Church to host Passover service

The First Christian Church of Haskell will host a Christian Passover service Thursday, March 28, beginning at 7 p.m.

Dusty Garrison, minister, said the purpose of the service is to allow Gentile Christians to experience the flavor of a traditional Jewish Passover, reinterpreted to bring out its Christian significance.

"We will share in a very traditional Passover meal, including foods such as roast lamb, eggs, haroset salad, horseradish and other dishes," said Garrison. "Each of these foods had a very special meaning to the Jews. When we understand the symbolism of these items, we gain a better understanding of our own Christian faith."

Garrison said Passover is the holiest time of the year in the Jewish calendar. It commemorates the time that the children of Israel were freed from Egyptian bondage and led by Moses into the Land of

Top citizens

Dr. and Mrs. J. Frank Cadenhead are about to receive a plaque from Bud Lane, outgoing chamber of commerce president, designating them as Haskell's outstanding citizens of the year. Presentation came during Saturday night's chamber banquet.

Cadenheads top citizens

Recipients of this year's award as Haskell's "outstanding citizens" are Dr. and Mrs. J. Frank Cadenhead.

They were named to receive the Chamber of Commerce's annual award during Saturday night's chamber banquet. Chamber president Bud Lane presented them with a plaque recognizing them for their selection.

Dr. Frank, as he is commonly known, is the second of three generations of Cadenheads to practice medicine in Haskell County. A native of Weinert, he began practice here in 1947 after returning from duty with the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Earlier this year, he received the first "Life Service Award" given by the Taylor-Jones-Haskell Medical Society in recognition of his "commitment and service to his family, patients, church and community."

An active member of the First Baptist Church, he has served as a deacon since 1955. He also has served as a member of the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

A member of the Chamber of Commerce and a Mason, he was active for many years in the Lions Club where he helped establish a foreign student exchange program. He was a member of the Haskell School Board for 11 years, including three years as president.

Dr. Cadenhead is an Eagle Scout. He was a physician for the National Boy Scout Jamboree in Philadelphia in 1964.

A graduate of Hardin-Simmons

University, as are his wife and three of his children, he served two terms on the university's executive board. In 1974, he received the Keeter award as the outstanding alumnus of the university.

In 1979, Dr. Cadenhead spent a month doing surgery and administering to patients at the Baptist Medical Compound in Yemen. Last year, he spent a week as a medical missionary in Venezuela and plans to do so again this year.

Dr. Cadenhead and his wife, Billie, met in San Antonio where he was interning at what is now Baptist Memorial Hospital following his graduation from medical school at Vanderbilt University. Mrs. Cadenhead was in nursing school in San Antonio. They married in 1946.

Immediately after moving to Haskell in 1947, the Cadenheads transferred their membership to the First Baptist Church in Haskell. Before their first child arrived, Mrs. Cadenhead was the youngest member of the Haskell Harmony Club. Between 1948 and 1954, their children, Diann, Wayne, J.F. III and Helen Mary were born in Haskell.

The focus of Mrs. Cadenhead's life and work centered around the home, church and school. During early years, she served in the music program of the First Baptist Church as primary choir director and more recently in the adult choir. For most of the past 44 years, she has taught an adult Sunday School class, now teaching the Fidelis Class.

During the 1950s, she led the Vacation Bible School as director/coordinator, and she still enjoys teaching VBS.

Her interests in the Haskell school system led her to become president of the PTA in 1960-61. Seeing the need for substitute teachers, she began to help in that school area. Feeling the need to do the work more knowledgeably, she commuted to Hardin-Simmons while the children were in school and graduated in 1972 with a major/minor in English and Spanish.

She now serves as a substitute teacher and is a full time adult

Greenwood files for City Council

Dickie Greenwood filed Tuesday as a candidate for the Haskell City Council.

He joined incumbents Tony Burson and Kenny Watson as candidates for the three council positions to be decided in the city election May 4.

The filing period was to remain open through Wednesday.

City voters to decide on two half-cent taxes

Two propositions, each calling for a half-cent city sales tax, will be on the ballot in the May 4 city election.

The City Council called the election during its regular meeting last Thursday.

The first proposition calls for a half-cent sales tax to promote economic development in Haskell and the second proposition calls for a half-cent tax to reduce property taxes.

Citizens of Haskell will vote separately on the two proposals. Either or both may be approved or rejected by a majority vote.

Each of the half-cent taxes will bring the City about $70,000 in revenue, but neither will result in any more money for City operations since the revenue will be earmarked for specific uses.

The second proposition, the one which would reduce property taxes, would require the City to reduce property taxes by an amount equal to the half-cent tax revenue. In actuality, it would be trading one tax for another.

The first proposition would increase taxes. But the money would have to be used for economic development.

Approval of the first proposition would authorize the City to create an industrial development corporation. It would be run by a five-member board, appointed by the mayor and approved by the City Council.

Proceeds could be used for:

- Acquisition of land, buildings and equipment for industrial purposes.
- A small business revolving loan program.
- Business incubator programs.
- Venture capital.

• Creation of a reserve fund for infrastructure.

Prohibited uses of the tax revenue would include:

- Transportation facilities.
- Sewage or solid waste disposal facilities.
- Air or water pollution control facilities.
- Facilities for furnishing water to the general public, unless these activities benefit property acquired for development purposes.
- More than 10 percent for promotional purposes.

The present sales tax rate in Haskell is 7.25 cents. Of this, 6.25 percent is a state sales tax and the other cent goes to the City which receives approximately $140,000 a year from this source.

Stocks makes all-area

Rusty Stocks, who led the Haskell Indians to a 22-9 record this past basketball season, was chosen this week as a member of the Abilene Reporter-News' All-Area basketball team.

He averaged 22.1 points and 10.8 rebounds per game. He also had 2.8 assists and 2 blocked shots per game.

Earlier, Stocks had been voted the most valuable player in district 7-2A.

He is the son of Jerry and Betty Stocks of Haskell.

Burnett named to 'Who's Who'

Tamra Earlene Burnett, a Tarleton State University senior from Haskell, has been chosen for "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Students are selected on their academic achievements, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

A fashion merchandising major at Tarleton, Tamra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnett of Haskell. She is president of the TSU chapter of the Rho Iota Delta home economics sorority and has served as a state officer for the Texas Home Economics Student section. She also is a member of the Texas Home Economics Association and the American Home Economics Association.

Tamra has been a recipient of the Rho Iota Delta and Fashion Merchandising scholarships at TSU.

Alzheimer group to meet tonight

Members of the Haskell Alzheimer Support Group will meet tonight (Thursday).

The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock in the First National Bank conference room.

Park equipment ordered by City

The City of Haskell has placed orders for playground and exercise equipment for Rice Springs Park.

The purchases were authorized after the City opened bids on the equipment at its meeting last Thursday.

Playground equipment will consist of a log roll, a slide, a swing set and a spring see-saw. Playwell Recreation Concepts of Richardson submitted the low bid of $4,824 for the playground equipment.

The same firm had the low bid on the 10-station workout course.

The accepted bid price was in the amount of $3,894.

There were four bidders on each proposal.

Delivery is expected within the next four to six weeks.

The City is still awaiting approval by the State Parks and Wildlife Board of the plans for the walking path at the park. The state board has approved matching funds for the project, but has not given a final OK for the plans.

The City also is negotiating on the lighting fixtures for the half-mile-long, 8-foot wide path.

Streets to be coated

Bids will go out in April for the seal coating of 30 blocks of city paving.

Included in the project will be a section in the northwest part of town which was not included in earlier seal-coating programs.

Also included are the streets in the Addison addition and South 2nd Street near the Civic Center.

City Council members formally designated the areas to be serviced during their regular meeting last Thursday.

To perform in area

The U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds will perform an aerial demonstration at Dyess Air Force Base's open house Sunday, April 7. The show will start at 3 p.m., with an autograph session to follow.

Notes From The Rolling Plains

(Note: The following is one of a series of stories by noted wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer offered by Haskell Save-A-$ for your enjoyment.)

Los Canones del Valle de las Lagrimas
The Canyons of the Valley of Tears

A small herd of mule deer bounced to the edge of the escarpment, pausing momentarily before clattering into the chasm below. Hurriedly, in a race with the sun, I trotted down the washed out trail to reach the Los Lingos narrows while the light was still good for photographs. In the sandstone floor of the creek I walked anxiously, in anticipation of seeing these famous labyrinths of old. Los Lingos, The Tongues, is a name given this canyon at the eastern edge of the high plains. Here, over two centuries ago, the comanchero traders from New Mexico began a trade with the wild tribes of the Texas plains, the Comanche and Kiowa, and continued the lucrative business until the late 1800's. Many languages were spoken when the groups camped and plied their business thus the name Los Lingos. Goods exchanged were many and included pelts, bison robes, guns, and people. The white and Mexican captives taken during the Indian raids into Central and South Texas were brought here to be traded for beads and weapons. Sometimes family members were separated, hence the name Valley of Tears. Tough and ruthless traders meeting with the wildest humans on the Southern Plains in this very canyon. Soon the sandstone corridors of the narrows appeared and I stepped into one of the most fascinating creations on the plains. The sinewy stone hallways cut into the canyon floor entombing me in its cool, mysterious womb. Canyon wrens whistle their erie songs above me as I wind my way deeper into the earth. Soon I have shot the photos that I need and take the time to simply stand and experience the mood of Los Lingos. The moan of the wind, cry of the canyon birds; the combination causes my imagination to whirl. These sounds of canyon life flowing through the acoustics of cool sandstone. Sandstone that holds the darkness of dawn as selfishly as it embraces the secrets of its turbulent past.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company ("Southwestern Bell") submitted an application on January 4, 1991 to the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission") requesting that the central office-based PBX/type service market be declared subject to significant competition pursuant to the Commission's Substantive Rule §23.27. If this proposal is approved, Southwestern Bell intends to provide service to this market segment via its PLEXAR-Custom service, which provides for contractual rates and charges to be based on an individual customer-specific basis.

PLEXAR-Custom is a central office-based service which provides switched voice and/or data communications similar to a customer-premises PBX. PLEXAR-Custom service is currently being provided on an individual customer-specific basis via Southwestern Bell's Customer Specific Pricing Plan Tariff for central office-based telecommunications systems of 200 stations or more. If Southwestern Bell's application is approved, the PLEXAR-Custom service tariff will be revised to also include central office-based telecommunications systems which require between 75 and 200 stations.

Centrex and Plexar-II services are currently priced according to a standard tariff regardless of the customer's geographic location in the state. If this application is approved, customers needing 75 to 200 stations will be able to obtain this service priced on an individual customer-specific basis rather than under a standard tariffed rate.

Southwestern Bell's application proposes that the service market for PBX/type systems of 75 stations up to 200 stations be declared subject to significant competition statewide in all of the exchange areas served by Southwestern Bell and in which the central office capability to provide the service exists and/or can readily be made available.

Persons who wish to intervene, protest, or comment on this application should notify the Public Utility Commission of Texas by June 21, 1991 at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. You may also call the Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf. Please refer to this matter in all correspondence as Docket No. 9960.

Deaths reported

Editor: For any concerned, I need to report the death of my cousin, Don Barnett, and his son, David.

In mid-1990, I was called by Rita Barnett in Little Rock, Ark., that Don had died and was buried in Little Rock. Then last week she called again to report that David, Don's son, was killed by a holdup man in a cafe.

Information was sketchy. David, a policeman, was off duty (but armed) in plain clothes. While eating breakfast in the cafe, an armed robber came in and tried to rob the place. When David intervened he was shot four times. The robber was apprehended. That is about all the reportable information I was given.

Don Barnett was a highly decorated veteran with over 30 years service in the army. When he retired he was the oldest chopper pilot in the army. He also served as an instructor.

He spent much of his spare time helping the army chaplains with their services and worked extensively with the young people in the chapel (dependents). He last served at Fort Hood where he retired with military honors. He was preceded in death by his parents and a sister, Mandell Barnett Featherstone.

Give Us Books Give Us Wings

By Marsha G. Whittemore
Dear young readers and the young at heart: My sister, brother and I would, each summer visit our grandparents at their farm in the deep woods of East Texas.

Our games were re-living the biographies we had read. We would write music for Cole Porter, Louie Armstrong, Glenn Miller; and we gave musicals for our cousins in Granddad's barn.

We fought the Civil War. We chased Indians through the trees in George Armstrong Custer's last stand. As great swashbucklers, we fought the pirates' ships on the high seas.

Our brother was the 'bad guy' until he was big enough to demand his rights. Then he became the sheriff and overthrew dictators in the west.

The teachers and librarians tell me that biographies aren't read much any more. This is sad, and such a loss about history for the youth.

Biographies are the histories of individuals' lives considered as a branch of literature--and pleasurable reading for ages 5-80 young.

As we look through the east window this week we find the adventurers: highwaymen and outlaws, men against the sea. Warriors clashed endlessly; crusaders and Saracens, longbowmen and cross bowmen, pirates and corsairs, knights in armor with the sun glinting on visors and lacne tips.

Somebody was always fighting somebody in the view from the east window.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS:
The Man Without a Country by Edward Everett Hale, 1945 Books Good to Remember (Junior Press Books).

The court asked him at the close whether he wished to say anything to show that he had always been faithful to the United States, he cried out, "I wish I may never hear of the United States again!" The court sentenced him as he wished. In 56 years, Philip Nolan heard only once of his home.

A good fiction book case on history for the youth and adults. Gives new thought to the protectors of our nation, and the burning of our American flags.

The author of this patriotic tale was himself the great-nephew of a famous patriot. His great uncle was the revolutionary leader Nathan Hale who said: "I regret that I have but one life to give for my country."

Walking the Road to Freedom by Jeri Ferris and illustrations by Peter E. Hanson (A Carolrhoda creative minds book).

A story about Sojourner Truth who was born into slavery in New York about 1797 or 1798 as Isabelle Hardenbergh. But Isabelle became Sojourner Truth, and she did something about slavery.

Sojourner Truth's deep faith in God and fearlessness of hard work and pain gave her a strong voice to be heard. Once she roared, "With all your opportunities for reading and writing, you don't take hold and do anything. I wonder what you are in the world for."

The Swamp Fox of the Revolution by Stewart H. Holbrook, illustrated by Ernest Richardson (Landmark Books).

"I want no men who are soldiers against their will," General Francis Marion told his brigade.

When the brigade got back to Snow Island, with depleted ranks, their general knew that every man who remained would be with him until the end.

A story about General Marion's raids that so troubled the British, who could never catch him, that they called him The Swamp Fox. A fast-moving adventure book on a part of history.

education teacher of GED and ESL in Haskell High School.

Her love for and interest in Haskell have increased through the years. In earlier years, she coordinated and directed the first Hey Day program presented at the old Rice Springs Park stage. Along with Dr. Frank, she has presented programs to local groups and still serves on a committee to share Missions Awareness with area Baptist churches. Involvement as contributor and helper within the women's work of the Haskell County Fair, contribution and support of the Haskell County Library and involvement in city elections have been works of interest and enjoyment to her.

In support of Dr. Frank's profession, Mrs. Cadenhead is a member of the Taylor-Jones-Haskell Medical Auxiliary, as well as the auxiliary to the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Mrs. Cadenhead was born and reared in Mississippi. She graduated from high school in Meridian, Miss.

In speaking of Haskell, she says: "This is home. We both love Haskell for its warm, hard-working, loving people. We thank God, often, that He led us here through circumstances which have worked out for our good and that of our four grown families. No matter where we go, we can honestly say 'there's no place like home!'"

BY WENDELL FAUGHT

If, as expected, Gens. H. Norman Schwarzkopf and Colin Powell are elevated to the rank of five-star generals, they will join the ranks of five World War II heroes.

The rank was created in 1944 and the first recipients were George C. Marshall, Douglas McArthur, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Henry H. Arnold and Omar N. Bradley.

Bradley's promotion in 1950 was the last.

After the weekly Kutztown Patriot in Kutztown, Pa., ran an editorial criticizing America's involvement in the Gulf War, a reader wrote: "Your newspaper appears to be more of a Scud than a Patriot."

But that was pretty mild stuff compared to what the publisher told the editor: "You're fired."

Several years back when Southwest Airlines was just an idea, it faced three years of court battles from established airlines determined to bar it from establishing a route between Dallas, Houston and San Antonio.

But, what a difference the years make!

Now, the airline that love built is getting into this "crush the competition" business.

Southwest filed suit in Austin to halt public hearings on a proposal by Texas High-Speed Rail Authority to establish a high-speed rail service. Two companies, one French and one German, have told the Authority they can produce a system that can cover the Dallas-Houston-San Antonio triangle with 200 mph trains. From downtown Dallas to downtown Houston would be a 90-minute ride.

To succeed, it is estimated the rail service will have to capture 60 percent of the passenger market which Southwest now dominates.

Stay tuned.

Current talk of H. Norman Schwarzkopf and Colin Powell as possible presidential candidates is merely a continuation of America's long-standing belief that war heroes make good leaders.

It all started with George Washington, the nation's first war hero who also was the nation's first president.

Since then, Andrew Jackson, William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Ulysses S. Grant, Theodore Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower have parlayed military successes into presidential victories. To a lesser extent, the same can be said for Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield and John F. Kennedy.

Except for Roosevelt and Kennedy, all of these were generals, or former generals, as were Franklin Pierce, Andrew Johnson, Chester A. Arthur and Benjamin Harrison. All told, 12 generals or former generals have become president.

Twenty-five of the 40 men who have served as president have been military veterans, ranging in rank from Private Abraham Lincoln to General of the Army Eisenhower and Commander-in-Chief Washington. But only four were military professionals--W. H. Harrison, Taylor, Grant and Eisenhower.

Between Washington and Eisenhower, all service veterans were Army men. But beginning with Kennedy, six of the seven presidents have been Navy vets.

From William Howard Taft through Franklin D. Roosevelt, none of the six presidents was a veteran. But since then, all nine presidents spent time in the military.

The Civil War and World War II each produced seven presidents.

Charles Dodge of Mountain Home, Ark., is in trouble with the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS says he must pay taxes on money he received from his hospital insurance.

Claiming such ailments as back pain, depression and anxiety, he spent about 100 days in hospitals between 1981 and 1984--and collected $228,000 in insurance above his bills.

In 1983 alone, Dodge bought 61 policies giving him daily benefits of $2,667. Since insurance proceeds are tax-free, he filed no returns for 1981-84.

But the IRS calls it income.

Club program features old fashions

The Progressive Study Club met March 17 in the Community Room for a program entitled, "Cultural Arts, A Century of Style and Song."

After Mary L. Kaigler, president, called the meeting to order, she introduced Sammie Turner, director for the program in place of Donna Cole, who was ill. Mrs. Turner, wearing Mrs. J. E. Walling Sr.'s 1910 wedding dress, introduced "The Way We Were," a portrayal of fashions, music and events in 20-year segments beginning with 1890.

1890-1910 was directed by Frances Lane. The ladies, all dressed in authentic styles of that period, were being served tea by Jimmie Weinert, who had written the script and was wearing a Belgium lace apron. The ladies were planning for the first street fair in Haskell on a Saturday afternoon which would, along with jellies, canned fruits and vegetables and quilts, feature a fiddlers' contest.

There was a disagreement as to who would be chairman since it should be a person who was musical and had "an ear" for music. They must not let the husbands know there had been a disagreement. Erma Liles, who at the close of the program received the red ribbon for being the most authentically and best-dressed lady, played selections, "When You Wore a Tulip and I Wore a Big Red Rose" and "Red Wing." She wore a beautiful lacy blouse, black skirt and upturned on one side black hat.

Helen Fouts portrayed the "every girl" of the Roarin' 20s and Gay 90s, 1910-30, wearing a Gibson Girl costume.

1930-50 was directed by Sandy Forehand. She narrated a script, written by Mary Martin, which included people, events, movies and songs. The Depression was represented by Jane Coston wearing a cotton sack skirt and Ruby Holt wearing a 1930 voile Sunday dress. "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" was sung to represent World War II. Since weddings, many taking place just before the groom departed for overseas, were numerous, Nancy Plunkett wore Mrs. Joe Thigpen's going-away dress and hat with a veil, and Mrs. Forehand wore Mrs. Bill Holden's 1942 wedding dress. Mrs. Plunkett won the "runnerup" red ribbon.

1950-70 featured the jitterbug performed by Franciene Johnson and Mildred Berry, and Doris Reeves Jordan modeled an expectant mother's dress belonging to Suzanne Starr. Mary Kaigler, narrator, reminded the members that baby booms, Beetles, the Ed Sullivan Show, high heels and short hems were a part of this period. Jerrene Couch modeled her own "mother of the bride" suit, a green dress, long coat and hat of the same material. Evelyn Cobb played recorded music. One song was "Sixteen Tons."

Jill Druessedow narrated a style show to represent 1970-90. The 1975 Cowbells were mentioned.

Mrs. Turner added many interesting facts between the segments by having the club members and guests guess the year of some fads, such as when henna became popular. The judges were Nelda Lane and Ruby Turner.

Jill Druessedow presented some plans and ideas from the City Park and Recreation Committee concerning the collecting of horsedrawn farm machinery and the Labriere home, which the club has helped preserve as the first house built in Haskell.

During the business session, it was decided to meet at the Community Room on Saturday, April 13, at 8:30 a.m. to depart for Albany and the Watt Matthews Ranch and Old Jail Museum tour. Each is to bring her lunch.

Nancy Plunkett asked for a donation to aid a Haskell girl to attend Girls State. The constitution was changed by raising dues to $5 for active, life and associate membership. Doris Burson asked for and received associate membership and Faye Stiewert's resignation was accepted. The Mesquite District Convention will be March 23 in Stamford.

Hostesses, Sharee Gardner, Nancy Plunkett, Nelda Lane, Nedra McCauley and Mary Holden, served muffins, pink lemonade and coffee.

Guests were Frances Lee of Wichita Falls, Mrs. S. Hassen, an honorary member, and Mrs. Nored Boone, Mrs. Carrol McFadden and Grace Hannsz.

Garden club has program on trees

The Haskell Garden Club met Thursday, March 14, in the Community Room. Mollie Carlisle presided.

The theme of the day was "Trees Today, for Life Tomorrow." Roll call was answered with each member naming a favorite tree.

The district convention was discussed and the awards were recognized. It was decided that the club send $10 to the Madge Horn Endowment Fund. It was decided that on April 13, Super Saturday, a bake and plant sale will be on the courthouse lawn.

James Bevel, agriculture teacher in the high school, brought an interesting program on plants, weeds and herbs, also trees.

Those who brought horticulture specimens were Juanita Rhea, Neat Bevel, Dee Sprayberry and Linda King.

Cherry pie and coffee were served by the hostesses, Juanita Bevel and Dee Sprayberry.

Open house at Dyess April 7

Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene opens its gates to the general public at 10 a.m. Sunday, April 7, for Big Country Appreciation Day.

The annual event serves as Dyess' opportunity to thank Big Country residents for their continuing support and friendship. It also affords everyone, both military and civilian, the chance to see some of the oldest and most exciting planes ever flown.

Highlighting the day's events will be a performance by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds in their F-16s. The 45-minute Thunderbird's show will start at 3 p.m., with an autograph session to follow the aerial performance.

A number of active duty aircraft are scheduled for display, including the B-1B, KC-135, C-130, F-14, RF-4, T-38 and B-52. Base officials have also announced that the Confederate Air Force will be in attendance with 25 of its vintage aircraft, including the infamous B-17 Texas Raiders.

In addition to the large array of aircraft scheduled for static display, the open house will feature aerial performances or fly-overs by the B-1B, KC-135, C-130, T-38 and B-

52. Other highlights of the day will be a Missing Man formation fly-by with four BT-13s and a C-130 short field landing. There will be many demonstrations to include a B-1B weapons loading demonstration, Security Police M-60 and Military Working Dog demonstrations, Cooper High School Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps drill team and a C-130 off-load demonstration.

Base project officers promise it will be a full day. There will be 45 concession booths, 17 professional displays, demonstrations and live bands.

Admission is free. Gates close to oncoming traffic at 4 p.m.

Teen pregnancy: A national crisis

By Lou Gilly
Haskell County Agent
Home Economics

School-age pregnancy is a national crisis impacting all racial, income and ethnic groups in every area of the country.

One out of every 10 adolescent girls become pregnant each year, a proportion that has changed little during the past 15 years. This adds up to more than a million school-age pregnancies each year--an increasing percentage of whom are 14 years old and younger.

In 1985, almost half of these young women had their babies, 427,000 had abortions and an estimated 142,000 had miscarriages.

Consider these facts:

•In the U.S. today, 11.6 million teenagers between the ages of 13 and 19 have had sexual intercourse.

•Over 90 percent of teen pregnancies are unintended.

•Over two-thirds (68 percent) of males said that their sex education talk with their parents consisted of either nothing or a simple warning, "Be careful."

•Most teens keep their babies; only 40 percent of unmarried teen mothers put their babies up for adoption.

•Almost half of sexually active teenagers do not use any method of contraception the first time they have intercourse.

•Disadvantaged young women (whether black, white or Hispanic) are three to four times more likely to become unwed mothers than are non-poor teens.

•One-half of teen mothers remain single parents and are likely to live in poverty with their infants: 85 percent of black and 72 percent of white female-headed households with mothers under 25 are poor.

•There is a one in three chance that a teen mother will have a second child while still in her teens. Every day in the U.S., 40 teens give birth to their third child.

•Teens with poor basic skills are five times as likely to become parents before age 16 as those with average basic skills. For many of these young people there is little apparent reason to postpone parenthood.

Although our youth are no more likely to be sexually active than those in other Western countries, the United States has one of the highest school-age pregnancy rates in the Western world. Texas leads the nation in births to youth 14 and under and ranks in the top four in births to 15-19-year-olds.

The high pregnancy rate in the U.S. appears to be the result of three factors: (1) our unwillingness to provide climate in which young people can learn about and discuss their sexuality, (2) the mixed messages about sexuality that we give our youth (especially in the media), and (3) the lack of a comprehensive system to provide youth with constructive alternatives to early parenthood.

There are conflicting opinions which are dependent upon one's attitudes and perceptions of the underlying causes of the problem, about how to prevent teen pregnancy, parenthood and out-of-wedlock births.

As a result, information about sexual development, including the important issues of self-esteem, decision-making, family values and dating, are frequently not available to young people before they become sexually active.

Unfortunately, a comprehensive program of sex education, contraceptive counseling and access to contraception would still leave millions of youth at risk of premature pregnancy and parenthood. For those youth who believe they have nothing to lose by becoming parents, merely providing information and contraceptive strategies will not solve the problem. These youth need a range of positive life options to give them the motivation to prevent pregnancy and too early parenthood.

It's never too early or too late for parents to learn successful ways for dealing with teaching their children about sexuality.

The Haskell County Home Economics Committee is sponsoring a series of four meetings in April, entitled "Sex Education: The Parents' Role". The meetings will be in Haskell on Monday nights, April 1, 8, 15 and

22. The meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. and all meetings except the one on April 8 will be in the Haskell National Bank Community Room. The April 8 meeting will be in the First National Bank Meeting Room.

Lou Gilly, county extension agent-home economics, will conduct the meetings. They are free and are open to all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Mrs. Fischer hostess to PC club

The Paint Creek TEHA met in the homemaking department of Paint Creek ISD for its March meeting.

Dolores Medford, president, called the meeting to order with six members present. The TEHA prayer was read, then Frances Fischer read, "A Touch of Gold."

Roll call was answered by answering, "I hate to hear people say . . ." Some of the answers given were "I can't," "I'm too tired to do it, get someone else," and "I've never done it this way before."

The upcoming Tri County Rally Day was discussed and plans made. Paint Creek is to decorate around the theme of "Spring." The club will also serve coffee and cookies on Tuesday night, March 20, to those attending the meeting on the new farm program, which will be meeting in Paint Creek ISD cafeteria.

Frances Fischer was hostess and served delicious refreshments to Dolores Medford, Lorene Harris, Peggy Burnett, Mabel Overton and Ann Sinclair.

Next meeting will be April 1.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Richard E. Rodgers CPA

S CORPORATION - ADVANTAGES AND QUALIFICATIONS

An S corporation election should be considered by every closely-held corporate business. The election itself is not difficult to make, and it is not generally a taxable event. If the requirements are met, the S status may be used permanently or temporarily, as conditions dictate.

The main benefit of the election is that the corporation does not generally pay federal income tax on its net income. Rather, the income flows through to its shareholders who report their share of income on their personal income tax returns.

In general, a corporation will qualify to elect S corporation status if the corporation is a domestic corporation, has only one class of stock, and has no more than 35 shareholders. Additionally, the shareholders can only be individuals, estates and certain trusts. Individual shareholders must be citizens or residents of the U.S.

If limited liability or other business reasons dictate the corporate form of the business, an S election may prove beneficial in the following circumstances:

1. If the business is expected to incur large losses and/or credits which may be better utilized by the shareholders than the corporation. (This is an important consideration in the start-up years of a business when losses are common.)

2. If the corporation has little reason to accumulate cash, but increased salaries to its shareholders would exceed reasonable compensation for services by the shareholders.

3. If the business is anticipating a large inflow of cash which it intends to distribute.

4. If the corporation tax rates are higher than individual tax rates.

The S election may be terminated at any time. However, there is a five-year waiting period before the election may be made again.

Pregnant women should not spend too much time in hot tubs, say Australian researchers reporting in the New England Journal of Medicine. They say 10 minutes may be too long in a tub that's 104 degrees.

Emotions play a part in predicting the likelihood of a second heart attack, a Stanford University study found. But different emotions were involved in men and women. Women who were anxious and fearful were at risk; for men, hostility and anger were the factors.

Traveler's diarrhea seems to respond well to doses of loperamide hydrochloride plus three days of antibiotics. Research done in Mexico was reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

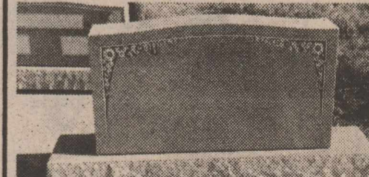

Yoga breathing technique called pranayama may help to prevent asthma attacks in some people, a Commonwealth research fellow at City Hospital in Nottingham, England, claims. More tests are needed.

by Vicky Anderson
Thanks to Hazel Letz of Old Glory for her nice letter about my picture of "Old Glory" waving in the breeze. Perhaps the recent war has given it enhancement, but that sight always has stirred a patriotic, proud feeling in "yours truly".

We were saddened recently to read of the death of comedian, George Gobel, who we first met when he was a Cadet at the Altus Army Air Force Base in Oklahoma during WWII. He was such a quiet and seemingly shy person that we were really surprised when he later became a comedian on television.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to the families of Floyd Lusk and Glenn Caddell of Haskell.

March certainly arrived with a vengeance, didn't it? We were reminded a bad sandstorm while we lived at Altus when a person was heard to remark: "Well, a big chunk of Texas just rolled by." The summer that year was particularly bad, also, with temperatures staying above 112 degrees for almost two weeks!

We surely do hope that the pretty fruit trees haven't blossomed out too soon this year. We felt like "Old Man Winter" might rear his ugly head again, and this proved to be the case on Saturday.

Parnell Anderson was surprised on his 74th birthday with a big chocolate cake, ice cream and Dr. Pepper by his daughters and families. Many Happy Returns, Parnell!

Happy Birthday wishes are sent this week to the Leonard twins, John and Paul, who were eighteen on the 18th; also to Coy Keahey on the same day. Then, on the 23rd, best wishes are sent to Jeanne Burleson and Sam Turner. Next week, birthday wishes are sent to Michael Murray and Kolt Kittley and Gladys Dyches.

Area teachers and students will be enjoying a much-deserved and needed Spring Break the week of March 25-29.

Our most sincere sympathy is extended to the family of the late Elmo Stevens and daughter, Suzanne. Here's hoping that Sue and the other two children are doing all right by now.

The Andersons were in Abilene on Sat. on business. They had lunch at the Red lobster. Twice we saw Rule teachers: Jackie Leonard and Vida White.

Sympathy is extended to Corene Wilder and family of Hamlin upon the loss of their husband and father, Guy Wilder.

The Anderson family is looking forward to a visit during Spring Break of their daughter, sister, aunt and cousins, Diane DeLoach and son, Zach of Wheaton, Illinois. First, the DeLoaches will go to Austin to visit Bill DeLoach, a freshman at the University of Texas.

We were sorry to hear that Belle Turner sustained a fractured hip last week. At this time, she is recuperating from surgery in Hendrick Medical Center. We hope she has an uneventful recovery.

UIL District 9-A competition will be a Munday on Tuesday, March 19 (Journalism, ready writing, science), and Saturday, March 23 the remaining events in Math, Speech, Spelling, Business, etc. We are proud of the good job the students do.

A speedy recovery is wished for Marguerite Whittemore, who has fractured her leg.

It was a surprise to see almost half an inch of rain in our rain gauge this morning. As it only sprinkled in Abilene, we had no idea that it had rained this much in Rule.

Update on the upcoming One-

Act Play contest: South Zone at Jayton today (Thursday, March 21), beginning at 4 p.m. instead of 5 as originally scheduled. Judge: Mr Marion Castleberry of McMurry University. The plays are as follows: 1. Paint Creek, "Plaza Suite"; 2. Jayton, sf, "You Can't Take It With You"; 3. Lueders-Avoca, "The Audition is Over"; 4. Rule, sf, "The Secret Affairs of Mildred Wild"; 5. Aspermont, sf, "The Rimers of Eldritch".

District contest will be at Knox City on Tuesday, March 26, the judge being Mrs. Jan McCathern of Western Texas College.

Best wishes are sent to Milton Crow of Hamlin as he undergoes extensive eye surgery in Dallas the 22nd of March.

Had a brief visit with long-time Stamford friend, Mary Kainer at Wal-Mart recently. Her son, Keith, and daughter, Karen, were schoolmates of two of my daughters.

Good luck to Claude and Rhonda Ledbetter of Hamlin as they begin a new career in Paul's Valley, Okla. Claude will be preaching, sorry that I do not know the name of the church where he will pastor.

From Rule Reminder: In visitation, it is not saying the right thing—it is listening in the right way.
