ENTIRE PLAINS ASKED TO AID TECH PARTY

LOCAL RECEPTION COMMITTEE URGES ALL ENTER SPIRIT AS HOSTS ON ARMISTICE DAY HERE

While the Tech College is being built as an all State institution, and for that matter will serve the entire Southwest, the towns of West Texas perhaps at present appreciate the benefits that will be derived from it more than do the towns of any other section, and for this reason the towns of this immediate section are being asked to help Lubbock act as host on November 11th, when the corner stone of the administration building will be laid.

SANITY TRIAL GRANTED HIGHT

PLEA TO MURDER INDICTMENT IS HELD UP FOR "POISON PASTOR"

MOUNT VERNON, Ok., Oct. 22.—Fighting to beat the gallows, Lawrence M. Hight, poison pastor of this place, has requested for a sanity trial before he is allowed to plead to the murder indictment charging he killed his wife, Anna, and also pleaded the death of Wilford Scoville, husband of his affinity, by the administration of arsenic. Judge E. J. Kern entered an order Wednesday that the sanity trial be held in Jefferson county court here before Judge John Storey, starting October 29.

Hight was elated over his victory. His counsel, A. B. Layman and states attorney Frank Thompson Thursday morning will argue the question of whether the sanity hearing is to be entered as a civil or criminal case. H. C. Smith, attorney for Elsie Sweetin, who has confessed she poisoned her husband, under persuasion of the pastor, said he was ready to go to trial at once, but that he had no desire to rush the prosecution. Elsie has pleaded "not guilty."

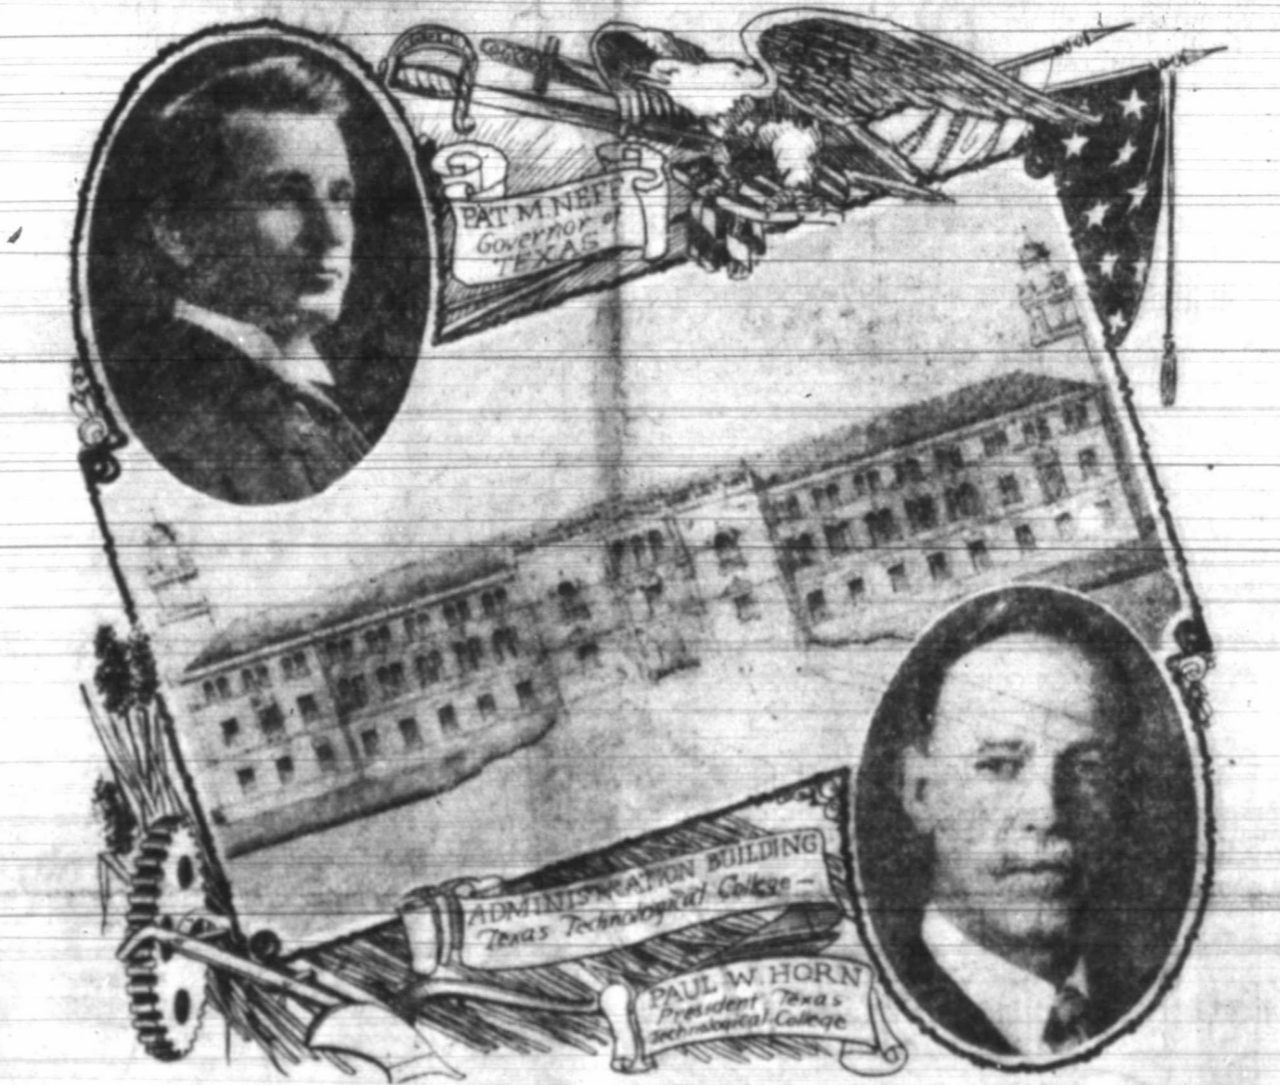

HOCKLEY CO. MAN IS DEAD RESULT SELF-INFLICTED WOUND

W. S. Puryear, janitor of the Levelland public school and resident in the town for two months, ended his own life by sending a bullet from a large caliber revolver crashing through his brain. The act was done at one o'clock Tuesday night but death did not occur until Wednesday at four o'clock a. m. The physicians called were unable to be of assistance as the bullet entered near the right ear and came out the back of the head, tearing away sections of the brain. No cause was given for the act other than falling health. Puryear was said to have been for a long time a sufferer from lung trouble and is said to have told friends at one time that he would be better off if dead. However, he was reported as having been in a splendid mood prior to the shooting. He was forty-five years of age and has one son, W. S. Puryear, who is employed at the Lubbock cotton compress and two daughters, one of whom is teaching in the Levelland school where her father was employed as janitor. The remains will be shipped to Weatherford, Texas.

Denton Railway Man Sues for $40,000 Alleged Damages

DENTON, Texas, Oct. 22.—Run over by a hand car after the handle used in propulsion had broken precipitating him under the wheels, J. D. Milton is suing the Texas and Pacific railroad, his employers for $40,000 alleged damages. Milton claims an expectancy of 60 years usefulness and values his services at $300 a month.

Corner Stone Laying of The Texas Tech Nov. 11

The site of the Texas Technological college will be the site of one of the greatest celebrations ever attempted in this section of Texas in behalf of higher education on November 11th, when in cooperation with the Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion the board of Regents will entertain between thirty and forty thousand people with an elaborate ceremony at the laying of the cornerstone of what will ultimately become the greatest school of technology in the south.

Construction work on the college will be halted through that day when the men responsible for the progress that has been made on the buildings under construction will join in the celebration; and when the thousands of visitors will have an opportunity to see through the large administration building that will always be the outstanding structure of the series of buildings that will constitute the college system.

The Masonic Lodge will have charge of the ceremonies and Governor Pat M. Neff will deliver the principal address. Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the college, interviewed the Governor soon after it was first decided to conduct the celebration at which time he was assured that the chief executive would accept the invitation to appear on the program.

The program will be formally opened at one o'clock in the afternoon with a parade, to be led by the distinguished visitors. The various towns or counties of the state with delegations here will be given places in the parade, and those having bands will be given an opportunity to be led by them.

A huge platform that will accommodate five hundred people is now under construction at the tech site, from where the principal addresses of the day will be made and where the distinguished visitors will be given places. Leading educators from all the major institutions of Texas, including a large number of Texas University men, as well as from New Mexico, Oklahoma and other states will attend and will be extended every courtesy. It is altogether probable that many of the schools of Technology in the east will be represented by noted educators in this field, the Board of Regents having made special arrangements for their reception upon their arrival in Lubbock and they will be included among those to lead the parade.

While members of the American Legion will participate in the general program in the afternoon this program will be formally closed with military maneuvers and flag ceremonies to be participated in by several hundred ex-service men and members of Battery C, 131st Field Artillery located here. Final salute will be fired from the Battery's French 75s as the program is brought to a close. Immediately thereafter the Legion members will be entertained with a splendid program, a feature of which will be an army supper with a menu of corn waffles, beans, hot coffee and other articles of food enjoyed while in the camps.

The Legion entertainment will be one of the biggest meetings ever held here by the local men.

GOV'T SCORES POINT IN SUIT

PAN-AMERICAN NOT BEST PROPOSITION OFFERED STUART TELLS BOARD

BY H. O. THOMPSON
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—Scoring an important point for the government in its suit to annul leases held by E. L. Doherty companies in the Elk Hill naval reserve, commander H. A. Stuart told the court Wednesday afternoon that in his opinion bids submitted by the Pan American Petroleum corporation were not so advantageous to the government as leasing proposals proffered by the United Oil company. Commander Stuart, who was connected with the fuel oil division of the navy department under secretary Denby, said that when competitive bids for the drilling of 22 off-set wells were presented, the United Oil company gave the best terms. "But I acquiesced to the wishes of the others," he said, "and the leases were given to the Pan-American midway companies."

Commander Stuart's opinions on the relative value of the bids submitted for drilling of off-set wells came during the cross examination by defense attorneys. When the reply was given the questioning switched abruptly to minor details of his connection with the fuel oil division and later with the engineering corps of the navy department.

Commander Irvin E. Landis, inspector for the navy petroleum reserves in California, followed commander Stuart on the stand and began his testimony with a description of a meeting with Secretary of the Interior Fall, in San Francisco on August 5, 1921.

"We discussed the drilling of the 22 off-set wells at Elk Hills," he said "and went into various aspects of the project."

EX-ARMY OFFICER IS SHOT DURING ROW IN HIS OFFICE

By United Press.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 22.—Infuriated by the knowledge that his wife was endeavoring to divorce him, Chedell Simpson, rushed into the real estate office where his attractive 26 year old wife is employed by Col. John G. Emery, former national commander of the American Legion, and shot and wounded Emery when he attempted to bar him from the terrified girl.

Col. Emery is resting quietly at his home after a bullet was taken from his left shoulder. Simpson is in jail where he has told police that he had no intention of killing Emery when he went Wednesday to the real estate office.

Mrs. Olivia Simpson has been employed as Emery's stenographer.

FARMER FACED BY LOW PRICES FOR POTATOES

By United Press.
MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22.—Wisconsin potato growers in the midst of harvesting a record crop, four million bushels greater than last year, are faced by the discouraging factor of the lowest price in the history of the potato industry in the northwest.

Despite the fact that wheat has risen to $1.50, corn to $1.15 and hogs to $17, potato growers in the heart of the budget potato belt care not more than 30c a hundred weight or 18c a bushel for the crop. Except in comparatively few instances where ready cash is imperative, farmers are refusing to sell them. Many are refusing to dig their crops, preferring to turn hogs into the fields to root for the tubers or allow the potatoes to be plowed in and remain in the ground as fertilizer. One farmer offered to trade his 12 acres of potatoes for 1,000 cigars. The offer was not accepted.

BASS MULLINS GIVEN BAIL BY HIGH COURT

By United Press.
Bass Mullins, charged with rape upon fifteen-year-old Eunice Weatherman, and who has been confined in Lubbock county jail since the alleged commission of the act on the morning of July 13th, was given by the Court of Criminal Appeal of Austin, Wednesday morning.

The defendant was refused bond by Judge Clark Mullins following habeas corpus proceedings here Oct. 10th, and the case was taken to the highest court by Blodsoe & Pharr, defense attorneys.

Mullins was able to make bond and was released from jail by Sheriff Johnston late Wednesday afternoon.

BUILDING IS COMPLETE LOSS GRAMMER SCHOOL NEARBY IS SAVED WITH SLIGHT DAMAGE

CROSBYTON, Oct. 22.—The high school building here was completely destroyed by fire during the noon hour today. The structure was erected four years ago at a cost of seventy-five thousand dollars, and was insured for only half that amount.

The first fire to be made in the furnace this season was made early this morning, and a defect in the flue, which originated on the second floor. Due to the fact that the teachers and a large number of students were either on the first floor or away from the building for the lunch hour, the flames made such headway before being discovered that efforts of firemen were fruitless and the structure was gutted throughout, only a few books and a few small articles being saved from the flames.

Arrangements for completing the school term were not made this afternoon but will probably be made as soon as a sufficient number of books and needed equipment can be secured. The term will be continued in temporary quarters to be provided hereafter.

DIRE CHARGES CONSIDERED BY CAMPAIGN EXPENSE BOARD WEDNESDAY

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Covering a wide field, the Borah campaign fund committee delved into details of the visit of a labor delegation to the White House, charges that Soviet Russia was contributing money for the La Follette campaign, and the finances of the republicans in Pennsylvania in its second session at the capitol, which was at times humorous, and turbulent.

Developments of the probe Wednesday were: Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the Shipping Board admitted that he had paid hotel and taxicab bills for the labor delegation which called on President Coolidge on Labor Day and had initiated the visit. He said he had advanced the money, $358.00, and that it had been repaid by Joseph Ryan, of the International Longshoremen's union who he understood had collected it "at so much a head" from the men themselves.

O'Connor admitted that he had no facts whatever that Soviet Russia was contributing to the La Follette campaign as he hinted in a recent speech, but only "rumors" and he could name only one source of those rumors. He named this source as Thomas Realy, business agent of the Marine Engineer's association who had heard reports from men on ships which had been in Russia.

Joseph E. Grundy, of Bristol, Pennsylvania, manufacturer of worsted yarns and chairman of the Ways and Means committee for the republican campaign in eastern Pennsylvania, said his committee had collected $365,000 of which $280,000 or over had been turned over to the republican national committee. He said he had sent out 79,000 letters seeking contributions, in which the La Follette campaign was denounced. He denied that the quota for Pennsylvania was $600,000, as had been charged by La Follette, but said the quota was only $75,000. Grundy said he expected to raise as much more as he could. He said that both the Union League Club and Manufacturers Club of Philadelphia, were collecting funds for the campaign.

Samuel M. Vaulin, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, said he had given $6,100 to the republican fund, which had been turned over to W. W. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania railroad, to be used for the purpose of "mashers."

Representative George Manchman has announced that he will introduce a bill in the Washington state legislature to establish whipping posts for the punishment of "mashers."

RED CROSS OPEN DRIVE NOV. 11TH

BENEFIT OF ORGANIZATION TO CITY AND COUNTY INESTIMABLE

November 11th is the date on which the American Red Cross will institute a drive throughout the United States for members, designated the Red Cross Annual Roll Call.

While plans for the campaign in this county are being held up a bit, W. B. Atkins, chairman of the Lubbock County Chapter, stated that arrangements are being made to get up to the matter of plans for the drive, and it is hoped that every man, woman and child in the county will contribute liberally to the organization which means so much to Americans every year, both in times of war and of peace.

The local Red Cross has met a noticeable demand for assistance this season not equalled during any past season, and while many of those asking for aid have been given every consideration of the secretary, most of them will not bear investigation and when interviewed by the secretary refuse to give even the least information concerning their past.

The Red Cross is not costing the people of Lubbock and Lubbock county nearly as much as it would cost to do without the organization, which when given proper and deserved consideration is found to be one of the most worthy institutions of the city and one that indeed deserves the support of everyone.

While the Annual Roll Call will not be made until November 11th, it is a very good time for Lubbock county people to begin thinking of the Red Cross and its needs, and if possible, begin now and set aside a small part of the income to give over to the organization in order that the high purposes of the founders of the organization and its ever faithful support to suffering humanity might be continued for the good of all.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Cone very hospitably entertained the members of the Bon Temps Bridge club and a few other friends Friday evening.

The receiving rooms were charmingly decorated with roses and rose buds which bloom in such perfection at this time of the year.

After two hours spent in the absorbing game of bridge a delightful salad course, made tempting by attractive plate favors was served to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Raybon, Mr. and Mrs. Iby Swindell, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Gammill, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Cone, Mr. and Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Vergil Korshner, Miss Frances Baker, Mr. Lewis, and Mr. Ernest Lovery.

Library Board Meets Tuesday Afternoon

The Library Board of Directors met in regular meeting at the library Tuesday afternoon. The question of observing "children's book week" was discussed and it was decided to turn the work over to the library committees of the different clubs and let them carry out the program if they thought best. The idea of "children's book week" is to insist that the children read better books and have a knowledge of the books they read. Each library is urged to observe the week set aside by the associated libraries.

The date is October 11 to 15. The question of the furniture for the room in the city hall was discussed and held over to the next meeting.

The Golden Ladder

(By RUPERT HUGHES)

The Golden Ladder by Rupert Hughes is the fictional story of Betty Bowen, who had in her, so Mr. Hughes tells us, something of the art, something of the her.

He says further, she seems to have tried everything in life but self-sacrifice and to have experienced everything but true love, she died in seven insanity. Yet she when a little girl ran screaming from a hotel torn down by a mob, providence ended her days in a most beautiful mansion on a high hill overlooking the greatest city of the continent.

For this girl by deranging adventures and intrigues, by unscrupulous romances holding to her one aim in life, wealth, and social recognition, succeeded in flaunting her beauty in the throne room of royalty. Characterized by a keen sense of dramatic possibilities of Madame Jumelle life, having a fascinating period of American history as a back ground, and possessing the charm which the mastery of technique gives the story, this book is yet one which leaves the reader with the same disgusted feeling which he experiences when he has been forced to listen to avoid gossip seasoned with a hint of scandal.

This is one of the most talked of books of the year and one of the most widely read books of the library.

CARLISLE CLAIMS PUBLIC SQUARE IS HISTORIC SPOT

CARLISLE, Pa., Oct. 21—This city, which celebrates Old Home Week, Oct. 19-25, boasts having in its "Public Square," America's Most Historic Spot.

For 143 years dating from 1720 this Public Square showed kaleidoscopic views of riots, patriotic efforts of all kinds, comedies, tragedies.

Here, in the gray old Presbyterian Meeting House, was raised the "First Voice of Organized Protest against Tyranny" on July 12, 1774, and on May 23, 1776, American first enunciated a formal "Declaration of Independence."

Probably the most dramatic happening on the Public Square occurred when Regina Hartman, captive among the Indians for many years, was returned with a mass of prisoners by Colonel Bouquet, given back to her aged mother, who had searched the country over for her—and who in a despairing last effort to find her daughter sang a childhood lullaby before the return captives and troops with the result that her long lost daughter rushed into her arms.

Here, George Washington reviewed the largest army ever under his orders. On one occasion in the heat of the discussions on independence, British sympathizers to the south side of a line marked on the Public Square and Revolutionists to the north. The whole populace stood north of the line.

NO GREEK LETTER FRATS IN TEXAS TECH

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21—"Greek won't met Greek" at Texas new college of technology now in the course of construction at Lubbock.

According to the first bulletin of the new institution received by the state board of control, the organization of Greek-letter fraternities is absolutely banned. Elimination of snobbery and class distinction are the reasons given by Dr. P. W. Horn, president of the school, in eliminating the fraternities.

The school will be completed in every detail and ready for occupancy in September, 1925.

DENTON, Texas, Oct. 20.—A daily lunch period in which each child is given a half pint of milk and a graham cracker, has been established this year in the kindergarten department of the College of Industrial Arts. The lunch period is followed by one of rest during which the children are provided with mats and permitted to recline on the floor for about five minutes time.

The kindergarten department is striving especially to introduce activity into the work of the children. The kindergarten now deals with basket, Lullabies which is taught by the play method. Practice teaching is done in this department three days a week by seniors only.

Mary Lucy Lee, described as "60 years old, short and pudgy" was voted Wisconsin's most popular miss by a majority of 1,900,000 votes. She must have run on the La Follette ticket.

There is perhaps nothing more distressful to people who are bothered with them, and surely nothing as displeasing to others who see them, as pimples, blotches, bumps, rash, scrofula, eczema, "breaking out" and similar skin disfigurers.

But now that Black and White Ointment and Soap are proving to be so dependable in quickly getting rid of these distressing skin ailments, it seems foolish for people to neglect using them and making themselves attractive to others instead of being slighted all the time.

All dealers have Black and White Ointment and Soap in a convenient, low-priced liberal packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size.

Japan May Seek New Territory in Polar Expedition

TOKIO, Oct. 22.—Foreseeing the possibility of acquiring hitherto undiscovered territory suitable for naval bases, air routes and military purposes, Japanese officials are examining a scheme whereby their country could cooperate in an attempt to fly across the North Pole next spring.

H. H. Hammer, who was associated with Roald Amundson's projected Polar flight which was cancelled this year, is negotiating with private Japanese firms to furnish airplanes for another attempt to make a coast-to-coast flight across the North Pole.

Hammer is keenly interested in the project, but if Japan co-operation is extended it would be the understanding that any undiscovered land would become the property of Japan. It is believed possible an unexplored continent lies somewhere in the north which would be of great value to Japan.

A wireless station erected at this hypothetical continent could maintain constant communication with the entire world, it is said here.

The polar flight could be accomplished in 36 hours, Hammer believes.

Amundson's abandoned polar flight was to have been made under the Norwegian flag and Norway was to obtain possession of all discovered lands. The explorer planned five flights in the polar zone. His two airplanes were combination affairs, suitable for descending upon land or water.

CANYON SCHOOL MANUAL TRAINING DEPARTMENT BUILDING A DWELLING

CANYON, Oct. 22.—Students of the Manual Training Department of the West Texas State Teachers' College have begun work on a large class project. WHITES BEAT INDIANS IN ARCHERY CONTEST

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Oct. 22.—Use of the bow and arrow, symbol of the American Indian, is a lost art among those who a century ago used it as their sole weapon of defense and offense.

This fact was indelibly impressed upon a group of Cheyenne Indians recently, when two "pale-face" archers decisively defeated their champion marksmen at the Indian fair at Lame Deer.

Rotary Education Address Made By Tech College Head

The regular weekly meeting of the Lubbock Rotary club was held at the Armory building Wednesday at noon. With Roscoe Wilson in charge of the program.

After an enjoyable meal was disposed of, the members entered into one of the outstanding programs of the season with Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological College, the principal speaker for the day.

Horn's address was to have been delivered at 10:30 a. m. but was absent, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Blankenship who conducted the song services at the First Baptist church rendered beautiful and appreciated vocal numbers.

Bill Mosdor announced that the program committee is hopeful that an announcement of what will be the change of the program for as much as two months at a time will be announced in the future.

The substance of Wednesday's program to the general advancement of the ideals of Rotary was recognized by all, who appreciated the forceful manner in which the subject was handled by Dr. Horn, who is schooled in Rotary and who is of the opinion that Rotary principles are applicable to all business relationships.

Attendance at Wednesday's meeting was very good.

transmitted to the proper authorities. He also testified that his company had contributed $10,000 in May this year to the American Transportation Institute which was designed to protect the railroad from improper legislation.

Nathan Folwell, manufacturer of dress goods, of Philadelphia, testified that he had collected $10,000 for the manufacturers club which had been turned over to Grundy.

The session of the committee Wednesday was very lively with Senator Caraway heckling the witnesses, especially O'Connor. Samuel Untermyer, counsel for La Follette, was present for the first time, and pressed the witnesses. The crowd, which filled the small committee room burst into frequent laughter as the battle of wits progressed.

Politics was interjected by Caraway at every opportunity. There was considerable amusement as O'Connor testified regarding the labor delegation visit to the White House on Labor Day. He said he had arranged the meeting on his initiative and had secured the co-operation of Ryan. He denied that either President Coolidge or his secretary, C. Bascom Slamp, had anything to do with arranging the meeting, and said the republican national committee knew nothing of it before.

The hotel and taxicab bills, he said, he had paid in cash from his own pocket and Ryan had paid the money back in New York. Caraway pressed him as to the purpose of the meeting, asking if it wasn't for "political purposes?"

"You can construe that for yourself," he first answered.

Caraway continued to press him for the "real" purpose.

"So that the men could come down here and hear the President talk," he replied.

"I'm not going to tell that it was a political meeting," he fired back at Caraway, as the Arkansas Senator continued to push him.

Royal Locke in his two high-crowns and said that it was a regular practice of all political parties to practice such things, and that the meeting on Labor Day "was undoubtedly for political purposes."

Caraway objected, saying that he had never known the democratic party to do such a thing.

O'Connor said he did not know who paid the railroad fare of the men.

"If I wanted him longshoremen to come here to hear a talk by the president, I could get them to come, and pay their own way," he said emphatically, as he left the stand.

O'Connor also testified about his speech at Buffalo recently and said that he never had asked the question then whether the La Follette campaign was not receiving money from secret funds through Mexico, and had not made a declaration of the fact. He said the question was addressed to authorities who could answer it.

Close by Bern L. Caraway and Untermyer he admitted that he had no facts whatever. O'Connor maintained stoutly to the fact that "he believed in his heart" that the rumors he had repeated were true, and would have witnessed appear before the committee.

testify to the fact.

The famous Grundy letter, which had been cited by La Follette as a part basis for his charge of a republican "slush fund" was read to the committee in the presence of the writer, who said that this letter was merely part of an "educational" campaign for voters but admitted that the purpose of the six letters he had written which were laid before the committee by Untermyer was secure contributions.

"We have in La Follette and Wheeler a Leslie and Trotsky with a formidable band of followers made up of visions, ignorant and disoriented elements arrayed for battle, and likely to cast enough votes to defeat the republican party were any election."

"I stand by that, but I don't say that all of La Follette's followers fall into that class," Grundy said.

When Grundy denied that Pennsylvania had been assigned a quota of $600,000 Caraway broke in and said that Wm. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee had testified to that effect under oath in Chicago. The Pennsylvania manufacturer said that he had been a member of the national association of Woolen Manufacturers but had resigned in 1921. Under questioning from Caraway, he said that he had conferred with members of the senate here regarding Woolen tariff schedules, and with a member of the house ways and means committee regarding the wool section of the Fordy McCumber tariff act.

"I have been in and out of Washington for 25 years," he said.

Vnacclaim, called by Watch, said he thought it was all right to use any amount of money, even if it went to $100,000,000 if that was necessary to re-elect President Coolidge.

Edward T. Stansbury of Drexel and Company, of Philadelphia, testified that he had collected approximately $50,000 in Philadelphia which he had turned over to Grundy.

He said he had collected it all from individuals. His personal contribution, he said, was $5,000.

DAWSON CO. BUILDS FIRST BRICK FOR SCHOOL

LAMESA, Oct. 22.—Dawson county's first brick school building, outside the town of Lamesa, is now under construction and will be ready for use in a short time.

This building is located on the Weaver ranch, nine miles west of Lamesa. The new school will be known as the Weaver District School. The scholastic population of this district is now near one hundred students. Two years ago there were two children of school age in this same district. This section has been put in farms and many families have settled in the neighborhood, where two years ago there was nothing but white-faced cattle.

Col. F. M. Weaver, a pioneer ranchman, has given this new school the land on which the new building is being erected. He has also set aside a plot of ground on which to erect a church for this community. The corner stone for the new school was laid a short time ago. A large number of the residents of Weaver community and also several from Lamesa attended this ceremony. An impressive program was rendered in connection with the occasion.

It is being held that I am leaving Lubbock. There is no truth in this statement.

H. M. JONES, The Ship Man, adv. 21

It is estimated that the people of the United States have saved more than two billion dollars for European relief work since the beginning of the world war in 1914.

SHALL LUBBOCK COUNTY HAVE A HEALTH NURSE?

We say there is a cry for many things. That is true, and as long as we live in a live wide-awake community there is going to be a demand for many improvements. As long as we live in a progressive town like Lubbock there will be demands for money and for action along many lines. This is not only true of the state, county, city, club work, or organizations of every kind, but it is true of every individual.

The county worked hard to get a county agent and that was finally granted, then there was a demand for a home demonstration agent, and now
there comes the demand for a county health nurse, and the county commissioners are facing this problem at this time.

This movement is being fostered by the County Federation of Woman's Clubs according to the health bulletin issued at Austin the services of a nurse are governed as follows, so long as state funds are available: A nursing service may be obtained by any county in Texas providing said county will raise $1,500 towards the establishing and expenses of same. That amount may be raised by the county commissioners court, by an organization in the county, individuals, or by any other legitimate means, provided that the funds raised in the county are administered by the county. When the amount is raised, the county signs the statement that the funds are in the county treasury, and a like amount of state funds is then set for the conducting of that county's nursing service.

We are of the opinion that the services of the nurse is needed in a city and county the size of Lubbock and the population of Lubbock county, and that the investment of the county of this much money would be a good one, and would be wise.
One of the important phases of their work is that of holding child health conferences. Mothers may bring their babies and children to the conference
where their general health is examined by nurses and physicians, who are willing to co-operate in the service, and instructions for the care of the child and suggestions for correcting the physical defects are given the mother. Prenatal conferences are also held, and expectant mothers are advised how to take care of themselves, so that their confinement may be safe to both mother and child. Lectures on diet, dress, general physical care, and preparation for confinement are given. The mothers are also given lessons in caring for the baby. The nurse at all times strives to impress the mother with the importance of placing herself in the hands of competent physicians as soon as she realizes her condition.

The nurse may also organize "Little Mother's" clubs where older children who have charge of their baby brothers and sisters may learn how and what to feed babies and how to dress, bathe and care for them in general. General sanitation of homes and the better of health conditions among the school children are also phases of the welfare nurse's work.
Birth registration of every baby in Texas is the aim of the worker, for unless the State Board of Health knows where the babies are it is difficult to carry the aid where it is most needed.

THE 1912 FIGHT OVER

In 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt was running as a progressive candidate, the same as La Follette this year, against the Republican incumbent who was then President Taft, and is now Calvin Coolidge, Roosevelt said: "I do not believe President Taft means ill. I believe he means well, but he means well feebly, but he is under the control of men who are neither feeble nor well-meaning." He could not have said anything that fits President Coolidge more fully today than it did President Taft in 1912. In fact, President Coolidge is by far the most insignificant character who ever occupied the White House. President Coolidge himself is an honest gentleman, but he can no more control the graters who are now entrenched in the Government in Washington than a school boy.

MORE GROUNDS FOR SILENCE

There are several other grounds for silence on the part of the Republican leaders. There is the Department of Justice, which is shown under the searchlight of Democratic investigation, as one of the rottenest organizations that ever formed a part of our government. Then there is Albert B. Fall, who gave away millions and millions of barrels of oil at the government's expense, while he received a bountiful fortune from the oil magnates. In fact, the last three years has shown Washington to be the rottenest and most corrupt government that ever disgraced the American nation. Is it not time to turn the vascals out? The Democratic party is over 130 years old and there has never been an administration in which a Democratic Cabinet Officer was found engaged in crooked work.

PUBLICITY AND PROSECUTION

Certain newspapers and periodicals, whose partnership is greater than their zeal in combating the agents and agencies of corruption, devote much space to attempts to discredit the other fellow. Large industrial corporations are insistent in the demand for unrestricted business liberties, while another class contend that dishonest corporations and rich and powerful men at their heads have not been convicted and punished for open defiance of law. These two factions of society are making every effort to tell the other fellow how far he may go and where he "gets off" and it seems to be a fight for control of government machinery. As a matter of fact everyone knows that it is immeasurably more difficult to convict the rich and powerful lawbreak-er than the ordinary petty criminal. First, the intricacies and complex character of corporation methods is such that men behind them are protected by every artifice that ingenuity can devise.
Secondly, such men can take advantage of legal technicalities to defer almost indefinitely the final settlement of an action brought against them. These are truths which indicate that our business and legal institutions are loose and faulty. The method of stock-juggling by which so much wealth has been obtained unfairly have been so widely practiced that they have the tacit approval of a large and influential share of the population, and rest upon a quasi-legal basis. The same has been true of certain other abuses, such as rebating and the monopoly of business in particular lines, against which certain laws have been passed but not, as yet, fully tested.
So long as such methods do not lead to the penitence, or to social ostracism they will have the tacit favor of a large number of persons ambitious for wealth and power. Men will plead that they are no worse than hundreds of others and that they have merely fallen in with the custom of their times, and they will have not only able lawyers to defend them, but sympathetic judges and jurors to help them out of their difficulties. What is needed primarily is a public sentiment which will put these operations on exactly the same footing as ordinary larceny. Until such sentiment is obtained the man who is wise will not expect to see many rich mal-factors in prison cells. There must be strong public sentiment to obtain every reform under a popular government. Where such sentiment does not exist, laws are not enforced.

THAT BIG WORD—THINK!

Young man, if you aspire to be a boss you have got to be a good servant. If you have been through the ranks yourself, you understand what it means to be a good servant and you will not have any trouble being a boss when the time comes. Your men will follow you. You won't have to drive them. Intelligence is all that is needed and every normal person has a fair amount of it. Pick the thing you can do best, or think you can do best.
Think! People don't think enough. Think before you take a job and above all think after you go to work on that job. Then you won't have to change jobs. Change is a bad thing usually for both you and the job. Thinking makes changes unnecessary.
Requirements are higher today. But there are just as many opportunities for the boy who starts out to succeed. There are fewer get rich schemes. Boys must work for the so-called fat job. And if you follow the ladder has been on the trail a long time, that it has been no overnight business. He's probably done more hard than easy things along that trail. Vision, stick-to-it-iveness, courage, have gone into the making of it. And an understanding of human nature. This is an age when men who think are advanced to positions of responsibility.

GAMBLING

Wall Street estimates that ten millions of dollars will be wagered on the results of the national election. Already over two millions have been laid.
And the legality of the thing has not been questioned, says the Associated Press. The morality of it either. Public opinion permits it in acquiescent silence.
Recognized as an evil influence, it is permitted to live, permitted to carry on as a legitimate business, serving no good, but claiming its victims by the countless thousands. Gambling of one form is no worse than any other, yet dice games are suppressed, while bigger game goes unscathed. Wagering prevails in practically all the sports, horse racing and baseball, predominating, exacting always a relentless toll. But the voice of the minority can not prevail against it. It will take united public opinion to do it.
A fool and his money are soon parted—and gambling developed as a means to that end—San Angel's Standard.

LITERARY DIGEST POLL

The Literary Digest is making an alleged poll
of the voters of the country to indicate the choice for President. This poll shows Coolidge way in the lead, with La Follette second and Davis third.
The Attorney General of Nebraska has investigated the operation of the poll and finds it is a farce and that large quantities of these cards for voting never get beyond the local postmasters. The postmasters instead of returning the undelivered cards, checks them himself in the Republican column and mails them to the Literary Digest as the expression of a voter. They are not signed, so one voter can send in 1,000 of these cards if he wishes to. As 99 per cent of the postmasters are republican, it will be readily seen and understood why Coolidge is getting so many votes.

Oklahoma has had a prison contract for making shirts on which the state is said to have lost $622,000 during the past five years. The highest price paid for prison labor is 80 cents per dozen shirts—and the labor unions are making a strenuous fight against the system.

The American Electric Railway Association is authority for the statement that one person of every 85 owns stock in an electric line. The industry gives employment to 500,000 people.

LA FOLLETTE PREPARES TO TURN LOOSE HIS BIG GUNS ON G. O. P. "SLUSH FUND" AFTER LONG PROBE IN MANY STATES

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Pressure is being exerted from every quarter. Foreign language speakers are addressing groups in every language that is to be found in those states. They have even sent out a Russian speaker to appeal to a group of Russian farmers pocketed in a state. Frenchmen are delivering lectures on the election. The plan is active in many sections. It is favorable to President Coolidge.

The fight has become so intense in North Dakota that the La Follette hold on the state seems somewhat endangered for the first time. North Dakota has always been regarded as certain by the La Follette leaders.
But the powerful campaign which the republicans have developed is causing some uneasiness among them. The fight is further intensified by the scrap over the succession to governor Congressman Young, which will determine whether North Dakota's delegation in the house will be for Coolidge or La Follette in the event of an election deadlock. It is tied now.

La Follette is feeling the pinch of poverty in the closing days of his campaign. Whether he will raise the sixty dollars from his speech at Topeka, Kansas, a few days ago, La Follette headquarters at Chicago was told that it would have to move the next morning from the hotel where it occupied unless it paid its hotel bill. La Follette is barely keeping his head above water on the expense of his campaign trail.

Miss Blanche Bean Editor All-College- Day Fair Paper

A copy of the Dallas Journal, Jr., published by students of C. I. A.,
at the State Fair Grounds at Dallas,
on October 18th, has just been received at the Avalanche office.
Miss Blanche Bean, daughter of Judge and Mrs. George R. Bean of Lubbock, and editor of the Journal, was editor for the day with E. C.
Schultz for general supervisor.

According to an article appearing in Saturday's Lamesa, the party left Denton on Friday, spending that afternoon and evening in Dallas at the fair grounds where they received assignments and made general preparations for their work Saturday.

Miss Bean is to be commended for the splendid appearance of the paper and the general information contained in its columns. The students of journalism in C. I. A. composed the editorial staff and the variety of articles and the evident sources of information from which they were gathered proved their ability and good training.

The College of Industrial Arts was well represented and each and every student having a part in publishing
the Dallas Journal, Jr. on All-College day at the State Fair helped to lend even greater prestige to the well established institution, whose graduates are making good in all walks of life throughout Texas and other states.

An article appearing in the Journal, stated that the course in journalism at C. I. A. is proving in favor with many showing interest in this department in increasing and general principles of printing, the graduates are equipped to become valuable in the profession, being able to take care of editorial, report-orial and managers places or to assist in the mechanical departments of the smaller newspapers.

The following paragraphs written by Miss Bean and published in Saturday's issue of the Dallas Journal, Jr., give an interesting account of activities at the fair grounds on All-College Day:

It is All-College Day. Shrieks of joy amid the hurrying, skittering masses of humanity are accompanied by flying banners emblazoned with college emblems and letters. A lively chorus of "rah, rahs" overpowers
the cries of "Hot hamburgers," "Ice-cold lemonade," which are chanted over and over in the same shrill, toned voices.

Smartly-clad young men and women saunter over the grounds with an air of dignified ownership. Youngsters in garish sports wear scanner from booth to booth and sample the wares that have been temptingly placed before them.

Group met group with laughing banter, and pass on to reopen the festive with another group before the echoes of the first have drifted into insignificance.

The grand stand is alive with flying pennants of various hues, the air is tense with excitement and noise,
the world seems full of joyousness and youth. Other people catch the spirit and step livelier with tired heads held a bit higher. The fire of exciting, the college spirit of American's reigns supreme.

One of the most elaborate processions of the fair has been planned for today. Its presentation in detail for today.

PLAINS PRODUCTS TO BE SHOWN AT THE LAMPASAS FAIR

J. P. Nystel, former teacher in the Abernathy school, but who is now connected with the Schultz Land Co.
of that place, passed through Lubbock Wednesday enroute to Lampasas with a touring car well loaded with farm products to be exhibited at the Lampasas fair.

Mellons, corn, cotton, kafir, maize,
a large variety of fruits, many garden and field products, including prize winning specimens, will attract many of those who will attend the fair as a next display will be arranged by Mr. Nystel.

The farm lands in the Abernathy section are very productive, and many farmers there have made good paying for their farm homes from the rich crops with big annual payments.

This exhibit will doubtless win
many prizes.

PLAINS COUNTIES AGAIN SWEEP TO FIRST PRIZE AWARDS AT STATE FAIR

HALE CO. TAKING FIRST; FLOYD SECOND

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 21.—Two judging committees paid homage to West Texas' fertile soil, awarding Hale county first prize in the county agricultural contest at the State Fair of Texas and giving high scores to a group of Hale's sister counties. On committee judge products, the other display and, following the decisions, exhibitors in a body informed J. A. Moore, superintendent of agricultural awards, that the methods employed in judging were fair and satisfactory.

The first forty-two county exhibits, their rankings, percentages and awards were as follows:

With first honors again this year, Hale county is winning an international reputation as the "garden county of Texas." Other than its two prize years at the fair here, the county's exhibits have taken first prizes at the National Wheat Show and International Farm Congress, where thirty-nine foreign countries participated; at the Waco Cotton Palace, and at the Amarillo Tri-State Fair for two consecutive years. The Plainview Chamber of Commerce has more than 2,000 blue ribbons and other awards won in recent years.

Those in charge of the winning exhibit here, and who have been said Hale county's march to agricultural fame, are Col. R. P. Smyth, member of the State Legislature; Sam T. Sealing, Hale county farmer; and Chas. Boswell, secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce.

HAROLD BELL WRIGHT NOVEL REACHES SCREEN

For many years speculation has been rife as to the filming of Harold Bell Wright's valuable and world-famous stories. Then came an announcement that they were to be given everlasting life on the silver sheet. Principal Pictures Corporation made a transaction with the noted author whereby that company could film all of the Harold Bell Wright novels.

The first is completed—"When a Man's a Man," and the Lindsey Theatre announces it as its stellar attraction for its screen today.

"When a Man's a Man" is considered as one of the most powerful of all Wright's books, it was selected as the first for the screen, not alone by the producers, but by the author himself. Within a span of days—weeks, in fact, with the directors and producers, lending all possible assistance in the sincere endeavor to keep the film story in actual mesh with the book.

The cast includes some of the best players in filmland, and is headed by John Boonza, Monsieur de la Motte, Robert Frazer, George Hackathorne, and many others of equal note.

GROUP NINE WILL RENDER KIWANIS PROGRAM TODAY

Today's Kiwanis luncheon will doubtless be well attended, as W. C. Rylander's promise to the club at the last luncheon that a great program would be rendered with Group Nine at the helm, was taken for face value, and now they will all be there to see whether or not they made a bad move in giving the club orator an attentive hearing.

Rylander in the mean time is setting up for the "world." He can either deliver a good program or explain why such was not possible since he will wield the big stick today.

George Brewer promises that music to everything will be offered as leading features of the program. George is supposed to have entirely given up his speech by this time, but he has his written statement on hand, and will give complete recognition to the Indians. Group No. 9 will doubtless pay way for a debate on this matter, and the secretary is found guilty of any ill intent they might sink a knife for.

The meeting will be held at the armory as usual and a large attendance is urged.

DOG OWNERS GROWL OVER RULES IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Dog owners in Berlin are egging almost hydropophobia in their rage against governmental red tape, which insists that the half million or more dogs here shall be muzzled and led on a rope or strap.

Representatives of 46,000 dog owners under the auspices of the "Schutzverein der Hunde-und Tierfreunde" protective league of dog and animal friends, vented their wrath against the government in a public protest meeting here.

DOG'S TEETH MARK ON FLIVVER STEERING WHEEL

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 22.—There are many kinds of "private" marks put on the family flivver, but Chief of Police Earl Chadwell believes he has found the most unique one. The chief this week received a post card from the sheriff of Creek County, Sapulpa, Okla., it read:

Car disappeared Oct. 14, of the Henry Ford type. Marks of a dog's teeth on steering wheel. Reward.

Marshall Boy Is Awarded Edmund Key Scholarship

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 22.—Richard W. Blalock, junior academic student of the University of Texas from Marshall, Texas, has been awarded the Edmund Key Scholarship for the session of 1924-1925. Blalock was also the holder of this scholarship last session. The Edmund Key Scholarship was made possible by an endowment of $5,000 by Edmund Key, president of the First National Bank of Marshall. The holder of the scholarship is named annually by the trustees of the Marshall Public Schools. It is awarded only to a young man graduating from the Marshall High School who would otherwise be unable to attend the University.

SHACKS TO BE USED AFTER CONSTRUCTION OF THE BIOLOGY BUILDING

AUSTIN, Oct. 20.—"Not one of the shacks on the University of Texas campus will be abandoned when the new Biology Building is completed," declared E. J. Matthews, registrar of the University. "We are overcrowded now, and will be even after the building is opened for recitations."

At present, 25 of the frame structures are located on the forty acres in use as classrooms, laboratories, and homes for many of the other departments of the University. Ten of these are lecture halls with a total seating capacity of 2,311. Seven are laboratory halls for chemistry and zoology. Three are gymnasiums, 2 for men and one for women. Shacks also house most of the divisions of the Bureau of Extension and the University Press. The Cafeteria occupies a shack, as do the pattern shops of the mechanical engineering department.

Approximately 255 different classes hold their meetings in the ten shacks used for recitations. As nearly all of these classes meet three days of the week during the whole year, an average of more than 125 classes are held in the shacks each day. In addition to these, the laboratories are in use practically all of the time.

The history of the University of Texas shacks dates back to 1911, when the home economics building, the C. Hall, the chemistry laboratory were built. After C. Hall there followed in order J. Hall, I. Hall and H. Hall. The row of seven shacks on the east side of the campus was put up during the war as barracks for the University contingent. After the war, they were pressed into service as classrooms.

GILMER VOTES BONDS FOR SEWER SYSTEM

GILMER, Texas, Oct. 22.—Bonds have been voted and sold for improvements in the city's sanitary sewer and sewerage system to the extent of $501,100. Work of installing the improvements will be launched at once.

RINGLING BROTHERS IMPROVE PARIS STREETS

PARIS, Texas, Oct. 22.—Paris streets are undergoing a lot of repairs these days and the bills are being footed by Ringling Brothers circus.

Before the circus came to town here recently, the city fathers gathered together and put the circus management under $20,000 bond for any damage they might do to the streets.

Three streets were used in getting the circus to the grounds at the edge of the city and the use of those three thoroughfares will cost Ringling Brothers approximately $10,000.

France and England Far Apart On The Disarmament Issue

By A. L. BRADFORD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Oct. 21.—France and Great Britain are drifting apart on another great question of the hour. This is the problem of European disarmament. The question of disarmament as it applies to Europe principally means disarmament of the land, and also in the air. For Great Britain, France and Italy already have gone as far as other nations in abolishing disarmament under the Washington Treaty. Land disarmament has been held up because Europe has not been ready for this step.

Disarmament in Europe is vitally involved in the problem of security. The heart of this problem is that before France would be willing to agree to a limitation of her great army, she must have guarantees of aid from her allies in the event of another attack by Germany. There are smaller editions of this problem as regards some of the lesser states of Europe, especially the new nations created by the Versailles peace.

The estrangement of France and Great Britain on the problem of disarmament comes at a time when the two great European powers to all intents and purposes have patched in their differences over the reparations question and corresponding issues, such as the occupation of the Ruhr, etc.

An analogy is drawn by observers in Paris between the French and British differences over disarmament and those over the reparations problem. Both situations seem to have developed from fundamental differences in the states of mind of the two countries.

But fundamental, as were the Franco-British differences over reparations, the Ruhr, etc., the two European powers now have been brought together on this problem through the Dawes plan, largely the result of American good offices. Will the United States be able to bring about an accord between France and England on the disarmament and security question, it is asked here?

The present question of security as it is related to any plan for European disarmament dates back to the days of the Paris Peace conference. During the peace negotiations France gave up her ambition to hold the left bank of the Rhine only as the result of the promise of American and British aid to guarantee French security against another German aggression contained in the tripartite alliance between these three powers. But the American Senate's refusal to accept this treaty killed the pact.

The strong desire of France for a guarantee from her allies of aid to maintain her security was evidenced also during the peace conference in the French plan to give to the League of Nations certain military powers amounting to an international police force.

In the security situation Great Britain has put forward arbitration as a substitute for military guarantees. France recognizes and lauds the great moral force arbitration in the settlement of international disputes. But the French attitude is that for arbitration to be effective in all cases—in other words, in order that arbitration should guarantee a nation's security—it must have a real force, pledge of military force, behind it.

The Quai d'Orsay expresses the hope that eventually the progress of civilization will reach the point where the word of arbitration will carry sufficient weight so that an actual, material force will not be necessary behind arbitral decisions to protect the security of the nations involved. However, France does not believe that this point yet has been reached, and her officials hold liberal views on arbitration in cases involving the security of nations without force would result only in the discouragement of the peoples of the world and the frittering away of the power of arbitration.

French diplomats accompany their arguments with the logical illustration of Germany's invasion of Belgium and France in 1914.

It is said that I am leaving Lubbock. There is no truth in this statement.

The Oil Stove Has Grown Up

Few could have foreseen in the oil stove of their childhood days, the foundation of the present day Perfection—a range of beauty and convenience—as big and powerful as the gas stove.

This grown up oil range does not smoke or smell. It cooks the minute it is lighted. Its flame is as simply regulated and as steady as a gas flame. It leaves no soot on pots or pans to kill the housewife's enjoyment of her perfectly cooked meals.

And best of all by burning oil, the universal fuel, it brings to women everywhere, a splendid, efficient cook stove which banishes forever the discomfort and hard labor of cooking with coal or wood.

Perfection's dependability and year 'round usefulness is already known to more than four and a half million satisfied users.

CHILD HITTEN BY SKUNK IS TREATED FOR RABIES

GONZALES, TEXAS, Oct. 17.—Bitten on the nose by a skunk while asleep in an old school house in Leesville, a two-year-old son of H. McBreer was rushed to the Pasteur Institute at Austin for treatment for rabies.

The animal came up through a floor of the school house and attacked the child. It was killed by the father and an examination disclosed that it had rabies.

MARKETS

PROFIT TAKING RUNS PRICES DOWN AFTER HIGHS RECORDED

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Trading in stocks Wednesday was largely a repetition of the previous session. Buying started off briskly, and covering of shorts became urgent with the net result that many new highs on the movement were reported by representative railroad and industrial stocks. Then, the usual profit taking ensued and substantial recessions from the highest occurred. One of the features of the day was the strength in issues of carriers, condition with the Nickel Plate merger. New highs on the movement were reached by this group. However, the point is made that it is doubtful that the leases which are now under consideration by the officials of the road involved in this consolidation will be adopted, as no provision has been made for minority stockholders who may not choose to accept the securities offered them in exchange for their present stocks. The terms as they now stand call only for the payment of the fixed charges of the individual roads.

In the bond market, it was the rail issuer which were the feature. The Liberty loans were again active under the influence of 2 percent call money though the treasury 4 1/4 failed to duplicate the record high touched in the previous session. The new German seven was fractionally higher throughout the day. Wheat turned firmer on reports of a better export demand but the other grains were under pressure principally on weather news. The slight uptick in cotton in an irregular session of trading was without particular significance. Much of the trading was in the nature of pre-bureau evening up.

"SPECIAL PRIVILEGE" OF LA FOLLETTE IS ATTACKED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22.—In a six hundred word telegram to Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent presidential candidate, the Kansas City Journal, a republican newspaper, asked him to explain the meaning of the term "special privilege" as used in his platform. "The telegram, in part, read: "Dear Senator: "Your platform contains this language: 'Equality of opportunity proclaimed by the Declaration of Independence has been displaced by special privilege for the few, wrong from the government of the many.' "It is a matter of common knowledge that a few have special influence in all clubs, all churches, all corporations, and even in communities. Lenin and Trotsky possessed special influence in Russia for several years, exactly as you have been the recognized leader in Wisconsin for many years, while the great mass both in Russia and Wisconsin have submitted with apparent willingness. Yet, none of you wrung special privileges from the many. The friends of the successful candidates should, and doubtless will have more influence with the ensuing administration than his enemies. When an executive finds that those who seek his downfall are better entitled to public confidence than his friends, he should join the party that opposed him. What the Journal asks, but only for the enlightenment of its readers is this: Recognizing that special influence is quite a different thing from special privilege, what, if anything, you mean by the term 'Special Privilege' as used in your platform. "By express statutes, approved by everyone the farmers of the country are encouraged to combine for co-operative marketing, for limiting production and for doing anything that the imagination of man can conceive to advance the price of their products, thus increasing the 'net of living to the many. Were these special privileges 'wrong by the few from the government of the United States. Please wire whether if elected you intend to require the fewer than 6,000,000 farmers of the country to surrender in the interest of all others, the statutory privilege they now enjoy? "Please, etc."

The telegram discussed the right of workmen to form unions for the betterment of their living conditions, to increase their wages, and asked La Follette if he would ask for repeal of the special privileges given to labor by statutes and by court decisions. "In this connection," the telegram continued, "the Journal believes the people are tired of all this loose and nebulous talk about special privilege and therefore offers to pay $1,000 to any charity you may nominate if you will mention a single special privilege, as distinguished from a special influence, now enjoyed by any man, or any group, excepting agriculture and labor."

CHAOS CONFRONTS WORLD RELIGIOUS LEADER SAYS

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 22.—Chaos confronts the world that millions gave up their lives in the world war to make safe, because Christianity has not been applied in business, politics or social life. This gloomy outlook was presented by two nationally known religious leaders before more than 2,000 delegates to the Southwestern Methodist conference in annual meeting here. Representatives are here from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and Louisiana.

Dr. George Elliot, New York, editor of the Methodist review and Dr. E. Stanley Jones, Methodist evangelist in Indiana, were the two principal speakers Wednesday. "The world's greatest need today is a safe democracy—not merely political liberty, but social, spiritual and industrial democracy," said Dr. Elliot. "The war saved the world politically, but it does not follow that the salvation of the world was secured. On the other hand, chaos is imminent. Dr. Elliot declared for Christianity as the only hope for a peaceful world for earthy life. Citing the movement of non-violence now going on in India, Dr. Stanley Jones said the only real way to peace among nations lies in the application of religious truths to politics. In his opinion a political expediency never can prove a panacea for earthy life. The eastern missionary spoke on the life of Gandhi, one time leader of the masses in India, and said that while he had been shorn of his political power he is a great student of the christian religion and his religion is spreading rapidly.

Promise Made To Cancel French Debt La Follette Says

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 22.—The Coolidge administration has made secret promises looking to some form of cancellation of the foreign debts owned by France, and other countries, Senator La Follette, independent presidential candidate charged in a speech here Wednesday night. La Follette asserted that the administration is following a policy dictated by J. P. Morgan and other international bankers who desire that government to cancel its loan so that their chances of collecting debts due them will be better. He indicated that if the senate were in session he would demand an investigation in the matter.

"Newspaper reports of interviews with the prime minister of France, and with other high officials indicate clearly that promises have been made by the spokesman for this administration looking toward some form of cancellation of these foreign debts to the United States," La Follette said.

"If the senate were in session, vigorous efforts would be made to force Secretary of State Hughes to reveal exactly what promises have been made behind the closed doors and conference rooms in London and Paris, but under present conditions Secretary Hughes and President Coolidge maintain silence, and the American people are left in the dark while those far-reaching agreements are being consummated."

La Follette declared that progressives are not shylocks, and will not bill the debtor to get a pound of flesh but that they desired the debts paid as soon as possible. La Follette charged that while France is delaying payment of her debt to the United States, she is making loans to finance military equipment of her smaller allies—Poland, Czechoslovakia and Roumania. "France, at the expense of the American people, has created a great military machine in Europe and equipped it with French guns," he added.

MANY GIRLS IN POULTRY CLASS AT TEACHERS COLLEGE
CANYON, Oct. 22.—If one is to judge by the increased interest in poultry manifested by the students at the West Texas State Teacher's College this section of Texas is destined to become a noted poultry district. There are more women students pursuing this course this year than there ever were before in the history of the institution. There are in this class, a ratio of three girls to one boy. Not only these young people taught how to teach this subject, but are given practical instruction in mixing poultry rations, reconstructing poultry houses, and running incubators.

Some of the young ladies taking this course expect to go out later and demonstrate improved poultry methods in the capacity of home demonstration agents.

It is being told that I am leaving Lubbock. There is no truth in this statement.

About $3,000 in old coins, supposed to have been hidden by a relative, were found in his cells by W. J. Barron of Port Garhon, Pa., when remodeling his home a few days ago.

San Antonio Man Is Robbed by His Would-Be Friend

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 22.—The first time you feel good, the next time you see him you feel like taking a swing at him, in the opinion of Angel Alvarez.

Angel befriended a stranger and took him into his room for the night. The next day Angel's watch and ten dollars in cash, together with the stranger were missing, he told police.

COMMON LABORERS GIVEN OPPORTUNITY BECOME HIGHLY SKILLED MECHANICS BY PANHANDLE CONSTRUCTION MANAGERS

J. B. Moxley, of the Panhandle Construction Company, has had a great deal of experience in employing men from unskilled laborers to highly skilled, well paid mechanics and is still looking for good and efficient workmen who are willing to work for what they get.

Many well paid mechanics now assisting Mr. Moxley in his work started working for the Panhandle Construction Company as many as seven years ago at common labor and for common labor wages. These men looked entirely beyond their work for pay checks and in their ambitions to become skilled in their respective jobs they became sufficiently efficient to be recognized by being paid higher wages. These men now have special crews to superintend in the big paving project now under way, and school boys wishing to see the first hand what it takes to rise above the common level, even as a laborer, could not spend an hour or two more profitably than to go to the places where these crews are at work and see one man doing from fifty to one hundred per cent more work than any of the several men whose work he superintends, and receiving pay in proportion to his superior efficiency.

Every field of endeavor has its opportunities, and the observer will readily see that the fellow who seized upon every opportunity to become more efficient in his work is the one whose efforts receive the highest consideration, even from a pay check standpoint.

The Panhandle Construction Company foreman stated that many men something happens to cause the shortage of labor to become serious again, and if weather conditions become again favorable to the paving project, great headway will be made and within a few days Main street will be paved from the Santa Fe passenger depot to the east border of the Tech Site.

In this building program no single factor has entered into the progress of the builders more than their ability to secure efficient and energetic workmen and if our observation is correct they offer splendid opportunities for the laborer who is worthy of his hire to become an efficient and skilled workman commanding pay in keeping with his ability. Mr. Moxley stated that the beginning phase with them is at common labor where a test of ability and faithfulness is automatically made.

show to the world that this entire section is interested in and back of the great institution.

Many Volunteer Service.

The towns that have already volunteered their services have stated that they feel that the Tech belongs to them and all of this section just as much as it belongs to Lubbock, and that they are wanting benefits from its location in this section.

It is this spirit that has made this section a place to live in as it is, and the support and co-operation of these towns is indeed appreciated by every one connected with the arrangements for the occasion.

Weather permitting, those most closely connected with the arrangements, are now prophesying that there will be as many people here on Armistic Day for the cornerstone laying and other features of the day's program as were here for the First Tech party, which means that Lubbock and the towns of this section have a big job on their hands, but that they will benefit all the more greatly thereby.

Several state papers will have staff correspondents here to cover the events of the day and arrange for the day's program. The local committee will meet again tomorrow night at seven thirty at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to which many of the details into shape, after which it is expected more definite announcements in regard to the day's program can be made.

GOVERNMENT SCORES POINT IN OIL SUIT

New York through a lengthy questioning.

Young said that E. L. Doheny, jr., came to him on the morning of November 30, 1921, with a statement that he needed $100,000.

The witness told of his trip to the First National bank for the money. A check drawn on Blair and company was introduced in support of Young's statement that he secured the cash in bills of large denominations.

Doheny came back to my office in the afternoon and I turned the money over to him," Young testified. "He wrapped it in paper and then put it in a small satchel, leaving the office at about 2 o'clock."

Charles L. Little, assistant paying teller of the Blair and company, followed Young on the stand and testified that the account of E. L. Doheny jr., with his firm had been lessened by $100,000 on the date named, by Young for the transaction.

The court session closed for the day at 4:30 p. m.

Chief of defense counsel Hogan has done all the talking for the oil interests.

The calling of government witnesses Wednesday followed the completion of attorney Frank J. Hogan's review of defense claims, and purposes.

Actions of naval officials in planning for construction of fuel storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Honolulu "in the interest of the country's defense," was described Admiral J. H. Robinson, chief of the navy's engineering bureau, was characterized as a "bargain driver" for the government and was given credit for the idea of getting revenue from Elk Hills Oil to pay for the Pearl Harbor construction work.

"Because of Admiral Robinson's zeal, Doheny did not derive any great bargain from the Pearl Harbor contract," Hogan said.

only two weeks.

The young woman rushed into Emery's private office Wednesday and informed him that her husband was in an intoxicated condition.

"I have started suit for divorce," she told Emery, "and he won't leave me alone."

Colonel Emery told the girl that he would see to it that the man left, and then walked to his outer office. There was a moment's argument, Simpson insisting that he enter the private office. Emery told him that he must go.

"You are a dirty dog—and everybody knows it!" the man shouted. Pulling a gun from his pockets he

HIGH DEATH RATE BY AUTOS IS LAID TO PROSPERITY

By United News

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 22.—Prosperity is one of the indirect causes for California's high automobile death rate, according to Arthur E. Lober, of the California State Automobile Association in an interview with the United News. Figures on file in the department of commerce at Washington give California a death rate of 32.6 per one hundred thousand population due to automobile accidents in 1923. The records show that California has led all other states for the past five years.

RELIGIOUS HEAD URGES FURTHER RESEARCH WORK

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 22.—Religious workers are building roads in the world of reality, the Rev. Geo. F. Patterson of Boston, declared in an address before the Southwestern Federation of Religious liberals in session here.

"Liberalists prefer to think for themselves, to search out and find; we do not believe gospel begins with Genesis and finishes with Revelations. Gospel is good news; and only by searching is this good news brought to us," the clergyman said.

Dr. Patterson, who is new England field secretary of the American Unitarian Association, outlined a business proposition by discerning the faults and by selecting the good things.

"Let us not be lightning bugs carrying our lights as warnings, but put the light to the fore as headlights and show the people we are here," he concluded.

FOSDICK WINS IN CONTROVERSY WITH HIS CHURCH

By United News

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, noted modernist preacher has won a victory in his controversy with the Presbyterian general assembly, night accepted Fosdick's resignation as associate pastor of New York's Presbyterian church.

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church Wednesday night accepted Fosdick's resignation, in compliance with the request of the New York Presbytery but at the same time invited him to continue to preach in the church and passed a resolution enthusiastically endorsing Fosdick himself, and the advanced theories which he had preached from the pulpit.

MAN TRIES 4 TIMES TO GET MARRIAGE LICENSE

MCCALLISTER, Okla., Oct. 22.—Howard Tolbert, 18, of Ashland, Okla., finally has been successful in obtaining a marriage license here. Several weeks ago Tolbert made his first try but was rejected because he was only 18. Later in the day he disguised himself with a moustache and had the license in his hand, when the clerk discovered the duplication in names.

Several days later, Tolbert returned with a letter from his father, approving the match. The clerk still was adamant because the parental permission wasn't in affidavit form.

Finally Tolbert came back with a sworn permit from his parents. The bride is Miss Nora Standbridge.

Bishop Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal Church says that the young people have been criticized too much. After all, there is nothing immoral about bobbed hair or even about a lipstick. It may be better for a skirt to be a little too short than much too long.

Other reasons held for the high death in Loder's analysis were:

1. Grade crossings, which claimed 250 of the 1,395 lives lost in 1923.
2. Congested traffic conditions resulting in the larger cities, and in the thousands of miles of paved highways.
3. Carelessness.
4. Ignorance of tourists of the highway hazards and failure to re-seat warnings posted by the various safety organizations.
