372 BAILEY COUNTY CLUB WOMEN AND GIRLS CAN 58,995 QUARTS OF FRUIT, AND OODLES OF VEGETABLES AND MEATS

The 372 home demonstration and 4-H club members of Bailey county have certainly been providing for the future, according to Miss Alma Stewart, county home demonstration agent. They have canned 49,534 quarts of fruits and vegetables, besides bringing and preserving 9,461 quarts; drying 76 pounds of fruit and vegetables; canning 4,348 containers of meat.

Not only have they provided for the future, but they have provided for the present by making 116 frame gardens so that fresh vegetables could be raised the year round. Eighty-two of these frame gardens were made by girls. Miss Elzada McMahan of the Progress club gathered 88.50 worth of vegetables from a frame garden. She had fresh vegetables from the frame garden from the first of January until the first of July.

Bonnie Traewick, co-operator of the Y 4-H club raised early plants in her frame garden and sold $1.50 worth. A number of women have raised fine fall gardens. Mrs. J. A. Johnson, demonstrator of Goodland home demonstration club says, "There has not been a day from the middle of April until the middle of November that I could not get vegetables out of one of my gardens." She made a frame garden. They had English peas and fresh potatoes out of the garden November 16. Mr. Johnson dug a new cellar and has built 80 feet of shelving. She has canned 500 containers of food and they will have two hogs and three calves to butcher. They plan to put their meat down in cottonseed oil. They have 100 pounds of dried beans. Mr. Johnson sold $374.04 worth of milk and eggs from Jan. 1 to Nov. 15. They have 3000 hens. They have 300 feet of the garden sub-irrigated and want to add more. He says it takes less work and only one-third as much water and the products are of better quality.

Mrs. J. C. Hart, demonstrator of the Maple home demonstration club, made a frame garden 4x14 feet and planted it March 12. She raised her plants and some early greens in it. It is 76x90 feet and she raised all the vegetables they could use fresh. She canned 537 containers of food, sold $27.60 worth, enough to buy the fruit she needed, and swapped a lot of vegetables for jars, besides dividing with several of her neighbors. Mrs. Hart saves her garden seed each year. On Achievement day she exhibited 13 different kinds of seed she had saved. She adds spice to the menu by using herbs, having planted 13 different kinds of herbs this year.

All of this is only a faint illustration of the successes of these women in Bailey county. Numerous instances to various kinds and equal achievement could be given of many similar successes. Miss Stewart said.

2235,000 Workers Are Benefited By Jobless Insurance January 1st

Approximately 700,000 of Texas, 2,235,000 workers are covered by the jobless insurance act, according to Patrick D. Moreland, of the Unemployment Compensation Committee, who states that benefits from this act will begin in January.

Moreland emphasized that every jobless person in Texas, regardless of whether he formerly worked in a business covered by law, could call on the state employment service for help in locating a job. This service has been aiding 58,000 jobs per month, he said.

State and federal government employees do not come under the insurance provision, neither do charitable workers, those associated with scientific and similar institutions, all totaling 58,000. About 578,000 who work for employers who do not have as many as eight employees will fall to get under the line of benefits. There will also be around 862,000 farmers, farm hands and domestic servants totaling close to 140,000 and people working on commission totaling 15,000 who will also fall of benefits from the act.

PROGRESS H. D. CLUB MEET

December 21 the Progress H. D. club members enjoyed a nice Christmas party at Mrs. Amos Williams. The evening room was very beautifully decorated to carry out the Christmas spirit.

Gifts were exchanged and a program was arranged special for the occasion. Delicious refreshments of apple sauce cake and spiced tea were served to the following:

Mrs. W. G. Kennedy, Miss Emilee Humphrey, Mrs. Carrie Wilhite, Mrs. P. D. Taylor, Mrs. Tommie McLaren, Mrs. Marion Springstube, Miss Elzada McMahan, Mrs. J. J. Gross and Mrs. Amos Williams, hostess.—Reporter.

It has been officially estimated that the cotton and feed crop of Hockley county will yield $4,000,000.

TAKE THE BOULDER OFF HIS BACK!

FARMERS OF 20 COUNTIES OF SO. PLAINS REALIZE APPROXIMATELY $120,000,000 FROM YEAR'S CROPS

Huge Harvest From South Plains Area Brings Greatest Financial Returns Known In Its Agricultural History.

That farmers of 20 counties of the South Plains area will realize a total of approximately $120,000,000 from their 1937 crops is the consensus of reports given by authorities in an article carried a few days ago in the Lubbock Journal newspaper. "Three major crops," says the report, "wheat, cotton and grain sorghum, with the staple livestock industry and the poultry industry, contribute to make this the greatest year in the history of this area. Cotton harvesting is not yet completed, nor have all of the cattle and sheep been sold, but enough is in sight, it is believed, to warrant the above estimate."

Average Placed at $4,000. There are approximately 30,000 farmers, so that the average income would be approximately $4,000. Many farmers will receive far in excess of that amount while others will not get as much. The figures are for gross income, the net amount will inevitably be considerably less.

Estimate Income:
Wheat	$16,000,000
Cotton	44,650,000
Grain Sorghums	35,000,000
Corn	1,000,000
Livestock	14,825,000
Produce	6,350,000
Miscellaneous	600,000
Total	$119,425,000

Greatest income is from cotton. To Dec. 1, ginnings were in excess of 800,000 bales, these sold at an average of $40 or better, a total of $32,000. This is a conservative figure, as many bales were sold around $45 and the average is placed at 8.5 cents per pound. An additional number of bales, 150,000 at least, possibly more, will be sold. The final estimate will depend upon the price of bales in January and February and whether or not farmers want to pick bales or not.

Seed Averages $19 a Ton. "Seed sold so far is estimated at 300,000 tons, averaging $19 a ton, or $5,700,000. Additional seed will bring $1,415,000. Additional bales $5,825,000, making a total of $44,650,000."

Grain sorghums next it is estimated the area produced 75,000,000 bushels of three-fourths of the government's estimated production of 100,000,000 bushels. At 40 cents per bushel, income will approximate $30,000,000. This will include many hundreds of cars of grain sold, as well as the bundles, etc., fed to livestock.

"Sudan seed production for sale, is estimated at 300,000,000 pounds, to bring two cents per pound or more, making a total of $36,000,000. Corn is estimated at 2,000,000 bushels, and the total will exceed a million dollars. "Livestock income is difficult to estimate. It is thought there has been a call crop of from 75,000 to 100,000 head. Some in the latter figure is none too low. Early sales brought 8 and 9 cents a pound, some bringing more; later sales

IS TIRED OF DODGING LAW

V. D. McKinney, 35, unmarried, man of Lazbuddi community, in adjoining Farmer county, has turned himself over to officers at Azcon, Arizona, telling them he was wanted in Farmer county on a charge of stealing grain from Bill Shirley of the same community, about two years ago.

Upon receipt of the information, Sheriff Earl Booth that county left immediately to return him to Farwell. Bond has been set in the sum of $750. It is reported there were three men implicated in the Shirley grain stealing, the other two having been convicted in Farmer County District court and were given suspended sentences of two years each.

Judge Miller Attends Annual Meet Of Water Conservation Assoc'n

M. G. Miller, Bailey county judge, attended the annual meeting of the Panhandle Water Conservation association held at Canyon Wednesday of last week, he being the official representative of Bailey county for that association. Officials, other delegates and visitors were guests of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce for a noonday banquet. Carl Hinton, Amarillo, Manager of association, manipulated the big steam shovel leavers in turning the first shovel of dirt for the big dam project located on Terra Blanca creek near UMBERGER and about 74 miles northeast of Muleshoe. This particular project will cost about $500,000, employ about 300 men, giving work for approximately six months.

Every county of this area, including eastern New Mexico, has submitted from three to a dozen projects, wherein such dams are anticipated will empoor off flow water for conservation, furnishing more moisture for crops of this area, increasing water depth of nearby wells and perhaps going so far as to have influence upon increased rainfall in this area. Federal engineers are now making thorough investigations of these applications for damsites and it is anticipated work will be begun on those approved as rapidly as favorable reports are issued, as financial appropriations for such have already been made by the government.

Insects Consume Tenth Of All Food That Is Grown In The Nation

Washington.—One-tenth of all the food grown in the United States each year goes to feed insects. Government officials figure the American public's total annual loss from insects and flies is in excess of $3,000,000,000. The cost of the unending warfare which farmers, householders and Government units carry on against insect pests is estimated at $200,000,000 a year.

The Federal Government, this fiscal year will spend $100,000,000 in the fight through the agriculture department's bureau of entomology. State governments and individuals will spend many more millions. An especial outbreak in some sections may raise the Federal total. Last spring Congress appropriated $1,000,000 to curb a grasshopper plague in the western states.

Costs. The boll weevil, preying on cotton, alone causes an annual loss of $184,000,000; the corn ear worm, foe of corn, tomatoes and cotton, $105,000,000; the rice weevil, which attacks stored cereals $65,000,000; the codling moth, enemy to apple trees, $34,000,000; the potato beetle, $18,000,000; and the Hessian fly, $13,000,000.

The farmer is not the only sufferer. Insects damage to shade trees, lawns and shrubbery of city dwellers runs into millions annually. Damage to shade and forest trees is estimated by the agriculture department at $350,000,000 a year.

Termites. Another foe the city resident is the termite, a boring insect which devours wood in houses. The loss from this pest aggregates $40,000,000 a year. Among the most helpful allies of man in the fight against insects are insects themselves. Many insects prey upon others. Thus wasps and flies are one of the most effective controls for the gypsy moth. An agriculture department expert found in France types of these insects which preyed upon the moth and a quantity of them were brought to America.

The assets of Texas A. & M. college have been placed at $1,206,436, as of August 31, this year, according to statement of the last report of the total $15,238,944 represents plant investment. The figures included 411 branches of this college.

WPA Washington officials, reported last week it had spent a total of $1,307,380.264 between Jan. 1 and Nov. 30, 1937, of which sum $30,658,156 was expended in Texas.

What's Happening In Washington And Other Cities Of Importance

President Roosevelt has issued orders to curb the taking of photographs of American fortifications as a protective measure.

Frank Kellogg, 81 noted peace advocate and former World court judge, died last week at his home in St. Paul, Minn.

General Erich Ludendorff, 72, famous German general during the World war, died last week at Munich, Germany.

It is reported that the body guard as well as the guard about the home of Mussolini has recently been tripled because of threats against his life.

It is estimated by Washington authorities that 90,000,000 bushels of this year's American wheat will move into foreign markets against 10,049,000 exported last year.

While leading citizens of the nation expect lulls in the present business recession from time to time, yet it is anticipated nothing like normalcy will return until the latter part of 1938.

Reports now are that auto makers may introduce a new line of gadgets and additional sales interest about the middle of 1938 to stimulate more business. Might keep a tab on this suggestion!

Dr. Glen Frank, former head of Wisconsin university, has been selected to lead the Republican party to victory in the next political campaign. Frank is among the nation's most brilliant and resourceful scholars.

Escape of two prisoners from Alcatraz, supposedly impregnable U. S. island prison off the Pacific coast, is not now thought to be so dependable since it has been learned three girls swam from that island to the mainland.

While the United States still believes that the sinking of the Panay in China by the Japs was deliberate and intentional, officials have accepted Nippon's apologies and offers of restitution.

Accused by the Oklahoma City News of a $6 per cent assessment on capital employees for a campaign fund, Gov. Marland has filed a $500,000 libel suit against that newspaper. The News editor says he can prove his claims.

More than $500,000 has been raised by UAWA workers to fight for organization in the Ford Motor Co., plants at Rouge, Mich., many of the high salaried officers contributing as much as 20 per cent of their salary to the movement. A half million dollar "war chest" is planned to be raised.

Peace in China is not expected to be a quick reality. Present indications are the Celestials are again getting reorganized and solidified in their actions—and there is a strong possibility that Russia may directly or indirectly force officers contributing as much as 20 per cent of their salary to the movement. A half million dollar "war chest" is planned to be raised.

Southern Mexico, D. F., was shaken by an earthquake last Friday. It lasted for nine seconds to five minutes. Scientists are not sure of the epicenter of the shock, believing it to be either in Oaxaca or Guerrero states. So great was the vibration that seismographs were broken and exact determinations could not be made. Newton D. Baker, secretary of war under President Wilson, during the World war, died Christmas night at his home in Cleveland from a long standing heart ailment.

CONGRESSMAN GEO MAHON SENDS GREETINGS TO ALL

The Journal acknowledges with appreciation a letter from Congressman Geo. Mahon, of this district in which he expresses good wishes for Christmas and asks this editor to pass on such wishes to his many friends and supporters in this district—and which we are glad to do.

In the same letter Mr. Mahon inclosed his check for subscription renewal to the Journal, declaring "your paper is indispensable to me in keeping up with the folks in your territory."

MILLER EXECUTIVE MEMBER

M. G. Miller, Bailey county judge, was last week appointed a member of the Executive committee, Texas State County Judges association, according to advices received from Judge Harold M. LaFont, Plainview, president of the association.

The appointment is important in that upon this committee rests largely the responsibility of directing activities of the association in behalf of the welfare of the state.

HOME EC. HOUSE DEDICATED

The recently completed home economics house to be known as "The Phoebe K. Warner Management House," named in honor of the late well known and much loved club woman of Claude, has been formally accepted by the West Texas State college, Canyon. It cost approximately $16,500.

Every Great Attempt is Glorious Even if It Fails

GOD'S BABIES vs. MAN'S LAWS

A few days ago the newspapers carried a story of an unwed mother at Clinton, Iowa, who confessed that shortly after giving birth to a baby she left it unclothed and unwrapped in the snow. Later the body of a seven pound infant, which apparently died of exposure, was found lying behind a garage by a neighbor woman. Now a charge of manslaughter is being lodged against the girl-mother.

The editor of this newspaper has long been against the arbitrariness of law—and practically against the arbitrariness of everything else. The mandates of no specific law can exactly fit every case. Crime has as many variations as there are individuals, and should be so handled. No two persons are exactly alike, and laws should be flexible enough to mete out reasonable justice to individual cases wherein it is violated.

Recently two young men (both probably of not much value as citizens) each having young wives and babies, were convicted and heavily sentenced at a nearby city for killing an aged man who had already lived the bulk of his life, had accomplished very little and it in a general way, being a very mediocre husband and father, and of no outstanding value whatever to his country nor to the community in which he lived. The Journal, without any hesitation or ready-made opinion, condemns such sentences. Conviction is absolutely proper where evidence warrants it; but it is our belief that every criminal should not be punished for the crime par se; but there should also be taken into consideration the real merits of the crime as to its effect upon society in general, its individual aspect of violation and numerous other relevant and concomitant testimony bearing upon the nature and circumstances of the committed crime. The future welfare of these two wives and two babies doubtless never received a single thought from the trial judge who with the vindictive prosecuting attorney, was probably looking forward with greater eagerness to their own future political career than they were to the welfare of these two law-made widows and little orphans caused by their literal application of the rigorous law. In fact, we are of the opinion this nation would be much better off if several thousand of its citizens who are not worth a continental dam were deliberately killed off under mandate of the law, and perhaps some who did the killing should be highly commended.

There are a hundred or more considerations that might enter into punishment of this unfortunate girl-mother who left her babe out in the cold to freeze to death. Most babes of such birth come into the world not as the direct result of the girl's criminal tendency. All women are endowed with animal-human nature. They possess god-given passions. Some cannot control them as well as others. Invariably such girls get into trouble because of the aggressive attitude of the boys with whom they keep company. The male is usually the aggressor in sexual acts—while the females are invariably the victims.

Perhaps it was wrong for this girl to get rid of her baby—but she did it in a humane manner, for freezing is about the most humane death possible to anyone. God only knows how many babes born under questionable legitimacy in this part of Texas, and even in this county for ought I know, are disposed of in much more heartless manner. Here was a case of the unfortunate and undesiring mother having to bear her own shame and the shame of the boy-father, against whom she did not snitch. She is to be commended ization is entirely too un hospitable toward its victims, whether they become so premeditatedly or accidentally; it is too disrespectful in its attitude toward weak human nature. Too many women today gather their flimsy skirts about their pretty calves and slip to the other side of the walk for fear of contamination when passing some unfortunate creature on the thoroughfare. Too many so-called "respectable" citizens of today, within apparently chaste and pure white as that baby the girl-mother left out in the snow, a sweet little flower-bud to grow and blossom amid the celestial gardens of eternal fragrance, are at heart as black as the boiling tar-pits of hell itself.

We shall never, never forget that the Master of Galilee, once when confronted by a hideous, hypocritical mob in the Jerusalem temple, charging a woman with a crime once unmentionable, now of common discussion, said to her: "Neither do I condemn thee, go and sin no more."

Jaunty Journalettes

Most Muleshoe women like to be up-to-date in all things except one—that's their birthday.

Still it's hard to make some folks around Muleshoe believe that a large family and a used car are an expensive combination.

Something never change. Any Muleshoe boy always gets more fun out of sowing wild oats than he does in reaping the harvest.

Every Muleshoe girl has a God-given right to choose a husband; but she should first make sure whose husband she is choosing.

Christmas turkeys are plumper this year than usual; but that does not mean a thing to the Muleshoe boy who has to be content with the neck or a wing.

Perhaps one trouble with too many people around Muleshoe is that they refuse to do their good deed for the day unless there are a lot of other people looking.

Even at the risk of being called old-fashioned, there are probably several Muleshoe people who would like to stretch their feet in a pair of old time congress gaiters.

Don't blame the Muleshoe kids for howling. There are probably a lot of us grown-ups who would do the same thing if we thought it would get us what we want.

If they keep on making scientific studies of farm life it won't be long until most any farmer around Muleshoe can make a living while still wearing a necktie.

If they had an elevator running to heaven some old sinners around Muleshoe would probably still argue that riding on an elevator makes them dizzy.

Pavement Pickups

Mrs. Carothers remarks that between sore gums and Congressional sore heads, Roosevelt seems considerably bothered now days.

"After all," said Bob Canfield, "a-bout the only difference between a Republican depression and a Democratic repression is just the name."

Attorney Tate says indications are that some of the wild oats sown on the highways Christmas week must have had a little rye mixed with them.

Billy Beavers says he don't know much about breaking these treaties they keep talking about; but he hopes they don't cut out the "Santa" clause.

Lehman Carpenter says his idea of a religious man is one who never swears when he hits the side of the stove door with a shovefull of coal.

Nell Rockey says she that C. I. O. is more of a radical than A. F. L. Green. When one looks at A. F. L. they see Green; but when they think of C. I. O. they see Red.

Raz Renrow says he has observed that in this country where we have so many laws, even some of the crooks will forget now and then and observe some of them.

George Harris, local carpenter, has made a great discovery and is seeking to patent his new idea for not hitting one's thumb with a hammer when driving nails—just hold the hammer with both hands. Selah!

It is reported there are 350 postmasters in New Mexico that can't read English, and A. J. Gardner, Muleshoe postmaster, says those 350 government officials are sure missing a lot of information by not being able to read the postal cards that come to their offices.

A baby born in Muleshoe last week was named "Morphine," according to Judge Vaughan, who filed the birth

STATE TAX RECEIPTS ARE UP

Texas tax payers played Santa Claus to the state this year, gasoline tax receipts totaling $47,740,202, or $4,245,492 larger than was received last year. The sulphur tax yielded $2,444,916, an increase of $1,389,641 ver last year. The excise tax yielded $6,910,574; last year it was $66,299,919. Liquor revenue tax will run around $7,000,000.

WEEKLY LAY SERMON
FASCINATION OF THE UNKNOWN

By JESS MITCHELL

What we know often becomes commonplace, medicine and uninteresting. It is that we do not know that fascinates in contemplation and speculation. The human race seems never to be satisfied with immediate possessions. It is always reaching out in anticipation for something new and different.

The fascination of the unknown is quite universal in its appeal. It is a something that lurks around the corner, peeps at us from prosaic places and frequently rushes into prominence at the most unlikely moments. George Elliott once declared that "any intelligent calculation of the expected must include a large allowance for the unexpected," and it is quite true one can never tell what emergencies may arise any moment, and because of this life's activities need to be conducted on a wide margin, which will, if necessary, allow room for romance, adventure and her possibilities for reasonably meeting the exigencies of the unknown which often greet us in fascinating and sometimes puzzling manner.

Man is the eternal seeker, and it is the joy of finding that makes life worth while and urges on to greater investigations. The late William James, eminent psychologist, just a little while before his death, wrote an essay on "What Makes Life Worth While," in which he explained that it was the new challenges to adventure coming with each day that called forth the best that is in us.

It was the fascination of the unknown that brought about the discovery of America, and this same fascination prompted the early pioneers to push on westward until this Llanos Estacado became populated. That old migratory instinct still lives in the youthful generation of today which constantly reaches out for new thrills of enthusiasm and conquest. The spirit of exploration, of achievement and conquest is latent in every human who has any initiative whatever.

Not only is this true in a physical sense; but it is also an eminent fact in a mental and spiritual realm. There are innumerable thousands who today are reading books, attending sermons and lectures, mingling with their superiors that their mental faculties may be keenly sharpened for greater enjoyments and conquests, while included in this vast number there are also many who are reaching still higher for spiritual conquests of a fascinating nature hitherto unknown and unenjoyed.

As the new year approaches we are all like travelers about to start on another stage of the journey. At this time the fascination of the unknown makes a direct appeal to us which we must meet and master. We know not exactly what it may be, perhaps we have not even a hint; therefore we grid ourselves with new resolutions of determination and increased desires of activity. In a sense, of course, there really is no New Year, for there is nothing but the calendar to mark the difference between December 31 and January 1; yet in the night between a shadowy line was passed, and with the light of another morning a New Year dawns upon the world.

This new year will furnish ample opportunities for greater allegiance to old ideas and ideals, and the forming of new ones of greater potency. It will open the way for more helpful and sincere service one toward another. It will bring revelations of various kinds, many of which were heretofore unsuspected. It will produce developments of virtues and talents already possessed in a rudimentary way until perhaps they become glistening jewels of satisfaction supremely cherished. This New Year will really mark a new beginning of life with all its functions and ambitions.

This will be especially true if it marks the realization of spiritual possibilities. It is said that the instinct of the unknown burned in the heart of early explorers; and that the unbinding of mysterious interferences, the zeal and possesses the ambition of every scientist and inventor.

Human interest in the unknown invariably leads one on in a perpetual search for a logical answer, and nothing is so delightful regarding any hidden secret as the joy of its discovery. Possibilities of the unknown, therefore become probabilities of eternal spiritual impetus as well as of present material worth.

The late Jacob Riis, upon being congratulated by some of his friends on his widespread and successful life, said: "I put myself in the way of things happening; that's all." That solution seems quite simple; but clearly the self-absorbed fail to catch the vision and apply its meaning to themselves. Many of the maps of Africa in certain geographies had printed across other sections of them the one word "unexplored." So across the face of the year 1938 this same word is now written. There may be in it many meadows of prosperity, or deserts of adversity, or rivers of pleasure or mountain tops of vision; we do not know now. The "seven seals" of the New Year have not yet been broken, and they will not all be broken at the same time.

There have been many instances and conditions of the past few years we would all like to forget, and we all have great capacity for forgetting—especially our benefits. It is quite fitting at this time we should also rebuild our memories of past meritorious. Even though the past may have brought us no loss or suffering, yet it behooves all to take the status quo or the gain and press forward. True, there is a risk everyone takes as they step over the threshold of another year; but this risk is greatly minimized when the step is accompanied with intelligent courage. Every journey has its potential bane and blessing, each depending largely upon the traveler.

Several years ago a party of travelers were crossing the Swiss Alps on New Year's day. It was cold and snowing, and some one remarked, "If the wind rises, we are all lost." Scarcely had he spoken when a gale arose and the snow began whirling in drifts obliterating the pathway and landmarks. But just then some one a little in advance of the others cried out: "Here's the cross! We are all right!" It was a religious memorial which had been set up by some private individual for a well known landmark, and on this personal reason and at length became particularly occasion it advised this group of travelers as to their location, what direction to take, thus saving their lives.

Following the example of others who have crossed the great expanses of life ahead of us, watching for the landmarks they have set up and taking our bearings from them, imitating their anxieties and perhaps partaking of their sufferings, applying to ourselves the wisdom of their actions, we shall trod the 365 milestones of the coming year, crossing the 12 months of its duration, and, constantly fascinated with the unknown we shall, at the end of this cycle claim its full revelation.

THE REST OF THE RECORD
By James V. Allred
Gov. of Texas

AUSTIN—Whether Texans generally recognize the fact or not, Texas has a law enforcement agency in the Department of Public Safety that is comparable in no small way to the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington. Newspapers here have noted a parallel by calling them "S-Men" in line with the popular "G-Men" designation of FBI agents.

Latest of the progressive steps in law enforcement taken by the Public Safety Department has been the two weeks training school by the department for the peace officers of this state. Patterned after the nationally famous Police Academy of the Federal Bureau of Investigation where peace officers gather from over the country to learn the latest modern methods of law enforcement, the first Texas Peace Officers' Training School was regarded as a remarkable innovation in Texas law enforcement.

The Christmas program was enjoyed by all. It was rendered by the school children. A Christmas tree with many lovely presents was the height of the evening. Santa Claus was there to the great joy of the children.

Jack Cagle, an enrollee in the army, stationed at Fort Bliss, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cagle.

Fatsy, daughter of Mrs. Amy Bennett, was severely burned on the face and hands Sunday afternoon when she put powder out of firecrackers in a pile and touched a match to it.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Richardson and family are visiting his father, W. E. Richardson who has a dairy at Electra, and Mrs. Richardson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks who are in the grocery business at Comanche, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Rollins and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Boyett and son, Elmer, spent the holidays with friends and relatives.

B. W. Brashears and his uncle of Silver City, N. M., spent the holidays with their parents and sister, respectively, Mrs. S. M. Brashears and family.

L. D. Sanderson and family spent the holidays with relatives in Tucuman, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Wood had as their guests a son Marland, and a daughter, Mrs. Alonzo Scott, of Central Texas for the holidays.

Our school dismissed Thursday afternoon for the Christmas holidays and resumed work Monday morning. The school is progressing nicely, although some of the pupils are still out helping gather the crops.

The Senior B Y P U was the losers in the contest held between the different unions. They will entertain the Juniors B Y P U and B A U, Friday night with a watch party.—Reporter.

FAT AND SASSY

Good food has much to do with one's feelings. No one can be joyful and enthusiastic if they have not the proper diet. The mental condition depends largely upon that of the physical.

Perhaps your fine health and good spirits has depended largely upon the Groceries you have been buying for your table service. . . You have been trading at Henington's where food "fit for the Gods" is sold.

As we turn the corner of another year, we are inviting you in the interest of safety first to continue your patronage of our establishment. It will mean your continued good health and our great appreciation. Remember, if you—
