PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SAYS ALL POLICIES WILL REMAIN UNTIL AFTER FUNERAL OF HARDING

Denies That Any Of Cabinet Have Submitted Resignations And Says Wants Them To Remain And Help Him

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—All matters of National Policy and Government will remain at least temporarily as they are, President Calvin Coolidge, who yesterday took the oath of office as Chief Executive of the United States, said today in his first conference with newspaper men. No changes in the policies of the Government, nor any commitment of the new administration, will be made until after the funeral of former President Harding.

FLOOD IMPERILS OHIO TOWN AS DAM CRUMBLES

TRAVELING MEN ENTERTAIN LOCAL C. OF C.

RETURN FAVOR FOR COURTESIES EXTENDED THEM

PROGRAM CONSISTED OF 'DUTCH LUNCH' AND MUCH MERRIMENT

Members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce have reasons to feel more and more their obligations to the traveling men of Lubbock and the surrounding country, as they were guests of the travelers at a "dutch lunch" and smoker given at the Elk Hall Saturday evening.

Mr. Lyle called attention to some various observations he had made during his boyhood days down on the old farm, particularly emphasizing the fact that he had always heard more rattling from an empty wagon as it made its way along the country road than could be heard from a loaded vehicle, and he declared that this observation had led him to the belief that Hailey was better prepared to make the necessary noise than any of his brother travelers, and he was not at all disappointed.

Mr. Hailey pointed out that the traveling men who live in Lubbock are interested in this city and its development, emphasizing the fact that they are mindful of the courtesies extended them by the Chamber of Commerce. He declared that the entertainment offered upon that occasion was but a feeble expression from the travelers of their willingness to join hands with the other business men of Lubbock for advancing her every interest.

Jed Rix, ex-president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, and one whose interest in the welfare of Lubbock's "angels of commerce" has always been liberally expressed, responded to the address of welcome in a very able manner, and expressed sincere hopes that the spirit of friendliness now existing between the travelers and the business men of Lubbock would never be impaired.

Mr. Rix called attention to the fact that Curtis A. Keen, of "Back yard" fame, was responsible for the entertainments that had been given the travelers on two occasions, and assured them that these entertainments were given because the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce wishes to perpetuate the friendliness that has made Lubbock a highly respected home for some of the most able salesmen of the time.

To give the program in detail would be utterly impossible, as the good fellowship that is a part of Lubbock and of the traveling fraternity was so amply expressed and so graciously received that the three hours which were consumed by the entertainment were crowded with refreshing incidents that brought happiness and cheerfulness into the hearts of all participants.

It would be unfair, however, to let the splendid oration delivered by Senator W. H. Bledsoe go unmentioned, as well as the readings by Miss Ida Lou Posey, the remarks of Judge J. E. Vickers and the papers of Attorney L. E. Klett. These entertainments gave of their best to those present, for which they received much applause.

France and England May Decide Balance of Power in Far East; Naval Base at Singapore British Factor

By the United Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Great Britain is changing the center of gravity of the international balance of power from Europe to her Far East possessions.

The debates in the House of Commons over the expenditure of $50,000,000 for a modern naval base at Singapore, have shown so large a majority of British public supports the project as to make withdrawal impossible. The British who have the skill of a thousand years of practice in international negotiations behind them, have reached the conclusion that the Orient holds the key to the future. It is far from the truth to assert that the sole purpose of the Singapore expenditure is to counteract Japanese influence in the Far East. The British strategic viewpoint is not aimed at any one power. The European situation henceforth will present a single problem, with the balance of power resting in the Orient.

of the Napoleonic era. It is not the proper sphere of strategy to dismiss French dreams as impossible of realization and therefore as unworthy of being counteracted. The only way they can be made impossible is by counteraction. The Singapore move of Great Britain is counteractive in this sense, against France.

With a great modern base at Singapore, to be finished in ten years, Great Britain has looked forward to the period when the present French course in Europe will have been a success or a failure.

If it is a success, France will find she has been checkmated in advance in the Far East. Great Britain will hold the balance there. That means, eventually, the balance will again return to Europe, where there will be a better chance of its upset thru new combinations of powers than in the Far East.

Singapore Second City.
Singapore is the second most important port in the British Empire. It is within 600 miles of French Indo-China and is the close neighbor of the Dutch East Indies. Manila is 1,300 miles away, and Japan, 2,800 miles distant—the width of the Atlantic Ocean.

Toward the close of the World War, it was reported that France wished to make an arrangement with Japan whereby Indo-China was sold to the Japanese. An alliance between France and Japan, based on an understanding whereby Indo-China might be placed at the disposal of the Japanese for military purposes, has never been absent from the minds of the British strategists since the development of sections Anglo-French friction in Europe. The Japanese have always had a horror of isolation. An offer of an alliance from France, if the French should become eventually military masters of the European continent, could not be passed over lightly at Tokio.

Should such an agreement take place, Great Britain could be caught entirely unprepared and would have been out-generaled had the House of Commons refused to consent to the fortification of Singapore. French diplomacy at the present time is beyond question the most skillful in Europe. Otherwise, it cannot be explained how the French have become masters of the international policies of Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and to a large extent of Rumania and Yugoslavia.

Highway Patrol to Be Used to Run in Pro Law Violators

By the United Press.
HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 4.—Failure to other elements to enforce prohibition in Pennsylvania may lead Governor Pinchot to a policy of apprehending bootleggers by means of his "highway patrol" charged with the responsibility of regulating traffic on public highways.

A corps of 125 men will be placed on the roads of the state shortly to augment the limited number of State Police and help relieve the burdens of law enforcement. The constabulary has shouldered since Governor Pinchot assumed the reins of State government.

Although the highway patrol has limited powers as State police they will assume duties such as that of search and seizure as well as arrest.

Governor Pinchot feels that the highways are the avenues of crime as well as pleasure and peaceful pursuits. To catch the bootlegger there must be an adequate force on the roads that lead in and out of the State.

In the event that his law enforcement program fails because of an inadequate manned police force, it was explained, the highway patrol may assume some of the responsibilities of checking the liquor traffic. Plans are being laid now by the governor and his law enforcement officers; the attorney general and the superintendent of State Police, to conduct an intensive campaign against bootlegging and crime of every description.

"I am pleased with the progress already made, an dthoroughly convinced that the crooks and criminals we are fighting are going to lose and lose completely. I would be a poor American if I doubted them," Governor Pinchot told the United Press in stating his position on enforcement.

"We have made a good start and the State is moving along with us. There is much ground yet to be covered, but I have three years and a half yet to cover it in," he said.

The effort of the governor to make Pennsylvania dry has been slow and tedious. It was marked at the very beginning with reverses by the legislature and from elements opposed to drastic measures.

Figures compiled by the State Police for the first five months of "dry" enforcement under the Pinchot policy show nearly 2,000 arrests. Yet of this number only 241 cases reached the stage of court sentence after going thru the process of action by grand juries. One hundred of the 241 were fined and others given sentences averaging from two to six months.

The first step in drying up the State was the abolition of the saloon obtained from the legislature upon the insistence of Governor Pinchot. The bootleggers were next to be dealt with. Pinchot said he would run them out of the State. This, he has found difficult because of the lethargic attitude of the judiciary which he had no control. Elimination of the saloon was a factor in encouraging bootlegging that he did not anticipate as the revocation of licenses by the courts was a sure method of control.

Cooperation of law abiding agencies was sought and the assistance of county and local authorities enlisted. The response to his request has been negligible. Support has been promised by the State W. O. T. U. in raising a $50,000 fund for the enforcement of law, which was denied by the legislature. Governor Pinchot maintains that prohibition deserves equal attention with the other laws of the Commonwealth and the nation by enforcement agencies. He insisted that the money asked of the assembly for this purpose be placed to his credit for the "enforcement of all laws." He would not permit it to be earmarked for prohibition and thus his appropriation was lost.

The Germans Should Have Spent Their Marks Before War

BERLIN. (By mail to the United Press).—Germany has developed a new indoor sport—figuring out what wonderful things one could buy before the war with the same amount of marks one lays out for trivialities today.

For instance when the Germans today pay out 57,000 marks to have his suit pressed he has a lot of fun figuring out that since he could buy a complete suit before the war for 70 marks, the 57,000 marks which he spends for cleaning would have bought him 814 new suits in the olden days.

The cost of a bad pencil today equals pre-war cost of the furnish. ing a complete living-room with two beds and a well equipped kitchen. The price of a box of matches today equals the pre-war price of ten pairs of good shoes. A cigarette equals the price of a good piano, and the single individual little match with which the German lights his cigar today costs as much as a pre-war pound of meat and a pound of butter.

Everytime a German eats a cherry he does so with the realization that there goes a 50-mark note.

And as for strawberries, he can't even think of the 150 marks each one sets him back.

Every puff of a cigarette, he figures costs five marks. And he gets gray-haired when he thinks that every time he rides his elevator to the top floor he does so at 3,000 marks a trip. Most of them walk

"THE GREAT ALL STAR CAST IN 'THE SIN FLOOD'"

The size of the "Sin Flood" cannot be expressed in a word, a phrase or a sentence. All the old adjectives have been used until they are frayed at the edges. "Great" has almost lost its meaning. "Wonderful" has been shouted out of recognition. The "Sin Flood" is a picture about human being, not celluloid beings. It presents a story which is more moving, more exciting, more dramatic than the story of the "Old Nest" and it is utterly unlike that picture. It is one of the few pictures ever made that seems to dig down under the protecting veneer of things as they are and turn up the genuine drama of life.

Announcement Is Made That the McMurray College Will Open September 19; Buildings Are Beautiful And Modernly Constructed

McMurray College will open its doors for the first time on September 19, 1923. A visit to the grounds discloses the fact that the magnificent administration building, which has been under construction for more than twelve months, is as beautiful on the inside as out. All the furniture and fixtures for the class rooms, offices, laboratories and fine arts departments are under contract to be installed before the opening of the school and in plenty of time for the proper occupancy of the building.

Carrying out the architectural plans for the grounds, a second building, which will be used this year as a dormitory for the young women, is now under construction and will be completed by the 1st of September. At a later time it is proposed, when the dormitories both for boys and girls, as outlined in the original plan, are completed, to use this building for a co-operative home, but for the present it will constitute a commodious and handsome home for forty four young women.

Buildings adjoining the grounds are nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy by the boys before the opening date. A visitor to the grounds is impressed with the fact that the hill is literally alive and pulsing with the energy of the green church that is entering upon its divine mission for the Christian training of the youth that have come within the pales of its influence.

Four Points Made.

In the establishing of an institution, of the character of McMurray College, there are four points to consider in its affiliation with the higher institutions of learning that are of vital importance to every student entering its door. These are:

clattering of hoofs, rattling of wagons and shrieking of locomotives, combined in roar similar to that accompanying the progress of a tornado.

In the race many men were injured and some killed. Of the latter some met death by accident two were murdered. Details of the crimes are unknown, but the dead bodies, one stabbed and the other shot thru the heart, fell the manner of death.

Many dead horses have been found on the prairie. Some died of over-exertion, some were killed by falling in the race and others having broken legs on the rough prairie were shot by their owners.

Tonight every desirable claim in the Strip has at least one claimant; many have three or four.

Reports of crime resulting from the settlement of land are few and the government officers are congratulating themselves upon the comparatively peaceful manner in which the settlement was effected.

An unfortunate occurrence was the shooting down of Sooners near Stillwater, Oklahoma, and Arkansas City, Kansas. The soldiers who did the shooting were instructed to prevent "soonerism" at all hazards, and point to their orders in justification of the acts.

A wagon and freight train loaded with supplies followed the settlers into the Strip and stores were set up at various county seats and town sites.

Camp fires dot the prairie in all directions tonight. The heat and drought has dried on the creeks and streams and those who failed to provide themselves with water will be forced to endure suffering from thirst.

Judge Womack, special agent of the land office, who was at Orlando today, has advised showing that the number of people who made the run to the Cherokee Strip far exceeded all expectation. The land office had counted on fifty thousand persons to make the run. Fully 100,000 started in the race, and estimating the families of married men at one to each certificate bears the Cherokee Strip tonight has a population of 200,000.

Advices Judge Womack show that the racers were divided about as follows: Arkansas City, 30,000; Orlando, 25,000; Caldwell, 15,000; Hennesey, 10,000; Stillwater, 10,000; Kiowa, 3,000; Hunnewell, 3,000; other points 4,000; total 100,000.

Knights of Columbus Gather At Montreal For Big Convention

By the United Press.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4. The largest convention in the history of the Knights of Columbus will informally commence tomorrow (Sunday).

From the fifty-seven state jurisdictions of the organization in Canada, the United States, New Zealand, Mexico, Porto Rico, Cuba, the Philippines, Panama and Hawaii, thousands of delegates and visitors are arriving in Montreal. The demands for hotel accommodations indicate that many thousands of visitors will attend. Special excursion parties are being run from all points in the United States and Canada.

George H. Bailey, M. P., supreme director of the K. of C. in Canada, estimates the convention will draw approximately ten thousand visitors, in addition to the qualified delegates representing the 2,400 and more councils of the order.

The convention got under way today when Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia called to the meeting of the supreme board of directors. Sunday the board will continue to meet and on Monday the convention organization process started in the race, and estimating opening on Tuesday.

Hold Big Parade.

The opening will be preceded on Tuesday by one of the largest parades ever held in Montreal, when thousands of local Knights will lead their visiting brothers to the Church of Notre Dame, the largest on the continent, where the Solemn Pontifical Mass that opens all K. of C. conventions, will be celebrated.

Following the mass the convention will be formally opened after receptions by the ecclesiastical and civil authorities of Montreal. Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty will be in the chair when the convention is called to order at the Mount Royal Hotel.

The deliberations of the convention will require three days, the 7th, 8th and 9th, the first session of the second day being taken up with the election of officers and directors for ensuing two and three year terms.

The most important matter to come before the convention will be the vast K. of C. educational and hospitalization work, the $1,000,000 Italian welfare work being undertaken under the auspices of the Holy See, the institution of a boy movement under K. of C. auspices, and other activities of the general welfare character. Reports of Supreme officers of the order's growth and achievements during the fiscal year ending June 30 will be rendered on Tuesday.

The convention will be preceded by a banquet on Monday evening tendered by the Montreal Chapter to the supreme officers and directors of the order to which many prominent men have been invited, including Prime Minister Mackenzie, King of Canada, Commander Ousley of the American Legion, and high church dignitaries of the Province of Quebec. Archbishop Gauthier of Montreal will deliver an allocution in Notre Dame to the Knights.

Some Striking Oklahoma History

Editor Avalanche:

I submit herewith an old clipping from the Springfield, (Mo.) Democrat, describing the opening of the Cherokee Strip, Sept. 16, 1893. That was 30 years ago and many young people have grown up since that time that have heard a little and would be interested in learning more of that novel and peculiar home-standing experiment; and those interested at that time will read with refreshing interest. The circumstance was so novel and interesting at that time that I cut this out and have preserved it, so I am now able thru the courtesy of the Avalanche, to present it to the young people that have since grown up and to others.

I also have some other interesting sketches of history not in school books, to offer.—T. J. Estes.

One hundred thousand people settled upon the Cherokee Strip today. At noon the signal was given announcing the passage of the title of the land from the United States government to the boomers and a race such as was never witnessed before and probably will never be seen again was begun.

On the lines in the vicinity of the various border towns boomers had gathered in great multitudes. As far as the eye could reach in either direction could be seen men mounted in wagons, and on foot closely packed together making a solid column 200 feet or more wide in the middle and tapering away to a mere streak of black in the distance.

The scene when the column broke at the firing of the gun, and each individual entered the contest for a town prize, can be imagined better than described.

Confusion reigned everywhere. So closely were the contestants packed together that the start was a hazardous one. Horsemen were unseated, wagons overturned and pedestrians prostrated in the mad rush to be off. The cries of angered men mingled with the neighing of panic-stricken horses, shouts of racers

Successful Bidders Announced in Biology Building to Be Erected on The Texas State University Campus

Special to The Avalanche.

AUSTIN, Aug. 4.—Bids for the Biology building to be erected on the University of Texas campus were opened at a meeting of the building committee of the Board of Regents held Wednesday morning. The committee will recommend the three lowest bidders in each of the four divisions of the construction—building, plumbing, heating and elevators—to the Board of Regents at the meeting held in Austin August 15.

Wattinger Brothers of Austin submitted $318,640 as the lowest figure for the construction work. J. E. Johnson of Waco with $322,277 bid, and the Munn Construction Company of Dallas with an offer of $48,637 gave the second and third lowest bids for the actual construction of the building.

The Wattinger bid guaranteed to complete the building within 295 working days. Johnson set the time limit at 300 working days, and Munn at 285.

Wattinger also offered to furnish the structure for $27,965. Johnson submitted a $29,000 bid for furniture, and Munn a $34,200 bid. The lowest offer for furniture was submitted by Sumnar-Sollitt Company of San Antonio at $16,600. Their construction bid, however, $378,343 and the ranked fourth from the highest in the entire list of twelve contractors. The furniture bid was included in each case in the total cost of construction.

The total bid of Chalkey Brothers of San Antonio for plumbing and elevators at the low figure of $20,679, this offer to include furnishings.

John L. Martin of Austin ranked low in heating bids with an offer of $14,558.

Of the two elevator companies submitting bids, the Otis Elevator Company Bid lowest, their offer being $4,260.

The total cost of the new structure, furnished and ready for use, will be $358,137, provided the Board of Regents accepts to low bid in every case. Excavation will begin immediately following the award of the contracts by the Board of Regents.

WHAT LUBBOCK WILL HAVE WHEN THE TECHNOLOGICAL SCHOOL IS LOCATED HERE—HUGE INSTITUTION

SUMMARY OF FACTS

Texas Tech is a $1,350,000 college created by the Thirty-Eighth legislature under the terms of a bill drawn and introduced by Representative Lewis T. Carpenter, of Dallas county.

A committee of five state officials will start July 14 on a twenty-six day tour of West Texas to select the city in which the college is to be located.

One of the elements in the organization of the Texas Tech that is highly gratifying to its sponsors is the fact that it is not a competitive institution, in any sense, to A. & M. College, in particular, or any of the other state educational institutions. Texas Tech will occupy a field of its own, entirely separate from that of A. & M. and so far from encroaching on the functions of that college it will actually constitute an ally in its operations.

Texas Tech will be to the southwest what Boston Tech is to the eastern states and Georgia Tech to the southeast. It will have a far richer field of natural resources to develop than either of these two institutions.

Its classes of young men and women will have definite fields and lucrative positions awaiting them upon graduation.

Texas Tech is admitted by all who are familiar with its mission, as suggested by Georgia Tech and Boston Tech, to be the greatest forward step ever taken in the history of Texas toward industrial development of the state's unlimited raw materials and finished products.

When a committee of five Texas educational officials set out on July 14 to select a West Texas city as the location of the Texas Technological college, the most important movement in the state's history toward industrial development and utilization of the state's natural resources was under way. In two years from that date the college should be in operation.

Texas Tech already is a $1,350,000 institution looking for a place to locate and to begin the work of educating home talent in the arts and sciences of manufacturing, textiles, shoes, leather goods, agricultural implements and other products from the raw materials in which the southwest abounds.

It is an institution with a potential scope equal to that of Boston Tech or Georgia Tech at Atlanta. The great sum appropriated by the Thirty-eighth legislature under the bill drawn and introduced by Representative Lewis T. Carpenter of Dallas county, assures Texas Tech funds sufficient to erect buildings, install machinery and laboratories, employ a faculty and thoroughly train all applicants for technical training west of the Missouri river.

Its course will provide training for these young men that will equip them to construct and operate factories that will make finished products of cotton, wool, leather, steel, iron, hard woods, petroleum, lignite, hydro-electric power and all other natural raw material of this section.

Unlimited Developments.

Even a casual survey of the possibilities of such an institution staggers the imagination. A review of the work accomplished by the institution's proto-types, Boston Tech and Georgia Tech, will awaken any Texan to the realization that in this movement is embraced by far the most important practical step ever undertaken for the industrial development of the richest area in natural resources in the world.

The full significance of this Texas Tech movement already has dawned on West Texas. Forty or more of the larger cities in that section are at present engaged in active civic organization work, public improvements, statistical research and other labors with a view to securing the great institution as an asset. Booklets, pamphlets, descriptive letters and other documents have been published for the information of the committee of five that will select a site for the college, under the terms of the bill creating it.

The committee of five consists of S. B. Cowell, chairman of the board of state control, Austin; Dr. W. S. Sutton, acting president of the University of Texas, Austin; Dr. F. M. Bralley, president of the College of Industrial Arts, Denton; S. M. N. Marrs, superintendent of state education, Austin; and Dr. W. B. Bigzell, president of the A. & M. College, College Station. The committee will require twenty-six days to visit the applicant cities.

Cities of West Texas active in the effort to secure the location of Texas Tech are: Lubbock, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Abilene, Coleman, Snyder, Big Spring, Midland, Brownwood, Cisco, Eastland, Amarillo, Plainview and others.

History of Movement.

A brief history of the movement which culminated in the legislative appropriation of $1,350,000 for this institution is appropriate here. Before it is started, however, it might be well to state that with the great appropriation for the construction and equipment of the college, an additional appropriation of $20,000 per year for two years for maintenance while under construction was passed at the same time.

Representative Carpenter of Dallas county, stood for the legislature with just this project as his principal objective. He announced on election to the office, that his program in the legislature would be largely built around the big item of a Texas technological college.

This was the first time in the history of Texas that a practical attempt had been proposed for the establishment of a technological college in the state, an institution whose primary purpose would be to afford courses that would prepare students to serve as textile engineers and experts in industrial plants.

Lewis Carpenter's Project.

It is to the credit of the Thirty-Eighth Texas legislature, as well as Representative Carpenter, that the bill he drew and introduced for this splendid project went through smoothly and without the necessity of any log rolling, political trades or other machinations. Governor Neff promptly approved the bill, although he had declared while the Carpenter bill was pending that he would veto any bill appropriating moneys from the treasury unless the bill carried the means of providing the money for the project. The governor made an exception in this instance, he stated, because of the importance of the college to the welfare and development of Texas and the logical nature of the entire movement.

On arriving at the capitol, Representative Carpenter discovered that several bills were prepared for introduction, having as their object the establishment of academic colleges in various parts of West Texas. Senator Bledsoe and Representative Chirwood were designing a bill for a college to be operated under the management and control of A. & M. Representative Baldwin had a bill for the purchase of a college site, but it was his purpose to wait until some indefinite time for the erection of the college.

Agree To Consolidate.

To these officials Representative Carpenter went and explained the bill he had in mind. He proposed that they consolidate their bills into one for a Texas Tech, with an entity for its own, to be operated by an independent board of directors. He showed them the possibilities of an institution having for its dominant note a textile department for the training of southwestern young men as engineers in the textile field.

They all promptly agreed that Representative Carpenter had the logical proposition, and they joined in asking him to draw the bill and engineer its passage through the legislature.

The result of this series of conferences and of Representative Carpenter's work is now an important chapter in Texas history.

The appropriation of $1,350,000 for this college is really the outstanding accomplishment of the Thirty-Eighth legislature. The assembly did other fine work, but nothing in the list of its achievements even approaches in importance and influence on the future this epoch-making piece of legislation for the establishment and maintenance of the Texas Tech.

Jobs For First Grads.

By the time the first of the chain of new cotton mills is ready for operation in various parts of Texas the first graduating class of Texas Tech will be ready to take charge of them as engineers and managers.

From that period, the effective work of the college will be felt in the industrial activities of the southwest. In Atlanta the establishment of the Georgia Tech was immediately followed by the erection of mills and factories of all kinds. It is known, indeed, that the location of Georgia Tech in Atlanta is the direct cause of the manufacturing growth and development that enriches the south-eastern states, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Alabama, Florida and Tennessee.

In just the same degree will the establishment of Texas Tech promote and encourage the growth and development of industrial plants of all kinds in this territory. There cannot be the slightest doubt about this fact. The one drawback to the industrial growth of Texas in the past has been the scarcity of trained men to take charge and operate the plants.

Texas Tech now is looking for a site so that it may supply this esprit and expansion.

FACING THE SUN.

"Never stand so that the sun will cast your shadow across the water" is the advice of a master fisherman. Just now many are, in these fine vacation days, indulging themselves in the delightful sport of enticing the wary fish from his cool depths. And some, who are so indulging themselves, are having success in their enterprise, and of this they are prone to speak at great length and in terms of weight. The master fisherman was a bit of a philosopher as well as a successful angler. It is well, in most of the relations in life, to keep your shadow back of you, rather than where there is any possibility of its having a destroying effect upon what you are doing.

Facing the sun casts the shadow back of us. This is the true philosophy of living. Go resolutely forward in carrying out the task in hand even though it carry you in the very face of the sun. The forward look helps to overcome difficulty, and saves from many a temptation to needless ease and silly self indulgence. Facing the sun, and going forward helps us to get by much that would be our ruin if we succumbed to it. Many a misfortune, many a tear, many a heartache would soon disappear if we did not choose to dwell under their shadow. Self pity is one of the most demoralizing and destructive influences we can allow in our lives. It undermines ambition, blasts hope, and effectively checks all progress. Our pains, sorrows and misfortunes grow in proportion as we dwell in their shadow. A moral and spiritual neuroathetic is thus made of one who should by every token, be of more heroic mold and stamp.

Victories are won by getting these things back of us. They obscure the vision and make the way seem unduly gloomy. More than that they frighten others from us in whose presence we would delight to be and those whom we ought to influence in a helpful and effective way are driven away by the shadow of gloom which has settled about us and goes before us. Face the sun! Literally and figuratively this throws the shadows into the background and the open road stands out in clear relief. Vision is thus made clearer and better. Defeat is routed. The goal—the mark of the high calling—is seen in outline, and invites us to press forward. Thus the way is made clear for the accomplishment of that which is of worth, and for the carrying out of the purpose which, in hours of insight, we have willed.

RENEW BATTLE FOR FREE SEEDS.

A vigorous campaign to force Congress again to provide an appropriation for distribution of free seeds is now being waged throughout the country, according to Congressman John W. Langley, Republican, Kentucky, who always leads the fight for this legislation.

Since July, when the new agriculture appropriation bill became effective without provision for seed distribution, many Congressmen have been besieged by constituents urging them to make an effort to have the provision restored to the bill, Langley said.

The people are badly disappointed because there will be no free seeds this year," he said. "The farmers are not the only people who are kicking. There are also the men who work in factories, coal mines and other industries and who garden their products in back yards and vacant lots.

When Congress convenes, I again will introduce my bill making the seed distribution permanent law. This will stop all further fighting and quibbling over the proposition. I will press the measure for passage so that the people may get the seeds in time for spring planting, otherwise they will have to wait until next July, when the 1925 agriculture bill becomes effective.

Every year when the agriculture bill comes up in the House, Langley offers the free seed amendment and after fiery parliamentary discussion and heated debate it usually squeezes through by a bare majority. Last year Langley carried on an intensive campaign for the adoption of his amendment, but it was defeated by one vote. This resulted in the people not having free seeds from their Congressmen for the first time since 1870."

ASSOCIATION VS. "STREET SOLD" COTTON.

The Progressive Farmer is very much gratified that the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association has experienced a successful year. That it has sold its members' cotton for a nice margin over the price obtained by individual selling is quite evident. But an analysis of its statement shows that the association has not made so large a profit as claimed, because it has failed to charge against the handling of its cotton several very important items of expense.

According to the Cotton Association News of July 10, the average price at which the cotton in the various pools sold was 26.58 cents a pound, while the estimated price for street-sold cotton was 20.20 cents a pound. However, these figures are not comparable, because it cost the association member something in association expense, interest, insurance, freight, and hauling charges to obtain this higher price, while the street buyer deducted all of these items before he made the farmer a price of 20.20 cents a pound.

The Arkansas Cotton Association has figured association or office expense at $1.11 per bale; storage, freight and handling at $1.59 a bale; and insurance and interest at $2.64 a bale, making the total expense per bale $5.31. The Texas Association puts its general overhead or association expense at $3.59 a bale and interest at $1.35 a bale, but makes no charge for insurance, freight, storage and handling. It is by figuring on this basis that it reaches the conclusion that $29.56 a bale or $2,296,986 on the 77,706 bales handled was the margin of profit on association cotton as compared to "street sold" cotton. But until every expense connected with the handling of its members' cotton, bad debts and all, is charged against the gross price received for the cotton, there can be no legitimate comparison with cotton sold individually at street prices.—Progressive Farmer.

MARKETING NOT SOLE PURPOSE OF FARM

There is a belief in some quarters that the Farm Bureau, having effected the organization of associations for the marketing of our more important commodities, has fulfilled its purpose and is doomed to a slow but certain death. But The Progressive Farmer can see no reason why this should be true. There are undoubtedly symptoms of decay in many farm bureaus, but this is due to their failure to widen their field of endeavor beyond marketing rather than because of any lack of problem to be solved.

The original conception of the Farm Bureau was that of an organization functioning in the solution of any and all problems with which the present day farmer is faced. It was never intended that the Farm Bureau should devote its energies solely to marketing to the neglect of other things, for it was known that cooperative marketing is by no means a cure-all. Recognizing the limitations of cooperative marketing, the successful farm bureau has interested itself in larger-acre yields, good roads, schools, fairs, etc., and it is noteworthy that in those states in which the farm bureau is a robust organization, is full of vigor and activity, its field of endeavor is wide.

The farm bureau fills a long felt need for organized effort in solving farm problems. It has tackled the marketing problem with energy, and with some degree of success, but it should not stop there. Other problems are still unsolved, and the farm bureau has by no means worked itself out of a job.—The Progressive Farmer.

WHAT IS NEWS?

Metropolitan dailies of the United States have carried pages of publicity and illustrations of the Dempsey-Gibbons prize fight or "boxing match" at Shelby, Montana. Relays of airplanes rushed photograph to the Atlantic coast for publication and no amount of money was spared to picture the event through the press and the films. Dempsey has been given millions of dollars' worth of advertising which will pave the way for his proposed fight with Luis Firpo, the recent victor over Willard.

Contrast the publicity given to these events with the few lines that are sent out over the wires when a railroad places a $50,000,000 order for equipment or material which will give employment to thousands of workmen for months; or when a hydro-electric plant, built at a cost of from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000, turns in the water that makes electric current for thousands of homes, farms and factories; or when a telephone cable is laid at an expense of $35,000,000 from Chicago to New York for the better service of millions of people. Such events may be given a paragraph over the wires.

And so it goes. Industry that furnishes the bread and butter and keeps the wheels of progress going in such an ordinary occurrence it is given scant attention and is not considered important news.

A SNAP.

If you ever expect to amount to much, You must fill yourself with pep; You must always do your level best, Be careful how you step. Don't think the other fellow's job, Is a snap compared to yours; The chances are he prates about, The hardships he endures. Most any job worthwhile today, You know requires a man; And if you are holding such a one, Be proud because you can, When he who looks for something soft, Discovers where it's at; He learns he's had it all the while, Just underneath his hat.—Genaro.

DESERTERS WANT TO GO HOME.

Ten thousand deserters from the Argentine army and navy are in Montevideo and want to go home, according to their "Amnesty Committee," which has petitioned President Alvear to permit them to return and resume their duties as Argentine citizens. In replying to the petition the president made it clear that he thought the first duty of the evaders was to return and take their punishment. Only then, he said, would any pardons be considered.

LESS GOVERNMENT, LESS TAXES.

Defenders of soaring tax rates usually attempt to justify their position by contending that the government is rendering a greater service and tax payers should therefore be willing to pay for it. In many instances these extra services are unnecessary or not worth the cost, and some are positively injurious to the taxpayer.

As long as the government undertakes to regulate minutely the lives of individuals and the conduct of every business great and small, the tax burden will be exorbitant, says the Houston Post.

FROM DEATH TO LIFE

Christiana Advocate

What is dying referred to in the statement, "except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone"? Upon this the divine emphasis was laid. It becomes at once an all important question in our experience. Christ besought God in the words, "Father, glorify thy name," and received the answer: "I have both glorified, and will glorify it again." This was a supreme hour in Christ's life. For us it is the day for which all other days were made. Briefly, let us ask, what does this dying mean to us?

It implies ever the dying to unknown sin. Sin may be unknown to us. Thus Saul of Tarsus persecuted the saints in all good conscience. In the hearts of God our hearts are always as an open book. We have no secrets hidden from him. Many deep, dark and dismal thoughts may be hidden from others. Many secret sins may be kept under cover so far as human kind is concerned, but not so with God. The magnitude and breadth, the fear and the deep seated anxiety, of justice at the Judgment is because the secrets of all hearts shall stand in bold delineation before an assembled universe. Our point of view is often one of mortal distortion. For this reason sometimes right appears wrong, and wrong seems to be right. Perfection is in Christ, our exemplar, our leader, our guide, not in humanity at large, certainly not in ourselves. Sanctification is the process of opening spiritually blinded eyes, of securing clear and adequate moral vision, of turning from the path of obscurity to the path of the shining light. This exalted state is reached by dying to sin and living to God and righteousness. May the Psalmist's prayer be ours: "Cleanse thou me from secret faults."

It must ever and always mean dying to all questionable pleasure and foolish frivolities. "May I do this?" is in an argument and its right or privilege. There is no twilight hour in Christian experience, no hour when it is neither light nor darkness. The line between the dominion of sin and of righteousness is clearly drawn and may be distinctly seen by all who will have the least desire to search for it. "All unrighteousness is sin." The benefits of the doubt would better be given to God. Certainly it should not always be decided in favor of Satan and unrighteousness. Most of our spiritual defeats are due to the fact that we seek to exonerate ourselves on the ground that we did not see anything wrong in what we were doing. The city we desire was a little city. It did not amount to much. Surely there was nothing wrong in desiring it and in taking it. But ignorance is no just and satisfactory excuse. If justice in earthly courts establishes such a rule how infinitely more important then does it become that we should know what is true and right in relation to the kingdom of grace!

The wild pursuit of pleasure is one of the means of the day. So mad is this rush that it is in imminent danger of breaking down the morale of the country. The meanness of the public bathing pool cannot be over estimated. It endangers the physical, the moral, and the spiritual welfare of those who indulge in the questionable pleasure that it affords. Yet so keen is the pursuit of pleasure, so persistent the demand that it be gratified, that people are constantly seeking the delights of the beach, the lake, or the bathing pool give. In commenting on this condition of affairs, those who have had opportunity to observe do not hesitate to say that promiscuous bathing has reached the point where it is a serious menace to the morals of the country.

In passing from death to life the dying to all carnal propensities is involved. This mind, so greatly at variance with the will of God, is just like a mirror turned face downward. In such a position it reflects everything under it. In righteousness, we may think of the mirror as turned upward. In this position it reflects everything above it. Nor is this reversal a human accomplishment. It takes influences above and outside our lives to work us from sin to righteousness, to turn our faces Godward.

Then our wills must become subordinated. This is ever and always a severe process. It is frequently a hard lesson, bitterly learned, burned in by terrible suffering, that corrodes like deadly poison. The will is imperial. Its conquest, capture and subordination to the highest aims and the purest ideals is the highest fact in the course of life. The greatest freedom is, in the acknowledged power of doing as we please, yet we choose to do that which is right and best. The subordination of the will does not in any remotest sense mean its injury or annihilation. The Bible nowhere teaches a death of this sort as a necessity or essential to the largest liberty and the highest freedom. Our wills are to be used in making the choice of the best and then pursuing that persistently.

Turned in any direction the will is not so endowed either to reject God or to turn from his purposes, though to be sure we may do that. But victory is won in "Alove to lose my will in His And by that loss be free."

TUESDAY DECLARED AS "LUBBOCK DAY" AND MAY MEAN THE DISBANDMENT OF THE HUBBER CLUB

According to a statement made yesterday by Sled Allen, former Skipper, but now business manager of the Hubbers, the organization has reached very strenuous straits from a financial standpoint, and unless something is done before the club leaves on its next road trip, which is supposed to open Wednesday, the club, in all probability will not take the road, but will dissolve as a defunct organization.

Mr. Allen says that a great deal depends on the sale receipts for the three additional games which are scheduled here in this present home stand of the club, and that if the receipts from these exhibitions do not go beyond the average, there is hardly a possibility of the club finishing the season, thus not only throwing Lubbock in the limelight as a city that will not support baseball, and breaking up the Panhandle-Pecos Valley League, but also robbing the Hubbers boys, who have fought against odds for victory, of their glory and satisfaction in competing in the playoff.

Next Tuesday, the last appearance of the Hubbers for this home stand, has been set aside as "Lubbock Day," and every business house in the city will be asked to close its with himself. In the third Mahin flew out to second, Routh was out at first unassisted; Chastine parked the ball, Young doubled but Wise was out at first unassisted. In the seventh, Routh singled and advanced to third on an error, Wise walked. File hit for two bases, scoring Routh and Wise; Hill went for first on short's error and File scored during the play.

The Hubber squad is a winning ball club, being considered as one of the strongest clubs in the league, and is fought harder by other clubs than any other. They carried away the honors in the first half of the season against seemingly insurmountable odds, and it is not fair to the boys who have put up such a fight that the club is even facing disbandment.

The bill for this afternoon including a double header against the league leading Amarillo Gassers, and Monday will be rest day.

"These last three games," said Mr. Allen, "will mean whether or not Lubbock remains in organized baseball, and it is up to the fans of the city to come thru with their part of the contract."

ERRORS ARE COSTLY GIVING GASERS EARLY LEAD OF FIVE RUNS FOR WIN OF FIRST OF SERIES

Errors on the part of the Hubbers sound yesterday with the Gassers off to a flying start with a five run lead, an dthey annexed the first exhibition of the series to 2.

Dick Morgan, with the exception of the first three innings, when five hits were garnered, his off-ferings was airtight, and at no time beyond the third was in any danger, retiring the Gassers three men in order with the exception of the ninth when Farley beat out a

CLOVIS, Aug. 4.—Kennedy pitched airtight ball today and his team mates supported him well which accounted for the Cub's victory over the Giants here today by a score of 7 to 3. Kennedy struck out 11 of the Giants and allowed only six singles while the Cubs got to Mickey for seven singles, two doubles and two circuit clouts. Roswell opened in the first when McBride singled, stole second and scored on Lind's single. McBride scored again in the sixth when he singled and went to second on an error and came home on Fruth's single. Bedford singled in the eighth, when to second on a passed ball and scored on Fruth's single. Clovis also started in the first when Mahin walked. Routh singled, Castine went to first and a choice and Routh was caught at second; Skipper Pep Young parked the ball scoring Chastine along Mesdames Bledsoe and Cosby Hostesses to 24-42 Club.

An unusually pretty social event of the week was held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe on Broadway Friday afternoon with Mesdames Bledsoe and G. M. Cosby joint hostesses to the 24-42 Club.

A wealth of lovely gladioli, purple and rose asters, roses and pink and blue tuberoses were in profusion, forming a beautiful setting for the tables which were placed for forty-two, in which an hour was enjoyed progressively playing.

As the guests arrived they were served by Miss Grace Boyd of Hillsboro, to delicious colonial fruit punch. At the close of the games a dainty salad course consisting of frozen fruit salad, cheese, straws, olives, bread and butter sandwiches and ice tea. Those who played were:

Mesdames T. H. Atkins, H. T. Kimbro, J. A. Rix, F. R. Friend, A. B. Conley, Jr., W. O. Stevens, W. H. Meador, J. F. Jackson, H. I. Pharr, H. A. Davidson, Albert Taylor, George C. Wolffarth, Blair, W. S. Posey, E. I. Klett, W. B. Atkins, Clark M. Smith, O. L. Slaton, Roger Q. Pierce, R. M. Dickinson, M. C. Duering, J. F. Bacon, T. B. Duggan, and Miss Delta Wilkinson. Tea guests were: Mesdames F. A. Boone, of Brandon, Roscoe Wilson, J. L. Showell and T. J. Leland.

Lubbock Public Library Sets Example.
The people of Lubbock are proud of the library and of its rapid progress, they are especially glad to know that it is attracting the attention of the other cities and that they are trying to follow it as an example.

Delegates from Sweetwater, Hamlin and Lamesa have been sent here to investigate its organization, method of book campaigns, securing librarian and other items essential to making a library a success.

The Lubbock Public Library has been one of the most successful libraries to its size and age in the State.

Mrs. E. M. Conley Received Sew-City Club.
The Sew-City Club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Elmer Conley, at her home 1612 Ninth Street. The hour was pleasantly spent in needle work and genial conversation, after which delicious refreshments were served to the following guests: J. Walter Cummings of Dallas; Chatman of Old Mexico; Momer Pharr; Howard Wheelock; Robert Jennings; Earl Hunt, F. E. Wheelock; and club members: Mesdames Russel Myrick, Guy McAfee, H. H. Griffith, J. T. Krueger, Ernest Conley, Lee Duggan and the hostess.

WOMEN PLAN TO ECONOMIZE TIME

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (United Press). Housekeeping took its place beside the other sciences here this week when several hundred women from all parts of the country attended a 5-day meeting of the American Home Economics association.

Discussions of the problems of home making indicated that American housewives were bent on establishing efficiency in the home. Under the direction of the association, women in a half hundred communities have been conducting practical experiments within their own homes with charts, diagrams and time schedules.

The object of their experiments, the women disclosed, was to reduce the time required for household tasks to be the minimum and obtain more leisure for the housekeeper.

Among the speakers were: Mrs. D. H. Otis, Madison, Wis., "The Home Maker's Responsibility for Obtaining Leisure"; Mrs. Orville Shipman, De Kalb, Ill., and Mrs. H. H. Douglass, Northwood, Ia., "Month's Experience with a Time Schedule"; Mrs. Elsie Park Duncan Columbia, Mo., "A Study of the Housekeeper's Working Day"; Mrs. Samuel Bradt, De Kalb, Ill., prominent Illinois club woman, presided.

On Friday the women will take up child care and training.

Federated Club Items Seventh District.

The following letter has been received from Mr. J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon, Texas:

To the Clubs of the Seventh District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs:

Many inquiries have come to the college recently asking what is to be done regarding the Extension Courses offered by members of the faculty who will be away during the ensuing year. The work which these members of the faculty have planned for the year 1923-24 will be carried on as is stated in Bulletin No. 31, entitled Extension Courses, offered to Women's Clubs.

The club work of each member of the faculty who will be absent from Canyon during the coming year will be carried on by that member of the faculty wherever he is, and the clubs which take his work will be informed of his address so that they can write him as easily as if he were at Canyon.

The lectures will be given by the person who takes the place of the absentee faculty member, under his direction, and we think they will be satisfactory in every respect.

Mrs. T. V. Reeves will have charge of the Extension Department at the West Texas State Teachers College, and all letters of inquiry should be addressed to her. She has been relieved of all instructional duties so that she may be able to give her whole time to this and kindred activities.

On page 9 of Bulletin 31 appears the course entitled Planning the Diet for the Family. The Bulletin states that no credit will be given for this course. This is a mistake; credit will be given for this as other courses.

Yours very truly,
J. A. Hill, President.

Scholarships and Loans.
A very important department of the Seventh District Federation is that of Scholarships and Loans in charge of Mr. A. H. (Margaret) Ware of Amarillo. Mrs. Ware has at her disposal four scholarships in the Teachers College at Canyon, one in the Clarendon College, one in stenography in the Amarillo Business College, and one has been promised from the Wayland College at Plainview.

These scholarships offer a wonderful opportunity for deserving girls and boys to continue their education, and the club women of the district are urged to bear this in mind and do what they can to see that the proper persons are put in touch with Mrs. Ware in connection with this matter. Address her 1610 Van Buren St., Amarillo, Texas.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

Pat O'Malley will play "Steve in 'The Virginian,' Owen Winter's story, now being produced by B. P. Schulberg for Preferred Pictures.

"Kid" McCoy, erstwhile champion of the gloves, is now pursuing the more peaceable career of a film actor and is one of the featured players in "April Showers," a Tom Forman production for fall release.

Following the completion of "The Virginian," Tom Forman will direct George Agnew Chamberlain's story, "White Man," for Preferred Pictures.

Crauford Kent, villain of a hundred screen dramas, is pursuing his course of evil in "Mother-in-Law," a screen story by the Dazeys; authors of "Rich Men's Wives" and "Poor Men's Wives."

Kenneth Harlan has been put thru an intensive course of training by twenty-five real working cowboys, and will be seen in actual work of punching cows in "The Virginian."

Clara Bow will probably be given a role in "The Boomerang," Belasco's play chosen as Victor Schertzinger's first production for B. P. Schulberg.

Clara Bow is one of two new residents whom Hollywood has acquired during the last few weeks. The other is Netta Westcott, English stage actress. Both Miss Bow and Miss Westcott have been signed as members of Preferred Pictures' permanent stock company.

Kenneth Harlan, back from location at Mount Whitney, California, where Tom Forman's company has been making "The Virginian," is displaying a genuine cowboy haircut. Louis D. Lighton, scenarist with the expedition, accomplished a workmanlike trimming of Harlan's locks with the aid of sheep shears.

Children's Prayer

Mother, I think I'm going to make a collection of prayers," said my small boy one evening.

"Very well," said I, "I think that will be fine. Are you going to paste them in your scrap-book?"

"Yes, but I'm going to learn them first. But when can I say them? I can't say them all every night, can I?"

"Well, perhaps not if you have a large collection, but you can say your favorite one every night, and have the others ready for special occasions. There are so many times when you want to ask God for something, or thank Him for that which He has already given you. It would be very nice to have all ready for use, a collection of prayers which someone has already thought out and expressed in more beautiful language than you would be likely to use if you made them hastily."

Now, whenever he finds a prayer which he wants to add to his collection, we read it thru, and discuss it, then we decide on special occasions it would be likely to have the most meaning for him. Some, of course, have to be adapted to meet his needs.

I feel that in changing them I have been able to avoid dampening the religious feeling that is being awakened in the child, and I hope thus to avert the danger that arises wherever formal prayers are used—that they shall become a mere mechanical repetition of words.

I have always believed that a child's prayer should be spontaneous and natural, and that if formal prayers are used, they should be explained and made to have some real significance.

I believe, too, that the child should understand that he must do his part in having his prayer answered.

One of the prayers which Laddie had in his "collection" and which he has adapted to his needs, is for use when his baseball team is going to play a game.

"But," said he, when we were discussing it, "what if one of the fellows on the other side prays as much as I do?"

Then I recalled to him the fact that God helps those who help themselves, and together we summed up the conclusions, that regular systematic practice would be needed, and all the fellows on the winning team would need to be brave and honest, and always play fair.

I tried to make him see that while our prayers may not always be answered in just the way we expect, we will, if we do our part, always get either that for which we ask, or something better. In proof of this I recalled his disappointment last summer at the postponement of the Sunday School picnic, because of a rainy day. We had the picnic later on, and we also had a large quantity of blackberries, which we would not have had if the drought had continued, and we are still having blackberry jam.

Just as I have tried always to make my child's confidence, to make him every ready to have a "good talk over," as he calls it, so I have tried to make him feel that nothing which interests him is too small or too insignificant to be taken to God in prayer. And just as he has learned to feel that Mother and Dad are "good sports" and can understand and forgive his little boyish mistakes, so he is coming to realize the greater understanding and ever ready forgiveness of the "All-Father."

Just as the Indian lad when he went alone into the mountains to fast and pray ("make a vision") was unconsciously setting up in his own mind and ideal into which his character would develop, so he is the child who early forms the habit of prayer.

FROZEN DESERTS

Ice Cream
1 1/2 cups milk
3/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoonful flour
1 egg
1 pint cream
2 teaspoonfuls vanilla
Bring the milk to a boil. Beat the egg; stir into the boiling milk and put over the fire. Cook until it thickens; add the cream and the rest of the sugar; cool; add vanilla and freeze. If desired, fresh fruits, mashed and sweetened, may be added instead of vanilla.

Orange Sherbet
1 egg
1 quart milk
1 pint cream
Juice and grated rind of 3 oranges
2 1/2 cups sugar
Beat the egg lightly and add to it the milk and cream. Dissolve the sugar with the lemon and orange; mix with the other ingredients and freeze. Serve in hollowed-out orange cases and garnish the plate with bits of asparagus fern or tiny lace fern leaves, pointing from the orange case in a star shape.

Mint Ice
Make a lemonade and sweeten it with a syrup made from boiling one cupful of sugar with two cupfuls of water for one minute. Fill a small sauce pan full of mint leaves bruise them with the fingers; then cover them for a moment with boiling water. Strain this, then add to the liquid a little green vegetable coloring. Mix with the lemonade, chill and freeze. A tablespoonful of mint ice added to a glass of ice tea is delicious served with salad and sandwiches at afternoon tea.

Lemon Ice
3 pints water
Juice of 6 lemons
3 cupfuls sugar
Whites of 2 eggs
Let the sugar and water boil together for ten minutes; add the lemon juice, strain and cool. When partly frozen add the beaten whites of the eggs.

Maple Mousse
1/2 cupful saltanas
1/2 cupful maple syrup
1 pint thick cream
1/2 tablespoonful lemon juice
Wash, drain and soak the raisins in the syrup for several hours; then strain the syrup into the cream. Whip to a stiff froth; add the raisins and lemon juice, and turn into a freezer without the beaters. Surround by equal parts of salt and ice, and let stand until firm.

FLOWER WISDOM

"A garden cannot live entirely to itself. Even the finest stock needs fresh blood from the garden of another."

A few little purple petunias can spoil a whole bed of mammoth fringed beauties. Some flowers must not be massed; they are so depressing when past their prime.

Before your roses blossom, sow their beds with forget-me-nots.

All pansies are gadabouts, and take fresh life from change of scene. It takes chrysanthemums two years to recover from one move.

The scarlet runner is worth while; it grows well, looks well and eats well.

Foxgloves are all on the surface; they are a joy if constantly renewed.

When our Oriental Poppies begin to sulk in the early fall—let them alone!

Fertilize deep if you want strong roots for endurance.

What is easily grown and free flowering is never appreciated by the gardener; if the neighbors are successful with it, down goes its value another peg.

If flowers don't fill a bit of bare ground, weeds will.

Long Skirts Are Rejected by U. S.

By the United Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—"Never kick a ham when its down!" shouted the designers in behalf of the long skirt.

"Raise it upwards!" smile the ladies.

Long skirts are "out." Women simply won't have them. There was a short time last fall when women, tired of the long vogue for short skirts, decided that the long skirt was the thing. But the fondness for the short hem is again upon them.

Paris really sets the length for skirts. At present they are wearing them quite high again and have been doing so for some time. If Parisian women can get away with short skirts, surely the slender limbed Americans can. It is to be hoped, however, that the ridiculous short skirts which were worn by matron and flapper alike in America, will never be popular again. We went to extremes in skirt length. It was said that an American girl could always be distinguished in Paris by her short skirts.

Skirts which are from eight to ten inches from the floor are sensible, pretty, comfortable and youthful. Of course one's short length should depend upon the size of one's ankle and foot. A large, heavy ankle is better when least exposed. Large feet are least exposed when the skirt reaches just above the ankle, as both the short and the extremely long skirt seem to draw attention to them.

The evening frock for fall will continue using long skirt lengths as the formal evening gown really is at its best when long. Velvet, metal cloth and luxurious materials seem to demand long skirts.

Dance frocks on the other hand, are both long and short.

The girl who really dances for the love of it, prefers a dress that has fullness and that is short enough to allow freedom of motion. Chiffons have been popular with the younger girls for this season. Beaded gowns of more elaborate trend lend themselves better to length, however.

But whether our evening frock is long or short, our day gowns will be short. Those who welcome the return of the short skirt should bear in mind that the only thing that puts a style "down and out" is to overdo it.

Short skirts won't stay in style six months. If the flappers, debutantes and chorus girls make themselves ridiculous by parading in the public in skirts that should be restricted to a bath house, a leg is never so attractive as when partially left to the imagination.

General crop outlook is fair with no evidence of over-production. Decreased production as compared with the five-year average as shown in the case of wheat, corn, oats an

SKIRTS GO UP

By the United Press.

SOFIA, Aug. 4.—Whoever may regret the assassination of Stamboulisky, the Bulgarian dictator, the Bulgarian women and the tailors and shoemakers of the country do not. The tailors have been flooded with orders for knee-length dresses and the shoe makers have been kept overtime at their last since Stamboulisky's death. The reason is that he, as much a puritan as a political reformer, had had a law passed forbidding women to wear short gowns or high heeled shoes. Since his disappearance they have been celebrating their regained liberty.

To-Morrow Lubbock Merchants Unite in Presenting Their First Monthly Co-Operative

DOLLAR DAY

In all Lines of Business Special Offerings Will be on Sale at One Dollar

Tomorrow will be a red letter sales day in Lubbock. The merchants of this city have decided on a plan of offering on the First Monday in every month extra values in all classes of merchandise at the uniform price of $1.00. Tomorrow, August 6th, the first Co-Operative Dollar Day Sales will be held. This is a wonderful opportunity for you to supply your every need at a decided saving. Your grocery merchant will have specials at $1.00, your dry goods merchants will also offer specials, your drug merchant will try to see how much goods he can sell for $1.00 and so on down the entire list of different businesses. This is your opportunity. Seize it.

Read the Ads of the Different Merchants---You are Sure to Find Bargains of Interest

Throughout the paper you will find the details in the ads of the different merchants. A glance at the offerings they are making will convince you that they mean business and that this Dollar Day feature means much to you. Note the large number of different lines of business that are represented. No matter what your needs may be you will find that you can supply yourself tomorrow at the low price of one dollar. Make out your list and spend the day saving money on all your purchases.

The Spirit of Co-Operation Makes This Dollar Day the Biggest Sale Day of the Month

Think what this co-operative movement means to you. In the past you would never be able to supply your needs in all lines at the same time at price reductions. One line of business would have a sale today, some other tomorrow and still another later. Tomorrow you will find every merchant in Lubbock has on a sale, a Dollar Sale, a sale in which he has done his best to give you the biggest possible value for your dollar. Dollars will buy more tomorrow than they have bought in many a day. Better arrange to spend as many as possible while their buying power is so great.

*The Merchants Listed Below will all Have on Sale
Many Items Specially Priced $1.00*

Lubbock County Representatives Brought Home a Majority of the Honors in State Contests Conducted at A. & M. Short Course

County Agent J. W. Jennings, and County Home Demonstration Agent Miss Mabel Marsh, together with several club boys and girls of Lubbock county are at home from College Station where they won the greatest number of honors of any other one county delegation in the contests at the A. & M. Short Course, which were participated in by practically all of the counties in the State.

Lubbock county's winnings were started when Curtis Grimes, of the Acuff Community held his own through the poultry judging contest and came out in the finals in second place among the individuals, and the Lubbock county team composed of Miss Mary Bowles, of Shallowater, and the Grimes boy, won third place for the county.

Mrs. Earl Davis, also of Acuff, won second place in the Better Kitchen Contest, having been pitted against a long list of contestants. Miss Mabel Marsh proved again that Lubbock county is in the lead insofar as supporting an expert home demonstration agent, by winning sixth place in the Demonstration Agents' Poultry Judging Contest.

J. W. Jennings put a good one over the balance of the contestants in the county agents' poultry judging contest by winning first place. He was not satisfied with winning this contest, however, and entered the general contest in judging grain, livestock and poultry, in which he won ninth place. He was the fifth high individual in the stock judging contest.

Lubbock county folks are looking after the vocational education of their children, and the splendid showing our representatives made at the A. & M. Short Course contests is evidence of the good work they are doing.

growing in the new areas of the world and the loss of labor east of the Mississippi, not to mention the lessened yield through the cotton belt from boll weevil damage, conspire to put West Texas in a position of peculiar advantage. On these level Plains, with soils easy to cultivate, with comparative or complete immunity from the weevil according to latitude and winter temperature, the cost of producing cotton here is low enough to offset the lighter yields in season of scanty rainfall and to furnish profits large enough to absorb the losses of occasional drouth. I am not scientist enough to speak confidently of the possibility of increasing the drouth resistance of the cotton plant, but it seems to my lay mind that since the plant breeders have been able to shorten the period of maturity, to lengthen the fiber and otherwise greatly modify the habits of the plant, is not unreasonable to hope that diligence in research and seed selection may evolve a variety of cotton that will produce a fair crop with the limited rainfall of West Texas.

296 WORLD WAR VETS CARED FOR AT SAN ANTONIO

By the United Press
SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 3.—Two hundred and ninety-six world war veterans are being cared for at the station hospital, Fort Sam Houston, according to officials of the local American Legion.

General insurance is feasible and is urgently needed for protection of American agriculture in opinion of Department of Agriculture, a government agency not favored, however.

The Plains As a Cotton Producing Section

(Southwest Plainsman)

Among the prominent speakers at the Agricultural and Community Life Institute, recently held there, was Clarence Ousley, who had the following to say in regard to the Plains as a cotton section:

"West Texas is the most promising field in the world for the increase of cotton, needed in the future," said Clarence Ousley. "He said also: 'At this moment, cotton is the most interesting commodity in the world. From both the scientific and the economic standpoint, an actual crisis impends. The supply is nearing exhaustion after two years of consumption in excess of production. The acreage in all the present cotton areas of the world will not likely be increased this year in the ratio of the disparity of the last two years, and as the surplus upon which the mills have been drawing will be nearly exhausted by the end of the current season, the sufficiency of supply next year depends upon increased acre yield or decreased demand.

"If we have the average acre yield, and if consumption continues as at the present time, there will be a cotton famine by this time next year, and that will mean widespread industrial dislocation and wild speculation. Please understand that I do not predict such a crisis. The resourcefulness of this old world is so great that when a calamitous possibility is foreseen the genius of commerce finds a way to avert it or to soften its effects. The immediate situation of most interest to us in the South is the probability of continuing good prices. Without an exceptional yield or without a further collapse in Europe, I confidently expect prices for the new crop well above the rest of production."

"Prevailing good prices for cotton are due to several causes," he declared, "as in the first place, we have farmed better; that is, we have produced relatively more of the necessary foods and feeds and have not relied entirely upon cotton to sustain us. In the second place, we have merchandised more intelligently; we have not dumped quite so recklessly as heretofore. This improvement we owe mainly to the co-operative associations. In the third place, we have financed more wisely, more economically and more profitably. This has been due to the courage of the Southern bankers in general and particularly to the activity of the Federal International Banking Company, which was organized in 1921 and is owned and operated by some 1,200 cotton belt banks to finance exports.

"But while these factors have been highly useful, after all the great thing is that we have disposed of the burdensome surplus which we had two years ago. With reduced world production and increased American consumption, the trade is wondering whether we can produce enough this year to run the mills next year. That is why Great Britain, whose spinning industry in Lancashire is as vital to her commercial life as spending here sums to develop cotton growing in Australia and the Sudan. And her efforts are yielding no little encouragement.

"The truth appears to be that if we are unable to reduce the ravages of the boll weevil two serious consequences will follow. First, the South cannot grow cotton profitably upon the basis of boll weevil yield at a price much below the average of the last season, and, second, such prices are almost certain to develop other cotton-growing areas."

"The domestic fact of greatest concern at this time is the operation of the negroes from the Southern States east of the Mississippi. The experimental stage of cotton

HOT SPRINGS—ONE OF MOST POPULAR RESORTS

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 4.—The Hot Springs National Park, in the mountains of Arkansas, is one of the most popular of our national health resorts, being visited by more than 100,000 people each year. Not all visitors are in search of health, especially, some are in search of pleasure, but whether they visit the park for health or for pleasure are attracted by the famous hot springs. The hot water of the springs was used by the Indians before America was discovered and was used by white people, perhaps

Large Stocks Are Being Bought for A. B. Conley Store

Ernest Conley, of the A. B. Conley, Jr., store who is in the St. Louis and New York markets purchasing the fall and winter goods for the store, will make larger purchases on this trip than have been made in some time.

This heavy buying on the part of the Conley store management is due to the confidence they have in the merchandising business in Lubbock, and because they desire to help the balance of Lubbock's dry goods merchants meet all the demands that are being placed upon them, and which will be this fall should a bumper crop be gathered. Lubbock merchants realize that much is expected of them as Lubbock is becoming more prominent as the trade center of this great country, and they may be depended upon to meet the heartiest expectations of their friends.

The A. B. Conley, Jr., store is one of the establishments that has had a part in everything designed to further the development of this territory, and will continue to hold its place in Lubbock.

This Steel-Top Touring Sedan Unites Open-Car Range, Closed Car Comfort

A charming close-coupled Sedan for five, notably for power, safety, ease of control—and sheer beauty!

No "soft-top" makeshift here, but standard steel top-panels that run flush to the eaves. Wide, 29-inch doors admit large folks easily.

Sunny Sorrento blue body enhances black fenders and radiator—bright nickel accents lamps and hubcaps. Interior in taupe velvet—intimate, yet roomy. Broad 45-inch rear seat. Full-upholstered front chairs fold forward. No similar car with such pleasing proportions. Complete from cowl ventilator to power tire pump and touring trunk.

Last and best—a 59-horsepower motor of thrilling range and response with intake manifold inside the cylinder head—a dream to drive! See this Touring Sedan today.

BILL DOLLAR SAYS TRAIN THE YOUNG GENERATION TO BELIEVE IN AND PATRONIZE HOME PEOPLE

Copyright, 1923, by F. W. Mozart. "Bill" Dollar looked up his ear as he heard his own say. "The place may be on the penniless young fellow's side, but it's on the side of the human view point and not what the books say."

"To leave his country not in a worse, but a better state than he found it, to obey the magistrates and the laws and defend them against attack; finally, to hold in honor the religion of his country."

"If your father and your mother were building a beautiful home, and you knew that it would come to you for your own when you passed on, you would be very careful of it, and everything in it wouldn't you? Then consider Lubbock as the house they are building for you, and you will be yourself."

"Whenever a bond issue for some public improvement such as schools or good roads is authorized, and matures in from ten to forty years, it means that you will pay your full share of the tax. And no matter where you go you will find that you are paying for something that your elders thought would be good for you."

"A heavy responsibility gravitates to each young person in this community, for as the responsible citizen of Lubbock in a few years more they will have to mesh in gradually to the wheel of progress."

"Where will your business come from if your chums of today do not develop into the loyal citizens of tomorrow? Spend your money at home, in Lubbock and thereby show your faith in your city by helping it to expand."

GERMANY IS DEVELOPING HER POWER IN AIR WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. (United Press)—Germany has embarked upon an ambitious program of international aviation.

The Allies withdrawal of the restriction which forbade information on air service by Germany, was a signal for extensive development of Germany's air lines.

These eight have now been grouped into two large combinations, the "Junkers Luftverkehr" and the "Aero-Lloyd."

In practically every direction regular German air lines are either in operation or being planned. At present Germany is placing her greatest efforts on air line connections with Russia, Scandinavia, and the Balkans.

"During the 1923 season, services to Budapest, via Munich and Vienna, will be undertaken; it is planned to extend this line to Belgrade.

"The London-Amsterdam-Berlin line is being operated through an agreement between the English Daimler Air Service, Ltd., and the German companies."

WHAT YOU CAN SEE TODAY

WHO'S WHO IN 'THE SIN FLOOD'

Helen Chadwick, the only girl in "The Sin Flood," to be shown at the R. & E. theatre for two days beginning Monday, came to the screen with the reputation of being the "most photographed girl in America," because of her beauty. She has posed for countless art pictures, posters and cover illustrations. Her first motion picture of note was "Scratch My Back," a Rupert Hughes comedy, and Mr. Hughes chose her for several succeeding photo-plays because of it. Her beauty is unquestionable, and each screen role has marked her growth in cinema artistry.

Richard Dix is called one of the handsomest men on the screen. Besides this, he can act. Following his first screen appearance (after an interesting speaking stage career) in "Not Guilty," he was offered a number of strong roles, but chose to become a Goldwyn stock actor. With that studio he has played in "Dangerous Curves Ahead," "All Fair in Love," and "The Glorious Fool." His latest appearance is in "The Sin Flood," a Frank Lloyd production, coming to the R. & E. Lindsey theatre on Monday for two days.

James Kirkwood, who plays a symbolic and dominating role in "The Sin Flood," a Goldwyn photo-play, coming to the R. & E. Lindsey theatre on Monday for two days, is one of the screen's strongest male artists. For years he "trouped" on the speaking stage with Blanche Bates, Henry Miller, Margaret Anglin, and others; and was at one time a motion picture director. Jack Pickford's "Bill Apperson's Boy" was directed by Kirkwood. The number of his screen appearances is too large to give by name in full.

John Stepping, one of the ten men in "The Sin Flood," a Goldwyn picture, to be seen at the R. & E. Lindsey theatre on Monday for two days, dates his experience back to the days when Shakespeare was popular. He played Mark Antony in the Lewis James production of "Julius Caesar." He was with Olga Nethersole, Henrietta Crossman, and other well known actresses. A few of his recent appearances were in "Billions," "The Heart of a Child," "Black Beauty."

WINNING TENNIS PLAYERS SEPARATE IN FAR EAST

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 4.—Lewis White of Austin and Louis Thalheimer of Dallas who compose the University of Texas tennis team which won the national intercollegiate doubles this year, split last week when Thalheimer returned home in order to enter the Southwestern tournament at Dallas next week, and White remained in the East where he will enter the coming tournament at Newport-Southampton and National doubles. White and Thalheimer have received an invitation to take part in the latter tournament, but it is not likely that Thalheimer will return to the East.

LONGHORN BAND MAY PLAY AT ABILENE

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 4.—An invitation to play again at the All-West Texas Fair to be held in Abilene September 28-30 has come to the University of Texas Longhorn band and will probably be accepted, band officials state. The band will also play for the Central Texas State Fair to be held in Austin, October 1.

The Longhorn Band played for the Abilene fair in 1921 and the invitation was repeated for last fall, but the organization was unable to accept. If the contract is signed with the fair officials, the band will organize in Austin about September 18 and go from here to San Angelo September 20, in order to conclude preliminary training. Members of the band will be entertained there by Harold Broome, drum major of the organization, until they leave for Abilene on September 28.

Having completed the Abilene contract the band will return to Austin about October 1, in time to play for the Central Texas State Fair.

All profits realized from these engagements will be used in the purchase of new uniforms for use during the coming year, it is stated.

TRAVELING MEN ENTER TAIN LOCAL C. OF C.

a part and parcel of the entertainment that is never to be forgotten, and the marathon eating race between H. E. Miller and Attorney W. W. Campbell added merriment to the occasion, with the attorney for outstripping his fellow-consumer.

R. N. Meyers, past counselor U. C. T., of Oklahoma City, addressed the salesmen and Chamber of Commerce members urging them to organize a council in Lubbock. His speech was not confined to the one subject, and he gave some very interesting glimpses into the past life of "Oklahoma Joe" Hess, local loan man.

W. B. Winters, of Falls, assured the travelers that Falls is awake to the good they have wrought for that city, and emphasized the fact that Crosby county as a whole is willing to help them in any way possible in making their home in Lubbock—a better place in which for them to live. Mr. Winters' talk was expressive of the wide-spread interest that is shown in Lubbock.

S. L. Forrest of Slaton, told how he had watched the development of the South Plains for the past twelve years and how Lubbock and Slaton are now working as one to make Lubbock county the center of commercial and industrial life of this vast empire.

Mrs. Ed O'Sullivan pleased those present with two beautiful vocal selections, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Raymond George.

Miss Edith Carter, accompanied by Miss Mary Meador, gave two appreciated vocal numbers, which lent a touch of refinement to the program that was give very favorable comment.

R. E. (Bob) Meyers, of Plainview, one of the old boys of the road who knew all about roller towels and sir foot bed sheets, public drinking cups and livery rigs of the days of '49, was called upon to relate some of his experiences, which have a significant bearing upon the history of the development of West Texas. Mr. Meyers is one of the lovable old chaps who will not give up the road until after the balance of this old world has been practically spent insofar as he is concerned, and his presence was appreciated by his younger brothers of the profession. He urged the younger men to get into a U. C. T. organization, and declared a council in Lubbock would be a great factor in the development of the city.

"Around the room" discussion was conducted by Mr. Lyle, but it was unnecessary for anyone to warn those present to dodge.

The travelers were complimented highly upon the success of the banquet, and were given the assurance of the Chamber of Commerce members that their interests in Lubbock will ever be safeguarded in face of all circumstances.

Wheat's so low, it must think it is a German mark, or something.
