the county clerk's office at the Midland County Courthouse. Absentee voting began April 1.

In Midland County, 23,838 are registered to vote in the election, Janeice Buita, voter registration deputy in the county tax assessor-collector's office, said Wednesday.

She predicted a voter turnout similar to the 2,292 who voted in the April 1 city election in which seven amendments to the City Charter were approved and three candidates were elected to the council.

Five polling places will be set up from 7 a.m.-7 p.m. Tuesday.

The voting sites, according to the voting precinct marked on voter registration certificates, are:

- Voting precincts 9, 11, 13, 18, 21, 22: The Midland Drive Fire Station.
- Voting precincts 2, 16, 25, 28: Midland County Exhibit Building off Highway 80 East.
- Voting precincts 10, 12, 14, 23: James Bowie Elementary School, 805 W. Elk St.
- Voting precincts 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 17, 24: Central Fire Station on East Texas Street.
- Voting precincts 4, 8, 15, 19, 20, 26, 27: Lee High School, 3500 Neely St.

Phone Commission Bill May Be Dead

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would create a state telephone commission probably has been killed by a 7-5 vote in the House Transportation Committee late Wednesday night.

The vote was on a motion by Rep. R. L. Vale, D-San Antonio, to postpone until April 30 further consideration of the bill.

"I think this effectively killed the bill," said Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, committee chairman.

The legislature must adjourn no later than June 2, and this leaves too little time to get the bill through the House and Senate, Nugent said.

He expressed surprise that a San Antonio lawmaker would make a motion that, in effect, killed chances for a telephone commission in light of "all the trouble they've had down there."

Nugent himself is the sponsor of a bill that would regulate telephone companies through county commissioners' courts, but the only bill approved by a subcommittee is one by Rep. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, which would do it through a state commission. This was the bill that Nugent said Vale's motion killed.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, April 17, the 107th day of 1975. There are 258 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1521, the Diet at Worms, Germany, excommunicated Martin Luther from the Roman Catholic Church after the former monk refused to admit to charges of heresy.

The legislature must adjourn no later than June 2, and this leaves too little time to get the bill through the House and Senate, Nugent said.

In 1790, Benjamin Franklin died in Philadelphia at the age of 84.

In 1861, Virginia seceded from the Union.

In 1941, in World War II, Yugoslavia surrendered to Germany, but partisan forces continued to wage guerrilla warfare.

In 1943, U.S. bombers hit Palermo, Sicily.

In 1945, the United States announced that Japan had lost more than 200 planes in a single day of suicide attacks in the Battle of Okinawa.

In 1968, a world's fair opened at Brussels, Belgium.

Ten years ago: The U.S. was urging Western allies to join in a common front in insisting upon international controls over all foreign sales of atomic reactors and fuels.

Five years ago: The U.S. Apollo 13 space capsule and its three astronauts made a safe on-target landing in the Pacific after a moon mission aborted because of mechanical difficulties.

One year ago: William Simon was appointed U.S. Treasury Secretary, succeeding George Shultz.

Today's birthdays: Writer Thornton Wilder is 78. Newscaster Harry Reasoner is 52.

Thought for today: I said in my haste, all men are liars — the Psalms.

Optimist Club Hears Secretary

Willie Mae Armstrong, "secretary of the year" for the Permian Chapter of the National Secretaries Association, was guest speaker at the noon Wednesday meeting of Westside Optimist Club at the Elks Lodge.

Mrs. Armstrong, a certified professional secretary (CPS), spoke on a shortage of professional secretaries.

A former president currently serving as division chairman for the Texas-Louisiana Service Committee, she also instructs the CPS study course offered through Midland College.

Erwin Sounds Fiscal Warning

DALLAS (AP) — Former Sen. Sam J. Erwin Jr., D-N.C., said Wednesday night that this country "will fall into an abyss and cease to exist as a free society" unless it solves its economic problems by halting deficit spending, balancing the budget and reducing the national debt.

Observing that government fiscal folly dates back 46 years, he declared, "It's high time to face the realities of economics."

Erwin addressed the Temple Shalom Arts Forum.

CRAFTSMEN BOOSTERS — Midland High School industrial arts instructor Ralph Schultz, left, shows a student-made bow to Leonard Robey of the Evening Lions Club which is purchasing the trophies for the April 26 West Texas Student Craftsman's Fair slated to be held at MHS. Schultz received a check for the trophies at the club's Tuesday meeting.

Rain, Snow Chill Northern Rockies

By The Associated Press

Showers and thunderstorms roamed the northern Plains and the lower Ohio Valley today while snow and rain chilled the northern Rockies.

Light rain that had sprinkled California through Wednesday ended in most of the state during the night, but cool and damp weather remained.

Stockmen's advisories were in effect in Montana east of the Continental Divide and over most of North Dakota due to cold rain and near-freezing temperatures and snow in the mountains. Heavy snow piled into some mountain areas of Utah and Montana overnight.

Fair skies dominated most of the country from the southern Rockies through the Southeast and scattered sections north to the Great Lakes.

Temperatures hit a more seasonal stride Wednesday in the Plains. The 70s reached into South Dakota and 80s warmed Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. Overnight lows remained in the 50s and occasional 60s through the region.

Readings before dawn ranged from 27 at Ely, Nev., to 75 at Brownsville, Tex., and Key West, Fla.

Imperial Economy Recipe

1 1/2 cups yellow cornmeal
1/2 cup sifted all-purpose enriched flour
1 tablespoon Imperial Granulated Sugar
1/4 cup shortening or margarine, melted powder

1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 egg, beaten
1 1/2 cups buttermilk

Combine cornmeal, flour, Imperial Granulated Sugar, baking powder, salt and soda and mix thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients together in best way. Beat egg and blend in buttermilk. Quickly stir dry ingredients and shortening into milk and egg mixture, leaving a few lumps. Pour into a greased 8" square pan. (Batter will be rather thin.) Bake at 425°F. 15 to 20 minutes or until nicely browned. Cut into squares. Serves 6 to 8.

MAIN DISH IDEAS: Bake in ring mold. Fill center with turkey a la king or a hearty, thick beef stew.

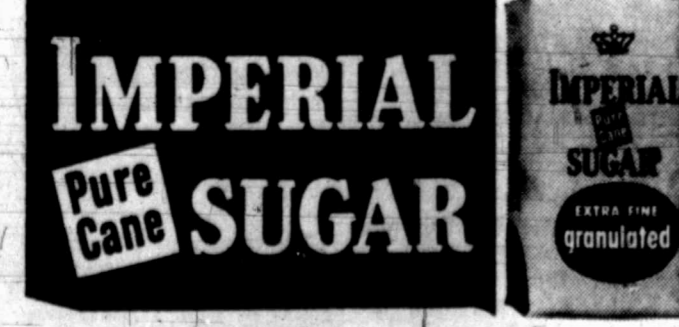

Precook sausage links in 8" square pan; drain off excess fat. Pour corn bread batter over sausages and bake as above. Green peas in cream sauce go well with this. Split squares and top with ham in cream sauce. Or creamed hard-cooked eggs.

NOTE: The small amount of sugar in this corn bread improves the taste and helps bread brown to a golden brown color.

This is one of a series of twelve new Imperial Sugar Economy Recipes appearing weekly in this newspaper. If you would like a handy folder with all twelve recipes, send your name, address, zip code and a red pure cane block from an Imperial bag or carton to:

Secret Senate Reports Says Saigon May Fall By May 1

(C) 1975, The Washington Post
 WASHINGTON — Saigon may be strangled by the North Vietnamese as early as May 1 in the climax of what is now an "irretrievable" military situation and the South Vietnamese, according to a secret Senate report obtained Wednesday. Civilian and military intelligence officials agree that only decisive military action by the United States could reverse the situation, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff report adds without recommending any such action. The emphasis instead, the report suggests, should be on evacuating Americans from Saigon while there is still time. But, complains the report, U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin in Saigon is "actively resisting such a 'dangerously overdue' evacuation to the point that the Central Intelligence Agency officials are making withdrawal plans of their own. "The anxiety of the American community," the report adds, "is compounded by the absence of a cohesive, well-understood evacuation procedure and by April 2 to 13 and reported these findings to the Senate foreign Relations Committee in a report labeled "secret." — "Current intelligence indicates that the North Vietnamese wish to consolidate their hold over the area around Saigon by May 1." — "Intelligence analysts cannot decide whether the North Vietnamese will attack the city directly, or seek to cut its land and sea routes, thereby strangling the city." — "Intelligence services report the presence of a number of Communist sapper units" in Saigon. Large-scale panic could easily be induced by bombs or rockets." — "Virtually all Vietnamese military and civilian leaders agree that (South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van) Thieu must go."

Panel Approves Med School Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill creating new medical schools in Fort Worth and the Rio Grande Valley has been approved, 8-0, by the House Higher Education Committee.

"Thank God, yes," said Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, when his name was called on the roll call vote Wednesday night.

Willis has worked for years to win legislative endorsement of a Texas Woman's University medical school in Fort Worth.

The bill, which calls for $22 million for the first two years, now goes to the floor of the House.

A subcommittee had reported the bill back to the full committee without recommendation or approval or disapproval. The College Coordinating Board last year voted 8-7 against a medical school for TWU.

Rep. Billy Hall, D-Laredo, offered an amendment that would make it one medical school with two components, one in Fort Worth and one in the Rio Grande Valley.

The amendment also requires that a minimum of 25 per cent of the students enrolled in the schools must pledge to practice medicine in rural areas or underserved urban ghettos for at least five years.

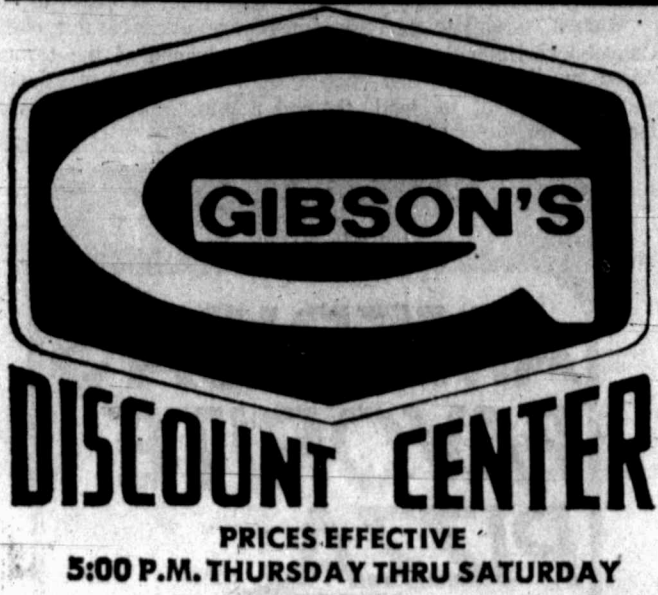

The committee sent to subcommittee a bill that would increase Texas A&M's tuition revenue bonding authority from $7.5 million to $17.5 million for its marine science school in Galveston, and granting A&M 7.5 million tuition revenue bonding authority for a medical facility to be shared with Baylor's medical school in the Texas Medical Center in Houston.

The House State Affairs Committee sent to subcommittee a bill calling for creation of a State Commission on Efficiency and Economy in Government. Rep. Frank Gaston, R-Dallas, sponsor of the bill, said, "This bill would give the opportunity to businessmen with expertise in various areas to come into government and do efficiency studies."

T. K. Webb, of Union Carbide Corp. in New York, told the committee California saved $370 million in the first year as a result of efficiencies recommended by a similar commission. He estimated that Texas would save at least $250 million the first year.

Sills Performance To Be Broadcast

NEW YORK—Noted American soprano Beverly Sills will be heard in the annual spring visit of the Metropolitan Opera Radio Network's current broadcast season. The performance, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. CDT, will be heard in the Permian Basin over Station KCRS in Midland, Texas.

Miss Sills will be heard in the role of Pamira in "The Siege of Corinth," a role which she will be singing in Dallas May 15 during the Met's 32nd annual spring visit. Others to be heard in Saturday's epochal broadcast are mezzo-soprano Shirley Verrett as Neocle, tenor Harry Theyard as Cleomene, bass Justino Diaz as Maometto and bass Richard T. Gill as Jero. The renowned young American conductor Thomas Schippers will be on the podium for the performance.

During the first intermission's "Opera News on the Air" two members of the Met's artistic staff, conductor Richard Wittach and chorus master David Stivender, will join in offering a musical and dramatic analysis of "The Siege of Corinth."

As a special feature of this concluding broadcast of the season, Metropolitan Opera general manager Schuyler G. Chapin will present his traditional end-of-season farewell message to the radio audience. Chapin is expected to announce the operas which are to be broadcast next year during the 36th season of the Texaco-Metropolitan Opera Radio Network.

Youth Centers Benefit Tickets Readily Available

Tickets also will be for sale at the Lee High School auditorium doors beginning at 7 p.m. Monday.

Skiles and Henderson, one of the nation's most popular comedy teams, has appeared on the Dean Martin, Johnny Carson and David Frost television shows and has toured with the Carpenters, Rowan and Martin, Henry Mancini and other topflight entertainers.

Joining them in the special benefit event here will be the Levee Singers of Dallas. The ensemble has appeared on television and has performed at Las Vegas as well as playing engagements with Mancini. Their entertainment format includes singalongs, ballads, light rock numbers, instrumental numbers and special comedy routines.

Special Art Exhibit Concluding Friday

A special art exhibit on current view at Commercial Bank and Trust Co. will continue through Friday.

Barbershop Show Benefit Event

When the Midland-based Per-Quartet Singing in America Inc. presents its "Parade of Harmony" in Theatre Centre here Saturday night it will be a continuation of a musical tradition from Austin. Also to be in the spotlight is the Sweet Adelines, chapter's 12th annual event to a women's choral organization raise funds to aid the handicapped on both local and national levels.

The SPEBSQSA is a charitable, non-profit organization made up of more than 35,000 men in more than 700 chapters throughout the U.S. as well as in Canada. For the past 38 years the organization has strived to "Keep America Singing" through barbershop harmony.

But the organization has another motto, as well: It is "We Sing That They Shall Speak" and it points up the fact that the national organization and its many chapters actively support the Institute of Logopedics in Kansas, an organization which provides medical and therapeutic aid to persons with speech defects.

Proceeds from the Permian chapter's upcoming Parade of Harmony not only will benefit the Institute of Logopedics but, on the local level, the Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center here.

The concert will offer old songs and new ones, novelty numbers and standard favorites — all served up barbershop style and featuring that "good close harmony."

Indian Rock Art To Be Discussed At Sunday Meeting

Indian rock art of West Texas will be discussed in an illustrated program Sunday afternoon for members of the Friends of the Library, volunteer service organization of the Midland County Public Library.

The Friends' annual meeting is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. in the American Legion Hall, 206 S. Colorado St. It will be open to the public.

A color slide show on pictographs and petroglyphs (paintings and carvings on rocks) found in West Texas will be presented by Jim Barkes of Midland, along with a discussion of Indian rock art.

Barkes, a native of Ohio, holds a degree in geology from Kent State University and has done graduate work at Ohio State University. A Midland resident for the last 16 years, he has worked as a geologist in Wyoming, California, New Mexico and Louisiana, and in South America.

Barkes is a member and director of the South Plains Archeological Society and also holds membership in Midland Archeological Society. He has visited many sites of Indian rock art in this region to photograph the paintings and carvings before they are destroyed or lost.

Election of new officers to serve the Friends organization during the coming year will be another highlight of Sunday's meeting, according to current president Glen M. Ford.

REHEARSING ROLE—Midland dancer Julie Hall, a member of the senior company of Permian Civic Ballet is shown rehearsing her swan role for Permian Ballet's "Spring Gala" scheduled April 26 in the Lee High School auditorium. 'Gideon' Tryouts Slated By MCT

Even as Midland Community Theatre readies its next production for a May 2 opening, it is looking ahead to the June production.

Tryouts to fill parts in the June show, "Gideon," will be held at Theatre Centre next week and MCT Wednesday issued a call to all interested persons in the city and surrounding area to attend. "Gideon" is playwright Paddy Chayefsky's Biblical stage work out in advance of the tryouts, based on the life of the man chosen by God to lead the Israelites to victory over their enemies. The play is at once powerful and humorous, a warm, human drama about man and his creator.

"Gideon" has parts for six women, including a beautiful belly dancer, and for 20 men. Newcomers here are given a special invitation to come and read for parts in the play, and all MCT "regulars" also will be welcomed. Copies of the script are available for check-out in advance of the tryouts, scheduled for 3 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday and Wednesday.

Taste In Books Undergoes Change

By ROIKNN EERVASTI IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — High school students have scrapped books that reflect the unrest of the late '60s to read books that offer them heroes and hope, say University of Iowa researchers.

The conclusion is made by a research team which publishes in the English Journal magazine an annual list of the 30 most popular books among young adults.

"There's a trend toward positive values, toward a kind of hope," says researcher Tony Manna. "I can't get rid of a book on Vietnam, for instance. The kids just don't want to hear about it."

Adds a colleague, Jan Yoder: "I've had absolutely no success (getting students to read) ethnic books, books on racial strife."

director Charles D. McCally, Miss Toomey, an accomplished dancer, has served as assistant to Ronald Sequoia of San Antonio in choreographing "The Wizard of Oz." The production has sets designed by Wayne Stacker and costumes by Carolyn Jacobs. Tickets for all performances office, 332-4031.

ODESSA — Members of Midland's muzzle-loading rifle club will join other area units Saturday in presenting a reenactment of the "shot heard around the world."

The program, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord, will begin at 3 p.m. in Odessa's McKinney Park.

Among the mock battle participants will be members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Friend, and "The Boy Reserve Officer Training Corps and Daughters of the American Revolution."

How About Joining?

A membership campaign being conducted in connection with the observance of "Zoo Week" in Midland very well could be highly significant in the Tall City's future.

The membership effort is being staged by the Midland Zoological Society, which long has been a strong supporter of the Midland Zoo, which now is located at Cole Park.

But the Cole Park location and the facilities provided there are not exactly made-to-order for the zoo, and the Zoological Society has adopted as its major project the possible relocating and improving of the popular unit.

This is a major undertaking, of course, and the society is due commendation for its interest and effort in this regard.

Roy Kimsey, president of the society, is as right as can be in his declaration that "the backbone of any zoo is the zoological society" and that "a zoo can only be as successful as the support it gets."

This is the prime reason back of the campaign for new members. The society, as it now exists with its limited membership, cannot provide the support of the encouragement needed to bring the zoo up to the Tall City standards to which it is entitled.

But it can, with a representative number of members, be most influential in attaining the goal to which it is committed.

A broad range of memberships — $2.50 to $10,000 and above — has been established to fit most any pocketbook.

Hopefully, Midland residents will open their pocketbooks in support of the Midland Zoological Society, which, in turn, will use the funds received in support of the Midland Zoo.

The primary purpose of the membership effort is to provide funds for a feasibility study at a cost of $17,500.

The firm making the study would survey all avenues relating to zoo operation, facilities, relocation, and community potential for development and support of a new zoo. The firm then would recommend the appropriate type of zoo, site, methods of ownership and operation, methods of financing, and development procedures.

NICK THIMMESCH—

Strip-Mine Rumble Heard In White House

WASHINGTON—The huge black trucks rumbled round and round the White House, their air horns blaring and freshly painted signs proclaiming protest of pending and long-considered strip-mine legislation.

This mechanized Appalachian cavalry of 600 trucks was manned by miners who claim that, if the tough bill becomes law, thousands of miners and other workers would be laid off, millions of tons of coal production would be lost and the public would pay higher utility bills.

If a well-informed man from Mars dropped on Washington last week, he could have scratched his celestial head and wondered why, in an energy-short republic, miners were urging their government not to overly restrict their mining efforts. Any educated Martian knows that the United States has the greatest recoverable coal reserves in the world and that they are sorely needed to deal with the energy problem.

Well, the United States is a boil of conflicting interests, and environmentalism is one of the strongest. For decades, conservationists have tried to stop the rape of the land by strip miners. Now, even with the coal industry and the coal states trying to make good the enormous damage through reclamation efforts, Congress smells reclamation and is determined to work its will.

The Senate and House bills regulating strip mining, or surface mining as it should be called, are now in conference where they will be readied for President Ford's signature. The miners who protested here this week mostly run small-scale operations in rugged terrain. They fear the bill will make their work economically unfeasible, so they stormed in, hoping to influence Mr. Ford to repeat his earlier veto of this bill.

Half of U.S. coal production comes from surface mining, about one-third of it by the kind of miners who rumbled their trucks here. Some 80 of all surface-mined coal is used by power companies. So, while the protestors don't represent the entire coal kingdom, they do represent an important field.

Rep. Morris K. Udall (D-Ariz.), author of the strip-mining bill, tried to reassure the protestors that the provisions they think will put them out of business aren't that severe. Udall also charged that the protest campaign was a "purposeful effort by a misguided segment of the industry to mislead and foster fear among workers and families."

Udall claims the miners can regrade the land to "approximate original contour," and that studies show conventional equipment can be used, and profitability maintained. Udall acknowledges his bill would cause a modest dip in coal output but insists that production would recover and increased operating costs wouldn't be significant.

The National Coal Assn. naturally sees a different picture. "They're trying to force coal underground," says Carl E. Bagge, NCA president. "The bill is full of 'thou shalt nots' and is poorly drafted."

"Our basic objection is that anywhere from 48 to 141 million tons per year will be lost, and this means importing an additional 1.3 million barrels of oil a day—adding $5.4 billion to the balance of payments deficit."

"There aren't going to be any new deep mines, let's face it. The increased production must come from surface mines. This legislation sends us backwards. There wasn't one mining engineer who had input on the bill. It was written by environmentalists."

The legislation's most vehement critic, Rep. Sam Steiger (R-Ariz.), says the bill actually works toward "prohibiting" surface mining instead of toward mining-land reclamation. "The alleged benefits," Steiger says, "are cosmetic and mythical. We need a bill to make sure there is no strip mining without reclamation, but this is Alice-in-Wonderland. It's even an anti-Semitic because it makes us depend more on the Arabs for energy."

Steiger claims the states are now able to regulate mining better than the Federal government. There are few in

DEFENSE IN DEPTH—

U.S. Credibility Shaken By Deb

By L. EDGAR PRINA, Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Those pundits and politicians who have been attacking U.S. policy in Southeast Asia over the years are rushing to assure the American people that the imminent Communist takeover there will have no adverse effect on our position in other parts of the world.

At the same time, they shout, as in a well-orchestrated chorus, "There must be no recriminations." Clearly, they can't make a case that the blame for the debacle should be placed on the last four presidents and those who supported their common policy in Indochina. They know who would be the target of the recrimination they fear.

The contentions of these implacable Vietnam War critics, many of whom are members of Congress, were to be expected. They had long predicted the collapse of the anti-Communist forces and, to some observers, it was a case of the wish being father of the thought.

Nor can there be any gainsaying that they played a major role in the outcome of the bloody drama now drawing to a close in Indochina by their opposition to continued arms support to our allies in the field.

(This is not to overlook North Vietnamese aggression and President Nguyen Van Thieu's ill-fated decision to give up part of his country in an effort to buy time to deploy his forces in stronger defensive positions.)

These Americans, like the isolationists of 1933-41, have their heads in the sand when they insist that the credibility of American commitments has not been eroded by a Congress which tied the hands of Presidents Nixon and Ford in the face of massive violations of the Paris peace agreement by Hanoi.

There is surely some reason to believe that if Nixon and Mr. Ford had had the power to order the bombing of North Vietnam and the mining of its ports, Hanoi would have had second thoughts on renewing its aggression.

Even during the period of direct American involvement, a number of Asian and European leaders who publicly criticized or refrained from open support of the U.S. role in Vietnam were privately assuring Washington that America was doing what had to be done. The list is impressive: Indonesia, Japan, Singapore, Malaysia, West Germany, Britain and, yes, India, to name some of them.

While it is still too early to assess the extent of the damage to U.S. interests and reputation, common sense should make clear to even those who do not subscribe to the "domino theory" that many of our friends and allies now have increased misgivings about this country's will and word.

Israel, in particular, must be seriously concerned with the drift of events.

An Israeli diplomat here said the Arabs recently asked Secretary of State Henry Kissinger why they should make concessions now when the United States was obviously in a weakened position.

The Israelis know, too, that a victory for Communists anywhere is a victory for the Soviet Union, a country which treats its Jewish citizens shabbily and wishes no good for Israel.

For their part, the Israelis might also ask a question. Why should they, at the urging of the United States, give up territory they would desperately need if they, too, had to go it alone?

A new danger has been introduced into the Middle East scenario in the wake of events in Indochina. A reduced feeling that they can rely on American support could increase the possibility of a preemptive strike by the Israelis against the Arabs if peace efforts are stymied much longer. Such an event could put the United States and Russia on a collision course and even lead to nuclear war.

There is one hope, however, and ironically it could be fulfilled as the result of the very recriminations the critics fear. This would be a determination on the part of those members of Congress who chose to wash their hands of South Vietnam and Cambodia to prove to the American people they are NOT isolationists seeking to withdraw this country from its responsibilities as the leader of the free world.

There would be no better way for them to start than to lay away their meat axes when the new defense budget comes to a vote.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK WHITSON with Les Anderson

WASHINGTON — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, twice a widow, won't inherit the millions that the press has been writing about. But she has been quietly laying aside a little cash for the future by selling her wardrobe and auctioning off other possessions as she tires of them.

Associates of the late Aristotle Onassis say he was superstitious about wills. At this writing they have found none. His Byzantine, billion-dollar empire has been left in a corporate tangle that Greek and American lawyers are trying to straighten out.

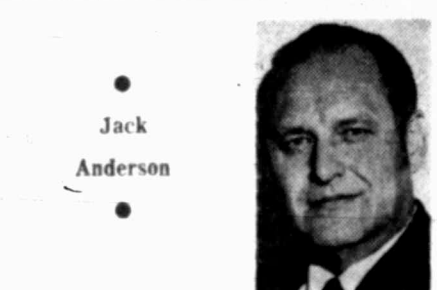

But almost certainly the associates say, Jackie will wind up with little more than the $3 million she received under a written, premarital agreement. Sources close to the shipping tycoon's financial affairs say the money was delivered to her in tax-free bonds after the marriage.

The fabulous wealth which has been attributed to Jackie always has eluded her, say close friends. Her swashbuckling father, "Black Jack" Bouvier, left her no inheritance worth mentioning.

After President Kennedy was gunned down in Dallas, the young widow collected about $200,000 a year for five years from a trust fund, a family member told us. On Oct. 20, 1968, the day she was married to Onassis, the trust fund reverted to her two children and her own payments stopped.

The following week, she asked the Treasury Department also to discontinue the $10,000 annual pension she had been collecting as the widow of a former President. "I hope you will consider this as a personal request, made for personal reasons," she wrote. Under the law, she would have lost the pension anyway after her marriage.

The loss of all personal income, ac-ording to friends, was one reason she pressed Onassis for a prenuptial contract. She simply had to have some money of her own, she reportedly pleaded. Ari also gave her a $20,000 monthly allowance, picked up most of her bills and showered her with gifts.

"Jackie had a charming little rule," confided one friend, "that Ari had to bring back a present from every part of the world he visited. Once, all he brought her was a simple apron from Africa. She was livid."

He also was generous to her children, giving Caroline a sailboat and John a jukebox among other presents. Once, John's pet rabbit was flown across the Atlantic to him in the care of an Olympic Airways pilot, who kept the bunny in the cockpit with him.

Intimates claim Onassis also flew hotdogs for the children all the way from New York City to his Greek island. Since he had a weakness for New York redhots himself, say our sources, he also indulged in this extravagance.

Speaking through aide Nancy Tuckerman, Jackie refused to discuss her financial affairs but, curiously, denied the hot dog story.

As we have reported earlier, Ari became irritated over his wife's heavy spending and cracked down on her budget. "He put her on a short leash," explained a friend.

Associates recall hearing Onassis gripe about a $9,000 bill for gowns from

Valentino's of Rome. "What does she do with all the clothes," he exploded. "I never see her in anything but blue jeans."

We have found out. After wearing her costly garments once or twice, sometimes not at all, Jackie would resell them and squirrel away the cash. Her favorite resell house, Encore of New York City, did a steady business in Jackie's slightly used and sometimes new clothing.

She peddled everything from coats, suits and gowns to pocketbooks, blouses and slacks. The labels, according to our sources, were the best: Yves St. Laurent, Valentino's of Rome, Halston.

Generally, she would demand a fixed price; other times she would accept whatever the market would bear. Once, it took Encore six months to sell a white coat, with a Valentino's label, at the price Jackie demanded.

Apparently, nothing was too trivial for her to auction off. She sold everything from worn leather picture frames to exquisite furniture, according to witnesses, at such fashionable auction houses as New York City's William Doyle Galleries and Sotheby Parke Bernet's 84th Street branch.

Only last January, William Doyle Galleries sold a couple dozen items belonging to Jackie, including her son John's old nursery furniture. An old chair with a Choate School emblem, worth no more than $25, went for $300 when the auctioneer mentioned that it had once belonged to President Kennedy.

Jackie had been selling her used clothes, it turns out, every since she opened her first charge account as Mrs. John F. Kennedy. Mary Gallagher, who used to keep their books, reports that Jackie's clothing was "resold under my name and home address. As the various items were sold, Encore's check would come to me and I would write out a check for the same amount to be deposited in Jackie's account."

It Happened Here—

Thirty-Five Years Ago (Apr. 17, 1940): Forty-nine Methodist churches were included in the Sweetwater district which was scheduled to hold its annual conference in the First Methodist Church of Midland.

Persons planning to participate in the benefit bridge to be held in Hotel Scharbauer under the sponsorship of the Children's Service League, were urged to make reservations promptly with Mrs. W. T. Schneider, Mrs. Cooper Hyde or Mrs. J. M. Hills.

The Texas Highway Department announced it would sponsor a West Texas wildflower exhibit at Pecos.

IRS Gave 8,210 Tax Returns To Agencies In 1974

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says it gave the complete or partial tax returns of 8,210 citizens or corporations to other federal agencies in 1974.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander says the returns were disclosed under regulations allowing federal department heads to obtain the information by certifying it is required for investigative purposes.

Meade Whitaker, the agency's general counsel, said the returns were provided as a matter of routine in most cases. He said the requesting department heads usually were not required to document their reasons in any substantial form.

Whitaker and Alexander commented on the practice at a budget hearing Wednesday after Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., asked if the two official were satisfied the confidentiality of tax returns was being safeguarded.

Alexander said such safeguards are made difficult by regulations that provide other agencies with access to the returns.

He said the problem arises from a section of the tax code that declares returns to be public record except for specified instances.

Alexander said the "thrust of the statute needs to be turned around." He said federal policy should be that the returns are confidential except for clearly defined cases in which they might be examined outside the IRS.

After the hearing, the IRS released the number of returns it had given other federal agencies last year and some of the reasons cited by the agencies requesting the information.

An IRS spokesman said 4,448 returns were given U.S. attorneys who were conducting a variety of investigations that did not involve tax litigation.

Another 3,228 went to the Justice Department for reasons that included Watergate, anti-trust, and a wide range of criminal investigations.

The Commerce Department received five returns for "integrity investigations" of current or prospective employees.
