VOLUME XXIII. No. 59.

LUBBOCK, LUBBOCK COUNTY, TEXAS, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1922.

PUBLISHED TWICE A WEEK

BOOSTER TRIPS FOR FAIR WILL BE MADE THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

THESE DATES SET FOR EXCURSIONS AT MEETING OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS SATURDAY MORNING

WILL START FROM COURTHOUSE 7:30 A. M.

The Value of the Excursions in Advertising Lubbock is Inestimable and It Is Well For Our Business Men to Become Better Acquainted With People of Neighboring Towns.

All is ready for another progressive expedition for the city of Lubbock.

The Board of Directors of the Junior Chamber of Commerce have set the following schedule for the two trips, which shall be instrumental in boosting our fair:

The first trip by the South Plains Fair boosters will be made on Thursday, September 21. This trip will include Idalou, Lorenzo, Ralls, Post and Crosbyton. We will spend some 30 to 45 minutes in Crosbyton, taking in their fair. Ten or fifteen minutes will be spent in Idalou, Lorenzo and Ralls, and possibly 30 minutes or as long as we wish in Post as that will be the last town we will make on this run. We will eat dinner in Post.

The second day's excursion trip will be Friday, September 22. This trip will include Rossville, Meadow, Brownfield, Lamesa, O'Donnell, Tahoka and Wilson. As both Lamesa and Brownfield are having their fairs on this day, we will be in each of the towns thirty to forty-five minutes, and in each of the other fifteen minutes. We will take dinner in Lamesa.

On each of these days we will start promptly from the Courthouse at 7:30 a. m. a-b-a-r-p, and notice of our leaving will be sounded by the Fire Siren, which will accompany us on all our trips to wake the natives up.

The fact that this expedition is to be made at an opportune time to do the greatest amount of good should create all the more interest, and if you have any time to go on this trip, or can at all make the necessary time, throw down your work, and get with the crowd that is willing to do the big thing for our city. The members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are eager to do anything for the betterment of Lubbock, and these excursions are believed the best method of getting in touch with the people whose efforts are desired in making our fair a success, which will add so much to the greatness of our city, and the great plains country.

Louie F. Moore, whose efforts were largely due to the success of the excursions last year, is working with that same enthusiasm for the success of these excursions, which assures us that all arrangements will be made to an exactness.

Everything will be ready when you are. Don't expect the excursion to be a howling success without adding your bit to it. We are sure there are a few who, on account of unfavorable circumstances, will be hindered from going, which makes it all the more necessary for those who can get away at all to go.

There is more to taking these trips than an opportunity to boost Lubbock and the fair. There is lots of fun to be had from the time the siren announces the starting until the last car is parked in its garage that night. The crowd is an enthusiastic, wide awake, ready to go bunch which is well for one to be associated with, and if you don't know how to cut up this is the time to learn how.

In the meantime there will be many addresses of welcome from the various city officials, which will add greatly to the excursions, for it is well for us to become better acquainted with the fellows who are doing things in our neighboring towns.

Let's get acquainted with the fellows who are helping to build the plains. The Fair Boosting excursion offers that opportunity.

FIGHT ON PRAIRIE DOGS STARTS IN PANHANDLE

Amarillo, Sept. 14.—Six tons of poisoned grain has been ordered for the extermination of prairie dogs in Moore, Sherman and Hartley counties. L. C. Whitehead of the Bureau of Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, has established headquarters in Amarillo during the fight against the crop pests.

Farmers and ranchers of the counties named have organized against the prairie dogs, which annually destroy thousands of dollars worth of grain.

CANYON CITY OFFICIALS HERE TO INSPECT PAVEMENT

A committee of Canyon City officials arrived here on the 11:30 train Thursday, to inspect the paving here and went from here to Mineral Wells, Fort Worth, and Dallas in cars, to inspect paving. The committee consisted of J. D. Gamble, C. N. Harrison, C. W. Warwick, T. C. Thompson and C. D. Lester. Mr. John Dalrymple and R. D. Moxley, officials of the Panhandle Construction Company, accompanied them.

WESTER FAMILY FIRED UPON NEAR IDALOU SAT. NIGHT

A very exciting incident which could, however, ended more disastrously, is reported by Woody Wester, linotype operator of the Avalanche.

Mr. Wester, accompanied by his family, was motoring to Ralls Saturday night when they met a Ford car about two miles east of Idalou from which two pistol shots were fired, striking the top of the radiator of his Dodge car.

Evidently an automatic was used or two shots fired at the same time, as the second bullet was placed within three inches of the first. Mr. Wester being unarmed, was unable to stage any comeback, and the miscreant escaped.

No motive for the act is known, as it is certain the man who fired the shot did not know or care who occupied the car. It is believed that he was drinking, and was firing upon the car without realizing the danger to which he subjected its occupants.

The cars were both going at a moderate speed in opposite directions, and as the Ford had no tail-light its number could not be read.

CONGRESSMAN GILLESPIE IS WELL PLEASED WITH PLAINS

O. W. Gillespie, of Fort Worth, ex-congressman of that district, is here on legal business. Mr. Gillespie is highly elated over the genuineness of the plains country, and this being his first trip up this way he naturally was surprised to see the country so far ahead of other sections of the state purported to be the garden spot of the state.

All we need is enough people to know about the greatness of the plains. It is an undisputed fact that we have been given a great deal of valuable advertising within the past several years, but seeing is necessary for one to comprehend the vast resources the plains contain, and we are glad to have such influential men as the congressman to become acquainted with Lubbock and the surrounding territory.

When all is said and done the plains will still be the wealth producing section of the state.

FORMER TERRY COUNTY MAN UNDERWENT OPERATION HERE

J. F. Blankenship, one of the pioneer settlers of Terry county, while traveling by auto from Midland where he now resides, to Brownfield, was taken suddenly ill and rushed to a Lubbock sanitarium last Friday and underwent serious operation. He was accompanied here by Dr. Treadaway of Brownfield, and his two sons, Amos and Arlie, who are remaining by his bedside. Late reports are that Mr. Blankenship is doing as well as could be expected, however his condition is considered critical.

RAIL CAR SHORTAGE FOR MILL OPERATORS PREDICTED

Beaumont, Sept. 16.—Texas and Louisiana saw mill operators will face a temporary railroad car shortage during the six months, J. A. Glen, division superintendent of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway, advised members of the East Texas Mill Managers Association who are convened in business sessions here today. The probable shortage will be the result of the Government's action in requiring the railroads to give preference to food and coal.

THE STATE MAY ADOPT STANDARD CONTAINERS SOON

Austin, Sept. 16.—The state may adopt standard containers for packing and transporting Texas fruits and vegetables and enforce the exclusive use of such containers both in intrastate and interstate traffic if such acts do not conflict with federal regulations, the attorney general's department held in an opinion issued today by E. W. Cole, state department of agriculture markets director.

310 BALES OF COTTON GINNED HERE THIS SEASON

Eighty bales of cotton were brought to Lubbock Saturday, the price being 19 1/2 cents, cotton seed selling at $22, which has been steady throughout the past several days.

The total bales ginned here this season was 310 on Saturday afternoon, and with a good many, commencing this morning, the season will indicate much activity in picking.

Mrs. Geo. W. Morris has accepted a position with Barrier Brothers in the ready-to-wear department, and she will be glad to have her friends visit her there.

Specialty Work Cause Fluctuation In Cotton Market

Dallas, Sept. 18.—Speculative influences are responsible for fluctuations in the cotton market following the publication of the government report of September 1, is the opinion of John T. Orr, president of the Texas Farm Bureau-Cotton Association.

"There is but one method to stop tampering with the welfare of the cotton growers," Mr. Orr declares, "and that is for the farmers to quit dumping their cotton on the market at any price named by the street buyer and set up an organization that will be strong enough to sell cotton for what it is worth."

"It is encouraging to know that the goal is in sight. Nine states now have producers co-operative marketing associations, and will control more than 2,000,000 bales of this year's crop. These associations do not sell cotton when speculators put the market down, and when they increase their membership and control a larger portion of the crop, they will be in position to disregard completely the market manipulation by speculators. When that time comes, the future market will follow spots, instead of the spot market trailing futures, as now is the case."

"If any thing further was needed to prove that now is the time for cotton growers to make themselves independent of the whims of the speculators and form a bigger, stronger co-operative marketing association, it will be found in the erratic behavior of the cotton market since the publication of the Government report. This report showed a condition lower than the trade expected and forecast a crop below normal consumptive demand. All trade authorities, even speculators themselves, agree that it was a bullish report—and yet the market declined, and has continued to decline. If a Government report that the 1922 crop has been reduced 874,000 bales in thirty days justified a lower price, then the law of supply has no validity and economic law is a farce."

"If cotton was worth 21.07 cents (Dallas spot quotation) Thursday, August 31, it was worth less the next day after it became known that the crop was 874,000 bales less than previous estimates. So-called experts may explain these fluctuations as they please, but as a farmer, I must believe that speculative influences are responsible for these fluctuations."

TARIFF PASSES HOUSE BY VOTE OF 210 TO 90

Washington, Sept. 16.—Finally approved by the House, 210 to 90, the administration tariff bill became law today. The unfinished business of the Senate, Republican leaders expected final legislation, Senate adoption of the conference report, before the end of next week.

Democratic opponents had reserved all points of order and planned to attempt to get the bill back to conference for amendment, particularly of the sections granting broad authority to the President over tariff rates and classifications. Similar efforts in the House failed.

BOY SCOUTS ENTERTAINED ROTARIANS WITH SUPPER

The Lubbock Rotarians had prof enough that the Boy Scouts of Lubbock appreciate them in the entertainment given them Friday night at the Tumble N Pool.

A calf for barbecue was furnished by J. A. Wilson, whose interest in the boys has been marked by his efforts to help them in their every undertaking, with Martin's Bakery bread as evidence of their good will toward the boys. Martin & Wicott furnished the coffee, and Chris Harwell the beans, which, together with the son-of-a-gun deliciously prepared, made that one of the grandest feeds anyone could wish for.

MEMPHIS BOYS AND GIRLS TO HOLD AGRICULTURAL SHOW

Memphis, Sept. 16.—The Boys and Girls Agricultural Club Show will be held here at the Fair Park September 22, in order that the club members may compete for the Dallas Fair trip offered by the State Fair Association.

COTTON FIRE AT ROTAN DOES $3,000 DAMAGE

Rotan, Sept. 9.—A fire at the public cotton yard last night did about $3,000 damage, partly insured. The origin of the fire was thought to have come from fire at one of the gins.

Oliver Griswold, of Galveston, arrived here Sunday morning for a three weeks visit with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Griswold. Young Mr. Griswold will receive his degree from the School of Medicine of the State University next year, and has an excellent record in that school.

He has been in charge of a free clinic, this being one of the free clinics conducted by the city for the poor classes.—Charendon News.

Mrs. Minnie Harris of Lakeview, Texas, spent a few hours in Tulsa Tuesday, visiting her cousin, Barnett O'Bryan. She was on her way to Lubbock.—Tulsa Herald.

President Harding Vetoes Bonus Bill Say Reports

Washington, Sept. 16.—Information that President Harding had made up his mind definitely to veto the soldiers' bonus bill reached senators today from some of his close advisers. They said his message of disapproval would be sent to the House next Thursday.

After receiving this word, the majority leaders made an informal preliminary canvass of the Senate, which was said to have shown 34 votes against overriding a veto, or two more than the number necessary to prevent final enactment of the bonus legislation.

This margin was understood, however, to be reduced by some friends of the President as too narrow and they expected Mr. Harding to call several senators to the White House before Tuesday for a discussion of the situation. With many senators absent from Washington, it was asserted by some that it was difficult to assess Senate sentiment at this time.

Many of the absentees, it was said, could not possibly get back to Washington in time to vote. Five senators are in Europe, while four others are in the far west. Several others would be detained by their illness or that of members of their families.

Mr. Harding's advisers expect him to set forth in vigorous manner his reasons for a veto. From the first he has insisted that bonus legislation should carry a method of financing it and he also had voiced disapproval of "piece meal" payment to the world war veterans, declaring that it will be better to postpone payment than to make it in such a manner.

Should the bonus bill be returned to the House, managers of it there planned to move promptly to pass it over the veto. The general belief at the Capitol was that far more than the necessary two-thirds majority could be obtained there to override the veto.

ADDITIONAL PREMIUMS OF WOMAN'S DEPT. AT THE FAIR

In order to make the woman's exhibit even more attractive, the Fair management has added the following premiums:

- Best canned friend chicken, in glass, first $1, second 50c, third ribbon.
- Best canned fried steak, in glass, premiums same as above.
- Best canned boiled meat, in glass, premiums, same as above.
- Best canned veal, in glass, premiums, same.
- Best one quart jar fruit juices, premiums, same.
- Best collection fruits and vegetables in tin, first $2.00, second $1, third ribbon.
- Best exhibit dried vegetables and fruits, not less than four varieties, one quart each, premiums same as above.

The Woman's Building will be one of the most attractive places to visit at the South Plains Fair. Miss Marsh and her assistants are bending every effort to fill this building with exhibits that will be worth going a long distance to see. The women of the South Plains are requested to co-operate. Miss Swift, District Home Demonstration Agent of the district, will judge the exhibits in this building.

TAHOKA MERCHANT HAS BEEN MISSING SINCE SUN.

Tahoka, Sept. 12.—A country-wide search is being made in Lynn county for J. E. Stokes, aged sixty years, local furniture dealer, who has been missing in Tahoka since early Sunday morning. He left no word as to his intentions before departure. Anyone knowing of his whereabouts is requested to wire J. B. Stokes, Tahoka, Texas.

REV. SOWELL WILL HOLD MEETING AT LOVINGTON

Rev. T. B. Sowell and wife left Friday for Lovington, N. M., where Rev. Sowell will conduct a revival meeting.

He is an able preacher, and we are sure that through his influence and directions, the meeting will be a success.

RED RIVER COUNTY BONDS ARE APPROVED

Austin, Sept. 15.—An issue of $40,000 Red River county conservation and reclamation district No. 3 bonds bearing six per cent and maturing serially, was approved by the attorney general's department; also approved an issue of $10,000 Sour Lake independent school district bonds bearing five per cent and maturing serially.

Guy Hufstader, well known law enforcement officer, whose activities since the beginning of the railroad strike have been directed entirely on keeping up with conditions in the striking centers, and who has been away from Lubbock for some time in that work, returned last week, and will be here in the employ of the Santa Fe as a special officer. Guy is well known as a fearless officer, and is feared by the lawless element of this section.

John Berry and W. R. Winn, of Galveston, representing the Southern Pacific Company, Atlantic Steamship Lines, of which Mr. Winn is traveling freight agent, were here the first of the week transacting business.

KU KLUX KLAN HOLD MEETING SOUTH OF LORENZO

W. B. Winters tells us that while out driving last Monday night, he and his wife discerned outlined against the sky line a fiery cross, and desiring to see what it could be headed that way, and after driving for sometime he came out in a large pasture, and before him was a circle of cars, the number being un-estimable, and within the circle was a countless number of white robed figures, while on the fringe of the cars guards walked their posts, making it impossible for anyone but Klansmen to enter.

Mr. Winters tells us that when one of the guards passed near he accosted him and asked him how many Klansmen were present and he said there were more than 3,000, and named almost every county on the Plains from which they came.

Mr. Winters says the cross was raised at least 40 feet in the air and was illuminated and could be easily seen for thirty miles or more. It is supposed that the Klansmen were holding a barbecue, and quite a number of visitors were present, as much of the juicy meat and bread and pickles were placed near the cars and the occupants were told to help themselves.—Ralls Banner.

MAYFIELD WILL FIGHT EVERY INCH

Austin, Sept. 14.—Earle B. Mayfield, democratic nominee for United States senator from Texas, declared that he will "contest on every inch of ground the attacks of those who would destroy the integrity of the democratic party," in a statement issued today on the proposed fusion of anti-Klax Klan democrats and republicans to nominate a candidate to oppose Mayfield.

"There can be no fusion because democrats do not fuse with the republican party or with any other political party that would destroy democratic principles" the statement said. "Those who participate in a democratic primary and pledge themselves to support the democratic nominee and then go back on their word and fuse with republicans are not democrats."

Mayfield referred to a meeting of prominent Texas democrats and republicans at a New York hotel on August 30, at which he said an opponent to him in the senatorial race was agreed upon. He said this man probably will be nominated at the meeting of anti-klan forces in Dallas Saturday, but did not name him.

PER CAPITA CIRCULATION INCREASED DURING AUGUST

Washington, Sept. 12.—Everybody's cash on hand increased by 46 cents during August, according to a circulation statement issued today by the Treasury.

On September 1 the per capita circulation of money throughout the country was $39.93 as compared with $39.47 on August 1 and with $42.99 on September 1 a year ago. The total amount of money in circulation on September 1 was $4,395,506,927, while the population of the country was estimated at 110,017,000 persons.

LOWER RATE ON FEEDSTUFFS IS ASKED

Austin, Sept. 16.—Support of the State marketing department to the movement started by the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association to obtain reduced rates on cattle feed shipments to relieve a shortage, was urged in a telegram sent today to the Texas congressional delegation by C. E. Baughman, marketing commissioner. Baughman said the state department will assist in locating feed stuffs also.

BOOTLEGGERS CAPTURED AT SLATON WEDNESDAY EVE.

Frank Johnson and Jack Fowler, bootleggers, were brought to the Lubbock county jail here Wednesday, by Guy Hufstader and Deputy Sheriff, W. B. Jones.

Jones and Hufstader had not been on the trail of the bootleggers very long when they located their cars, and approached them just as they were transferring the liquor from one car to another, eight quarts being captured.

WANT CUT RATE ON COTTON TO MILLS

Austin, Sept. 16.—Reduction in freight rates on cotton transported to Texas cotton mills ranging from 10 to 33 per cent, based on distance, were ordered today by the state railroad commission. The new schedule calls for a minimum rate of 18c per 100 pounds for 20 miles while the former rate was 28c. The new maximum charge is 67 cents for over 210 miles.

Sunday was a great day in Lubbock, with most of the afternoon activities terminating at the depot, when the east bound train, some few hours late, left with a majority of the young people beyond the high school age aboard for the various towns where are located the leading colleges and universities of Texas and other states.

No doubt the largest crowd that has assembled at the station since last fall, when our champion stock-judging team was met by the school on their return from Fort Worth, where they had contested for the championship were present, the crowds comparing equally in enthusiasm.

The importance of that day is yet to be determined. Schooldays will soon be over, and those young people, equipped with such knowledge as they will take upon themselves, will enter upon the various professional or business careers as they desire, to make their leaving here Sunday morning the beginning of an illustrious and worthy history of their lives.

Bright-eyed, ambitious youths they were. Going away with that sense of determination which characterizes the youngsters of this great country, they will enter their respective schools equal to any task placed upon them, and with sufficient courage and stickability to receive the full benefit of their golden opportunities.

Lubbock is fortunate to be represented by these young people in the various institutions of learning. The interest their parents have shown in their welfare by sending them away is commendable within itself, and to know that the "folks back home" are counting on their making the very best of every opportunity, we are sure they are inspired to put forth the very best effort they can muster in gaining an enviable record in their respective schools.

The things the young people of Lubbock have done heretofore in school work is a dim reflection of what they will accomplish this year, for some of them are going for their last year's work, some for the second, and third, and an equally enthusiastic delegation will enter upon their first year's college work, ambitious to make a showing in the work they enter.

We are proud of the records of our young people, especially in school work, and any advantages or opportunities given them is heartily appreciated by this paper.

Following are names of those who have left Lubbock for school, the name of the institution entered being placed before each list:

- A. & M. at College Station.—Kent Knox, Carlisle Tubbs, Glenn Boat, Wallace Blankenship, Copas Bowen, Ollin Lang, Chardo Pierce, Evert Bean and Royce Waters.
- State University at Austin.—Paul Clark, Gordon Goss, Maxey Morris, A. B. Conley 3, Rankin Dow, Irens Lowrey, Kenneth Kimbro, Maurice Burford and Herbert Martin.
- John Tarleton at Stephenville.—Leslie Jennings and Buck Overton.
- Terrill Military College at Terrell.—Bill Stevens.
- Kansas University at Lawrence.—Waldo Boyd.
- S. M. U. at Dallas.—Margarite Hussey, Clairice Phillips, Charles Ferguson, Ena Everton, Bud Roberts, Tom Duggan, Mary Dickinson, Wayland Sanders and Arnett Pearson.

- A. C. C. at Abilene.—Ala Burrus, Alta Burrus, Oral Brown, Edwin Martin, J. C. Brown, George Brown and John Young.
- Ward Belmont, at Nashville.—Frances Conley and Blanche Bacon.
- C. I. A., at Denton.—Lila Gibson, Margaret Dupre, Mildred Burgess, Louise McKee, Cecil Sims and Gladys Pryor.

Automobile distributing agencies representing the foremost cars of our country have in Lubbock the ideal point for distribution throughout the South Plains. Some of Lubbock's automobile agencies distribute throughout 28 Plains counties. Lubbock's distributors keep the most complete stock of parts on hand at all times.

A general idea of the importance of Lubbock as an automobile distributing point can be had from the fact that one agency alone sold in one year more than $200,000 worth of cars. One year sales in Lubbock passed the $800,000 mark. Other large Agencies not represented hereon are locating in Lubbock at this time from which point they will distribute to more than 25 counties.

In Lubbock people of the South Plains have access to the many agencies represented; to the most complete stock of parts and the best mechanical service. The quality of car or the price suitable to your needs and demands can be found in Lubbock.

1922 Automobile Prices are Lowest Ever Known

With the coming of business depression that generally affected all lines of business throughout the country, the automobile industry was the first to feel its effect and the first to immediately adjust prices and quicken the return of normalcy. Competition in quality and price became keener and keener as months passed until today the buyer has the advantage of higher quality and lowest prices ever known in the industry.

Crosby County Agent and Delegation of Farmers Were Here Friday to Visit Lubbock Experiment Station Farm

Last Friday a party of 45 to 50 farmers from Crosby County, together with their county agricultural agent, Mr. J. W. Jackson, spent the day in visiting the Experiment Farm at Lubbock. The parties brought their dinner, which, together with home grown watermelons, was served under the trees at the noon hour and the tour of the farm was continued in the afternoon.

After the inspection of the experimental plants growing in the field, the party gathered at the office and studied together the data on different comparative methods, practices and varieties in farming on the Plains, as explained from the records by Supt. R. E. Karper.

There was a deep interest shown among all of the farmers present, both in the work as viewed in the field trials as well as the past records of performance and they plan to make an annual event of this trip to the Station, and plan on greatly enlarging their number in attendance.

Mr. Jackson came to Crosby County as their County Agent this past spring and has 19 communities organized and is a live agent. The farmers are well organized in Crosby, are wide awake and thinking farmers and are working hard together for the development of agriculture in their section.

The previous week there was a group of 20 farmers, five auto loads, drove up from Jones county to visit the Experiment Farm here and inspect the experiments under way.

There was an average of 20 visitors a day at the station during the month of August.

The good the experiment station is doing in helping the farmers to realize better results from their work is noticeable, and that is no doubt the greatest institution maintained for the betterment of this country, and we heartily appreciate the interest the farmers have taken in the experiments that have been made.

Mr. Karper is one of the best agriculturists in the state, and it is well for the farmers to take notice of the work he is doing.

If there is a matter pertaining to farming which you would like to know more about, we are sure that the experiment station is the best place to go for instructions, and Mr. Karper would appreciate an opportunity to serve you.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lubbock county, greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Seth Brown, David Armstrong, J. W. Stanley and Mary E. Stanley, husband and wife, Parris Cox, Gertrude S. Jester and her husband, E. A. Jester; Joshua W. Stanley, Ellen B. Kite and A. W. Newlin; and the heirs and legal representatives of each of the following named persons: Seth Brown, David Armstrong, J. W. Stanley, Mary E. Stanley, Parris Cox, Gertrude S. Jester, E. A. Jester, Jehu L. Kite, Charlotte Kite, Hester Armstrong, Joshua W. Stanley, Ellen B. Kite and A. W. Newlin, (whose places of residence is unknown to Plaintiff) by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Lubbock County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Lubbock, Texas, on the 2nd Monday in December, A. D. 1922, the same being the 11th day of December, A. D. 1922, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 14th day of September, A. D. 1922, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 1623, wherein S. A. Pool, is plaintiff, and Seth Brown, David Armstrong, J. W. Stanley and Mary E. Stanley, husband and wife; Parris Cox, Gertrude S. Jester and her husband, E. A. Jester; Joshua W. Stanley, Ellen B. Kite and A. W. Newlin; and the heirs and legal representatives of each of the following named persons: Seth Brown, David Armstrong, J. W. Stanley, Mary E. Stanley, Parris Cox, Gertrude S. Jester, E. A. Jester, Jehu L. Kite, Charlotte Kite, Hester Armstrong, Joshua W. Stanley, Ellen B. Kite and A. W. Newlin, are defendants, and said petition alleging:

Suit in trespass to try title for the title and possession of the northwest quarter and southeast quarter of survey one hundred and thirty-nine (139), in block C, certificate No. 395, E. L. & R. R. R. Co., patented to Seth Brown on January 30th, 1879, by patent 175, volume 45; said land sued for is located in the northeast part of Lubbock county, in State of Texas, and contains 160 acres.

Plaintiff sues also to cancel an apparent vendor's lien on said southeast quarter of said section 139, block C, as against Ellen B. Kite, and her unknown heirs and legal representatives. Plaintiff alleges that he executed and delivered to Ellen B. Kite four notes, each for $300.00, dated June 24th, 1915, due one, two, three and four years, respectively, after date respectively; that he has paid all of said notes to Ellen B. Kite, but she has failed to execute a proper release of the lien.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Lubbock, Texas, this 14th day of September, A. D. 1922.

LOCAL PASTOR ATTENDED PRESBYTERY AT BARSTOW

Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Shelby Robbins, returned Friday from Barstow, where they attended the Presbytery.

Rev. Lewis is one of the big preachers of the country, and his grip on the men of his church is strong and lasting. His straightforward dealings with them, public spiritedness and progressiveness has won their admiration, and his work in Lubbock is there on account of altogether remarkable.

A LANDMARK OF LUBBOCK'S PROGRESS

The steady and continuous growth of the Lubbock State Bank is a parallel to the sound growth of our town and city. Great strides have been made in the development of the resources of our community. These developments demand financial strength and ability.

And it is with pride that the officials of this bank watch the results of their determination to assist in every conservative manner every worthy enterprise that seeks to make its abode in the great South Plains Section.

Printed Butter Wrappers Have Displaced Unprogressive Method of House to House Peddling In Selling Butter In Lubbock

Diversification is the life of farming. This fact is well known to Lubbock county farmers, who have been trying it so long that progressiveness is the keynote of their activities, and the Avalanche is glad to know of their new ventures.

J. D. Tomlinson, for a good many years a figure in all progressive moves in Lubbock county, who has been a leader among the farmers of this section, and who is a diversifier of the first class, and whose bank account speaks for his genuine business judgment, was in the Avalanche office Saturday and placed an order with the job department for a supply of printed butter wrappers to be printed in two colors.

Our job department has been equipped to take care of all kinds of work, and while the writer is not partial to any line of industry in this country, we will have to admit that to hear that Kelly automatic feeder purr in printing for our progressive farmers is about the most beautiful music we are treated to. We like to know that they are back of their products so strong that they are not ashamed to have their farm name, address, telephone number, and other information printed on the wrappers. In fact they are taking such pride in their dairy products that they are willing to spend a small fraction of a cent a pound to let their customers know that they are getting the genuine, the product with the distinctive wrapper that tells where it is from, and we have heard much favorable comment on this system.

One lady told the writer a few weeks ago that she had waited for several hours for the "farmer that sells butter in a printed wrapper" to bring his butter to the grocery. It happened to be that that farmer was one who leaves his butter at the Spikes Grocery, and it has proven of such quality that Mr. Spikes has orders to deliver the butter to some of his customers regularly.

Using butter wrappers that are printed is a distinction. It proves to the thoughtful purchaser that the maker is not ashamed of his product, and assures them of exact identity of the product they are buying.

The old method of having to peddie butter all over town to dispose of it is a thing of the past. Genuine business judgment has intervened, making the printed wrapper distinguish the genuine from unknown brands, and the thoughtful housewife is delighted to know that she can telephone her groceryman to deliver that "butter that Mr. so and so brings you, who has his name printed on it."

We heartily approve the progressiveness Mr. Tomlinson has shown in employing the printer to help sell his butter, and assure him of getting results.

We guarantee Avalanche printers to be A No. 1 salesmen.

Ed. D. Allen Now Member of Local Real Estate Firm

Ed D. Allen, for the past two years connected with the Sanitary Barber Shop, made a deal with Newman Payne last week, making himself owner of Mr. Payne's beautiful residence on 9th Street, his interest in the barber shop being included in the transaction.

Mr. Allen is now member of the real estate firm of Duncan & Perry, and since going in with that firm has distinguished himself as a realtor of the first class.

When he came to Lubbock five years ago he purchased the well known M. Green farm near Canyon, which property he has managed so successfully that it has strengthened his interest and confidence in the genuineness of the plains country.

Mr. Allen has been in Lubbock county long enough to be well acquainted with all the old timers who are glad to know that his entire time is now spent in attracting others attention to the merits of our lands, and they know well that though he is a booster of the first class, and a good talker, he will confine his talk entirely to the merits of the country, and that when he locates a man here he will not be told anything but that the country will prove up to the dot.

We are glad to know that Mr. Allen is associated with the Duncan & Perry firm in that those gentlemen have conducted their business in a very commendable manner, and have proven their knowledge of the land peddling art, and in Mr. Allen's associating with them, three live wires are working together for the betterment of Lubbock county's population.

It is not so much the number of people that are brought here but the kind, and we know that our realtors have that in view, as can be seen from a survey of the population. They have brought the most substantial citizens from all parts of the state, and other states, to take part in the development of the greatest country anywhere.

We assure our realtors that the eyes of prospectors from everywhere are upon the plains, and when they go after their business in an energetic and systematic manner, that great achievements in land selling will be the immediate results.

A good many years ago when it was easy to make a living without effort, there was an element that persisted in entering the real estate business for a restful occupation, and that fact made the business a matter of joking discussion among the people, but that time has long past. It is learned that the possibilities for doing things in the real estate business are just as numerous as in other trades, and men with foresight, energy and ability have made that profession one of the cleanest, most profitable and worthy in existence, and in Mr. Allen aligning himself with that profession Lubbock county is given the efforts of a businessman whose work in helping settle this country will meet with success.

ROTARY NOTES

By I. T. Martin.

The Senior class of the high school furnished the luncheon at the Wednesday Rotary Club meeting. These young folks have been serving the luncheon for the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and whenever they put on a banquet you are sure of something good to eat.

Skeeter Hunt was chairman of the entertainment committee, and called upon Jed to make a report of their trip to Galveston. While I think Jed thought this was passing the buck as Skeeter is secretary, he arose to the occasion and gave us a good report which is as follows: Of the meeting of the presidents and secretaries which was held at Galveston, the object of the meeting was to discuss the different problems that confront the clubs and try to solve them. Forty-seven out of the sixty-four clubs in Texas were represented. The International Committee has decided it will be necessary for towns to show sixty different classifications before they will be given a charter. Therefore, we were lucky to get a charter when we did. It is necessary for all members to leave a written excuse with the secretary when they are going to be out of town for more than one meeting. If absent more than four meetings in succession they will be automatically dropped.

Luther Stark of Orange, Texas, made an excellent talk on the importance of all Rotarians supporting the University in any way they can. He emphasized the importance of the legislature granting all appropriations asked for by the Board of Regents. Luther is president of the Board and states that in asking for these appropriations they cut out every unnecessary thing in making their budget and that when the legislature cuts down these amounts asked for it simply means that some part of the University is to be neglected.

The most important action taken was the resolution discussed to raise $15,000.00 this year to assist in carrying out the boy scout movement. At present there are 250,000 boys in Texas who are eligible to be scouts, but only 19,000 belong to this organization. At present one man is trying to look after all of this work. The Rotary Club proposes to raise $15,000 with which to pay the salary and expenses of three additional organizers. These organizers will be sent to any committee asking assistance and see that the boy scout councils are organized. By doing this the Rotary hopes to raise the number of boy scouts in Texas during the coming year.

Excellent talks were also made in regard to the work Rotary is doing among the crippled children. A great deal of time was also taken to discuss the means of keeping boys in school by helping them secure work outside of their school hours with which to defray their expenses. A number of clubs have already done a great deal of good in helping boys through colleges. The Dallas club alone has financed something over one hundred boys in this manner.

Beaumont was selected as the meeting place for the District Conference which will be held March 20 and 21, 1923.

Skeeter called attention to the fact that some of the farmers were pretty sore at the Plains Journal, especially the editor whose advertisement appeared in the Fair catalogue reading "West Texas farmers are famous for two things especially: loyalty to West Texas indusries and BOARDMINDNESS." High Pockets passed the buck to the proof reader of the Avalanche saying that he didn't mean to insinuate at all that our farmers were block heads, but that they were Broadminded business men.

The main talk at the luncheon was made by Chas. Ferguson, and everyone present expressed themselves as saying that it was a real gem on boys work. This is the second time that Chas. Ferguson has made a talk before the Rotary Club and he is a whole program within himself. Have never seen a young man of his age with such a vocabulary. He has a way of expressing himself that reaches the hearts of his listeners and his talk and advice to Rotarians in regard to boys work was a sermon we should all take home. If we will just act upon his words there is no question but what the boys work of Lubbock will accomplish a great deal of good.

Col. Mullican was then called upon to make the announcement and often is the case was interrupted by some one in the audience who asked that he talk on base ball. Col. Mullican is president of the Kiwanis club and naturally this is a sore subject with all Kiwanians, owing to the fact that the Rotary club has romped on their base ball team twice. It is hard to get the Colonel in a tight place however, and he came back at the speaker telling him that as long as he was requested to speak on base ball that he would make an excellent explanation as to why the Kiwanis club lost the last ball game. He said they had a real ball team in the Kiwanis club but didn't think it necessary to get it out, that their second team or what they term their scrub team, could handle a team from the Rotary. Said that they were going to play a real base ball game some day with the Rotarians and bring out a good team.

O. E. Radford, Rotarian, former resident of Lubbock, but now of Abilene, and member of the firm of J. M. Radford, Wholesale Grocers, was a visitor and was called upon for a little talk. Rad said that it always seems good to get back home and that he felt like Lubbock was his home. We are always glad to have you with us Rad, and hope that some day you will come back to stay.

O. F. Sensabaugh made announcement that the boy scouts would entertain the Rotarians and their families at the Tumble N Pool tonight at 6:30.

Following is a list of the visitors: J. C. Burns, guest of Andy Wilson; O. E. Radford, guest of Jed Rix; Chas. Ferguson, guest of Earl Hunt; Rankin Dow, guest of J. L. Dow; Clark Mullican, guest of Jed Rix; J. B. Cardwell, guest of Dude Germany; H. V. Edsall, guest of Andy Wilson; S. S. Rush, guest of Chris Harwell.

BIBLE CONFERENCE AND LEAGUE RALLY PLANNED

At a meeting of the members of the Methodist church held Thursday night at the church, plans for taking care of the delegates who will attend the Bible Conference here the last three days of the month, to terminate on the 5th Sunday with a League Rally, was made.

It is arranged to have all delegates entertained in the homes of the members which will do a great deal in helping them become better acquainted.

It is believed that the conference is to play a conspicuous part in enlivening interest throughout the various churches of the district, as some of the most able interpreters of the meaning of God's words as set out in the Bible, will be here to discuss the various books.

The interest in church work in Lubbock is enthusiastically manifested at all such meetings, and our people are to be congratulated for the splendid work they have accomplished.

The beautiful church, with its architecturally arranged flower gardens, lawns and spacious playgrounds, is a monument to the progressiveness of its members, and it is believed that our churches are wonderfully instrumental in attracting the very best citizens here.

Remember that the success of the Bible Conference and the League Rally depends greatly upon the interest and enthusiasm you place back of them, and your best efforts are desired by the great movement.

LIFE'S PATHWAY

Have You Observed—

That sometimes the worst thing you can do is to praise a man. That one kind of fame is to get your name in the papers as one who recommends some kind of patent medicine. That a successful man is one who knows what he can do and is not afraid of it. That a plain woman seldom needs a chaperone, as she is generally safe anywhere. That sometimes life is what we make it and at other times it is what someone else makes it for us. That when some men have found themselves, they haven't found much. That a smile is quite appreciative for both summer and winter wear. That like some men, waves come to the sea shore in great style and go away broke. That the man who rides a hobby thinks he is entitled to the middle of the road. That a fool's money and a wise man are soon united.

Altitudinal

Not Thinking Alike

She (rushing)—Don't you just adore moonshine, dear? He (absently)—It might do if you be sure there was no potash in it. She—Potash? He (hastily)—I must have misunderstood you.

Kissing

(Follow my subject, boys) There are two general kinds of kissing—public and private, and yet no one has ever figured out just where the dividing line falls. Some of you might add that there are legitimate kisses and stolen kisses. We admit it, but the least said about the latter kind the better.

As a rule of thumb, however, it may be said that the public kiss is chiefly practiced at railway stations, on the stage, and in France.

The private kiss is practiced everywhere else and frequently in public. The stolen variety comes in this class, so any classification is about right after all.

Private kissing is observed in and out of season, in and out of doors and in and out of matrimony.

It is responsible for nine-tenths of the engagements, seven-eighths of the divorces, one-sixtieth of the microbes, but none of the babies.

The best place to observe the exchange of the public kiss is at a railroad station, at the passenger gate leading to the trains.

This form of kiss is conducted very much like a game. One faction—or team—stands inside of the gate. The other faction—or team—gets off the train and rushes thru the gate.

The object of the game is to catch sight of your opponent—i. e., a cousin or aunt or mother-in-law or something—grab her roughly but enthusiastically and plant a kiss in her general direction.

One's first wild attempts in this form of civilized seduction frequently leads to knocked-off glasses, disarranged veils, and other minor damages. Persons sometimes come through these encounters minus a string of coral beads or some other bit of cherished adornment.

The psychological value of the station kiss is that it relieves your conscience. By rushing in and planting a miscellaneous kiss on the impending guests, you assault them with the appearance of hospitality—whether that's your true feeling or not.

Among the French forms, the male double-check encounter has been frequently analyzed. The perplexing question is: Why, after having impressed a kiss on one cheek, does he continue on the other? One would imagine that the Frenchman, having discovered his mistake, wouldn't repeat it.

Apparently he plants the second one to take the victim's mind off the first one.

It is an old saying that practice makes perfect. It is true in kissing as in everything else, with the added feature that even the practice is pleasant. However, sometimes a nice discrimination is necessary in choosing a girl to practice on.

If ever you see a fellow with a few parallel scratches on his face, and a thoughtful expression, you can be sure that somewhere there is a girl who didn't want to be kissed.

$2 down brings you this Corona

SEND no money now. Simply call or phone and we will demonstrate a Corona to you. Then, if you are satisfied that it is equal to any $100 typewriter, pay $2 down and small monthly payments until you have paid $55 in all. Or if you prefer, pay $50 cash.

BUSINESS men keep Corona at home and call it their "private secretary." Salesmen carry it on the road and save time and stenographic hire.

The fact is that no typewriter in the world has proved itself able to withstand the punishment Corona has taken during its 16 years of service.

Doctors, lawyers and merchants use it for office work in preference to heavy "standard" typewriters; students in every university in the land are turning in neater notes and essays since Corona came.

All through the war, thousands of Coronas were in use on every little front. Almost every war correspondent carried his Corona.

Women use Corona for their personal correspondence. Children are learning to do beautiful coronatyping.

And all the time you are paying, you will have the use of Corona—in fact, you can very easily do extra work with this little typewriter which will pay for it several times over!

Free service for one year goes with each Corona.

"Dirty, worn-out oil caused it"

You can't drive your car on "dead" oil and escape serious—if not irreparable—damage to your engine.

The best oil, after 500 to 800 miles' service, is bound to lose its lubricating value—become fouled by dirt and contaminated by gasoline.

Such a lifeless mixture can't protect your bearings against friction—nor hold your cylinders power-tight and leak-proof.

And you are surely piling up future trouble and expense every minute your engine runs on it.

Play safe by having your crankcase cleaned out regularly. Look for the SUNOCO Motor Oil sign. It's the mark of a dealer who gives crankcase service.

It's your opportunity to try SUNOCO Motor Oil—the wonderful new engine lubricant. You'll be astonished how much better your car runs—at the money you save.

SHORT WEIGHING THE PUBLIC

Shortweighting the public is one of the meanest ways on earth of taking the public's money that has ever been practiced, yet it looks like from the reports in some papers of the work of the weights and measure department of the State that it is being generally practiced throughout the State, and even after the necessary warning has been given, continue, and we believe they should certainly be punished along with the common herd of criminals. There is no excuse for short measures or short weights, especially after having the laws explained to them and their scales tested. We note that 104 cases have been filed in the courts of Amarillo against firms who are charged with short weights and measures in various ways.

The buying public has probably been beaten out of more money this way than any other, and while we do not mean to say that all merchants are dishonest, intentionally, there are many more of them short-weighting than they think for. Taking the other fellow's weight and passing them on to the public is responsible for a lot of this, but the law requires more care than this, and the weights and measures department of Texas proposes to educate the people in correcting these things, and if talking and writing will not do it, it seems that the strong arm of the Federal Law will be brought to bear upon them. The inspector was in Lubbock recently on his official round, and stated to the Avalanche that he found very few irregularities here, and these were promptly corrected. He also stated that comparatively few are found in the towns the size of Lubbock, but in the smaller places and in the larger cities he has much trouble.

HOLD YOUR COTTON

Government reports and private reports show cotton deteriorating, with lessened production. There is also increased consumption, and every indication is that there will be pretty nearly a cotton famine before another crop can be made. Markets are going up, and there is no sound reason why they should not continue to do so. Dry weather over Texas generally, damaged by cotton worms, boll weevil and dry weather, are sure to cut the Texas crop lower than estimates a month ago. Cloudy

Editor of Portales News Sees Lubbock Catches Inspiration

Saturday and Sunday the News representative visited in Lubbock and Slaton, Texas. For some time the marvels of Lubbock as the liveliest town on the plains of Texas had been drifting in the breeze till the writer had considerable curiosity to see the town and learn the reasons for her wonderful growth. We saw Lubbock. We learned the success of Lubbock. Every man, woman and child in Lubbock are strong for Lubbock. They are for Lubbock enterprises. They believe in keeping Lubbock money in Lubbock. In fact they lose no opportunity in speaking a good word for Lubbock. Lubbock has some beautiful residences and public buildings, but her laws and streets will not compare with Portales. The laws were brown in many instances, and only three real pretty laws were seen in the town. But Lubbock is not so fortunate as Portales in having such a wonderful water supply. Portales laws are pretty and could be made more attractive by a little more public spirit on the part of her people. Lubbock water rent is out of reach of a number of property owners who would use it on lawns and flower gardens. The electric light rate in Lubbock is one-half that in Portales, yet Lubbock has not a street light. That country has suffered severely from the drought. Cotton there is not half as good as in Roosevelt county. But in spite of all this Lubbock is preparing to launch her annual fair.

Mention the condition of the Lubbock to a Lubbock citizen and you will be told that the town is growing so fast that it is impossible to keep up with the street work. The business section is paved and in the residential section some paving is being done with caliche. You will have to take your hat off to the loyalty of the Lubbock people to Lubbock, but for natural resources Portales and Roosevelt county have them skinned a city block. Here water weather in Georgia and other eastern states means more damage by boll weevil.

The co-operative marketing associations of nine states are all functioning, with ample funds to make all advances needed by farmers, and there is no sound reason for a bale of distress cotton going on the market and the price coming down, or even remaining where it is now.

Consumption of American cotton for year ending July 31, 1922 was 12,804,000 bales, against 10,000,000 bales the year before. Needs of mills for the coming year are put at 13,000,000. Forecast now is for a production of only 11,000,000 bales, and this will undoubtedly be cut down. The surplus on hand August 1st was only 4,460,000, or half what it was a year ago.

The world is bound to have the cotton now in the hands of the farmers of the South. It is up to them to have some say as to the price to be paid, and the only way this is possible is by holding and marketing very slowly.—Southland Farmer.

The matter of holding cotton is a very ticklish proposition. Under normal conditions we have noticed that selling your cotton as it is ginned has proven about as satisfactory as any other way, but in these times of reconstruction, and the unsettled condition of the world, with Europe in a dreadful state of affairs, and on the verge of plunging into war again most any moment, it is hard to see which is the proper step to take. It looks reasonable, however, that the price of cotton should go higher and we give the figures above as a sort of guide to the fellow who has cotton to sell.

TERRY COUNTY COMING TO THE FAIR STRONG

The Lubbock Avalanche says all things are now ready for the South Plains Fair, which is going to be bigger and better than ever. A new agricultural building 60x100 feet has been completed and promises to be filled to capacity this year. Outside the many displays of the products and livestock of the South Plains, many attractions have been secured in the way of shows, etc. Terry county will be there strong, Dow, despite the fact that the Avalanche would not tell its many readers last year that it won first prize and mentioned every other county but it. Of course the Terryites did not believe this was purposely done, but it hurt just the same, and there was strong talk of ignoring the South Plains Fair this year, but with the apology of the fair management and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the better judgement of our leading men the incident was forgotten.—Terry County Herald.

We are glad indeed to know that Terry County is going to be at the fair good again this year, and we assure the people of that county that it was not the intention of the Avalanche to overlook the Terry County exhibit. The South Plains Fair Management has always considered the Terry County exhibit of great importance, and our fair would hardly be just right without Terry being represented.

PIONEER TEXAS EDITOR HERE FOR TREATMENT

F. N. Oliver, of Spur, has been in Lubbock the past several days for treatment under a local specialist.

Mr. Oliver has been associated with the journalistic life of Texas for the past forty years, having printed the first paper in the State to be printed on paper manufactured in the State, which he did in 1888, when he issued his Oak Cliff Sunday Weekly, on a smooth white paper manufactured at the Lang & Whorton Mill, the only paper manufacturers in the State, at that time.

The Oak Cliff Sunday Weekly was moved from Pilot Point to a wheat field, which is now the main streets of that thriving suburb of Dallas, there being only three farmers on what is now the townsite when he located his paper there which was printed for a land company, which was selling the town lots at that time.

Mr. Oliver continued the publication of his splendid paper for some fourteen years, during which time he was mayor of Oak Cliff, which was at that time independent of Dallas.

He has been associated with many progressive moves in the journalistic work of the State, and was one of the first members of the Texas Press Association, in which he was an enthusiastic worker.

It is interesting to hear him relate the many interesting experiences of newspaper life in the early days in Texas, and we are sure that thru his efforts much valuable work has been accomplished.

He will be in Lubbock for some time, and we are in hopes that the local specialists will be able to relieve him of the malady which threatens him.

WHAT OTHERS SAY AND HOW THEY SAY IT

DO ANIMALS REMEMBER?

I have read an article in which a trapper denies that animals have a real memory. He admitted that most of them knew enough to avoid a trap after an experience or two with it, but contended that this was merely a manifestation of the self-preservation instinct.

The same man cited an instance—not at all unfamiliar—of a dog's refusing to hunt with a man who had kicked him. He said that this, too, was only the instinct of all living creatures to avoid injury.

Animals do have a memory—at least some of them do. The trapper's theory would not explain those many evidences of recollection wherein self-preservation plays no part. I once carried a fox-terrier into the house after he had been well-nigh killed by an automobile. His master had just moved into the apartment house, and I had never seen the dog before that day. We moved away two days later, and I did not see the terrier for over four months. Then one day I passed the house—or was about to do so—when out came that dog wagging his stubby tail. He jumped all over me, in a joyful recognition and memory.

An amusing story, significant on this story, is told by my father. As a boy he lived on a farm, and was always a close student of animal nature. The mare he usually drove was old and fat, and would never go faster than a walk unless urged. There were two roads to town, one branching off from the other and a little shorter. It had been Old Maud's custom to take this road, of her own volition, until on one occasion a vicious dog barked at her and snapped at her legs. After that the driver had to be on his guard. Maud would speed up when about fifty yards from the turn-off, and try to get by it before she could be restrained. This showed not only memory, but a sense of planning.

Elephants and apes have often surprised their keepers by the strength of their memory. It is a saying among trainers that elephants and tigers never forget an injury; but they may retaliate even years afterward.

That the shark has a memory has been proven many times, not only by his detection of the shark-hunters' schemes, but by his attention to certain ships from which he has received special food favors.—L. E. Eubanks.

Look out for that Republican Fusion candidate that they are going to put on Saturday at Dallas. The chances are that he is going to make the race between himself and the Democratic nominee as close a race as Jim's was. Jim's crowd claimed to be the only Democrats and if so what are the others? Politics are getting pretty badly mixed in Texas. The signs of the times are at least refreshing in that it shows that a lot of people are doing some thinking for themselves. The time was when a Southern man, ourselves included, dare not think until he had consulted the party leaders. That time is past. Men are thinking as they never thought before and the women are helping them get right. A brass collar is all right for a dumb brute, but was never intended for a human being.—Lamesa Reporter.

The Herald is inclined to think that there is entirely too much begging going on in our little city. Of course we should endeavor to care for our own sick and needy to the best of our ability, and those within our gates who really need help, for we never know when we are entertaining angels, according to the Bible. But on the other hand, we know when we are entertaining the devil, or those who are just begging to keep from pure D work. Not a few days pass but some stranger is here appealing to the liberality of our people, and of course leaves in a few hours with just what they were looking for and we guess pass it on to the next camper they meet that we are easy birds in Brownfield. We never make an investigation. We have talked with a few of the city fathers including the mayor, and they are in favor of an ordinance prohibiting begging on the streets unless they have a permit. In that way some one could investigate the case and find out if the parties really needed help. Of course this article applies in no way to home people that we all know to be needy—just transients.—Brownfield Herald.

BUSINESS JUDGMENT EMPLOYED BY LOCAL FARMER

B. J. Ditto, owner of a fine ranch ninety-four miles west of Lubbock, and one of our big farmers, whose crop six miles west of the city is about as good as any in the county, but not so good as his usual crop on account of the continued drought, was here Saturday transacting business.

Mr. Ditto is working the farming game in a business manner, and says that his fine hops are returning splendid dividends each year. He sold a good many early spring pigs at five dollars per head at his farm, and declares that as long as he can get that price he is going to keep in the business. He is feeding a great many of them on his farm; having an abundance of feed raised on his ranch west of town, and on his farm here, and says that until the price goes higher than it is now he is going to keep them, though he realizes that in feeding them the high priced feed it may look like using poor business judgment, but he believes it would be disastrous to sacrifice them at this time.

Mr. Ditto is a business farmer-ranchman, and adds much to the wealth of Lubbock county.

E. E. Nix Says It Is Best to Take Care of Farm Land

E. E. Nix, one of the most energetic farmers of the Lubbock country, was here Tuesday with a bale of cotton. Mr. Nix knows that as a producer the Plains cannot be beat, but nevertheless admits that the short crop this year is mighty hard on the farmers.

His cotton will average a bale to each seven or eight acres, in some places the crop being much better, while in others the yield is so bad as to make the average yield small.

In the early spring Mr. Nix had just gotten into his field to plant cotton when a rain caused him to have to stop the work, with only four rows planted. Those rows have proven well worth the effort, for he declares that if all his crop was as good as that part of it he would gather one-half of a bale per acre. Another place in the field is also making heavy production, this being where an old haystack had to be burned before he could go about his work. There is about a half an acre of land that had been well covered by the hay, and it will produce one half of a bale. He declares that the best use to which Lubbock county farmers can put their feedstuffs after heading is to plow them under to enrich the ground. This, he says, must be done before the stalk is dry for the best results to be obtained.

When questioned if it was possible that Lubbock county farmers are cultivating too much land, and failing to cultivate each acre to the best advantage, Mr. Nix declared that that was one of the great mistakes that is being made by our farmers. It is his opinion that if the land was farmed better, each acre being so well cared for that maximum yields would be harvested, that a greater profit would be realized for the year's work.

Lubbock county farmers are working for the betterment of their farms, and we are sure that the discoveries they are making will be material in establishing a business on a profit making basis. We regret very much that lack of rain has lessened the expected cotton production to a great degree, yet it is gratifying to know that farmers are standing the drought with a great deal of optimism, and are seeking the better methods of making each year pay a little more for their work than the one just past.

CLAUENE NEWS ITEMS OF THE PAST WEEK

Quite a brisk norther made its appearance late Saturday night. It made us begin to look up our winter wraps. Sunday and Monday were almost like winter.

Annie Lou Thorp has been quite sick the past week. She suffers a great deal from chronic tonsillitis. Cotton picking is very common in our community. Mr. Leonard Thorp took a bale to the gin Monday morning, making the first one picked in this section. It has been so dry that the cotton is opening very fast and will soon be all out.

W. P. Grimes, of Frederick, Okla., who has been spending a few days in this community, left Wednesday for his home.

The postoffice inspector was over the route one day last week and looking over the situation of starting up the postoffice at this place. His talk seemed very encouraging.

Wesley Williams and wife, are staying at the home of Claude Havens, while Claude is away for a few days. While there, Wesley is doing some painting.

Mrs. J. L. Thorp visited Mrs. Teague Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Elliott and children, visited Wednesday with Mrs. Nickell.

Two airplanes were flying over Moody Friday. They are still new to us and we are quite like prairie dogs yet. We all run to the door and call our nearest neighbor when we hear one coming.

Miss Wilsie Teague, who is attending school at Loop, Texas, came in Saturday to spend a few days. Her mother and sister returned to Loop with her. Mrs. Teague has been elected to a position in that school, and she left Monday to assume her work.

Ulis King was at Brownfield, Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Nickell, who lives near Lubbock, and who has bought a labrador of land near Moody school house, was out here a few days ago, and he says he will move soon to this place and begin the improvements.

Mrs. Elliott has been tendered a school at her old home in Eastland county, and she leaves soon to take up her work.

Sunday school was not so well attended Sunday, on account of the norther. Mrs. Lillie Swofford was elected teacher of the intermediate class to take the place of Mrs. Teague, who resigned on account of having to leave for her school.

A truck load of people went out to Chalk Hill Saturday night to have a moonlight picnic, but the clouds came so thick that there was not much moonshine. But all enjoyed themselves immensely. A camp fire was built on which some delicious coffee was made. The ladies had taken quite a feast of good things to eat, and as usual, this was the best part of the picnic.

The members of the Lorenzo church were complimentary of our work, and expressed a desire to have such piling workers among their ranks, and were assured that such was theirs, that all they need do is to get down to work, and that they would do great good.

YOUNG PEPTOMIST OFF FOR 4th YEAR IN UNIVERSITY

Charley, the son of Rev. and Mrs. C. N. N. Ferguson of the Methodist church, left Friday for Dallas, where he will enter S. M. U. for his fourth year.

Young Ferguson has been active in helping his father to carry on the work of the church throughout the vacation period, and his work with the young people has been especially successful. The Epworth League and Young Peoples Community meetings having been enlivened by his ever ready method of inserting pep into whatsoever kind of meeting he is engaged in.

Young Ferguson is a scholarly preacher, and his sermons have inspired the people of Lubbock to a keener realization of their duties and responsibilities in church work, and the peptomist he is enables him to get about his work in a pleasing manner that attracts those acquainted with him.

The very best wishes of many friends go with him to the university.

R. H. MARTIN AT HOME FROM CHICAGO CONVENTION

R. H. Martin, of the Martin Baking Company, returned Sunday night from Chicago, where he attended a convention of bakers, in session all last week in that city. He is an able businessman, and we are sure if he follows up Chicago way had anything new to spring on the conventionists he got full benefit of the deal.

He declared that Lubbock is going to naturally keep on growing, but that just as it is, he is sufficiently well pleased with the town to never want to make a change of location. Mr. Martin is emphatic in his boasting of the great plains country, and is of the opinion that it compares favorably with the best country anywhere in the States.

The convention was well attended, and many interesting reports of baking activities about over the states was received. We are sure Mr. Martin will give his patrons the full benefits of all new ideas received at the convention.

H. H. Griffith, of the Rix Furniture Company, went to Lamesa Monday in the interest of that firm.

AT THE CHURCHES

Baptist Church 375 members of the Sunday school were on time to get their names on the list of those who are faithful, and from reports of the various teachers the same enthusiasm that marked their getting there on time, was made manifest in the class work.

Rev. Bowen seemed at his best at both services Sunday, and as the vacationists are returning home, and are ready for work, the church attendance is rapidly increasing.

The Laymen are also continuing their good work. What is believed to be the greatest meeting that they have participated in this summer was held at Lorenzo Sunday afternoon, with a full house to inspire their very best efforts. The meeting was well carried out, several splendid selections being rendered by the quartette composed of Messrs. Gunn, Bishop, Wendell and Fortenberry.

We do not expect too much of our work at the present, for we will know that we cannot reap and sow at the same time, and are willing to go ahead with the work which we are in, and trust God's blessings upon our work, that a bounteous harvest will be the results of our efforts through his guidance.

The members of the Lorenzo church were complimentary of our work, and expressed a desire to have such piling workers among their ranks, and were assured that such was theirs, that all they need do is to get down to work, and that they would do great good.

Church of Christ Two strong sermons were delivered by Bro. Smith to splendid audiences on last Lord's day.

At the morning hour Acts 2:41-47 was read, with verse 42 supplying the text. "Continuing steadfastly in apostles doctrine and prayer." was the subject for the heart to heart talk by Bro. Smith. Among some of the many quotations given and suggestions offered a few follow:

Just as the Man of God of old laid up God's word in his heart that he might not sin, so the young Christian today seeks wisdom and instruction.

A lack of steadfastness on the part of God's children is what is most needed for the church to accomplish its mission.

As Christians are to be imitators of Christ so should we learn a lesson from Him regarding prayer.

If it was necessary for Him who knew no sin to pray all night to the Father, how much more would we who are weak and sinful, acknowledge God in prayer and seek His guidance thereby.

At the evening hour "The Sin of Substitution" was the subject ably discussed.

Bible Study hour showed 188 present with a splendid collection. All are invited to prayer meeting. Subject for study, Galatians 1 and 2.

"PARDON MY FRENCH" GIVES STAR NEW COMEDY VEIN

"Pardon My French" is the latest Messmore Kendall picture starring Vivian Martin, and it provides a delightful medium for that very vivacious star. Miss Martin plays the part of a young actress who finds her profession too un lucrative and is forced to take the position of maid in a newly-rich household; while another member of the company plays the part of the butler in the family.

The adventures of the maid and the butler are at all times amusing and often dramatic. There is a tale of intrigue and fortune hunting woven into the love story, between Polly and a neighbor, which provide excitement for moments when laughter is stopped. The picture is released by Goldwyn and will be seen at the R. & R. Lindsey Theatre, beginning Friday.

P. B. RALLS FINDS THIS SECTION IN GOOD SHAPE After making a trip by auto thru the Southern portion of Oklahoma, as far east to Oklahoma City and south to Dallas, P. B. Ralls says this section—meaning from Lubbock to the cap-rock east, is in much better condition than any through which he traversed. "It makes it seem that we are in fine shape when a comparison is made," he stated.

Mr. Ralls was in Lubbock Monday of this week attending to business matters.

Committee Has Compiled Startling and Disgraceful Facts About Our Schools

The Avalanche is grateful to the officers of the local Masonic Lodge for the following information concerning Texas schools, which is of vital importance, and should be interested to all concerned.

The reason of this report being made by the Educational Committee of the Grand Lodge of Texas A. F. & A. M. is obvious.

The Masonic order, the writer is prone to believe, is thoroughly disgusted with the present schools, the salaries of our teachers, and the limited educational opportunities of the children of this State, and why should they be otherwise?

The fact that on an average the teachers are paid less than enough to buy the bare necessities of life without outside assistance is a disgrace upon the largest state in the Union insofar as territory is concerned, and what can be made the largest in the Union insofar as business, industrial, social and educational possibilities are concerned.

What is the matter with our educational system? Have we become so unthoughtful of the rising generations that we are blind to their educational needs? Are we of Texas so selfish to spend a few paltry dollars building institutions which, next to the home, are the most substantial pillars upon which our civilization rests?

Are the people of Texas unmindful of the value, importance, security and significance of adequate educational facilities for the children of our Lone Star State? Following is the report:

School Facts in Texas. Compiled from the Records of the Department of Education in the State Capital at Austin, by the Masonic Service and Educational Committee of the Grand Lodge of Texas, A. F. & A. M.

There were 1,233,792 children of school age in Texas in 1921. Total amount set aside for the education of a single child in Texas up to 1921 was $7.50 per annum. In 1921 the amount was increased to $14.50; in 1922 this was reduced to $13.00.

ATTENTION!

C. S. Reynolds announces to the cotton growers of this community his purchase of the Worth Gin Company's interests in the RED GIN at Lubbock and will run this plant strictly for HIS OWN ACCOUNT from now on.

In this he asks the co-operation of the good people of Lubbock County and shall try in every way to give them the very best service possible.

This plant has recently been completely overhauled and is now in A-1 CONDITION. I honestly believe that I have the best gin that money can buy and that there is not a better one in the State.

REMEMBER—I own this plant individually and am running it entirely independently from OIL MILL OR OTHER OUTSIDE INTERESTS OF ANY KIND. Also that, in order to be able to continue to do so, I must have YOUR support and co-operation, and will assure you of the very best service it is possible to render.

BRING ME A BALE AND LET ME SHOW YOU WHAT I CAN DO!

GUESSING CONTEST CLOSED AT LEADER, SATURDAY

The guessing contest at the Leader Department Store created quite a bit of interest, and the final returns were rather interesting, in that there were four persons guessing correctly for second and third places.

J. M. Spikes guessed the exact figure and received the beautiful dress worn by Miss Thrift in the contest, and the premiums for 2864 green stamps.

The guessing was as follows: J. M. Spikes 2864; Mrs. A. J. Hicks, 2863; Dr. Castberry, 2863; Mrs. Lon Mullican 2862; Mrs. T. Teal 2862.

P. B. RALLS FINDS THIS SECTION IN GOOD SHAPE

After making a trip by auto thru the Southern portion of Oklahoma, as far east to Oklahoma City and south to Dallas, P. B. Ralls says this section—meaning from Lubbock to the cap-rock east, is in much better condition than any through which he traversed. "It makes it seem that we are in fine shape when a comparison is made," he stated.

Mr. Ralls was in Lubbock Monday of this week attending to business matters.

MORRIS WANTS GANG OF PICKERS TO GATHER CROP

T. W. Morris was here Wednesday from his fine farm east of town trying to find a bunch of cotton pickers to be turned loose in his field of cotton, which he declares is yielding one hundred per cent more per acre than it would have in other countries with the same rainfall.

He is eager to get it gathered before the fall cold weather starts in, and is planning on using every available hand.

Mrs. Sams, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Young of this city, returned home Thursday. Her home is in Benjamin, Texas.

HOW TO FATTEN CHICKENS AND TURKEYS

(By F. W. Kazmeier, Poultry Husbandman, A. & M. College)

(All rights reserved.)
To grow poultry and turkeys profitably it is necessary to sell them for a good price. In Texas one of our greatest short comings is that we have not learned to appreciate the importance of fattening our fowls before marketing. The general practice is to dump on the market all hens the way they are picked up from the range. This to a very large extent is responsible for our inferior market poultry price.

It will only be a question of a few weeks before the farmers as a general rule will be selling their surplus fowls by the wholesale. These fowls as a general rule are delivered to the market in an unfattened condition and very poor. Poultry raisers of Texas should be interested in what happens to these thin birds. One authority puts it this way: "They go to the dressing and fattening houses in poor condition—just bags of bones." These "bags of bones" are shipped to fleshing stations somewhere in the west or north. In some of these large fattening stations as many as 70,000 chickens may be seen in so-called batteries. Here they are kept two weeks, during which time from 25 per cent to 40 per cent of the finished weight of these birds is added. It is actually true that many of our fowls coming to the market are so poor and thin they have to lean against a fence to cackle and crow. Fattened poultry weighs more and brings more per pound. In our experience we have found that if it does not pay to fatten poultry it surely does not pay to grow it in the first place. Texas farmers are overlooking a chance to make good money when they sell poor and thin hens on the market. To show the possibilities it may be well to show what has been accomplished by one fattening concern in three houses. In one year or rather one season, they made over seven hundred thousand pounds of poultry. That is equivalent to over 100,000 head of chickens.

Many sections of West Texas are ideal for fattening establishments. If our farmers continually refuse to fatten their fowls, then we hope that some enterprising people will locate several up-to-date fattening establishments in the grain and sorghum growing country. In the meantime we hope that our farmers will learn to appreciate the importance of fattening their fowls before marketing them. Thin and poor Texas chickens are responsible more than anything else for our universally lower prices for all kinds of poultry than markets in other states. The following are some good fattening or fleshing rations: 34 per cent corn meal, 6 per cent peanut press cake, and 60 per cent buttermilk, or 34 per cent corn meal, 6 per cent rice meal, and 60 per cent buttermilk, or 44.1 per cent kafir meal and 55.6 per cent buttermilk, or 40 percent corn meal and 60 percent buttermilk.

Fattening Turkeys
Much more attention is given to fattening turkeys in the north than in the south, and it is largely for this reason that Texas turkeys are discriminated against in the Eastern markets. An excellent way of fattening turkeys is to begin feeding at night and morning about October first. At first do not feed too much, in fact not quite all they would want to eat, gradually increasing the amount, until they are getting all they will eat three times a day a week before the time they are to be marketed. We know of many successful turkey raisers that feed oats and wheat the early part of the fattening time, gradually working them off into a corn ration toward the end of the period. It is some times almost impossible to get much fat onto turkeys before cold weather sets in. It is not wise to pen turkeys for fattening because it has been found that they fret and worry too much and soon lose appetite. It has not proven a success whenever tried. In feeding new corn use care not to scour them. Many turkey growers in Texas depend solely upon acorns for fattening turkeys. In some sections the turkeys pick up beechnuts, pecans and chestnuts. In years where nuts are abundant the turkeys generally come in the market in a fair condition.

The fact that we want to emphasize here is that Texas is bound to remain the greatest turkey state, but we must make plans to sell better fattened turkeys if we want to maintain the lead as a turkey producing state. It is especially true that if we get to selling well fattened turkeys, we may expect to get more per pound for them. It surely pays well to fatten turkeys. Try it and see for yourself. It will pay from the increased weight standpoint alone.

Fattening Geese
Geese that are fully feathered may be readily fattened. They will take on extra growth and fat very economically. We know of one successful way of fattening geese, by simply confining them to a field with plenty of corn on the stalk and fresh drinking water. It would be well to feed one meal a day of shelled corn towards the end of the fattening period.

It is also practical to pen fatten geese in flocks of 20 to 25, feeding them three times a day. The early part of the fattening period they should be fed sparingly. The morning feed should consist of a damp mash, made up of one part of wheat shorts and two parts of corn meal. The other two feeds should consist of oats and corn or milo and kafir. It is a good plan to semi-darken the pen if possible. The geese should also be provided with plenty of roughage like grass and hay. The fattening pen must be covered with a liberal supply of straw for litter.

Fattening Ducks
About two weeks before marketing the ducks place them in the fattening pen, and feed the following ration: Three parts by weight of corn meal, two parts of low grade flour or middlings, one part of bran, one part beef scrap and 3 per cent grit or sand, and 10 per cent green feed. This mash is fed three times a day, moistened with water, to the extent of where it will run from the end of a wooden spoon or hit the consistency of batter. For the last week of the fattening period no green feed is fed. It is important not to over feed the ducks on the fattening ration or mash the first week, and to keep them a little hungry, until the last week when they may have all they will eat three times a day. The following is another good fattening ration: 3 parts corn meal, one part low grade flour, one part bran and 5 per cent meat scraps.

General Rules
In fattening poultry it is well to remember that two weeks is about as long as poultry of all kinds can be profitably fattened. After that they lose weight very rapidly. It is also well to begin the fattening period by feeding very sparingly the first few days so as not to overfeed them too soon. Towards the end of the period they should get all they want to eat three times a day. It is not a good idea to keep feed before them all the time.

If possible darken the fattening pen. This will keep the fowls more quiet, hence they will make more rapid gain and flesh will be more tender. Too much exercise during the fattening period will cause less gain in weight and the flesh will be tougher.

Buttermilk is a most excellent feed for fattening chickens of all kinds and ages. If buttermilk is not available, sour milk or skim milk may be substituted. Milk fattened chickens as a rule bring more per pound. Some markets are making special quotations for milk fattened chickens.

Other good Fattening Rations for Fowls
Many good fattening rations may be prepared. The following is a very simple one: 10 pounds of corn meal or ground milo or kafir, and 5 pounds of middlings, mixed with 2 gallons of skim milk or buttermilk. This mixture should be fed morning and noon, and cracked corn fed for the evening meal. When skim milk or buttermilk is not available, add one half pound of beef scrap to the above mixture and the necessary amount of water to make it into the consistency of batter that will drop from the end of a wooden spoon.

The Kind of Stock to Fatten
It is common knowledge that it pays much better to fatten young and growing stock than old hens. Young stock of the range with good frames can very profitably be fattened. We doubt whether it pays to fatten old hens, that have to be shipped alive any distance to the market. There are exceptions to this rule, and they are that the small breeds like the Leghorns generally would be a good practice to pen these for a few days and feed them on a good fattening ration. If all people raising the small breeds will make a practice of fattening all young and old stock before marketing, we will soon show people that the small breeds are good table fowls when fattened. We would do away with any possible discrimination of the small breeds on the market.

PROMINENT WEST TEXAS BUSINESSMAN HERE THUR.

O. E. Radford, vice president of the Radford Grocery Company, wholesale grocers, with branch houses in all principal towns in Texas, was here last week, and was guest at the Kiwanis Luncheon of Louie F. Moore, our energetic club secretary, and Clerk of the District Court.

Mr. Radford is well-pleased with Lubbock, and it is a fact that it is hard for his friends to keep up with him, in that he is always from Lubbock when away from home, this being demonstrated recently when he wired for rooms in a Dallas hotel to be reserved for him, the telegram being sent from Abilene, it was natural for the hotel manager to reserve the rooms for Mr. Radford of Abilene, and when on arrival at the hotel he registered, placing Lubbock after his name, the management declared that no rooms had been wired for from Lubbock, but after looking over his books he said that an Abilene Radford had reserved rooms, whereupon the mix-up was found to be due to Mr. Radford having two homes.

At any rate we are sure that he is at home in a good town at either place, but nevertheless we have enough partiality for Lubbock to want his permanent citizenship here.

JUDGE MOORE'S VISIT TO CENTRE RECALLS HISTORY

Judge J. H. Moore of Lubbock, Texas, was a guest this week of his uncle, C. P. Morrison. (Also cousin of Judge J. L. Savage and Capt. P. M. Savage.) Judge Moore was en route home from Methodist Conference at Junaluska, N. C., whither he was sent as a delegate by West Texas Conference.

In 1887 (then) John H. Moore moved with his parents William Moore, wife and nine other children to Lubbock. Soon after that he returned to the old home, at Oxford, Ga., where he fell sick and returned to Lubbock one month in 1890, and died of his late aunt Mr. R. R. Savage. On recovery Mr. Moore returned to Texas and began to "grow up" the country. In 1904 he was licensed to practice law, and served as County Judge four years. He has been teaching a Sunday school class for a decade and the class now numbers 87 men.

Judge Moore's father moved from a Mountain Springs home, now owned by Rev. B. T. Williams. His father was one of the few consecrated Christians that one meets in life and an outstanding character for that reason.—The Coosa River News, Centre, Alabama.

HARRISON WILL GATHER 30 BALES FROM 155 ACRES

E. N. Harrison, the most energetic fellow on the South Plains, size considered, was here Wednesday looking for pickers to gather his one hundred and fifty-five acre crop of cotton, south of Idalou.

Mr. Harrison estimates the yield at about thirty bales, and believes that he will be able to have it all gathered before the winter weather sets in, as it is opening mighty fast, and will require going over only about two times.

His feed crops are good also, and we are glad to know that he has ample supply to run him another year.

We learn that the Idalou school was to have stopped Monday, September 18, for two weeks, to permit the farmers children to help gather the crops. The school stopping for two weeks will not in anywise hinder the work of the children, as the closing date will be pushed up the full time of the recess.

MRS. McKINNEY REPORTS NEW OIL FIELD ACTIVE

Mr. and Mrs. T. V. McKinney returned last week from an automobile trip over the State, having been accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ward and baby, who made their home there.

The trip was an interesting one from start to finish, they having gone through the oil fields of the Eastland and Ranger section, and also to Cosse, where Mrs. McKinney visited relatives. The little city is in no wise the Coosa of the days when Mr. McKinney lived there several years ago, as attempts are being made to drill an oil well on every available tract, a good many of the back yards being the scene of drilling activities.

They visited friends and relatives at Fort Worth, Dallas, Corsicana, Navasota and Houston.

AMARILLO BALL PLAYERS GET GOLD BASE BALLS

As a token of appreciation of their victory in the West Texas League race admirers and supporters of the Gassers have presented each player with a golden baseball as a souvenir. On the ball will be engraved the name of the player and the position he played on the pennant winning Gasser club.

An order for 14 of the balls was sent for yesterday by Hugh Whitcome, jeweler, and should some of the players leave Amarillo before the arrive, they will be forwarded.—Amarillo News.

NOTICE

T. F. Davis, who has been speaking in Lubbock County in the interest of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association was called home Saturday and there will be no speaking at the following places as was scheduled: Canyon, New Hope, Redden, Washburn, Union, Cardwell, Estacado, Badger Lake and Monroe.

A Volume of Business Eighteen Years in Creating

18 years of furniture business in West Texas! From a volume of $2,000 a year to nearly half a million dollars! That is the record which this house refers to with genuine pride.

WHAT WE HAVE LEARNED

Creating this enormous business over 18 years of service in this section, has taught us many things which are of inestimable value to FURNITURE USERS.

We have tried and found the best furniture made. We know who makes our furniture and whether or not we can depend upon it to give our customers service. The fact that some of our very best customers of today were those who traded with us 18 years ago indicates the kind of service we give.

We have learned the furniture market and today by our large purchasing power we are enabled to buy direct from the manufacturers, thus securing our best furniture at prices that are generally charged for inferior-made furniture by jobbers.

This fall we are well stocked to care for your furniture needs. From the Baldwin line of pianos, the Victrola, New Edison and many other special lines, to the complete furnishing of the new home we are prepared to give today, the GREATEST VALUES and BETTER SERVICE than any time since our beginning 18 years ago.

A Remarkable Sale of Full-Blood Cattle On the Stubbs Ranch In the Vicinity of Hereford Last Week

A marvelous cattle sale with a more marvelous selling record was that held at the Santa Fe stock yards Monday afternoon. The Stubbs Land & Cattle Company had advertised a two days sale for their herd of 2800 pure-blooded Hereford cattle, but so quickly were the offerings snapped up and the stuff moved in such large quantities that the entire offering was gone in just about four hours actual selling time. This was declared by Auctioneers Reppert and Gross to be a record.

The high quality of the stock and the liberal terms and interest rate granted were undoubtedly the prime factors in the prices brought and the speedy unloading of the lot. As the shades of night descended upon the huge chautauqua tent in which the ring had been pitched the largest auction sale of Herefords ever held in this country was all over and settlements were in order, although the auctioneers' gravel had not descended upon the opening bid until after twelve o'clock. A large crew of riders handled the outfit skillfully and smartly, the different bunches were cut out and held ready right on the dot and the general management of the details, largely the excellent work of Arthur Lawrence of Hereford, resulted in as smooth and rapid a sale as has ever been witnessed here.

Buyers were here from as far north as Ohio, although local cattlemen accounted in large part for the purchases. The excellent blood lines of the Stubbs cattle are nationally known and there would probably have been more spirited bidding even than there was had the financial situation been easier. The cattle brought more than they would have on the market at this time and the sellers are said to be well pleased with the results. The two famous auctioneers, aided by representatives of the stock papers and others, handled the big affair like the veterans they are. The big tent was crowded to capacity all day long. The ladies of the Baptist church served lunch at noon. The ladies of the Christian church were to have served lunch on Tuesday, but the abrupt termination of the sale eliminated them.

The details of the sale, as shown by the clerk's sheet, are given below. Several shifts and adjustments were made in these figures after the sale was over and it will probably be several days before final totals are reached, but the sale ring record reads as follows:

W. E. Hicks, Hereford, 2-year-old steers, 217, $45 each; Don Finney, Shreve, Ohio, 2-year-old heifers, 30, $37.50 each; Jno. L. Wilson, Hereford, 2-year-old heifers, 165, $35 each; W. E. Hicks, Hereford, 1-year-old steers, 300, $35 each; M. I. Hurley, Nortonville, Kansas, 1-year-old heifers, 300, $28.50 each; L. F. Gaskill, Freedom, Oklahoma, dry cows, 165, $38.50 each; M. I. Hurley, Nortonville, Kansas, steer calves, 275, $21 each; W. C. Stout, Liberal, Kansas, heifer calves, 121, $19.75 each; J. T. Glibreath, Hereford, heifer calves, 70, $19 each; J. T. Glibreath, Hereford, heifer calves, 75, $18.50 each; L. F. Gaskill, Freedom, Oklahoma, wet cows, 32, $38.25 each; L. F. Gaskill, Freedom, Oklahoma, wet cows, 33, $35.25 each; M. I. Murphy, Nortonville, Kansas, wet cows, 96, $36 each; C. E. J. Adair, Clayton, New Mexico, wet cows, 32, $38 each; C. H. Nelson, Kiowa, Kansas, wet cows, 32, $35.50 each; C. H. ROUND OAK CHIEF BOILER IRON RANGE

Do These Thoughtfully Worded Reasons Indicate Why You Really Owe it to Yourself to Possess the Genuine?

We feel justified in stating that the Boiler-Iron Chief Range is the finest coal and wood burning range ever constructed. Tens of thousands of them in use, throughout the country, will endorse this statement. The oven bakes uniformly with very little fuel. It has capacity for as many as eight 9-inch pies or their equivalent at one time. The fire-box burns all fuels and because of the distinctive patented advantages, does it more economically. The high closet is oversize. The three-wall construction, with double the amount of usual mineral wool, and used in more places, means a cooler kitchen in the Summer, less fuel the year around, with plenty of warmth in the Winter. The exclusive rounding corners, and the distinctive design is very pleasing to the eye.

The many exclusive features are so desirable that we are sure only a personal investigation, granting us the opportunity to demonstrate, would cause you to fully appreciate the importance of the "now" in deciding. Consider this, if you please, as a personal invitation. The limited number of days that we can make this offer suggests that you investigate—may we say tomorrow?

Teal Will Sell Thoroughbred Hogs At Park Saturday

Another breeder of fine hogs is to give the people of the Plains country an opportunity to profit by the great work he has done in that work.

T. Teal, well known farmer and breeder of Lubbock county, will conduct his first sale of bred sows and gilts at the fair grounds here Saturday, September 23, having called at the Avalanche Saturday to place an order for printed matter to advertise the sale.

Mr. Teal's stock is well known to a good many local people who will be glad to hear of his offering them at auction sale, which will be instrumental in placing them on a good many farms over the country. The farmers of Lubbock county are making themselves known as breeders and growers of thoroughbred stock, and we are glad to know that the success Mr. Teal has enjoyed in that business will be instrumental in helping to distribute the fine ones about over this territory. He has bred his stock for size as well as color, and declares that anyone wishing to increase the size of their hogs could do well in placing one of the boar gilts on their farm, as they will be sold very reasonable at that sale, and are the best to be had.

It is encouraging to know that the farmers of Lubbock county are taking such interest in thoroughbred stock, for their work along these lines is enlarging that industry to unthinkable proportions, for at this time one can take a trip over the country and find that the majority of hogs, cows, sheep and horses, as well as poultry, are thoroughbreds. The fact that a thoroughbred is profitable for marketing as well as breeding purposes has been demonstrated beyond any doubt to our farmers, who are eager to enter into any progressive move.

If you are interested in bettering your herd of hogs, be at Mr. Teal's sale at the fair grounds; September 23, and take advantage of the splendid offers he will make. All together to make Lubbock county known as the thoroughbred center of the great South Plains. It costs no more to feed a thoroughbred than a razorback, and the bank account favors the thoroughbred.

Let's go to the sale Saturday. The generous heart should scorn a pleasure which gives others pain.

PROF. DUPRE ATTENDED OPENING OF WILSON SCHOOL

Prof. M. M. Dupre and other school enthusiasts motored over to Wilson, in Lynn County, Monday to attend the opening of school of that thriving little city.

Needless to say they will get a "square meal" as reports reaching our office have it that those in charge of the barbecue have been given seven heaves, ten goats and ten sheep to be slaughtered for the occasion, and from what we infer that a large crowd is expected.

The splendid brick building which was erected this summer as a monument to the progressiveness of the people of that little city will be the center of attraction, the barbecue, picnic and merriment of the occasion being secondary in importance, for the very best talent available is represented in the faculty, and one of the greatest terms that that school has ever experienced is hoped for and seems inevitable.

The people of the Plains are broadminded, and their views of school work manifests their wholehearted interest in the welfare of the coming generations, which is commendable beyond expression.

May their ever effort meet with success is the wish of the Avalanche.

Don't fail to read the Avalanche.

H. A. MABRY RETURNED TO MCKINNEY SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Mabry left Saturday for McKinney, where Mr. Mabry has a place with one of the big printing concerns of that city. He has been in the job department of the Avalanche for the past several months, and has turned out some splendid work here which reflects well upon his ability in the typographical art. The Westerner, the annual of the Lubbock High School, was one of the most beautiful jobs that was turned out under his supervision, and was one which any printing office might well be proud of.

TRUSTEES OF SLIDE SCHOOL HAD BUILDINGS PAINTED

Prof. A. L. Burnett, superintendent of the Slide School was here Saturday transacting business.

He reports everything in that community to be going along fine and dandy, and that the farmers have started picking cotton.

He is assisted in the school by his sister, Miss Lula Barnett.

The progressive trustees of that school have just completed painting the teacherage and school, which adds greatly to the appearance of the place, and which is instrumental in giving the pupils something of which to be proud in their school.

WORDS OF KIWANIS

(Contributed)
Two times to the table where there was nothing to do but eat has almost put our dear Kiwanian, Geo. W. Pickle out of the building business, but nevertheless he enjoyed the feeds, so why worry.
The luncheon was held at the Methodist church Thursday, with the good ladies of the congregation in charge, and they were assured that the entire membership was well pleased with the luncheon.
Owing to the fact that the program was to be given in the auditorium and the crowd had to wait until George had finished eating to leave the basement where the lunch was spread, the meeting was run a few minutes past the sixty minute period, which we are sure met with the approval of all.

A beautiful solo was rendered by Mrs. B. P. Hopkins, accompanied by Miss Mary Dunn, which was greatly enjoyed by all.
Miss Dunn pleased the Kiwanians with a beautiful piano solo.
After hearing the beautiful music so well rendered by the above mentioned ladies the membership felt that a great program had been enjoyed, and we are sure that but for the announcement of Judge Foster that there were several speakers on program who would be heard from, they could have left the church feeling that another splendid program had been enjoyed, but such was not the case, and on this occasion they enjoyed a double program. "What a common point freight rate would mean to Lubbock," was ably discussed by A. W. McKee, who declared that he was going to keep working to the end that the Santa Fe recognize the needs of Lubbock, and offer some relief from the hazardous freight rates on incoming freight.

Prof. M. M. Dupre spoke to the members on "How Lubbock Must Overcome the Lack of a College," from a practical standpoint, declaring that it is altogether likely that this city will soon be made the center of educational activities for many counties.
He declared that the advantages of having the boys and girls get the benefit of college training at home is worth more than any other phase of establishing a college here, and emphasized the fact that keeping the boys and girls at home for this schooling is a great deal more satisfactory than having them leave home.

He also got at the subject from another angle, declaring that the parents of this country who are sending their children away for the first two years college work, are spending amounts far in excess of the necessary amount in maintaining a Junior College here. Prof. Dupre has been in school work for the greater part of a long life, and we are sure that his frank discussion of the problems that confront us along educational lines will have its influence in creating more interest in the institutions that might be located here.

It is his opinion that a Junior College, run in connection with the school, is the most practical solution to the problem at this time, and advised that the businessmen of Lubbock insist that a bill be passed providing for state aid in the amount of one dollar for each dollar offered by any city in Texas that would raise an amount for the operation of such institution.

Prof. Dupre is a hard working Kiwanian and we would not be surprised to know of his success in establishing a Junior College in connection with the High School before many terms have passed.
"What I have to do to keep up with Lubbock," was the subject assigned James L. Dow, editor-manager of the Avalanche, who summarized the whole situation by saying, "It just can't be done." He has been in Lubbock a good many years, and told how he had been compelled to make drastic changes in the size of the Avalanche in order to keep up with the demands of the businessmen of Lubbock, but close association with the editor convinces the writer that Jimmie is somewhat of a bashful fellow, and was too modest to admit that he was rearing to go at every opportunity to expand the scope or volume of the Avalanche one bit.

He very humbly, however, told how he had expanded the paper from a four page column sheet to a five-column issue of four pages, and that before long, his machinery proved inadequate to take care of the growing business, as a result of which improvements were made in the mechanical department, making printing an eight page, six-column weekly a comparatively easy job as compared with the task of issuing the before mentioned five-column paper with the old machinery. He finally brought his subject up to an announcement of his making of the paper a semi-weekly, and that the success of the double dose per week method convinces him that when the time comes that the businessmen of Lubbock feel that their best interests can be more efficiently served with a daily paper, he will serve them in that capacity.

The success of the Avalanche under the efficient directorship of Mr. Dow has been nothing more nor less than the approval put upon the worthy work he has done, and the Kiwanians know that in him they have a man on whom to call at any time when work for the betterment of Lubbock is to be done, and they feel that insofar as keeping up with Lubbock is concerned, his paper will be able to be one of the forerunners among the institutions in that race, and the fact that anyone acquainted with the printing business will readily realize from a glimpse at his shop that insofar as capacity for turning out the work is concerned it is well up with the city, and has for a good many months been far ahead of the city's development, but it was because of his confidence in the sure growth of the country that this expensive machinery was purchased.

In a short talk complimenting all on the program for their success in carrying out their respective parts, President Mullican dismissed the members.

Following are the guests at the luncheon: C. T. Nivens of Austin, J. A. Aylor of Sweetwater, guests of Smylie Wilson; Paul Campbell, guest of J. E. Alexander; Jas. L. Dow and Geo. W. Briggs, guests of E. L. Klett; Mrs. B. P. Hopkins and Miss Mary Dunn, guests of Claude B. Huribut; Mrs. K. Carter, guest of K. Carter; O. E. Radford, vice president Abilene Kiwanis Club, guest of Louis F. Moore.

Making 20 Years of Racing Serve Car Owners Today

IN the early days of automobile contests, Barney Oldfield—out to win every race—studied tires. His consistent success led other drivers to ask for tires constructed to his specifications.
Twenty years of road and track victories—with a steady and increasing demand for tires as he built them—convinced Barney Oldfield that these speed tests pointed the way to a better tire for everyday use.
The enthusiastic reception of Oldfield Cords by the public proved he was right. Scores of the most prominent dealers in the country—and many thousands of car owners, experienced in the use of tires—bear witness by their decided preference that Oldfield is doing a bigger and better job of tire making.
This volume, handled in an effective way in every phase of manufacture and distribution, has resulted in price quotations far below what you'd expect on tires known to be better built and more enduring.

Practically every important race event for three years has been won on Oldfields. The Wichita Test Run in which an entire set of Oldfield Cords covered 34,525 miles on rough roads proves the mettle of the Most Trustworthy Tires Built in every-day driving.
The Master Driver and Tire Builder has given the public a new standard of tire wear and tire cost—a true economy that every car owner should know about.
Your Oldfield dealer has these facts—talk to him.

BROWNFIELD

Terry County Herald

The City Council informed us last week that our $16,000.00 worth of light and power bonds had been purchased by the Fairbanks-Morse Co., and that they purchased a seventy-five horse power engine and a generator from that firm, and the company is to pay the rest, which amounts to some $8,000 in cash. They have also purchased the rest of the material from another company, and the dads says they are going to try to light up the old town by Christmas. Option has been obtained on a lot in the rear of the old McAdams Lumber Company sheds for the site, and with the lot goes trackable rights. The City Council believe they can give the people "juice" all day for three days in the week, and beginning at noon and continuing until midnight the rest of the time. It is figured that most people will motorize their plants with these concessions, besides the number of fans and stoves.

The Commissioners' Court was in regular monthly session this week, and aside from the regular order of business, the county dads proposed to pay half the cost of an additional five acres to the Brownfield cemetery if the town and county would raise the other half. Hurrah for the commissioners. Let the citizens get busy before they back out.

Mrs. Frank Martin returned this week from Lubbock, where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fred Benton, for two weeks.

With a full corps of efficient and well trained teachers, the Brownfield High School opened Monday morning with the best prospects in several years, as teachers, pupils and parents all seemed to be enthused and had the utmost confidence that the other party was going to do the right thing from the jump all thru the school year. Many parents accompanied the children and heard the opening remarks of Superintendent Rankin, which were brimming with optimism for the future of our school, as well as the good talks of others. In just a few weeks every working unit will be adjusted to the new circumstances, and education will be the prime product in our mill of learning.

The editor and family are living high just at present. The wife and her father drove up to Jim Smith's ranch this week and brought back a fine lot of roastensars—I guess that is the way to spell it—Jim being in the rain belt and of course was more fortunate than most of the people of the county.

Mrs. E. A. Morgan of Lubbock and babies, came down Friday afternoon on the train to see her father, J. F. Holden, who had come in from California. Mr. Morgan came down on Sunday in his car, and they returned that afternoon.

George Neely returned from Oklahoma on last Tuesday night and is back, we think, to stay and take a new lease on life. He has only been staying in Oklahoma, not living. We are glad to see him back. It is a good family and we regretted to lose them when they left.

Last week the jury, in the Harvey Burkett case at Fort Sumner, New Mexico, gave him forty years in the penitentiary for manslaughter. There were four Mexicans on the jury. Word reached here that unless a bond was made for a new hearing that he would be railroaded to the pen, so H. J. Price, Homer Bartlett, O. K. Joffe, L. C. Cumpton and Wiley Burkett left here on Monday night for that point to make bond. A white man, we understand stands about as much chance in

New Mexico as a free negro in Louisiana. They do not care for evidence, it all depends on who wants the verdict and the purpose to be served.

The I. O. O. F. Lodge held a barbecue fit for a prince at the city park Thursday night and those so fortunate as to be present report a most delightful time. The editor is an Odd Fellow but it was his luck to be sick and miss the cats. Every time they have good eats some way we have been absent of late, and it is beginning to show on us. We need filling up badly. Goat furnished by Judge Garland and barbecued by Messrs. Miller and Alexander furnished the excellent meat.

On Monday morning, the largest crowd that has ever attended the public school opening at this place, attended the services at the auditorium. Every teacher, we understand, was in their place and the school started off with renewed vigor and the determination to make it the best we have ever had. The faculty comes highly recommended as instructor and the trustees have exercised every care in their selection. If any mistakes have been made let us be careful before our children in magnifying them. It is our school and much what the patrons make it. All that is needed, is a determination to help. When we say help we mean help. If the school is not what it ought to be, it is our duty to help make it so. If a mistake has been made in the selection of a teacher and that mistake is clearly shown, we are very sure that the trustees will not be slow in asking for the resignation and replacing the failure with one who shall succeed. First be sure you have done your best in making the school the best. Messrs. Dalton, president, and J. D. Dyer, principal, and Supt. Slaughter, made some fine talks which were well received. The first days enrollment of the Lamesa school was 521. With this start it is a pretty safe guess that 600 will be reached during the session.

POST

From Post City Post

Sunday morning it began a slow soaking rain all over Garza county, which was the first rain since June, and broke our severe drought. The rain was late, but the slow way in which it fell will be of untold benefit to the entire county. We understand it rained something near two inches over the entire county.

Tomorrow, Friday night, the committees appointed by the Chamber of Commerce in the interest of our fair, will visit the different communities over the county to talk over the fair situation and start things moving for a bigger and better fair this year than ever before, so give them a full attendance and help put it over.

Last Wednesday night about 10 o'clock, old Doctor Stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stevens, and left them a beautiful baby girl, and Grandpa and Grandma Stevens of Lubbock, say she is the most beautiful girl ever born. She is the only girl in the family and we wish for the little Miss all the good things this world has for pretty little girls.

TAHOKA

Lynn County News

A searching party was formed here Tuesday and Wednesday to try and locate the whereabouts of Mr. J. E. Stokes, who has been missing from his home here since Sunday morning. Late reports state that he has been found in El Paso. Mr. Stokes left no word with his immediate relatives or friends as to his intended destination upon his departure, thus considerable uneasiness was experienced as to his safety. That he has been located and is alive and well, was the good news received here Wednesday afternoon.

On Saturday afternoon at six o'clock, Rev. J. S. Upton, the local Methodist pastor, performed the marriage ceremony uniting Mr. William Ward and Miss Mary Dreger, popular young people of this city in the holy bonds of wedlock. The young couple have many friends in this community who wish them joy and happiness as they journey thru life.

This section of the South Plains experienced a sudden drop in temperature from Saturday until Monday morning, when the thermometer dropped from 94 to 58 in the shade. The rain Sunday was accompanied by a cool northeast wind, which was the cause of the sudden change in temperature. There were a number of overcoats in evidence on the streets of Tahoka Monday morning.

Revs. W. C. Hinds and J. R. Balch, of Seymour, Texas, were looking after business matters here Wednesday. Rev. Balch was at one time pastor of the Tahoka Methodist church, he serving both the Tahoka and Slaton churches at the same time. Hinds served the church here two years ago and is now pastor at Seymour.

H. B. Howell, owner of Howell's Garage in Tahoka, has a force of men at work this week laying a string of sidewalk in front of his place of business. He will also give the front of the building a stucco finish, which will give the place a neat appearance when the work is completed.

Revs. J. F. Curry Baptist missionary of the Brownfield association, and John Ball, pastor of the First Baptist church at Brownfield, left via Post the first of the week for Fort Worth, to be in attendance at a board meeting of Texas Baptists.

The progressive citizenship of the Dixie community in Lynn county, are hauling material out of Tahoka this week for the erection of a new school building, measuring 31x62, and built of interlocking tile. The exterior will be of stucco. The people of Tahoka rejoice with the citizens of that prosperous community that they are soon to have a modern structure in which to conduct their fast growing school. This is the second rural school building being erected in Lynn county. Draw is now completing a new interlocking tile structure.

M. T. Council, D. C. P. H. C., N. D. of Lubbock, Texas.

is recognized as one of the leading professional men of this entire section and has an enviable reputation for proficiency and fair dealing.

Science has made great strides in the last few years and many of the old-fashioned ideas have been discarded for the new results of science.

Dr. Council has adequate training to practice his chosen profession most successfully. He is a graduate of six different schools, all drugless and is the only chiropractor in Texas who is a graduate of electricity. He is a graduate of the National School of Electro-Therapeutics.

His practice has increased with such rapid strides that he is today considered one of the leading professional men of the West, and having had many years of experience, he is often consulted by men of his profession.

His practice and reputation as a healer has become so famous, that people go to his office weekly to consult him from all parts of the state and adjoining states. The great work he is doing to relieve suffering humanity of every known disease is phenomenal.

Then again his patients come from the very best class of people—people of standing in the community in which they live.

Dr. Council keeps two to three assistants at all times and his lady assistant is a three year graduate of the National Chiropractic College of Chicago and has had eleven years experience as a Chiropractor and holds a license from the Illinois State Medical Board and the Mexico Chiropractic Board.—Slatonite, Slaton, Texas.

I have just returned from Chicago, where I have been taking special work on all drugless lines this spring and summer. I propose to back up my reputation as a drug-less healer in the West and keep in the front ranks of all healing science.

I have competent lady help at all times. Phone 540, day or night. Dr. Council, Burrus Building. 59-1

Miss Delia Wilkinson, who has been selected as Director over the Miscellaneous Division at the fair, desires that all those who have entries coming under that head to please telephone her, No. 20, that she may make arrangements for the reception of the articles. She is very desirous of this department making a good showing, and will be pleased indeed to get all the information possible.

H. B. Carroll, formerly of the Collier Printing Company of this city, is now in Chicago, where he is employed in the Federal Building. T. E. Buckner, of the Theatre Confectionery, received a letter from him this week, stating that he was well pleased with his position, but that Lubbock still has a warm place in his heart, and he hopes to be here again.

THANKS

Wife and I wish to thank our friends for their vote and influence in the July Primary. We appreciate everything you did. I would have gotten the office but the other fellow received the greatest number of votes, see? We're still for Lubbock and Lubbock county. The finest place under the sun. Yours truly, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Q. Dyess. 59-1

Dr. M. T. Council, well known local chiropractor, and Miss Rilla Hull, were married at the bride's home in Rotan Saturday, and are now at home in the Conley building. Dr. Council is well known throughout West Texas, where he has a large practice, and his many friends wish for him and his many years of successful, happy life.

J. F. Holden, a pioneer of Brownfield, whose home has been in California for the past six years, was here Saturday enroute to Brownfield where he will make his home amid the old haunts. He is a booster of the Plains, and declares that there is no place like Brownfield, at least not for him.
