SENATOR HUEY P. LONG SHOT DIED MONDAY

State in Turmoil, The Young Assassin Was Bullet Riddled.

United States Senator Huey P. Long, 42, commonly known as the dictator of Louisiana, died early Tuesday morning of the wounds inflicted by his assassin.

For 31 hours physicians and surgeons battled to save the life of this political chieftain. One operation, five blood transfusions and administration of oxygen were in vain.

Senator Huey P. Long was shot and wounded in the abdomen in the state capitol building at Baton Rouge, La., Sunday night, and his assassin, Dr. C. A. Weiss Jr., Baton Rouge, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, was promptly riddled with bullets from guns of Long's guards, dying almost instantly.

Long, holding his hands to his wounded side, walked stumblingly down the stairs to an ambulance that promptly responded to a call and was taken to a hospital where the wound was quickly probed, cleansed and dressed.

Report is the assassin stepped in quickly to the side of Long, pressing the pistol against his side and firing before anyone realized what happened. A second bullet failed to hit its mark when a friend walking with the senator shoved the assassin to one side, the bullet being deflected.

Senator Long was promptly given a blood transfusion, being conscious through all preliminary operations, sustaining the weakness and prostration of the wound without anesthetics. The bullet passed entirely through the body, puncturing an intestine in two places.

During all the confusion, it is said Long was the calmest person in the operating room.

The senator's family was at his bedside when the end came. He was conscious up to nearly the last. His asking for his children, who were quickly rushed into his room. His wife had been constantly by his bedside. "I love you all," he feebly said, as his breath began coming shorter. He expressed a desire to live, also spoke in solicitous manner of the university boys he was helping through school.

As result of the first senator's death the State of Louisiana is thrown into consternation. Opposing forces are expected to soon come to grips over political control. It has been intimated that Governor O. K. Allen may become the successor of Senator Long in Congress.

SENATOR A. P. DUGGAN IS BURIED WITH HIGH HONORS AT AUSTIN SUNDAY; STATE OFFICIALS ATTEND

West Texas Shocked as News Of His Death From Heart Failure Flashed Over Telegraph Wires Last Friday.

Funeral rites for Senator Arthur P. Duggan, 58, late Littlefield citizen, and senator from this thirtieth Senatorial district, were held in Austin Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Lawrence Wharton, pastor of University Presbyterian church, and the burial service conducted by members of the Masonic order, for a Lubbock lodge of Masons from Littlefield, all intimate friends and business associates of Mr. Duggan, participating.

The body of the late senator lay in state in the Senate chamber from twelve o'clock noon, until 2.30 p. m., when the obsequies began. Governor Allred ordered that flags on all state buildings should be flown at half mast as a final tribute from the State of Texas to the character of the senator "whose spirit will ever be a beacon of hope and encouragement to those who knew him."

At the same hour a memorial service for the late Senator was held at the Baptist church in Littlefield, conducted by Rev. Jack Lewis, Presbyterian minister from Lubbock, assisted by Littlefield pastors.

Gov. Allred, Lieut. Governor Woodall, and a committee of field senators attended the funeral services, acting as honorary pallbearers. Interment was made in the Capitol cemetery.

News of the death of Senator Duggan came like a flash of lightning out of a clear sky to citizens of Muleshoe and this area last Friday shortly after the noon hour. It was known here that a few weeks ago he had undergone a minor operation at a Lubbock hospital; that a few days later he had an acute attack of indigestion from which he quickly rallied; but the second attack which befell him while at Laredo on political nature. He was highly respected as a solid citizen and estimable gentleman, as well as appreciated in his proven characteristics and ability as a statesman.

Moving to Littlefield several years ago, accompanied by his brother C. J. Duggan, he caused that town to be laid out, pioneered and promoted its development up to the time of his death. He was for years the personal business representative of the late Geo. W. Littlefield, handling all his business affairs in this section of the state. He was one of the organizers of the Yellow House Land Co., representing one of the largest financial deals ever consummated in Texas, and had active management of that concern for several years.

Project No. 3 calls for work on the "Portales, N. M., Cut-off" road, beginning at a point one mile north of Progress on State Highway No. 7, going past West Camp school house and on to the eastern New Mexico line, grade and drainage work being done at a cost of $13,843.00, using 303 man months of labor to be paid for by the Federal government and 21 man months of labor to be paid for by Bailey county.

Project No. 4 calls for grade and drainage work to be done from the New Mexico line through Goodland, Texas, and on to the Cochrans county line at a cost of $37,386, using 668 man months of labor to be paid for by the Federal government and 63 man months of labor to be paid for by Bailey county funds.

Project No. 5 is a county wide prairie dog killing one to cost $4,732, calling for 129 man months of labor to be paid for by the Federal government and no county expenditure.

LEASES FILED ON 7,024 ACRES IN BAILEY CO.

West And Southwest Part Of County Is Coveted Area.

That interest in oil prospecting in Bailey county is increasing with economic recovery is clearly indicated by recent activity in this line manifest in this direction.

For sometime past it has been known oil scouts and geologists representing major companies have been viewing this county, especially the southern and western portion of it with favorable reports as a desirable location for a future oil field, and it has been common report that as finances became looser more wildcatting would take place in this section.

Last week there were 10 oil leases embracing 4,723 acres of land located in the western part of Bailey county filed in the County Clerk's office, said leases being made out to one John F. White, Clovis, N. M., who is supposed to be an intermediary for some prominent oil company.

A few days previous 15 similar oil leases covering 2,301 acres of land were filed in the County Clerk's office in favor of Angus & Link, this land being located in the southwestern part of Bailey county.

It is also understood that several thousand acres of land has been leased in the southern part of Bailey county and northern Cochrans county by C. C. Enochs and his agents.

No definite information has been given out, however, when any location will be definitely made and spudding in begun.

The campaign for the unexpected term of office left vacant by Senator Duggan's sudden death bids fair to be a fast and furious one, less than 20 days being left, following the Governor's election call, during which time political aspirants must get themselves and their platforms before the voters.

A large number of aspirants have been spoken of as probable candidates.

House Fly Wears Stripes

A common house fly has four black stripes on its back. It has large eyes, short feelers and one pair of wings. It has two small, round balancers, borne on slender stalks; which also act as organs of hearing. A house fly cannot bite. Its mouth is spread out for sucking. It has to suck a hard object, like a grain of sugar, with saliva from its own mouth before it can suck it up.

A. P. STONE AND W. M. POOL JR. ATTEND FARM CREDIT SHORT COURSE HELD AT CANYON COLLEGE FRIDAY

The sectional short course of the Farm Credit Administration held at West Texas State Teachers College, Canyon, September 6 and 7, was a great success, according to A. P. Stone, secretary-treasurer of the Muleshoe National Farm Loan Association, who, with W. M. Pool, Jr., director of the association, attended the meeting.

All who attended had an opportunity to learn more of the operation of the various units of this large financing system for agriculture that has, through its operations, helped thousands of Texas farmers and ranchers to carry on through the period of emergency.

Mr. Stone says the meeting was both instructive and inspirational, and that more than a million dollars worth of loans in this county have been placed through the Federal Land Bank and the Federal Commissioner since the work was inaugurated in this county.

Among the principal speakers at the meeting were A. C. Williams, president, The Federal Land Bank of Houston and general agent of the Farm Credit Administration Houston, who spoke on the work of the Federal Land Bank in making loans on its own behalf and as agent for the Land Bank commissioner. Mr. Williams also told of recent legislation which permits Land Bank commissioner loans to be made to worthy tenant farmers to enable them to purchase farms of their own.

"Our goal is to have credit centers accessible located where farmers and stockmen can secure both long and short term credit service according to their needs."

Another interesting feature of the short course was a practical demonstration of farm land appraisal by bank appraisers. This was conducted by P. W. Chunn, chief appraiser of the Federal Land Bank, of Houston, and O. E. Aday, reviewing appraiser of the Farm Credit administration, Washington, D. C.

H. H. Fennell, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service, Dalhart, spoke on terracing to conserve moisture or to prevent damage to the soil from wind erosion.

Cooperative Extension Work in Agriculture was the subject of P. D. Hanna, District Agent of the Extension Service, A & M college.

Monday night an open forum was held, with short talks by a number of speakers.

The program of the Farm Resettlement administration was the topic discussed by Morris M. Blair, Economic adviser of the Farm Resettlement administration.

Real Estate sales was the topic discussed by E. E. Eiland, assistant treasurer in charge of the Real Estate department of the Federal Land Bank of Houston.

Among the 400 delegates attending the short-course included secretary-treasurers and directors of a number of National Farm Loan associations and Production Credit associations; representatives from the Extension Service of A & M college; teachers of Vocational Agriculture, officials of institutions discounting paper with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, representatives of Farmers' Cooperative organizations in the Panhandle, and others. Mr. Stone reports that all those in attendance were enthusiastic in their comments on the short-course.

What's Happening In Washington And Other Cities Of Importance

The 1936 reunion of Confederate veterans will be held at Shreveport, La.

WPA has given jobs to 437,563 to date, according to advice from Washington.

The Blues and the Greys, soldiers of the Civil War will make their next annual reunion a joint one, held at Gettysburg in 1938.

The "lie detector," the machine that measures truthfulness, has been added to the laboratory equipment of G-men at Washington.

It was estimated there would be 300 people killed during last Labor Day, and news gathering service actually reported 298—pretty close guessing.

Indications now are that the hurricane which swept lower Florida last week may account for nearly 1,000 lives lost, many of them being soldiers.

Secretary Wallace says 85 per cent of the farmers are in favor of AAA, and will fight for some form of its continuance if the Supreme court declares the present form unconstitutional.

There are 111,500 farmers employed in some quasi-official capacity of the AAA, according to information from Washington, and many more soon will be added to this list.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, Englishman, in his Bluebird racing auto, last week traveled at the rate of 301.12 miles on the salt sands at Salt Lake, Utah—a world's record speed for the automobile.

Apparently beauty supercedes brains at Rockford, Ill., as the school board there has passed a ruling that all teachers employed must be pretty. Probably they would make it easier for pupils to stay in school!

Gov. Bibb Graves, of Alabama last Saturday signed the "heart balm" act, outlawing civil suits by women more than 21 years of age for breach of promise, alienation of affection or seduction.

Edward L. Doheny, Los Angeles, prominent oil magnate of the Pacific coast, died at his home last Sunday at the age of 79. He was at one time mixed up in the Teapot Dome oil project in connection with former Secretary Albert B. Falls of New Mexico.

"Clas Snakes"

There are a number of lizards in the South that are known as "glas snakes" or "joint snakes." They are lizards and not snakes because they have movable eyelids and an ear opening. They have a tail which breaks off easily. There is, of course, no truth in the story that the glass snake hunts up the discarded tail and puts it on again, or that the tail or other discarded part seeks out the main body of the snake.

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish.

When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Then the last of that servant was moved with compassion and loosed him and forgave him the debt.—St. Matthew 18:27.
It is easier for the generous to forgive than for the offender to ask forgiveness.—Thomson.

THE WORLD SITUATION

It begins to look as if this old world on which we live isn't big enough, or else many of the nations are going to have to adopt and strenuously enforce birth control. We have got so prolific that we are outliving war, we have become so scientific we have largely annihilated disease, we have become so healthy the span of human life has been nearly doubled in its longevity, we have become so efficient few people die from the accidents of industry. It seems that only the automobile remains to kill folk as fast as we can reproduce.
Italy has come to the point where she must either expand or explode. She has no idea of exploding, and in expanding she is going to have to do some exploiting, for results. Japan, another very feculent nation, has been at that same point for several years—and she is exploiting every day. Germany, too, started exploiting during the World War, was temporarily halted, but must soon take it up again. Population in America and other nations, also, is increasing by leaps and bounds. Under action of the League of Nations while the Creator went out of the real estate business several centuries ago. More land is not being created. Here and there the edges of rivers, bays and harbors are encroached upon by man-made land; but that is negligible.
Hate, suspicion, jealousy and economic nightmares walk across nations that are crowding their way. Mentally creating their populace, building taller structures to house them, using more fertilizer to produce food for them, building more bombshells to protect them—and God only knows what will be the final outcome.
Any moment now some other nation may boil over.
The problem of any other nation at once becomes the problem of several nations, and the United States is not out of the arithmetic. The results of any nation's actions is of immediate consequence to this country.
The League of Nations has gone broke, treaties are becoming mere scraps of paper, constructive forces are waning, efforts at equalizing armaments are nil, meanwhile we are all in this world as a living whole.
This editor takes no egotistical, narrow, isolated nor selfish view of the present situation. He is not a pessimist; but he does believe that just as we have proven in this country during the past four or five years there must be some adjustment of the capitalist system if social justice is to prevail, so there is going to have to be some readjustments of territorial boundaries if international peace is ever achieved.
Perhaps an entirely different interpretation will have to be placed on the old Biblical injunction of "be fruitful and multiply." It may have to be taken with certain qualifications—as it should be. Meanwhile, since self-preservation is the first law of nature, this scribble cannot help wonder a bit what America's part in this social and economic imbroglio is going to be. We claim to be no sear, no inspired prophet, not gifted with any powers of divination nor with miraculous perception; but while the "heathen" and the wise utter heavy pronouncements, we remain grateful that we are a citizen of West Texas where there is still plenty of room to turn around, breathe and salute one's neighbor in a friendly manner.

THE MIDDLE WEST

The old pioneer spirit still prevails in that section of the country familiarly known as the Middle West. Within the past 12 months the Middle Westerner faced tremendous odds, even stark tragedy. Drouths, dust storms and floods have visited his part of the world with such frequency that those more faint of heart would have succumbed to wild goose chase. There were times when he may not have felt like smiling, but at no time did anyone here the Middle Westerner wilt.
Surely every Muleshoe citizen can find a worth-while example in the conduct of their fellow Americans whose lives were almost blown away, then almost washed away, calamities had enough in themselves but especially discouraging when they followed closely upon the heels of a drouth that lasted for almost two years. But the Middle Western men and women are the kind that "can take it." Their ancestors were the hearty followers of the blow who journeyed far into the unknown to establish homes, and once established they were ready to protect them with courage and determination, believing that a little bad luck now and then only adds spice to life. What matters such trivial things as too much dust or water or the lack of it? This game of living is something beyond the gutters. It requires pioneers to win, and the Middle Westerners have it in their blood.
They have set a good example for any other part of the country that may in future be visited by angry elements or discouraging weather conditions. It is of such stock that this nation is founded upon, and the nation will perish if such stock ever dies out.

HITCH-HIKER CRIMES

As hitch-hiking increases it also bears evidence of becoming a racket to be taken seriously by motorists, for nearly every day the newspapers carry items of some one robbed, waylaid, car stolen, or taken in by a kind hearted driver for a ride.
It may be recalled by some that Pretty Boy Floyd was hitch-hiking across the country when he was finally hunted down by officials, and there are probably many other criminals doing the same thing. One never knows when they open a car door to admit them what the results may be.
Recently Wichita Kansas police took a census of many hitch-hikers of that area, bringing them out and get hold of into headquarters and taking their fingerprints. They discovered that two out of every five had criminal records of a more or less serious nature.
Many hitch-hikers individually are likeable fellows, no doubt; but hitch-hiking as an institution is a serious menace of which Muleshoe drivers should be careful.

FEATURES COUNT

No matter how perfect a physique one may have if their facial features are unattractive the chances for them getting very far in this world are stacked against them. Features count in more ways than one.
No matter how much love and interesting news a paper contains, if it still feature articles, stories, pictures, queer

MORE FARMS

The farm census taken by the government early this year reveals there are now 523,401 more farms than there were five years ago and that farm population is greater by about 2,500,000 persons than in 1930. Farm acreage is now greater by 66,000 acres than it was five years ago.
Most of the new "farmers" are not farmers in the real sense of the word, since the same have been recently migrated from the cities and have had no agricultural experience. But the census figures are worth studying over, and especially by the man who has hesitated to invest in farm land for fear of a decreased demand. They are also worthy the attention of the Muleshoe man who seeks a safe place to put his idle capital if any.
First-mortgages are a long way from being poor investments in this country; and from present indications the same is going to hold true for long years to come.

THE SLOW DRIVERS

Gov. Harker of Illinois, has signed a bill making it a misdemeanor for the operator of a motor vehicle to drive so slowly "as to impede the normal and reasonable movement of traffic."
It has long been the contention of traffic authorities that the unreasonable slow driver is as much a menace to traffic as the excessively fast driver. The slow-pokes, especially during the heavy winter months, are a hindrance on busy highways and compel others to take too many chances on cutting in and out to get ahead of the slow moving traffic congestion.
Illinois authorities frankly admit that the new law and its enforcement is an experiment. But it is an experiment worth making.
Auto-accidents are becoming more frequent; perhaps here is a solution for some of them. A frigate of this kind, never before stopped at a filling station to buy some gas and asked the attendant to inflate his tires. Later on while passing a car on the road his tires blew in a manner making it difficult to control and seriously frightening him lest he go into the ditch. When he arrived at the next town he personally tested his tires, finding the front one had 4 1/2 pounds and another 38 pounds, while the rear tires had 38 and 29 pounds each. This writer more than once has had similar experiences. Perhaps oil companies should have schools of instructors whereby service station attendants are more earnestly impressed with the responsibility of human life and accidents due to carelessness.
Mack Stanton, "fire-cracker" editor of the Clovis, N. M., News-Journal, elaborating upon the health-giving climate of this section, and exasperating over the bounteous crops in an effort to get the J. C. Penney store manager to give him an ad, pointed to a fellow citizen, one W. D. Mack, who he declared came to the Port of Entry with only one cell of one lung left, now he is 30 years old and still has part of his teeth. Muleshoe car go one better; for it numbers among its robust citizens one J. F. Vaughan, who when he came here was so weak he could not walk, could not even stand upon his feet, but after some nursing and attention. About a week ago he celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary. He was born in this country.
Some towns in some states make "itinerant merchants of different kinds do business in that town." Muleshoe, in the past, hasn't been much afflicted with these birds who move in during the harvest time and grab all the gravy they can and then move out before tax-paying time comes along; but as times get better this town may be, and valid local business men are entitled to protection.

PAVEMENT PICKUPS

Three or four statements sent the Journal last week by fellow business men with whom we do business were printed out of Muleshoe, and then a very cheap paper and being poor jobs of printing. The Journal office does not print printing than any of these out-of-town concerns and probably as cheap. It certainly has been patronizing these concerns who have failed to patronize the Journal. Reciprocity is a good thing and consistency is a jewel that should be appreciated by business concerns.
Without any intention of knocking, Byron Griffiths insists this country could get along better with more zinc in its church pews.
Rev. L. S. S. they local Baptist theologian and pastor, admits that people who chew tobacco may possibly go to heaven, but he is of the opinion they will have to get to hell to spit.
A customer of Mrs. Dolly Hart's at the local relief office, told her the other day she had been patronizing the relief office for the past two years, but if she couldn't get better service in the

Where Clouds of War are Lowering in Old World Areas

NEW YORK... This map shows the waters and lands across which Italy is reaching for a seemingly certain conflict with Ethiopia. Italian troops by the thousands have been arriving at Massana and Mogadishu, in Eritrea and Italian Somaliland, respectively. Addis Ababa is the capital of Ethiopia. Adowa is the place where Sunday night the mercury slid down to 40 degrees, a defeat which it is believed the present campaign is in part intended to avenge. was supported by 99 per cent of the business concerns of that town. Congratulations Brother Boyle on the fine spirit of co-operation among your business men; that's better support than Muleshoe gets for her monthly Trades Day.
With the thermometer dropping a minimum of 52 degrees Wednesday night of last week all night long, then cooler citizens of this section are beginning to look for an early winter, and some old-timers are pointing out supposedly correct signs of hard winter. Sunday night the mercury slid down to 4 degrees, and Monday night it was 46 degrees.
The City of Mansfield has asked WPA for 46,320 feet of sidewalk. The Journal just wonders if Muleshoe couldn't use another foot or so of sidewalk. It has been our experience that out here in West Texas we don't get anything if we don't go after it.
Now if the City of Muleshoe had just included cats in that ordinance going into effect last week it would have all been hunkydory. Some citizens complain more of the music of cats on the back yard fence than they do of dogs on the streets.
Now that the Blue Eagle has been 47 degrees officially dead by J. J. Martin, acting-administrator of NRA, and further it is forbidden, perhaps "the leading newspaper of Lamb county" will not have that pair of insignias from its frontispiece.
With the thermometer dropping to 47 degrees officially dead by J. J. Martin, people of this vicinity are reminded its about time to get coal bins filled, increased gas bills will soon be in vogue and long-handled underwear the prevailing style.

I AM WORK

By ZEP
I am the beginning of all success, the parent of all genius, the foundation of all business initiative and future prosperity.
I am the friend of both the poor and the rich, for neither can do well without me. The poor get poorer, while the rich become gaudy and tumble ahead of time into their graves, if I am not recognized.
I am the enemy of laziness, the friend of thrift, the companion of energy and without me no human being can be truly healthy and happy.
I dig ditches, plow fields, rear cottages and skyscrapers, run railroad trains, open mines, build dams, manufacture giant machines and cause them to efficiently operate. I make airplanes to fly across continents and boats to sail across oceans.
Without me phonographs, radios and telephones would not function, instruments in the hands of skilled surgeons would not effectively operate, musicians could not bring forth rhythm, painters could not produce harmonious colors nor sculptors immortal statues.
I give inspiration to every worthy youth and consolation to every aged person. No prize can be greater than that which I bestow; no award more honored.
I am the method of all industry, the creator of all wealth, the satisfayer of all worthy ambitions.
I am responsible for all food produced, and it is through me that the luxuries as well as the necessities of life are provided.
I am the foe of lassitude, indifference and foolish minds made me; but folks of initiative, having high ideals and wise conceptions appreciate me.
I am the source of all progress, the moulder of communities, the maker of municipalities and the builder of nations.
I AM WORK!

SNAP SHOTS

To make a woman—Take the brightness of the sun's rays, the glance of a young antelope, the lightness of this-tie-down, tears of the morning dew, fickleness of the evening zephyrs, timidity of the quail, boastfulness of the ostrich, long neck of the eagle, softness of swan's-down, temper of the diamond, sweet flavor of saccharine, subtlety of the tiger, fierceness of the lion, chatter of the magpie, cooing of the turtle dove—melt it all together and it will make a woman. Yet how many men will give all they have to obtain one of these specimens.
Pat Bobo returned last week from Mineral Wells, where he has been for the past three weeks taking his annual footbath, drinking Crazy water for increased mental acumen and soaking his physical corporeality in the health-giving quality of Adams ale flowing out from that section of terra firma. While there Pat had occasion to become acquainted with some members of a nudist colony that has a camp at Lovers Leap, about eight or 10 miles from Mineral Wells. There were some very prominent people members of that camp and one of whom was reported to be a princess. "But how do you know she was a princess?" some one asked Pat upon his return home. "Well," replied Pat, "I don't exactly know that she was a princess; but I do know she wasn't a prince."
The grandfather and grandmother who were thrown together in an old-fashioned hammock should be too quick to denounce the rumble-seat.
Science has discovered a new mustard gas; but no way has yet been found to apply it to radio crooners.
One definition of an egoist is a fellow who persists in talking when a listener is all that is wanted.
A mountain in Colorado and Niagara falls is tumbling down. Nothing seems permanent any more except the public debt.
What is the name of the other senator from Louisiana—or is there really another one—just a fighead, or, perhaps: keeps quiet and saps wood?
Perhaps, and again perhaps not—there might be more great men in West Texas if a few leg cabins could be provided for them to be born in.
One prophet says the U. S. is bordering on a boom and another says it is facing a bust-up, so pay your taxes and take your choice.

GOING TO THE DOGS

'My grandpa notes the world's worn cogs, 'And says we're going to the dogs; 'His granddad, in his house of logs, 'Swore things were going to the dogs; 'His dad, among the Flemish hogs, 'Vowed things were going to the dogs; 'The covenants, in his queer skin togs, 'Said things were going to the dogs; 'But this is what I wish to state— 'The dogs have had an awful wait. $40,000 in Pearls

By SPENCER A. SPENCER © McClure Newspaper Syndicate. W. N. Service.

ARNOLD MILLERN had worked every confidence racket from the artificial eye dropped into a gullible prospector's basket of traps to selling mythical oil wells to wide-eyed tourists in California. Of medium height, was Arnold Millern—save, and with the honest but fooled astute judges of human nature. Conscience, he had none, taking the insurance money of widows with dependent children as readily as he did the Broadway playboy's allowance.

When he was alone in his ho-1 room he brought it forth for closer inspection. The envelope which had once been white was yellow and brittle. Carefully he tore off the end and shook out the letter. It had been written from Pago-Pago, and was dated July 14, 1932.

'My dear wife Cynthia (the letter began): 'It seems at this time to be the will of God that this letter must be my last. My ship is at anchor here, undergoing repairs. Upon our arrival I was carried ashore suffering from tropical fever. The port doctor, a worthy man, has advised me to put my worldly affairs in order.

'As one time, having lost considerable monies in a bank failure, I secretly constructed a small vault in our home. It is directly above the carved figure on the left side of the mantel in the back parlor. By pressing the right eyeball of the figure you will release a spring which will cause the door of the vault to open. Inside you will find several bars of American gold, and pearls whose value is estimated to be $50,000. It is my earnest hope that these monies and jewels, with God's help, will protect you from want all your remaining days.

'I am sending this message to you by my loyal and trustworthy mate, Mr. Jack MacDonald.

'Your loving and faithful husband, 'Captain Peter Rodgers.

Arnold Millern's hands were trembling as he finished reading the letter. He was willing to him that since Cynthia Rodgers had not received her husband's letter the gold and pearls were still in the vault.

'As he taxed across the long bridge to Brooklyn doubts crept into his mind. Perhaps the house had been rented to make room for a modern structure.

'All doubts subsided from him, however, when a half hour later he found evidence to the contrary.

'A weather vane, once mounted in a once fashionable neighborhood where the streets sloped sharply toward the busy waterfront. He walked slowly past the house, then catching sight of the ROOMS FOR RENT sign in the window, retraced his steps and rang the doorbell. Luck was with him!

'The great heavy door swung opened by a little, white-haired lady whose lively blue eyes and quick smile beamed up at him.

'"I'm looking for the first floor," he said. "Something on a first floor, if you have it."

'"The only room I have vacant at present is the back parlor," she explained, stepping aside for him to enter. He struggled to keep this good news from showing in his face. "The back parlor has a lovely view of the harbor," the little woman continued. "My husband was a seafaring man, Captain of the Silver Swan, he was, before she was lost with all hands aboard." He had followed her into the back parlor. "I used to watch for his ship through those windows, but that's been a long time ago." As she talked he saw nothing but the marble mantle above the fireplace with the carved figures on both sides.

'"How much is this room?" he asked. "One hundred dollars a month. Rooms with a view of the harbor are scarce. You'll find there's a breeze from the hottest nights."

'Reluctantly he selected five twenties from his wallet and gave them to her. The moment she was gone he hung his hat over the doorknob, closing the key-hole, and then he pulled down the shades. Walking to the mantle he pressed the right eyeball of the figure on the left. Instantly a small section of wall swung outward. With a moist, shaking hand he reached into the opening. It was empty! No—there was a piece of letter paper inside. He walked to the window, and pulling back the edge of the shade, read: "My dear Treasure Hunter:

"The envelope which you found in the book was only one of many that I placed in several bookshops. I find this an excellent method of advertising my rooms. I hope that during your sojourn under my roof you will be comfortable and happy. In the event, however, that you decide to leave before you decide to see me please refrain from slamming the front door.

"Yours truly, 'Mrs. Cynthia Rodgers."

Taken from a Lady's Note Book

"September is a more or less routine month. Starting to school, music lessons are resumed again for the fall and winter. We will always have washing and ironing and three meals a day routine. Cooking by no means need be a routine job. As a matter of fact, it need not be termed a routine job but rather an accomplishment which can be made very interesting if it is looked upon in the right frame of mind."

"The first item to consider in planning a meal is to include the food elements that have been lacking during the day (I am speaking of the evening meal, because that is when the family is generally together, and it is usually the main meal). The second is to prepare food in some way a little different from what you have been used to doing. Third, serve it as attractively as possible, remembering the old saying, 'Feed the stomach first through the eyes.'"

And let us suggest that you look further into how simplified your problems will become when cooking electrically with a Waldorf. Its performance is unexcelled and it costs no more than other forms of cooking . . . in many cases, less.

Better Ways to Light Up for Bridge and Other Games

When the so-called "bridge lamp" is used to light a game of bridge, as above, its nature and purpose have been misunderstood. At right is shown a correct type of lamp for the purpose.

By Jean Prentice

MISPLACED hands, sharp words exchanged across the bridge table—these are frequent indications that the "bridge lamp" has been misnamed. So-called because its extension arm holding the shade and bulb has been built on the principle of the cantilever bridge, the bridge lamp was really designed as a reading lamp, and not to play bridge by, at all.

General Illumination Needed

When this lamp is used to illuminate a bridge table, we invariably find a result like that shown in the illustration at upper left. Because of its narrow circle of light, this lamp can properly illuminate only two of the hands of cards. In order to provide light for the other side of the table, the shade has been tilted, causing discomfort and glare all around.

Double-Purpose Lamps Available

For adequate lighting of a bridge game, either the indirect torchere, as shown, or one of the indirect floor lamps containing a white glass bowl within the shade, may be used. The latter, which forms a good reading lamp, gives both totally indirect and semi-direct light. Thus, it is a double-purpose lamp, and comes in a wide variety of styles and designs suitable for any decorative scheme. The indirect torchere is well suited for the game room or recreation room, besides doing its turn in the living room when a moderate amount of glareless light is desired. Many of these torcheres come equipped with the new three-light bulbs, by which any of three different amounts of light may be had at the mere turn of a switch.

Make-Shift Lighting Inexcusable

Make-shift lighting is no longer necessary or excusable, any more than is make-shift furniture. The well-kept home of today's owners just as careful provision for the various lighting requirements of family and guests as it does for any other phase of living. Guests nowadays expect good, comfortable lighting, and the thoughtful hostess always endeavors to provide it, especially for games.

LUBBOCK FAIR BOOSTERS HERE TUESDAY NOON

Bring Band, Speakers Novelty Gifts For The Children.

Lubbock South Plains Fair boosters, a whole caravan of them, will be in Muleshoe next Tuesday at 12 o'clock noon, accompanied by the Lubbock High School band, to tell the citizens of this section of the big attractions and things of interest to see at the regional fair to be held there September 23 to 28.

They will take noon lunch here—but it will be after the program to be given on Main street. They carry with them a quantity of novelty gifts of various kinds for the kiddies, and it is reported school will be dismissed during the noon period, as it was last year, so the pupils may get in on reciprocity of these gifts. Prominent Lubbock speakers will also be in the party to tell of the merits of the coming big display. The boosters will be officially welcomed here by R. L. Brown, wearing his 10-gallon white hat, red necktie and carrying his 4-foot auctioneer's cane. Everyone is urged to turn out and give these neighbors the glad hand of reception.

Leaving Lubbock at 7:15 a. m. Tuesday morning, the itinerary includes Shallowater, Anton, Littlefield, Amherst, Sudan, Muleshoe, Morton, Levelland, Smyer and back into Lubbock late that evening, having covered about 165 miles.

"Crops look good, so do fair prospects," according to Garnett Reeves, fair publicity manager, and indications are the big Show Window of the South Plains will have a bigger showing this year than ever before for sometime past. Wednesday, September 25 will be school day, when all school children will be admitted free.

The Story of the Constitution
by CALEB JOHNSON

THE SUPREME COURT AND ITS POWER

The need for a Federal Judiciary was apparent to all the delegates to the Convention of 1787. The earlier attempts at an effective Federation had been handicapped by the lack of any court having jurisdiction outside its own State. The scheme of "checks and balances" which the framers of the Constitution set up called for a Judicial branch independent of and coequal with the Legislative and Executive.

The number of Justices of the Supreme Court is not fixed by the Constitution. Originally there were seven. The number was increased to nine in the administration of President Grant. The Constitution does, however, provide that all Federal judges shall be appointed by the President, and shall hold office "during good behavior." The number of inferior Federal Courts is left to Congress to decide.

The power of the Federal Judiciary in the language of the Constitution, extends "to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties," as well as to cases arising from disputes between States, or citizens of different States, and those affecting foreign interests.

The great power of the Supreme Court derives from its duty of interpreting the Constitution. That it might exercise that power to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional was foreseen and accepted as a matter of course by the framers of the Constitution. The Federal Judiciary system was intended as a check upon the Legislative and Executive branches of the Government, to see that neither of them exceeded the powers specifically granted to them by the people in the Constitution.

It has been largely through this power of interpretation by the Supreme Court that the power of the Federal Government has grown from its early beginnings. Instead of constant amendment, to meet the inevitable social and economic changes brought about by the passage of time, the Constitution was intended as a check upon the Legislature and Executive, to see that neither of them exceeded the powers specifically granted to them by the people in the Constitution.

In the exercise of its duty to feel all laws by the standard of the Constitution, the Supreme Court, in its 145 years of existence, has passed upon

How accurately the Supreme Court reflects the changing public sentiment of changing times is indicated by the fact that only once has an amendment to the Constitution resulted directly from an adverse opinion by the Court. That is the income tax amendment.

There's lots of room in the FORD V-8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types — the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine — an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful . . . three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.
