Relax Mentally To Ease Tension

I hailed the taxi at 84th and Fifth Avenue and we started downtown. What a trip! The driver was, by all odds, the most uptight taxi man I had encountered even in super-tense New York City.

In the teeming and slow moving Fifth Avenue traffic, he fumed and fretted. It seemed that all other drivers exasperated him. He vociferously expressed his opinion of them, using quite a lot of theological terms but certainly not putting them together in a theological manner. This man gave the impression that he, alone, knew how to drive. Maybe he was a good driver but he was obviously not expert in mental control.

As he rushed along I noticed a card about 5 x 7, appended by scotch tape to his instrument panel, where it hung in full view. On it in large letters, were printed these words, "If you can keep your head in the midst of all this confusion — you don't understand the situation."

I asked him what the sign meant, and he replied that he didn't know, but that it seemed to say something to him.

Well, it could say something to us also, for perhaps one of the things wrong with us today is that we are not keeping our heads too well in all this confusion. Naturally if we are tense and nervous in thought and reaction, it follows that we are not going to "understand the situation" all that well.

The human cannot think effectively when it is hot. Only the cool mind can operate rationally and factually. It was never intended that anyone should think with the emotions. The mind is the instrument of thought, and to function at its best, it must be free from tension and uptightness.

It is pathetic how tense many people are. I went into the big bus terminal in New York, to take a bus to New Jersey. In this bus terminal is an escalator which, they say, is the fastest in the country. Starting to get on, I was rather rudely brushed aside by a businessman. How did I know he was that? Well, he had a briefcase under his arm, and a worried look on his face. And believe it or not, I watched that man actually run up the fastest escalator in the United States!

On the street in New York I met a friend. When I asked the usual question, "How are you?", he went into a long and detailed dissertation on how bad he felt. "I'm so tense, I can hardly take it," he complained. "This man is getting me down," he fumed. Waving his arms in the general direction of the whole city he declared, "The very air of this town is full of tension."

"No, Bill," I said, "I must disagree with you. If you were to take a sampling of this air into a laboratory for analysis, you would of course find a lot of dirt in it but they would not find a trace of tension. You see, tension is in the minds of people who breathe the air."

And that is true too — tension is in the thoughts. Keep relaxed mentally, and you can handle the confusion around you.

Inmate Revolt Fizzles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inmates seized control of the District of Columbia jail's maximum security cellblock, held 11 employees hostage for 16 1/2 hours Saturday, then released them after several hours of negotiations.

D.C. Corrections Commissioner Delbert Jackson said the released hostages, who were being examined at the prison infirmary, appeared to be in "excellent condition."

One of the inmates involved in the takeover, Percy Floyd, said afterward that authorities had agreed to set up a committee to monitor procedures at the jail.

The prisoners' aims had included more frequent family visits, increased medical attention, more time per day outside their individual cells and halting of inmate transfers to prisons operated by the federal government.

Jackson said the committee "will take a look at some of the things the residents were concerned about" and "will come in periodically to see that there's no abuse."

He did not elaborate on how authorities would respond to the inmates' specific grievances.

The prisoners also sought in- (See INMATES Page 8A)

GOING, GOING, GONE — Huge crowds were on hand throughout the day Saturday as the auctioneers sold item after item that once were part of the furnishings of the Midland County Courthouse before the remodeling and expansion program which was completed last year. County Commissioner Win Brown said proceeds from the auction will pay for the '76 pavilion to be built on the southeast corner of the court house square. The auction raised approximately $29,500 before auction expenses.

Cambodian Leaders Said Dead

By The Associated Press / Communist-led forces consolidated assault positions around Saigon and continued their sweep down the central coast, the Saigon military command reported today.

Americans were lining up to leave the frightened South Vietnamese capital and three U.S. aircraft carriers put to sea in the Western Pacific.

City Under Attack

Saigon command spokesmen said North Vietnamese tanks and infantrymen were attacking government defenders at Ham Tan City, 75 miles east of Saigon and the capital of Binh Tuy province. Battle details were not available, but it was believed the North Vietnamese force was the same that overran Phan Thiet, another provincial capital 30 miles to the north, two days ago.

Meanwhile, Cambodian refugees said insurgent forces executed 43 former government soldiers after taking control of a provincial town, and Khmer Rouge radio claimed most of the men who led the fallen Phnom Penh government in its last agonizing days had been beheaded.

Fighting Sporadic

The Saigon command reported only sporadic fighting at Long An province — 25 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta, but there were signs the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were moving into strategic positions in the province. Long An is the delta gateway to the capital region.

The Saigon command also said more than 20 artillery and rocket rounds hit Bien Hoa air base 15 miles north of Saigon, another possible point from which to move on the capital. Light action was reported continuing at Xuan Loc, 40 miles east of Saigon.

Destination Unknown

The U.S. Defense Department at Washington did not reveal the destination of the three aircraft carriers. It has been considering the use of carriers for evacuations from Vietnam if necessary.

The ships Midway and Okinawa sailed out of Subic Bay in the Philippines and the Hancock from Singapore. Two other carriers, the Enterprise and the Coral Sea, are also in the Western Pacific.

At least 215 Americans, some with Vietnamese wives and children, landed at Clark Air Base in the Philippines Saturday on U.S. military flights from Saigon. Some of the arriving Americans complained that evacuations were being held up because the South Vietnamese government was delaying exit visas for Vietnamese wives and (See VIET Page 8A)

Demonstrators Heckle Ford

By RUDY ABRAMSON The Los Angeles Times

CONCORD, Mass. — In the most spirited encounter in the last 200 years at Concord's old North Bridge, President Ford commemorated "the shot heard 'round the world" Saturday while thousands of demonstrators hooted and jeered from across the river.

The ceremony was the highlight of the first major round of observances of the nation's Bicentennial celebration, and the President delivered a strong patriotic call for the country to maintain its military strength in order to fulfill its leadership role in the world.

With an estimated 30,000 demonstrators, who had camped overnight, sending up an uproar on a hillside on the west bank of the Concord River, Ford was forced to speak louder and louder to drown them out.

Toward the end of the speech, several young people splashed into a marsh and began struggling toward the river bank behind the President, pursued by police in rubber boots.

The disruption by the demonstrators, who waved banners saying "send a message to Wall Street" and chanted obscenities, was a sharp contrast to the rest of the day's celebration.

Platoons of men dressed in a revolutionary era garb marched to the cadence of life and drum bands. Riders from Boston crossed the suburbs toward Lexington and Concord to commemorate the ride of Paul Revere and his compatriots 200 years ago, and townspeople reenacted battles and watch

Death Penalty Debate Due Monday Before High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Debate over the death penalty resumes before the Supreme Court Monday with Justice William O. Douglas, whose vote could be crucial, expected to be absent.

The court will hear arguments for 90 minutes on the appeal of a North Carolina janitor assumed responsibility from which it cannot and will not retreat," he declared. "Free nations need the United States and we need the free nations. Neither can go it alone."

"There are some in the world who believe that force and threat of force are the major instruments of national and international policy. They believe that military supremacy over others is the logical and legitimate end of their revolutionary doctrines. Such aims have left a trail of tyranny, broken promises and falsehood."

Ford also spoke of military preparedness, but emphasized: "It is time to place the hand of healing on the heart of America — not division and blame. When all is said and done, the finest tribute that may ever be paid this nation and people is that we provided a home for freedom."

The President made no acknowledgment of the demonstrators.

The "People's Bicentennial" demonstrations were arranged to bring out a number of protest themes.

discuss Geneva conference plans and immediately met with Gromyko.

Tass quoted Fahmy as saying Egypt believes "that the Geneva conference is the only place where the Middle East problem can be solved" and that a solution could be achieved and implemented only with the active and effective participation of the Soviet Union.

The purpose of the two-day trip apparently was to coordinate Soviet and Egyptian approaches to the conference following failure of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy last month.

Gasoline Tax Issue Before House Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy-tax-writers in Congress, seeking a consensus needed to meet President Ford's May 1 deadline for action, face key votes this week on sharp gasoline tax hikes.

The newest proposal to emerge from a series of compromise efforts among Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee is a 3-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax hike Jan. 1, 1976. This would raise $3 billion for a new trust fund to encourage alternative energy-source development.

American now pay 4 cents a gallon in federal gasoline taxes, but that levy is due to drop to 1 1/2 cents a gallon on Oct. 1, 1977.

In 1973, congressional tax staff experts said, the nation burned an average 6.67 million barrels of gasoline every day. If that mark is reached again in 1976 or any year thereafter, another 20 cents a gallon in federal energy tax package.

Soviets Soften Tone On Israel

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko adopted a softer tone toward Israel on Saturday and proposed careful preparation for the planned Mideast peace conference in Geneva to insure its success.

Speaking at a dinner for his visiting Egyptian counterpart, Ismail Fahmy, Gromyko said the Soviet Union favors settlement of the Middle East problem "to ensure the right of all states of the area, including the state of Israel, to independent existence and development."

While the Soviet Union has always agreed to Israel's continued existence, speeches and official press articles have rarely emphasized it.

Gromyko's remarks, as reported by the official news agency Tass, seemed to indicate the Soviet foreign minister was going out of his way to offer some reassurance to Israel.

Gromyko said the "main danger proceeds from the fact that Arab lands remain occupied by Israel," but good relations between the Soviet Union and Egypt "must arouse no concern by anyone, since underlying those relations are peaceful goals."

The Soviet foreign minister again called for recognition of the demands of the Palestine Liberation Organization, including establishment of its own national state, and said the PLO should participate in the Geneva talks.

"An early resumption of the conference and an earnest preparation for it are quite compatible things," Gromyko said.

Fahmy arrived Saturday to discuss Geneva conference plans and immediately met with Gromyko.

Indian Satellite Orbiting Earth

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India, aided by the Soviet Union, became the first developing nation Saturday to have a satellite orbit the earth.

A Soviet rocket lifted the 800-pound scientific instrument into a near circular orbit almost 400 miles high.

Eight hours after being launched from a site in the Soviet Union, the blue and violet, 26-faced research satellite was reported operating perfectly, circling the earth every 96.41 minutes.

Wild Flowers Create Spectacular Display In Midland

By LUANNA CROW
There's scrambled eggs all over Midland. Also crow poison, stork's bill, spectacle pod, perfume balls and sand bells. These rainbow-hued specimens combine with scores of other varieties to create one of the most spectacular displays of wild flowers Tall City residents have seen in some years. They are colorful in name and habit as well as appearance. Indian blanket, for instance, is a daisy-like flower in the colors of a Southwestern sunset—red and yellow petals around a brick brown center. It's also known as fire wheel or Gallardia. And then there's the one that smells like cocoa. The Berlandiers daisy has yellow petals held by a green center that looks like a brooch. Mrs. Frances Williams and Mrs. Ethelyne Bizilo, both past presidents and past directors of Midland Naturalists, Inc., are just two of the many Midlanders versed in the names and the habits of the native flora. Mrs. Williams explains that the heavy fall rains are responsible for this spring's flower show. The old adage, "April showers mean May flowers," holds little credence here. The seeds sprout in the winter and grow in green rosettes. "When the weather gets warm, they shoot up the blooming stalk," she said. One of the most predominant wild flowers blooming right now is the evening primrose, mistakenly called the buttercup. Another eye-catcher is the tansy-aster, a daisy with purple petals and yellow centers. Commercial seedsmen sell this one in catalogues as a "Tahoka daisy." Blue curl or fiddle neck also is blooming in profusion but—be forewarned—it isn't blue. The plant's dainty purple flowers, which resemble florists' statice, open up as the flower spike uncurls. The curved spike resembles the neck of a fiddle. Scrambled eggs, another picturesquely named flower, is naturally yellow. The small trumpet-shaped flowers of this low-growing plant bloom up a three-inch spike in the fashion of a snapdragon. Also blooming on a spike is the copper mallow with its small coral-toned flowers. Crow poison is just what it says, but people and other animals can be victims, too, according to Mrs. Williams. In appearance, it closely resembles wild onion which has clusters of white cup-like flowers that turn to a pinkish hue on the outside. The foliage is similar to that of a daffodil, but much smaller, Mrs. Bizilo said. Crow poison is different in that it lacks the distinctive onion smell of the other plant. Its flowers are also somewhat larger and the color is whiter. While crow poison could hardly qualify for medicinal uses, blue penstemon is a plant that does. With its blue flowers along a stalk that are "just as pretty as the ones in the Colorado Rockies," the plant has large green leaves which, brewed as a tea, make a laxative used in Indian folk medicine. Another variety of penstemon that will come into bloom soon is the pink penstemon. Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Bizilo advise Midlanders to look for it on Wadley Street across from the tennis courts. Mrs. Williams said one of the best places to scout for wild flowers of all types is "along the railroad right-of-way because it's never plowed or grazed." In such an area, she recently found 40 different varieties on a single afternoon. Mrs. Bizilo said "any vacant lot anywhere in town" is likely to grow numerous wild flowers, and among her favorite places to look are those lots that line

Neely Street and the area between Neely and Wadley streets. "It seems to me Texas as a whole has a wide variety of wild flowers," Mrs. Williams said, noting that of the five volumes of "Wild Flowers of the U.S.," two are devoted to the Lone Star State. For persons wishing to learn more about the Tall City's native plant life, Mrs. Williams, the county librarian, recommends a book entitled "Roadside Flowers of Texas" published by The University of Texas. It is available at Midland County Library. However, for those persons who desire a little personal guidance in learning about Midland's wild flowers, the Midland Naturalists are sponsoring a field trip at 4 p.m. April 27, with participants meeting at the Midland Woman's Club. The trip is open to the public and will include a walk in Hogan Park and possibly some of the vacant lots on Wadley Street. Another view of the flowers is in a series of arrangements on display daily at Midland National Bank. Mrs. Bizilo, Jenna Welch, Zella Michener and Midge Erskine are creating the flower arrangements, and Mrs. Williams is helping with the identification. A new arrangement will be on display daily through May 9. Among the many types of wild flowers that might be seen in the daily arrangements are: —Two kinds of wild geranium, stork's and crane's bill, named for the shape of the seed pods. They have reddish-lavender flowers. —Spectacle pod, featuring a pair of connected green seed pods each centered with a black seed to resemble a pair of spectacles. The white flowers bloom on tall spikes. —Sand bells, which grow in a low mound and produce cup-shaped lavender flowers "about the size of your little fingernail." —Perfume balls known for their sweet odor. They have no petals, grow about 2 feet tall and are brownish red in color. —Coreopsis, a flat, lacy-leaved daisy that looks much like cosmos. Also called golden wave, it has been commercially cultivated.

—Bee flower or bee blossom featuring dainty white flowers on their first day they open, turning pink on the second day. They grow on a feathery spike. —Honey daisy, a yellow flower with evenly scalloped petals and a large mounded center of yellow. —Grousel daisy, growing to almost the size of a bush with silvery-gray foliage. The all-yellow flowers are proportionately small with slender petals. —Lazy daisy that doesn't "open up" until after mid-morning. The flowers may be white, yellow or purple-hued. —Rock daisies, growing in caliche soils to a height of no more than 5 inches. They bloom into a profusion of tiny white daisies with yellow centers.

Beef Grading Standards Trial Slated For May 12

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A trial consumer groups are expected by a three-judge panel of the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, which rejected a government request to stay Denney's injunction. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Denney set the trial date Friday during a hearing on a suit to permanently enjoin the Department of Agriculture from implementing its new beef grading standards. Consumers and many cattlemen oppose the new regulations, claiming they will reduce the amount of fat — marbling — required for beef to be graded "choice." The main consumer argument is that families will be paying more for meat of a lesser quality. Many meat packers say the new guidelines will cause increased production and transportation costs, which will have to be passed on to the consumers. The USDA says the new standards are designed to produce leaner beef and reduce the amount of grain needed to feed cattle. Government officials also say that the new standards will not result in increased consumer cost, and will not appreciably affect the taste or quality of the beef. Cattle kept in pasture until slaughter usually have less fat and are not as tender as cattle which spend their last months before slaughter in feedlots being fed grain. The suit was filed by the Independent Meat Packers Association of Omaha. A number of

The panel revised the injunction to a 45-day limit, and sent the case back to Denney for trial and decision. Assistant U.S. Atty. Stephen Muehlberg asked the bond be increased to $25,000, but Denney rejected that figure, setting the new bond at $10,000, to be posted by the packers association. The bond is an assurance that the association is acting in good faith in filing the suit.

Senate Panel Okays $200 Million In Viet Aid

By JOHN H. AVERILL
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee related Friday and approved a $200 million Vietnam humanitarian aid bill after extracting a pledge from the Ford administration that evacuation of Americans from South Vietnam will be accelerated.

The committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Clifford P. Case, N.J. said he voted for the bill Friday "on faith" but would not support it on the Senate floor next week if the administration's evacuation schedule is not carried out.

At the request of the Administration, the committee refused to divulge the planned evacuation schedule. However, it was learned it calls for the number of U.S. nationals in South Vietnam to be reduced from 3,562 as of Friday to 2,000 by next Tuesday.

One source cautioned, however, that the figures "are a mass of inconsistencies." He noted, for example, that as of Friday the State Department reported the number of U.S. citizens plus Vietnamese dependents still in Saigon to be 5,063.

As far as could be determined, the source said, the Vietnamese dependents are not being counted in the evacuation schedule.

In a related development, President Ford appointed a special task force headed by retired Ambassador Dean Brown to coordinate evacuation, humanitarian aid and refugee problems in South Vietnam.

Brown, who retired last year after serving as a deputy undersecretary of state and as ambassador to Jordan, Senegal and Gambia, will operate directly under the President and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"This is an attempt to pull it all together, get a better focus and move faster on the evacuation," Brown told The Los Angeles Times.

Brown said he will work through the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Graham Martin, whom many members of Congress have accused of dragging his feet in getting Americans withdrawn.

Meanwhile, Kissinger bristled at Congressional charges that the administration had deliberately delayed the evacuation in hope Congress, fearful of the fate of U.S. citizens, would provide military aid for South Vietnam.

"To suggest that the administration is deliberately holding Americans hostage to advancing armies is unworthy of debate," Kissinger told the House International Relations Committee.

In his testimony, Kissinger warned that South Vietnam will soon collapse unless Congress approves additional military aid. Kissinger said South Vietnam has only enough ammunition to last through May.

On the pace of evacuation of American nationals and South Vietnamese dependents from Saigon, Kissinger said, "We have to be careful that the very act of evacuation doesn't create a panic. We have to move at a pace at which the cooperation of the people and government of Saigon is maintained. We must do it at a level that prevents panic."

Kissinger said he could not guarantee the military outcome in South Vietnam even if Congress does approve additional military aid. But he said such aid might stabilize the situation to the point where a continued evacuation could take place under controlled and humane circumstances.

With the fall of Cambodia to Communist insurgents, Kissinger said he expects the "human suffering to be large." "They will try to eliminate all political opponents," he said. "That was certainly the case in South Vietnam" in areas seized by the Communists. Van Bac conferred at the State Department later in the day.

Subcommittee Approves Bill Making Child Labor Legal In Harvesting Areas

By RUSTIN SCOTT
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A House migrant labor subcommittee Friday approved a bill making it legal for children aged five to 12 to do hand field harvest in areas authorized by the secretary of labor, as long as they work outside of school hours.

Children under 16 who do hand harvesting on a piece rate basis are exempt from minimum wage provisions under the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Opponents raised the spectre of thousands of children toiling in agony for low wages because their families need the money, as long as growers, seeing the possibility of cheaper labor, would become reluctant to hire adults' who must be paid a minimum wage.

Supporters of the bill argued that was not its intention, and would not be its result.

Most of the pressure in support of the bill comes from Oregon, where according to former Gov. Tom McCall, 54 per cent of Oregon's multi-million dollar bean and strawberry harvest is usually picked by children under 14, and 16 per cent of them are under 12. There is also pressure from the state of Washington.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said he received telephone calls of protest from "concerned growers who saw no recourse but to plow under their crops," if their access to child farm labor is denied.

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., who cosponsored the Senate version of the bill, said when he introduced it in February that 10,000 to 14,000 children under 12 normally pick beans and strawberries in his state, and Oregon agriculture as well as Oregon families would suffer dramatically if they were prevented from doing so.

New Grapefruit Diet 'Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

PHOENIX (Special) — An amazing new improved version of the popular grapefruit diet has recently been developed featuring the use of a "grapefruit pill" that enables overweight people to easily and quickly become slim, trim and attractive "while still eating, almost as much as you want."

The new chewable (candy-like) grapefruit pill puts an end to the inconvenient mess, fuss and high cost of eating half a grapefruit at every meal. Happy testimonials from people all across the country claim "you save time and money while achieving more effective weight loss results with this handy new diet plan."

Lose a Pound a Day
Those who follow the simple grapefruit pill diet report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation. Fortified with vitamin E and C, the new whole grapefruit extract pill and foods as prescribed by the diet will, through natural action, act to help your body release excess fat and fluids, allowing you to keep your weight down and figure in firm control.

Eat All You Want
Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, lobster, chicken, fish, some sauces and gravies, bacon and eggs, and still lose weight.

Diet Now Available
To get a copy of this highly successful diet and grapefruit pills, send $5 for 10 day supply (or $8 for 20 day supply or $10 for 30 days supply) cash, check or M.O. to: CITRUS FARMS LTD., Dept. Home Construction Tops $5.3 Million

New home construction topped the $5.3 million mark last week as the city inspection department issued 15 home construction permits amounting to $670,000.

Total construction in the city has brought permit figures to more than $7.3 million for the year.

Last week, new home permits were issued to Tom Mallan for a $33,000 home to be located at 2614 Emerson Drive and a $30,000 home to be located at 2612 Emerson Drive.

Candlelight Homes was issued two $30,000 home permits for construction at 1003 and 1007 Ward St.

Glen Pine Construction Co. was issued a $38,000 permit for a home to be located at 2807 Haynes St., and a $40,000 permit for a home at 2805 Haynes St.

Cord Land and Development Corp. was issued a single permit amounting to $40,000 for a home at 810 Stanolind St.

National Building Center was issued a $55,000 permit for construction of a new home at 4303 W. Storey St.

G. H. Lawless was issued two permits in the $50,000 bracket for homes in the 2300 block of Auburn Place. Lawless was also issued a $67,500 permit for a home at 2509 Metz Place.

Wallace Construction Co. was issued a $40,000 home permit for construction at 1431 Ventura Drive; a $45,000 permit for a home at 1209 Shirley Lane; and a $95,000 home permit for construction at 1211 Shirley Lane.

A home permit amounting to $49,000 was issued to Trend Homes for construction at 2302 Boyd St.

Permits for new commercial construction amounted to $138,000 during the week on the strength of three applications. Those permits went to A. L. Attaway, $31,000 for a retail sales outlet in the Imperial Shopping Center at Midkiff and Wadley streets; Howard McCarroll, $17,000 for construction of a lumber company warehouse at 3105 Bankhead Highway; and a $90,000 permit for construction of mini storage units at 3600 N. Big Spring St. went to Midland Mini Storage Inc.

Twelve permits for residential alterations and repairs amounted to $12,800 during the week. Those permits were issued to:

Edram Perales, 1120 Chestnut Lane, $1,500, add storage; Curtis Green, 1811 English Drive, $600, convert garage to den; G. L. Clark, 208 Ridge Drive, add storage; Norman Pool, 1509 S. Nylon Production To Be Resumed At Odessa Plant

ODESSA—Production in the Nylon Division of El Paso Products Co. will resume operations in May, O. R. Clements, vice president of manufacturing, said Saturday.

The nylon plants were closed temporarily in February due to the depressed state of the national economy.

"Inventories have been reduced, sales have increased and a general upward trend is occurring in the nylon markets throughout the nation, and we are optimistic about our production increases for the remainder of the year," Clements said. Clements said there were no personnel layoffs during the shutdown.

FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —
By CHARLES W. GREEN
Midland County Agent

The large amount of moisture received last fall has brought out a colorful display of wildflowers on area rangelands. This growth has used much of the moisture in the top foot or so of the soil and will affect warm season grass growth. Unless some good rain is received, grass production will be quite limited.

Some bad news for alfalfa producers has been noted in the report of the first detection in the Trans-Pecos area of the alfalfa weevil, Hypera postica.

Charles Neeb, area extension entomologist, has also found the weevils in Midland, Glasscock and Martin counties. This pest was first detected in Texas in 1968 in southern and eastern areas of the state.

Weevil larvae can cause heavy damage to the first crop of alfalfa. They feed within the plant tips, on opening upper leaves and then on the lower foliage, skeletonizing the leaves.

A field damaged by the weevil first appears greenish-gray and later takes on a grayish to whitish cast.

Alfalfa producers should maintain field inspection this month. Early detection of the pest would aid in the implementation of control programs to prevent the establishment of the weevil in this area.

For information to aid in identifying the weevil, producers may contact the county agent.

Another insect which has been quite active this spring is the aphid. Aphids have heavily infested ornamental and garden plants.

They are small (seldom over 1/8 inch long), soft-bodied, pear-shaped insects of various colors, such as green, black, gray or red.

Most aphids attack en masse, preferring young shoots, buds and leaves. Aphid damage can stunt growth, deform leaves and fruit and cause galls on leaves, stems and roots.

Aphids have the highest reproductive potential of any insect, being capable of completing 50 generations a year under ideal conditions.

The use of insecticides is often the only means of controlling the pest. However, in some cases cultural practices such as proper pruning, fertilizing and water play important roles in preventing or suppressing insect infestations.

Beneficial insects also play an important role in aphid control. Aphids' natural enemies include lady beetles, syrphus fly larvae, aphid lions and small, wasp-like parasites known as braconids.

Since the reproductive potential of the aphid is so great, damage can often result before natural enemies can bring the pest under control. Therefore, close and frequent inspections of trees and plants are important in preventing damage.

Insecticides suggested for chemical control are diazinon, dimethoate or malathion. Mix and apply the material exactly as directed on the label, observing all precautions.

Heart Association Annual Meeting Slated Tuesday

The Midland chapter of the American Heart Association will hold its annual meeting at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the 1st National Room of The First National Bank.

Members will elect new directors and officers for the 1975-76 term and will select delegates to the regional and state annual meetings. Chairmen of standing committees for 1975-76 also will be appointed.

Reports on the past year's activities and recommendations for expanding local programs also will be features of the meeting.

Outgoing officers include Harry W. Clark, president; Thornton Hardie, vice president; Mrs. Reid Caskey, secretary; and Paul Davis Jr., treasurer.

Petrified Reptiles Plentiful In Park
DENVER (AP) — Petrified dinosaur, crocodile and turtle skeletons will amaze the visitor to Dinosaur National Monument, an ancient burial ground located on 206,234 acres in Utah and Colorado. According to Rand McNally's National Park Guide for 1975, the Dinosaur Quarry there has produced 26 dinosaur skeletons for museum display and is the world's largest known deposit of such prehistoric remains.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, April 20, the 110th day of 1975. There are 256 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
In 1775, the siege of Boston began in the American Revolution. American provincial forces closed in on the city and kept it under siege for nearly one year.
On this date -
In 1657, Jews in New Amsterdam were granted equal rights and privileges of citizens.
In 1662, Connecticut was granted a royal charter extending to the Pacific Ocean.
In 1861, Col. Robert E. Lee resigned his commission in the U.S. Army to join the Confederate cause in the Civil War.
In 1889, Adolf Hitler was born in Austria.
In 1934, Shirley Temple was launched on her career as a child star in the film "Stand Up and Cheer" was released.
In 1945, in World War II, Soviet forces penetrated the defenses of Berlin, and the U.S. 7th Army captured the German city of Nuernberg.
Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson conferred in Washington with Italy's Premier Aldo Moro, and the premier sat in on a meeting of the U.S. Cabinet.
Five years ago: President Nixon announced the withdrawal of 150,000 American military personnel from South Vietnam.
One year ago: Israel and Syria engaged in their first air battle since the cease-fire in the October War.
Today's birthdays: Former New York Mayor Robert Wagner Jr. is 65. Nuclear physicist Alvin Weinberg is 60.
Thought for today: Force is not a remedy - John Bright, English statesman, 1811-1889.

Area Schools Win Social Science Contest At Alpine

ALPINE—Monahans high school students shared top honors with Big Spring Friday at the close of Sul-Ross State University's 10th annual high school history and government contests.
Of the 10 schools competing, McCamey also sent representatives to bring home several awards.
Contest categories were in U.S. history, world history and government, and awards went to the top five students in each category. Students scoring in the top 20 per cent won honorable mentions.
In the government category, honorable mentions went to Monahans students Cheryl Wilkins, Steve Herbold, Lindsey Potts and Ann Luckie. Liz Killgore of McCamey also took an honorable mention.
Place winners in U.S. history were Craig Pearson, McCamey, second; Bridget Buchanan, Monahans, third, and John Wade, Monahans, fourth.
Taking honorable mention for Monahans were Kathy Browning, Mark Nelson, Terry Hill, Redette Bookout, David Heath and Vickie Miller. From McCamey were Tim Cornett, Carolyn Eaves and Brian Wilkerson.

Buffalo Trail Scouts Planning Camping Outing

More than 500 Boy Scouts and leaders, plus another 200 Cubs, from the Colorado to the Pecos rivers - gather next weekend at Big Spring for the Buffalo Trail Council's biggest weekend camping adventure.
The event is set for April 25 and 26 at the Big Spring Scout Roundup grounds, where an Explorer law enforcement post from the Tall City will furnish security for the campout.
Activities begin late Friday with an inspection of camps and troop organization. Saturday will feature a full day of Scoutcraft competition and an evening council fire program in which the Order of Arrow Indian dance team will perform.
The campout will conclude on Sunday following an illustrated Bible study in brief religious rites.

children of many of the Americans. U.S. officials at Clark said 1,324 persons — including nearly 900 Americans — have been evacuated since April 5. Government sources in Washington say little more than 3,000 Americans remain in Saigon, but the embassy put the figure at closer to 4,000. In Thailand, the former governor of Pailin, a Cambodian gem-mining town 220 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, said the 43 government soldiers were slain Friday after he complied with rebel orders to raise white flags over the town. "When the Khmer Rouge came they beat up my troops and shot people who resisted," said Col. Horl Tone. "They ordered my soldiers to wear their uniforms, then shot 43 men." The governor was among more than 1,000 Cambodians, including 300 troops, who fled the five miles to the Thai border, where they were disarmed and reportedly given permission to remain seven days. The Khmer Rouge broadcast, monitored in Bangkok, said some members of the "traitors' committee" fled after Phnom Penh was captured Thursday but that "most have had their heads cut off." No names were given, but the reference was to the seven-man "supreme committee" established under Lt. Gen. Sak Suthsakhan and Premier Long Boret after President Lon Nol fled the country. The committee appealed for a cease-fire Wednesday and extended an offer to give up authority, but it was rejected. Sak Suthsakhan escaped Cambodia as the city fell, and government sources in Thailand said he was staying at Utapao air base there. There were various reports that Long Boret had escaped to Thailand, or been caught by the Khmer Rouge and killed. The Paris newspaper Le Monde reported from Phnom Penh that he was being held prisoner. Among those reported killed at Pailin was Capt. Lon Vera, younger brother of Lon Nol. Except for the Le Monde dispatch through unexplained channels, there was no news out of Phnom Penh on Saturday. The International Red Cross and Western news organizations were unable to contact representatives in the city, but diplomatic sources said a number of foreign journalists were safe in the French Embassy. The Soviet news agency Tass reported that one of its correspondents was among 25 journalists who visited Da Nang on Thursday and found that 100,000 Saigon soldiers had turned in their arms since South Vietnam's second largest city fell to the Communist side on March 29. Tass also said the Saigon government gave up Da Nang in such a hurry that many military installations were left intact, as well as planes and helicopters. It added that schools, shops and cafes had reopened and that farm products were being delivered to markets.

They're 'Not Reading Their Mail'

Sen. Mansfield Says Of Administration Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday that administration officials who seek to make a political issue out of the deteriorating Indochina situation "must not be reading their mail."

And he said it is doubtful that the Senate will approve additional military aid funds for South Vietnam even if a new move to add $75 million succeeds in the Armed Services Committee.

Mansfield also predicted that the $200 million for humanitarian assistance and for evacuations voted by the Foreign Relations Committee on Friday "stands a good chance" in the full Senate — if U.S. evacuations proceed on schedule. He noted that a number of committee members reserved their right to change their votes "if satisfactory progress is not apparent."

Mansfield was asked in a session with reporters about the recent statements by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller that the Indochina situation "has the makings" of a 1976 campaign issue and the statements by President Ford that Congress is responsible for failing to provide sufficient aid.

Kissinger Says Soviets Want To Resume Detente

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a period of stagnation, the Soviet Union is fairly anxious to resume improving relations with the United States, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in an interview released Saturday. "I think that the possibilities to move in a positive direction still exist," Kissinger told L'Express of France. He said too many Americans have taken detente for granted and have forgotten what it was like to live in the Cold War.

"They think they can hack away at it (detente) and think that there is no price for it," Kissinger said. He cited the trade agreement, which was amended by Congress to ease Jewish emigration and then nullified by Moscow.

The Soviets have an even greater tendency to use detente "as a sort of palliative" while continuing traditional policies, he said.

2 Lee, 2 MHS Students Qualify For State Meet

LUBBOCK—Four Midland youths, two each from Midland and Lee high schools, were guaranteed berths in the University Interscholastic League (UIL) state competition by placing high in the UIL's literary contests in a regional meet at Texas Tech University Saturday.

State competition will be held May 1-4 on The University of Texas campus at Austin. Going to state on the Lee High banner will be Bill Kelly, who placed second in science competition here, and Danny Evtatt, who rated a third place in informative speaking.

Representing Midland High at state will be Julia Kinsey, who placed third in persuasive speaking, and Helen Cross, who earned a second-place rating in informative speaking.

Placing in the regional meet but not earning bids to state competition were Lee's Janet Vaughan, third in feature and news writing; Lee's debate teams, made up of Berry Spears and Tanya Jones, and Bill Williams and Jim Kretz; and Midland's Angie Dickson, who was a finalist in prose reading. The two debate teams were quarter finalists.

Andrews Sweeps Two UIL Events

ODESSA—Andrews High School won first, second and third in the Class AAA number sense and slide rule competition in the University Interscholastic League regional competition here Saturday.

In number sense, Skeeter Overman won first, Charles Neeley second and Karen Wimberley third.

In slide rule, David Sullivan was first, Susan McDonald second and Norma Boles, third.

All six students will compete in the UIL state meet. Sam Smiley of Lamesa High School won first in science, and Overman took third.

Midcontinent's Violent Weather Eases Off Into Showers, Cold

By The Associated Press

Violent weather that killed two persons and injured more than 90 in the midcontinent eased off Saturday into showers and unseasonable cold.

Jackson, Tenn., a city of 400,000, was trying to recover from a tornado late Friday that killed 50-year-old Augusta Smith when the roof of her home collapsed. Of 54 persons injured, eight remained hospitalized.

Jackson was hardest hit as high winds and heavy rain swept through the middle Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes area.

Midland College To Offer Petroleum Technology Degree

Petroleum technology Friday became the newest addition to Midland College's roster of associate degrees after a delegation of Tall City residents met in Austin with the Coordinating Board for the Texas College and University System.

Dr. Marshall Box, the college's occupational technical dean, headed the envoy which included Midland oilmen Robert P. Scott, Charles Woodruff and Chuck Kaltetey.

The new program, to be implemented this fall, was approved by the board, as presented by the Midland delegation.

The petroleum technology project is rooted in requests made by members of the oil community here that the college provide training for workers in various aspects of petroleum development and production.

Abu Dhabi Drops Its Plan To Take Over Oil Industry

BEIRUT — Abu Dhabi's petroleum minister has acknowledged the small Persian Gulf sheikhdom is not "in a position to run (our) oil industry" and is suspending plans to take 100 per cent control of the oil fields there.

Abu Dhabi Drops Its Plan To Take Over Oil Industry

In another comment that appeared to reflect a reappraisal of oil policy that could find echoes elsewhere in the Middle East, Petroleum Minister Mansour Said Al Otaiba expressed con-

American, British and French companies that currently hold a 40 per cent share of the sheikhdom's oil industry "prefer to channel all their new investments into other areas, such as the North Sea or Alaska," Otaiba said in an interview with Middle East Economic Survey, a respected trade journal published here.

Abu Dhabi Drops Its Plan To Take Over Oil Industry

Abu Dhabi, following the lead of neighboring Saudi Arabia, took 60 per cent control of the industry last year and declared it would take complete ownership as soon as Saudi Arabia completed negotiations for taking over the Arabian American Oil Co. (ARAMCO).

Abu Dhabi Drops Its Plan To Take Over Oil Industry

It is not clear if the Abu Dhabi decision will have any effect on Saudi Arabia, the world's largest petroleum exporter. Saudi oil minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani is in the United States now and reportedly will reopen negotiations with four American companies on the ARAMCO takeover.

Abu Dhabi Drops Its Plan To Take Over Oil Industry

The plan to take over 100 per cent of the oil industry was formulated while the oil-exporting cartel was increasing prices 400 per cent in four months and severe shortages were developing around the world.

"Before we proceed any further, we ought to ask ourselves whether we are in a position to run the oil industry. The answer is clearly no. We lack the trained people," said Otaiba, who was quoted as having said that Abu Dhabi was still committed in principle to taking complete control of the industry.

Small Turnout Seen In Tuesday's Amendment Election

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans vote Tuesday on what some state legislators have called a "low profile campaign" to get their salaries raised. As few as 10 per cent of the state's eligible voters are expected to vote. Expected big turnouts by public school teachers, state employees and friends of state legislators—all directly affected by the vote—may dictate the outcome of the two proposed constitutional amendments. The two propositions on the ballot are: —Increase the pay of the 181 state senators and representatives from $4,800 to $7,200 per year, increase their daily personal living expenses while in session from $12 to $30, and give them travel pay of 16 cents instead of 10 cents a mile. The raise would cost $1.4 million the next two years. —Consolidate all the scattered current constitutional provisions about state and local government systems, and most importantly, lift the ceilings on state contributions to the state employees and public school teachers retirement funds from 6 per cent to 10 per cent. The change would immediately affect about 45,000 retired teachers and 9,600 retired state employees, including 96 retired legislative and state elected officials. The combined cost to the state would be about $124 million. If approved, neither issue would be affected if voters adopt a new state constitution Nov. 4. The pay legislators are receiving on Nov. 4 would continue until a salary commission is created and acts, probably some time in 1977. The current contribution rates to retirement funds on Nov. 4 would be phased into the new contribution from $12 to $30, and give them travel pay of 16 cents instead of 10 cents a mile. Texas Election Bureau, which will gather unofficial results, predicts a turnout of about 500,000 in 1973, another non-presidential election year, saw only 605,000 voters turn out when there were nine proposed constitution changes on the ballot, including one on legislative pay raises and annual legislative sessions. The pay raise carried in only 12 of the 254 counties. Several weeks ago, a group of Texas House members, calling themselves an "ad hoc committee for pay raises," urged fellow legislators to conduct a "low profile campaign" to attract the attention only of supporters, particularly state employees and public school teachers. "Keep the others home," advised an instruction pamphlet for House members "That means not much press, publicity or public speaking, but a lot of personal contact."

There have been no other announced organized efforts for or against the two amendments. However, both the Texas State Teachers Association and the Texas Public Employees Association say they have repeatedly urged their members of the importance of voting Tuesday. Within just the past week statements have been issued by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and others, including Democratic National Committee member Billie Carr, the Judicial Section of the State Bar of Texas, and the Farmers Union of Texas. No matter how the election turns out it will be expensive to Texas tax payers. The Secretary of State's office estimates the total cost at $1.5 million. "That's about as cheap as you can have a statewide election in Texas, no matter how they turn out," said Robert Lemens, head of the elections division. "The fewer who turnout the more it will cost per ballot."

A spot check by The Associated Press showed that some counties clerked in larger cities will be higher in smaller pre-$5.86 per vote. One election judge figured the cost at about $1 a precinct. Others said the costured it might run as high as $5.86 per vote.

Teachers Association Urges Voter Okay Of Amendment 1

Midland County Teachers Association has endorsed the two constitutional amendments affecting retired teachers and legislators which will appear on the Tuesday special election ballot. Amendment 1, favored by the educators' group, would allow the state to continue paying increased benefits which began Feb. 1 for teachers who have already retired. Also endorsed was Amendment 2 which would increase the rate of pay and allowances drawn by members of the Texas Legislature since 1960. Romeo Canales, MCTA president, said unless voters approve Amendment 1, the retired teachers will immediately lose the higher benefits enacted by the Legislature this year at the urging of Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

"CAN A HOME BE BARTERED?"

There is a certain tendency to "barter" in buying or selling a home.

Often a seller will list his property for sale at a price exaggerated over what he really knows the house to be worth or expects to receive.

A buyer frequently makes an initial offer to purchase at a figure less than he knows the property to be worth or expects to pay.

While "bartering" is in a true spirit of independent capitalism, both parties should understand the inherent dangers it possesses.

In overpricing the seller runs the risk of scaring away prospective purchasers, or of having the house available for sale for a long time.

A buyer needs to realize that in making a low initial offer, he may be outbid by another party. Laws and ethics require a Realtor to submit all bona fide written offers to the seller. The second or third one may be found acceptable long before the first offer has a chance to "tip the scales."

One of the principal services a professional real estate practitioner can render is to advise client and customer of proper pricing and offers.

Board Puts $6 Billion Price Tag On Cleaning Up State Water Supply

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Water Quality Board figures it will cost Texas cities, towns and industries more than $6 billion to clean up water supplies by 1983, as ordered by Congress.

The estimate was made in a 502-page water quality inventory just completed by the board.

Members of the Texas Water Quality Board, as well as other water related agencies in Texas and other states have said the goal probably is unattainable, is impractical and certainly carries a cost burden of enormous proportion," the board release said.

The report said that the Federal Water Quality Act adopted by Congress in 1972 would require that by 1983 "every river, stream, creek, lake and coastal area is to be fit for swimming, boating and fishing regardless of the particular use of a body of water."

At the present time federal grants of 75 per cent construction costs are authorized for municipalities. No federal money is available for industries.

"And there is no assurance at this time that additional federal allocations will be made at all, beyond the 1976 fiscal year," said Hugh Yantis Jr., executive director of the Water Quality Board.

Yantis said the water quality inventory shows there are 1,681 municipal dischargers in Texas with the Trinity River Basin having the most, 246, and the Brazos River Basin, with 242. The Lavaca Basin has only 12. He said topping the list with compliance with state water control orders are 33 municipalities in the Guadalupe River Basin with 85 per cent compliance. He said the Lavaca Basin has 42 per cent compliance.

"This is not bad considering population growth and the fact that many of our cities and towns are still using sewage treatment facilities which were built when populations were small," Yantis said. "It is not good as it should be or as good as it will be during the next few years as more and more cities and towns build new plants or correct deficiencies in their present plans."

The inventory shows there are 1,237 industrial dischargers in the state with the San Jacinto River Basin showing the most with a total of 214. The Brazos Basin has 148. Yantis said industries in two basins, the Nueces with 30 and the Rio Grande with 51, are 100 per cent in compliance with Water Quality Board orders.

Martin County Will Unitize Equipment For Road Building

STANTON—The Martin County Commissioners Court has voted to unitize the county's road building equipment and to hire a road engineer.

Under the system, known as "unitization," all county road building machinery and funds will be pooled together. A professional, experienced road engineer will be hired to coordinate the county's road building projects, and will answer to the commissioners court.

Several other counties in Texas have already gone to the plan, including Midland County. Many have found it the answer to the many problems created by dividing up a county's funds and equipment among four precincts.

Most of the commissioners agreed that the county's roads are in bad shape, and that the present system is not working.

The commissioners discussed the current tax evaluation estimates, and agreed that the county should gain quite a bit of tax evaluation this year because of increased oil activity.

The court agreed that the best time to try the new set-up would be now, with the anticipated jump in assessed evaluations.

After voting unanimously to unitize the system, Martin County Judge Carrol Yater was instructed to begin looking for a qualified man to handle the new position.

The commissioners will interview each man who applies for the job.

West Texas Student Craftsman Fair Set

More than 40 schools bringing better than 2,000 projects to fill the Midland High School gymnasium will be represented here Saturday for the West Texas Student Craftsman's Fair.

The fair is sponsored by the West Texas Industrial Arts Teachers Association, the Midland Evening Lions Club and the Midland Independent School District.

It offers the public an opportunity to view the best work by industrial arts students in the state in such categories as metal, wood, drafting, electronics, plastic and power mechanics.

Students entering the competition will be exhibiting such projects as grandfather clocks, china cabinets, gun cases, two- and four-wheel trailers, jewelry, ceramics, scale models of homes, wrought iron furniture and many other items.

Student work will be on display from noon Saturday to 3 p.m. The event is open to the public free of charge.

Twenty-one judges have been secured to rate the student projects.

They are Gerald Rod Stephenson, R. L. Williams, Frank Marlow, Donnie Dove, Hank Sally, Henry Goulet, Mrs. Fay Grissett, Mrs. Jeann Millsap, Donald Forest, Edmundo Laing and Janice Walker, all of Midland.

Also judging will be Norman E. Backs, Charles F. Frost and Dallas Nash of Big Spring; Dr. Pat McLeod of Denton; Dr. Tommy Gilbreath of Lubbock; Dr. William C. Leavitt and Robert L. Bowden of Alpine; Frank M. Miller of Snyder, and John Goodman of Odessa.

J. Paul Getty Coming Home

He Can't Stand Another British Winter

GUILDFORD, England (AP) — Oil billionaire J. Paul Getty, America's richest expatriate, said Saturday it is time to go home for something even his money cannot buy in England — good weather.

Getty, 82, told newsmen invited to his $2 million estate here that the English winter bothers him more than Britain's rising taxes.

"The English weather is no picnic for me," he explained. "I don't want to pass another winter in England."

Getty said that "business permitting," he expects to move to his 65-acre property overlooking the Pacific at Malibu, Calif., within the next year.

Compared to his English residence, the California house is relatively modest.

Sutton Place, his 50-room mansion near Guildford, was built in the 1520s, only 30 years after Columbus discovered America. Even then it was fit for a king. King Henry VIII courted Anne Boleyn in the house.

The Flemish tapestries that came with the house 400 years ago still cover the walls, and oak antiques from the 16th and 17th centuries dominate the decorations along with old master paintings.

The mansion sits on 1,000 acres of grounds an hour's drive southwest of London,

Sources Say Patty Hearst, Harrises 'Willing To Die' To Avoid Capture

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst and two companions are armed and "willing to die" rather than be captured, sources who claimed they have seen and talked to Miss

Miss Hearst's father, Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the Examiner, said through Hearst Corp. offices in New York he was "comforted to know she is alive and well."

He said "some of the information is speculative" and declined further comment.

FBI agent Charles Bates said he would "make no statements concerning any remarks made by anyone in this case. We are continuing our investigation to apprehend three fugitives in this case — namely Patty Hearst and Bill and Emily Harris."

The Examiner said it had obtained the "first inside view of the SLA" since Miss Hearst was kidnaped Feb. 4, 1974, by interviewing San Francisco Bay area persons who know the fugitives.

The sources said the conversion of Miss Hearst into an SLA member was neither planned nor encouraged. The Examiner said it was told she was more a burden than an asset to the SLA, "but the group welcomed her into its ranks because the members learned to love and care" for her.

talkies. Security has been no joke with Getty since his grandson lost an ear to kidnapers.

Still one of the world's richest men, Getty has a personal fortune so large that by the time you've added up his assets their value has changed. His personal fortune has been estimated at between $2 billion and $4 billion, although both he and his aides refuse to comment on his wealth.

Invited visitors stopped first at an iron gate to be checked by a security guard. Inside the gate were six signs — "keep out," "private property," "no trespassing," and the like.

After the signs came a traffic light for another security check. The house itself was patrolled by guard dogs and security men carrying walkie

Hearst, 21, and Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris.

"They are willing to die and they probably feel that it's better to die than spend years in prison. And if the FBI breaks into where they are staying, they will shoot," the sources were quoted as saying.

WTCC Leaders Back Pay Raise For Legislators

ABILENE — The executive committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has adopted a resolution endorsing the proposed amendment to Article III, Texas Constitution, Section 24, as presented in H.J.R. Number 6, calling for increased salaries and per diem for members of the Texas Legislature.

E. Bruce Street of Graham, chairman of the WTCC State Affairs Committee, said "The present salary and per diem for members of the Texas Legislature was set in 1960 and the cost of living has increased considerably in the last 15 years and the Texas legislators are due a cost of living adjustment in pay."

"The job of a legislator is not envisioned as a full-time one, but when the legislature is in session, he must maintain two residences," Street said. "In some cases when the legislature is not in session, members of standing and special interim committees spend considerable time in Austin. The present salary and per diem does not cover higher cost of living expenses today."

Midland Receives Mixed Drink Taxes

Midland has been remitted a 15 per cent allowable on mixed drink taxes collected in the city and county during the first quarter of 1975 by the State Comptroller of Public Accounts.

The tax is a 10 per cent gross receipts tax collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Total county tax revenue for the liquor amounted to $87,302 with a remittance of $13,095. The city's share of first quarter taxes amounting to $76,847 is $11,527.

The comptroller's office issued $2.3 million last week to 293 cities and 184 counties for local shares of the mixed drink taxes.

Couple Wed At Big Spring Will Reside In Midland

Mrs. Benny Joseph Matlock

BIG SPRING—Mr. and Mrs. Benny Joseph Matlock, who were married at 8 p.m. Friday in the Phillips Memorial Baptist Church here, will make their home at 1701 Bryant St. Midland.

The bride is the former Cynthia Lynne Perry, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Perry of this city. She attended Big Spring High School.

Sgt. and Mrs. Joseph Matlock of 4906 Thomason Drive, Midland, are the parents of the bridegroom, who is employed at Ranchland Hill Country Club. He attended Lee High School at Midland and BSHS.

The father of the bride officiated for the double ring ceremony, and Van Johnson of Big Spring was the organist and Jim Wiley, also of Big Spring, was the soloist.

Carolyn Perry of Beaumont attended her sister as maid of honor.

Candice Perry of Big Spring, also a sister of the bride, and Vicky Lynn Halpin of Beaumont, cousin of the bride, lighted altar tapers. Flower girl was Katrina Matlock of Midland, sister of the bridegroom.

The father of the bridegroom was best man Jimmy Hubbel of Midland and Woody Burchfield of Big Spring were groomsmen. Kevin Matlock of Midland, brother of the bridegroom, was bearer of the rings.

Given in marriage by A. J. Allen, grandfather of the bridegroom, the bride wore a floor-length white satin dress fashioned with an Empire waist and a lace covered bodice with a round neckline and finger-tip lace sleeves. She wore a white lace headpiece with white illusion net veil and carried a Colonial bouquet of white feathered carnations and pink Sweetheart roses showered with white picot ribbons.

The maid of honor had a floor-length dress of yellow crepe fashioned with an Empire waistline, a lace bodice and sleeves. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow daisies.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Women's Colleges Enrollment Up

By DANIEL Q. HANEY

WELLESLEY, Mass. (AP)—Wellesley, speak it trippingly on the tongue, or draw it out, savoring each wealthy, plush syllable.

For many that college name still rings with oh-so-smug sophistication, the snobbish superiority of bright, aggressive rich girls away from home.

"I thought women would come out of here saying Well-ess-lee," Barbara Sheridan separated the syllables in a bored, aristocratic monotone between clenched teeth.

She grinned. "Maybe that happened before, but I don't think it does so much anymore."

"Before" was when Wellesley stood out as the social pinnacle in the academic mountains of the Seven Sister colleges. That was when good girls went to girls' schools. Mothers insisted. Fathers paid willingly.

Now, after a social revolution that insists men and women are the same, or at least equal, Wellesley seems to mean something more. It is a college run by women for women.

That old notion is re-emerging as a good idea. For most all-female schools, it comes in the nick of time.

In 1968 there were 308 women's colleges in the United States. Now there are 145. The rest have folded, merged or in the case of 119, gone coed. But only seven of them have disappeared since 1972.

In the past couple of years, the women's liberation movement has reached into high schools, and the idea that "maybe women are the best people to prepare girls for a male-dominated world" caught on.

Indeed, 70 women's colleges have formed the Women's College Coalition to define and develop this role. The Coalition has members in 22 states and the District of Columbia.

While many coed schools grapple with dwindling enrollments, more women than ever are applying to women's colleges.

Wellesley, for example, received 2,418 applicants, a record, for admission to its freshman class of 1975. That's a 2 per cent increase over 1974, when 2,357 applied. But 1974 was an 18 per cent increase over 1973's 2,000 applicants.

The low point in recent years was 1971, when 1,852 students applied. The peak in the 1960s was 1965, when 2,322 applied.

At Mt. Holyoke in South Hadley, Mass., there were 1,833 applicants in 1968, 1,682 in 1971 and 1,937 this year.

"When I decided to come here, it was because of Wellesley's academic reputation," said Miss Sheridan, 20, a junior from Deerfield, Ill. "I don't think I gave any thought to the fact that it was a women's school, and if I did, I'm not sure I would have come. For Women Only: come."

"Now I'm really glad. It's made me look for the first time at broadening women's role. It's forced me to think about the type of career I will have. I know the need to push myself into a position of responsibility. At Wellesley, they hit you over the head with this constantly."

The ability to make women competitive is emerging as the dominating spirit of women's colleges, whether they are such academic bulwarks as Wellesley or other liberal arts schools with bright new career programs.

"Women's colleges are the schools that perform," said Barbara Newell, president of Wellesley. "Part of the reason is that students are taken more seriously in women's colleges. There is less sex typing of career possibilities."

Laura Murphy, 19, of Baltimore, said she decided on Wellesley when she found the interviewer friendlier and the surroundings prettier than at Brown or Radcliffe, where she also was accepted.

Russell Bradshaws Honeymoon On Gulf Coast

ODESSA — Russell Carl Bradshaw and his bride, the former Phyllis Jeanne Carey of Midland, will reside here at 2301 Beverly St. following a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast.

The couple was married in a double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Garden Room of Berggren's, Odessa, with the Rev. Loy Ruckman officiating.

Exchange Student Presents Program

Bruce Spears, a foreign exchange student to Finland, showed slides of Finland and discussed his experiences in that country for a recent meeting of the Tall City Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

The meeting was held in Conner's West Texas Banquet Room. Spears also showed slides of his visits in Russia, Sweden and Lapland. He was introduced by Mrs. Pauniece Inscore, program chairman.

Mrs. Mae Baucum, president, presided. Mrs. Venoy Curtis gave the invocation, and Mrs. Betty Stout led the pledge.

Mrs. Frieda Evans, who has been employed in the accounting department of Webb-Davis Fruit Co. 15 years, presented the vocational report.

New members installed were Mrs. Hank Morrissey and Mrs. Gloria Lott.

Mrs. Leo Merriman, scrapbook chairman, reported on the ABWA regional meeting held recently in Amarillo.

Judy Rust won the special prize. The benediction was given by Mrs. Baucum.

Guests were Mrs. Maggie Ayler, Mrs. Betty Stout and Mrs. Randall C. Nelson.

The same was on the long, slim sleeves which finished with Cluney lace at the wrists above a circular ruffle edged in Venise lace. The back had a set-in full chapel train edged in a circular ruffle in the matching lace. A Dior bow marked the waistline. Her Camelot of applied daisies and seed pearls held her three-tiered full chapel-length veil edged in the daisy lace. The bride's bouquet was a long cascade of anemones, Statice roses, carnations, Rubrum lilies and English ivy.

Brenda Carey of Abilene, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cindy Carey of Midland, sister of the bride, and Candy Crowley of Dallas. Kara Evenson and Allison Carey, sister of the bride, both of Midland, were flower girls.

Best man was Keith Crowder of Odessa. Ushers were Jim Milson and Don Davis, who also served as groomsmen.

A rock waterfall formed the focal point for the ceremony with an archway covered in emerald foliage and flanked by matching seven branch floor candelabra.

A reception was held in the Garden Room.

House party members were Karen Evenson and Mrs. Jeb Braue, both of Midland, and Mrs. Jim Milson, Odessa.

Out-of-city guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Faulkner of Breckenridge, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McGaughey of Oklahoma City, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sund of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Henderson of Albuquerque, N.M., Mrs. Ernestine Carey of Abilene, Mrs. Bess Carey of Abilene and Mr. and Mrs. Colon Bradshaw of Houston.

Sugar Is Heart Disease Villain

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

The marked increase in the per capita consumption of sugar has led researchers into the study of sugar's effect on the human body.

Dr. John Yudkin, professor of nutrition (retired), of the University of London has conducted convincing studies on the significance of sugar in the coronary heart diseases.

When pure sucrose (sugar) replaced equal amounts of starch in a highly controlled research project many detrimental effects were noted.

Alteration in the proportion of body fat, impaired protein utilization, enlargement of the liver, abnormal reaction to any drugs and a decreased life expectancy were some of the alarming results.

Sugar is being blamed as one of the major villains in coronary heart disease.

Food faddists will tell you to eat raw sugar insisting it is better than refined. The fact is that raw sugar has impurities and the effect on coronary arteries is the same. The substitution of honey for sugar is no help to the heart, either.

The human heart is normally about the size of one's fist. It pumps about 72 times a minute and pushes one to eight gallons of blood through the lungs and body.

The heart pump is equivalent of 1-250th horsepower and beats more than 40 million times a year, every year of our lives.

There are about 100 trillion red blood cells present at any given time and they die at the rate of about three million per second. These have to be replaced.

Each red cell contains about 300 million molecules of hemoglobin which must combine with one billion molecules of oxygen.

Looking at your heart in this detailed way may impress upon you the tremendous need we have for eating well and creating a good nutrition program for ourselves.

The overconsumption of "sweets" has had effects in other areas of our bodies. The problem of tooth decay affects about 95 per cent of American children before the age of 15.

Many children never find out the benefits of a proper diet because they are raised on cakes, candy, pie, ice cream and potato chips.

Their parents then complain about high dental bills, overweight and acne-plagued kids.

JULY WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Kinnison, 113 S. Dewberry St., announce the engagement of their daughter, JayJaye, to Wayne Powell Roberts, son of Mrs. Dorothy Roberts, 405 W. Dengar St., and Wayne C. Roberts of Austin. Vows will be solemnized at 7 p.m. July 12 in the First Christian Church here. A 1974 graduate of Lee High School, Miss Kinnison attended Midland College. She is a past worthy advisor of the Midland Assembly No. 193, Order of the Rainbow for Girls. She is employed by National Building Centers, Inc. Roberts, a 1974 graduate of Midland High School, is employed with C. D.'s Glass and Mirror Co.

Midland Garden Club Has Meeting

The Midland Garden Club met Thursday in the Garden Room of Midland Country Club for a business session and program on "Basic Principles of Flower Arranging," presented by Mrs. A. P. Shirey.

Hostesses to the coffee hour were Mrs. L. I. Baker and Mrs. Paul Smyres.

The president, Mrs. J. Howard Hodge, presided. Mrs. Walter Putnam presented a report on the club's pilgrimage to Brownwood recently. Mrs. Hodge read an invitation from the Green Thumb Garden Club to attend a flower show to be held from 3 to 5 p.m. April 30 in the home of Mrs. William D. Barnes, 1610 W. Pine St. Mrs. Earl Chapman introduced the speaker, who said flower arranging is the organization of elements according to principles of design. She displayed different containers and stressed adding water to containers before making an arrangement.

Mrs. Shirey illustrated her program by making several arrangements with iris, narcissus and jonquils.

Mrs. Baker won Mary Kettel's book, "Easy Ways to Flower Arranging."

Mrs. Chapman announced installation of new officers will be held at a luncheon at 12 noon May 1 in the Midland Woman's Club.

BAYOU BEND PROGRAM — A program on the Houston Museum of Fine Arts' Bayou Bend will be presented by Mrs. Edwin E. Watts, pictured, for the Midland Country Club Ladies' Association Friday. Mrs. Watts trained as a docent at Bayou Bend in 1969.

Program On Bayou Bend Slated For Association

Mrs. Edwin E. Watts will present a slide presentation program on Bayou Bend, which was built in 1927 as the home of Ima Hogg, for the Midland Country Club Ladies' Association Friday in the clubhouse.

There will be a social period at 11:30 a.m., followed with a luncheon at 12 noon and the program.

Miss Hogg and her brother, Will Hogg, began collecting American antiques in the 1920s, with the idea of giving the collection to the State of Texas. The collection grew to such proportions that it became evident no museum could house it. Miss Hogg decided to keep the collection in her home and donated the home and grounds to the Houston Museum of Fine Arts in 1958. The collection was opened formally in Houston in March 1966. Since then, more than 200,000 persons have visited the museum.

Mrs. Watts was trained as a docent at Bayou Bend in 1969 by David B. Warren, curator. Her slide presentation will be a tour of the house, grounds and collection, with special interest on the historical influences on the American decorative arts.

SUMMER IS COMING; IS YOUR FIGURE READY?

Marilyn Wardenburg lost 17 pounds and over 18 inches

"About a year ago I took a close look at the 132 lbs. that I'd been carrying around for 10 years and decided that it didn't quite look the same anymore. I needed to lose quite a few pounds and inches.

Shortly thereafter, I met a friend and neighbor whom I hadn't seen for quite awhile. She had lost many pounds and inches and when I asked her how she had done it, she told me about Pat Walker's. Since I hate "diets" and hard exercises, I decided that maybe Pat Walker's could help me.

I purposely did not tell my husband that I had signed up at Pat Walker's, and when he and my friends began to comment on the loss of inches and pounds, I knew I had invested my time and money in the right place."

Select Best To Be On Display

By ADELE FAULKNER
Copley News Service
Apartments were never designed for pack rats or collectors. In a big house with large living areas, a little clutter can be absorbed, almost without notice. However, when the rooms are small, even one or two things out of place stick out like a sore thumb. Therefore, having a plan for where everything should go becomes even more critical for apartment dwellers. Displaying items to their best advantage requires applying a few basic techniques. If you've been a perennial "collector," it might be a good idea to take a fresh look at all of your rooms and strip them of many of the lesser pieces gathered over the years. Instead of displaying everything you've ever acquired, why not select only the best items? If you find that the decision is a tough one, you might consider rotating the arrangement every few months to give the room a different look. As you arrange your tabletops and other display areas, each piece should be placed with an eye to creating a pleasing composition. Generally, uneven numbers make for better balance. An attractive arrangement usually can be made with three to five different items. If you go much higher, the clean effect you have created is diluted by the additional clutter. Consider putting like things together for unity. If you collect mushrooms, china dogs or turtles, feature them as a collection rather than scatter the individual pieces around the room. A couple of dogs placed on one table and a few more on a bookshelf or mantle only creates confusion. Three to five items grouped together calls attention to the collection and actually helps highlight each separate item. In planning a grouping, you should consider each piece for its relationship to the other items. You can combine different shapes, such as rectangles, squares and circles. The important thing to keep in mind is the scale and texture of each item. The proper combination results in a feeling of balance and does not distract the eye. Most rooms are overfurnished. Too often people are afraid to leave any space for fear that a room or an area of the room will look "empty."

what's going on?

When we opened Aladdin House Furniture, we were dedicated to the principle of making it one of the finest furniture stores in America. We still think this way and we are making it even better.

Right now, though, we're in sort of a mess . . . and for this inconvenience we are offering hundreds of furniture values at 10% to 40% off.

What's going on? We're setting up our entire store in beautiful rooms . . . each bedroom, dining and living room will be displayed in a total environment.

With just the right accessories, lamps, tables, wallpapers and colors.

Central heating and air conditioning is being installed for your shopping comfort.

In the meantime, please bear with us for a while. You can imagine the disarray that can be caused by moving furniture from one side of the store to the other, trying to make room for the workmen. So while we're remodeling, come to Aladdin House Fine Furniture and save 10% to 40% on hundreds of furniture values.

If you don't like to look at topsy-turvy furniture displays, just wait a few weeks . . . but if you don't mind a little inconvenience you can save 10% to 40% on lots of furniture . . . and some selected items have been reduced 50% and more.

Midland Girl Scout Spring Fair Scheduled

The Midland Girl Scout Spring Fair will be held from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday in the Midland County Exhibit Building.

Opening ceremonies will get under way with Senior Girl Scout Troop 138, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Tighe, giving the flag ceremony, followed with an address by Gloria Hinojosa of St. Andrews Presbyterian Center.

More than 1,000 Girl Scouts of Midland and their adult leaders will participate in some 35 booths displaying Mexican food actually being cooked, sewing, needlepoint, macramé, weaving, cooking, knitting, baked goods and hand-made articles, which will be offered for sale by the various troops. A baby-sitting booth also will be available.

The Showmobile will be used by the scouts to perform their skits, singing and folk dances. The Scout trailer will be shown, along with presentations showing the various area scout camps. Outdoor skills will be demonstrated using a typical camp site utilized by scouts.

Jupiter Neighborhood, composed of Cadette and Senior Scouts, will have a concession stand at the fair. Profits will be used to buy back-packing tents that Midland County scouts can use in various trips.

Purpose of the fair is to show the community how Girl Scouts carry on their different activities at the levels of Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors.

The public is invited, and there will be no admission charge.

Music Recital

The Negro Business and Professional Women's Club will have a program presented by music students at 3 p.m. Sunday at the cafeteria at Washington Elementary School.

Dear Abby

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My parents used to fight about money all the time, and now I can see the same thing happening in my own marriage.

We both work, but my husband expects me to pay the bills with my paycheck, while he gambles and plays the big slot with his. He treats his friends and lets the bills go, then borrows and gets deeper into debt all the time. Right now we are over our heads so bad I can't see how we will ever get out.

For the first time in our marriage, I think the only answer is for me to divorce him. The kids and I would be better off without him, and we wouldn't have this constant fighting about money.

Whoever said, "money is the root of all evil," was sure right. It has got to be the number one reason why marriages break up. Right?

BITTER HALF

DEAR BITTER: Wrong! Money is not the root of all evil—it's the lust for money that's the root of all evil. When marriages fail, it's easy to blame money, but it's not necessarily the cause. Where there is genuine mutual love, money is not high on the list of priorities. Some of the "richest" people I know don't have much money. And many millionaires are very poor indeed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old, newly-married girl with a problem I can't handle.

When my parents come for an evening's visit, they never seem to know when it's time to go home. My husband has to get up at 5:45 a.m., and I get up to prepare his breakfast, so we like to get to bed before midnight. But how can we with my folks sitting here? Our hints about how "tired" we are and how early we have to get up seem to fall on deaf ears. We can't just turn off the lights and leave them sitting here, can we?

While I'm complaining, I might add that even though I always serve refreshments, my father and mother both raid the refrigerator and pantry later and think nothing of looking in all my drawers. They bring my little brother over (he's 2 years old) and let him do whatever he pleases. Last week he emptied a quart of oil on our brand new carpet!

Can a daughter tell her parents how to act?
NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: She shouldn't have to. But in your case, I'd make an exception. Tell them respectfully when they arrive what your bedtime is. And make it stick. Also, keep your eye on your little brother, since no one else seems to. And lotsa luck, Honey. You need it.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this to help all of us overseas without benefit of APO:

"Dear Friends, Associates, etc., who write to us through the international mails. We love getting your letters, and I know that you mean for us to get them as soon as possible, but the U.S. Postal System will not send a letter airmail unless it is so marked! Even if there is an airmail stamp of sufficient postage, it goes surface mail, which takes from two to six months.

Please use AIRMAIL envelopes whenever possible, use an AIRMAIL sticker, or write "AIRMAIL" on the face of the envelope. Thank you."

Abby, I don't know how often I've had important mail come six months late, let alone Christmas cards arriving in May. People usually put sufficient postage for airmail on their letters, but the postal system doesn't recognize good intentions.

I've been meaning to write to you about this for four years. Thanks.

Families Cut Cost Of Living

COLLEGE STATION — Families can cut the cost of living by planning sale purchases, Lynn Bourland, family resource management specialist, said recently.

"Retailers are conducting a most continuous clearance sales to keep their inventories moving and build up store traffic," the specialist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, said.

"It's vital today for families to plan spending. One way to do this is for each family member to list the clothes, school supplies, grooming aids, gifts and regular budget items he will need for the next few months, or even for the rest of the year," she suggested.

Then the family can discuss the things listed, making sure the style, size or quality necessary is included. It can be a loss instead of a gain if the wrong item is bought, the specialist said.

"One family member can be in charge of the lists by grouping like items together. Be sure to add family items such as furniture and appliances if they are needed.

"Everyone can help keep a lookout for sale advertisements in newspapers and television."

The specialist suggested keeping a record of each item's regular price and sale price. This way, it is easy to see how much the cost of living has been cut, she said.

Mrs. Richman Hostess To Club

Mrs. J. H. Richman, 1811 W. Kentucky St., was hostess to a recent meeting of the Prairie Lee Home Demonstration Club.

Presiding was Mrs. W. B. Stanley. The Midland County Home Demonstration Council report was given by Mrs. Larry Aleman. She announced the council had donated $100 to the recently constructed 4-H Center at Brownwood.

Mrs. Aleman was nominated for chairman of the Texas Home Demonstration Association and delegate to attend the THDA meeting to be held in Abilene.

Members prepared a quilt which will be displayed at Annual Day Oct. 10.

Guests were Mrs. D. R. Germany and Mrs. H. M. Rinehart.

Business Meet Held By Chapter

The Xi Pi Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the home of Mrs. Harold Semple for a business session.

Mrs. Bill Shoemaker, president, presided. The chapter voted to support the Jana Tinsley Project for 1975-76. Jana, 5-year-old daughter of a Beta Sigma Phi member, has leukemia.

The special prize was won by Mrs. Glenn Gardner, a guest. Other guests were Mrs. Harlan Roberts, Mrs. Alan Edwards and Mrs. David Owens.

Water Battle — When youngsters were bored on a nice day put them outdoors and give each a clean squeeze-type bottle filled with water and let them have an old-fashioned water battle.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

The Volunteers in Midland office, 2000 W. Wall St., has reported on the success of new Telephone Reassurance Service.

The service consists of free daily telephone calls to the elderly or handicapped who live alone. These calls are made by volunteer workers.

The office also has announced that teenagers who missed signing-up at their schools for volunteer summer work may obtain forms at the office.

Secretaries Week Plans Announced

The Permian Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) will observe the 24th annual Secretaries Week today through Saturday.

This year's theme is "Minding Everybody's Business Everywhere." Mrs. Laverne Hoestenbach, Secretaries Week chairman, has announced the chapter has arranged special events during the week, including breakfast today at Sambo's, followed with attendance at services in the First Church of the Nazarene.

Chapter members will be speaking to various organizations and service clubs throughout the week.

Judge Barbara Culver will speak at a luncheon on Secretaries Day, Wednesday, in Ranchland Hill Country Club. The Secretary of the Year, Mrs. Willie Mae Armstrong, Certified Professional Secretary, will be honored and the Boss of the Year will be named.

The Future Secretaries Association Chapters of Lee and Midland High Schools will be having special activities, which include Career Day Thursday. A number of business offices have invited members of the chapters to visit their offices and a luncheon has been planned in the Elks Club.

The Permian Chapter invites all businesses and secretaries to join in this special week set aside for honoring the secretary and for the secretary to establish new goals.

Luncheon Held By Newcomers

The Midland Newcomers Club had its monthly luncheon Thursday in Ranchland Hill Country Club. One-hundred and sixty-three women attended.

Special prizes were won by Mrs. Travis McLane, Mrs. Douglas Bateman, Mrs. Charles Carter, Mrs. Charles Wiesepape, Mrs. Orin Adair, Mrs. Byron Garrison, Mrs. Kenneth Maisel and Mrs. Donald Endsley.

The club's next meeting will be an annual talent show May 15 in Midland Country Club.

Mrs. Pat McNair presided. Mrs. Ira Reavis introduced Mrs. Mary Kay Owens, a guest.

A report from the Beta Sigma Phi City Council was given by Mrs. John Holmes. She reminded members of the Founder's Day event Saturday and the installation of council officers May 5 in the Elks Club.

The state project selected by the chapter is the Janet Tinsley Fund.

The program, "Enjoyment of Art," was given by Mrs. Oland Butler and Mrs. Carl Williams.

Mrs. Reavis, president-elect, announced the following committees for 1975-76: Membership, Mrs. Jerry Moritz; social, Mrs. Roy Henderson; social, Mrs. Williams; service, Mrs. Giehr Gardner; ways and means, Mrs. Charles Garaner; telephone, Mrs. Elliott; mother, Mrs. Bob Ward; and yearbook, Mrs. Stephen Montgomery; scrapbook, Mrs. Ward; who registered the Butler, publicity, and Mrs. Holmes, librarian.

Colors, Mirrors Brighten Up Living Room Decor

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We moved into a new home that has a 12x17-foot living room. It has two side-by-side windows with the front door on the same wall. I would like to know what to do with the windows. Also, what color should I use for carpeting? What can I do with the walls to make the room larger and maybe a little more bright and cheerful? I am going to buy new furniture and the only thing I will have to match up with is a brown recliner. — L.S.

A. To make the room seem lighter and brighter and larger I'd suggest you use light colors, mirrors when possible, perhaps a wall mural to extend the eye, and furniture on a small scale. Underfurnish the room rather than use too much furniture. Use designs that do not take much bulk when viewed, such as glass-topped end or coffee tables, or glass-shelved etagères.

For windows that flank your front door, what about doing them in leaded glass instead of draping them? You could do it yourself or have it done. You may use opaque glass so only the light comes in and you are still insured your privacy. Although the windows would cost slightly more than the draperies, you would have something permanent and very personal. Perhaps you could justify the extra expense by considering it artwork, like a painting you might choose for the room.

Use colors in the windows that are repeated in your room scheme.

Q. Our master bedroom is about 15x11 feet and the carpeting is a shag-blend of tomato red and purple. The drapes are white sheers with red velvet side draperies, tied back. The walls, at present, are oyster white but could be changed easily. I want to paper the end wall, and after much looking I cannot decide on a color. I need a new bedspread, also. Our furniture is brown but old and we are hoping to get new, probably walnut. — B.T.

A. For the end wall I think I would perhaps choose a very dramatic purple, red and metallic silver foil paper. The reflective quality of the paper should be good for expanding the room. For the other three walls and ceiling I think a soft gray would be less contrast than the white.

Also you might dye your sheers the pearly gray, too. For a bedspread, why not a bold red one in an interesting texture to contrast with the softness of the velvet draperies and the shininess of the metallic paper? If you have any extra paper, you might trim the interior of your closet with it. Maybe a purple closet interior would be exciting.

JUNIOR COUNCIL — Two Midland students have been named to the Junior Council, women's honorary society, at Texas Tech University. Members are chosen for scholarship, leadership and service to the campus and community. New members from Midland are Linda Young, left, a fashion merchandising and home economics education major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Young Jr., No. 1 Metz Court, and Audrey Lee Braden, center, a speech communications and English major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Braden of Midland. Pinning a council ribbon on Miss Braden is outgoing council member, JoAnna Vernetti.

City Secretaries Sponsor Legal Education Seminar

The Midland Legal Secretaries Association will sponsor a legal education seminar for both attorneys and secretaries, beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday at Rodeway Inn.

Speakers will include Greenville attorney J. Harris Morgan, one of the nation's leading authorities on office efficiency, who will speak on "Six Basic Office Systems", and former Midland resident, Max N. Osborn, associate justice of the court of civic appeals for the Eighth Supreme Judicial District of Texas at El Paso, speaking on "Briefing Procedures in the Appellate Courts."

Also, Midland social psycholgist, Dr. Gerald King, authority and teacher in the fields of bio-energetics and intra-personal communication, whose program will consist of methods of recognizing, reducing and avoiding stress under pressure and thus contributing to better all-around office efficiency, and Duann Wiley, PLS, first vice president of Texas Association of Legal Secretaries, and member of Legal Assistant Task Force Committee of National Association of Legal Secretaries, reporting on that committee's recent meeting with the American Bar Association Special Committee on Legal Assistants.

Pat M. Baskin, president of the Midland Bar Association, will introduce the speakers.

The seminar is open to all interested persons. A registration fee will include lunch Saturday and a cocktail party at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Rodeway Inn. Early registration may be made by contacting Mrs. Marty Hearne, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Southerland, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Etheredge and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Crews. Mr. and Mrs. Wally Manuagh were guests at the party.

Charges Against Connally Dropped

By RONALD J. OSTROW
The Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — Remaining charges against former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally were dismissed Friday by U.S. Dist. Judge George L. Hart Jr. after prosecutors said the action would be "in the interest of justice."

Connally was acquitted Thursday of charges that he was given $10,000 in dairy industry cash for spearheading higher milk price supports while a member of the Nixon cabinet.

Connally also had been indicted on three counts of conspiring to obstruct justice and making false statements under oath in connection with the milk fund investigation. Judge Hart earlier had ruled that Connally must be tried separately on the illegal payments and other counts.

In an affidavit filed Friday with Hart, Frank M. Tuerkheimer, the government prosecutor in the case, said that "in large part all of the evidence which would have been admitted" on the remaining charges "was admitted during the trial and considered by the jury."

Hart has not scheduled sentencing for Jake Jacobsen, the key prosecution witness in the Connally case, who pleaded guilty to making two $5,000 payments to Connally that the jury ruled Connally never received. During the Connally trial, Hart told the jurors that Jacobsen's plea itself was not evidence that Connally had received any money. Jacobsen faces a maximum sentence of two years imprisonment as a result of his guilty plea. He would have faced 40 years in prison if he had been convicted of perjury, fraud and embezzlement charges that the government dropped in return for his testimony against Connally.

A federal judge in Texas, Robert M. Hill, balked at the agreement in one of the cases that had been brought against Jacobsen and appointed three special prosecutors to carry on the case. The Justice Department challenged his move, and that appeal has yet to be decided by the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Watergate Special Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth Jr. has a number of campaign contributions investigations under way, including the previously disclosed probe of Los Angeles industrialist Armand Hammer. Hammer and at least one other executive of Occidental Petroleum Corp. are known to be under scrutiny for hidden campaign gifts to the Nixon re-election drive.

The investigation to determine whether former President Richard M. Nixon's close friend, C. G. (Bebe) Rebozo, used secret campaign gifts for his and Nixon's personal benefit appears to have been abandoned.

Sheinwold On Bridge

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Italian Bridge Team
New World Champions

If you locked yourself in a closet during the last week of January and the first few days of February, you may have missed reading that Italy won the bridge world championship at the Southampton Princess Hotel in Bermuda.

But that's not all you missed. Far more important is the fact that two members of the Italian team were caught playing footsie during qualifying matches against France, Brazil and Indonesia. There was a tremendous row, hours of testimony, and finally this astonishing verdict of the World Bridge Federation:

"On January 27, at 3:15 a.m., it was resolved, after hearing voluminous testimony, that Gianfranco Facchini and Sergio Zucchelli, members of the Italian Bermuda Bowl team of 1975, be severely reprimanded for improper conduct with respect to actions of Mr. Facchini moving his feet unnaturally and touching his partner's feet during the auction and before the opening lead."

Mere Slap on Wrist
As captain of the North American team, I protested against this mere slap on the wrist. In tournaments conducted in North America actions of the kind described would not be called "improper conduct," and the punishment would not be just a reprimand.

When the World Bridge Federation held Terence Reese and Brois Schapiro guilty of finger signaling in the 1965 world championship the British captain forfeited all of his team's matches and sent the accused pair home to London. The British Bridge League exonerated Reese and Schapiro after an inquiry that lasted 18 months, but neither player has since been a factor in world bridge (except that Reese continues to write some of the best bridge books ever published).

1965 Precedent Ignored
The precedent of 1965 was ignored in the scandal of 1975. Zucchelli and Facchini were benched for the afternoon of January 27, but only because their captain thought they were shaken by the ordeal of being reprimanded.

The North American team, which wanted to withdraw from such a farcical world championship was ordered by the American Contract Bridge League to play on or face strict disciplinary action.

As one member of the team put it: "What is diplomatically called 'improper conduct' rates just a reprimand; but we could be barred from bridge for life for refusing to play against such people."

The day after the great reprimand, the North American team met Italy in a qualifying match. I must admit my team was not at its best, and Italy won that short match (one of 30 preliminary rounds) 125 to 64 points. The ACBL was quick to express concern for its team. In a morale-building gesture which should be nominated for an award of some kind, ACBL president Lewis L. Mathe of Los Angeles stated to reporters: "The Americans played like a bunch of jackasses. . . I do not think if you get trounced you should squawk. If you can't make it even close you really don't have a beef."

Thus encouraged, the North American team rallied, beat Italy in the next qualifying session, qualified for the semifinals and squeaked by France to meet Italy in the finals.

In the finals, North America led Italy by 72 points at the halfway mark. Then the world champions recovered their old form, and the Americans faltered. Only minutes before the end of the contest Italy clinched the victory by bidding a grand slam on the hand shown today. Don't work too hard to imitate the bidding methods used in this hand. Giorgio Belladonna and Benito Garozzo tangled themselves up in the auction and got too high. As a result, Belladonna could make the contract only if American expert Edwin Kantar held the king and precisely one other club.

If Kantar had more than one small club with the king, the trump finesse would work but the king would eventually win a trick anyway. If Kantar had the king of clubs but no small club, his partner would almost surely win a trump trick with 10-7-5-4. And if Kantar didn't have the king of clubs at all, the finesse would lose.

The odds were about 6 to 1 against the grand slam. If it failed, North America would win the world championship by three international match points. But the long shot came in, and Italy won another world championship.

My team, Kantar, Billy Eisenberg, Paul Soloway and Johnson, all of Los Angeles, together with Dallas experts Bob Wolff and Bob Hamman, agreed that they had their chance and that they could have won if they had just played a little better.

They are gentlemen, and it is an honor to have been their captain.

19 Persons Die In Cruise Ship Blaze

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—A cruise ship carrying aged passengers caught fire and sank at its mooring early Saturday, leaving 19 dead or presumed dead and crippling Dutch passengers.

CONGRATULATIONS, SIS—Kelli Taylor, left, crowns her sister, Erin, who won the title of Outstanding Young Business-Woman of the Year for Junior Achievement.

A woman died after being dragged from the flaming ship and police reported 18 others were missing and presumed trapped in the burned-out hull of the 184-foot Dutch river steamer, the Princess Irene, which docked overnight within a mile of Cologne's towering medieval cathedral.

Many of the survivors, taken to a hospital in Arnhem, Holland, said they escaped through broken windows with the help of rescue workers.

Erin Taylor Wins J.A. Honor Here

Erin Taylor was named the Outstanding Young Business Woman of the Year at the Midland Junior Achievement banquet Friday night in Ranchland Hill Country Club.

Miss Taylor, a junior at Lee High School, is a second year junior achiever. She was crowned by her sister, Kelli Taylor, who was named achiever of the year last year.

First runner-up was Cindy Mauldin, also a junior at Lee. Miss Mauldin is also a second year junior achiever.

Second runner-up was Karla Stump, a sophomore at Lee High School. Miss Stump is a first year junior achiever.

Other finalists were Karen Bundrick, Leigh Elizonda, Becky Hodges and Lori Lovett.

A panel of three judges chose the winners on the basis of personality, poise and grace, beauty, speaking ability, knowledge of current events and business.

Survivors staggered onto the pier in night gowns, pajamas and bathrobes. Police and firemen threw extra gangplanks onto the ship and rammed windows and doors to reach the passengers, some of them confined to wheel chairs.

"The shouting was horrible," said a 58-year-old paraplegic woman who identified herself as Mrs. Van Der Meulen. "I was saved by the cries of a friend, as I couldn't shout myself. Then I lay for a long time in my housecoat on the quay by the burning ship."

"It was hell, the cries of helpless invalids in anguish," sobbed a 67-year-old passenger named Butter. "I was pulled out and left on the quay in my underwear. I was in danger of suffocating from the smoke when I was put in an ambulance."

An unidentified man bleeding from the ear told a newsman he had lost his wife in the disaster. "As soon as I got free I tried to pull her out by the neck, but she suffocated in the thick smoke," he said.

Wjinie Seller, 17, a stewardess who left the ship before it sailed last Sunday, said she tried to convince Dutch officials to stop the cruise because she thought the ship was unsafe. But she said her pleas were ignored. She said she found cigarette butts below decks where smoking was prohibited.

However, a spokesman for the ship's owner told a news conference the ship had been inspected during the cruise and was found to be "totally OK."

Christ Presbyterian To Install Minister

Dr. Bill Stalcup will be officially installed as minister of Midland's Christ Presbyterian Church in ceremonies scheduled for 4 p.m. today.

Dr. Stalcup recently assumed the pastorate of the church, filling the vacancy created several months ago by the resignation of the Rev. Jonathan M. Hole.

Today's installation service at the church, 2801 N. Garfield St., will be open to the public.

Academy Graduates 22 Law Officers

The Permian Basin Law Enforcement Academy graduated 22 officers Friday after they completed six weeks of basic training. Lt. M. D. Browne, training specialist for the academy, said.

The officers, representing Odessa, Monahans, Big Spring, Pecos, Kermit, Alpine, Andrews and the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, attended 240 hours of course work dealing with law, criminal investigation, patrol procedures, defensive tactics and community relations.

DUMP GOLDEN STATE-

Sonics Even NBA Series

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle guard Fred Brown popped in 17 second-quarter points, and the SuperSonics combined that surge with tight defense to score a 111-94 victory over the Golden State Warriors Saturday in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Angels Nip Sox, 6-5

CHICAGO (AP) — Ellie Rodriguez' double triggered a three-run rally in the seventh inning, and the California Angels added another run in the eighth with the help of an error and a passed ball to whip the Chicago White Sox 6-5 Saturday.

Winner Bill Singer, 1-1, needed relief from Mickey Scott after giving up his seventh and eighth hits of the game in the eighth inning. The White Sox then proceeded to tee off on the Angels reliever for their final three runs in a rally capped by Deron Johnson's RBI single.

Chicago's ace Wilbur Wood lost his fourth straight game of the baseball season.

ter, finished the game with 37 points.

Rookie center Tom Burleson matched his career high of 29 points and added a game-high 15 rebounds, including 11 in the second half.

Keith Wilkes, another rookie, paced the Warriors with 22 points.

Seattle went ahead to stay in the second quarter behind the scoring of Brown, superb defense against the Warriors, and 14 of 16 free throws.

Seattle's rookie forward Talvin Skinner combined with veteran Spencer Haywood to hold Rick Barry to only six first-half points. Barry, who had averaged more than 34 points a game in the previous three games of the playoffs, finished with 11. He hit only three of 14 from the field before fouling out with 5:40 to go in the game.

Golden State's Jeff Mullins hit three quick baskets to give the Warriors a 34-30 lead early in the second quarter. Then Brown went to work, scoring 17 of Seattle's next 19 points. In that streak, he hit six of seven from the field and five of six from the line.

At the same time, the Sonic defense limited the Warriors to rebound baskets by Clifford Ray and Derrek Bickey and two free throws each for Ray and Barry to move to a 49-42 lead.

Cubs Get Pitching, But Just Need Another Bat

Manager Doc Edwards planned to build his Midland Cubs around his pitching staff, a good defense and a bit of basepath derring-do.

He has been getting all three, but what he didn't count on was a batting fast.

The Cubs are 2-5 going into today's doubleheader at San Antonio and sport a team batting average of .227, thanks to a one 12-hit game and Friday's 11-hitter in the 4-3 inning win over the Brewers.

The team that led the Texas League in home runs the last two years shows just one boundary belt in its first seven.

Three times the Cubs have been shutout so far, which is a league-leading pace.

However, the fact that the Cubs are getting the pitching and defense to keep the game close has to be encouraging.

Now, if only, they could get one bat in the lineup, it might turn things around.

Wayne Tyrone, who pulled a thigh muscle just before the Cubs broke spring camp in Scottsdale, Ariz., and has seen just limited action.

The presence of Tyrone, who shared last year's TL home run leadership with teammate Jerry Tabb, could make a big difference, if only because it would offset the way opposing pitchers pitch to three or four batters.

"It's coming along," says Tyrone of the injury, "but I can't go full speed, so it's probably best to rest and let nature take its course."

Oddly enough, both games in which Tyrone has been in the lineup as Designated Hitter, Midland won.

The Cubs hope to get things going when they come home for an eight-day homestand against Shreveport and San Antonio, starting Tuesday night.

Shreveport, of course, will be playing under the Pittsburgh Pirate banner this year after Milwaukee moved out of the TL.

While the Cubs are batting .227, the pitching staff has a 2.32 earned-run average and relief pitcher Bruce Stratter has appeared in four games and notched both Cub wins.

Dan Corder, whose debut this spring was delayed by a sore shoulder, became the first Cub to go nine innings this year. The 225-pound Californian blanked San Antonio, only to see the game slip away after he left in the 10th.

The A's got two unearned runs off Ray Corbin in the fourth after Sal Bando and Jackson singled, putting runners on first and third. Jackson broke for second when Corbin started his windup. Corbin backed off, looked at Jackson, then then threw wildly to third trying to nail Bando. Both runners scored on the throw.

Jackson's homer, his third of the season, was a line drive into the right field bleachers following a walk to Bando.

Vida Blue, 3-1, who needed stout relief help from Rollie Fingers, struck out 10 batters and scattered seven hits, including a second-inning homer by Danny Thompson.

er gave San Diego a second-inning run and Atlanta tied it in the third on a walk to Larvell Blanks, Gentry's sacrifice and Perez' single. Dave Freisleben, 1-1, who needed ninth-inning relief help after Dusty Baker hit a home run, picked up the victory.

REDS TAKE 9-8 VICTORY—

Astros Lose In 9th

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Perez started a three-run ninth-inning rally with a home run and Dave Concepcion capped it with a game-winning single that carried the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-8 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday.

Perez slugged his third homer of the year leading off the ninth against Ken Forsch and, after Cesar Geronimo struck out, Ken Griffey singled. Dan Driessen walked, George Foster fanned, then Pete Rose tied it 8-8 with a single before Concepcion lined his hit to left, sending the Astros down to their sixth straight setback.

The Astros built up 7-1 lead with three runs in the third inning and three in the fourth, scored twice more in the seventh and Perez' sacrifice fly and triple and Geronimo's double. Geronimo's homer and, after Concepcion's double, Milt May grounded to widen Houston's lead to 8-3. Cincinnati eighth-inning run.

Cattfish Drops Third Straight Mound Loss

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit ripped Cattfish Hunter for six runs in three innings, three on a first-inning homer by Willie Horton, and the Tigers sent the millionaire right-hander to his third straight loss by drubbing the New York Yankees 8-3 Saturday.

Mickey Lolich went all the way for the Tigers to raise his record to 2-0, both triumphs

Brewers Blank Indians, 3-0

CLEVELAND (AP) — Darrell Porter and Sixto Lezcano slugged successive second-inning doubles and George Scott homered to back Bill Champion's two-hit pitching and lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 3-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Don Money led off the second against Jim Perry, 0-2, with a walk but was caught stealing before Porter lined a double to left-center field and scored on Lezcano's blast to center.

Scott's first homer of the season and Pedro Garcia's sacrifice fly came in the ninth inning.

Champion, 3-0, struck out three Indians, walked one and checked Cleveland on Charlie Spikes' double in the fifth inning and Tom McCraw's single in the sixth.

Padres Rip Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — Tito reached base on a two-out throwing error by Marty Puentes drilled a two-run triple in a three-run fourth inning, and Mike Ivie singled. Fred and Dave Winfield homered to power the San Diego Padres to an 8-2 rout of the Atlanta Braves Saturday.

Puentes snapped a 1-1 tie in the nationally televised game after Willie McCovey had sin when he connected with his blast to right-center field off highlight a two-run eighth.

Gary Gentry, 0-1, after Winfield's double-play grounding error gave San Diego a second-inning run and Atlanta tied it in the third on a walk to Larvell Blanks, Gentry's sacrifice and Perez' single. Dave Freisleben, 1-1, who needed ninth-inning relief help after Dusty Baker hit a home run, picked up the victory.

Lacock Homers—Cubs Clip Mets, 4-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lacock homered in the first inning and Peter LaCock and Jose Cardenal slammed homers, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 decision over the New York Mets Saturday.

Losers Tom Seaver, 1-2, found himself in a hole right away after giving up Morales' base hit. Jose Cardenal doubled with one out and moved to third on a grounder. Rick Monday drew a walk off the Met right-hander before Morales lated a double into the left field corner.

The Mets struck back to tie it with two runs in the second inning. Rusty Staub and Dave Kingman walked and both scored on a double by Wayne Garrett.

LaCock then drove Seaver's first pitch of the fourth inning over the 371-foot sign in right center for his second homer of the year.

Winner Steve Stone, 2-0, needed relief help in the eighth from Darold Knowles, who grounded a mild Met up.

Rockets Defuse Boston's Speed

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets' demolition squad defused Boston's explosive fast break Saturday and Rockets Coach Johnny Egan said that was the difference in the Rockets' 117-102 National Basketball Association playoff victory.

"We stopped their fast break by not turning over the ball to them," Egan said after Houston had scored its first victory in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series. The victory narrowed Boston's lead to 2-1, with the fourth game set here Tuesday.

"After those two games up there, we talked a lot about their strengths," Egan said. "We had to stop their fast break and we had to go hard to the boards. All these things worked well for us today."

Houston out-rotouted the Celtics 47-41. The Rockets were helped down the stretch by the absence of Celtics center Dave Cowens, who fouled out with 11:36 left in the game.

"I knew we'd win here," said Rockets guard Mike Newlin. "This crowd is unbelievable. It'll surprise anybody."

With a capacity throng of 10,218 roaring approval, Houston took its game to the Celtics. The Rockets had major scoring thrusts late in the second quarter and in the third period that helped them stay ahead of the defending NBA champions.

"We played a thrust offense," said Newlin. "We shot well and we took our game to them instead of them taking their game to us like they did in Boston. Anything can happen now."

Forward Rudy Tomjanovich paced Houston's attack with 28 points.

Boston called a timeout to regroup, but when play resumed the Rockets got two straight fast-break baskets by Tomjanovich for a 66-54 lead.

Boston, which never led after the early stages of the game, pulled to within four points on two baskets by Jo Jo White midway through the fourth quarter.

But the Rockets, frustrated by the Celtics in two previous playoff losses, withstood the pressure and built the lead back up to 93-83 on a lay-in by Mike Newlin with 5:27 left in the game.

Celtics center Dave Cowens was handicapped by foul trouble. He drew his fifth personal with 1:09 left in the third quarter then fouled out just 24 seconds into the final period.

The American Football Assn. of Japan said Friday it had invited football teams from Oklahoma U. and USC to play one or two games in Japan next January in commemoration of the U.S. bicentennial anniversary.

Michigan State's football program is being probed by the NCAA. Mark Cones, a nine-game starter for SMU year, has quit the Mustang football squad, saying he did not want to play under Head Coach Dave Smith. "I just don't agree with the program and the way it is being run. I don't think Dave Smith is a good head coach."

Basketball

John Wooden doesn't think his shoes are so big. "To say that coaching at UCLA this year will be the toughest job in America is underestimating the talents of players like Marques Johnson and Ralph Drollinger," he said. Wooden disclosed he made the decision to retire on the way to the semifinal room over Louisville. "When the year began I intended to come back for one more year... After the cham-

Palmer Wins Spanish Open Golf Crown

MURCIA, Spain (AP) — Arnold Palmer, the legendary veteran of the U.S. pro golf tour, shot an eagle three on the final hole Saturday and posted a one-stroke victory in the $67,000 Spanish Open golf tournament.

It was Palmer's first triumph since 1973.

The 45-year-old golfing great came to the 18th hole needing a birdie to tie John Fourie of South Africa, who was in the clubhouse with a final round 74 and a 72-hole total of 284.

But Palmer went one better. He blasted a perfect drive on the par five finishing hole and followed with a spectacular four-iron second shot, that landed just three feet from the pin. Palmer then sank the putt for the victory.

Palmer had rounds of 72, 69, 69 and 73 for a total of 283, five-under-par. He earned $9,000 for the victory.

Jacksonville Tries For Sharks Again

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Jacksonville team in the World Football League may be known as the Sharks again if it can obtain permission from the old owner, the principal organizer said Friday.

If the team doesn't use the Sharks name this year, Knabb said it might be the Jacksonville Express, based on the railroad hub background of the city.

Baseball

Major league baseball's 24 home owners drew a total attendance of 707,390, an increase of 6,306 over last year. Average attendance at the openers was 29,475. Three clubs—Cincinnati, 32,526; Milwaukee, 48,160; and Texas, 28,787—set records....

Hockey

Champion Russia whipped Sweden, 13-4, Saturday to complete play in the 1975 World Ice Hockey championships with a 10-0-0 mark. The U.S. finished with a perfect mark, 0-10, but lost to Poland, 5-2. Czechoslovakia took the silver medal by beating Finland, 5-1, for an 8-2 record.

Sugiarto Triumphs In Open Tennis

KUALA LAMPUR (AP) — Lita Sugiarto and Lany Kaligis, both of Indonesia, scored semifinal victories Saturday and will meet in today's women's singles final of the 44th Malaysian Open tennis championship.

In semifinal matches, Miss Kaligis, the defending champion and No. 2 seed, rallied for to beat Lois Roymond of Australia, 6-1, 6-0, and Miss Sugiarto coasted past Gwen Stirton, also of Australia, 6-1, 6-3.

FANS RECALL DIMAGGIO'S 56 IN ROW, BUT— Streak Of 82 Unsung

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Joe Dimaggio hit in 56 straight games, Don Drysdale threw 58 2-3 scoreless innings, but Harrison Dillard offers a rarely considered nomination for one of sports' greatest individual feats.

"I won 82 races in a row between June, 1947, and July, 1948," the former world-record holding hurdler and sprinter recalls quietly. "I guess it's the least known streak in sports."

"I think the record is in the same class, naturally, as Dimaggio's or Drysdale's," he continued. "It's lasted since 1948. It must be reasonably difficult."

"Frankly, I think it's a remarkable record, not just because it's mine, but because I know what it takes to have a streak."

"Many races are won by inches. You can run a hell of a race and still lose by a much. Everything has to break just right and it takes a remarkable degree of consistency," Dillard, 51, currently is director of purchasing for the Cleveland public schools. He was in Las Vegas recently for his induction to the Black Athlete's Hall of Fame.

He said he scored about 80 per cent of the victories as a hurdler and 20 per cent as a sprinter in the streak. That is usually considered a difficult combination for a runner.

The string included a world record of 13.6 in the 110-meter high hurdles in Kansas and another of 22.3 in the 220 hurdles at Salt Lake City.

It also included a nine-week tour of Scandinavia, trips to the British Isles and indoor and outdoor seasons, he said. It covered all final events, no preliminaries.

They were not the only streaks Dillard attained. A winner of two gold medals in each of the 1948 and 1952 Olympics and a one-time holder of 11 world and Olympic records, Dillard captured the 60-yard high hurdles nine years in a row in the Millrose Games in New York and the 50-yard high hurdles 12 years in a row at the Cleveland Knights of Columbus meet.

FOR SCHOLARSHIP FUND— Cubs Play 2 For Chaparrals

Midland College Scholarship Day at Cubs Stadium will be Saturday. Tickets go on sale this week for the double header game. Robert Hollmann, chairman of the event and instructor at the college, stated, "we will be recognizing all groups and individuals who have contributed scholarships to Midland College during a special ceremony at the stadium that evening."

The Midland Cubs will be presenting a scholarship of their own to the college. According to Stoney Feeney, general manager of the Cubs, 50 cents on every adult ticket sold will be given to award a scholarship to a MC student.

Tickets are being sold by the MC Student Senate or may be purchased at the gate Saturday evening.

Over 38 individuals, groups and foundations have contributed scholarships to the college, amounting to over 100 scholarships. According to Bill Burns, director of financial aids, the scholarships range from $50 to $1,000 for each recipient. He stated, "we are pleased to have this opportunity to acknowledge our appreciation to the people who are making the scholarships possible."

DiMaggio recently revealed that he became tense and took up smoking during his streak, but Dillard says he was at ease in his effort.

"I looked forward to each week's race because I wanted to set the record," he remembers. "Greg Rice, the Notre Dame distance runner, had held the mark at 65, and my coach and I had projected exactly where I would be going after the mark and it turned out as I expected."

"I equalled the 65th victory at Miami of Ohio and broke it 10 minutes later in a 100-yard dash.

Today Dillard lives with his wife and daughter, 13, in Cleveland. The city is 18 miles from Berea, where he attended college at Baldwin Wallace.

"Frankly, I think it's one of those records that's going to be very hard to break," he says. "The competition world wide seems to be so intense now."

Braves Fight No-Shows

ATLANTA (AP) — Phenomenal pitching and timely hitting have brought the Atlanta Braves to the top of the National League West. Yet their fans continue to stay away.

After sweeping a three-game set from the Houston Astros, the Braves found themselves tied for first place with the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday. Each has a 6-4 record.

For Atlanta, it was the first time since April 11, 1971 the club had reached such a lofty height. But despite success, the 32,870 royal blue seats at Atlanta Stadium remain mostly empty.

In Atlanta's home opener Tuesday night, a record low opening night crowd of 12,774 showed up as Phil Niekro stifled the Astros 6-1, lowering his earned run average to 0.66.

The next night, Buzz Capra won 5-2 for his second complete-game victory and unbeaten Carl Morton captured his third straight Thursday night with a 2-1 triumph in 10 innings.

Yet only 3,401 fans showed up to watch Capra and 3,123 to see Morton.

"I'm not getting on the fans," said Capra, who is 2-0 with a 1.50 ERA. "I'm just making a statement and I want everybody to understand that."

"We're pros," said Capra. "We're going to give it our all every time out. But it grates some of the players and myself."

regulars. But there's a lot of people in Atlanta who don't know what they're missing."

Despite the absence of Hank Aaron in the Braves' lineup for the first time in 22 years, Atlanta has been getting clutch hitting from Ralph Garr, Darrell Evans and Dusty Baker.

A spokesman for the Braves blames the lack of fans on the economy and the false belief that the stadium parking areas are unsafe.

"It can't all be Aaron," he said. "I believe the economy has had something to do with it. Also the people think it is unsafe to park at the stadium, which is untrue. We have not had any incidents at the stadium in two years. The area is well lit and patrolled by police."

King Meets Evert

Both Post Easy 'Series' Semifinal Wins

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — It took Billie Jean King one minute less playing time Saturday than Chris Evert to earn a final berth against Miss Goolagong in the $100,000 World Series of Tennis.

Miss Evert dropped Russia's Olga Morozova, 6-4, 6-1 in 62 minutes while Ms. King whipped Evonne Goolagong of Australia, 6-1, 6-3 in 61 minutes before a national television audience.

Ms. King, who prefers that title, and Miss Evert will square off today at 1:45 p.m. CDT to decide the winner of the largest first place prize in women's tennis history.

Miss Morozova meets Miss Goolagong at 10:30 a.m. Ms. King grabbed five straight game victories in her first set as Miss Goolagong struggled to combat Ms. King's excited play.

women's tennis history — quered by the fast court as Ms. King slammed numerous passing shots to take control of the match.

"In fairness to Evonne, she wasn't playing well," said Ms. King who used a strong backhand in consistent serves to build an insurmountable first set lead.

Miss Goolagong came back in the second set to chalk up three straight victories after dropping behind 3-0. But Miss King roared back, breaking service twice, to sweep the set and the match.

"I was nervous after winning the first set so easily," Ms. King said. "You tend to stop concentrating when you have an easy first set victory."

Asked what she will do in today's match with Miss Evert, Ms. King said "hang loose, play deep and pray a lot."

In 13 matches between Miss Evert and Ms. King, Miss Evert holds a one-match lead.

Golfers To Divide Tour

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — The Professional Golfers Association announced Saturday that its 1976 tour will be divided into three segments, with the winners of each eligible for the World Series of Golf.

The divisions—winter, spring and summer tours—will follow closely the current schedule of tournaments.

Winners of each segment will be decided by a system based on points to the first 10 finishers in each tournament.

The three winners will join the champions of the Tournament Players Division Championship, the Masters, the U.S.

Open, the PGA Championship and the British Open in the expanded World Series of Golf to be played in September.

The World Series will be expanded from 36 to 72 holes and probably will have no fewer than 16 competitors. Saturday's announcement extends the eligibility list to at least eight, and the PGA will announce later qualifications to fill the other positions.

The winter tour will run from September through March, the spring tour from March through Memorial Day weekend and the summer tour from early June to the Labor Day weekend.

Boy Barred From Girls Team

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Maurice J. White vows to spend every last nickel of her income tax rebate and then some to keep her 10-year-old son from being banned by the all-girls Corpus Christi Little Miss Kickball Association.

"If it comes down to it, my husband and I will take it to the Supreme Court," says Diane White, who feels Jeffrey Daniel White is a victim of discrimination.

"We've got girls playing on boy baseball teams and I certainly didn't expect this type of reverse discrimination," says Mrs. White.

The Whites have lost round one.

They were turned down in an attempt to get an injunction against the CCLMKA but have appealed the case to the 13th Dist. Court of Civil Appeals. The three-judge panel is expected to rule sometime in June.

The suit against the CCLMKA claims Jeffrey tried to register twice in the league.

Kickball is played like baseball only the pitcher rolls a soccer-sized ball to the plate and the batter kicks it then runs to first.

"The kids play in shorts and T-shirts and there is very little body contact," says Mrs. White. "There are no boy leagues in the sport outside of school. I would certainly prefer him to be in a boy's league. We have a 9-year-old daughter, Kirsten, playing in the same kickball league."

Young Jeffrey appeared in District Court, barely visible above the guard railing, at the hearing March 27 in Corpus Christi. He testified he wanted to play kickball with the girls because the boys didn't have a league.

"The defense said we were just out for publicity and I've been told that they thought Jeffrey might be too rough for the girls," Mrs. White says. "I think it takes a lot of guts for him to want to be the only boy on a team where most of the girls will be 12 and 13 years old. He's probably asking for more than he understands. But we're going to back him. We've already paid $220 in court costs. If we win, maybe we can at least get that back."

Mrs. White says her son didn't care to play baseball this summer and decided on kickball to get him ready for football—his favorite sport.

"Jeff took some razzing while he was practicing with the team before he was banned, but he handled it well," Mrs. White says. "Most of the mothers want him to play and the coach, Mrs. Ellie Peralez, didn't object to him practicing. But now that's been stopped."

Jeffrey, who is also a Boy Scout, only made one stipulation in asking to play in the girls' league.

"Mom, I don't want to play for the Poodles because they have Pink and White uniforms," he said.

"This thing has gotten funny at home but it's really not very funny when a young boy is being deprived of his civil rights," says Mrs. White. "My husband is a good old-fashioned Southern man who believes boys and girls shouldn't be on the same teams. But he took Jeffrey down to register because he wanted to play so badly."

Soph Leagues Hold Tryouts

Tryouts for all Sophomore Leagues (13-14 years) will start Monday at 5:30 p. m. at Redfern Field in Hogan Park, it was announced by Luis Salinas, vice-commissioner of Midland Junior Baseball Assn. Teen-Age leagues.

Thirteen year-old players with last names A through H try out Monday. The I through Q names are scheduled Tuesday while R through Z is for Wednesday. All 14-year-olds will try out Thursday and make up day for all who missed their regularly-scheduled tryouts is Friday.

All boys who try out will be assigned to a team Friday night. Boys who do not try out will be assigned to B-League teams and will not be eligible to play on a A team this season.

Oppressed Capitalist

Walton Clears The Air On His Stance

By JACK MURPHY
Copley News Service

The eccentricities of Bill Walton have a potential to destroy him as a professional basketball player, and that, it seems safe to say, is more important to Walton than to the Republic.

I have no sound idea of what Walton is all about, and I confess that I am mystified when he portrays himself as one of the oppressed in the society he finds so decadent.

It is a system, for all its flaws, which enables Walton to enrich himself with a contract reportedly worth $2 million for nothing more important than playing basketball.

It is also a system which gives him freedom to denounce the FBI, to link himself with radicals suspected of providing refuge for Patty Hearst and other fugitives from justice, and to express his contempt for the U.S. government.

Actually, the unstated question was: does Walton seek to jump his contract with Portland in order to play for the Los Angeles Lakers?

The answer is no answer at all, just more stale rhetoric.

"The ruling class in this country knows it is in trouble," the magazine quotes Walton.

"I mean, things are happening right here in the United States, all over the world, that are detrimental to what they are trying to put across.

"I feel this is a situation that goes along these lines, that I am a person whose beliefs and life-style and actions go against what they are trying to make people believe in. And, therefore, I think they are going to try to do everything they possibly can to discredit me as an individual so that people will think what I do is so much sly."

It's Walton's conceit that he believes the press of America seeks to destroy him because he is a nonconformist. He must see himself as a heroic figure.

He's a vegetarian, he wears a headband, his red tresses fall to his shoulders, he associates with people the FBI finds interesting (notably Jack and Micki Scott) and he recites the dogma of the radical-left. Thus, he believes a conspiracy has formed against him.

Dollar Bill lecturing on the evils of the press and a capitalistic society is one form of entertainment. This is the young man of enlightened social conscience who identifies with the people of the third world, not to mention Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers. In Walton's expensive Portland home there is a poster of Chavez, and he is very sympathetic to the impoverished.

Midland, Lee Dominate All-5-4A Swim Teams

Midland and Midland Lee dominated the All-District 5-4A swimming teams; landing 13 of 17 berths on the boys' team and 12 of the 17 spots on the girls' team.

Selections were based on times recorded during the season.

Lee's Brad Swendig was a three-way pick, landing a spot on the medley relay, 200-IM and 100-fly. Teammate Mike Butler also gained three spots, the 400-free relay, 200-free and 500-free. Rebel Steve Degenfelder made it on both relay teams.

Midland's Russell Gun made the 200-medley relay unit and the 100-breast while Danny Cerf was the 100-backstroke pick. Doyle Kimble won diving and Randy McIntyre was the backstroke on the medley relay.

Mary Dowdle of Midland was a three-way pick on the girls' team in the 400-free relay, 200-

Cubs Beat Brewers, 4-3

SAN ANTONIO—Second baseman Al Montreuil's 375-foot triple into the left-center field alley scored Aaron Randall in the 12th inning and gave the Midland Cubs a 4-3 Texas League win over San Antonio's Brewers here Friday night.

A crowd of 4,829 fans saw the Cubs rally for two runs in the ninth to force the game into extra innings. It was the Cubs' first win in the series after 1-0 and 4-3 defeats at the hands of the Brewers.

Bruce Sutter, who came on in relief of starter Dave Geisel in the ninth, wandered in and out of trouble the next three innings, but managed to keep the Brewers off the scoreboard in notching his second win of the season.

Randall's single set up Montreuil's game-winning hit.

Montreuil also triggered the Cubs' ninth inning rally by leading off with a single. Mike Semben walked and Gary Weese relieved Dennis Kinney. Catcher Greg Collins beat out a sacrifice to load the bases and Cliff Hall's grounder to second brought home one, run and Julio Gonzalez' fly to right tied it.

The Cubs ended a string of 21 straight scoreless innings in the seventh. Behind 3-0, Collins singled home a run drought-breaking run after starter Tom Linnert had walked Montreuil and Semben.

San Antonio bunched its three runs in the second when Brock Davis and Rob Belloir led off with singles and Rex Bynum walked to load 'em up. Dane Heise then singled home one run. Andy Rodriguez plated another with a fly and Orlando Gonzalez' grounder accounted for the third.

The Cubs and Brewers were idle Saturday but were scheduled for a doubleheader today with Mike Krukow (0-1) and Donnie Moore (0-1) going for the Cubs against Bob Grossman (1-0) and John Langerhans (0-1) for San Antonio's Brewers.

Marathon: The Footsteps Are Coming

BOSTON (AP) — Listen, my children, and you shall hear... the thundering of feet on pavement.

If Paul Revere ever had seen the starting lineup for the Boston A.A. Marathon here Monday, he might have put out to sea instead of taking off on his countryside ride.

A whopping record field of nearly 2,450, including 52 women, is down to start in the 79th Patriot's Day run from Hopkinton to Boston. Ten years ago the normal field was 250 for the 26-mile, 385-yard race.

Since the jogging fad caught hold, the number of starters has grown each year. Despite qualifying restrictions, the main one that a runner must certify he has run a marathon in 3½ hours or less, race officials are caught in an ever-increasing bind for this race which is held on the anniversary of Revere's famous ride.

There were 1,705 official starters last year. The human traffic jam at the starting line on a narrow tree-lined street near Hopkinton High School was unbelievable. It took about

Ellsworth's Starving Horses Recover

But Questions Remain As To Thoroughbreds' Neglect

GOLF WINNERS—Mrs. Jake Bechtold, left, Odessa, and Mrs. Tom Welch, Midland CC, combined for a 127 to win the Hoot and Shoot golf tournament at Midland CC.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The case of Rex Ellsworth's starving horses has come to a close, but the questions remain. Ellsworth's printed explanations aside, animal cruelty officials still wonder how one of America's most renowned thoroughbred breeders could have allowed 130 mares to go for months without food, wasting away, weakening. Ten of the horses died. Is it, as some have declared, the "sad end of an empire" for the 67-year-old no-nonsense cowboy, the man who challenged the plush Eastern stables, the man whose horse Swaps won the 1955 Kentucky Derby and more than $850,000 in prize money. One man who doesn't think so is William Scott, the San Bernardino County assistant district attorney who prosecuted Ellsworth on animal mistreatment charges. "Rex Ellsworth has been up and he's been down, in the past," says Scott. "I wouldn't be surprised to see him up there again." Perhaps. But signs are that the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, are being transferred to another Ellsworth ranch near Benson, Ariz. SPCA inspectors recently went there to check conditions, and reported that Ellsworth is now adequately feeding and caring for the herd. The man who once raced three platoons of horses at Santa Anita and other tracks has reduced his racing activities to a minimum. But although he declined to contest the mistreatment charges, Ellsworth stubbornly refused to admit guilt. His explanation was that some of the mares were thin because they were old and had borne foals for 18 or 20 years, and that others had just come from racing and were off their feed. Whispers around the racing world in the past were that Ellsworth was overly strict, even harsh with his horses. He and his trainer-partner, Meshach "Mish" Tenney, acknowledged that such successes as Swaps, Candy Spots, Prove

REGIONAL IN LUBBOCK—Midland, Liz Norton Win Spots In State Golf Play

LUBBOCK—Midland High's girls golf team and Midland Lee's Liz Norton earned berths in the state Girls Golf Tournament in regional play here Thursday and Friday. Midland finished second to Amarillo in the team standings while Miss Norton turned in a medal score of 175 for the 36 holes. State play is scheduled for Austin May 1-2. Amarillo's 778 team total edged out Midland by one slim stroke. The Sandie girls were led by Kim Snook, whose 182 was second low round. Patty Loehr of Amarillo Tascosa had third low of 183. Pam Scharbauer shot a 186 to lead Midland while Mary Owen had 193, Judy Blacklock 196 and Lisa Howe 204. Midland Lee's team score of 804 was good for fourth with Amarillo Tascosa third on a 766. Golfers scores soared in Friday's round as 45 m.p.h. winds buffeted the Meadowbrook course.

Devils Qualify 9 For Regional

WINK—Rankin's awesome Red Devils will have another strong track squad to defend their regional title in Lubbock this weekend after posting 193 points to win the District 6-A crown. Rankin qualified nine individuals and two relay teams for the regionals and will be represented in 11 of the 14 events. Speed was the only two-event winner for the Devils after winning the shot and discus. Curtis Copeland won the high jump and Ernest Black won the 400. Rankin's second place finishes included Bobby Johnson, 120 high and long jump; Mike Vick, 330 hurdles; Tommy Johnson, pole vault; and Doug McAnagh, 800. Rankin was second in the sprint relay with a 46.5, but won the mile relay with a five 3:30.5.

Dade Sparks Diablo Win

By The Associated Press El Paso shock Shreveport with 17 hits in the Western Division and Jackson has taken over the lead in the Eastern Division in the latest shuffle in the Texas League. Paul Dade with four hits and Dave Macherer with two sparked the Diablos' attack on Shreveport pitchers for a 17-5 victory while Jackson was squeezing past Alexandria 3-2. In the only other game Friday night Midland needed 12 innings to defeat San Antonio 4-3. Lafayette at Arkansas was rained out.

O'Neal Cops Odessa Race

ODESSA—Pat O'Neal whizzed home in first place in the 25-lap feature Modified Stock race at Odessa Speedway Friday night. It was a productive night for Pat, who also won the trophy dash and the first heat. Ronnie Sims of Midland took first in the Stock feature, while Paul Allred was a double-winner in the division with First Heat and Second Heat firsts.

Apodaca Recalled

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets have recalled right-handed pitcher Bob Apodaca, who had been on the disabled list with an inflamed right elbow, and have optioned Hank Webb to Tidewater of the International League, the club announced Friday.

Did You Know That...?

There hasn't been a whole lot written or said about it, but Texas voters are scheduled to go to the polls again Tuesday in a statewide election.

Two proposed amendments to the state constitution will be before the voters—if any.

This "if any" business should be of concern to all residents of the Lone Star State. And there is considerable doubt if anywhere near a representative vote will be polled.

The first proposal pertains to state and local retirement systems and provides for an increase in the ceiling on state contributions to the teacher and state employe systems from six per cent to 10 per cent of salary. It also provides benefit increases to retired teachers and state employes.

Amendment No. 2 increases the annual salary of members of the state legislature from $4,800 to $7,200.

These are matters of major importance to taxpayers, but very little information has been distributed by either sponsors or opponents concerning the measures.

The Reporter-Telegram has no particular objection to either proposal, but we do wonder about the soft approach procedure.

The $4,800 annual salary for both senators and representatives is too low, as recognized by most persons. But there are certain other benefits, which doesn't make the low figure quite so ridiculous.

Hopefully, more information on both proposals will be presented statewide today and Monday.

It is important that matters of such significance be decided by a representative number of voters. It is hoped that Midland and area voters in representative numbers will express themselves at the polls Tuesday.

Top-Rated Benefit!

Nothing to do or see in Midland, you say?

Well, this certainly will not be true Monday night, if ever, because the Youth Centers of Midland and Lee high schools are bringing top entertainment to the Tall City on that date.

The one-night benefit performance features the famed comedy team of Skiles and Henderson and the renowned Levee Singers.

This stellar event not only provides top entertainment for youths and adults alike, but it affords all Midlanders an excellent opportunity of lending financial support to the Youth Centers.

The two Y.C.s long have served a most worthwhile purpose in the Tall City. They are recognized as models for like organizations over a wide area, but they have had difficulty in keeping their doors open the last few years, due to inflationary costs.

working to keep the wolf away from their doors. They need and merit your support, and your attendance at the Skiles-Henderson and Levee Singers performance Monday night will show that you care.

See you there!

Viet Nam's Future: Night Of Long Knives?

WASHINGTON—The American bourgeoisie, which H.L. Mencken loved to label the "boobocracy," is urged to put South Vietnam out of mind like a bad dream.

Some people aren't this charitable. "Let Vietnam go down the tube," one of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's (D-Conn.) staffers told me. "Thieu is worse than Nixon. He jailed newsmen and suppressed people. Thieu's a Fascist. The Vietnamese are better off under communism."

Well, they aren't, of course, but so far we don't have much solid information about what the North Vietnamese Communists are doing in the areas they overrun in recent weeks.

U.S. officials have received reports of half-a-dozen incidents in the Communist-occupied areas where groups of South Vietnamese army officers and village officials have been executed. There is also a report that Communist "people's courts" have tried and executed Bishop Peter Hoa of Phan-Thit, Bishop Nyun Hui-Mai of Ban Me-Thuot and a number of other Catholic priests.

About 1 million Catholics fled North Vietnam when the Communists took over years ago, and now there are more than 2 million Catholics living in South Vietnam. Many thousands of these Catholics, because of their opposition to communism, are on the North Vietnamese "blood debt" lists.

The Communists reportedly have also set up a tripartite commission in Da Nang for announced purposes of "conciliation." If this Communist regime holds true to form, the commission will serve as a filter center to find out who is "reliable" and those who aren't will soon be shot in the head.

In February, 1972, long before "Peace is at Hand" or the Paris Accords, a Senate judiciary subcommittee issued a solid and thorough compendium titled, "The Human Cost of Communism in Vietnam."

Revolutionary communism, from Lenin through Ho Chi Minh, has always practiced mass terror as a form of cleansing society. People don't like to be reminded these days that the Soviets executed, according to conservative estimates, 20 million people, and the Chinese Communists an even greater number.

Under Ho Chi Minh and his successors, the North Vietnamese have murdered several hundred thousand, and these are not military casualties; they are old-fashioned executions. One most Americans are familiar with is the Hue massacre during the 1968 Tet offensive.

When the Communists were finally forced out of Hue, some 5,700 of the city's residents were missing. One year later mass graves were discovered, and

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The intimate, human story now can be told of the world's most publicized marriage — the life together of Aristotle and Jacqueline Onassis.

Our information comes from sources so close to the celebrated couple that the details cannot be doubted.

The world was startled when the multimillionaire shipping tycoon in 1968 married the widow of the martyred President John F. Kennedy.

Onassis was a swarthy, gnome-like man, two inches shorter and 24 years older than the beautiful Jackie. For the Kennedy legions, who had looked upon her as the keeper of Camelot, it was the end of a glorious era.

She had been afraid, her friends said, that she might tarnish Kennedy's memory if she became Mrs. Anybody Else. But she had succumbed, they suggested, to Ari's submerged irresistibility.

Our sources swear, on the contrary, it was Jackie who pursued Ari. As they recall the circumstances, Onassis got into a hot argument with his paramour, the tempestuous soprano Maria Callas, during a Caribbean cruise in the summer of 1968. She flew off in a fury to New York City.

About the same time, according to intimates, Jackie caught a commercial flight to the Virgin Islands and arranged an invitation to join Onassis on his yacht. A couple months later, he signed a premarital contract which, our sources say, awarded her $3 million in tax-free bonds. They were married on Oct. 20, 1968, on his private Aegean island of Skorpios.

The old tycoon enjoyed the romantic conquest of the exquisite Jacqueline, who was regarded as one of the world's most desirable women, his friends say. But it was not at all a happy marriage.

They confirm The New York Times report that Onassis wanted a divorce. He had asked his confidant, John Meyer, to hire a private detective to seek evidence that could be used in a divorce proceeding. Lawyers had also been approached in both Greece and the United States to explore the legal obstacles to a divorce.

What concerned Onassis the most, apparently, were the financial consequences, for he quietly had determined, according to our sources, that the Greek Orthodox Church would allow him to dissolve the marriage on the simple grounds of incompatibility.

Apparently, Jackie received the message that the marriage was on the rocks. While she was vacationing with friends on Antigua in the British West Indies, aide Nancy Tuckerman called Onassis to give a routine report on Jackie's doings and to ask how long she should stay.

Sources with direct knowledge of the incident say he retorted: "Tell her to stay indefinitely."

She frequently complained to her friends about Ari. "He is such a loner," she said. His tastes, she thought, were vulgar. She told of wearing a diamond he had picked out for her. She was mortified when a friend asked derisively:

INSIDE REPORT—

U.S. Officials Sure Of Nothing Right Now

By RONALD EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The Elysee Palace has passed the word that President Valery Giscard d'Estaing may break French policy of the last decade by attending a NATO summit meeting late in May, a surprising message indicating European alarm at the suddenly fallen fortunes of the U.S.

No French president has ever attended a North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) summit since the French pulled out of the alliance's military structure in 1966. The bare possibility that Giscard himself may indeed go to Brussels for the summit meeting that President Ford is now trying to put together was privately raised with the U.S. embassy in Paris.

If he does attend, it will signal no change in French policy toward NATO; nor will Giscard be a particularly eager participant. Rather, the decision to attend would display one thing: rising French concern, shared all over Western Europe, that the catastrophe of American policy in Southeast Asia coupled with Soviet advances requires a solid show of Western unity.

There is also reaction in Moscow. So shattering and sudden is the U.S. debacle in Vietnam and Cambodia that policymakers here detect minute though significant policy changes inside the Kremlin to protect the U.S.-Soviet detente. The first change: an order from the Kremlin to the Communist party of Portugal to "go slow" in seizing total power in Lisbon.

Evans Novak

That directive was given to the second ranking Portuguese Communist party official on his recent visit to Moscow to discuss the rapid and astonishing success of the party in its grasp for control of the Western anchor of NATO.

U.S. officials desperately trying to grasp the full impact of the worst foreign policy defeat in this nation's history are sure of nothing at this early stage, but a consensus is beginning to develop along these lines:

The Kremlin was probably shocked as much as the Ford administration by the wholly unexpected withdrawal and subsequent collapse of the South Vietnamese army. With thousands of Americans still in Saigon and Phnom Penh as potential victims of Asian fury, Moscow is fearful that mass killings could arouse violent reactions in the U.S. — "arouse the slumbering beast," in the words of one policymaker — and result in angry anti-Soviet sentiment. That could shatter detente, which the Kremlin definitely does not want to happen.

Having poured arms and munitions into Hanoi, the Soviet Union has forfeited control over the pace of events in Vietnam. But it is not without important political and financial resources to slow down the Communist takeover in Portugal.

There is, moreover, another explanation for a Soviet go-slow order to its confederates in Portugal. Moscow desperately wants an all-European summit meeting later this year that would formally recognize Soviet hegemony over its European empire. If Portugal slips inside the Communist orbit, the Kremlin can forget all about any such summit conference.

These first political developments from the debacle of Vietnam — a French concession to President Ford's call for a Western summit and Moscow's effort to restrain the Portuguese Communists — underscore a key phrase in Mr. Ford's distended speech to Congress:

"As long as I'm President," he said, "we will not permit detente to become a license to fish in troubled waters."

Those words reflect both the hard-line policy of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and the specific recommendation, made directly to the Oval Office on several occasions the past 10 days, of Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger. The warning, however, did not have to be made by the President for Soviet leaders to get the point.

Even in the Middle East, Moscow is playing a "cool and quiet" game, according to one presidential adviser. The Soviets are working closely with radical Palestinians to avoid border attacks against Israel that might set off another Arab-Israeli war — and a super-power confrontation.

These covert Soviet moves point in only one direction: detente as a Soviet policy is serving Soviet interests far too well to risk anything approaching direct face-down with the U.S. President Ford's toughest job now is to find ways for the U.S. to escape further defeats within the same detente framework — a problem of statesmanship harder than any President has faced since World War II.

Not The Answer

To The Editor:
I read in a newspaper that the wind blew up against my back fence the other day, an article pointing out the fact that the anti-gun crowd is at it again, trying to persuade our government that it should prohibit all Americans from owning guns and ammunition, in order to eliminate the crimes of robbery and murder.

Now this is real strange. If we follow their line of thinking, the government should take up all matches and cigarette lighters in order to prevent the crime of arson.

Likewise, the crime of forgery would be dealt with by the confiscation of all pens and pencils from the citizens.

It is noticed that the anti-gun bunch was not making too much noise as long as it was only ordinary citizens, policemen, soldiers, sailors and marines that were being shot. It was only after a few nationally prominent politicians got shot that they really got excited about the matter.

The only sensible answer to the gun problem is for government (preferably at the state level) to swiftly deal with the very small percentage of Americans who use their guns to commit crimes, and get off the backs of the rest of us.

All Are Equal

To The Editor:
I have read with interest things purported to have been stated by the women heading the WWW (Women Who Want to be Women) groups — as they oppose the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, among which is the recommendation to their members that they just not converse with women who are in favor of the amendment because the basic difference between the two groups is morality.

As I understand the amendment, it guarantees there to be no legal discrimination because of sex.

What is morality if not a code of behavior that respects the rights of others?

That isn't all morality is, of course, but it would seem its basic aim would be the practice of the golden rule — a code of behavior designed to bring about the most harmonious relationship between people.

Another thing of worthy interest, I think, is the recommendation to their members to wear clothes of the color pink.

I wonder how many of the WWW members know that centuries ago superstition had it that departed souls just wandered around waiting for newborn babies in order that they take possession of the new body. It seems the color blue was thought to keep evil spirits away. So, protecting parents wrapped new-born baby boys in clothing of the color blue. Pink for girls? Not necessarily — any color would do for baby girls — they just were not important enough to worry about!

I have no personal quarrel with Women Who Want to be Women. I am a woman — and I like it. I was born with that right, as were they. But I have no intention of sacrificing my religious belief that all human beings are entitled to the same legal and moral consideration.

Stop To Think

To The Editor:
Due to recent state-wide publicity on the Vietnamese war orphans there has been an enormous rush of Americans to adopt these children. From all indications many people in Midland have expressed their concern and interest in this cause.

I would like those considering this to think about several things before taking this drastic step.

Think of the prejudice and bitterness these children may face from the families in this area who have lost loved ones or still have MIA's unaccounted for in these many years of conflict in Vietnam. Are you prepared to explain why the kiddos at school won't play with them and why they aren't included in their groups? It will take a tremendous amount of love, patience and compassion to face these conflicts which I hope can be overcome. The problem of breaking the language barrier alone is something that deserves considerable thought.

If you are considering this please be sure your reasons aren't selfish — that you aren't doing it because it's the "in" thing to do.

I might also add there are a number of orphans and children right here in the U.S. that need homes too, even though they aren't as publicized.

No Longer Private?

Doctor-Patient Relationship Hurt By Bill — Physician

By JAN WILLIAMS

There may no longer be such a thing as a private relationship between a doctor and a patient, according to Dr. Ed Schmidt, president of the Texas Medical Association.

Dr. Schmidt told a group of physicians at the annual meeting of the District 2 Medical Association Saturday here that a third party, the government, is now a part of the doctor-patient relationship.

Speaking at a noon luncheon, Schmidt presented a summary of the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974, which he said he opposes because it dictates what the relationship will be between the doctor and his patient.

He describes the bill as an "act which provides for 200 health service agencies in the U.S. to be designated by the governors of each state and to be controlled by a health systems agency composed of 60 per cent consumers and 40 per cent providers and planning for all medical needs and resources of each HSA (health service area)."

"In a situation like this," Schmidt said, "the welfare of the patient may become secondary. That should never be allowed to happen."

According to Schmidt, the Texas Medical Association is trying to help channel developments "to make the situation more palatable to us and more appropriate to the needs of the people."

"In other words," Schmidt said, "we're trying to do the best we can with what we have."

The executive committee of the TMA has scheduled a meeting this morning to discuss the association's stand on the bill.

"I hope we won't have to stage a demonstration in Austin," Schmidt said. "But it looks like we are going to have to apply some pressure before this is over."

The bill was passed in 1974 and was signed into law in January by President Ford.

Other speakers at the meeting Saturday included Dr. Bruce

Bartholomew, chairman of the department of medicine, Texas Tech University School of Medicine; Dr. Harold Dobson, clinical professor of medicine, Baylor Medical School; Dr. Herb DuPont, professor of medicine, University of Texas Medical School at Houston; Dr. David Kern, director of endocrinology section, University of Oklahoma; Dr. Bruce MacFadyen, associate professor of surgery, Baylor Medical School; Dr. William Riley, Malone and Hogan Clinic in Big Spring, and Dr. Jack Schneider, chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at the Tech School of Medicine.

Southside Lions Elect New Officers

J. B. Whittle has been voted to the top post in Southside Lions Club, with Bob Wallace elected first vice president.

Also on the officer roster for 1975-76 are Claude Addington, second vice president; Wayne Butler, third vice president; Bill Anderson, treasurer; Bill Stone, secretary; Happy Bond, lion tamer, and Byron Garrison, tail twister.

Two-year directors for the organization are Harold Gillam, Fred Johnson and David Norton, with C. E. McCain, Leo Scoggin and Don Tergerson as hold-over directors. Emory Messersmith will serve as honorary director.

The club also has named Jimmy Stovall as chaplain and Bettie Schuler as sweetheart.

Alcohol Studies Institute Slated

ODESSA—The second annual Permian Basin Regional Institute on Alcohol Studies will be held at Odessa College Friday and Saturday.

Registration will begin at 1 p.m. Friday in the college auditorium.

Keynote speaker will be Shelby Parnell, Outreach coordinator for Big Spring State Hospital. The institute is sponsored by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission and Odessa College, in cooperation with the Texas Commission on Alcoholism.

Leo Club Names '75-'76 Officers

The Leo Club of Midland has elected officers for 1975-76 to be installed at a banquet tentatively set for May 15.

Heading the officer slate is Sheri Talley as president. Also elected to office were Tammy Merriman, vice president; Cindy Rates, secretary-treasurer, and Carmen McCain, tail twister.

Directors are Karen Talley, David Hanson and Cindy Sellars.

News Doesn't Always Help

By SAM STEWART
Copley News Service

We're very fortunate, or so we tend to regard ourselves, because of the miracle of modern communications. We get news as fast as it happens—whether it is happening in Cambodia, in Saudi Arabia, in Lesotho, or just down the street.

Somehow, this is important to us; not that we can do anything about it, but at least, we know. And knowing, we can begin worrying so much sooner.

Not always have we been so intrigued at the thought of the speed, or the spontaneity, of how news has traveled. It was not always thus.

The Bicentennial is big these days, and rightly so, with the approach of 1976. But since we're involved in this essay in communication, and swiftness thereof, let us focus, for the nonce, on 1812. To be more specific, the War of 1812.

One of the reasons for the War of 1812 was a British blockade of American shipping. Irked by this—and by other things, certainly—the Congress of the United States declared war on Britain on June 18, 1812. Britain had lifted the blockade two days earlier, on June 16, but the war was going full blast before word of this gesture had time to cross the water.

Although the conflict is called the War of 1812, it continued to 1815, by another quirk of delayed intelligence.

On Jan. 8, 1815, a strong British force attacked Gen. Andrew Jackson's entrenched troops at New Orleans. Jackson routed the British, inflicting more than 2,000 casualties with a loss of only 71 Americans. It was a decisive victory, although fighting continued around the Gulf until Feb. 8.

On Feb. 14, 1815, word arrived that the United States and Britain had signed a treaty of peace at Ghent, Belgium, on Dec. 24, 1814—a full seven weeks earlier! The Battle of New Orleans thus raged two weeks after peace had been signed, but thousands of Americans and British fought to a decision, in total ignorance that their leaders had called it quits.

Thus it can be assumed that instantaneous communications, as we know them today, would have prevented the Battle of New Orleans, and, more fundamentally, might have prevented the War of 1812 itself.

The latter is unlikely. As mentioned, the trade blockade was only one of the irritants; the British had been impressing captured American sailors into service, and had been arming Indians for raids against the American frontier. And coming as it did only 30 years after the American Revolution, the War of 1812 must have represented a British bid, under whatever guise, to drag the struggling young nation back into the colonial fold.

It was a war of blunders as well as bad timing (so what else is new?) but there is no doubt that the War of 1812 hastened the maturity of the United States.

Whipping England twice within 30 years was reassuring, even though England was fouled up by a simultaneous war with France. The country was beginning to feel its oats, so to speak.

Out of the War of 1812 came our national anthem, "The Star-Spangled Banner," written at Ft. Mchenry. Capt. James Lawrence added to the language with his dying cry, "Don't give up the ship!" and Commodore Perry set a pattern for victory underestimation when he messaged: "We have met the enemy and they are ours."

Thus a lot has happened in our history when, and often because, folks didn't know what was going on. We keep thinking that 1975 communication speed might have changed history in 1812. What we have to ponder, then, is why such modern miracles haven't done much to guarantee peace nearly two centuries later.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

It's Late To Bed, Early To Rise...

By STUART LONG
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — It was five minutes after five the other day when the House of Representatives adjourned.

People who had been waiting all afternoon for committee hearings scheduled for 2:30 learned after their wait that their committees would not meet until this week, so they turned sadly away, heading for home and wondering about all this democracy.

This week, they'll come back, and hope that this time they will get to be heard. Or, if it's a bill they don't want passed, they will be duly grateful for the delay, knowing that the closer adjournment day — June 2 — draws, the less chance there is of the bill to become law.

The day before, the House stayed in session until 4:09 p.m., and the committee meetings on marijuana and church-sponsored day care centers got started about 4:30. They quit for a time, and then ran into night sessions, but wound up hearing only about half of the 50 witnesses.

And, of course, when those committees ran overtime, there was a problem getting quorums for the regular night meetings scheduled for 7:30 that night. Some committees operated with far less than a quorum and finally mustered their majorities late in the evening to vote on bills they had never heard a word about.

process which Speaker Billy Clayton invented, to "get more input into the appropriations process."

"I came up there three times before I got into a committee meeting," he said sadly. "By the time I got to explain my budget request, only four of the 11 members were there. They seemed to understand our problems. But the next week, when they got around to voting on it, the seven absentees were the ones there and they just tore it apart."

This executive was among many you'll find, roaming the corridors of the Capitol instead of tending to their jobs, trying to find legislators to explain what they need in their budgets that the "substantive committees" left out.

The House problem is, of course, that it spends so much time in bill-killing and passing that its committees simply have little time to consider the flood of bills the members have introduced.

Senators, who introduced only half as many bills, just a few over 1,000, have their problems on a smaller scale.

But Senate committees can be frustrating, too, to those who come to have their say.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas conducted a hearing the other morning of his Education Committee with just one or two of his fellow committee members there most of the time. Sens. A. M. Aikin Jr., of Paris, Tati Santiestaban of El Paso, Pete Snelson of Midland and Kent Hance of Lubbock were all in the Finance Committee, working on their version of the state budget, which is unhampered by the semi-binding recommendations of the "substantive committees."

Mauzy worked the committee's way through several bills and finally it was 10:15, just about time for the Senate to meet at 10:30 a.m. He announced sadly that there just would not be time to hear from witnesses on the other bills, most of them parts of Gov. Dolph Briscoe's program for giving the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, more power over the programs and boards of regents of the state universities.

Frank Erwin Jr., former regent, now unpaid lobbyist for the University of Texas System, and the other college lobbyists who had struggled up there at 9 a.m. after sitting up until nearly midnight the night before with the House Higher Education Committee, struggled off to get another cup of coffee.

Just then, Aikin, Snelson and Santiestaban arrived, making a quorum, and six bills were given favorable reports. Lobbyists, reporting to their clients that "nothing happened — they didn't have a quorum" were surprised half an hour later when the reports were read to the Senate of committee approval of the bills.

It all goes to show that you have to get up real early and stay up real late to catch the quorums which develop at the tail end of a meeting and take the actions on whether bills become law or languish in committee forever.

A new bull market?

In his current Market Letter, our Chief Investment Officer, Leslie M. Pollack, discusses the question of whether this is the beginning of a new bull market or merely a rally out of a grossly oversold bear market. His conclusions are explicit and to the point and should be must reading for anyone concerned with investment strategy at this time.

In addition, he deals with the changing oil situation and makes specific recommendations about seven widely held stocks which were adversely impacted by the embargo and price increase last year.

'Swan Lake' To Highlight Spring Gala Saturday Night

Midland's Permian Civic Ballet will dip into its repertoire when it presents the beloved classic, "Swan Lake," in its annual Spring Gala here Saturday night.

The spring dance event is scheduled for 8:15 in the Lee High School auditorium with single admissions to be on sale at the doors before performance time for persons who did not purchase ballet season tickets last fall.

In addition to presenting Permian Civic Ballet members in the second act of "Swan Lake" with its hauntingly beautiful score by Tchaikovsky, the ballet will feature guest artists Bill Martin-Viscount, Anne Burton and Mark Borshelt. Martin-Viscount is artistic director for Permian Civic, Miss Burton is a featured dancer with the Atlanta Civic Ballet and Borshelt is on loan from the Memphis (Tenn.) Civic Ballet.

The dance evening will also present Martin-Viscount and Miss Burton in the pas de deux from "Esmeralda."

Finally, the dance program will offer a ballet new to Permian Civic's repertoire, "Etudes," originally choreographed for the Royal Danish Ballet in 1948.

In the second act of "Swan Lake," Permian dancers to be featured include Julie Hall and Jeanne King as the big swans and Cheryl Jones, Sandra Huxman, Kelly Shaw and Teresa Turner as little swans. The corps de ballet will consist of Alice McKinney, Carolyn Muzney, Kathleen Dean, Mary Motter, Kellie Westerman, Betsy Halvorsen, Kelly Walker, Patti O'Neill, Anne de Compiegne, Darcie Raymond and Ann Stroh.

Martin-Viscount will be in the role of Prince Siegfried and Miss Burton will dance the role of Odette, the swan queen. Borshelt will be in the role of Von-Rothbert, a sorcerer.

A member of the Permian company, Rudy Calsoncin of Andrews, will dance the part of Benno, companion to Prince Siegfried in the forest hunt. The other huntsmen will be portrayed by guest performers Mark Bodnar, Brian Traugbber, Fred Calhoun and Richard Montez.

Rounding out the dance evening will be the famous pas de deux from Act 1 of "Swan Lake." The segment will feature Mary Motter and Cheryl Jones, joined by guest artist Borshelt.

Martin-Viscount, Anne Burton and Mark Borshelt. Martin-Viscount is artistic director for Permian Civic, Miss Burton is a featured dancer with the Atlanta Civic Ballet and Borshelt is on loan from the Memphis (Tenn.) Civic Ballet.

GUEST ARTISTS — Bill Martin-Viscount of Fort Worth and Anne Burton of Atlanta will be guest artists in Permian Civic Ballet's annual "Spring Gala" Saturday night in Lee High School auditorium. They will be featured in the second act of the famous "Swan Lake" and also will dance the pas de deux from "Esmeralda" in the upcoming event.

'Spring Frolics' Begin Soon On Howard College Campus

BIG SPRING — "Spring Frolics," a festival of fine arts and entertainment events, is scheduled this week on the campus of Howard College here.

Highlight of the week will come Friday and Saturday with a dinner theater production of the popular musical, "The Fantasticks," with performances in the Student Union Building cafeteria. The dinner-theater musical will begin at 7 p.m. Admission will be $5 per person. Reservations may be made through the Howard College fine arts department, 267-6311.

Among other events scheduled this week is an art show featuring works by art faculty members and students. The show in the Dora Roberts Student Center will have an invitational preview from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday. It will be open to the public beginning Tuesday.

A ragtime music program will be presented at 9:45 a.m. Monday in the Student Union Building by pianist Harlan Thornton and drummer Kenneth Baker. It will be free to the public.

Another special presentation will be a concert by "The Choralers," a vocal ensemble at Howard College, at 9:45 a.m. Wednesday in the Student Union Building. A dress rehearsal of "The Fantasticks" at 8 p.m. Thursday will be open to HC students.

HGO To Do 'Treemonisha'

HOUSTON—Houston Grand Opera, acknowledging the widespread resurgence of interest in Scott Joplin and his music, will stage a production of "Treemonisha" during the HGO's spring season in late May and early June.

The May 23 opening performance and subsequent performances on May 24, 25, 27 and 31 and June 2 and 4 will be the first time for "Treemonisha" to be done by a professional opera company.

HGO has commissioned the noted composer-conductor-musicologist Gunther Schuller to do a new orchestration of Joplin's work. Schuller, president of the New England Conservatory at Boston and the director of its well-known "Ragtime Ensemble" has been called the greatest ragtime music scholar in the world. He recently arranged and recorded Joplin's famous "Red Back Book."

Schuller will conduct the opera orchestra in the upcoming Houston presentations.

The title role will be sung by Carmen Balhop, a recent winner of the Metropolitan Opera regional auditions in Washington, D.C. Others in the all-black cast will include mezzo-soprano Betty Allen as Moonisha, bass Willard White as Ned, tenor Curtis Rayam as Remus and baritone Avon Long as Zedrick, leader of the conjurors. The Prairie View A&M College Choir will serve as the chorus in performances and the opera's ballet will be made up of prominent black dancers from the Houston area as well as from other parts of the country.

Widely known in the late 19th Century and the early years of the 20th Century as the "King of Ragtime," Joplin is today considered "America's first notable black composer," according to Time Magazine.

Joplin departed from his customary syncopated style when he composed "Treemonisha" in 1911. Although he spent his last years obsessed by the desire to see a fully-staged production of his opera, it was performed only once—in a Harlem brothel. The opera's original orchestration was lost after Joplin's death in a mental hospital in 1917. Houston Grand Opera's fourth annual spring festival, free to the public, will offer performances in Hermann Park here. The festival is sponsored by the Houston Parks and Recreation Department and is underwritten by Armco Steel, the Humphreys Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts and Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

Artisan To Speak On Scrimshaw

Continuing the series of "Shop Talk" programs offered at intervals each year, the Shop of the Southwest in the Museum of the Southwest this afternoon will present a program on "scrimshaw," the seaman's art of carving on whale teeth.

Today's program, scheduled for 3 p.m. in the museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri St., will be presented by John Mangrum of Lubbock. It will be open to the public at no charge.

Mangrum is becoming extremely well-known throughout this region for his etchings and carvings on ivory and whale teeth, but the artisan's work cannot be sold outside Texas because of current statutes prohibiting interstate commerce in the teeth inasmuch as the sperm whale is an endangered species. The teeth on which Mangrum works were acquired at the beginning of his career, before the whale was added to the endangered species list. He also works in elephant ivory. Examples of his work will be available for purchase here this afternoon.

Scrimshaw has been described as the folk art of the American whaler, an adaptation of the ancient craft of ivory carving, and the word itself denotes both the art form and the object. During the long hours of idleness at sea, whalers used knives, sail needles and cooper's knives to carve and etch designs on the teeth of the sperm whale. Favorite scrimshaw scenes were the sea and occasionally flowers which reminded them of home. There are in present-day America only about 50 scrimshaw artisans. Only a few of them, including Mangrum, make jewelry in addition to the more traditional etchings and carvings.

Hoeye Teaching At University

Michael Hoeye, former Midland resident, recently returned to his alma mater, Washington University in St. Louis, as a visiting dance instructor in the university's performing arts program.

For the last several years, Hoeye has taught dance at Portland State University and the Catlin Gabel School in Oregon. At Washington University, from which he graduated in 1969, he is teaching modern dance technique and improvisation. He recently completed choreography of two new dance works, "Song," mounted to music by Maurice Ravel, and "Olive-Delmar McKnight," utilizing an original tape collage. A 1965 graduate of Midland High School, he is the son of Mrs. Lillie Hazlewood of Route 1, Stanton.

OC To Present Arthur Miller Play

ODESSA — "The Crucible," Thursday, Friday and Saturday playwright Arthur Miller's in the Arena Theater on dramatic study of the Salem witchcraft trials in colonial America, will be the final production of the current semester. The play will have performances at 8:15 p.m. nightly.

Cisneros Works On Exhibit Here

A collection of works by a prominent artist of the Southwest, Jose Cisneros, has gone on view at the Museum of the Southwest.

Cisneros, widely recognized as one of the outstanding chroniclers of the Southwestern scene of both yesterday and the present, has devoted the majority of his artistic life to depicting the pageantry, history and development of the region. He is particularly acclaimed for his "Riders of the Border" series, eagerly sought by collectors. Cisneros has been illustrator for more than 40 books, most of them dealing with the Southwest and its history. He has been recipient of a special residence fellowship awarded by The University of Texas.

Cisneros, born in the state of Durango, Mexico, moved to El Paso in 1934 and became a U.S. citizen in 1948. Most of his early drawings were published in Mexico but in 1957 famed Texas artist Tom Lea saw examples of his work and urged him to begin publishing in this country. Lea introduced Cisneros to publisher and designer Carl Hertzog who has since published much of the artist's work.

The collection on view in the museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri St., includes 75 drawings. The collection will remain here through May 20.

The museum will be open to the public between 2 and 5 p.m. today. Weekdays, the museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free at all times.

Two Courses Set At College

A pottery course and food service supervisors class will begin this week under sponsorship of Midland College's Department of Community Services.

The food service supervisor course begins Monday and will meet 3 to 9 p.m. in room 232 at St. Ann's School. Cost of the course is $90, plus book.

All nursing homes or care facilities desiring to send a representative are requested by the college to preregister. Registration will be completed at the first class session.

The pottery-on-the-wheel course will meet six Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. in room 156 in the Administration Building on the Midland College campus. The fee is $25.

Class reservations are required, and students enrolling should have experience in building methods.

Meeting To Feature Art Shows

An "art show," and then another art show, will be features of the annual meeting of the Friends of the Library here this afternoon.

The Friends organization is a volunteer service auxiliary of the Midland County Public Library.

Today's 3 p.m. meeting in the American Legion Hall, 206 S. Colorado St., will be highlighted with a program on Indian rock art of West Texas. Following the program and a business session at which new officers will be elected to serve the Friends during the coming year, the membership will adjourn to the library next door to view another art show. This will be the collection of paintings and graphics by Midland artists which has been assembled by the Friends to augment the collection of framed reproductions of fine art in the library's picture rental department. The art rental program is an ongoing project of the Friends organization.

Midland artists, whose works are included in the collection and who will be honor guests at the open house in the library this afternoon are Frances Porter, Freddie Schofield, Marian Ford, Mary Griffith, Dorothy Peterson, Pam Scott and Phyllis Short, as well as Herb McKinley of Dallas and Sue Mathys of Houston, both formerly of the Tall City.

Presenting the color slide program and discussion of pictographs and petroglyphs (paintings and carvings done on rocks) by the Indian inhabitants of West Texas will be Jim Barkes, Midland geologist who is active in local and regional archeological societies.

Today's meeting in the Legion hall and the open house to follow in the library will be open to the public. City and county residents interested in joining the Friends organization have been given a special invitation to attend the gathering.

Opera Workshop At Tech Slates Performance Today

LUBBOCK—Scenes from three famous operatic comedies will be presented by members of the opera workshop of Texas Tech University's Music Theatre tonight.

The presentations will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Coronado Room of the University Center and will be open to the public at no charge.

Scheduled for presentation by students are scenes from the first act of Mozart's famous "Marriage of Figaro," the first act trio of "The Barber of Seville" (the Giovanni Paisiello opera, not the more famous Rossini opera of the same title), and scenes from the second act of Verdi's comic masterpiece, "Falstaff."

The operatic evening is under direction John Gillas of the TTU music faculty. Special instrumental accompaniment will be provided for the singers participating in the event.

Ringing The Bell

By BOB TIEUEL

The Brown Experience: American and world history are being reevaluated regularly, and what we learned in high school a few years ago may not hold true today.

For example, some carvings found in North and South America indicate that not even the Vikings were the first explorers to land.

An international array of scientists believes the real discoverers of the American continents may have been ancient Spanish sailors, probably from Cadiz.

Recently, professor Thomas Lee of Quebec's Laval University announced that three stone carvings found near Montreal earlier this century indicate the Spanish explorers were in the area before 150 B.C.

H. Barraclough Fell of Harvard University sees the theory as supporting his report earlier this year that Libyan sailors reached the western coast of South America and eventually settled in Polynesia. Fell believes the Canadian theory involves explorers from the same civilization who sailed west from the Spanish coast instead of east out of Libya.

Fell said dating of the stone carvings indicates the Spanish visited between 475 and 150 B.C. "The visitors were from Spain, from the general area of Cadiz. They write that name using the old spelling, saying, 'We are voyagers from Cadiz.' Hundreds of similar carvings have been found in Spain. So far as we have evidence, the Spaniards were the first voyagers to North and South America. They're the earliest we know of so far."

And the beat goes on.

"Dear Bob: Please remind all members of the Northwest Texas Conference of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church that we are now in the midst of our Helen B. Cobb Scholarship Fund drive. Let us do our best so we can help worthy boys and girls attend the colleges of their choice. Also, let us not forget our Meal for the Ministry program (one cent for each day in conference year) so we can give relief to our mission preachers.

"The annual conference will be held at Abilene June 24-27. Looking forward to a great conference and report from our missionaries... excerpt from letter from Venola Dixon of Wichita-Amarillo district, the Rev. Jonah Parker, presiding elder, and the Rev. E. J. Lott, associate presiding elder.

Until later, peace and be a good neighbor. Remember, they come in all colors.

School Trustees Reschedule Meet

Tuesday's scheduled meeting of the Midland public schools' board of trustees has been shifted to 1:30 p.m. April 29 in the school district's central offices.

The date change was called for by trustee president James E. Winget Jr. with the concurrence of the board's membership in order to eliminate an extra meeting.

At the group's April 8 session, members agreed to call a special meeting for the 29th to canvass results from the April 26 runoff election.

The regular April 22 meeting has now been cancelled, and business matters will be handled in the April 29 session which also will include swearing in the new trustee and an informal visit to the vocational classroom addition under construction at Lee High School.

Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

Delaware Discovery Finals

Bob Yeates of Midland has completed his No. 1 Frances Kerr as a Delaware gas pay opener on the south side of the Sullivan (Delaware) oil field, and has proposed field designation of Cindy (Delaware).

The well was completed for a calculated, absolute open flow of 2.45 million cubic feet of dry gas per day.

Production was natural, from open hole at 2,680 feet, where 5½-inch casing was set, and 2,720 feet, total depth.

The new well is currently shut in to await pipeline connection.

Pumper Opens Field In Nolan

Gus Edwards of Abilene has suggested pool designation of Blackwell, East (Cambrian) for his No. 2 (originally slated as No. 1) I. L. Crate, extreme Southeast Nolan County oil strike.

It gauged a daily pumping potential of 40 barrels of 41-gravity oil and 20 barrels of water, through perforations at 5,700-5,705 feet, which had been washed with 250 gallons of mud acid.

Total depth is 5,764 feet. Casing size and seat were not available.

Log tops reported were Canyon reef, 4,154; Goen, 5,109; Gardner sand, 5,398; Caddo,

West To Deepen Runnels Project

W. W. West, operating out of Midland, will attempt to reopen McMillan oil production with the reentering and deepening to 2,700 feet at his No. 2 Emmie D. Michaelis, former Serratt opener in the Elm Creek, North field, 1¼ mile southwest of Runnels County of the depleted McMillan opener and lone producer from that pay.

West will also attempt to recomplete it as a second Serratt producer and a location northeast extension to that pay.

Originally completed from the Serratt Aug. 6, 1963, it was finalized pumping 47.16 barrels of 44.9-gravity oil, no water, through perforations at 2,459-2,462 feet.

The project is 1,500 feet from south and 2,900 feet from east lines of Henry G. Bliss survey 525, ½ mile northeast of Hatchell.

Kuper, Ford & Thomas, Abilene, completed No. 1 George W. Pruser Jr., as the McMillan opener March 27, 1962 for a flowing potential of 600 barrels of 44.8-gravity oil per day, through a ½-inch choke and open hole at 2,587-2,594 feet.

Barclay To Speak At Gas Meeting

The Natural Gas Men of the Permian Basin will hold its April meeting Tuesday noon at the Midland Country Club.

The speaker will be Winston Barclay, Western Division manager of Texas Electric Service Co. in Midland. His topic will be "TESCO's Overall Energy Program and the Soviet Trade."

Barclay will discuss Texas Electric's current and future energy supply as well as alternate sources under consideration and will discuss the general negotiations and considerations involved in the trade package with the Soviet Union.

Barclay holds a B.S. degree in Electrical Engineering from Texas Tech University and is a registered professional engineer.

Working Triple Completion Pump Setup To Be Featured At Petroleum Museum

The Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame nearing completion here will house many relics of the past and feature the lives of the persons who played major parts in developing the Permian Basin oil industry.

However, one of the major exhibits will be of the present day oil industry—a working triple completion pumping setup.

The exhibit, three full-size pumping units, will be at the center of the grounds in front of the museum's entrance.

The exhibit is being made possible by Lufkin Industries, American Manufacturing Co. of Texas, Jensen Brothers Manufacturing Co. of Coffeyville, Kan., Ruthco Inc., and Sargent Industries.

The $40,000 project is being donated to the museum, including the life-size pumps and installation fee.

Richard Donnelly, museum trustee and member of the executive committee, is project manager for the pumping unit exhibit and other museum exhibits. He is vice president of Eastland Oil Co.

"We have everything we need to begin installing the exhibit except 100 feet of 13½ diameter casing," Donnelly said.

Donnelly said that work has been going on for two years planning and working out the engineering of the exhibit which "will be one of the major attractions of the museum."

Lufkin Industries and Jensen Brothers each will donate a pumping unit. Although each will give a different size unit, all manufacture pumps of all sizes.

Sargent is providing the engineering and motors for the operations, and Ruthco will furnish the portable concrete bases.

"Anyone who would like to donate the needed casing for the completion of the project should contact the museum office," Donnelly said.

Drop In Reserves Sign Of Deterioration: Hunt

DALLAS — A three-quarter billion barrel drop in Texas crude oil reserves and a six trillion cubic feet fall-off in the state's natural gas reserves are evidence of a deteriorating financial condition for oil and gas operators, Sherman Hunt, Dallas, president of Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, said.

The estimates were announced last week by the American Petroleum Institute and the American Gas Association. Texas crude oil reserves, estimated at 11.7 billion barrels, off 750 million barrels from 1973, accounted for 71 per cent of the 1.04 billion barrel decline in total U.S. reserves. Gas reserves at 78.5 trillion cubic feet fell 7.5 per cent, accounting for nearly half of the net loss in U.S. totals.

"The Texas economy is threatened by this trend," Hunt said. "Obviously, we need more exploration, drilling and improved recovery projects in Texas to offset the current production rates."

"While drilling has picked up in the past year due to increased prices for new oil and intrastate gas sales, about two thirds of Texas oil reserves are being siphoned off at federally controlled prices and almost half of the natural gas.

Loss of the percentage depletion allowance for large producers, along with other tax changes, has speeded up the deterioration of the financial condition of the industry to the point that many companies have begun cutting back on large expansion and investment commitments. Price controls and punitive taxation policies are taking their toll," Hunt said.

Hunt pointed out that in the industry's quest for new fields there are several years of time lag between drilling programs and actual production.

The report also estimated that known Texas fields hold some two billion barrels of additional oil reserves which could be recovered under present industry technology in so-called secondary and tertiary recovery programs.

"The lack of an effective state unitization law inhibits many Texas operators from embarking on the type of recovery projects which are needed to produce a large part of the two-billion barrels," Hunt said.

Yeates, Graham Form Association

Bob Yeates has formed an association with Bill J. Graham as a consulting geologist and petroleum engineer in development of oil and gas properties.

Offices are located at 213-A West Building. Yeates is a 1963 graduate of Texas A&M University and joined Chevron Oil Co. following graduation, working three years in the South Oklahoma, North Texas area. He was transferred to Monahan in 1966 and moved to Midland when the firm moved its operations headquarters to Midland in 1967. He also worked for Tenneco Oil Co. one year at Denver and has been associated with Midwest Oil Corp.

Since 1974, Yeates has been a consulting field engineer. He is a member of West Texas Geological Society, American Association of Petroleum Geologists and Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME.

Seay will present the annual development paper for the West Texas and Southeast New Mexico area. Significant trends in the continuous development of the oil and gas fields of the area will be discussed.

Seay's paper will be published in a future issue of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists Bulletin. Seay has authored various

Lo-Vaca Promotes Byron Johnston

Byron Johnston has been promoted to assistant vice president, gas supply, for West Texas by Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. in Midland.

He replaces James H. Short who has been promoted to vice president, gas supply, North and West Texas.

Prior to joining Lo-Vaca in 1974, Johnston was associated with Texaco Inc. and Lone Star Gas Co. in Midland and Houston.

House Passes Craddick Bill

The Texas House of Representatives last week passed Senate Bill 402, sponsored in the House by Tom Craddick of Midland, that amends the Texas Education Code. The amendment provides for public auction for the sale of the oil and gas in University Lands can be held not only in Austin, but in any other location designated by the University of Texas Board of Regents.

WASHINGTON OIL—Congress, Ford Reluctantly Face Energy Issues

By CLYDE LA MOTTE

Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The Ford administration and Congress are approaching a showdown on energy-related legislation with a singular lack of enthusiasm on either side.

It is somewhat similar to the situation when two schoolboys reluctantly square away with one of the boys a coward and the other one glad of it.

W. L. Goode Now District Manager

W. L. Goode has been named district manager in Midland for Amarillo Oil Co. and Pioneer Production Corp., subsidiaries of Pioneer Corp.

Goode was district geologist here for the two concerns.

In other changes, Eric W. Mathis, land manager at Amarillo, has been named to the newly-created vice-presidential post of the two concerns. J. M. Shelby was named district manager at Amarillo. M. E. Pollock, district geologist, and W. A. Scott, manager of drilling and production.

Pollock and Scott are headquartered at Amarillo.

Gentry Joins Staff Of Texas Oil & Gas

Thomas E. Gentry has joined the Texas Oil & Gas Corp.'s West Texas District as production engineer, with headquarters in Midland.

Gentry was associated with Texas Pacific Oil Co. at Abilene and Midland before joining Texas Oil & Gas.

He is a graduate of New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, with a B.S. degree in petroleum engineering.

Geological Society To Meet Thursday

The West Texas Geological Society will hold its monthly dinner meeting at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the Rowday Inn.

Glen S. Soderstrom, independent petroleum geologist from Amarillo, will speak on the "Stratigraphic Relationships in the Palo Duro Basin."

Reservations may be made until 11 a.m. Thursday by calling the WTGS office, 683-1573.

Basin Rotary Rig Count Down Slightly

Reed Drilling Equipment's Friday survey showed 256 active rotaries making hole in the Permian Basin Empire of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico. This is a decrease of seven units from the 263 rigs reported last week.

It is an increase of 16 active rigs reported in a similar week one year ago.

Lea County, N.M., and Pecos County, each with 23 rigs, topped the list in activity, followed by Eddy County, N.M., with 21 rotaries and Ward County with 20. Thirteen rigs were working in Hockley County.

of the House Ways and Means Committee.

For example, late last week the committee appeared to be near an agreement on a hike of 3 cents a gallon in the federal gasoline tax, with the threat of an additional hike of 20 cents starting Jan. 1, 1977, if demands were still increasing.

The reasoning given to this approach was that it would provide time for other conservation measures to have an impact on demand. However, some skeptics noted that the big hike would come after the 1976 elections.

It also was noted that even if the 20 cent increase were eventually put into effect, there would be provisions for rebates for many categories of users.

Mild Limits Possible
The limits the committee would put on imports would be relatively mild, aimed primarily at preventing further increases in the years immediately ahead. Even here, however, the legislation would provide a loophole by authorizing the President to increase the total by as much as 1 million barrels a day if needed.

The administration itself isn't pressing very hard for the "tough" proposals the President had presented earlier this year.

The net result is likely to be legislation that will permit some increase in prices, but not much, and will seek to reduce demand, but not by very much.

The emphasis is more likely to be on conservation-oriented actions, such as incentives for insulation of homes and, perhaps, incentives or directives aimed at better mile-per-gallon performance from automobiles.

On the other hand, the administration does appear to be determined to press for more rapid development of offshore oil and gas resources, including leasing in such areas as the Atlantic seaboard and the California offshore. Last week President Ford himself reiterated his strong support for this.

Price Decontrol Favored
The administration also continues to favor legislation to decontrol the wellhead price of natural gas. However, the prospect now is that the best that can be hoped for is a bill which would authorize the Federal Power Commission (FPC) to increase prices to a given ceiling, say 5 cents per thousand cubic feet. This would be an increase of 50 per cent over the FPC's existing national price of 50 cents.

The legislative picture will start coming into focus soon. The House Ways and Means Committee has set a target date of May 1 for its legislation, the "deadline" President Ford said.

It may be that the deadline will be extended for 10 days or so if the committee hasn't completed its work but has shown signs of making progress.

What it adds up to is that there isn't likely to be much of a fight at all between the administration and Congress over the energy issue.

Instead, they will likely meet on some halfway grounds and the net result will be little major impact on the nation's energy consumption or resource development pattern.

After all, there is no shortage of energy fuels at the moment.

as a 1,650-foot northwest extension to the Tri-Rue (reef) field of Scurry County.

On a 24-hour potential test, it flowed 248 barrels of 39-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 662-1. Production was through a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 6,904-6,909 feet, after being acidized with 250 gallons.

Slated as a 7,000-foot probe, the project was drilled "tight" to 6,935 feet, where 4 1/2-inch casing was set.

Production site is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 170, block 97, H&TC survey, five miles north of Ira.

Gray Well Finals In Runnels Pool

The Fort Chadbourne multipay field of Runnels County gained its current second Gray sand oil producer and 3/4-mile northeast extension to that pay, with the completion of No. 1-C Powell-Odom by Mercury Production Co., Fort Worth.

It was potentialized flowing 35 barrels of 41-gravity oil per day, plus 10 barrels of water. Gas-oil ratio measured 4,000-1.

The potential test was taken through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 5,133-5,140 feet, after the section had been treated with 500 gallons of acid, and 5,000 gallons and 5,000 pounds of fracture material.

Originally scheduled as a 5,200-foot wildcat, it was drilled to that depth, where 4 1/2-inch casing was seated. It was then plugged back to 5,180 feet.

Well site is 2,550 feet from northwest and 230 feet from southwest lines of Samuel H. Luckie survey 288, 4 1/2 miles west of Wingate.

More Stringent Safety Standards Ordered For Hydrogen Sulfide Use

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has ordered oil and gas operators to safeguard their employees and the public from the effects of hydrogen sulfide, a deadly gas.

In a special order distributed Friday, the commission said it was applying "more stringent safety standards" to operations in areas where there is hydrogen sulfide.

Hydrogen sulfide is a natural byproduct of drilling for oil and gas and is also injected, along with carbon dioxide, into the ground to recover more oil after initial production has waned because of declining pressure.

The commission gathered information on safety measures at a March 13 public hearing, after the gas had killed 17 persons in recent months.

A leak near Denver City, in Yoakum County near the New Mexico border, killed nine per-

One of the requirements of the commission order is for steel with a yield strength of 95,000 pounds per square inch.

The commission order applies to operations in which the hydrogen sulfide concentration exceeds 100 parts per million.

It prohibits operators from using surface facilities or pipelines within 500 feet of any public or private dwelling, public road "or any area in which the public would reasonably be present" without special commission approval.

Fixed facilities within one-fourth mile of a town, public road or other public area would have to be fenced and locked.

Warning signs would have to be posted on all approaches to, and a safe distance from the well or other facility.

Each operator is required to submit to the commission for approval a certificate of compliance, which shall include information on detection and alarm systems and a contingency plan specifying that the public must be told of the possible danger.

Strike Reported In Oklahoma Area

FORT WORTH—American Quasar Petroleum Co. of Fort Worth has announced completion of an oil discovery in Ellis County, Okla.

The strike is No. 1-2 Gillispie three miles southeast of Arnett and one mile southeast of the Northeast Peak gas field.

The well was completed from the Cottage Grove formation for 120 barrels of oil and 5 barrels of water per day, flowing through a 17/64-inch choke and perforations from 8,568 to 8,628 feet.

Operators of the project other than American Quasar are Can-Am, Ltd., and Sarkeys, Inc.

C&K Names Land Manager

HOUSTON — Charles F. Chamber has been named land manager of C & K Petroleum Inc.'s new exploration office in Lafayette, La.

Chambers attended Texas A&I University and The University of Texas of the Permian Basin (UTPB). He has been employed by C & K since 1973.

Graduate Center Course To Explore Carbonate Rocks

The Permian Basin Graduate Center (PBGC) is offering an AAPG course in cooperation with the West Texas Geological Society, (WTGS), Wednesday and Thursday, 7-10 p.m., entitled "Exploration for Carbonate Reservoirs" in the PBGC classroom, basement of Gibbs Tower East, 119 N. Colorado St.

The fee for the course is $40. Instructor for the course will be S. Duff Kerr Jr., exploration geologist, Kirby Petroleum Co., Denver. Prior to his position with Kirby, Kerr worked with Shell Oil Co. as stratigrapher, petrographer, division stratigrapher, section leader-geological research, project leader in Midland, Houston and Denver.

He holds a B.S. and M.S. degree from The University of Cincinnati.

Exploration for carbonate reservoirs requires a thorough understanding of the geology of carbonate rocks. The course will emphasize three principal areas: (1) Depositional environments of carbonate sedimentary bodies; (2) Diagenetic effects which may enhance or reduce pore space and permeability in carbonate rocks before and during burial; and (3) Regional setting of major carbonate units with respect to trapping conditions and to favorable source rocks.

For more information, please contact the Graduate Center Office, 104 Gulf Building, Midland, or call 563-2311.

McCamey Officials Begin Duties After Taking Oath Of Office

McCAMEY — McCamey Mayor Raymond McCann and three councilmen were sworn into office this week and Councilman Cleatus Brooks was elected mayor pro-tem for 1975.

Councilmen taking the oath of office were B. A. Epley, James Price and Richard Partney.

The council also honored the request of Mrs. Ann Clark of the Historical Survey Committee, to install a historical marker in the city's post office in honor of Miss N. Ethel Eagleton.

Miss Eagleton was a longtime McCamey area historian, writer, educator and volunteer worker for area museums. She died in 1973.

In other action, a request by McCamey Volunteer Fire Department for travel and training school expenses for Darv Lowe was approved.

Lowe is a volunteer fireman and will attend the Texas Fireman's Training School at College Station July 20-25.

Midland Democrats To Install Officers Thursday Night

State Senator W. E. "Pete" Snelson and Texas Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong will be guest speakers Thursday at a 7 p.m. dinner meeting of the Midland Democratic Club at the Midland Petroleum Club.

The meeting will include election of officers nominated in a recent planning session.

The officer slate nominees are Mrs. Calvin Baker, president; Ralph Williamson, vice president; Mrs. Vernon Chandler, secretary; Mrs. Russell Neisig, treasurer, and Mrs. W. H. Franz, parliamentarian.

Persons desiring invitations to the dinner meeting may contact Mrs. Robert Stewart at 683-3157.

Real Estate Today

REALISTIC RETIREMENT PLANNING

There are two approaches to retirement planning for the homeowner. One is to sock money in the bank and have a good-sized nest egg with which to buy a retirement home when the time comes. The other approach is to buy that retirement home now and have it well paid off when retirement arrives.

Economically and emotionally, the best answer is to buy that home now. Not only will you have a good cash investment in it when you retire, but the value of that home should keep increasing with the inflation rate.

Interviews with retirees reveal that one of the last things they desire to do upon retirement is withdraw a sizeable amount of cash from savings. He bank account is a must at a time when expenses climb and income remains flat.

Real estate will never cost less than it does now. The time to start retirement planning also is now!

Yamani Says Oil Weapon Is Shelved For Present

By MARILYN BERGER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Saudi Arabia's Petroleum Minister said Friday that "the oil weapon is shelved for now" while the United States continued its efforts to get a settlement in the Middle East.

Speaking to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani left open the possibility that there could be a new oil embargo if peace is not achieved.

Earlier, qualified Saudi officials had put out the word that there were circumstances short of all-out war in which the oil weapon could be brought into play, for example if Israel were to declare its refusal to give up the Golan Heights or the West Bank of the Jordan River.

This, the officials said, would amount to a situation "identical to war."

Yamani said that "oil as a political weapon will be defused by reaching a peaceful solution based on (U.N.) Resolution 242," which, he recalled, had been supported by the United States.

To Yamani and to other Arabs, 242 means total Israeli withdrawal to the frontiers existing prior to the June 1967 war. To the United States and many other countries, 242 permits alterations in those frontiers.

Saudi Arabia, Yamani said, had tried to "keep oil out of the political scene," but even prior to the 1973 war, had "made various contacts at all levels, with our friends in the West, and particularly in the United States, in an attempt to explain to them the realities of the situation and avert the possible consequences of using oil as a political weapon."

The oil weapon, Yamani said, was used only to demonstrate two facts to the west: that the Arabs had been deprived of certain rights to the West; that the Arabs had been deprived of certain rights and that Western economic interests rested far more in the Arab world than in Israel.

Yamani expressed satisfaction with what he called Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's categorical denial that the United States was contemplating the use of military force against the oil producing countries.

On leaving Riyadh, Saudi Arabia on March 19, Kissinger, in Yamani's presence, said: "I would like to state categorically here that our relation with Saudi Arabia is based on friendship and cooperation in which threats, military or otherwise, play no part and we base our relationship on cooperation and not on confrontation."

At the time reporters traveling with the secretary were told that the Saudis had been upset over an article in Harper's Magazine advocating an American takeover of the oil fields.

But while Kissinger told the Saudis that this was not an expression of American policy, he clearly let stand his own words carried in a Business Week interview in January when he declined to rule out the use of force "where there is some actual strangulation of the industrialized world."

Two GREAT High Schools!

Since 1960, Midland has had two of the best high schools in the country — and we are proud of the distinguished records both Lee and Midland High have made. Johnny Warren is firmly dedicated to maintaining the fine scholastic programs and student achievement which have brought honor and recognition to both schools.

We just can't afford to have one high school in these times of growth and accomplishment. A single high school would reduce student participation by exactly one-half! Only 50% as many students would be able to participate in student government, sports and athletics, debate, drama competition, band and music, journalism activities and scores of other programs which are important to their development as active, responsible persons. Johnny Warren is AGAINST the one-school idea and will fight to keep for Midland two of the finest high schools in Texas!

For real, positive leadership... For continued educational excellence throughout our school system... cast your vote for Johnny Warren for School Trustee.
