

Positive Thinking

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Life Drama

I made a speech at a convention held at a hotel in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., some time ago.

On this particular occasion I was having breakfast in the dining room with Fred Fuller, a college friend, who is now a distinguished lawyer. I had not seen him in some years. While we were visiting people kept coming up to our table and congratulating him on his golf game of the day before, so I assumed that he had played very well indeed. He looked healthy, strong and vigorous, full of enthusiasm and zest for life.

"Fred," I said, "I'd heard you were sick, but this doesn't sound like it. And you certainly don't look sick to me. You're the picture of health."

"I was sick, though," he said. "I was very sick but was operated on for cancer successfully. I had good physicians and a great surgeon and they got it all out. Just before coming here, I had my final five-year check-up and they tell me all is well. Wonderful, isn't it?"

"Great," I agreed, "and believe me, I'm happy to hear about it. But you must have had quite a few battles of the spirit to fight during those anxious times."

"Yes," he answered. "It was a matter of life and death. But I fought the battles effectively, for you see I had another Physician going for me, and believe me, there is great skill and healing in His touch. Also, I found that He is more than a Physician; He is a Friend, and this Friend stayed with me and brought me through." Then he added, "My doctor gave me some advice which helped a lot. Perhaps you would be interested in it."

Fred took a folded slip of paper from his wallet and gave it to me. It read:

1. Conserve your energy. Don't race your motor, don't rush. Work, eat and play leisurely.
2. Do not hesitate to refuse taking on unimportant, burdensome tasks.
3. Stay calm and serene. Do not fret or worry or allow yourself to become unnecessarily stirred up with emotion.
4. The past is past. Do your best today and let it go at that. Do not be apprehensive about tomorrow; it will take care of itself. Most worries never come to pass.
5. Put your trust in God and forget all fear. He has a plan for you. So who or what can be against you.

He took the paper back from me after I had copied it, carefully replaced it in his wallet and, leaning across the table toward me with a seriousness that deeply touched me. He continued, "Do you remember when we were boys back in Ohio? They taught us to have faith in God to try to live the way He wants us to live. Well, I want to tell you, Norman, that when the going gets really tough that God is the answer. He has given me my life back again. I can't thank him enough."

Warren Wins Trustee Post

Johnny R. Warren was elected to the Midland schools' board of trustees by a margin of 150 votes in a runoff election Saturday which drew just two voters fewer than the April 5 contest.

Warren won 2,119 votes, compared to 1,969 tallied for Gerald S. "Jerry" Pitts, vying for Position 3 on the school board.

Total votes cast were 4,088, compared to 4,090 in the regular election in which Warren totaled 1,512 and Pitts received 1,421.

The runoff was necessitated because no candidate of the four seeking election to that seat received a simple majority.

Warren, out of the city on election day but contacted by telephone by The Reporter-Telegram, said, "I am pleased that over 4,000 people decided to get involved in this election."

He said he and his wife, who is with him in Houston, are "very pleased, particularly because of all the work our friends had put into this."

"My condolences to Jerry Pitts who spent a lot of time and effort in his campaign. But I pledge to Jerry and all of his supporters that I will do my very best to represent all of Midland."

He said his main ambition now is "to try and learn the job."

Warren, 38, is president of Compressor Systems Inc. and has three children enrolled in Midland public schools.

The voter break-down for Warren is 530 votes cast absentee, 442 at Lee High School and 1,147 at Midland High. Pitts' votes included 332 absentee, 1,300 at Lee and 267 at Midland High.

Warren will replace two-term (See WARREN, Page 4A)

Air Crash Kills Five

FORT STOCKTON — Five military personnel died in a plane crash one mile north of here Saturday as a twin-engine aircraft attempted to land at a temporary strip.

Officials with the Department of Public Safety said the aircraft hit a parked truck. Bodies of the victims were taken to Fort Stockton. Funeral Home pending arrival of authorities from Fort Hood, where the plane was based.

A funeral home employee said the aircraft burned after the impact.

CHRISTMAS IN APRIL PROJECT—Midlanders 'Just Representing God'

"I guess I'm just representing God."

With that answer to a question from a curious onlooker, Francis Martin said it all for hundreds of Midlanders working unselfishly long hours for the Christmas In April project.

Martin is one of about 30 Midlanders who signed up through the Coventry Baptist Church to help give many in such bad shape that work will have to be continued tomorrow to get them okay for people to live in."

The Christmas In April program was originated in 1973 late Saturday.

Flores was one of a score of volunteers from Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.

Actually, some of the houses are not only being repaired, they practically are being rebuilt.

One "home" Saturday already had a complete new floor, new windows, the roof repaired and almost a complete inside paint job.

Some of the houses that shelter huge families had to be vacated because the needed repairs are so extensive.

"These people are welcomed into neighbors' homes while theirs is being fixed," one volunteer said.

Approximately 40 organizations, including many churches, have volunteers who today hope to complete work on about 40 homes.

"We had hoped to work on about 50, Schmidt said, but only $5,000 has been raised of the $10,000 goal."

Work began at 8 a.m. Saturday on the 40 selected houses. Some repairs and installations (See PROJECT, Page 4A)

Agency Recommends New Taxes On Fuels To Help Rebuild U.S. Railroads

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal railroad planning agency recommended Saturday that new taxes be imposed on gasoline and other fuels to help rebuild the nation's deteriorating railroad system.

The Rail Services Planning Office of the Interstate Commerce Commission proposed that Congress impose a new 2 cents per gallon tax on gasoline and diesel fuel and a 0.14 cent per kilowatt hour tax on all electrical energy used for transportation.

Such taxes, the planning office estimated, would enable the government to collect as much as $12 billion over five years.

It proposed that much of this money go to railroads or to state and regional transportation agencies which would oversee the rebuilding of the railroads. The remaining money, it said, could be used to upgrade other forms of transportation, develop more fuel-efficient trucks or improve the waterway system.

The recommendations were contained in a report by the planning office on the reorganization of seven financially ailing railroads in the Northeast and Midwest.

The planning office was set up after Congress passed legislation in 1973 to consolidate the ailing railroads into a profit-making rail system run by a quasi-government body called ConRail. The planning office

Job Rally Forced To Halt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A union-sponsored "Rally For Jobs Now" was forced to an abrupt halt Saturday when hundreds of participants moved onto the field of Robert F. Kennedy Stadium and drowned out the voices of platform speakers.

About 45,000 persons had converged on the nation's capital for the rally in an effort to get the government to help lower the nation's unemployment rate of 8.7 per cent.

But halfway through the program, hundreds jammed the stadium aisles and crowded the field chanting, "We want jobs."

The protesters resisted police efforts to return them to their seats.

They waved placards saying, "Get the recession off our back," "We want work," and "Save our jobs, save our cities."

Rank and file union members took over the platform, displacing union leaders and congressmen who had come to address the group.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Texas, were drowned out when they attempted to speak.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., left the stadium without addressing the crowd.

The crowd's movement onto the field was apparently spontaneous. Unable to hear the speakers because of a faulty public address system, several individuals ran across the field. When police tried to return them to their seats others moved from the stands.

John J. McNamara, president of the Fireman's and Oilers Union, said he was disappointed with the way the rally ended.

"It's unfortunate. The message hasn't been put forward to the people because of the interruption."

The stadium protest was sponsored by the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department. Thousands of union members had marched about two miles from the U.S. Capitol to the

Busing To Confront High Court Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine months after the Supreme Court ruled against a plan for busing children across school district lines to achieve racial balance, the issue is coming back to confront the justices.

Attorneys will file with the court soon an appeal which could open the door to inter-district busing in Wilmington, Del., and its suburbs.

During the past week, the court let stand two lower court decisions with a somewhat similar, although less sweeping, effect in the Louisville, Ky., and Indianapolis areas.

All three of the lower court decisions involved interpretation of the Supreme Court's decision last July striking down a busing plan for the Detroit metropolitan area.

In that decision, the high court ruled that school district lines may not be crossed, unless it is shown that official actions in one district had produced "a significant segregative effect" in another district.

In the Delaware case, attorneys for the State Board of Education and 11 school districts in the mostly white Wilmington suburbs say they will file their appeal within a week or 10 days.

Since the Wilmington ruling was made by a special three-judge court, the appeal will go directly to the Supreme Court.

The case arises out of an act passed by the Delaware Legislature in 1968 authorizing the Board of Education, for one year, to consolidate school districts without a referendum.

Wilmington and its suburbs were excluded. The special court ruled 2 to 1 on March 27 that this was unconstitutional because it denied equal protection under the law.

U.S. District Judge Caleb R. Layton III said in his dissent that the decision would "necessarily end in some form of inter-district busing of students."

Public schools in Wilmington are about 83 per cent black. Those in the suburbs are about 16 per cent black.

Capital Shelled By Cong

SAIGON (AP) — Communist-led forces fired rockets into the center of Saigon before dawn today and launched ground attacks that could signal the beginning of their final offensive against the capital.

The Saigon military command reported North Vietnamese tanks and infantrymen advancing within 20 miles of Saigon after a week-long lull in the fighting.

Four 122mm rockets fell in downtown Saigon in the first such attack since a cease-fire agreement was signed in January 1973. They killed six persons, wounded 22 and set fires that burned out more than 200 houses, leaving thousands homeless.

Conference Called

President Tran Van Huong, trying for last-minute negotiations to spare the capital, summoned his top advisers for a conference this morning and sources said he was preparing to resign. It is expected that the National Assembly will then name retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh to replace him. Minh is considered to be a neutralist and leader of the so-called Third Force who might be acceptable to the Viet Cong for talks.

Base Fired On

Viet Cong gunners fired 30 rounds of artillery into the Long Binh military base just 12 miles northeast of Saigon, the command reported, and hit Tay Ninh City, 55 miles northwest of the capital, with 60 artillery rounds.

The attacks could reveal the impatience of Communist commanders whose forces are within easy striking distance of Saigon and its demoralized defenders. They captured three-quarters of South Vietnam in the offensive launched last month but then stopped advancing when they were practically at the gates of the capital.

There was speculation that they wanted to avoid bloody street fighting for Saigon, (See FINAL, Page 4A)

'Woodwork People' Reluctant To Leave Saigon

By WILLIAM TUOHY
The Los Angeles Times

SAIGON — The place looks like a scene from an old Warner Bros. movie.

A barmaid serves up Vietnamese beer behind the ancient U-shaped wooden bar. A stereo plays "What Now, My Love?" somewhere in the distance. The click of billiard balls echoes from the next room. An unused dartboard hangs on the plastered wall above black leatherette chairs.

This is the American Legion's Post No. 34, a stucco villa set behind white-painted walls, in Saigon on the main road to Tan Son Nhut Airport.

And, curiously, at this late hour for Americans in Vietnam, the Legion's post is still operating and patronized by those Americans who have decided to wait until the last minute before evacuating the South Vietnamese capital.

"I ain't going 'till I get ready," says Donald Chad, 31, of Lincoln, Neb. "First I'm trying to get two tight planes I own out of the country. But with Vietnamese bureaucracy what it is, it's not an easy thing to do."

Chad, a lean, tanned civilian pilot and former adviser to the Vietnamese air force, sips his "31" brand beer and adds: "I've been flying planes here in Asia for 30 years, so I'm in no hurry to go. I was in the evacuation of China back in 1949, so I ain't too worried about getting out of here."

American officials believe that the number of Americans left in Vietnam is down below 1,000, but they worry about what they call the "woodwork people" — that is, U.S. nationals, previously unaccounted for, who will show up here at the last minute seeking emergency evacuation.

And the American Legion club seems to be a sort of haven for the woodwork types.

"I just don't want to stand in line out at the airport," says a tall American black dressed in tanktop shirt and jeans. "Don't use my name a wife and two kids and I don't want to sit around Guam. I got a Marine friend at the embassy so I think I'm going to get the word when the embassy bugs out."

The other says: "I live behind a compound with defense attaché dudes in it. So when they go, I will get the word, and that's when I will go. No use leaving too soon. I'm waiting for the panic button to be pushed before I pull out. Leaving before the button gets pushed is for amateurs."

Another man at the bar says: "I'm waiting for my wife to say 'goodbye' and I sure as hell is taking her a long time. You know the Vietnamese, they are very family-minded and they go to see everybody and go through a lot of walla-walla."

Though most of the members of the American Legion post here plan to stay until the last minute, no one expresses any intention of staying on afterward — living under the expected Communist regime.

"Hell no," says one man at the bar. "I'm not going to stay. You can already see some animosity and it just ain't worth staying on here."

And a friend, asked why he is remaining so late, responds: "I was born in Kansas City, Mo. But I've (See AMERICANS, Page 4A)

Official Believes Mass Murderer On Loose

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — A sick killer with a deadly hatred of women and an inclination to witchcraft may have butchered 30 or more young females in five Western states and will kill again unless he is caught, says the sheriff of Sonoma County.

"We need the help of the public" in finding the maniac, Sheriff Don Striepeke told a news conference Friday.

"Someone, somewhere knows the man we are looking for," the sheriff said, expounding a "lone killer" theory variously disputed or supported by officers in other jurisdictions.

He also said the Zodiac killer could be the mass killer. The Zodiac killer has taunted authorities with messages claiming 37 victims who will be his slaves in an afterlife. San Francisco police have accounted for six Zodiac victims, the last one a male.

Striepeke said the killer is a white man who hated his dominating mother "with a passion," strangled, poisoned or tortured animals as a child, and as an adult transferred his hostility to young women, whom he destroys and disposes of "like garbage."

Six of the girls were killed in the Santa Rosa area. A symbol related to old English witchcraft was found near some of the victims.

"I don't think he's going to stop killing" until he's caught and jailed or committed to a mental hospital, said Striepeke. Striepeke said the killer may have left California at the end of 1973, killed two girls in Vancouver, Wash., six in Seattle, Aspen-Vail, Colo., area. But he said he was including some one in Salt Lake City, one in Santa Fe, N.M., and one in the certain of the California victims.

11 Die In Mexico City Bank Holdup

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A dozen leftist guerrillas led by a "dark and pretty" woman machine-gunned at least 11 persons to death in a bank holdup that got them $12,000, police and witnesses said.

Eight policemen were shot to death Friday during a wild chase by 36 police cars and two helicopters across the city. Two suspects were captured, one of them wounded.

Police said the others killed included two passersby and a bank teller. Two others were wounded.

Police Chief Daniel Gutierrez Santos told reporters the two captives said they were members of the Red Brigade of the 23rd of September Communist League, a guerrilla band advocating violent revolution.

The young robbers — eight men and four women — attacked the Banco de Comercio branch shortly after it opened for business.

Witnesses said some of the robbers fired machine guns and pistols as they ran inside, while others remained outside firing at police cars.

"They came in with guns blazing all over the place," said the deputy bank manager, Maria de Los Angeles Perez. "There were about 50 gunshots. I threw myself to the floor and everyone else did the same thing. I was really scared and thought I was going to get shot. There was a lot of blood around. I saw the body of a policeman on the ground shot in the head. It was all very fast. It must have happened in less than five minutes."

The bandits demanded money from a teller and then shot him in the stomach, fatally wounding him.

"A woman appeared to be the chief," said Rodolfo Martinez, another bank officer. "She was dark and pretty with a very strong voice." Other witnesses said she was the one who emptied the cash drawers.

Outside the bank a witness said some of the gunmen "stuck their guns in the windows of a patrol car and fired a lot of shots at the policemen inside."

A private guard in a grocery store across the street ran out when he heard the shooting. "One guy came up behind him and put a pistol to the back of the guard's neck and shot him twice," the store manager said.

Another burst of fire killed an architect getting into his car. The police account said the bandits used three getaway cars including a commandeered taxi, and blazed away with their machine guns, hitting policemen and pedestrians.

One policeman was killed and another wounded five miles from the bank. The machine gun fire hit a helicopter but it landed safely.

Two bandits abandoned a getaway car and stormed into a house, shooting the owner in the face. He was in critical condition.

The 23rd of September Communist League, named for a shootout between guerrillas and soldiers a few years ago, has claimed responsibility for two bank robberies Dec. 10 in which six policemen died.

Three Men Held In Big Spring On Theft Charge

BIG SPRING—Three men were arrested here late Thursday and charged with burglary in connection with the burglary of a Radio Shack store in which $9,000 worth of equipment was taken.

Lance Nathaniel Pless, 18, of Big Spring; Michael Edward Hogg, 18, of San Jose, Calif., and Randall Keith Robbins, 17, of Lovington, N.M., remained in Big Spring City jail Saturday morning in lieu of $2,500 bond each set by Judge John R. Coffey.

Police said the trio were arrested at a residence where all three were living at the time.

Detective Leroy Spires said all but about $1,000 worth of goods taken in the Wednesday morning break-in of Radio Shack had been recovered. He said the store was entered about 1:30 a.m. and merchandise was taken away from the store in five or six trips in a car during the following four and a half hours.

Spires also said about $2,500 worth of merchandise was found which was believed taken from Three-Way Welding here. About $3,000 worth of property was taken in that burglary.

Police also have found 16 tires, a steering wheel and a refrigerator and table, all of which were believed taken in four recent burglaries.

HANOI, North Vietnam (AP) — This capital of Vietnam's revolution awaits a triumphant climax in the South. It is decked with gold-starred red flags that hailed the Khmer Rouge victory in neighboring Cambodia just a few days ago.

35,000 Gather For Teachers' Rally In Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — About 35,000 persons sat under a glaring sun Saturday in the University of Texas Memorial Stadium to hear speakers call for the legislature to come up with more money for public education, especially teachers' salaries.

The rally, which brought supporters from as far away as El Paso, was called by the Texas State Teachers Association to focus attention on education finance bills now in legislative subcommittees.

But the main emphasis was on teachers' salaries. The president of the TSTA, Jewell Howard of Dallas, brought the crowd to its feet when she said, "We need more state aid to pay educators a fair salary on which they can support a family without resorting to food stamps and moonlighting."

Mrs. Howard said teachers cannot live on the current starting salary of $6,600. "Texas ranks 37th among the 50 states in average annual salary paid to teachers, but is near the top in financial ability to support education," she said.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, was even more specific. He said, "Texas ranks at the bottom in almost every area of education except the football played on this field."

"If you don't get the job done this session," Doggett said, "send a new bunch of legislators to Austin who want to stop waiting and come up with the dollars everyone of us knows is necessary."

Before and during the rally, many teachers said they were unhappy over the light turnout of legislators and other elected officials at the demonstration. Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby were not present.

The rally began with one section yelling through the stadium, "Where is Briscoe?"

An Austin teacher, Bernie Owen, told the crowd, "We are

Final Viet Offensive May Be Under Way Now

The South Vietnamese government has been making frantic efforts for the past week to form an administration acceptable to the Viet Cong for negotiations to end the fighting.

Warning Issued A Viet Cong statement broadcast by Radio Hanoi warned that time was running short and urged citizens to rise against the Saigon government.

"We are facing the crucial moment of the cause of the complete liberation," it said.

There were predictions that Minh, a retired general, might take over the presidency as early as today in a move aimed at bringing negotiations with the Communists and preventing an attack on Saigon.

Huong, 71, who succeeded to the presidency last Monday when Nguyen Van Thieu resigned, has been rejected as a negotiating partner by the Communists. Minh is believed to be acceptable to the Viet Cong.

More shelling and some ground clashes were reported in government-controlled sections of the country, now reduced to the Saigon area and the rice-rich Mekong Delta to the south, but there was no major fighting.

It is generally conceded that North Vietnamese forces are in position to capture Saigon at any time but are waiting to see if the Saigon government can maneuver itself into shape for negotiations.

Huong, in a speech to the National Assembly, had proposed that it either appoint Minh president or give him full powers to appoint a "government of negotiation" that might spare Saigon from an attack.

Instead, the assembly unanimously approved a two-point compromise resolution giving full support to Huong's peace efforts and saying he could "if necessary, choose a man to replace him."

It also specified that Huong's successor would have to be approved by the National Assembly, in effect making it possible to circumvent the constitutional provision that puts Senate President Tran Van Lam next in line to the presidency. Lam is thought unacceptable to the Viet Cong for negotiations.

In his address to the body, Huong sharply attacked the United States. "It is now clear our friends do not want to help us anymore," he said. "We now have no other choice but to negotiate."

Thieu arrived on the Nationalist Chinese island of Taiwan with an entourage of 15 persons early Saturday, according to informed sources in Taipei, and spent the rest of the day in seclusion.

A British newspaper, the London Evening News, reported that the 52-year-old Thieu eventually plans to make his home in London and is trying to smuggle a personal fortune estimated at $76 million in gold into Europe.

The South Vietnamese Embassy in London declined comment on the report but confirmed that Thieu had secretly sent his 12-year-old son to England. The British Foreign Office called the report of Thieu going to London "purely a piece of speculation."

Willard Little Dead At Age 72

Services will be at 4 p.m. Monday in the Newnie W. Ellis Chapel with the Rev. Kenneth James of Crestview Baptist Church officiating. Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial under direction of Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Little was born July 11, 1902 in Swink, Okla. He was a member of Crestview Baptist Church in Midland.

Survivors include the widow; two daughters, Mrs. D. Forrest Jones of Midland and Mrs. R. B. Hill of Chattanooga, Tenn.; and seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Job Rally In Washington Forced To Abrupt Halt

(Continued from Page 1A) needed will have to come at another time, Schmidt pointed out. Some of the houses need at least $1,000 worth of equipment such as plumbing that isn't available, Schmidt added.

Midland senior citizens maintained an answering service Saturday for groups needing assistance.

"We are in no way disappointed with this project," Schmidt said before workers began swarming over the substandard homes.

"Even if we didn't reach our goal of $10,000, we've had an enthusiastic response from the community and we are very pleased," he added.

More than 400 individuals were on the job Saturday and many will return today, he said.

The program was interrupted when hundreds of protesters poured from their seats onto the stadium grounds. They waved their banners demanding "Jobs Now" and refused orders from police to return to the stands.

Thousands had marched the two miles from the Capitol to the stadium.

Another group picketed in front of the White House. The stadium demonstration was sponsored by the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department.

Prosecution Produces Star Witness In Guerny's Trial

By PAT LEISNER
TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Nine weeks into the bribery conspiracy trial of former Sen. Edward J. Guerny, the government has produced its star witness — Larry Williams, the man prosecutors claim raised hundreds of thousands of dollars in an influence-peddling scheme.

Guerny and four codefendants are being tried on charges of conspiracy to create an illegal $233,000 campaign fund with builder payoffs in exchange for housing favors from federal agencies.

Before Williams took the stand Friday, the jury heard from a long parade of prominent Florida contractors who testified that Williams, a Guerny fund raiser, pressured them for political contributions in exchange for favored treatment with the Federal Housing Administration.

Guerny, 61, the first U.S. senator in 50 years to be indicted in office, gained national prominence as President Richard M. Nixon's chief defender on the Senate Watergate committee.

Ironically, the main questions asked by that committee were what did the president know and when did he know it — and playing a central role in Guerny's trial.

The prosecution says Guerny hired Williams and knew of his aide's illegal fund raising.

Guerny, who abandoned his 1974 re-election bid in the wake of the scandal, has maintained that he never hired Williams to raise funds, and when he learned of the fund raising 18 months after it began, he ordered it immediately stopped.

The basis for the conspiracy charge is a Jan. 19, 1971 meeting at Guerny's Winter Park home, where prosecutors claim fund raising was discussed and Williams was hired.

In opening arguments the defense acknowledged Guerny's

147 Permits For New Homes Issued For Year

Midland building contractors and developers are responding to the needs of a growing Midland prosperity by building more single-family housing this year after a boom in commercial building last year.

During 1974, builders invested more than $25 million in commercial construction, much of which is nearing completion. Midland National Bank's 14-story banking tower is well above ground as are a new high rise Midland Hilton Hotel and a new Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. equipment complex and central exchange building.

But the 1975 construction picture is thus far focusing on housing. So far permits for 147 new homes have been issued by the city inspection department as compared to the same period last year. New home construction is maintaining a steady pace with $5.7 million listed on residential permits by late April compared to $1.9 million last year at this time.

The Midland Chamber of Commerce has urged developers to build new homes in middle income price ranges between $20,000 and $30,000 over, but the majority of new homes going up are over the $30,000 range. However, developers are currently making plans to build some lower priced homes. The city inspection department has issued no permits this year for apartment construction, but several large complexes are in the planning stages. Plans for three major apartment complexes have been presented to the planning and zoning commission but met opposition from homeowners. The apartment plans will come before the city council in the near future.

Last week, of the 28 building permits issued, 12 were for new homes while the other 16 were for residential repairs and alterations.

New home permits were issued to Carroll Grafia for a $55,000 home at 2306 Auburn Drive and a $45,000 home at 2312 Metz Place. Palace Homes was issued a single permit for a $30,000 home at 3517 Hyde Park. Clyde White was issued a $24,000 permit for a home at 2212 Northrup St. Harvey Langston Builders was issued two $45,000 permits for homes at 2308 and 2312 Maxwell St. Magnell Associates Inc. of New York was issued a $22,000 permit for a home at 4711 Wilshire Drive and an $18,500 permit for a home at 4710 Graceland St. Cord Land and Development Corp. was issued a permit for a $45,000 home at 2506 Neely St. B&R Builders Inc. was issued three home permits—for a $30,000 home at 3700 W. Kansas St., a $29,000 home at 3704 W. Kansas St. and a $31,000 home at 3706 W. Kansas St.

Residential repair and alteration permits totaled $39,215 during the week. Those permits went to E. Y. Wilder, 2007 S. Oaklawn St., $2,500, add swimming pool; Douglas Beck, 214 Hays St., $2,500, add swimming pool; Gladys Fruta, 2100 Oaklawn St., $1,500, add storage; James Simmons, 206 Spraberry Drive, $1,000, add room; John Hyde, 2610 York St., $2,000, add storage; Joyce Deff, 2009 Thomas St., $4,000, home repair; Ray Sapp, 629 Bedford Drive, $125, cover patio; Alma Marshall, 1309 E. TOWNHOME DESIGNS — Architect's drawing shows three basic designs of Saddle Club North provincial townhomes. Each is separated from the other as they curve around park areas.

'Townhome' Development Planned

Development of a $3.5 million residential area consisting of exclusive acreage homesites and provincial townhomes was announced last week by the real estate division of Magnatex Corp. Magnatex is based in Midland.

Saddle Club North will have private, low-traffic streets winding through landscaped areas where 200 live oak trees are now being planted, said John Kelly, manager of the Magnatex real estate division. The entire area will be enclosed by a security fence with entry only through one controlled entrance—at the intersection of North A Street and Solomon Lane.

Homesites are between one and two acres and will have full underground city utilities. Townhomes will be equipped with full security fire and intrusion alarm systems, and the alleyways will be lighted. Kelly said the "townhomes," unlike other townhomes, will be made up of separate units to assure maximum privacy. The townhomes have three basic interior plans, two and three-bedroom, with different exterior designs available. They are designed by architect Frank Welch.

The townhomes will have high beamed ceilings, fireplaces, atriums, custom cabinets, guest parking area and compactors. Kelly said construction of the first seven townhomes will begin early in May with completion scheduled for late summer. Several lots in the homesite area already have been sold and construction begun on some.

The Midland YMCA has begun accepting applications for Camp Chaparral, a day camp program for boys and girls, ages 6 through 12. The camp will be held Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. at Hogan Park.

The camp season will begin June 9 with a one-week session. Three two-week sessions will follow June 16, June 30 and July 14. A fifth session of one week will be held from July 28 to Aug. 1.

Activities will include archery, hiking, camp crafts, nature study and swimming. The highlight of each two-week session is the campfire and overnight campout the last Thursday, followed by a sunrise flapjack breakfast.

A trained staff of college and high school students under supervision of Gary Askins, camp director, will supervise all activities, according to John McVicker, community program director at the Y.

Fees are $17.50 for YMCA members and $20 for non-members for the one-week sessions and $35 for YMCA members and $40 for non-members for the two-week sessions.

Parents may enroll children in any or all of the sessions at the Central Y or any branch Y. Enrollments received prior to May 15 will receive a $5 discount.

Bus service is available with pick-ups at various schools at an additional cost of $2.50 per week.

Since, as the saying goes, "they ain't making no more of it," the limited inventory of land tends to drive the price steadily upward. We feel that houses in the future will be smaller because of economics and we will get used to them as we have compact cars.

OPPOSITION TO USE OF PESTICIDE ON BASE CITED—

Two Webb AFB Doctors Face Eviction

BIG SPRING (AP)—Two Webb Air Force base physicians say they have received eviction notices and implied threats of courts-martial because of their opposition to the use of the pesticide Aldrin in their base housing.

Capt. Tom Ramage of Paducah, Ky., and Capt. William Blake of New Orleans, La., are the two doctors. An Air Force spokesman said Aldrin is used in a ground insertion for termite control at base housing. The chemical is pushed in under pressure. Both men said when they learned of the dangers of Aldrin, they wrote to the base commander, Col. Robert Meisenheimer, telling him they did not want their homes sprayed with the chemical.

"Two weeks after I had given written notice that I did not want my house sprayed, the base commander called me and told me an eviction notice would be forthcoming," Ramage said. "All during the conversation, he kept repeating how he considered it a direct order that I allow my house to be sprayed. And he impressed on me what the penalty is for violating a direct order."

Ramage said the word "courts-martial" was never said directly, "but Col. Meisenheimer knew that I knew what he was talking about."

Blake said he received a letter from the commander saying, "I consider your refusal to comply with my directions and allow this maintenance as behavior contrary to accepted standards and adverse to military discipline."

Meisenheimer said there have been "no implied threats of court martial or anything. But when people do not comply with established Air Force policy, they are remiss in their obligations and should not be allowed to use the facilities."

Capt. Richard Risk, chief of the information division at Webb, said, "It was a question of semantics whether the two doctors have been evicted. Actually, they were given the option of allowing their houses to be treated or seeking housing off the base. Part of the deal with living on base housing is allowing basic maintenance to be performed and this is considered basic maintenance."

Meisenheimer said he had gone to "every source that's available to me and they've said this method (ground insertion) is acceptable, that it does not constitute a hazard the way the program is being implemented. I listen to the medical people on this."

Blake, head of pediatrics at Webb, quoted from a letter he said he received from Dr. Umberto Saffiotti, associate director of carcinogenesis at the National Cancer Institute in Washington. The letter said Aldrin should not be used "by home operators or pest control operators, in home, barns or poultry structures occupied by humans or livestock." The letter added "no level of exposure to this material can be considered as being safe."

Betty Williamson, director of public affairs for the EPA in Dallas said the agency discontinued use of Aldrin for use in crops in March 1972. She added that it is still allowed to be used for structural pest control, moth proofing and treatment of ornamental plants.

Mrs. Williamson said the EPA sent an investigator out to Big Spring, who monitored and checked for possible misuse of Aldrin. She said the conclusion was that the chemical is being used according to regulations.

Risk said military authorities received a letter supporting the use of Aldrin from Brig. Gen. Garth B. Dettinger, surgeon at the air training command at Randolph AFB.

Risk said the letter read: "Our findings and conclusions support continued Aldrin application procedures for termite control and confirmed proper safeguards are being maintained by the contractor at Webb AFB to date. Human exposure to Aldrin is infinitesimal and we feel it poses no toxicological problem."

The dispute over the use of Aldrin is apparently stymied, with the physicians quoting the National Cancer Institute and the EPA, while the Air Force also claims information from the EPA and the Air Force Surgeon General justifies Aldrin's continued use.

Now, Ramage said, they plan to take their battle to politicians, where he said he hopes he can get more direct action. "Right now, I'm getting the run-around."

Midlander Wins 'Outstanding Balloonist Trophy' In Electrifying Race In Florida

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Mike Choucalas, owner and aeronaut of Balloon Promotions in Midland, Tex., was presented the "outstanding balloonist trophy" by Fort Lauderdale Mayor Clay Shaw, for his 80-mile ocean crossing from Bimini Bahamas to West Palm Beach, Fla. last week.

Choucalas, general manager of the Sheratin Inn — Midland and past president of the Midland Balloon Club, made the crossing along with 10 other balloonists from around the country.

There were several factors involved which made his flight unique that resulted in the special recognition — a beautiful hand sculptured copper-balloon trophy, made by balloonist artist Chuck Rohr.

While attempting to inflate and heat the balloon for take-off in winds of 20 knots, a local youngster severed the tether line holding the balloon to a tree, causing a premature launch without sufficient temperature to give him the required lift he needed.

"Zorba the Greek" as the balloon is called, first bounced off a rooftop, then snapped a set of telephone wires before striking a set of high tension lines of 7200 volts. As they shorted out in a shower of sparks, Choucalas dropped to the floor of the gondola to avoid injury, and the balloon settled in a churchyard. After the electricity was disconnected, a thorough examination revealed little damage to either balloon or pilot. Choucalas then assisted the remaining balloonists in their lift-offs.

When all others had safely left the island, with their chase yachts following, he returned to his balloon and decided that since so much effort had been expended by "Sheraton Inns" and the "City of Midland," his two sponsors, that he would try again to launch. An hour later he successfully took off amid cheers.

Once over the water he was informed that the chase boat assigned to him had returned to port after seeing his original take-off, and he would be going across solo with no support vessel to follow him, which was a first.

Fifteen miles from the Florida coast, the southeasterly winds suddenly changed direction, sending the balloons still in flight on a northerly tack skirting the Florida coastline with no chance of land fall.

Two balloons found it necessary to ditch in the ocean as their fuel ran out. But with Coast Guard rescue helicopters standing by, there were no complications.

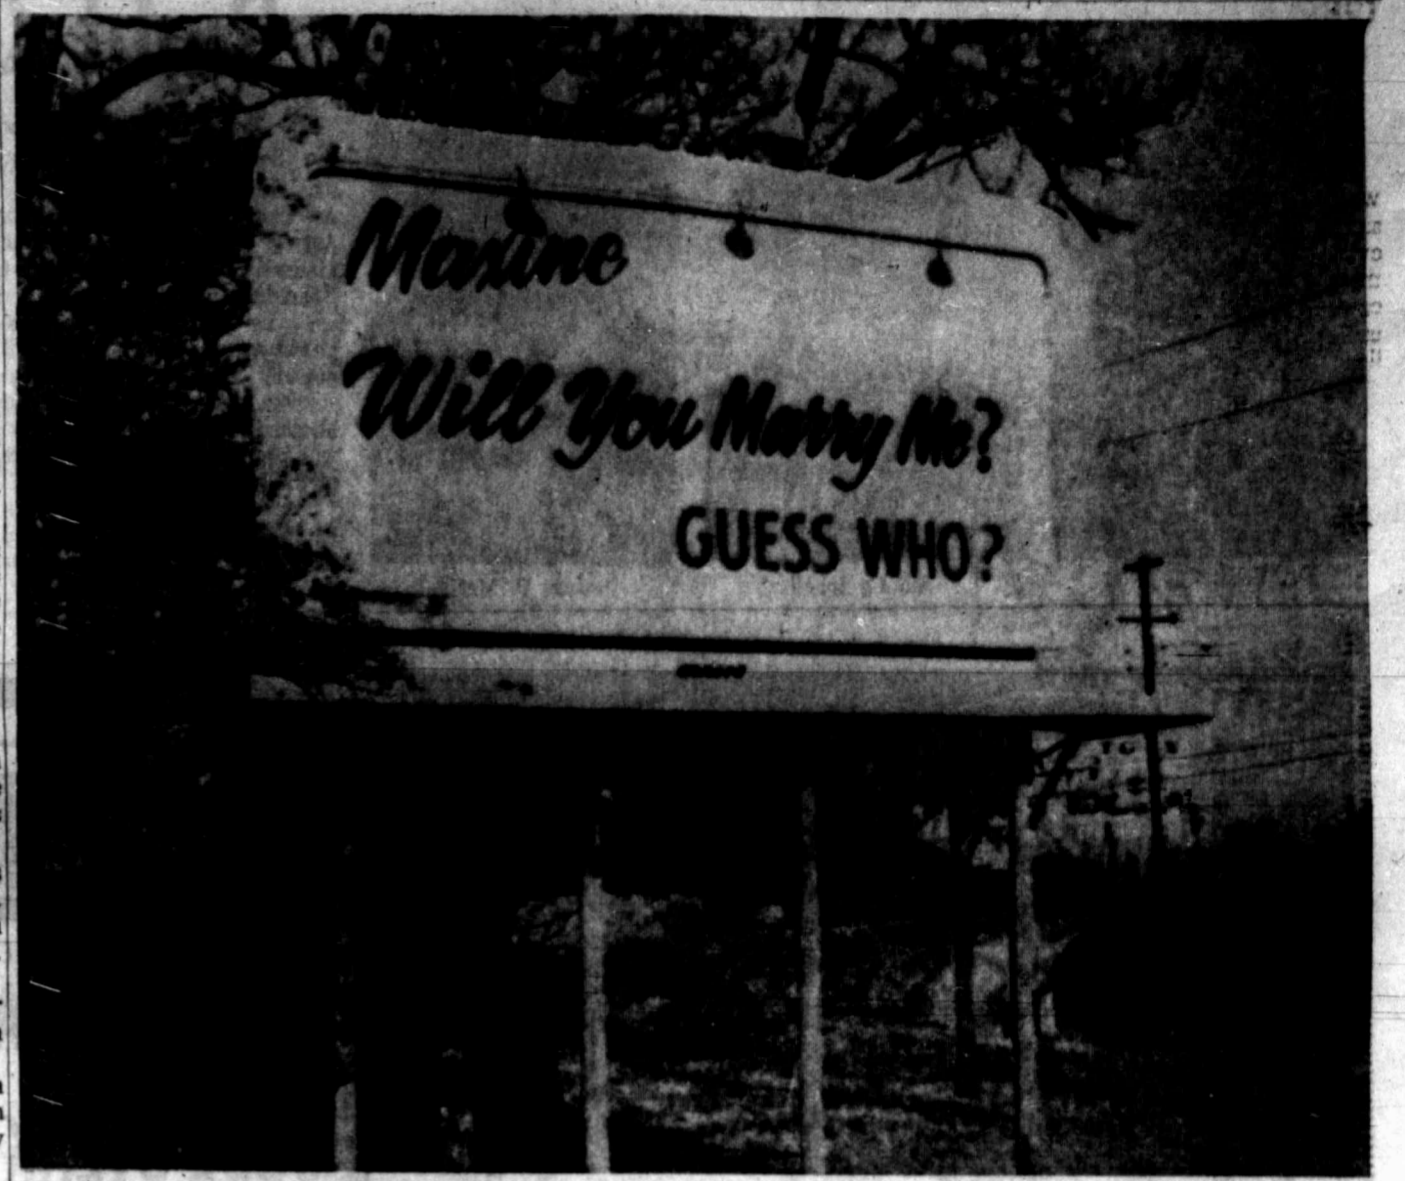

Choucalas descended from an altitude of 2000 feet to just 25 feet above the waves to take advantage of an easterly breeze and made a successful, safe high wind landing in a pasture just outside of West Palm Beach. His landing, 40 miles from Ft. Lauderdale, placed him fifth overall as the balloons were scattered as far as 80 miles from the target.

The winner of the race was Calvin Rouse of Tampa, Fla. with Phil Hibbard of Houston and Paul Wossner of Cary, Ill. taking second and third.

The race was video-taped for future release by two television networks.

The entire event was put on by Le Club International with all proceeds going to a charity — the Boys Clubs of American.

Odessan Pleads Innocent To Armed Robbery Charge

A 36-year-old Odessa man, Johnny Clarey, pleaded innocent in federal court here Thursday to the armed robbery Dec. 27 of a U.S. mail truck west of Monahans.

Registered and insured mail containing approximately $30,000 was taken in that hijacking.

Two other Odessans, Virgil Wayne Wells, 42, and Wiley Ulman, 28, charged with conspiracy to commit armed robbery in that incident, also entered innocent pleas in their arraignment before U.S. District Judge D. W. Suttle.

Their trial is set for Aug. 25 in the Midland-Odessa Division of the federal court's Western District of Texas.

Clarey, held in Midland city jail in lieu of bond, earlier had complained to Suttle that his constitutional rights were denied him and that he was displeased with his attorney, court-appointed by U. S. Magistrate Woody Weir. At Clarey's request, Suttle appointed a substitute lawyer to represent the defendant.

Clarey is alleged to have flagged down driver of the mail truck, Herschel Meredith, 45, of Midland, near Pyote, climbed aboard the tractor, pulled a pistol and ordered Meredith to stop under an overpass.

Two men in a car following the van allegedly opened the van and took the mailbags.

In other court action: —James Randolph Driggers, 20, pleaded guilty to escape from the Mildred Manning Community Treatment Center, a federal halfway house in Odessa, in February. He had been convicted for violation of the Dyer Act in transporting a stolen vehicle across state lines.

—Larry Mitchell Hopkins, 25, of Odessa, charged with escape from federal custody, was released on a $2,000 bond after Suttle reduced his bond from $5,000. The $200—10 per cent of the bond—Hopkins said he borrowed from a fellow prisoner to gain his release is to be returned to the lender following Hopkins' trial, to begin Aug. 5. Hopkins, who had pleaded not guilty to the escape charge, in the late 1960s had been convicted under the Dyer Act.

—Jerry Charles Childs, 31, of Odessa, indicted for escaping from federal custody, is to undergo psychiatric examinations for mental competency to stand trial.

—C. B. Spence, 40, of Laredo, indicted for altering $1 bills to resemble $5 bills and spending them in Odessa, complained that his court-appointed attorney was derelict in duty by waiting more than 40 days after his court appointment before consulting with Spence. The judge admonished the attorney for the delay, dismissed him from the case, and ordered the magistrate to appoint a lawyer who would give Spence prompt and fair advice.

—Charles Alvin Spann, 33, of Odessa, was meted a three-year split sentence after pleading guilty to transporting a stolen vehicle across state lines. Suttle ordered Spann, an oil well driller, to serve six months in prison. The remaining 30 months were suspended, and Spann is to be on probation for five years, two of which under supervision.

—Hilario Diaz Gomez, 35, pleaded guilty to encouraging

Collins, Milford Want Refugees Settled Elsewhere

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Reps. Jim Collins, R-Tex., and Dale Milford, D-Tex., say large-scale resettlement of Vietnamese refugees in the United States may make the unemployment situation worse.

"We do not owe these people anything," Milford said. Citing the unemployment rate, swelling welfare rolls, and increasing number of illegal aliens, he said it was "ridiculous to further burden the taxpayers with an additional 130,000 refugees."

Collins said he was in favor of appropriating funds for the resettlement of the refugees, as long as it was not in the United States. He has suggested they be relocated "in an undeveloped country, such as Brazil or Indonesia."

Meeting On Law Concepts Set

Law enforcement, education and bar leaders from the Midland-Odessa area will gather Wednesday to launch a new State Bar of Texas public school program aimed at applying law concepts in the classroom.

Former Midland school board member Ted M. Kerr, who also is chairman of the State Bar's law-focused education program, will preside at the 7 p.m. meeting in Midland Country Club.

A panel of law enforcement officials and bar leaders will discuss law enforcement problems. Panel members will be Midland Assistant Police Chief Wayne Gideon, Ector County Court-At-Law Judge Philip Godwin, Odessa Police Juvenile Sgt. Robert Hill and Emil Rassman of Midland, chairman of the State Bar Board of Directors.

Following the panel discussion, the audience will divide into five groups to observe a demonstration of the teaching techniques used in the program.

The Midland-Odessa area is the second in the state selected for participation in the program. Houston school leaders were familiarized with the program at a meeting March 7.

Financed with grants from the Governor's Criminal Justice Division, the State Bar of Texas, Texas Education Agency and the Piper Foundation of San Antonio, the program is aimed at expanding throughout the state during the next five years a successful program piloted in Dallas schools.

The program concentrates not on creating new school courses, but instead on expanding existing civics, government, history and social studies courses to include more in-depth treatment of the law and the development of the legal system in the United States.

Implementation of the project in the Midland-Odessa schools will begin with a seminar July 7-25 in Midland for approximately 100 history, civics, government and social studies teachers. Those teachers will apply the law concepts and teaching techniques in the classroom beginning this fall.

Kennedy Autopsy Files Restudied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under orders from the presidential commission investigating the CIA, a team of five medical experts has examined the autopsy file on President John F. Kennedy.

The examination, ordered in response to allegations that more than one assassin was involved in the death of the late president, was confirmed Friday by two members of the team, Lt. Col. Robert R. McMeekin of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology and Dr. Werner U. Spitz, chief medical examiner of Wayne County (Detroit), Mich.

lurching violently backward after he is struck in the head, indicating he was shot from the front.

McMeekin said he examined photographs and X-rays of Kennedy's wounds and also viewed a film of the shooting and found no evidence of an entrance wound in the front of the head. He theorized that a muscle spasm caused by massive brain damage caused Kennedy's head to snap backward.

MS Fund Drive May 12

The annual Multiple Sclerosis fund campaign will be made May 12 in Midland.

C. J. Kelly, chairman of the board of the First National Bank, is chairman of the drive.

"I feel honored to head this campaign and know that Midland can be counted on to cooperate in making the 1975 drive even better than last year," Kelly said.

But he said he found nothing in the autopsy materials to refute the Warren Commission's conclusion that the fatal shot was fired by Lee Harvey Oswald from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas.

Critics of the Warren Commission's report have contended that a film of the assassination clearly shows Kennedy

"If we are to extend our local programs, we need the entire community's support," Kelly said. "Your help means more hope and more help for our local MS patients and more research to find the cure of this dread disease."

Three members of the Yale Law School faculty in the audience at New Haven, Conn., said after the President's speech that they opposed mandatory sentences.

Ford referred indirectly to "the national disgrace of law-breaking in high places" — an

Traffic Fatalities Up 21 Per Cent

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas traffic accidents have killed 878 persons so far this year, compared with 725 for the same period a year ago, says the Department of Public Safety.

Fatal accidents this year total 768, compared with 635 at this time in 1974.

The increase in the number of fatalities and the number of fatal accidents is 21 per cent in both cases.

Mandatory Prison Terms Favored By Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, hoping to put muscle behind the slogan that "crime does not pay," suggests that prison sentences be made mandatory for twice-convicted perpetrators of violent crimes.

Ford, attending a 150th anniversary dinner Friday night at Yale Law School where he earned a degree in 1941, signaled key elements in an anti-crime program he will submit to Congress in about six weeks.

He said he would ask Congress to make sentences mandatory for those who commit violent crimes more than once.

He said this legislation, which would only affect crimes covered by federal law, could serve as a model for the adoption of similar provisions by the states.

apparent reference to Watergate and other scandals. But he emphasized the problem of violent crime, which he said has denied the nation the "domestic tranquility" promised in the Constitution.

"Most serious offenders are repeaters," Ford said. "We owe it to their victims, past, present, and future, to get them off the streets. This is just everyday common sense."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said in advance of Ford's quick round-trip to Connecticut that the President would, in broad outline, go into his special message to Congress on crime.

Ford said, "I am urging that virtually all of those convicted of a violent crime should be sent to prison. And this should be done especially if a gun was involved or there was other substantial danger or injury to a person or persons. There certainly should be imprisonment if the convicted person has a Black and Clyde Summers and they opposed mandatory sentences."

Yale law professors Charles said after Ford's speech that they opposed mandatory sentences.

REALTOR OF YEAR — Don Harvey presents to Bunnie Kent an award naming her the Realtor of the year.

Bunnie Kent Named Realtor Of The Year

By JAN WILLIAMS
Bunnie Kent was named Realtor of the Year Friday night by the Midland Board of Realtors at its Realtor Week Dinner-Dance in the Midland Country Club.
The award was presented to Mrs. Kent by Don Harvey, last year's recipient.
Mrs. Kent was cited for her many accomplishments in the real estate field and for her contributions to civic and community affairs.
"Among her many accomplishments," Harvey said, "she helped paint and repair a house for a crippled lady and helped collect money for the Lee High School choir."
"She also spent many hours of service on our new Board of Realtors building. She worked hard to get approval for the building and did more than her share to make it possible."
Mrs. Kent has been a member of the Midland Board of

Past recipients of Realtor of the Year Award are Warren L. Falier, 1960; Barney G. Grafa, 1961; Jack R. Mogle, 1962; Mary Ann Carr, 1963; Helen F. Goldsmith, 1964; Donald W. Johnson, 1965; Kamilla Key, 1966; G. Ronald James, 1967; Thomas B. King, 1968; Frances Hillin, 1969; Nova M. Roberts, 1970; Charles H. Moore, 1971; Clarence E. Nelson, 1972; Weldon Lee Taylor, 1973; and Harvey, 1974.
The dinner-dance was held in conjunction with Realtor Week which was stated in a proclamation by Mayor Ernest Angelo and presented to the Midland Board of Realtors.
Mistress of ceremonies for the event was Patsy Bohannon. Guest speaker was Fred Middleton, vice president of The First National Bank, who delivered a few humorous remarks.

District Gov. Jim Lemons of Big Spring will preside at the business sessions.
The Midland Lions clubs are Downtown, Southside, Terminal, Westside, Eastside, Morning, Evening, Tall City and Greenwood.

Edward Kosjer

Edward Kosjer of Virginia Beach, Va., a director of Lions International, will represent the international association at the conference. He also will address the concluding banquet at 8 p.m. Saturday.
Kosjer is a 19-year member of Lionism and is a past governor of his district. He long has been active in sight conservation and work for the blind.
A convention golf tournament is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Friday at the Hogan Park Golf Course.
The highlight of the opening day's activities will be the district queen contest, which will get under way at 8 p.m. at Alamo Junior High School, with past District Gov. Duke Jemerson of Midland in charge. A patriotic theme will be used in the evening's program. The winner of the district contest will qualify for participation in the state contest.
A reception honoring the queen contest participants will follow the contest at 9:30 p.m. at Rodeway Inn.
A Star Spangled Breakfast honoring Lions Key members will launch the Saturday activities. It is scheduled for 7 a.m. at Rodeway.
The initial business session will begin at 9 a.m., also at Rodeway, with Bozeman presiding.
Ranchland Hill Country Club will be the scene of a luncheon, featuring Dr. Thomas H. Lindsey of Vernon, a past governor of District 2-E1, as the speaker.
The luncheon will be followed by a necrology ceremony scheduled at 1:30 p.m., at Rodeway. Elder J. E. Barrington, a past president of the Midland Westside Lions Club, will be in charge.

Business and workshop sessions will resume at 2:30 p.m. at the inn.
A reception honoring the international director and the district governor will be held at 7 p.m., followed by the district governor's banquet at 8 p.m. in the Rodeway Inn ballroom. It will be the concluding event.
Special entertainment also is scheduled for the ladies attending the convention. A hospitality room will be open Friday afternoon at the headquarters inn.
A coffee honoring the wife of the district governor will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday. It will be followed at 10:30 a.m. by a handwriting analysis program conducted by Ms. Dolores Gaines. A tour of the Midland Planetarium is planned for 3 p.m.
Members of the women's auxiliaries of the various Midland Lions clubs will serve as official hosts to the visiting ladies. They also are in charge of table decorations for the various convention events.
Ranger: Parr's Death Definitely Suicide
SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Ranger Captain John Wood says an extensive investigation has left "no doubt whatsoever" that the death of Duval County political boss George Parr was a suicide.
Parr's body was found in his car southeast of Benavides April 1, with a gunshot wound in his head. A justice of the peace ruled that the wound was self-inflicted.

'POP' Is Midland!

You doubtless have seen the colorful "POP" campaign buttons being worn by hundreds of Midlanders.

And surely you have seen the "POP" insignia popping-up in advertisements appearing in The Reporter-Telegram in recent days and weeks.

By now, of course, most of you know that POP stands for "Pocket of Prosperity."

And Pocket of Prosperity, quite naturally, refers to the Tall City of Midland.

Prosperity is the watchword in this particular pocket of the country, where the wheels of progress and industry are turning faster and faster with each passing day.

Business and economic conditions are at near-boom proportions, similar in many respects to the busy, busy 1950s in this great and highly productive empire.

This very pleasing and most satisfactory condition results from vastly expanded operations in all phases of the petroleum industry, particularly in the exploration and field development segments.

This, plus expanded industrial development and increased business in general, just naturally spells out "prosperity," which, in turn, keeps the sales receipt computers, or whatever, buzzing almost continuously in Midland's retail places of business.

Midlanders, along with other Permian Basin Empire residents, perhaps have more money to spend today than ever before.

Building permits issued for the first four months of the year are in excess of $7 million, with residential permits issued for the first four months of the year are in excess of $7 million, with residential permits issued for the first four months of the year are in excess of $7 million.

Bible Verse: "For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost." — Matthew 18:11.

NICK THIMMESCH: WASHINGTON—Flowers bloom, the weather is better and we come into the "runaway" season when thousands of unhappy youngsters leave homes they feel they can bear no more.

Hopefully, many of these children will find refuge in one of those scarce runaway centers, fairly new on the American scene, now being funded by the Office of Human Development (OHD) at HEW.

Though youngsters fled troubled homes long before Huck Finn (his old man was a mean drunk), there is only modest knowledge of this phenomenon.

Congress appropriated $5 million in the current fiscal year to deal with the runaway situation and will probably come through with the same amount for fiscal 1976.

"Besides trying to find out what this is all about," Thomas told me, "we're funding some 40 centers designed to attract runaways, and we're also sponsoring a national runaway telephone switchboard operating 24 hours a day, toll free."

tial construction leading the field, with more than $5.5 million. Likewise, work continues on several multimillion-dollar projects started last year.

The unemployment figure is in the 3.3 percentage range, as compared with 9 per cent nationwide.

The population figure is approaching 70,000, which represents a significant increase in the last year. The official 1970 population was 59,463.

Every available drilling rig is working in the oil fields, with any number of new ones on order.

Many oil companies and affiliated interests have increased their personnel to handle the increased work load.

It is an exciting period... one which is felt by the man on the street... in the offices in the skyscraper buildings from which Midland takes its Tall City designation; in the stores, plants and other places of business, as well as in the homes throughout the city.

Enthusiasm goes hand-in-hand with a great spirit of optimism. It is no wonder that the Pocket of Prosperity designation fits so well the city of Midland and the Permian Basin Empire which it serves.

This is great, and residents of the area consider themselves fortunate to reside here. At the same time, they are doing everything within their power to expand the pocket in every direction... nationwide, if possible.

THE BIBLE: Can you quote it? By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER

1. People ARE funny: the whites are spending money to put a curl in their hair, the blacks are doing the same to make their's straight, the rich want to keep a thin starved look, while the emaciated starving would like a chance to get fat.

2. What happens to those who exalt themselves? Luke 14:11

3. What was perhaps the first building made of wood? Genesis 6:14

4. Who got the blame for the "original sin"? Genesis 3

5. "Be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, I will never be content." — Hebrews 13:5

Four correct... excellent. Three correct... good.

While the average age of the runaway caller was 16.3, there were 8-year-olds who called and even runaways in their 20s.

'Don't Look Now But He's Still There'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON: WASHINGTON — Overlooked by most tourists, who throng Washington's shrines and pay homage to the nation's greats, is the Poultry Hall of Fame.

It is located off the beaten sightseeing path, in nearby Beltsville, Md., the seat of American agricultural technology.

Within this hallowed hall, the pride of the poultry industry — the researchers who gave the world more delectable chicken legs — have been immortalized in oils. They appear in solemn portraits, staring from their assigned places on the walls, for future generations of chickeneaters to ogle.

The taxpayers, of course, have paid for this shrine to chicken research. It is a measure, unfortunately, of how their agricultural research money is being spent.

The world looks to American agriculture to help find a way to feed the mushrooming population. This should be the mission of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS), which instead devotes most of its efforts to promoting the special interests of agribusiness.

The ARS assigns more lab space to tobacco research, for example, than to food distribution. The agricultural researchers are concentrating less on tobacco health hazards than on developing a ripe Virginia leaf that will be harder, quicker drying and more profitable for the tobacco companies.

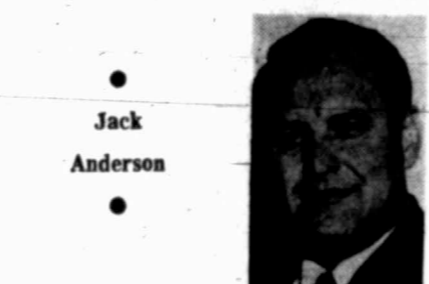

The pesticide and insecticide research at Beltsville also is conducted to please the chemical industry more than the health services, say our sources. The bug killer DDT, for example, came out of the ARS labs. And ARS fought for its continued use long after DDT was shown to be harmful to people as well as insects.

An ARS circular features on its cover a heroic figure in a T-shirt, spraying crops in the battle against the drosophila fly. The fumes are shown billowing around his feet. On the back of the pamphlet, buried in the text, appears a warning that "Aldrin and Diazinon can be absorbed through the skin in harmful quantities."

The pamphlet is intended to rally tomato growers to wage chemical warfare against the pesky drosophila fly. Never mind that they are more likely to notice the cover picture of the sleeveless man with a spray gun than the back-page warning that the unfortunate fellow is likely to absorb "harmful quantities" of the spray.

The ARS is not only trying to discourage drosophila flies from infesting tomatoes, but it is also producing harder tomatoes that can be picked by machine. Never mind that the tough tomatoes feel more like potatoes; at least they can be picked more quickly.

During the early 1950s, the ARS circulated a pamphlet among farmers touting hemp, or marijuana, as a fiber crop and weed killer. "It grows well in the Corn Belt," the circular boomed.

Jack Anderson

Indeed, marijuana did thrive among the corn. In 1971, a new pamphlet was circulated. This called the "wild" growth of marijuana in the mid-West a "heady problem" and described an $85,000-a-year effort to stamp out the "wild weed," thereby keeping it out of the hands of errant youths.

The bureaucrat who wrote the memo was finally called in desperation. The "prok syndrome," it turned out, was the "pork syndrome," a common porcine problem. ARS had been stumped by a simple typographical error.

Footnote: An ARS spokesman defended the agency, citing examples of significant market research it had done. He acknowledged that some of the ARS publications might have contained errors in judgment and denied that the ARS publicists inflate the agency's accomplishments.

An agency reorganization, he claimed, had corrected some of the problems pointed out in the blue-ribbon committee's criticism.

INSIDE REPORT—

Militant Propaganda Is Cruel And Tragic

by ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A worldwide campaign to paint the Egyptian ambassador to the U.S. as publicly advocating "extermination" of all traces of "Judaism," in the Middle East shows the dangerous intensity of the propaganda battle now being waged by militant friends of Israel following collapse of the U.S. Israeli-Egyptian peace effort.

Indeed, so widely has the allegation against Ambassador Ashraf Ghorbal been spread by the worldwide Jewish press — small weeklies and dailies devoted to Jewish affairs with heavy emphasis on Israel — that it was actually discussed at Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's final session with Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in Jerusalem last month.

Rabin, who served as Israeli ambassador here while Ghorbal represented Egypt, told the U.S. delegation that the words did not sound like Ghorbal's. Indeed, Ghorbal told us not only that he had never said any such thing, but that he had never granted an interview to the right-wing, anti-Semitic Argentinian magazine — now defunct — which originally put the words in his mouth.

When Argentine Ambassador Alejandro Orfila asked Ghorbal routinely if he would have a minute to see a visiting writer for a hyper-nationalistic, fringe publication called "Marchar," Ghorbal told us he received him for a total of two or three minutes. The writer, Patricio Kelly, spoke no English and Ghorbal speaks only a few words of Spanish and Italian. The only other person present was a photographer Kelly brought with him. No effort was made to get an interpreter. That was early January, only a short time before "Marchar" ceased publication altogether.

On April 1, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency bureau in Buenos Aires transmitted a long section of the alleged interview — which had been published weeks before — on its main trunk wire, extending worldwide. That wire copy was immediately published in the specialized Jewish press.

"The Jewish Week" of Washington headlined its April 3 story: "Egypt's ambassador foresees extermination of Judaism." A commentary on the alleged interview, carried on April 11 in the Brooklyn, N.Y., "Jewish Press," carried the headline, "Extermination of Jews."

In England, the respected Manchester Guardian also published a large portion of the alleged interview, but on April 10 it carried a full retraction apologizing "for running a piece of black propaganda" which, the newspaper said, was obtained from "an Israeli source (that was) impeccable."

In the Israeli parliament, a member of the opposition Likud party, Yediyah Beeri, was quoted by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency as demanding that the Israeli foreign ministry "reprint and distribute millions of copies of the Ghorbal interview." The interview proved, he said, that Israel has always claimed: that "according to a man who is one of President Anwar Sadat's principal advisers, the Arab-Israeli conflict is not over territories but over the very existence of Israel and the Jewish people." That is a consistent and recurring theme of pro-Israeli propaganda.

Letters containing clips of the alleged interview from different publications poured into Ghorbal's office, two of which were especially interesting. Rabbi Henry Siegman of New York, executive vice president of the Synagogue Council of America, wrote Ghorbal: "Based on our association, I simply find it impossible to believe that you could have said the things attributed to you."

Phillip M. Klutznick of Chicago, chairman of the board of the World Jewish Congress and honorary president of Bnai Brith, sent Ghorbal a copy of the April 2 Jewish Telegraphic Agency daily news bulletin, headlined "Extermination of Judaism in the Mideast is point of departure for Arab liberation." Klutznick wrote Ghorbal: "I am writing you directly because I cannot believe that is the way you feel. It does not sound like the Ashraf I know." In his reply, Ghorbal said that to him "the issue transcends the Arab-Israeli problem. It concerns my relations and friendships with people of the Jewish faith. Someone, somewhere, seems to be anxious to put a wedge in there."

The defamations of Ghorbal is cruel and tragic, both to responsible Jewish leaders and to Ghorbal himself. Without any effort to check the accuracy of the inflammatory report in "Marchar," a publication which the Argentine ambassador says is "practically unknown outside extreme nationalist groups," the understandable emotions and fears of thousands of Jews have been manipulated in the rising crescendo of the propaganda battle.

Appointment Of Daniel Moynihan To U.N. Reflects Delicate U.S. Shift

By DON SHANNON
 WASHINGTON — The appointment of Daniel Patrick Moynihan as ambassador to the United Nations is a change of medium, not a message. Moynihan, a distinguished scholar of urban problems and recent ambassador to India, is President Ford's choice to succeed John Scali, a blunt-speaking former newsman appointed two years ago by President Nixon. Scali stirred up a storm in the world organization last Dec. 6 when he warned the nations of the Third World against using their numerical superiority to install a "tyranny of the majority."

 In the subsequent barrage of countercharges, most of the participants lost sight of the fact that President Ford himself first used the phrase when he addressed the U.N. General Assembly last October. A strongly developed U.S. resentment derives from two currents which have roiled the international waters since the Arab oil embargo. The first was the discovery by the developing nations that producers of raw materials could successfully combine and bring the industrial nations to terms. The second was the discovery by the Arabs that their new economic power could translate into world action against Israel, successfully protected by the United States and its allies in the past. Fascinated by the success of the oil producers, developing nations flocked to the Arab banner and drew up a charter for a "new international economic order" at a special assembly last May devoted to the problems of raw materials and economic development. They firmly rebuffed the disapproving United States, which sought to limit the gathering to the consideration of energy problems alone. In last fall's regular assembly, U.S. diplomats again failed to slow the progress of various actions implementing the charter and before this fall's assembly begins, another special meeting will debate claims of the Third World to a bigger share of the world's goods. Utilizing the developing nations' hunger, the Arabs won them to the anti-Israeli camp by labeling Israel as the puppet of the same "imperialists" who control world markets. Arab promises of aid swelled overwhelming votes in the assembly to condemn Israel and to invite Yasser Arafat, leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, as an honored guest.

To all this, Scali balefully warned against confrontation, despite its obvious initial success, and on occasion acted almost like a peevish elder scolding the younger generation. Neither the beetle-browed oratory nor the off-stage scolding brought noticeable change. Western Europeans made minimal public noises of support while privately criticizing Scali's style. No great change in the Indo-American climate was evident before Moynihan's departure last January and with his characteristic candor he estimated that just achieving a "normal" status in U.S.-Indian relations could take 10 to 15 years. In addition to his disappointment at failing to establish a closer relationship with Mrs. Gandhi, he confessed his disappointment that he had been unable to make contact with Indian academics who should have been his natural partners in dialog. "They're lost in a kind of ritual anti-Americanism," he told an interviewer. "You're got to be a masochist to try."

This latter-day fatalism was unlike the 34-year-old Kennedy whiz kid who, as a special assistant to Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg (later to serve at the United Nations), came on ready to solve the problems of the nation's minorities. Moynihan not only launched a reform of U.S. welfare laws — a project that later led him to be named chief of staff in President Lyndon B. Johnson's War on Poverty — but found time to foster a first book by a young Department of Labor lawyer, one Ralph Nader. Explaining later that he was one of the Kennedy aides Mr. Johnson simply "didn't trust," Moynihan went back to teaching and then in 1968, to the surprise of his friends, accepted an invitation to become President Nixon's counselor on urban affairs. It was the 1970 leak of a memo to President Nixon arguing that "the issue of race could benefit from benign neglect," which marked Moynihan's real break with his political past. Now, at 48, Moynihan has apparently decided to go on with diplomacy, the second thread of his life. Only weeks after his return to Harvard, he published a long article in the magazine Commentary criticizing U.S. foreign policy. Facing the culmination of what he calls the "British Revolution" in the United Nations today, U.S. policy in the last assembly was a "massive failure," Moynihan said. His prescription for a cure, again evolved from British politics, is the assumption of the role of "loyal opposition" by the United States.

Washington's error, he said, has been to continue acting like the governing majority long after the necessary votes slipped away. Instead, the United States should now be "vigorously probing the weakness of the majority and offering attractive alternatives," he contended. Moynihan would frankly use American food as a foreign policy weapon, he declared, something U.S. spokesmen politely rejected when Arab leaders accused them of threatening to do during the oil embargo.

"Food-growing is the first thing you do when you come down from the tree," he protested. "We should be asking 'how come the United States can grow food and you can't?' Yes, food is a weapon and we should use it." It is clear that both President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger were attracted to Moynihan's call for a stronger U.S. hand in dealing with the Third World. But it will take more than Moynihan's ready wit and talent for speaking to reverse the tide in the United Nations and make the U.S. representative "feared" there.

Americans who have watched the trend of events in the world organization in recent years believe that some of Moynihan's old domestic recipe for "being neglect" could better serve in cooling down both sides. Betraying his still painful sensitivity to the phrase at a recent press conference, the ambassador-to-be dismissed such an idea as "silly." The United

ERA Unnecessary

To The Editor:
 After much study and thought on the Equal Rights Amendment to the Federal Constitution, it is my opinion that it is not necessary. When our legislators voted for it in 1972 apparently they had not given it much thought and did it to please the ladies. When we voted for it in Texas most of us thought it was for equal pay and equal work opportunities for women. Contrary to these beliefs, these things were already provided for by The Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 and The Equal Opportunities Act of 1972.

Since we have an Equal Rights Amendment to the Texas Constitution why is it necessary to have it federally controlled? As you say in your editorials, federal control takes away our freedom to make decisions on a state and local level.

It seems the dangers of an innocent sounding amendment that says no person shall be discriminated against because of sex, are in the way it could be interpreted and by whom. Also the fact that it is supported by a national organization with questionable morals and the subtleties of a communistic network, working its way into our society via our public schools, news media, churches, entertainment world, social organizations, unions etc.

School Finance Reform Bogs Down

By STUART LONG
 Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Now we hear from all sides that the "school finance reform" program which started out so brightly burning in the hearts of legislators and their leaders has run aground on the shoals of inflation.

In spite of that $1.4 billion "surplus" which was in sight when the legislators gather here in January for 140 days in session, it now appears that they will do well to pump more than about $500 million more than had been programmed into state aid to the public schools in the coming two years.

"It wasn't really a surplus, it was a balance — created by inflation," said Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr., of Paris.

"And inflation ate it all up," added Rep. Herman Adams of Silsbee, chairman of the House Public Education subcommittee which will report back to the full committee Tuesday or Wednesday with its compromise on school finance legislation.

Adams stresses that he would not call it "reform," the way he thinks things are going to turn out. The money-spending will be divided about 50-50 between equalizing the quality of education as between school districts, and at covering the bite of inflation on school people's salaries.

That $1.4 billion was whittled down by emergency appropriations for schools, state employees, state utility bills and the like, and by the need for continuing pay raises for state employees and school people to keep up with inflation. Higher demands for state services at improved levels in the health care and juvenile fields, in some cases mandated by court orders, took additional bites from that $1.4 billion apple.

So now they will do well to come up with more than $300 or $400 million in school "improvement" above the improvement created by having teachers a bit more satisfied because they are nearer to making a living.

Just what course this will take remains uncertain and unknown. But the fight between Gov. Dolph Briscoe and the Texas State Teachers Association over the size of the teacher pay raise recalls the retort by Joe Stalin when the Pope came out against aggression. "How many divisions does the Pope have?" Stalin asked.

The teachers got legislative candidates committed on their pay raise, even before Briscoe's staff dreamed up his school finance system. And the realities of life are that you can't have one with the other. Briscoe's fighting speech the other day putting teachers more or less on one side and children on the other does not change the fact that the teachers had the votes lined up way ahead of time, and they have those 150,000 votes standing in line. Besides, they argue, a part of the quality of education is good a teacher, and the best ones will go to greener pastures unless they get substantial pay raises.

But one major step seems likely to be made toward school finance equalization. It is in the form of one of Briscoe's proposals handled by Reps. Wayne Pevelo of Orange, Charles Evans of Hurst, Luther Jones of El Paso and others.

It provides a way of equalizing taxes between all parts of Texas by putting all the powers of appraisal in the office of the county tax assessor-collector. That office will do the appraisals for all taxing agencies — cities, school districts and special districts and, of course, the county itself.

Then this HB 1463, as it now stands after unanimous approval by the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, would operate under supervision of State Comptroller Bob Bullock. Bullock's job would be to see to it that the administration of the property tax is made in fair and efficient fashion, aimed at achieving true market value appraisals and at getting all the property on the tax rolls.

This bill was worked out after lots of discussion, and sets up boards of citizens to whom tax appraisals can be appealed by a property owner. It also gives the state a voice, through Comptroller Bullock for the first time, in seeing to it that tax values are equal, from El Paso to Texarkana and from Wichita Falls to Brownsville.

That may be the major "reform" measure in school finance to come out of all the talk, for this session of the Legislature, at least.

But, since state aid to local schools is based on how much they can raise locally, it would be nice to know that all of us are putting in equally and fairly no matter where we live.

Government Raising Top Home Loan Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is raising the maximum interest rate for federally insured home loans, marking a reversal of a trend toward lower interest rates that economists had hoped would help revive the housing industry and the general national economy.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) announced Friday that the ceiling on government-guaranteed mortgages will rise by one-half of one per cent to 8.5 per cent.

The National Association of Home Builders said it was "dismayed" by the HUD action, which it said "keeps alive inflationary expectations." It noted that lending institutions had plentiful amounts of money available for prospective homeowners.

In a special message Friday, President Ford asked Congress to extend until Oct. 1, 1982, the federal revenue-sharing program for state and local governments.

The current, $30-billion program, described by Ford as "a resounding success," is due to expire in December 1976. Ford proposed that nearly $40 billion be distributed during the extended period.

There were these other economic developments: —The Labor Department reported that wage increases negotiated during the first three months of 1975 averaged 12.5 per cent for the first year of union contracts. That compared with 10.3 per cent for the last quarter of 1974 and an average of 9.8 per cent for all of 1974.

—About 35 million recipients of Social Security and Supplemental Security Income stand to receive an 8 per cent cost-of-living increase in July, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said. But the administration has asked Congress to intervene to limit such benefit boosts to 5 per cent in order to relieve the federal deficit.

—The Senate voted 53 to 14 for a $6.1-billion program aimed at creating one million public-service jobs for the unemployed. The White House had sought only about $2 billion.

—The First National City Bank of New York said a survey of 950 firms showed that after-tax profits for the first quarter of 1975 declined by 12 per cent from a year earlier, the steepest rate since World War II. The manufacturing sector suffered a 17 per cent decline.

—The stock market posted a broad advance at the end of a lethargic week. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 8.14 to 811.80.

Corey Convicted In Honeymoon Slaying Of Texas Man's Bride

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A state court jury convicted self-styled Texas preacher Samuel Corey, 41, of first degree murder Saturday in the honeymoon slaying of Patricia Giesick, 25.

The jury deliberated 20 minutes before returning the guilty verdict, which carries a mandatory death penalty.

Criminal Dist. Judge Rudolph Becker III set May 12 as the tentative date for sentencing.

Corey's attorney, F. Irvin Diamond, said he would appeal the conviction.

Mrs. Giesick, the former Patricia Albanowski of Trenton, N.J., was hit by a car while honeymooning with her husband Claudius, 27, of San Antonio, Tex., here Jan. 16, 1974. They had been married two weeks.

Giesick at first reported his wife was the victim of a hit and run motorist. But a subsequent police investigation disclosed that Corey and Giesick had obtained a $250,000 life insurance policy on her a few days before her death.

Giesick was at first charged with second degree murder, but he was permitted to plead guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter after he agreed to turn state's evidence and testify against Corey, also of San Antonio.

Giesick testified during the four-day trial that he shoved his wife in front of the car driven by Corey.

Four Terrorists Flown To Germany

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Four of the six terrorists who seized the West German embassy in Stockholm and killed two diplomats were flown back to Germany Saturday under heavy guard.

A fifth terrorist was hospitalized with serious injuries suffered when he and his comrades blew up the embassy building. The sixth killed himself in the final hours of the siege Thursday.

A police spokesman in Hamburg said a Swedish airplane landed here with the four terrorists, plainclothes Swedish guards and two doctors aboard. He said the plane was to continue to Cologne, but its final destination was unknown.

Officials said formal charges will be filed by the Karlsruhe federal state attorney's office.

The terrorists stormed the embassy in Stockholm before noon on Thursday and took 12 hostages, demanding that the Bonn government release 26 jailed anarchists. The terrorists shot to death the military and economic attaches. After 12 hours, their demands rejected, they set off explosive charges that destroyed the building.

The Swedish government decided to expel the terrorists after West German Foreign Minister Hans Dietrich Genscher flew to Stockholm and met with Swedish Premier Olaf Palme.

Three Odessans Held In Robbery Of Taxi Driver

ODESSA—Three Odessa men were arrested early Friday morning and charged with the armed robbery of an Odessa taxicab driver.

Sonny Pryor, 18, Rayford Daniels, 24, and James T. Mayes, 18, were charged with aggravated robbery and theft in connection with the robbery of taxi driver Lawrence Nichols about 2 a.m. Friday in which about $35 was taken.

They remained in city jail Saturday morning in lieu of $25,000 bond each on the aggravated robbery charge and $2,000 bond each on the theft charge.

The driver told police three men were riding in the back seat when one of them pulled a gun. Nichols said he turned on the two-way radio and the company dispatcher, who heard the robbery taking place, called police.

The men were arrested about an hour later.

Mayes and Daniels also were charged with carrying a prohibited weapon. Bond of $2,000 for Mayes and $5,000 for Daniels has been set.

Number Of Presidential Primaries Still Growing With Total Now Up To 30

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of 1976 presidential primaries is steadily growing with the total now up to 30, and there are at least two moves toward the nation's first regional primary elections.

At least three, and probably four, Pacific Northwest states will hold primaries next May 25. A similar move is being pushed in New England for March 2 but its success is in doubt, leaving New Hampshire with its traditional first-in-the-nation primary.

By the time all the rules for 1976 are written, as many as 33 states may elect their presidential convention delegates at primaries, 10 more than in 1972. They will include all of the nation's largest states and more than three-fourths of the delegates.

Most of the big states will elect individual delegates by congressional or state senatorial district, thus taking advantage of a legal loophole to avoid the requirement that delegates be divided proportionately among candidates.

Texas has adopted that plan to join California, New York, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Some politicians fear that the financial and logistical burdens that will be evident in 1976 will spark a strong effort to establish nationwide presidential primaries by 1980.

Party officials generally oppose any national primaries which would supersede the nominating conventions and virtually insure that the nominee is someone well known before the campaign starts.

The Northwest regional primarily, actually several simultaneous but separate individual primaries, will involve Oregon, Idaho, Nevada and probably Washington, where the matter is still under consideration.

In New England, several Massachusetts Democrats were seeking to win approval of primaries on the same as New Hampshire's, even though New Hampshire's political leaders have made clear they will move their primary up to retain its first spot.

Besides Texas, additions to the primary list include Idaho, Nevada, Georgia, Kentucky, Arkansas, Montana and Mississippi.

Louisiana, Minnesota and Washington are the three states considering primaries.

This is the current schedule of primaries:

March 2 — New Hampshire.

March 9 — Florida, though an April date is under consideration.

March 16 — Illinois.

April 6 — Wisconsin, New York.

April 27 — Massachusetts, Pennsylvania.

May 4 — Alabama, Indiana, North Carolina, District of Columbia.

May 11 — Nebraska, West Virginia.

May 18 — Michigan, Maryland.

May 25 — Oregon, Nevada, Idaho, Kentucky, Arkansas, Rhode Island.

June 8 — California, New Jersey, Ohio.

Small Community's Legal System Is On Trial In Joan Little Murder Case

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The name on the indictment is Joan Little and the charge is first-degree murder. But in the first two weeks of pretrial motions in the case, it was the legal system in this small eastern North Carolina community that found itself on trial.

In defense of the 29-year-old black woman, a team of young, liberal lawyers assaulted the system under which blacks are accused, jailed and tried in coastal Beaufort County.

With polls, legal arguments and motions, they tried to show that not enough blacks are taking part in that system, and that racial attitudes dictate opinions about guilt or innocence.

Motions Denied Superior Court Judge Henry McKinnon denied their motions, but defense attorneys say they have laid good groundwork for an appeal, if necessary.

Miss Little's life could be at stake.

Miss Little was the only woman prisoner in the county jail Aug. 27 as she awaited appeal of a breaking and entering conviction.

In the predawn hours, she says, white jailer Clarence Allgood, 62, came into her cell to rape her and she stabbed him in self-defense with his own icepick. Then, she says, she fled in fear for her life.

Charged With Murder

A grand jury has charged her with murder, and the prosecution theory is apparently that Miss Little lured the jailer to her cell with the promise of sexual relations, then stabbed him in order to escape.

That difference of opinion is reflected along racial lines among the population of Beaufort County, according to James Luginbuhl, a North Carolina State sociologist who testified last week for the defense.

He said a random survey found 58 per cent of whites did not believe the slaying was self-defense. All but 1 per cent of blacks did.

Defense attorneys also produced statistics to show blacks as underrepresented in the county jury pool, and argued that as a result the indictment should be quashed.

Challenge Rejected

McKinnon based his rejection of the challenge largely on the composition of the grand jury which indicted Miss Little. It included four blacks and was evenly divided, with eight men and eight women.

County officials, all white, testified about the jury selection process and most seemed baffled by the charge of discrimination. Dist. Atty. William Griffin complained bitterly: "Beaufort County has been on trial here for seven days."

From its own point of view, the defense agreed. It contended that blacks only had 12 per cent representation in the total jury pool, while the Beaufort County population is 30.2 per cent black.

Another motion — also dismissed by McKinnon — accused the state of bad faith by denying Miss Little a preliminary hearing. The defense said such a hearing was a condition of Miss Little's surrender to state authorities after an eight-day manhunt.

The case has provided a rallying point for civil rights, women's rights and prison reform advocates. In the eyes of many it is a test of Southern justice. The Southern Poverty Law Center in Montgomery, Ala., has raised about $200,000 for Miss Little's defense.

Dog Paternity Suit Settled

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — A Paramus woman has accepted a $25 out-of-court settlement from the owner of two not-so-pedigreed dogs who made amorous advances to her two pedigreed French Poodles.

Mrs. Louise Kramer accepted the settlement just prior to the start of trial on a $3,000 damage suit she had filed against the owner of the other dogs.

According to Mrs. Kramer, her female Poodles, Gigi and Tammy, were the target of amorous advances by what she described as "two nondescript lineage" dogs.

She said her worst fears were confirmed when a test showed Tammy was pregnant. The dog later underwent a hysterectomy.

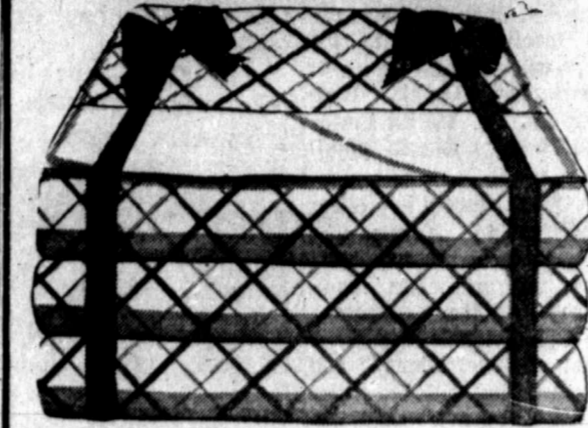

Custer Makes His Last Stand

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Kenneth Custer made a last stand in court and had his first name legally changed to General.

"Most of my whole life everybody called me General Custer," he testified in court. "Even when I was in the Navy in World War II, they called me General. I finally decided to make it legal."

General Custer is a veteran employe of Caterpillar Tractor Co. in Peoria. He is no relation to the Indian fighter.

STAMPS HIMSELF KING IN RICHEST TENNIS MATCH EVER HELD

Brash Young Connors Whips John Newcombe

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Brash Jimmy Connors stamped himself the king of tennis at the age of 22 Saturday by whipping Australia's John Newcombe in four sets in the richest match ever played.

Connors won 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 in the internationally televised battle at Caesars Palace that netted more than a million dollars.

Connors won with speed and placements and showed supreme confidence against his 30-year-old opponent who was ranked No. 2 in the world last year while Jimmy was ranked No. 1. Still Connors, from Belleville, Ill., never had beaten Newcombe before in three previous meetings.

This match at Caesars Palace tennis pavilion was a rich one with Connors due to collect $500,000 and Newcombe $300,000.

Connors won the first set by breaking Newcombe's serve in the fourth game and then holding his own in the fifth when the Australian had him at game point six times.

The crowd of 3,371, apparently favoring Newcombe, saw him win the second set by breaking the young southpaw's serve in the 10th and final game—the deciding point coming on a crosscourt shot that Connors had no chance of handling.

The 5-foot-10, 151-pound left-hander wrapped up the third set by winning the last four games in succession. First he broke Newcombe's service and then turned in the first love game of the match and followed it by doing the same thing on Newcombe's serve, putting the score 5-2.

The Aussie lost a chance for a comeback when he went up 15-40 on Connors' serve in the eighth game but Jimmy again came back to pull out the set.

Connors won the final set, breaking Newcombe in the seventh game, one which brought a storm of protest from the Aussie. Trailing 15-0, Connors hit lob on two balls that appeared impossible for him to get and squared the count at 15-15.

He won the next point with a great return, but then Newcombe's kill shot close to the line was declared out, bringing the protest from the Australian's supporters.

Nevertheless the score went to 15-40, and Connors won the crucial game when Newcombe hit into the net.

The Aussie's backhand appeared weak and his serve was not as strong as expected. He scored three service aces in the first set but none after that. Connors tallied seven during the match.

The young American had won $200,000 previously this year, including a victory in a $100,000 winner-take-all against Australia's Rod Laver here Feb. 2.

Newcombe, three times the winner at Wimbledon and twice the U.S. Open champion, failed to cope with the speed of his younger, smaller foe. The mustachioed Aussie, 6-foot and weights 175, had beaten Connors three years ago in the U.S. Open, then at Houston indoors and just last Jan. 1 in the Australian Open.

Yet he broke Jimmy's serve just once during their indoor battle here which lasted close to three hours.

Connors had been rated No. 1 in the world for 1974 when he won in England, the United States and Australia, but Newcombe's victory over him on

New Year's Day of this year had put his rating in jeopardy. The youngster played his best in the third set when he out-powered and outplayed the older Australian.

With the score knotted at 2-2 and Newcombe serving, Connors broke the service by lobbing past the Aussie.

Jimmy started the next game by scoring with a topspin smash to the baseline. Then he forced Newcombe to hit long twice and finished with a service ace to win the first love game of the match.

Leading 4-2, Connors hit a forehand drive down the line, pounded a backhand and placed another backhand to lead 6-40.

When Newcombe hit into the net, the American had scored his second love game of the match.

He got another love game to close out the match, winning the final point when Newcombe hit long.

Connors, whose serve is not as swift and Newcombe's had only two double faults in the match while the Aussie failed on seven occasions.

Caesars Palace put up $250,000 for the match, CBS television, which expected 20 million viewers, added $600,000 and foreign television added $175,000 more. At least another $100,000 was expected from other sources.

Six-Game String Ends In 2nd Tilt

By TED BATTLES

As far as the Midland Cubs are concerned, they could do away with the Designated Hitter. It was a DH, Tom Thomas, who tomahawked their six-game winning streak in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday night in Cubs Stadium.

Thomas knocked in four runs with a triple and home run, which was enough to salvage the final game of the six-game series, 6-2, for Shreveport.

The Cubs came from four runs back in the first game to win on a two-run homer by Joe Wallis in the fifth inning, 5-4, but it took a bases-loaded, none-out relief save by Dennis Lamp in the seventh to keep the Captains at bay.

The Cubs are off today and face San Antonio in the first of a five-game series Monday.

Shreveport jumped in front against Don Schroeder, the eventual winner, with two runs on doubles by Mitchell Page, Frank Grundler and Kenneth Melvin in the second. Page's two-run homer over the centerfield barrier made it 4-0 in the third.

Midland began to creep back in the third when Joel Green doubled into the left center alley and Ed Putman lined his first homer of the season down the left field line.

When Schroeder surrendered a double to Steve Nicosia to open the seventh, Rick Ware rushed in from the bullpen and got Paul Djakonov to ground to short, but Mike Sember couldn't handle it. Lamp came in and walked Mike Edwards to load the bases, then whiffed Jimmy Sexton and Green turned Ron Mitchell's grounder to second into a game-ended double play.

Wallis' second homer behind an Al Montreuil single gave Mike Weiss, who had reported from Wichita earlier in the day, a 2-0 lead in the second game.

And the way the righthander, who was 8-6 at Midland last year, went through the first four innings, it looked like the Cubs had No. 7 all wrapped up.

But Mike had worked, only 2 2/3 innings for the Aeros and he ran out of gas in the fifth. With one run in and the bases loaded, Lamp again was summoned. He whiffed Sexton, but Thomas drilled an outside pitch into the right field corner to cap a five-run inning.

In the seventh, Thomas tagged a Bernie Beckman floater over the left field fence to make it 6-2.

Wayne Tyrone added one last bright spot in the second game by tagging his first homer of the season, 375 feet.

Los Angeles Raps Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ron Cey blasted his sixth home run of the baseball season Saturday, a three-run shot in the first inning that started the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 13-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Cey's homer capped a four-run rally off loser John D'Acquisto, 1-2. Walks to Dave Lopes and Willie Crawford and Steve Garvey's run-scoring single preceded Cey's one-out blast to left.

Los Angeles' pitcher, Steve Garvey, struck out three San Francisco hitters in the first inning. He struck out Willie Randolph, Steve Garvey and Tom Seaver in the second. Nordiques Post WHL Playoff Win Over Minnesota

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — First-period goals by Mark Tardif, Rejean Houle and Serge Bernier sparked the Quebec Nordiques to a 6-1 victory over the Minnesota Fighting Saints Saturday night and a 2-1 advantage in their World Hockey Association semifinal playoff series.

The two teams met again today in the St. Paul Civic Center in the fourth game of the scheduled best-of-seven series.

Tardif and Houle scored early in the opening period to boost Quebec into a 2-0 lead and Bernier countered a goal by Minnesota's Ted Haggard to give the Nordiques a 3-1 advantage after 20 minutes.

Tardif and Bernier both scored on three-on-one breakaway efforts and Houle notched his seventh playoff goal on a power play.

The Nordiques moved into a 4-1 advantage at 15:46 on Jean-Claude Cloutier's first playoff goal. Quebec's Robert Guindon scored at 15:52 of the final period and Rene LeClerc concluded the Nordique scoring assault on Minnesota goalie John Garrett at 17:23.

Reds Bombard Houston, 9-3

HOUSTON (AP) — Ken Griffey's bases-loaded double highlighted a five-run fourth inning that helped the Cincinnati Reds throttle the Houston Astros 9-3 Saturday night.

Griffey's three-run blow was delivered off Jim Crawford after the Reds had seized a 4-0 lead against Tom Griffin, 0-4, in the first two innings. The Astros nicked Fred Norman, 1-1, for a run in the fifth on Rob Andrews single and added two runs in the eighth.

The Reds scored twice in the first inning on Joe Morgan's RBI single and Johnny Bench's fourth homer of the year. They got two more in the second on Pete Rose's double.

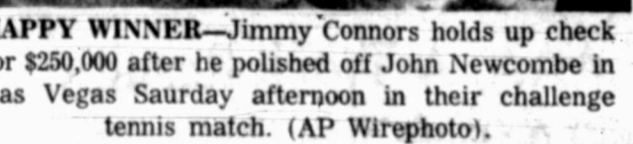

Brewers Here Monday; Cub Barbecue On Tap

CUB BRIEFS — The Midland Cubs are idle today before opening a five-game series with San Antonio Monday at Cubs Stadium, but Cub Booster Club get-acquainted barbecue is scheduled for 5 p.m. today in Hogan Park. Boosters and potential Booster members are invited.

Before grounding out in the eighth inning Friday, Cub outfielder Jose Ortiz had an on-base streak of nine going. In fact, he had been on base 15 out of his last 18 at bats.

Second baseman Al Montreuil, in addition to going 3-for-4, came up with a couple of spectaculars as fielder behind third on the Captain's Tom Thomas and just missed by a hair of getting the runner at first.

Wayne Tyrone had a seven-game hitting streak going into Saturday's twinbill and Monday through Friday Montreuil was hitting .625. "Some of those hits seem to have eyes," remarked the Cub player-coach. "Al's Mrs., who is attending nursing school in New Orleans, is in Midland for a weekend visit."

Odessa Permian Upends Lee, 5-1

By BOB DILLON
R-T Sports Writer

ODESSA—It was one of those afternoons.

Midland Lee's defense fell apart, the Rebels displayed poor base running and in the process, dropped a 5-1 decision to the Odessa Permian Panthers Saturday in a District 5-4A baseball game at the Panther diamond.

Of course, righthander Alex Kager had a lot to do with the Panther victory as the big pitcher silenced the usually potent Rebel bats with four hits in chalking up his 10th mound victory of the season.

Kager struck out eight Rebels and knocked in a run in the first inning and that was all Permian needed for the day.

The victory moves the Black Cats into a two-way tie for first with the Rebels in the second half of the torrid race with 4-1 records. Big Spring blew its chance to also move into first by dropping an 8-1 tilt to Abilene Cooper Saturday.

Lee threatened in the top of the first off Kager when with one out, Brett Blackwell rapped a triple into the right field corner, but Kager got Bobby Stevens to tap in front of the plate and Javier Torres looked at a third strike.

Stevens, Lee's starting pitcher, got into trouble right off the bat in the bottom of the first inning by walking leadoff hitter Chuck Gray. Wes Maynard forced Gray at second, however when he hit back to Stevens on the mound. Kager singled and runners got another base on a throwing error by Alan Neal in right and then Marc Fielden knocked in Maynard with a single. Jeff Midkiff got an RBI on a squeeze bunt that scored Kager and Lee Hanson doubled off the fence with Lee in left to score Fielden, but was thrown out at third trying to stretch the two-bagger into a triple.

Robert White singled with one out in the top of the second for Lee, but was wiped out on a double play when Rusty Buchanan struck out, tried to run to first and Hanson fired to second to nab White on the wiled double play. The batter was automatically out on the strike out, but White broke for second and it backfired.

Permian scored two unearned runs off Stevens in the second inning. Luke Groves got new life when Rebel second baseman Rusty Laughlin dropped an easy popup in the infield. Bill Milburn sacrificed Groves to second and Frosty Gilliam walked. Gray also walked and Maynard drove in Gilliam with a sacrifice to make it 4-0. The other run came in on a wild pitch by Stevens. Greg Howard reached first on an error by Groves in the top of the third and Robbie Porter walked, but Kager got Laughlin to pop up to third on a fine running catch by Gray. Blackwell skied out to second and Stevens struck out looking. Lee missed a chance to score in the fifth inning when Howard was thrown out at the plate. Howard walked, went to second on a groundout and to third on a wild pitch. He tried to score on Blackwell's drag bunt was thrown out.

The Rebels scored in the sixth inning and it was unearned. Stevens grounded to short, Torres reached first on a walk, went to second on an error and scored on a sacrifice fly by Porter. Howard walked, went to second on a wild pitch. He tried to score on Blackwell's drag bunt was thrown out.

New York In Ice Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Eddie Westfall flipped in a 15-foot backhander with 5:18 to play, goalie Glenn Resch blanked Pittsburgh and the New York Islanders capped a dramatic comeback by beating the Penguins 1-0 to win their National Hockey League quarter-final playoff series Saturday night.

The victory was the fourth in a row for the Islanders, who lost the first three games in the best-of-seven set. The last NHL team to rebound from a 3-0 deficit was the Toronto Maple Leafs in 1942.

The victory sends the Islanders into the semifinals against the defending Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, who swept four straight playoff games from the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Westfall, the Islanders 34-year-old team captain, provided the offense with his fourth goal of the playoffs.

The Penguins' comeback effort was delayed with 1:25 left to play when a fan hurled a bottle that splattered at mid-ice.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Northrup singled home the tying run with two out in the ninth inning and Al Bumbry got the game-winner home with another base hit as the Baltimore Orioles rallied to beat the Cleveland Indians 3-2 Saturday and split their two-night doubleheader.

Gaylord Perry's five-hitter and Jack Brohamer's homer gave the Indians a 3-0 victory in the first game.

Before the Orioles pulled out the second game, the Indians had forged a 2-1 lead in the top of the ninth on Frank Duffy's run-scoring bouncer.

Dick Bosman was one out away from winning the game for the Indians when he gave up singles to Ken Singleton and George Hendricks that put men on first and third.

At this point Tom Buskey came into the game and gave up Northrup's infield single that scored Singleton Minutes later, Bumbry lashed a single to center to score Hendricks with the winning run.

Leron Lee singled with one out to start the Indians' ninth-inning rally. Lee went to third on Jack Brohamer's infield single and scored on Duffy's slow bouncer to third baseman Brooks Robinson.

Bosman scattered seven hits before getting relief help from Buskey in the ninth inning.

The Orioles took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Paul Blair hit his first homer of the year. Cleo Elford tied it in the eighth on Oscar Gamble's pinch double and Rico Carty's pinch-single.

Abilene Wins Track

Rebel, Bulldog Track Entries Star

By TERRY WILLIAMSON R-T Sports Writer LUBBOCK—Abilene High, wiping out every snake bit performance they have turned in this year, rode the wings of two relay wins and a victory in the 220 at the Texas Tech oval here Saturday to win the Region I AAAA track title with 57 points.

While the mile relay team brought home the team championship for the Eagles, it was also a very good day for District 5-4A. Permian finished third behind El Paso Burges and Midland Lee with 43 points giving 5-4A sprinters three of the top five places.

Coach Sam Volpe's Rebels did just about all they were capable of doing while qualifying two individuals and the mile relay team for the state meet in Austin in two weeks. Coach Ed Sixton's two Bulldogs also gave maximum effort and qualified one individual to the state affair.

Abilene, which finished third in the district meet, went into the mile relay with 35 points, some eight points shy of Burges, but won the race going away with blazing 3:17.8. Still, the Eagles needed help from the Rebels and Lee responded with a second place finish to edge Burges out of the title.

Lee's 3:18.3 was by far the Rebel's best time of the year and is one of the top times in the state. It still took a desperation lunge at the tape by anchor man Otis Butler to edge out Robert "Clay" Evans.

Earl Evans was clocked at 49.9 to open Lee's bid while Russell Kierman, running for the first time this year on the team, responded with a brilliant 50:1.

Rigert now holds 46 world weightlifting records. Two world weightlifting records were set Saturday in the town of Balashkha, near Moscow, during the final competitions of the sixth Summer Weightlifting Spartakiad, the Soviet sports agency Tass reported.

Both records were set by Tigh-heavyweight David Rigert of Shakhty, located in the Rostov region of the Soviet Union.

In a second attempt, Rigert jerked a record 479.5 pounds, thus improving his own world mark in the sum total of two lifts to 865.3 pounds.

Rosa Steals Drake Show

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Lucian Rosa of Wisconsin State Parkside won his third Drake Relays marathon title Saturday with a record time of 2 hours, 18 minutes, 57.4 seconds.

Rosa, who took the lead shortly after the halfway mark of the 26-mile, 385-yard event, clipped more than four seconds off the record he set in 1972.

The Ceylon native also won the Drake relay in 1973 but missed a bid last year when he had to drop out after 17 miles because of cramps.

Dennis Delmont of the Emporia, Kan., State Track Club was second in 2:21:10, also under the previous record.

In the only other major final on Saturday morning's program, Garry Bentley, an Australian runner for South Dakota State University, took the six-mile run.

Bentley outkicked Briton Tony Staynings of Western Kentucky to win in 27:31.0. Staynings finished second.

Only two of the top six finishers were Americans. Former Wisconsin standout Glenn Harold, running for the University of Chicago Track Club, was third in 27:33.6. Neil Cusack of East Tennessee and Ireland was fourth, and Scotsman Paul Bannon of Memphis State, fifth.

The final three miles of the race were run in a pounding rain which prevented the field from approaching the record of 27:24.3 set by Olympian Frank Shorter, who finished seventh on Saturday.

On Friday, world record holder Jim Bolding shaved two-tenths of a second off the meet's 440-yard intermediate hurdles mark he set three years ago as a student at Oklahoma State. Bolding, competing for the Pacific Coast Club, was clocked in 49.9 seconds. His world record is 48.7.

Two Sharing Golf Lead In Charity Ladies Meet

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — an opening 68 and was one of 10 last week at the lucrative Cokate-Dinah Shore affair, and Beth Stone were two shots off the pace at 141. Sandra fired a 36-hole leader in the $45,000 Charity Golf Classic.

Miss McMullen rolled in birdie putts of 15, 3, 10, 6, 4, and 8 feet and surrendered only two bogeys as she moved into position to seize her first victory ever.

"I haven't won yet," she smiled. "But I'll take another 67 tomorrow and I think that'll pick up the winner's check."

Miss Denenberg said she felt "super" being tied for the lead and declared, "How else do you feel when you're leading a tournament? I've been there before and I know how to handle it."

She admitted, however, she was distressed by the wind-whipped wrap-up which saw her drift from six-under par to three under with bogeys at 15, 17, and 18.

"Don't get me wrong," she said. "I'm not unhappy, but I do wish I was six-under."

Impersonal? Cliff Harris Likes The Cowboy System

Impersonal, no concern for the individual is the charge frequently hurled at the Dallas Cowboy System management, but defensive back Cliff Harris isn't complaining because he isn't pampered by his bosses. "It's hard to be as personal as some would like when the system is built on competition," says the five-year Cowboy veteran. "Personally, I like the system."

In fact, the graduate of Little Ouachita College in Arkansas probably wouldn't be where he is today without it. He came to camp as a free agent in 1970 and earned himself a spot in the starting lineup.

"The Cowboys had contacted me during my senior year and hinted they would draft me around the sixth round," Harris said. As it turned out, no one drafted Cliff, which has its advantages.

Before he signed with Dallas, Los Angeles, Baltimore and New Orleans talked with Cliff, so he had options not open to the drafted player.

This year some 120 rookies will be reporting to the Cowboys, the largest number since Cliff's first year, so it means competition. And that's something the 6-0, 190-pounder thrives on.

"I enjoy playing the tough games," he explains. "Especially the Redskins. They are so much easier to get up for."

Cliff, who made pro ball for the first time last year, says there are more challenges every year from new players. "So you've got to be prepared, but I welcome them."

Football won't go on forever for Cliff and so he is preparing himself by taking off-season courses in environmental biology after majoring in math and science at Ouachita.

"I like to get into research or maybe teach and be a coach at some college," he says, glancing to the future.

Harris is looking toward the coming season as a year of revival for the Cowboys after a disappointing 1974. "We had a good turnout for our first off-season drills and this is important. You need the camps to become indoctrinated to the complicated Dallas system."

Last year with the player strike imminent, "No one was thinking football and it hurt us."

Harris was in Midland for a series of appearances in regard to the Diabetes Assn. bike-athon last week and you had to wonder how a healthy athlete like Cliff became involved. Like one-time Chicago Cub Ron Santo, he was keeping a secret?

"My dad is a diabetic, it's a worthy cause and a cure is within sight," he explained. "The money raised goes for research. Most people don't realize it, but diabetes is the leading cause of blindness, heart disease and number of amputations." Reason enough.

Geiberger Has Lead

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Al Geiberger had a rueful, almost shy, smile, pasted on his face.

"Well," he sighed, "when I did it I went hog wild didn't I?"

Geiberger, who had gone through 49 holes without a bogey, played his last five holes three over par Saturday in the third round of the $200,000 Tournament of Champions.

That struggling, shaky, uncertain finish squandered most of a commanding lead and allowed Lee Trevino to make up four strokes on the last five holes and close to within three shots of the lead going to Sunday's final round of the chase for a $40,000 first prize.

"On this golf course, you can make that up," said Trevino, who admits to a certain fascination with this event that brings together only the winners of regular pro golf tournaments from the last 12 months.

"Anything can happen," continued Trevino, current PGA champion who never has won in California. "It's coming, maybe, before I get too old."

"If I can shoot a 67, 68 we can make it pretty interesting," Geiberger, who had to work hard for his two-under-par 70, had a three-round total of 204, 12 under par on the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course. Trevino also had a 70, a wild erratic one that included three bogeys, in his third-round effort played in bright, warm sunshine.

"I'm within striking distance," Trevino said of his 207 total. "That's the important thing. Going into the last round I'm within striking distance."

Massengale Leads Tallahassee Golf

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Rick Massengale overcame three bogeys and carded a four-under-par 68 Saturday, increasing his lead to four strokes after three rounds of the $60,000 Tallahassee Open golf tournament.

Massengale, who never has won a Professional Golfers Association event, had a 54-hole score of 202, 14 under par on the 7,124-yard, par-72 Killeear Golf and Country Club course. Ralph Johnston was second at 206, two under par.

Another shot off the pace was hometown favorite Bert Yancy, a veteran who charged the back nine and recorded four birdies for a four-under-par 68 and a 207 total. At 206 was Spike Kelley, another non-winner with only $373 in earnings this year, who fired a three-under-par 69.

Massengale, younger brother of former PGA tour regular Don Massengale, appeared to be blowing apart when he bogeyed the fourth and fifth holes.

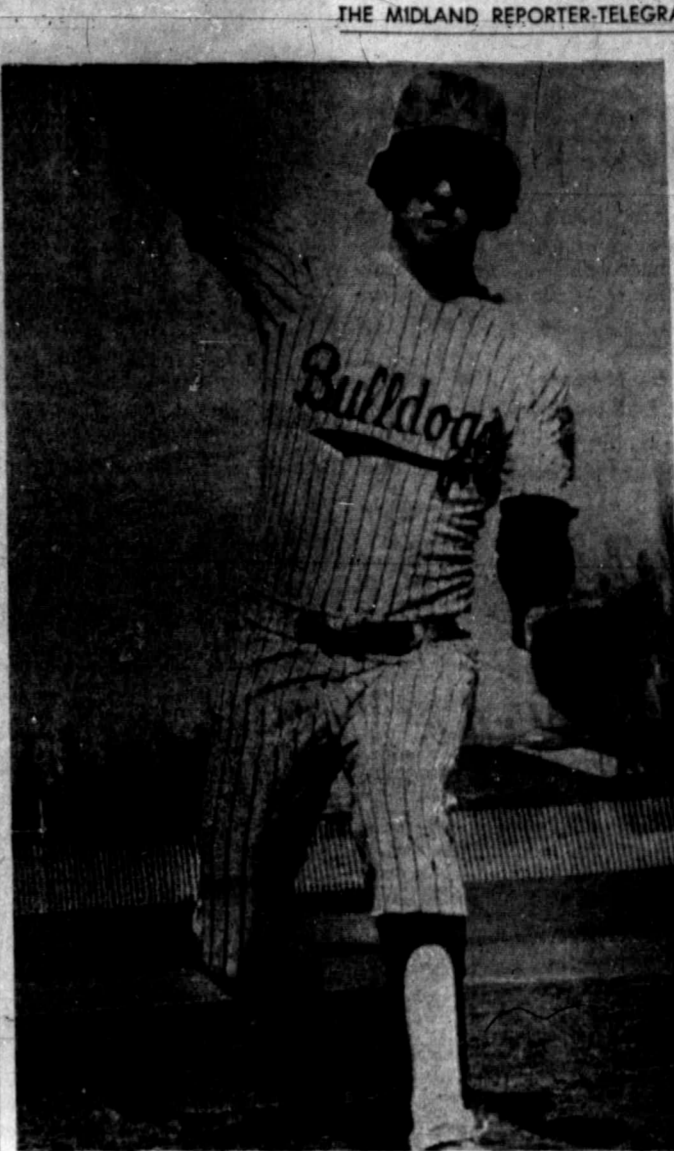

"I just kept on going. I knew it wouldn't do any good to get upset," said Massengale, who has already collected $30,311 this season with four finishes in the top 11.

The San Antonio golfer said the fact that playing partner Johnston was breathing down his back didn't bother him because "I knew if I didn't make some birdies, somebody was going to catch me."

Massengale, who began his round with a birdie on No. 2, added birdies on the eighth and ninth holes, bogeyed the 12th, then birdied 13, 14, 16 and 17 to pull away. Four birdies came on putts of 20 feet or longer.

Asked if he had a strategy for Sunday, when he goes for a $12,000 winner's check, he said: "I'm just going to try to knock the ball on the greens. I'm putting real good and if I can just get on, I'll probably have a chance."

Midland's Charley Northington... tosses four scoreless innings

Odessa In Rally To Trip Bulldogs

By JAN WILLIAMS

Midland bats got hot in the bottom of the fifth inning and the Bulldogs almost pulled it off Saturday in a District 5-4A baseball game against the Odessa Bronchos.

But the Bronchos pulled ahead in the eighth inning and won the game 9-7. It was a slow start for both teams with Odessa scoring first in the second inning. The score remained 1-0 in favor of Odessa until the bottom of the fifth when Midland scored on a line drive to left field.

Moments later, still in the bottom of the fifth, a Midland bunt to the pitcher who hesitated and threw to first too late, put Midland runners on first, second and third with nobody out. Midland scored six runs that inning to pull ahead of Odessa, but not for long.

The sixth inning was scoreless and Odessa struck back in the top of the seventh inning, tying the ball game. Midland went scoreless in the bottom of the seventh and Odessa pulled ahead in the top of eight with two runs. Midland ended the inning with a high fly to left field caught by an Odessa outfielder.

Charley Northington started for Midland on the pitching mound and was replaced in the top of the sixth inning with Terril Littlejohn.

The winning pitcher for Odessa was Jerry Walker.

Namath Plays Waiting Game With WFL

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath is playing a waiting game—and some occasional golf—down South while men with black satchels sit in smoke-filled New York conference rooms and ponder his future.

But Joe will have the final say, and it could be a stunner. "I wouldn't be at all surprised if Joe decided to play no more football," said Jimmy Walsh, Namath's attorney, business partner and confidante. "I've expected it for the last two years."

"But no one makes up Joe's mind but Joe himself. At the proper time he will examine how he feels, study his options and decide. I am sure it will be a quality decision taking the long range view."

Phil Iselin, owner of the New York Jets, said he was still optimistic that Namath, despite a projected $4 million offer from the new World Football League, would be back in his No. 12 green and white New York uniform.

"He started as a Jet and I think he will finish as a Jet," Iselin said. "Joe never rushes. It's not his way. He may take us right up to training camp." Walsh and Iselin met twice last week, with no revelation of the results—part of a negotiation process that has been going on for two months.

"Joe definitely won't make a decision until he officially becomes a free agent May 1," Walsh said. "I suspect he will wait well beyond that to decide what course he will take. There is no urgency."

The Jets' superstar, 31 years old and plagued by bad knees, is fortunate in that he can bargain from strength. Already wealthy and pursued by Hollywood, television and big business, he is in the rare position of being able to pick his spot.

Here are his options:
—Return to the Jets under a two-year contract for perhaps $500,000 a year—double his old contract—with the option of remaining on the payroll in another capacity after his playing days are over.
—If the publicized offer reaches legal paper, go to the WFL under a contract totaling $4 million with a $500,000 signing bonus, $500,000 annual salary for three years, an annuity of $100,000 for 20 years plus five per cent ownership of the New York franchise when it comes into being in 1976.

—A career in the movies. "I always have wanted to try my hand at acting," Joe says, "but I want to be able to choose the movie. It would have to be a story and director that I liked."

—Television announcer. The American Broadcasting Company reportedly is ready to entice Namath with a multi-million-dollar offer.

—An entirely different field—front man for a big business conglomerate or, at the other end of the scale, school teaching. "I think some day, I would like to teach," Namath says.

The WFL proposition, disclosed recently by WFL president Chris Hemmert, staggers the imagination, but it hardly creates a ripple in Walsh's midtown office.

"No such offer has been made to us," the attorney said. "Until it becomes more than a newspaper story, until it is written out point by point in a legal contract, there is no reason for us to take notice of it."

Also, even if the fabulous offer became official, there is no assurance that Namath would jump at it.

"When he was younger, maybe," Walsh said. "But not necessarily now. People who say that it is an offer no one can refuse don't know Namath. Money, while important, is not an overpowering consideration with him."

"He has matured. Too many people still regard him as a Broadway swinger. That's the farthest from the fact. He is a rare young man—intelligent, very discerning, a guy who no longer will do something as a lark but will study his potential and career selection carefully."

"I am sure his decision will be based on quality, not on dollars. He can make a rational decision, not one of desperation or greed."

One of the road blocks in the way of the WFL offer is that it would call for Namath to join the Chicago franchise for a year before shifting to New York.

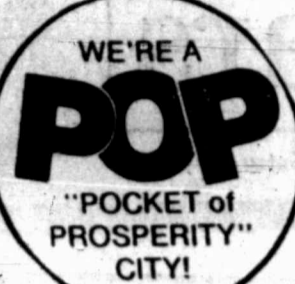

"I am not sure that Joe wants to go through the process of breaking in with a new, untried team and moving to a strange city," Walsh said. "He may say, 'I don't want to go through all this again.'"

Contacted in Tuscaloosa, Ala., where he was playing golf, Namath said "com-

Defense Key To Celtic, Bullets NBA Playoff Series

Fives Vie In Video Tilt Today

BOSTON (AP) — Defense appears to be the key as the Boston Celtics and the Washington Bullets head for their National Basketball Association playoff showdown.

The best-of-seven series for the Eastern Conference title, pairing the two teams which posted the league's best records during the regular season, gets under way here today. The opening game is to be nationally televised by CBS starting at 1:30 p.m., CDT.

The Bullets are coming off a rugged seven-game set against the Buffalo Braves, which they wrapped up in impressive fashion 115-96 Friday night. Boston, which completed a 4-1 triumph over Houston earlier in the week, spent Friday working out at Brandeis University in suburban Waltham, Mass.

Washington played outstanding defense in stopping Buffalo's running game Friday night. The Bullets are well aware they will have to come up with more of the same to beat Boston.

"We'll have to control their fast break—that's the key to beating the Celtics," said Bullets Coach K.C. Jones. He should know, since he quarterbacked the Boston fast break for so many years in the 1950s and 1960s.

Bullets forward Mike Riordan observed that his club beat Buffalo with defense, not offense. "We were aggressive again," he said of Friday night's effort. "We were swarming like flies on defense."

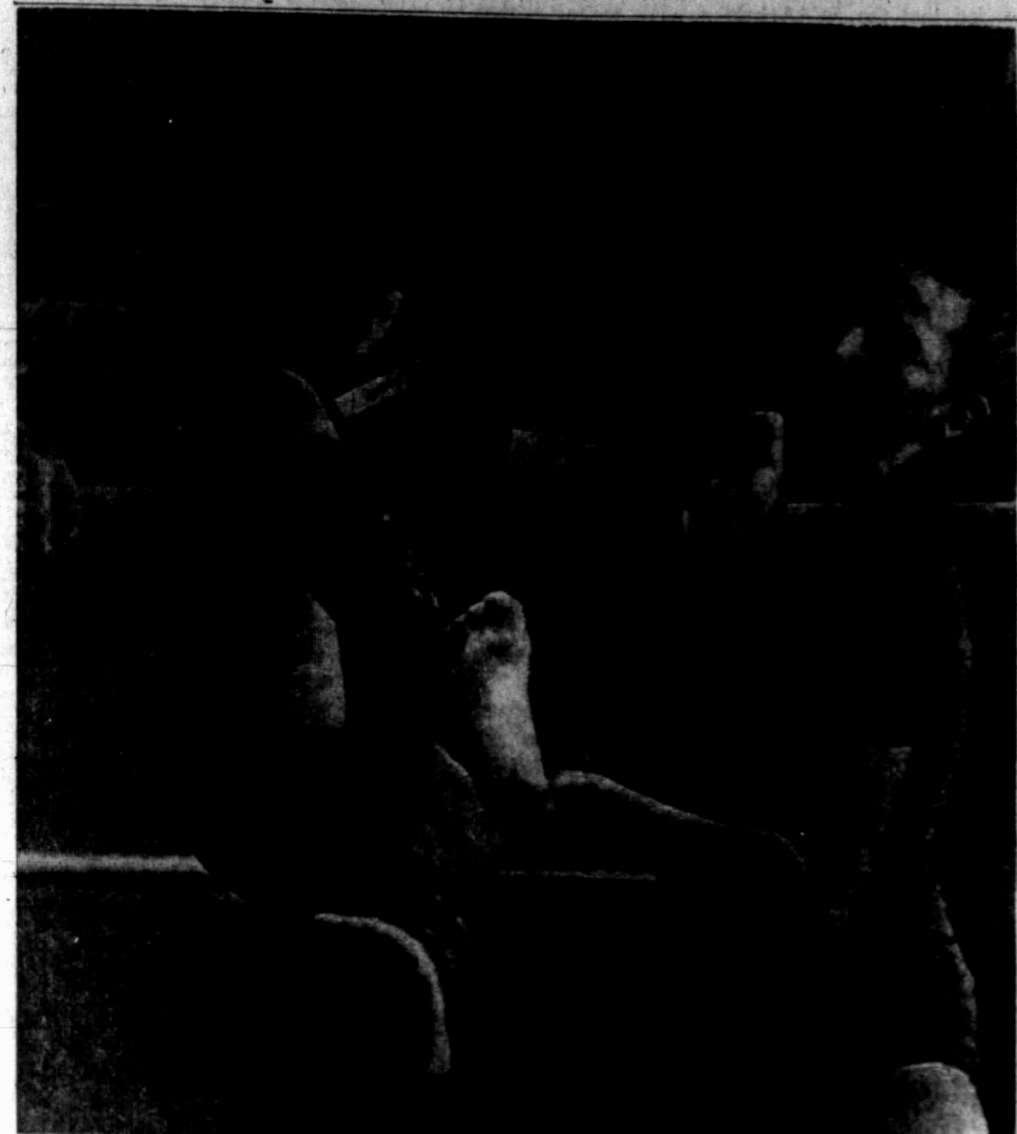

Although Boston got by Houston in their Eastern Conference semifinal series without too much trouble, veteran Celtics forward Don Nelson felt his club's play left much to be desired.

"We didn't play aggressive defense in the series," said Nelson, who called the club's offense "dumb" at times and added, "We didn't look for the open man and took a lot of bad shots."

Although they are NBA powers, this will be the first playoff meeting ever between Boston and Washington.

About 1,000 tickets remained unsold at noon Saturday, and a Celtics spokesman said the local television blackout would not be lifted.

The second game of the series is scheduled for Wednesday night at the Bullets' home arena, Capital Centre in Landover, Md.

Colonels Lead, 2-1

ABA Series Resumes Today

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Marvin Barnes didn't play as much as usual because of foul trouble, but he made the most of what playing time he had.

Barnes, limited to 35 minutes of action, exploded for 27 points and collected 13 rebounds to lead the young Spirits of St. Louis to a 103-97 victory over the Kentucky Colonels. Kentucky now leads 2-1 in the American Basketball Association East Division final playoff, with the fourth game of the best-of-seven series scheduled for today.

Barnes led the Spirits Louis to an early 41-28 lead, then was forced to the bench after picking up his third personal foul. The Colonels chipped away at the lead and went ahead 66-65 in the third quarter.

"It was a risk to a certain point," conceded St. Louis Coach Bob MacKinnon of his keeping Barnes on the bench. "I was only going to leave him there to a certain point. If we'd been down very much, I would've gone back with him."

Hayes Feels He Can Compete At NM State

Basketball

Ken Hayes says he accepted the job of head basketball coach at New Mexico State because it gives him an "equal opportunity to compete with my competitors." Hayes resigned at Tulsa U. a month ago, citing the lack of an adequate basketball arena and stringent admission requirements as reasons.

Ray R. Evans, board chairman of the KC-Omaha Kings of the NBA, pleaded guilty Friday to a federal charge that he conspired to misapply about $70,000 of a bank's money while he was its president. Veteran NBA ref Mendy Rudolph was listed in good condition Saturday after collapsing during the seventh game of the playoff between Washington and Bullalo. Rudolph fainted from pain resulting from a leg injury suffered three weeks ago. Bobby Jones, Denver, was the only unanimous choice on the ABA all-rookie team that included St. Louis' Marvin Barnes, and Gus Gerard, Indiana's Bill Knight and Utah's Moses Malone.

Yale basketball coach Joe Vancisin resigned to become executive secretary of the National Assn. of Basketball Coaches, ending a 19-year tenure.

COULD BECOME ONE-MAN TEAM—

Jipcho Eyes 880

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ben Jipcho could become a one-man track team.

"I'm going to attempt the 880," Jipcho said after winning both of his specialties Friday night during the International Track Association meet. "And the steeplechase, I might get back into that, too."

"I don't really like the steeplechase," he continued. Jipcho was timed in three minutes, 59.7 seconds in the mile and ran away from the field in the two-mile with 8:35.6. He has won both events 19 times in succession, dating back into the 1974 season.

"I'm not satisfied with this performance in the mile," said Jipcho, who was named the meet's outstanding performer by a panel of sports writers. "I wanted a 3:56 or even a 3:55. I was happy with the two-mile—quite pleased."

Lance Babb, Paul Gibson, Leon Coleman and Rod Milburn whittled seven-tenths of a second off of the 240-yard shuttle hurdle relay world record with a combined time of 27.7. The old record of 28.4 was set by Notre Dame in 1971.

Bob Seagren captured the pole vault, clearing 17 feet, 6 inches, while Brian Oldfield scored in the shot put with 70 feet, 1 1/2 inches. The high jump went to John Radetich with 7-2, and Henry Jackson grabbed the long jump with a leap of 25-7/8.

REDUCE NUMBER OF GRANTS— NCAA Studies $$$ Squeeze

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A college or university that offers the full range of National Collegiate Athletic Association sports currently is permitted a maximum total of 340 scholarship grants.

The money those scholarships represent, the recruiting costs and travel expenses involved in scouting prospects and enrolling them, poses a giant part of the economic problem squeezing the schools.

A select NCAA meeting on that squeeze has made significant first steps in the direction of loosening the dollar vise that is strangling the sports programs.

Perhaps the most dramatic of those steps was in the area of the costly scholarships. The delegates, meeting last Thursday and Friday, recommended an over-all reduction per school from that current 340 figure to 186 total grants for all sports.

Other suggestions included the elimination of all full-time recruiters, limiting recruiting contacts with prospective student athletes to three visits, discontinuing spring football in Divisions II and III, as well as meeting's request for a special convention. The proposal is virtually certain to be approved.

The feeling is that by holding a special convention this summer, the member institutions can begin implementing the economic legislation much sooner than if they waited until the regular NCAA convention in January to consider them.

"If we are going to save some money," said J. Neils Thompson, faculty representative of the University of Texas and a member of the Council, "let's save some money as quickly as we can."

Another factor is the volume of other material that the NCAA's regular convention must routinely deal with. "Mechanically," said Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, "it is almost imperative to have a special convention to address these items, especially when you consider the amount of material that must be dealt with on the regular agenda."

The special convention will have no shortage of economic materials to consider. The select meeting on that subject won praise from NCAA President John Fuzak for the delegates' dedication to their task. "I was impressed with the persistence to stay with it by the participants," said Fuzak.

But Fuzak added a word of caution to the delegates. "Everything we do here is advisory to the Council," he said. "The Council is likely to come in with lower levels."

HUNTING FISHING

Crappie fishing continued to be the hot item at Lake E. V. Spence last week, but there were some big striped bass plucked from the lake.

Three new Texas state record fish were landed during March: a speckled trout, a sandbar shark and dusky shark. Mike Blackwood of Corpus Christi took the 13 pound, nine-ounce trout from Upper Laguna Madre; JoAnn Sealy, also Corpus, took the 180-pound shark, topping the previous tops of 160; and Raymond Hein, another Corpus angler, took the 520-pound dusky shark, the first to be entered in the record books.

At Oak Cree Lake, Ike Pate reports storms last weekend scattered the fish, but favorable weather during the next several days improved the angling, however. "Oak Creek is in perfect shape with water still about two inches above the spillway level," reports Ike.

In an attempt to make sport fishing more popular at Lake Amistad, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. has assigned a crew of biologists from San Angelo to Del Rio and introduced a new management concept.

Concern over the deterioration of large mouth bass fishing was responsible for the move. Some 5 million walleye will be stocked this year along with thousands of Florida bass and a substantial stocking of northern pike in June should help. Then in July 100,000 striped bass will be released in the lake.

Stocking of threadfin shad and silversides minnows this month is expected to provide a broader forage base for the younger game fish at Amistad. It should provide a particular boost for the largemouth bass.

Oak Creek Lake reports a three-degree rise in water temperature to 57 degrees last week and with the lake full, plus two inches and the water clear, Ike Pate reports excellent fishing is just around the corner.

Wayne Coggins, Odessa, reeled in a six-pound, six-ounce bass in a string of seven while Harold Wilson, Midland, had a five-pounder among the six he took. O.L. Chenowick, Midland, and J.E. Whitehead, Odessa, braved rain, cold and wind a week ago and caught a fair string of crappie and bass. And Ike couldn't resist temptation and took nine bass fishing in the shallow water from the dock.

If recent catches are any indication, fishermen who sign up for the Del Rio International Partnership Bass Tournament next month at Lake Amistad should find bass angling to their liking. Bass have moved to shallow water and are said to be on a feeding spree. Swimming type baits and worms, fished around the points, are proving most productive.

A goal for stocking 20 million walleye in Texas public waters this spring is 50 per cent complete. Some 1.6 million were stocked in Amistad.

Kathy At End Of The Line?

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth. The name almost means women's golf. But she says her time atop the world of her sport may be over.

"She was the top money winner in women's golf eight times between 1965 and 1973 and ranks as the all-time money winner on the women's tour.

The lanky Texan has 72 career victories, second only to Mickey Wright in the history of the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

She helped build the women's tour into what it is today with purses finally reaching six figures.

And, at the age of 35, after 16 years as a professional, she says she's going to take it a little easier.

"Back in 1973, that year just took so much out of me," she said of the season that saw her win seven times, appear in 31 tournaments and set a single season winnings mark of nearly $83,000.

"I pressed so hard, I was so tired and my nerves were so bad after that year that I thought it was time for me to sit back and relax a little bit and not push so hard," said Miss Whitworth, who was competing at Fort Worth, Tex., this week.

So, the following year she cut down her appearances by a half-dozen and her money winnings dipped from first to sixth in the LPGA with $52,000.

And after a year of slowing down, she says, "I've decided not to try for No. 1, to pace myself, and if I'm in a position to have in the past. I just don't feel like physically and mentally I could do it."

"But I decided I wasn't going to try to maintain that position."

"No. 1 because to do that I'd have to stay keyed up almost all the time. I've been keyed up for more than 15 years and I think it's time to slack off a little bit.

"I felt if I continued at that pace I was probably going to burn myself out in a couple of years and I didn't want that to happen."

Reflecting, Miss Whitworth said, "All of us try to be No. 1 and win every week, and I wouldn't be teeing it up every week if I wasn't trying to win. But to try to keep up that attitude for 35 tournaments is very hard to do."

During last weekend's $200,000 Dinah Shore Winners Circle golf tournament here, she had one round of two-under-par 69, one of the best rounds of the four-day event. But she also suffered a 77 and a 79 and wound up at 299, 16 strokes behind winner Sandra Palmer.

She was disappointed and said she didn't feel confident, something unusual. Her sister had died recently and her mind was not concentrating on golf.

"But today is today and tomorrow is tomorrow," she said.

"This is the way I've always looked at it, from week to week and year to year. I've never tried to rest of my laurels."

OUTFIELDER JOE WALLIS— Cub Thumbnail Sketch

Maybe it doesn't match diving off a 100-foot cliff into a rock-filled quarry back home in Florissant, Mo., but Midland Cub centerfielder Joe Wallis rates good 3-for-4, including a home run, off one-time Cy Young Award winner Denny McLain has to be one of the big thrills of his life.

The 5-10, 195-pound left-handed hitting flyhawk, majored in Business at Southern Illinois U. in Carbondale where he was a second team All-America. His .446 average was the second highest in SIU history. That feat made him the coverboy on the 1973 Official Collegiate Baseball Guide.

Joe is in his third year as a pro and made his Chicago Cub bosses sit up and take notice last fall in the Arizona Instructional League by hitting .319, leading the league in batting, total bases, home runs, tying for the lead in hits and finishing runnerup in triples and runs batted in.... Last year at Key West in the Florida State League, he led in home runs, 16, and assists for outfielders....

BIG CHANGE IN SABRES— Montreal, Buffalo Open Series

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Sabres open their semifinal Stanley Cup playoff series against Montreal Sunday and it's quite a different team from the one that opposed the Canadiens two years ago.

The Canadiens eliminated the then three-year-old Sabres in a first-round National Hockey League series, four games to two.

This year, Buffalo still has its high-scoring French Connection line of winners Rick Martin and Rene Robert and center Gil Perreault. But the trio is much more mature and, for the record, scored 11 of Buffalo's 16 goals in beating Chicago, four games to one, in first-round action. In goal, there's Gerry Desjardins, who came to Buffalo late in the season after jumping from the Baltimore Blades of the World Hockey Association. Desjardins was in the nets in the last five regular-season games and all five of the playoff games against Chicago.

Other newcomers for Buffalo this season are Jerry Korab and Jocelyn Gouvrement, who have added immeasurably to the offensive potential of the defense since being acquired from Vancouver; Bill Hajt, up from the minors, and Lee Fogelin, a rookie who has done the more mature and, for the record, scored 11 of Buffalo's 16 goals in beating Chicago, four games to one, in first-round action. In goal, there's Gerry Desjar-

The Canadiens' cast is changed from Montreal's last playoff against Buffalo. Gone to the WHA are Frank Mahovlich, Marc Tardif and Rejean Houle. But Montreal has some good young players in 30-goal scorer Steve Shutt, 18-year-old Mario Tremblay, who scored 21 goals, and rookie center Doug Risebrough.

Sabres' rookie Dan Gare, who scored 31 goals during the season, said he believes Buffalo's ability to adapt to different styles of play was a factor in the team's success this season.

"We can skate, but the beauty of this team is that we can play it any way the other team wants," Gare said. "Chicago tried to be physical in the last playoff series and we wouldn't let them."

The first game in the best-of-seven series will be nationally televised at 2:30 p.m. CDT on NBC.

Slugged Warriors Face Pelted Chi-Bulls Today

Andre The Giant Faces Ciclon Negro

ODESSA — Andre the Giant, 7-4 and 424 pounds, described as the eighth wonder of the world, meets Ciclon Negro in Promoter Pat O'Dowdy's weekly wrestling card at the Ector County Coliseum Tuesday night.

In other bouts Ricky Romero faces Bobby Jagers, Scott Casey against Don Fargo and Nick Kozak against Mr. Wrestling. In a T tag team match, E.J. Gran Goliath and Black Gordman take on Sal Dominguez and Moose Marowski.

OAKLAND (AP) — Rick Barry of the Golden State Warriors has been slugged with a purse; the Chicago Bulls have been pelted with ice.

And the two National Basketball Association teams haven't even opened the second round of the playoffs yet.

That begins here today when the Pacific Division champion Warriors match their running game against the defensive-minded Bulls, champs of the Midwest Division during the regular season.

The Bulls and Warriors went through six first-round games each to advance to the Western Conference finals. Chicago beat Kansas City-Omaha and the Warriors eliminated Seattle in semifinal series which were rough both on and off the court.

"What do these fans think this is, a soccer game in South America?" Warriors star Barry asked after scoring 31 points and then fighting his way to the locker room through an angry crowd in Seattle Thursday night.

His face was scratched, but luckily the purse a woman swung at him had nothing too heavy in it.

Coach Al Attles, like his players, was doused with beer as he battled his way off the court. He grappled on the floor briefly with one heckler.

"The Bulls also had the misfortune to wrap up their semifinal series on the road. Late in the final game at Kansas City, the Chicago players were targeted for fans throwing ice, cans and even a pair of shoes. They started into the stands after one particularly rowdy heckler.

"We don't care who we play now," said Bulls Coach Dick Motta, glad to be out of Kansas City and into the best-of-seven final. "We're the best team in pro basketball."

Chicago, 3-1 against Golden State in regular season games, will play games Nos. 2 and 3 of the conference finals on its home court Wednesday and Thursday nights. The fourth game will be here May 6.

Forward Bob Love led the Bulls in scoring through the series with Kansas City, finishing with 56 points in the final two games, easy Chicago victories.

Tennis Loop Suffers From Grid Loop Association

NEW YORK (AP) — In it with a new image, new promotion in the World Football League is not among Larry King's sports ventures, but over the WTT which he said was drowning in administrative costs.

Although the WTT's problems didn't approach the proportions of the WFL, many were similar—among them too little credibility and exposure, and too many empty seats.

Then there was the cash that had to be anted up to lure star players. The WFL's solution was to offer what it called long-range security to National Football League players. The WTT's was more complicated.

"Our biggest problem was fighting with the establishment," said King. "It increased our cost 50 per cent because the players signed under the threat that they may never play tournament tennis again."

WTT players were banned from the French Open, one of the Big Four international tennis tournaments, before a truce was negotiated.

"This year we don't have that hassle," he said.

When the league begins its second season, there will be fewer teams, just as in the WFL. And there will be a showcase—the New York Sets, starring Mrs. Larry King, better known as Billie Jean, and Virginia Wade. "New York franchises have a psychological value because of better media coverage," said King, who took over the league Nov. 24.

Besides consolidating the teams, drumming up new money and thinking up new promotional gimmicks, King trimmed the administrative fat at league headquarters in Newport Beach, Calif.—"We paid a lot and got a little"—and started serious talks for television contracts.

He says he already has live national TV coverage of the All-Star matches in July wrapped up and hopes to add the season-end playoffs.

Midland... truly a "Pocket of Prosperity", can take pride in the accomplishments that have created our fine city. First National is proud to have played a part in these accomplishments, and we feel that our status reflects the faith of West Texans in Midland and the First National Bank.

At a time when many banks in Texas were associating with holding companies, First National's board of directors chose to remain "independent" because they felt it would best serve the needs of our customers and the community. This decision has proven to be a wise one, and our growth has verified our belief.

As the hub of this "Pocket of Prosperity", we have become the largest independent bank in Texas... and the officers, directors and staff at First National are dedicated to continuing their efforts toward continued growth. Cubs Make It Five

Sutter, Ware Hold Off Rallying Caps

BY TED BATTLES

The Midland Cubs' fifth Texas League win in a row Friday night started out like a real laugh and wound up a gasper.

The Bruins jumped to a 5-0 lead in the first two innings, but then had to use some spectacular feats afield and the relief pitching of Bruce Sutter and lefty Rick Ware to stave off the Shreveport Captains, 7-5, at Cubs Stadium.

Cubs fielder Jose Ortiz got the left fielder on the right foot by leading off the first with a homer over the left field fence. Then in the second, Aaron Randall and Mike Sember ignited the rally against starter Tim Jones, 6-3, with singles and Ed Putnam walked to load the bases. Ortiz then was credited with a run "butted" in when he turned to get out of the way of a Jones' pitch and was hit.

Al Montreuil, on a 10-for-16 binge in this series, ripped his second of three hits to left for another run and a second came across on an outfield error.

Donnie Moore looked well on his way to his first victory until things started happening in the third.

"I got my rest Thursday night, took a nap this afternoon, but when I warmed up before the game I didn't have my slider, fastball, curve or changeup. I don't know what was wrong," the former Lubbock Monterey star said after the game.

Tom Thomas poled a one-out homer over the left field fence in the third and Mike Edwards' double and Ron Mitchell's single produced another. When Moore

Pentagon Claims Fuel Overpayment

By THOMAS O'TOOLE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon paid six cents a gallon more for its jet fuel than commercial airlines did during and after the Arab oil embargo, resulting in an overpayment by the military of as much as $600 million to major oil companies.

This was the gist of a 44-page report released Friday by the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, which just concluded part of a one-year study of how federal agencies coped with the higher fuel prices brought on by the Arab oil embargo of October 1973.

In charging that major oil companies inflated jet fuel prices to the military, Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), chairman of the investigations subcommittee, asked Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb to investigate whether the oil industry violated FEA price regulations. Jackson also asked Attorney General Edward H. Levi to conduct an investigation of the matter.

"I have asked FEA to determine whether the major oil companies have disproportionately passed through to the military higher costs for crude oil," Jackson wrote in a letter to Levi. "If such costs were passed on... not in accordance with the law, I believe that the U.S. government should seek to recoup these excess charges."

In its study of Pentagon payments for jet fuel, the subcommittee found that the military paid an average of nine cents a gallon in fiscal 1973, 19.5 cents a gallon in fiscal 1974 and 30.7 cents a gallon through the first six months of fiscal 1975, ending Dec. 31, 1974.

A check through records of the Civil Aeronautics Board showed that domestic airlines for the same three periods paid 11.7 cents a gallon, 16.6 cents a gallon and 23.6 cents a gallon. Comparison of what the military and the airlines paid from the start of the Arab embargo to the end of last year show that the military paid about 6.2 cents more for each gallon of jet fuel it bought, according to the investigations subcommittee.

The Pentagon every year buys between 6 and 7 billion gallons of jet fuel, which makes up 60 per cent of its petroleum purchases.

In attempting to find out why the Pentagon paid two cents after it, the Jackson subcommittee came up with several embargo and six cents more conclusions. One was that

Gulf Announces Six Retirements

Gulf Oil Co.-U.S. has an Operator, leaves Gulf after 29 years and three months. He was employed in the Midland Production District.

J. G. Loyless, well tester in the Crane Area, retired March 1 after 28 years and five months with the company. He joined Gulf in 1946 in the Sand Hills area.

Thomas Floyd Baker, a lease operator in the Odessa area, also retired March 1 after 29 years and 11 months service. He also joined Gulf in the Sand Hills area.

airlines signed long term contracts for fuel and the Pentagon did not, meaning the Pentagon paid higher "spot" prices for fuel in the shortage days of the embargo.

The subcommittee found that not all airlines were protected by spot prices in 1974 at an average price of 28 cents a gallon, which was three cents less than the Pentagon paid from the embargo on to the end of 1974.

The subcommittee found that the Pentagon paid more than 34 cents a gallon in the last half of 1974, which was six cents more than the airlines paid in the same spot market conditions.

The subcommittee concluded that had the Pentagon been able to bargain as well as the airlines on the spot market it would have saved the taxpayers $64 million in the last half of 1974.

W. W. Orchard Jr., a Crane Area lease operator, will retire May 1 after 46 years and two months with the company. He has served in the Crane Area his entire tenure.

Joe W. Boyd, who had been with Gulf 41 years and five months, retired Feb. 1. He joined the company as a roustabout at Crane and his entire tour with Gulf has been in the oil fields near Crane.

Dorris Dave Hightower, a lease operator-water injection plant operator in the Crane Area, retired March 1 after 28 years and five months of service.

He joined the company at Crane and has served in field operators near there during his Gulf career.

Offshore Operations Costs Rise Sharply

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Richard L. O'Shields says offshore oil and gas operations costs have increased at a dramatic pace.

"A typical offshore platform which cost $8.5 million 18 months ago now costs $13 million," says O'Shields, president and chief executive officer of Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co.

O'Shields added that in 1974 alone oil field machinery prices rose by 32 per cent, the price of well casing climbed 48 per cent, and line pipe went up 58 per cent.

"The total cost for drilling and equipping a typical offshore tract, exclusive of lease cost, has increased 41 per cent in 18 months, an inflation rate more than double the national average," O'Shields said.

Panhandle and a wholly-owned subsidiary, Trunkline Gas, operates a combined 14,400-mile pipeline network transporting natural gas to 12 Midwestern states.

In the past five years Panhandle, while seeking new gas supplies and expanded earnings, has invested about $200 million in lease acquisition and drilling, most of it being concentrated in the offshore Gulf of Mexico.

"While offshore activities have resulted in significant gas discoveries, the increased exploration and development costs, when combined with the high initial offshore lease costs and extended time before production commences, is resulting in offshore finding costs much higher than originally anticipated," O'Shields said.

"We have no reason to believe our finding costs are materially different from those of the offshore industry generally."

O'Shields said the costs are such that the current Federal Power Commission regulated wellhead prices will not result in a satisfactory return on offshore investments.

"On the other hand, if offshore natural gas could be marketed at prices now being paid by the unregulated intrastate market offshore, the return would be very attractive," he said.

"If Congress fails to pass legislation to correct the shortcomings of the present court-mandated price regulation, we believe the FPC should recognize the current offshore costs and establish substantially higher regulated prices that will afford a satisfactory return."

O'Shields said the interstate pipeline companies have been effectively shut out from purchasing new gas onshore because of the non-competitive position imposed by federal price ceilings.

"At the present time the unregulated markets of Texas and Louisiana are paying in the range of $1.50 to $1.90 (per thousand cubic feet) for new gas. The FPC price is 52 cents," O'Shields said.

"This disparity unfairly penalizes our stockholders and customers and denies consumers new supply."

O'Shields said an equal opportunity to compete for new gas onshore is one of three objectives which Congress must meet in natural gas legislation. He listed the other objectives as stimulation of the development of new supply and the promotion of conservation.

He added that the free market is the most efficient means of allocating capital to domestic exploration and permits all buyers equality in purchasing. O'Shields acknowledged, however, there is Congressional sentiment for continued price control with a bill proposing a statutory price range of 40 to 70 cents per thousand for intrastate as well as interstate markets.

"We endorse the parity concept embodied therein but believe the suggested price levels are unrealistically low," he said.

"The 40 to 70 cent range is substantially below current market levels and would not encourage the pace of drilling required to serve national needs."

Adobe To Double Funds For 1975 Drilling Program

Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland Saturday announced its drilling budget for 1975 will be doubled to $10 million.

It also was announced at the annual shareholders meeting here Friday that management would recommend to the board of directors that a 10 cent per share cash dividend be paid in 1975 compared to 5 cents last year.

A recommendation also will be made that the company's stock be listed on the New York Stock Exchange, Joe Pevehouse, president, said.

Adobe's net earnings for the first quarter of 1975 were $1,299,163, or 25 cents per share, up 14 per cent over the first quarter of 1974 when net earnings were $1,176,050, or 22 cents per share.

Revenues in the first quarter increased 20 per cent to $4,124,893 from $3,434,677 for the like period in 1974.

It was reported at the shareholders meeting that the company drilled 28 gross (17.30 net) wells during the first three months of 1975, with 21 (13.50 net) completed as producers and 7 (3.80 net) as dry holes.

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. oil company investments worth millions of dollars are among American holdings in Communist-threatened South Vietnam.

Some of the oil firms said Friday they are uncertain whether they will lose the investments or whether they will be allowed to continue producing and marketing oil in South Vietnam in the event of a Communist takeover.

Exxon Corp. said it has marketing operations valued at $20 million, including a main terminal on the Nabe River east of Saigon, four coastal storage plants and 118 retail outlets — from curb-side pumps to full-service gasoline stations.

Exxon also paid $2 million to the government of South Vietnam to lease a concession off the coast of South Vietnam which it has temporarily abandoned.

Caltex, a joint venture of Texaco Inc. and Standard Oil of California, said it has about 100 retail operations and storage tanks in Vietnam, which it values at $10 million.

Shell Oil Co. said it spent $17 million in leases and drilling in the South China Sea, off the coast of Vietnam. It said the operations have been abandoned and the rigs removed.

Mobil Oil Corp. said it has spent $16 million in similar drilling and leasing operations in the area.

Huff To Lecture At Graduate Center

The second lecture of the Oil and Gas Fundamentals course, sponsored by the Permian Basin Graduate Center, will be presented from 7 to 10 p.m. Monday in the PBGC classrooms, Gihls Tower East, 119 N. Colorado St.

The speaker will be Jack Huff, oil operator, and his lecture will deal with the definition of terms, the contents of oil and gas and mineral leases, assignments of oil and gas leases, delay rentals and division orders.

Huff was graduated from The University of Texas at Austin Law School. He practiced law as an independent attorney from 1948 to 1950 and then was associated with Stubbeman, McRae and Sealy until 1954. He joined Joseph I. O'Neill Jr. in land and legal work in 1959.

Huff now is a partner with Lewis B. Bursleson, Bursleson and Huff.

Skelly Employees Cited For Safety

TULSA — Skelly Oil Co.'s Midland, Tex., exploration and production district recently was presented a Skelly presidential award in recognition of the district's outstanding safety record.

The award was presented by Skelly President James E. Hara in ceremonies at the company's corporate headquarters here. Midland District Manager Audra Cary accepted the award plaque.

To earn the award, the district's 237 employees worked over a half million manhours without a disabling injury in 1974. The district recorded only one accident in 1973.

Cotton Names Wood Division Manager

Cotton Petroleum Corp. has announced that Doug E. Wood of Midland has joined the concern here as manager of its Southwestern Production Division.

Cotton's headquarters are at Tulsa, Okla.

It's Not Nice To Fool Around With This Judge

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A 20-year-old who tried to fool the prison system earned himself a hefty sentence.

Officials say Randy Jennings tried to escape from jail by posing as another prisoner about to be released. The attempt failed when the guard asked his birthdate and checked for the other prisoner's tattoo.

When Jennings came up for sentencing Friday on his conviction of robbery, Circuit Judge Cliff Shepard told him: "You tried to put something over on the court, the jury and the jailers, so I'm going to give you a long time to think about it—75 years."

Energy Bill Designed To Restrict Availability Of Oil

By PETER MILIUS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A hesitant and far from unanimous House Ways and Means Committee is slowly producing a major energy bill that would deliberately restrict the amount of oil available in this country in the years ahead.

The bill is the central piece of energy legislation among the many bills now making their confusing way through Congress.

Its key provision would hold down future oil imports by imposing import quotas.

The import restrictions would create a shortage; without a rising volume of oil imports, supply would not be equal to projected demand.

The government would thus have to do something more than simply set the quotas. It would have to find ways of reducing demand to conform to the shortened supply.

That means persuading or forcing someone, and possibly everyone, to consume less oil in the future.

The Ways and Means bill would seek to curtail consumption by such steps as the imposition of an excise tax on gas-guzzling cars — to raise their price and so dissuade people from buying them — and a possible increase in the federal gasoline tax.

In addition, a House Commerce subcommittee is drafting a companion bill that, in its present form, would prevent any increase at all in national gasoline consumption in the next years, by forbidding refiners to increase their gasoline production.

Production would thus fall short of demand, which is expected to keep on rising in the short run no matter what Congress does, if only because of rising population.

Critics say the Commerce subcommittee bill would thus do the same things the Arab oil embargo did two winters ago: create long lines at service stations and force the government to start allocating gasoline among the states again.

Neither of these energy bills is assured of passage, nor even of eventual approval in committee.

They are being produced under pressure from the White House; it was President Ford who pushed Congress into acting on the energy issue.

The President argues, and has apparently succeeded in persuading Congress, that the United States must curtail its oil imports — if not actually reduce them, then at least reduce their rate of rise.

If imports are allowed to rise unchecked, Mr. Ford says, the United States will become even more vulnerable than it is already to economic and political pressures from the Arab and other oil-exporting nations.

The President's plan is to drive down oil consumption, and thus imports, by driving up prices through a series of tariff and tax increases, plus the lifting of present price controls on domestic crude oil and natural gas.

Part of this plan required congressional approval; part of it, the President has the power to do on his own.

He took a first step on his own earlier this year, increasing the tariff on imported oil $1 a barrel, threatening to increase it $2 more, and threatening also to do away with price controls on domestic crude oil April 1.

The Democrats in Congress responded with legislation. Opposed to his plan to increase prices, and saying they needed time to come up with an alternative plan, they voted to take away for 90 days his power to increase oil tariffs, and to rescind his first $1 increase.

What finally emerged from the legislation was a compromise, or perhaps a truce. The President vetoed the anti-tariff bill, leaving his first $1 in effect.

But he also postponed, at least until May 1, his plans to increase the tariff further and take price controls off oil.

May 1 is one week from Thursday. One question now is whether Mr. Ford will wait some more for Congress to come up with an energy plan, or try again to impose his own.

Aides say he will decide this week, with his decision depending in part on what kind of bill Ways and Means seems to be producing.

Crocodiles Sacred To Mossi Tribesmen

SABOU, Upper Volta (AP) — Whenever a crocodile dies or is shot by a poacher, Mossi tribesmen in this straw-thatched village shed people tears and get ready for a funeral.

"Someone is sure to die during the night. It is always so," said 14-year-old Alou, dangling a live chicken on a string at the edge of the pool of sacred crocodiles.

A half-dozen semisubmerged logs on the opposite shore suddenly came to life and moved swiftly toward the scraggly, feathered target. The first to arrive contemplated the victim for a melodramatic moment, then enormous double jaws clanged shut with the echoing WHOMP of a giant paper bag being punctured. Alou's string had lost its clucking yo-yo.

Crocodiles are said to be reptiles of such legendary sensitivity that they weep copiously for the meal they have just dined upon. Forgetting its manners, this 20-foot long Siurian merely emitted an audible vulgarity from his scaly yellow abdomen and retreated into the pond.

"If you kill a crocodile, you kill one of us, because a death in the village always follows," Alou explained the animist beliefs of his people who are convinced that their souls dwell in the bodies of the amphibious residents of the pond.

More than 100 crocodiles live a wild but pampered life in the 20-acre pond. The several hundred villagers of Sabou, a scattering of conical mud and straw huts in West Africa 60 miles southwest of the capital at Ouagadougou, feed the crocodiles twice a day on chickens and geese and pay no attention when one of their goats or cows, pausing for a drink, disappears down the vacuum-packed jaws.

The sacred crocodiles, so they say, have never been known to attack a native.

The female crocodiles lay their eggs in the shade of the village huts and sometimes, during a hot spell, burrow right into the basement.

"Make hell of a noise all night," said Alou in his best tourist English.

Refugee City On Guam May Soon Have As Many People As Midland

By DAVID LAMB
The Los Angeles Times

AGANA, Guam — Amid smiles, some tears and much confusion, a refugee city that soon may have as many people as Bristol, Conn., or Midland, Tex., was born Friday on this Pacific island where America's day begins.

The refugees poured off planes from Saigon by the thousands, weary exiles of war in search of a new life — or at least of the end of an old one. They toted children, lugged suitcases and clutched DD602s, a U.S. military form used during wartime to identify wounded prisoners awaiting evacuation.

Within hours, a cluster of prefab dormitories known as "Tin City," once used to house B-52 crews who bombed Vietnam, was overflowing and U.S. military authorities began erecting a huge tent complex at nearby Point Orote to handle thousands more. It is shaping up as the United States' biggest civilian airlifts from a war zone in history.

The Ford Administration is talking in terms of evacuating as many as 130,000 South Vietnamese. Guam, a U.S. territory 1,400 miles southeast of Japan, has become the major staging area. It is attempting to handle up to 65,000 of them at one time. More than 16,000 had been shuttled here on 80 airlifts by Saturday.

"Where we go now I don't know," said Dung Nguyen Thi, a communications specialist who fled with his wife and five children. "They say pack up and go and I think there's no second chance so I pack up."

"My father was a South Vietnamese air force master sergeant in Da Nang when the NVA (North Vietnamese Army) came. He is still there with no second chance so I did not even dare to say goodbye to my friends. We just go."

Like Thi, most of the Vietnamese pouring into Guam "Operation New Life" had been closely associated with the U.S. war effort. There were embassy workers, defense technicians trained in the United States, employees of U.S. companies, university professors, medical doctors. Many spoke fluent English, and they quickly emerged as the leaders within the refugee communities.

The refugees' initial steps on U.S. soil hardly seemed headed toward the American dream, but life could have been grimmer. The makeshift camps were clean, sanitation was good, food and water was plentiful. Recreational facilities — ping pong, volleyball, soccer fields — were set up for the children. Doctors and interpreters — among them Vietnamese who had volunteered to help — were in sufficient supply.

Informed sources on this 212-square-mile island — one-third of which is controlled by the military — said plans for the Navy and Air Force enlisted evacuation had been laid out months and here, long before interpreters sat at dozens of desks Washington publicly indicated it to record basic identification imputed to airlift large numbers from each family of South Vietnamese out of group, which was translated onto computer cards.

Rear Admiral George S. Morison, commander of the ready to go, sir?" asked a Marianas naval forces, was sergeant, who like all Americans ordered Sunday to prepare for here was displaying his mot the influx of refugees, and courteous manners. "Okay, if before the first plane landed you got your luggage and the Wednesday, he had tents enroute forms, right over here to the from Okinawa, blankets from Hawaii, rice from Subic Bay, X-ray machines from Taipei. The refugees, some of them and a tactical hospital group well-heeled Vietnamese adorned from Tachikawa, Japan, with gold jewelry, piled aboard.

No effort was made during a few of the men dressed in processing to determine if any Western business suits could of the refugees were deserters, have just stepped out of a criminals or unwanted fashion magazine. A few of the characters. Immigration and older women wear palm-leaf health officials from California sanatoriums, had teeth stained with arrived Friday for more detailed beetlemat gum and looked as checks. By early Saturday the though they had just left their first refugees — whose political status had become known as that of parolees — began to leave Guam headed for Travis Air Force Base on a chartered jet.

But even as the jumbo jet roared off the runway with its 400 passengers, pilots working shifts of 15 straight hours on and 15 hours off brought more refugees at the rate of 400 an hour into Guam, the first United States territory to see the sunrise each day because of its western location.

The refugees filed into a cavernous hangar where wives of U.S. servicemen served vegetable soup and sandwiches.

"For many of us, it will not be easy," said Throng Van Veen. "It will be a new life and people will miss many things in Vietnam. But we have made a choice and we hope what we have heard about the United States is true."

RANCH OR TWO-STORY?

The two basic structures of single family homes are the ranch and the two-story home. They both have their pro's and con's and the ultimate decision normally rests with the individual's style of living and needs.

A ranch is appealing since living is all on one floor and there are no steps to climb. However, a ranch has disadvantages as well. A one-story house takes up more space on its lot and it has greater foundation cost per square foot of interior living space. You can get the same interior size on half the amount of foundation in a two-story home. Construction cost per square foot is reduced to a minimum in a two-story home. Despite this cost-saving factor, the national trend has been and still is strongly toward one-story homes. Homeowners don't seem to like climbing stairs.

CASA CRAFTS GUILD — Mrs. R. A. Estes, left, volunteer instructor, assists Mrs. Simon Reyes and Mrs. Mauricio Sanchez in making the "Ojo de Dios" (God's Eyes). Approximately 18 women are involved in the crafts guild making Mexican paper flowers, Christmas tree ornaments, silver jewelry and hand-embroidered gowns. All profit from the sale of these items goes directly to the participating women. Colorful brochures illustrating the "ojos" were provided by a donor and have been sent to museums across the United States. Casa de Amigos also works with Teroco Inc. to provide piece work to families in the area, again providing supplemental income for many families. The craft items are on sale at the Casa from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday.

Casa de Amigos Serves Midland's Eastside Citizens

Casa de Amigos is an ecumenical outreach program serving the eastside community with practical education and help for those who wish to better themselves and their way of life.

Current funding is derived from the United Way, and through donations from churches, civic and social organizations and interested individuals.

The Casa has three locations, the main office at 921 N. Dallas St.; Casa de Ninos, 906 N. Dallas St., and a sewing room at the St. Andrews Presbyterian Center. Present facilities are inadequate due to the additional programs and the increased number of persons being served, which, during the last year, numbered more than 3,800. The average number daily is 65. In the near future, Casa hopes to launch an expansion program whereby a much larger structure can be moved to the main site and renovated to accommodate its needs.

Other services offered by the Casa are sewing classes, youth programs, a lending library, employment service, assistance to families in filling out forms, referrals and counseling. A "Discretionary Fund" is maintained to help families with emergency needs. The money in this fund is derived solely through special contributions from interested individuals and churches.

Counseling and assistance also are offered to adults in obtaining financial aid to further their education, be it academic or vocational.

Incoming officers on the board of directors are Don Hellinghausen, chairman; Don Jones, vice president of finance; Tom Hill, vice president of property; Mrs. Betty Sheeler, vice president of program; Mrs. Richard Stump, secretary, and Paul Laverty Jr., treasurer.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Each Thursday, a hot meal is provided to approximately 25 senior citizens. The food is provided each week by interested churches or organizations on a volunteer basis. Following the meal, games are played and programs are presented monthly. Casa also sponsors sewing, knitting and crocheting classes in which many senior citizens participate. Mrs. F. U. Hernandez, right, Casa board member, plans and supervises the programs, while M. J. Goffigon, second from right, also a board member, is chairman of the senior citizens committee. Mrs. Juanita Martinez and Hilario Heredia, from left, are two senior citizens who participate in the activities.

TRANSPORTATION — Mrs. Socorro Ruiz, right, helps to furnish emergency transportation for families in need. Transportation also is provided families participating in programs at the Casa, and persons needing rides to the various community agencies and health care facilities, such as Mrs. Theola Ogletree, left. Mrs. Ruiz is employed at the Casa through the Manpower program.

RUMMAGE ROOM — Mrs. Refugio Lomeli, left, is in charge of the rummage room at the Casa, which actively solicits good quality clothing from the community. All clothing is sold for ten cents which helps to defray Mrs. Lomeli's part-time salary. Clothing also is given to families with emergency needs. Baby clothing is always needed and is given to needy families without charge. Shown with Mrs. Lomeli is Mrs. Marcia Ingram, director of Casa de Amigos.

Dedication Ceremony Set

Miss Holbrook Weds

The altar of St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church was decorated with spring flowers and flanked by candelabra entwined with spring flowers for the wedding of Florence Winfrey Holbrook and Jesse Mark Hill III.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride chose to wear a formal gown of ivory satin organza. Venise lace defined the Empire bodice featuring a sculptured scoop neck and bishop sleeves. The A-line silhouette was graced by a pyramid skirt sweeping back in an attached Watteau train. A wide border of scalloped Venise lace trim encircled the entire gown. Her bouffant veil was fashioned of silk English illusion falling in tiers from a calot of lace and pearls. Her bouquet consisted of Phalaenopsis orchids with lilies of the valley and baby's breath.

Raney Holbrook served her sister as maid of honor. Mrs. Gary Gordon of Fort Worth was the matron of honor and Dean Ann Newby of Denver, Colo., Frances Ann McCain of Tyler and Britt Donnelly of Midland were bridesmaids. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Bill Bussard of Amarillo.

Best man was Doug Scharbauer. Gary Gordon and Bill Geysler of Fort Worth were ushers. Groomsmen were Kent Ingram of Vernon, Terry Bird of Santa Barbara, Calif., Steve Bostick of Matador, Lee Holbrook of Midland, brother of the bride, and Tim Wiley of Irving.

The bridal attendants' dresses were of silk chiffon in pastel colors and fashioned with Empire waistlines, square necklines and soft sheer sleeves extending loosely over the hands. They carried spring bouquets of daffodils, lavender tulips, sonia roses, yellow iris, pink tulips, white and pale blue iris and pink and white ranunculus surrounded by baby's breath.

Church Women United To Celebrate

Church Women United will celebrate May Fellowship Day at 10:30 a.m. Friday at St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

This year's theme, "Open to Live Fully," is an invitation to experience wholeness as persons, through personal growth and sharing in the lives of others. For Christian women, this also means becoming open to those who have been cast out by society because of prison records, and to those who have been deprived because of economic circumstances. It is the goal of CMU to assist all women in transition so each may attain a full and meaningful life.

Guest speaker will be Rusty Wall, assistant to the district attorney, Jim Mashburn. Topic of his speech will be "Women and the Prison System." He will give an overview of what happens to women offenders while in prison and after they are released. Also, some of the problems encountered when they make a re-entry into society will be discussed. A question and answer period will be held at the close of his speech. A salad luncheon will follow at 11:30 and all women attending are asked to bring a salad.

Educator Says Schools Trying To Do Too Much

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Schools cost too much because they are trying to do too much, Michael Bakalis, former Illinois superintendent of public instruction, says.

Bakalis, now a visiting professor of education at Northwestern University and the University of Illinois here, urges schools to concentrate on two goals. They are teaching children skills, such as reading and analytical thinking, needed for a lifetime of learning, and helping youngsters develop a positive self-concept.

He said that we have been throwing on to the schools the responsibility for being leaders in desegregating, sex education and drug education, "which I am not sure they are able to do."

"Perhaps other government agencies should have the job of trying to solve these problems."

ANY WOMAN CAN HAVE HER PERFECT FIGURE . . .

Our patrons have expressed in so many ways their appreciation for our company and our program. So many of them already knew of the Pat Walker program prior to the opening of our Midland salon.

Women from surrounding areas drove hundreds of miles to see our salon and begin their reducing program.

We recognize the fact that each woman has different bone structure; different figure problems and each woman needs our careful, personalized attention to attain the desired results.

NO MATTER WHAT YOUR AGE OR HOW IMPOSSIBLE IT SEEMS TO YOU AT THIS MOMENT, YOU CAN REDUCE COMFORTABLY, EASILY, AND IN COMPLETE PRIVACY AT PAT WALKER'S.

I am often asked the secret of the success of the Pat Walker Reducing Program. And, if I were to point out any single phase of our program, I would say that it is the special, individual, personalized care given every patron.

I once told one of the consultants at Pat Walker's, "if there is any way I can help other women learn about this program, I will gladly do so." This is my opportunity, so out comes my soap box.

At one time in my life I was very large, 230 lbs. With pills, I was able to lose weight with a doctor's help, but then what do you do with all the loose skin and flab that results with a large weight loss? Exercise you say, but I don't like exercise. Then I thought, I still need to lose weight, maybe the problem will dissolve itself with time. I don't have to tell you, it didn't, it only got worse. Then came Pat Walker's. I read the advertisement in the paper and it sounded good. So I went for my complimentary treatment and analysis and talked with one of the consultants, then went home. Once there I thought about what I had read and what I had been told and I wondered, "This is all great, but will it work for me?" Only one way to find out, try it. I did and two weeks later I had the answer to my big question, YES.

If you asked me what I like best about the Pat Walker program I wouldn't say it was the sensible eating tips and instructions I have received to help me lose weight the right way, nor would I say it was the toning and firming that must go with losing weight. I would say the thing I like best, is I no longer suffer from Sausageitis (wearing a girdle and feeling like a sausage tied in the middle). I have worn a girdle since the age of 14, and since I have been working on my program, I have been able to throw ye olde girdle away.

Pat Walker, I thank you for coming to Midland and having such a marvelous well rounded program that really works. I also thank all your great Midland personnel who work so hard and are so encouraging in helping their patrons to look their best.

Dear Abby
—By Abigail van Buren

Husband Likes Her Prune Face

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a physician (G.P.) and ours is a good marriage. But like everyone else, I have a problem.

For the last two years, I have been wanting to get a facelift, but my husband says, "If you get a facelift, I'll look like your father, so please forget it."

Abby, can you imagine a man being so vain as to deprive his wife of a facelift because he doesn't want her to look younger than he?

(He says, "If you put on a little weight, those wrinkles in your face will fill out, and you won't need any plastic surgery." Isn't that a ridiculous way for a doctor to talk, knowing that my weight is perfect for my height?)

The plastic surgeon is tops, and says he would gladly do me, but not unless I get my husband's permission.

I am a year younger than my husband, but I look older because I am prematurely wrinkled. I hate to look in the mirror. What should I do?

PRUNE FACE

DEAR PRUNE FACE: You have three options: (1) Spend the rest of your life dodging mirrors and hating it. (2) Find a plastic surgeon who will give you a facelift regardless of what your husband thinks. (3) Make your husband realize that he is a selfish, egotistical little boy, and get him to change his mind.

DEAR ABBY: The people in our office refer to our boss as a "ladies' man." We are having a difference of opinion as to what that means.

Would you say that a "ladies' man" is a man who is interested in a lot of ladies?

CURIOS

DEAR CURIOS: No. A ladies' man is a man who has a lot of ladies interested in HIM.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that no one can answer for me, so I'm asking you. Can you get married if you aren't baptized?

I wasn't baptized, and I have a neighbor who is a good Catholic. She asked me one day if I was baptized, and I told her no. Well, right away she started calling me an animal and all that. Then she told me if I wasn't baptized, I couldn't get married.

Abby, is it true that if you aren't baptized, you can't get married?

NOT BAPTIZED

DEAR NOT: I am informed by the Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod, Minnesota South District Office) that there is no stipulation in its religion that a person must be baptized before he can be married in the Lutheran Church.

The Baptist Association Headquarters inform me that there are no restrictions at all in the Baptist religion regarding a person being baptized in order for him to get married in the Baptist Church.

And Father Kevin of the Catholic Basilica of St. Mary said that a person must be baptized (in a Christian faith) in order for the marriage to be considered a Christian marriage. When a Catholic wants to marry someone from a non-Christian religion, a Moslem, for example the Catholic Church performs a marriage that is considered "quasi-sacramental," i.e., it is not a sacrament, although the Catholic Church recognizes it as a valid marriage. But it is not considered a Christian marriage because one of the partners is not a Christian.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Burns Accused Of Dodging Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of a House banking subcommittee, has accused Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, of dodging the panel to avoid questions about the board's operation.

Patman, chairman of the House domestic monetary policy subcommittee and former chairman of the full banking committee, said Burns wanted to send George Mitchell, one of the board's governors, to discuss details of a proposed audit of the Federal Reserve System.

Patman said the system's expenses have risen 70 per cent under Burns' chairmanship and the Texas Democrat proposed that the General Accounting Office audit the system.

A spokesman for the Federal Reserve Board said it would have no comment on Patman's accusations.

Patman's charges Friday were the latest in a series of complaints he has made about Burns' operation of the Federal Reserve Board.

which only you have knowledge about and it is, in my opinion, essential that you appear on the audit legislation."

Patman said the increase in Federal Reserve System expenses "raises questions which should be directed to you and not to others who may not be responsible for such developments."

Hijacker Captured At Atlanta Stopover

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "He said he had big troubles, lots of problems, his own problems," said one passenger of the man who hijacked a United Airlines 727 jet over Baltimore, Md.

The man, who declared he "wanted to see Castro," was arrested during a refueling stop here when his last three hostages sneaked off the plane.

He was identified as Frank Page Covey, age 43 or 44, of Richmond, Va. He was charged with air piracy.

United officials said the hijacker allowed the 60 passengers and three stewardesses to deplane when the airliner landed in Atlanta, leaving him on board with the captain, first officer and flight engineer.

"Other United people managed to get the hijacker's attention. While he was occupied, the cabin crew managed to get around him. They used the rear cabin stairs to deplane," said John Philp, the airline's regional public relations manager.

James O'Keeffe, assistant special agent in charge of the Atlanta FBI office, and another FBI agent then boarded the plane and arrested the man without incident.

O'Keeffe said the hijacker kept one hand in an airline flight bag and threatened to blow the plane up if he was not flown to Cuba. The agent said he found no explosives and no weapon when he arrested Covey.

The plane was United flight 344, which originated in Los Angeles and made stops in Birmingham, Ala., Charlotte, N.C., and Raleigh, N.C., enroute to Newark, N.J.

Right Of Soldiers To Dissent Limited In Combat Zones

The Washington Post WASHINGTON — Servicemen in combat zones do not have the right to circulate antiwar petitions without the approval of their commanding officers, a federal appeals court ruled here Friday.

The U.S. Court of Appeals, in a 2-to-1 opinion, said, "We believe the requirement that a serviceman obtain his commander's approval before circulating a petition is eminently reasonable; the exigencies of the combat mission can yield no other result."

The ruling came in the case of three servicemen who were either arrested in Vietnam while circulating antiwar petitions or were denied permission to circulate such petitions.

The judges made it clear they felt their opinion is a narrow one, applicable only in combat situations.

U.S. Circuit Chief Judge David L. Bazelon dissented, saying the military action approved by the majority opinion "augurs poorly for the future of the First Amendment rights of American soldiers."

Artificial Reef Contract Okayed

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Coastal and Marine Council has approved a contract to sink 12 ships along the Texas coast to form artificial fishing reefs.

The $420,000 contract with Andy International of Brownsville is contingent on approval by the Texas attorney general's office and other state agencies.

Three ships each will be sunk at four locations, 30 miles off Freeport, 21 miles off Port O'Connor, 18 miles off Port Aransas and 15 miles off Port Mansfield.

The federal government is making the ships available from the mothball fleet at Orange and the Brownsville company will pay $420,000 to the state for salvage rights to metals and other valuables stripped from the ships.

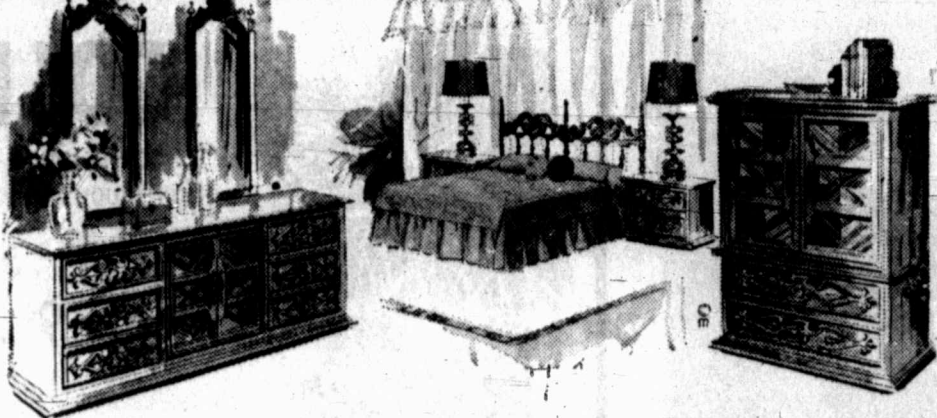

CONTEST ENTRY — Sandra Harris, a junior student at Santa Anna High School, will represent the Santa Anna Lions Club in the queen contest to be held in connection with the district Lions convention here Friday night. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eigean Harris and is active in many high school activities.

The lack of moisture is of mounting concern to West Texas agriculturists. The lush weed growth on area rangeland has about depleted the moisture available for warm season forage and grass remains dormant. Livestock have fared well with the cool season weed growth but the point has about been reached where they will begin to "turn back" if warm season grazing doesn't come on. Dryland cropland must have some moisture for planting. Irrigation wells are going full ahead on land where water is available and it is anticipated that some planting on this acreage will be done soon if warm conditions continue.

A meeting is scheduled at Fort Stockton May 1 with directors of the West Texas Pecan Association to discuss the proposed pecan insect quarantine for the Far West Texas area. The meeting will get under way at 10 a.m., followed by a dutch luncheon. Next will be a tour of the local pecan orchards.

In addition, the proposed pecan nut casebearer survey plans will be outlined by the area entomologist. This survey will be conducted in June by the entomologists and pecan industry in West Texas. Details on the meeting can be obtained from local county extension offices.

During the last half of May, a random sample of 24,000 Texas farmers will receive a crop acreage questionnaire from Charles E. Caudill, agricultural statistician in charge of the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service at Austin. This information will be the basis for determining the planted acreage for the state and for each county.

Farmers who receive questionnaires are urged to complete and return them by mail. All individual reports are confidential and are used only for state and county totals.

Often established shade trees around the home are damaged or lost by construction of a patio or paved areas which exclude oxygen and interrupt the base exchange process of nutrient transfer.

By planning ahead and taking a few precautions, most damage to trees due to such construction can be avoided.

If the soil will not be disturbed, a fence or barricade around trees in an area undergoing construction will protect them from mechanical injury.

But digging which causes the soil level to be raised or lowered can damage tree roots. In this case, more protection is needed. If the soil level is to be raised around trees, or paving or brick to be laid over existing root area, a tile or perforated plastic pipe system should be installed which will provide a pathway for air to reach the root hairs.

Trenching operations can also damage trees. If a trench must pass near a tree and roots have to be cut, be sure to cut the roots cleanly with a saw or pruning instrument. Paint the root ends with a tree wound compound and backfill the trench as soon as possible to keep the exposed roots from drying.

Fact Sheet L-1309, "Protecting Existing Landscape Trees from Construction Damage" is available from county extension offices.

The Black Experience: A National Advisory Commission in 1968 reported that "there is relatively little contact between the Negro ghetto and the white community. Often the contact is limited to police officers. In the eyes of the ghetto citizen the representative of authority becomes a symbol of the existing antagonistic forces." That there is an ever increasing effort to bring about more understanding and good will between the black community and the establishment of cities and towns in West Texas and New Mexico, there can be no doubt in 1975.

In a recent visit to San Angelo, for example, we found that leading black and white citizens there are making preparations to sponsor a "homecoming celebration" for the Rev. Cecil Williams, pastor of Glend Memorial Methodist Church in San Francisco for 12 years and a native of the San Angelo community. His ministry has been most unusual in that he has led in a movement to include the outcasts and downtrodden of all races and creeds in his community and served as an intermediary in attempts to free Pat Hearst. The affair will be held in the city auditorium in San Angelo in mid-May and exact dates may be obtained from chamber of commerce officials at San Angelo.

At Hobbs, N.M., a retired educator, Ralph Littleton, has been the first black to be elected to a position in city government (school board) and Jimmy Palmer, a long-time career policeman has been elected police chief of Hobbs, a city of 40,000 people. A first black has been elected to the city council in Odessa and similar efforts to elect black representation on city councils are being made in other West Texas towns, including Lubbock and Abilene. A black has been a member of the city council of Carlsbad, N.M., for several years.

"Dear Bob: Our family looks forward each week to your column in The Midland Reporter-Telegram. It does go a long way in giving us a black perspective of the news. We do not have a black paper published in our area and the nearest thing we can get on "a black point of view," of course, is your column. When you are in our area come have a chicken leg with us vs you used to do. Oh yes, it seems that the whole nation has started bell ringing now that we are coming near our 200th birthday. Keep ringling the bell and you will know that we are listening. Devotedly, a bellringer for the family. (Signed: C. N. T.) Thanks, kind sir. Will accept the invitation at the earliest possible moment. At my age eating is one of our favorite pastimes, including thumping out this column each week for bellringers.

Chimes: We have received an invitation to attend the 71st annual session of the National Baptist S. S. and B.T.U. Congress, scheduled to meet at Fort Worth June 10-15. A number of West Texans and New Mexicans plan to go. Mt. Olive Baptist Church, the Rev. J. L. Dawson pastor, is the host church. Mr. Dawson writes, "We assure you that the various committees, officers, heads of auxiliaries along with the full cooperation of the pastors and churches of Fort Worth and area are leaving no stones unturned to see that you will be entertained in the reception" for the Rev. Cecil Williams, pastor of Glend Memorial Methodist Church in San Francisco for 12 years and a native of the San Angelo community. His ministry has been most unusual in that he has led in a movement to include the outcasts and downtrodden of all races and creeds in his community and served as an intermediary in attempts to free Pat Hearst. The affair will be held in the city auditorium in San Angelo in mid-May and exact dates may be obtained from chamber of commerce officials at San Angelo.

Black colleges' rally slated? Out here in far West Texas, rumors are afloat that a giant Black Star Rally is being planned for June 19, either at Fort Worth or Dallas. Some of the nation's top tv and theatrical stars will headline the show for the benefit of the United Negro College Fund. We will be in the Fort Worth area this week to verify these rumors and report to bellringers. Remember: "A mind is a terrible thing to waste." Let's keep giving. The need for black colleges is greater than ever. Until later. Peace and be a good neighbor.

'Treasure Islands' Tourism Thriving

TORTOLA, (AP) — They didn't seriously start promoting tourism to these "treasure islands" until three years ago, but since then the tourism rate here has grown 15-20 per cent annually, while it has been generally declining in most other Caribbean islands.

Yet there are no golf courses, no jetport, no gambling, no cruise ships, no "big time" entertainment, no television, and only 700 beds in 25 small hotels and guest houses in the British Virgin Islands.

Rolling Stones Summer Tour Definite

The Los Angeles Times
HOLLYWOOD — The summer Rolling Stones tour is definitely on. The band, it has been learned, is planning to hold a press conference Thursday in New York to formally announce the details of the tour (E.G. when tickets go on sale, the exact itinerary) and to confirm that Ron Wood will be the fifth Stone for the two-month series of concerts that begins June 1 in Louisiana.

After the press conference, the band is expected to go into rehearsals for the tour that some feel may well be the last time around for what is the greatest remaining rock 'n' roll band. In fact, the most important question to be raised at the press conference is whether this tour will mark the end of the Stones as a touring, though not necessarily recording, band.

There has been sporadic talk about a breakup of the Stones ever since the "Exile on Main Street" album in 1972, but some key factors have contributed to a current upswing of speculation. Some feel the fact that the Stones will be touring with Wood, who has said he will remain part of the Faces group and is only touring with the Stones on a one-time basis, is a sign the band may not tour again.

If the Stones did plan to continue touring, the theory goes, the group would probably have postponed a U.S. tour until it came up with a permanent replacement for guitarist Mick Taylor, who left the Stones to form a band with bassist Jack Bruce.

Adding new members to a band is always a delicate process, but it is particularly touchy for a band with the pressures and popularity of the Stones. It's difficult enough to live up to the band's already larger-than-life reputation on tours without the endless comparisons "Is the band as good without Mick Taylor?" or, if there are future tours, "Without Ron Wood?" and the sometimes difficult psychological adjustments that follow personnel shifts.

An even stronger, more recent indication that this may be the last tour is the elaborateness of the show that is being designed.

The whole emphasis, according to someone from inside the Stones' planning corps, is to make this a particularly "memorable" tour. One source even went so far as to say the Stones' thinking, in planning this show, was along the lines of, "If this were to be the last tour, what can we do to make it the best possible one?"

The result is staging so elaborate that the Stones will do all their dates in such key cities as Los Angeles and New York in a single facility rather than, as on previous visits, play a variety of halls in an area.

Pioneer Skill Demonstrations Set At Kerrville

This year's fair is scheduled July 4-6 along the banks of tree-shaded Quinlan Creek on the grounds of Schreiner College here.

Because many of the pioneer arts and skills are in danger of being lost forever unless steps are taken to preserve them for future generations, the Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation came up with the idea of the Pioneer Village to showcase these special talents. Persons who have such skills, or know of others who have them, are invited to contact the Arts and Crafts Foundation at P.O. Box 1589, Kerrville 78028.

Stamps On Display At County Library

"Topical" postage stamps from around the world make up a new display in the Midland County Library's exhibit case.

Dinner Theater Production Set On Tech Campus

LUBBOCK—A dinner theater production offering Gilbert and Sullivan's perennially popular "Trial by Jury," with a musical setting of a tale by Mark Twain thrown in as a bonus, will be presented here this week.

The Texas Tech Music Theatre and the University Centre are joining in presenting the musical entertainment Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights in the UC ballroom. Tickets for the dinner and show will be $5 per person and reservations may be made by telephoning 806-742-3380.

"Trial by Jury" is Gilbert and Sullivan's musical parody of Victorian English jurisprudence and remains one of the talented team's most popular operettas throughout the world.

The second musical offering on tap is Mark Twain's "The Diary of Adam and Eve," one of the segments included in the recent Broadway musical play, "The Apple Tree." The production has book, music and lyrics by Sheldon Harnick and Jerry Bock, who collaborated so successfully on the hit musical, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Two Art Exhibits Remain At Museum

Two art exhibits are continuing at the Museum of the Southwest.

The second annual exhibition of works by members of the Midland College art faculty will continue through the end of this month. Another show, consisting of some 75 drawings by noted Southwestern artist Jose Cisneros of El Paso, will be on view through May 20.

The faculty art show consists of graphics and drawings, paintings in various media, and ceramic pieces. Represented in the show are Stan Jacobs, Marian Ford and Marilyn Todd.

The museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri St., will be open between 2 and 5 p.m. today. Museum hours on weekdays are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free at all times.

Jerry Maxfield, assistant director of Midland's Museum of the Southwest, who has loaned a portion of his extensive stamp collection for the current exhibit, explains that "topicals" are stamps depicting a particular subject. The library display features stamps depicting wildlife throughout the world, but Maxfield's collection of topicals also deal with the space program, the Olympics and sailing vessels.

Maxfield, who moved to Midland from Fort Hayes, Kan., in 1973 to take the assistant directorship of the museum here, has been an avid stamp collector for more than 20 years, beginning, he says, "with a dime packet of 100 stamps." As is the case with all dedicated stamp collectors, Maxfield has particular "specialties" — his being mint U.S. and United Nations stamps, as well as airmail stamps of all nations.

The special stamp exhibit may be viewed during regular library hours, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

The Theatre Centre box office will open to the public Monday morning for sale of tickets to performances of Midland Community Theatre's May production, "The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia."

The new comedy by Dallas playwright Preston Jones will open Thursday night, with additional performances scheduled Friday and Saturday nights this week, and May 9-10 and 16-17. There will be no holdovers, it was announced.

The play is recommended for mature audiences only.

The history of the club was reviewed for the banquet audience by District Gov. Jim Lemons of Big Spring.

Honor Blackman Granted Divorce

LONDON (AP) — Honor Blackman, the actress who played in the television series "The Avengers" and portrayed Pussy Galore in the James Bond film "Goldfinger," has ended her 13-year marriage to actor Maurice Kaufman.

A divorce court judge ruled Friday that Miss Blackman's second marriage broke down because of Kaufman's behavior. He awarded them joint custody of their two adopted children, with care and control to Miss Blackman.

STAMP COLLECTOR — Jerry Maxfield shows some of his topical stamps from around the world which make up a current display in the Midland County Public Library.

MCT Box Office Opens Monday

"The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" is the first in Jones' "Bradleyville Trilogy," so named because all three plays take place in the fictional town of Bradleyville (population 6,000, somewhere in West Texas.

"Knights" and the companion plays, "The Oldest Living Graduate" and "Lu Ann Hampton Laverly Oberlander," have had their premiere productions in recent months at Dallas Theater Center where Jones is a member of the resident acting company as well as playwright-in-residence.

Of the three plays, only "Knights" has thus far been released for production by community theaters holding membership in the American Playwrights Theatre. Midland Community Theatre is among those members.

"Knights" has had a repeat production at Dallas Theater Center and last summer had a limited run at San Angelo Civic Theatre, but the MCT production coming up will be a typical one. There is a new recruit this night — the first person to seek membership in the Knights in years! The excitement of initiating a new member, the "secret" ritual that no one can correctly recall, the electrified cross that won't light up on cue—these are some of the elements that make this meeting terribly funny while at the same time providing a touching glimpse of a slice of West Texas smalltown life.

The setting of "Knights" is the Cattleman's Hotel in Bradleyville, a showplace in an earlier day but now a deteriorated firetrap. The old Col. J.C. Kincaid, owner of the hotel, who almost wrecks the ceremonial rites, and Conrad Coffield Jr., plays Lonnie Roy McNeil, the candidate for membership. Others in the cast are Marcine Reddick as Ramsey-eyes, custodian of the hotel, and Aaron Cranford, Carl Henderson, Gary Askins and Don Shivers as members of the Knights organization.

production coming up will be a typical one. There is a new recruit this night — the first person to seek membership in the Knights in years! The excitement of initiating a new member, the "secret" ritual that no one can correctly recall, the electrified cross that won't light up on cue—these are some of the elements that make this meeting terribly funny while at the same time providing a touching glimpse of a slice of West Texas smalltown life.

The setting of "Knights" is the Cattleman's Hotel in Bradleyville, a showplace in an earlier day but now a deteriorated firetrap. The old Col. J.C. Kincaid, owner of the hotel, who almost wrecks the ceremonial rites, and Conrad Coffield Jr., plays Lonnie Roy McNeil, the candidate for membership. BICKERING MEMBERS — Two members of the Knights of the White Magnolia disrupt the organization's ceremonial rites with their bickering in this scene in Midland Community Theatre's The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia. House Subcommittee Approves State Utility Commission Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — A House subcommittee has approved a 60-page bill setting up a three-member state commission to regulate rates and service of all public utilities, including gas, electricity and telephone.

The full House State Affairs Committee will make a decision Monday or Wednesday on whether to send it to the floor.

Subcommittee members voted 4-1 Friday to send the measure to the committee without any recommendation. Rep. Joe Spurlock, D-Fort Worth, the lone dissenter, said he

Senate Abruptly Calls Recess

AUSTIN (AP) — 'Twas the Public Safety, Parks and Wildlife time to stall in the Texas Senate.

Hungry senators, anxious to get home after their first Friday session of the three-month-old legislature, quit abruptly on a proposal to put energy efficiency labels on every gas or electrical appliance.

"This is another bill written by the do-gooders to shackle the retail merchants of the state," said Sen. W. T. Moore, D-Bryan.

Senators accepted Moore's amendments to limit penalties to a total of $1,000 and to make the law apply to manufacturers.

Then, at 12:10 p.m., he indicated he might take a break and the Senate accepted his motion to adjourn until 11 a.m. Monday.

Before that, however, senators approved and sent to the House a bill charging the Railroad Commission with regulating strip-or surface-mining of coal, lignite and uranium.

Texas is one of the nation's leading producers of uranium, involving an estimated 10 billion tons of lignite, a low-grade coal, underlying one million acres.

The Senate also approved and sent to the House bills that require blood banks to make venereal disease reports and permit the Department of wanted to send it back with a favorable recommendation.

The bill is far tougher than the measure approved by the Senate State Affairs Committee, which failed last week to come to a floor test when some who originally favored it decided it was an anti-consumer measure.

A major concern has been the base for determining whether a utility was making a fair rate of return. The proposed House bill would leave it to the commission, which could use its base a figure of not less than 60 per cent the original cost of a utility's equipment or not more than 40 per cent of the replacement cost.

Consumer advocates favor a 100 per cent original cost base because that figure is lower than replacement cost and results in lower rates. Allowing utilities to use replacement cost before a replacement is needed means the companies can base their rates on expenses they haven't incurred, they say.

One provision in the House bill would let voters in a city make a decision to have utility rates determined by their city council instead of the state agency.

The commission would put utilities under a uniform accounting system and could examine a company's books.

The bill attempts to deal with the potential problem of industry influence on the commission in several ways. One prohibits the appointment by the governor of a person as commissioner who has any connection with a utility firm, including an investment of $10,000 or more. For two years after leaving the commission, a commissioner or employe could not acquire an interest in a utility or go to work for one. Records would be kept of all communications by utility companies with commission members and employes.

A full committee vote is expected next Monday or Wednesday. Approval would set up a House vote the following week provided there are no major delays for printing.

Morton Approved As Commerce Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rogers C. B. Morton has been confirmed by the Senate as secretary of Commerce.

In a voice vote Friday, the Senate approved President Ford's nomination of Morton, a former five-term Maryland congressman who is now Interior secretary. He succeeds Frederick B. Dent, who is to be Ford's special ambassador for foreign trade relations.

Midlander Honored

Mrs. Marie Bennett Munson, Midland employment consultant, has been named to the National Register of Prominent Americans and International Notables.

Encourage Continuation By Playing High Card

When you are a defender you must often play a high card either to win the trick or to force out a still higher card from the dummy or from declarer's hand. In this situation you may have very little choice. For example, if your partner leads a spade and you have K-3-2 of spades you must usually play your king in third position in the attempt to win the trick or force out the ace.

The situation is different if the ace of spades is played in second position, before you play. Now you can save your king of spades, and you can play either the three or the deuce.

Careful beginners always play the deuce in this situation. They don't want to waste a high card unnecessarily. Why waste a three, when a deuce will do just as well?

Careless beginners play either the deuce or the three haphazardly in this situation. There is no sense in wasting effort; they play whichever card their fingers happen to alight upon.

Defensive Signals

In this situation an experienced player means one thing when he plays the three and another thing when he plays the deuce. What's more, if the experienced player has a good partner, the difference in meaning is understood.

The three is an encouraging card; the deuce is discouraging. It would be pleasant to have K-8-2 so that you could do your encouraging by means of the eight rather than the three. Still, if you are dealt K-3-2 you must play the three and hope that your partner can read your message.

The encouraging signal usually indicates a high card. You signal to show that you can win a later trick in the suit. This is not, however, the only reason you can have to encourage a continuation of the suit. Perhaps you have a doubleton, and you hope to ruff the third round of the suit. Perhaps you have such poor cards in the other suits that a switch to a new suit is sure more subtle reason for encourage the first suit just to prevent a switch.

See The Plan

Sometimes you have a far more subtle reason for encouraging your partner to continue with a suit. You see what he has in mind, and you see that his plan is going to succeed, as in today's hand.

Insurance Underwriters Approached About Insuring Viet Gold Shipment

By ROBERT KESSLER
Newsday

NEW YORK — Representatives of several major American casualty insurance underwriters have been approached by a private broker about sharing in the underwriting of a shipment of $80 million in gold from Saigon to the United States.

According to three sources, who said that their respective companies had turned down the deal, they were approached by representatives of the John L. Swan Co., a brokerage firm that insures gold shipments for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The sources, who asked that their names not be revealed, all said they had been told that the gold belonged to the South Vietnamese government.

It was said that the gold was to be shipped out of Saigon on a U.S. Air Force C-47 transport, and that the insurance underwriting was being sought on a 36-hour contract.

They said that as of 5 p.m. (EDT) Friday, the Swan Co. had found insurers willing to underwrite $70 million of the $80 million shipment.

The broker, who approached one of the underwriters was Robert Reddington of Rowayton, Conn. Neither Reddington nor any other officials of the Swan Co. could be reached for comment Saturday night.

Richard Hoenig, a spokesman for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, declined to comment on the report. He said that the Fed had gold accounts from 70 to 80 foreign government but never comments on them.

One of the sources said that the contract called for the gold to arrive at the Federal Reserve Bank in New York by today. The other two sources said they turned down participating in the underwriting because the Swan Co. would not give full details on when the gold was to arrive in the United States or details of the security arrangements.

There have been reports for several weeks that a Swiss charter airline, Balair, was approached in March to fly $73 million worth of gold bullion from Saigon to Switzerland.

Time magazine reported two weeks ago that Balair had refused to transport the gold, which apparently belonged to then-South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu or to Lon

Nol, the former president of Cambodia.

According to the magazine, members of the South Vietnamese government asked Balair agents to ferry out "some personal belongings" of the Thieu family as well as personal effects of Lon Nol, who is now in Hawaii. When it was known that the belongings were 16 tons of gold, Balair refused to carry the shipment, the magazine said, adding that the airline was concerned that the gold might be part of the official reserves of South Vietnam and Cambodia.

The price of gold closed at $166.10 per ounce Friday on the London exchange. At that price, $80 million worth would weigh 15.05 tons.

However, it could not be determined Saturday night whether the $80 million for which the insurance underwriting was being sought had anything to do with the gold shipment about which Balair allegedly was approached.

The sources said they were not told whether the gold was in the form of bullion or coins. One source said the plane would be guarded by heavily armed members of the U.S. armed services and was to make one refueling stop, presumably in Guam, before arriving in the United States.

"We declined to participate because of the vagueness of details," he said. The source said the underwriters would receive a $4 million premium for insuring the full $80 million, but that only $70 million worth of insurance was written — $40 million by New York companies and $30 million by London-based companies.

South Vietnamese Soldiers Lounging, Wondering

By MATT FRANJOLA

TRANG BANG, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese soldiers lounged in the shade at this frontline village Saturday and wondered whether there will be peace shortly or a final North Vietnamese push on Saigon.

Trang Bang, 25 miles west of Saigon, has been under heavy shelling for the past three days. The market is scarred with shrapnel holes and blackened by small fires. But it was quiet Saturday. Most villagers had left.

"I don't think there will be a coalition or a surrender," said a private named Nguon. "Soon the Viet Cong will attack."

But the men continued to go through the motions of soldiering. They took care of their gear, cut banana leaves for shade, cleaned their teapots, talked and smoked.

The thousands of North-Vietnamese troops that are poised in an arc to the west, north and east of Saigon appeared to be holding off attacking while politicians debated the future of the government.

Options for Saigon are few, and even the lowliest soldiers know it. They listened anxiously to the radio early Saturday as President Tran Van Huong spoke to the National Assembly. The assembly left it up to Huong to decide whether to resign in favor of a peace candidate to negotiate an end to the war.

Nguon squatted in the shade by a group of soldiers. They were talking about the future. Nguon said, "They may form a coalition government, but it will mean the Viet Cong will win. What will happen to us soldiers? I hear they may kill us."

Two lieutenants sat off by themselves. One named Phong said, "I will fight to the end. They killed my father near Hanoi and after the French war I came south. I cannot live under the Communists."

Lt. Duc answered: "The Communists are acting nice now. But once they take over they will begin squeezing the people."

"The war has been going on since I was a child," said Duc. "I don't know what a cease-fire would mean. I hope it would be a peace like the Laos coalition, but I don't think so."

Every now and then an outgoing government artillery shell whistled overhead. Government forces manning the western approaches to Saigon were waiting.

Western analysts feel that if the 10 North Vietnamese divisions around Saigon attack with all their armor and artillery they could take Saigon in a few days.

One American analyst said,

"The South Vietnamese have lost the desire to fight. One battle and they will crumble."

The thought of an end to a generation of fighting puzzled many soldiers. Some said they would rather continue fighting. They understand a soldier's life, but they were wary of a government under the Communists.

"I will fight," said Lt. Phong. "They will have to kill me or attack and push me into the sea."

Chance Of Rain Predicted Here

Weathermen are calling for a 20 per cent chance of rain and thunderstorms both this afternoon and tonight in the Tall City.

Temperatures should be in the upper 80s today with an overnight low in the upper 50s.

Saturday's high was 90 and the overnight low was 62. High Monday is forecast in the lower 80s.

Skies should remain partly cloudy to cloudy through Monday.

Meanwhile cloudy skies and speedy south winds kept weather conditions less than wonderful across Texas Saturday with weathermen predicting cloudiness and possible showers today.

The Panhandle and Southeast Texas escaped the low cloudiness characteristic of the rest of the state but even those areas had high, thin cloudiness.

Winds gusted up to 30 miles an hour along the coastal plain and in parts of Northwest Texas.

Temperatures climbed into the 70s and 80s in all areas of the state, The Associated Press reported.

Weathermen said warm temperatures, cloudy to partly cloudy skies and thunderstorms are likely over most portions of the state through today.

Moderates Win Over Reds In Portugal

By STEPHENS BROENING

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Moderate politicians won an overwhelming victory over Communists on Saturday in Portugal's first free election in half a century, and Western diplomats saw a chance for a softening of the military government's radical leftist policies.

Near complete results from Friday's balloting showed the Socialists won the biggest share of any party, nearly 38 per cent. The Popular Democrats, got about 26 per cent and the Communists about 12 1/2 per cent. Smaller parties and spoiled ballots accounted for the remainder of the vote.

The voters chose a constitutional assembly, which has no legislative power and is committed in advance to a constitution acceptable to the country's military rulers. Still, observers saw the center-left strength as a curb on radical power after a coup 12 months ago. Mario Soares, the Socialist leader, indicated his party would move carefully to transform the electoral triumph into a moderation of national policy.

At an impromptu press conference Soares stressed what he called the Socialists' alliance with the Armed Forces Movement, as the ruling military describes itself.

He said the vote was as much the army's victory as the party's but, he said in answer to a question, "The Armed Forces Movement, the political parties and the nation will have to take the election results into account."

Sgt. Bill Weibacher of the homicide department, said Gonzalez, 66, had escaped from the mental hospital earlier in the day and had rushed to his mother's home after hearing the 91-year-old woman was seriously ill.

The shooting occurred as two officers went to the house and returned to talk Gonzalez into returning to the hospital.

Weibacher identified the two wounded officers as Roy Aguilar Jr., 23, and R. C. Smith, 48. Weibacher said the two officers were in stable condition at the Bexar County Hospital.

Aguilar was shot through the eye and Smith had a chest wound.

In Tam said he had been living in Poipet, on the Cambodian side of the Thai frontier, for about one year after stepping down as premier in December 1973. He had been forced out by Lon Nol.

"I learned of the surrender from the radio about noon on the 17th, and I started to worry about myself and my entourage," he said, referring to the 300 Cambodians — including a private army of about 100 men.

The broad-based officers movement, which overthrew the old rightist regime a year ago, has been plagued by internal squabbling, and the moderates have, to a large extent, been purged from power.

The Socialists, the Popular Democrats and the more conservative Social Democrats, who among them collected more than 75 per cent of Friday's vote, hope this mandate for moderation will be heeded by the military.

The most optimistic among them concede it will take time, if it is possible at all. Premier Vasco Goncalves, chief of the army radicals' faction, has shown a preference to lean on the advice and support of the Communist party and its appendage, the Portuguese Democratic Movement.

A spokesman for the military rulers belittled the importance of the vote. Navy Lt. Ramiro Correia, a member of the military's Revolutionary Council, told a press conference late Saturday "the elections were a pedagogical exercise."

He clearly meant the council, bent on imposing its brand of socialism by decree, saw in the election no transfer of sovereignty from officers who rule by coup d'etat to civilian politicians propped up by popular vote.

Ex-Thai Premier Can't Understand Khmer Rouge's Motive For Revenge

By MATT FRANJOLA

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — "I don't understand why the Khmer Rouge want revenge on me," said former Cambodian Premier in Tam. "I am only a rice farmer. I quit politics 16 months ago."

Marked for death on the "traitor" list of the victorious Khmer Rouge, in Tam is one of several thousand Cambodian refugees in Thailand — a small man living with friends and keeping a low profile while seeking an exile home.

"I can't talk about politics. I'm no longer a politician," he said when asked why the U.S.-backed government could not withstand the Khmer Rouge.

"Above all, I blame President Lon Nol," he added. "Lon Nol knew he couldn't do anything to help the country, but he wanted to keep all the power to himself. The Americans gave enough money, but we failed to help ourselves and the funds flowed into the hands of the corrupt."
