Graduation party plans underway

Plans for the 1993 graduation party are underway.

Some have already volunteered to help, but there is still time for others. Those interested should contact Sheila McMeans at 864-3414, giving name, address and what they would like to do.

There are several areas in which one may help: time, money or both time and money. If you belong to a club or organization you may ask how it plans to help. Remember that this party is for the Haskell County students and has been a great success in the past. This success can only continue with help of many working together.

The party will be Friday, May 28, at the Haskell Civic Center. Doors will open at 9 p.m. Again this year, there will be bingo, movies, a spades tournament, hamburgers and an abundance of drinks and snacks.

Party '93 welcomes all Haskell County students in grades 9-12 during the 1992-93 school year, college students from the county with college IDs and other guests within the age limits.

Only Haskell County students are eligible for the prizes.

Indians top Rotan on Meeks 3 hitter

Shannon Meeks threw a three-hitter as the Haskell Indians bested Rotan, 4-0, here Friday to improve their district 7-2A record to 7-4.

The Indians scored their first run in the second inning after Meeks singled, courtesy runner Eddy Gonzales stole second and took third on an overthrow and then came home on Stacey Walker's bloop single.

The score remained 1-0 until the top of the seventh when the Indians sent three more runners across the plate. Cody Cypert's two-run single highlighted the scoring spree.

Although the game was played in Haskell, it counted as a home game for Rotan as the Yellowhammers do not have a baseball field and must play all games away.

Rotan's loss was only its second in district play and dropped the Hammers to 7-2. Jim Ned took over first place with its 9-2 record. Haskell and Stamford are both 7-4.

The Indians were to host Hamlin Tuesday and next Monday they will take on league-leading Jim Ned in what could turn out to be a crucial contest. They close their season the following Friday when they host Winters.

Haskell to host Baptist banquet

More than 300 deacons, pastors, staff and wives are expected to participate in the food, fun and fellowship.

Purpose of the gathering is to recognize the office of deacon as a servant and provide fellowship among those servants in the Double Mountain Baptist area.

Tickets may be purchased from deacon chairmen.

ONE-TWO PEST CONTROL HIGHER QUALITY CROP.

Protecting your cotton crop from weed competition and insect damage can pay off in higher yields. And we have a great combination to help you do just that.

WEED CONTROL PROWL® herbicide delivers long-lasting control of certain broadleaf weeds, without root pruning, stunting or carryover. And less root pruning helps improve insecticide uptake. That means your cotton gets off to a fast, healthy start, for a higher-yielding quality bottom crop.

INSECT CONTROL THIMET® 20-G soil and systemic insecticide provides early-season control of aphids, thrips and mites in cotton. And applied at planting, it also controls aphids, leaf miners, leafhoppers, black cutworms and white flies.

See us today about the one-two combination that helps you get the most out of your cotton crop. We're your local Cyanamid AgriCenter® dealer.

Mayor opposes tax

Editor: In September of last year, the Haskell City Council voted to increase your property tax by 8 percent. This was done over my objection and by a 3 to 2 vote.

Now only seven months later and for the third time in as many years, a proposal is being put to the voters to increase our sales tax by one-half percent for the purpose of economic development.

The entire council and I are in favor of letting you, the people, decide if this tax increase is necessary and the council was unanimous in voting to place this proposition on the May 1 ballot. However, the council is again split over whether this tax increase is in the best interests of the people of Haskell.

I personally feel that the sales tax is anti-business and will do more harm than good. I am very much in favor of encouraging new businesses to locate here, but I am even more interested in maintaining and supporting the businesses we already have in Haskell.

Please vote in the May 1 city election and let me ask you to vote "no" to the proposition increasing the sales tax.

It was a big success and enjoyed by all.

We appreciate the support of everyone who came and was involved.

Supports Barton

Editor: May 1st we elect a new U.S. Senator. There will be more than a dozen names on the ballot.

I would like to recommend Joe Barton, currently U.S. Congressman from Waxahachie. He's married to his high school sweetheart. They have three children. He tries to fly home every weekend from Washington, D.C., because he knows his family is more important than politics.

Since entering Congress in 1984, he has consistently scored high for voting for small business, spending cuts, and most importantly, "family values."

Unlike pro-gay rights Bob Krueger, or pro-abortion Kay Bailey Hutchison, Joe Barton opposes gays in the military and special minority status for gays, and he's the only major Senate candidate to stand against the slaughter of babies in America's abortuaries. He has pushed for stronger anti-pornography legislation, and voted to defund the National Endowment for the Arts because they persist in spending your tax dollars to produce anti-Christian, obscene and homoerotic

"art."

He supported middle class tax cuts, larger family exemptions, the right of parents to home-school their children, and educational vouchers. He has earned the support of pro-family leaders across the state: Tom Landry, Fellowship of Christian Athletes; Jeff Fisher, American Family Association of Texas; Don Wildmon, American Family Association; Dick Weinhold, Texas Christian Coalition; Bill Price, Texans United for Life; Susan Feldman, Texas Eagle Forum; Phyllis Schlafly, Eagle Forum; Dr. Joseph Graham, Texas Right to Life Committee; and others too numerous to mention.

Let's send a man to Washington who lives what we believe.

Brian Burgess

others whether it be through Future Farmers and Homemakers, band, UIL academics, sports or other school-sponsored organizations or activities.

Please vote on May 1 to pass CED (Robin Hood plan). Our children are the ones who will suffer the consequences of adult decisions.

G. L. Brockman
Woodson

Proposition I

Editor: Friends, May 1 (May Day), you will decide by your vote on Proposition I, the so-called "Robin Hood" amendment to the Texas Constitution, whether or not you want to institute a new $6 billion state property tax.

Currently, the Texas Constitution limits local school taxes to $1.50 per $100 of property valuation. Proposition I would allow the creation of a state school taxing authority that can bill you an additional $1 per $100 on your property. That's a potential 67 percent increase, the largest in Texas history. And there will be no local control over how it is spent.

This new tax is being camouflaged as an education bill. First of all, while a Texas judge did mandate equal public school expenditures across the state (something unheard of in the other 49 states), he did not mandate new or higher taxes. Many other proposals could have solved the problem, but Gov. Richards refused to consider any but the "Robin Hood" tax plan.

Secondly, the judge's decision should have been appealed. The U.S. Supreme Court has not declared equal funding for school districts a law. Alternatively, it would have been simple to change the wording of the efficiency clause, Art. VII, Sec. 1, of the Texas Constitution, upon which the judge's decision was based.

Thirdly, statistics have demonstrated for years that no correlation exists between per-student expenditures and academic performance.

The bottom line is, if Proposition I passes, rich district or poor district, your property taxes are going up.

Brian Burgess

BY WENDELL FAUGHT

Yep. For the benefit of those who haven't asked, there will be another Texas Hawaiian Luau this summer in Abe and Ruby Turner's backyard.

The date is Saturday, Aug. 21, and it should be the best one yet, complete with roasted pig and other goodies.

It's an American Cancer Society benefit.

I didn't make a survey, but about half the teenagers I saw wearing baseball-type gimme caps in the Mall of Abilene the other day were wearing them backwards.

Maybe this is supposed to signify something, but I know not what. But all the kids appeared to be sober, so the position of their caps didn't mean the same as it used to mean to Nick Fisher.

Nick ran a small truck stop in a rural area on old US 80 in New Mexico back before the construction of Interstate 10 isolated him from civilization. He lived alone in a trailer behind his business.

Each afternoon about 4 o'clock, Nick's sole hired hand reported for duty to relieve him and Nick wandered next door to a steak house. He positioned himself at the bar and started unwinding from the rigors of the day.

Every time he ordered a drink, he would twist his gimme cap an inch or so to the left. You could always tell the degree of his intoxication by the position of his cap. Within an hour or two, the cap had completed a 180-degree turn and the usually quiet and reserved Nick had been transformed into a happy-go-lucky, back-slapping patron.

But Nick knew his limits. Once the cap was exactly backwards, it was Nick's signal that he had about reached his capacity. After one more for the road, he would rise, head for the door and then stagger to his trailer.

"It's a question of whether we're going to go forward into the future, or past to the back."

Dan Quayle said it and it's listed in the new book, "The 776 Stupidest Things Ever Said."

But the former vice president ranks no better than sixth among the contributors. His 17 entries rank him behind George Bush who has 19 and Ronald Reagan who has 24. Tops is Samuel Goldwyn with 38 entries.

Here are some of the 776:
* "I'll fight him for nothing if the price is right."---boxer Marlon Starling.

* "If crime went down 100 percent, it would still be 50 times higher than it should be."---Washington Councilman John Bowman.

* "The similarities between me and my father are different."---Dale Berra, son of Yogi.

That's a real mixture of candidates whose names will appear on the ballot Saturday for the U.S. Senate.

The oldest is Billy Brown of Santa Rosa, a People's Party candidate, who is 78. This is his seventh time to run for the Senate. Now retired, he's worked as a carpenter, boilermaker and steamfitter.

Youngest is Stephen Hopkins, 31, of Burnett, who is running as a Republican. He's an anti-abortion activist who was a write-in candidate for Congress last year.

Texas children need support

Approximately 690,000 Texas children were owed child support payments in 1992 from absent parents who legally are required to provide for their financial needs. More than half, 58 percent, never received the payments or received them sporadically.

Council candidates

David Davis

I am David Davis. Thank you for this opportunity to make known my candidacy for City Council.

My family and I have lived in Haskell over 46 years. I own Smitty's Auto Supply and manage Haskell Save A S. My wife, Louetta, is a customer consultant with WTU. We have four children, two married--Shane and Amanda Hadaway, Brent and Marcy Baker (of Knoxville, Tenn.), and Loutina and Nole Hadaway. Shane is an attorney in Haskell with Adkins-Chapman and Fouts. Amanda is a teacher in our school system. Brent, Marcy, Loutina and Nole are all in college. Loutina will graduate May 8.

Why am I running for City Council? My attitude toward the city is that it is great, so why not exert my best efforts to make it greater. I will use my common sense and abilities to relate to every person in Haskell.

I try to be consistent and persistent in everything I do and will help the city do the same thing. Stay positive, know we will succeed, then find the way; don't complain, fix it.

We as Americans should know the right to vote is one of our greatest assets. Why not take time to fulfill that right?

Thanks,
David Davis

Tiger Cubs tour radio station

Tiger Cubs of Pack 136 got a tour of the radio station at KVRP April 20 when they met at the station with Adam and Dickie Greenwood as hosts. Big Idea for the month of April is "No. 16: Tell It Like It Is."

Adam and Dickie introduced the group to Randy McLelland who conducted a tour of the station. He showed the boys the CD racks where the music is played and the cassette racks from which the various commercials are aired. He explained that the music and commercial slots are controlled by the station's computer.

The boys were in the studio while the evening news segment was aired by Carl Shearer. They also viewed the weather radar.

The Tigers did a "liner" for McLelland's May 2 "A.M. Sunday Show."

Attending were the Greenwoods, C. J. Villegas and Mickey Holloway, Scott and Debbie Kennedy, A. J. and Randy Shaw, Randy McLelland and Lisa Shaw, Tiger Cub coordinator.

Erma Liles celebrates birthday

This May Be Your Last Chance To Stop Southwestern Bell From Exploiting You.

For years, the regional Bell telephone companies have forced residential and business telephone users to pay inflated telephone bills.

According to the Consumer Federation of America, the Bell monopolies not only have overcharged telephone users by $30 billion since 1984, they're now trying to force ratepayers to pick up the tab for up to $400 billion of extravagant changes to the telephone network.

Today, Southwestern Bell and other Texas telephone companies are trying to get the Texas legislature to deregulate them even more, so that they can set their own rates and policies. They claim that they aren't making enough money from ratepayers in Texas to invest in changes in the telephone infrastructure.

The fact is, they had record profits last year. And with those profits they invested across the border in Mexico's telephone system, bought an overseas cable company, and became one of the new owners of the San Antonio Spurs basketball team.

Fortunately, you can do something about this exploitation. How? By joining thousands of telephone users, and consumer and business groups who are rising up to support a legislative study that will help ensure that the telephone companies treat Texans more fairly.

Urge your legislative representative to vote in favor of the two-year, fact-revealing study that will protect Texans from the monopolistic whims of Texas telephone companies. This could be your last chance to stop the exploitation. Support the two-year study and protect your pocketbook.

Tell your legislator that you don't want to be exploited by powerful Texas telephone company monopolies.

Vicky Anderson chosen by poets

Vicky Anderson has been named an honorary charter member of The International Society of Poets. Formal induction of charter members will take place Aug. 13 at the organization's symposium and convention in Washington, D. C. Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Congressman Kweisi Mfume will be keynote speakers.

Society members hear educator

The Beta Chi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International met April 4 at the First United Methodist Church in Munday.

President June Biffle called the meeting to order, and Dorothy Myers gave the invocation. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Jackye Leonard introduced the speaker, Dr. Jerri Pfeifer, principal of Cooper High School in Abilene. In her talk, Dr. Pfeifer discussed leadership and told of her experiences as principal at Cooper.

Dr. Pfeifer's philosophy is that the best job is always the one she has now, and that everything is a learning experience. She told the group that there is a "desperate cry for leadership approaching the 21st century," and that "leadership will be the solution to the problem of survival on this planet."

Dr. Pfeifer defined leadership, noting that it can be negative or positive, and that it has nothing to do with gender. Various styles and types of leadership need to be employed at appropriate times. In relating her experiences at Cooper, including problems and solutions during this time, Dr. Pfeifer emphasized that to accomplish anything, there must first be a vision, followed by specific goals to be met.

"If you don't have a vision," she said, "you can't do anything or go anywhere."

A brief business meeting followed. First vice president Ellen Rieger announced that the May meeting will be at the Haskell secondary school homemaking building, rather than at the Haskell Elementary School library.

Members joined in singing the "Delta Kappa Gamma" song, and the meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Biffle. The group then enjoyed refreshments served by the hostesses from Munday and Goree.

Lora Headstream wins recognition as designer

Lora Headstream, Haskell High School senior, has won recognition from top designer and professor at Texas Woman's University, Les Wilk.

This past weekend, Lora attended a fashion design symposium at TWU, along with 55 other girls from different regions. Lora won fourth place for the walking suit she designed.

Computer Microdynamics, textile scientist for major retailers, designer, pattern maker, sewing, buying, selling, independent small business and more are some of the professions open to creative job seekers who will work hard and have a positive attitude.

Lora plans to attend Texas Woman's University in the fall where she will study for a BA degree in Fashion Merchandising.

He gave a brief family history and recognized the oldest and youngest attendees, the family with the most members present and the one traveling the greatest distance.

PHARMACY NEWS

By Elbert Johnson, Registered Pharmacist

Cellular Communications: Scientists are making remarkable progress in isolating the proteins known as growth factors, which can stimulate both healthy and malignant cells. Platelet derived growth factor (PDGF) is vital in the atherogenetic process, and efforts are underway to limit its activity in the body. On the other hand, genetically manufactured erythropoietin (EOP) triggers red blood cell growth and is being used to treat anemia, and colony stimulating factors (G-CSF and GM-CSF) can increase immune cells, making bone marrow transplant and cancer patients less vulnerable to infection.

--Library Notes--

By Joan Strickland

Several new books have been added to the library collection by the Wanda Dulaney estate--325 to be exact.

Wanda and I visited a number of times and shared our love of the written word. Her love of books is evidenced by the varied collection she left to us.

Many of our novels and classics were worn almost beyond repair so many of Wanda's books replaced some of our "relics." Thank you Wanda for remembering us and thank you to her family that helped me box up the books for transfer to their new home.

We have purchased several new books this past month and they are ready to be checked out as are the new Bluebonnets for 1993.

Memorial donations to the Haskell County Library:

Wanda Dulaney, Pace O'Neal, S. P. (Sam) Herren, Hill Oates, Shonna Andress, T. P. (Bull) Barnett.

A book opens many doors. You can travel anywhere, do anything, and experience every adventure possible through reading. A book will last a long time and give pleasure to many. Remember our memorial fund when you have a person you would like to honor or a person in whose memory you would like to donate either a book or money towards purchase of a book. We also have a copy machine donation fund for anyone wishing to give to this cause.

If you have spare time and would like to visit our library, please feel free to come and browse through our books. We have a really excellent selection for a library of our size. If we don't have what you need we can order for you through Interlibrary Loan and try to find the book you request somewhere on the Big Country Library Circuit that runs throughout the U.S.

The library is open 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday. Our phone number is 864-2747.

The checkout period for books is two weeks. The limit on books to be checked out at one time is 5. Sorry, only one new book per patron until everyone has had a chance to check out these books.

Also, out of courtesy to everyone wanting to read new material, I would suggest you might want to return a new book as soon as you finish with it to give others a chance to read it. You don't have to wait the whole two weeks to return your books.

We have a drop box on the front porch for your convenience. The fine for overdue books is 5 cents per day and senior citizens are exempt from these charges.

The summer reading program is just around the corner, so kids be sure and make plans to spend Wednesday morning at the library this summer as soon as Vacation Bible Schools are over.

See you at the library.

Treasurer attends seminar

Three county treasurers from this area were among 200 county treasurers and staff members who took part April 12-15 in the 21st annual County Treasurer's Seminar at Texas A&M University.

Willie Faye Tidrow, Haskell County treasurer, was accompanied to College Station by Evelyn Balis and Brenda Rankin, county treasurers of Knox and Throckmorton counties, respectively.

"In Search of Excellence Through Education" was the theme of the conference, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service's Institute of County Government and the County Treasurer's Association in cooperation with the Texas Association of Counties.

The seminar covered such topics as "Depository Contracts/Account Analysis," "Indigent Health Care," "A Review of the Worker's Compensation Insurance Law," "Cash Management/Zero Balance Budgeting," "Records Security in the Treasurer's Office/Open Records Act," "Forfeited Funds," "Wellness," and "Investment Basics."

Keynote addresses were given by Texas Attorney General Dan Morales of Austin and Allen J. "A.J." Seelhammer, director of marketing and education-government, the 3M, Corporation, New Braunfels.

--Paint Creek--

by Mabel Overton

The ladies who have read this year in our Grandmother's Lap reading program are Ethel Earles, Rozelle Wilkinson, Peggy Burnett, Neat Bevel, Violet Earles, Mary Eleanor McCollum, Eula Mae Herren, Bobby Speer and Mabel Overton.

Lois Luhman from Palm Desert, Ca. visited Peggy Burnett for Easter. They had taught in the same school for many years. Peggy met Lois in Cleburne where there is no depot. She was just waiting for Peggy along the railroad track.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Griffin met their son, Owen and Dianne, at Brownwood at their other son's, Jerry and Judy Griffin, Saturday. Owen and Dianne have moved to Spring.

Hans Overton and his grandmother Mabel Overton saw the district one act play contest at Hardin-Simmons last Saturday. As expected, Trent advanced.

Paint Creek Boy Scout Troop 148 again brought home the "Blue" at the Chisholm Trail Council Scout Show held at the Marine and Naval Reserve Center in Abilene Saturday April 17.

The boys set up their booth at 11:30 in preparation for the show and had no more than set up when other Scouts who had witnessed the demonstration before, began making ropes before the show officially opened.

The Troop then began their formal presentation at 1 o'clock with a demonstration on rope building and allowed visitors to their booth to participate in building ropes with their machine. After the rope was built under the supervision of the Paint Creek Scouts, the rope was then divided in half and presented to the participants who actually operated the machine.

Even though the show officially ended at 5 o'clock, the Scouts were asked by visitors to their booth to remain on site until they had an opportunity to build a rope. The Scouts finally completed the demonstration at 7 o'clock after all doors were locked and everyone else had returned home.

The Scouts estimated that they supervised and constructed over 1,000 feet of rope during the day. The rope making machine itself was constructed in 1952 by Allen (Jiggs) Isbell and has been making ropes for the Troop since that time.

Scouts attending were Hans Overton, Casey Thompson, Jeff Dunnam, Jim Crawford, and Jason Shaw. Adult Scouters attending were Wallar and Steffi Overton. The Troop is sponsored by the Paint Creek ISD.

Hans Overton was honored as an outstanding Junior at a "Gold Carpet Dinner" at Hardin Simmons University Friday, April 16th. The dinner was hosted by Hardin Simmons to recognize area Junior students who have excelled scholastically. The Juniors were addressed by Dr. Lanny Hall, President of the University and entertained by Mr. Bruce Ayres, class of '69, who sang popular songs he had rewritten and satired popular singers. Hans was seated for dinner with Gretchen Gallaher, President of the Student Congress and Malissa Lohnes, President of the Student Foundation who gave him some insight of college life at HSU. Hans attended the dinner with his guests, his parents Wallar and Steffi Overton.

The Paint Creek P.E.A.K. students are having a car wash and selling cookies, cakes and pies on Sat., April 24 at Wal-Mart from 9 til noon.

Paint Creek High School had a track meet at Jayton last Saturday. Nobody told me about the results except Marcus Overton. They all came home sunburned.

Celebration set at Fort Belknap

The "4th at the Fort" Independence Day celebration at Fort Belknap will be sponsored again this year by the Young County Rural Volunteer Fire Department.

This year's event will be on Saturday, July 3, since the 4th falls on Sunday.

Activities, beginning at 11 a.m., will include entertainment by talented musicians, food booths and craft booths.

Back strains can be avoided

Back strains can be avoided by using proper technique when lifting heavy objects.

You should bend at the knees and lift using leg muscles instead of back muscles to straighten up, said Dr. Martin Grabois of Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Keep the lifted object close to the body, and if turning is necessary, do so by moving the feet instead of twisting at the waist. When back strains do occur, Brabois said, get bed rest while applying a cold pack the first 24 hours. Apply heat the following day.

If the pain and impaired mobility persist beyond a few days, consult a physician.

The origin of Soil and Water Stewardship Week

For centuries, men and women have offered humble thanks to God for the priceless gifts of soil, water, air and sunshine which make all living things possible. This gratitude by religious people has been expressed in many ways over the years but in all its forms there has been a continuing thread of emphasis on the wondrous powers of the Almighty to create and to heal.

There has been stress, too, on the universal dependence on His grace for salvation and for all good things.

The world as we know it could not exist without a fruitful agriculture. A regular harvest is a critical matter. But nature, like man, is erratic. There are times when the very elements seem to conspire against a yield.

When the rains cease and the earth cracks, when storms and pestilence wreak their havoc, fields become barren and livestock grow gaunt in search of grass. It is then, and particularly in times of prolonged hardship, that the call goes out for divine intervention to ease the suffering and restore the bounty of the soil.

That is what happened in France more than 1,500 years ago in the city of Vienne and its surrounding countryside. Bad weather, fires and earthquakes had brought crop failures and widespread hunger. The Bishop of Vienne, Saint Mamertus, called for prayer and penance on the three days preceding Ascension Day. The people responded and implored God for help in their suffering and privation.

Word of what happened in Vienne spread throughout France and then to other countries beyond the Alps. The supplication filled a need in the hearts and minds of the people and, as the years went by, the practice of setting aside these special days—Rogation Days—was widely established on an annual basis. By the end of the eighth century, the Church formally adopted the custom.

In our own country, the decision to set aside a week each year to acknowledge before God our gratitude for His gifts of soil and all the bountiful resources associated with it has met an evident need of a great many people.

The week—now known as Soil and Water Stewardship Week—has become a special time to remind all people that these gifts of the Creator warrant their best in creative conservation and considerate management.

In parts of the South earlier in this century, a few churches and their congregations began to set aside the fifth Sunday after Easter as Soil and Soul Sunday. Subsequently, this designation was changed to Soil Stewardship Sunday when, in 1946, the publishers of Farm and Ranch magazine took an initiative. They suggested to religious leaders in a number of southern states that one Sunday be set aside each year as a time for a special reminder to the men and women of their congregations about the ethical obligations of all people to serve as responsible Stewards of the land.

The response of clergymen and laymen was so warm and widespread that observance of Soil Stewardship Sunday spread steadily to additional churches and additional states. In 1954, the publishers of the magazine suggested to the officers of the National Association of Conservation Districts that a still wider observance of Soil Stewardship Sunday could aid significantly in bringing about a national awakening and recognition of man's duties as stewards of the Lord's earth.

To help achieve this goal, the publishers offered to transfer their limited sponsorship of Soil Stewardship Sunday to the Association, which represents 3,000 local conservation district organizations in all the states and territories of the nation. The NACD accepted and, beginning in 1955, undertook to foster the observance on a nationwide basis.

A year later, recognizing possible conflicts with Rural Life Sunday and other events often observed on church calendars, Soil Stewardship Week—beginning always with the fifth Sunday after Easter and continuing through the sixth. The change provided a helpful latitude in church timing for the observance.

Since these two Sundays occasionally conflict with Mother's Day or Memorial Day, Soil and Water Stewardship Week was designated as the last Sunday in April through the first Sunday in May.

The Soil and Water Stewardship Week observance, by its very nature, is one to be joined in by everyone who shares a sense of personal responsibility under God for the care of soil, water and the other vital elements making up our environment. The prime concern of our conservation districts, along with thousands of involved clergymen and laymen, is to encourage an evergrowing participation by Americans in this annual recognition of the continuing importance of thoughtful stewardship.

THE HASKELL FREE PRESS

Special Edition Soil Stewardship Week Thursday, April 29, 1993

Stewardship Week being observed here

Suggesting that everyone can help care for our earth's environment by looking for things to do right outside their doorway, the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District is encouraging local churches, organizations and individuals to join the nationwide observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week, April 25 through May 2, 1993.

The Haskell SWCD, which works throughout the year on soil and water conservation measures, is providing color literature that highlight humanity's responsibility to be active stewards of our nation's soil and water resources. The Haskell SWCD is one of nearly 3,000 conservation district nationwide that work with the national conservation districts to encourage greater resource stewardship through the annual week-long observance.

Dan Wadzeck, chairman of the Haskell SWCD, said he hopes soil and water stewardship week will help individuals realize that their own actions will reap results on the environment. By taking positive environmental steps—as simple as planting a tree or reducing pesticide use—every person can be healing hands, not in just the fields where food and fiber are grown, but in the broader fields of life.

Materials especially designed to convey the 1993 theme, "Hands of Healing" are being distributed by the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District and may be obtained by calling or visiting the district office during the business hours at 1203A South Avenue E, Haskell, phone 817-864-8516.

Soil and Water Stewardship
April 25 - May 2, 1993

Soil erosion symptom of environment

One of the main symptoms that something is wrong with the environment is soil erosion. Soil that is unprotected by vegetation is blown or washed away by wind and rain, leading to many problems and costs. Where people cultivate soils for crops, graze them with domestic livestock, cut trees for timber products, or shape the land to build their homes and cities, natural soil protection is often lost. In those cases, extra efforts to protect the topsoil from damage are needed.

To know where soils need our help, we must learn to recognize when they are suffering damage, and that's not easy as it would seem. Many books and films about soil erosion, for example, show towering dust clouds, huge raw gullies, or ravaged hillsides. Anyone seeing one of those situations on the land knows immediately that something is wrong. But these are exceptional situations. More commonly, soil erosion occurs when tiny bits or layers of soil are removed almost invisibly by wind or rain.

On cropland, almost all erosion evidence is obliterated with the first spring cultivation. Looking only for the highly visible forms of soil erosion leads to the conclusion, that where none of those problems are visible, no soil damage is occurring. Such oversights leads people to overlook problems that can and should be addressed.

But soils that are being damaged are readily identified when one knows how to look at the health of the plant community—forest, grass, or crops—is not healthy and thriving, something is almost certainly wrong with the soil. If the soil is left unprotected, and exposed to the wind and rain during major parts of the year, erosion is almost certain to be occurring. Healing the land becomes a matter of helping to restore a healthy plant community that is adapted to that particular soil.

The Board of Directors of the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District gratefully acknowledge the advertisers in this special section for making its publication possible and the 1000 cooperating farmers and ranchers in Haskell County for their conservation agreements.

Proclamation

Whereas our well-being depends on the production of ample food, fiber and other products of the soil; and

Whereas the quality and quantity of these products depend on the conservation, wise use and proper management of soil and water resources; and

Whereas protection of our water from pollution depends on sound conservation practices; and

Whereas conservation districts provide a practical and democratic organization through which landowners take the initiative to conserve and make proper use of these resources; and

Whereas the conservation movement is carrying forward a program of soil and water conservation in cooperation with numerous agencies and countless individuals;

Therefore I, in full appreciation of the value of our soil and water to the public welfare, and desiring to honor those who protect those resources, do hereby proclaim April 25 through May 2, 1993

Mike McGuire named Conservation Farmer

Mike McGuire

The Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District has selected Mike McGuire as the Conservation Farmer for 1993.

Mike has been around farming all of his life. After graduating from Texas Tech with an engineering degree, and working two years in Houston, Mike decided that he wanted to come back to Haskell County and farm.

Mike's farming operation includes two irrigated tracts north of Weinert and two dryland tracts, one in the Irby area. So you can see Mike is familiar with both sandland and tightland farming.

Mike's main crops are cotton, wheat, and guar. He likes to follow wheat with guar to keep a cover on the ground. Then follows with cotton the next year.

Mike uses the computer to determine the times and rates for water, fertilizer, and herbicide applications. He likes to keep detailed records of applications. By keeping up with these records, he can usually increase yields. But Mike is quick to remind us that no amount of records can control the rain, or a devastating hail storm that might wipe out a whole crop in a matter of minutes.

Mike has been working with Seymour Aquifer Project manager, Danny Lambreth. A weather data station is located on one of his farms. Mike assists with irrigation scheduling and irrigation efficiency testing on cotton and wheat. Data is gathered on soil moisture, fertilizer, and pesticide use to help to show that the farming community is controlling underground water quality.

Mike uses conservation measures in his farming operation. He has constructed terraces and waterways under the long term agreement program. When costshare programs were not available, he has done brushwork, terracing, and fencing on his own.

Mike serves as a representative for the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Association. He serves as a representative on the Texas State Support Committee for Cotton Incorporated. He helps with allocation of funds for cotton research projects and boll weevil eradication.

Due to his dedication in maintaining productivity, as well as protecting the natural resources, the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District is proud to recognize Mike McGuire as the Conservation Farmer for 1993.

Karen Lehrmann named Conservation Homemaker

Karen Lehrmann
Conservation Homemaker

Karen Lehrmann from Sagerton has been selected as the Conservation Homemaker for 1993 by the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District.

Karen was raised on the farm in Claude, Texas and started plowing at the age of 12. She met Steven, her husband, at Texas Tech and married after graduation in 1978. They have four children, Jennifer, Brian, M'Lynn, and Joanna.

Karen says there is a big difference between the wheat and maize farming she was familiar with in Claude and cotton farming in Haskell County.

A great deal of her time is spent on the road from home to Rule, where her children attend school, and from Sagerton to Tuxedo to Old Glory where most of their farms are located.

When Karen is not plowing, she is helping Steven move from one place to another, or checking the bugs in the fields. Karen is also the crew chief of the Lehrmann hoe hands. In addition Karen helped plant and takes care of the windbreak around their home.

Karen volunteers to collect data at the extension service weather station at Tuxedo. They have a test plot where different varieties of cotton are planted. She keeps information on yields and expenses.

She also does the bookkeeping for the family farm.

Karen enjoys pickling for her family and often uses these for gifts for special friends.

Karen is active in her community and church. She believes that her family and church are top priorities.

In her community, Karen helps distribute commodities, and she is one of the Sagerton Hee Haw performers.

She serves as a den leader for Brian's Webelos Scout troop. She is a VIP, volunteer in public schools. Karen works with the picture memory team and other school projects one day each week. Karen is the reporter for the newly formed Rule Booster Club.

Once a week, Karen teaches M'Lynn piano lessons at the Methodist Church in Rule. She believes that teaching in town, away from home makes it more fun and meaningful.

A very important part of Karen's life is her church family. Karen gladly gives of her time and talents. She plays the flute each Sunday during the worship service at the First Baptist Church in Haskell. She is the assistant choir director for the childrens choir, helps with Bible drills, and is a G. A. leader.

Because of her pride and dedication to her family, church, and community, the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District is proud to recognize Karen Lehrmann as the Conservation Homemaker for 1993.

- Recycle
Recycle paper, glass, plastic, aluminum, scrap metal, motor oil and yard wastes. Buy recycled and recyclable products.
- Conserve Water
Don't let water run when scrubbing pots, wiping counters, brushing your teeth or shaving. Install water-efficient faucet aerators and shower heads.
- Save Soil
Prevent soil from washing or blowing away by establishing ground cover, such as grass, plants and trees, on unprotected soil.

Conservation Compliance

Conservation compliance applies when highly erodible field was used to produce an agricultural commodity or was set aside, diverted or otherwise not cultivated under a program administered by the Secretary in any of the years 1981 through 1985.

Public Law 99-198, the Food Security Act of 1985, (1985 Farm Bill) and supported by Public Law 101-624, Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 (1990 Farm Bill) contains two definite deadlines. Producers on lands that were determined to be Highly Erodible Land (HEL) had until January 1, 1990, to develop a conservation plan for reducing soil losses to a minimum on these lands and until January 1, 1995 to implement the conservation compliance plan.

The deadline for the preparation of the plans was met with the majority of the compliance plans prepared prior to January 1, 1990.

The implementation of the conservation plan will require a lot of time, work and cooperation between the producer and the Soil Conservation Service to ensure that the right system to reduce erosion rates to meet the Farm Bill requirements is planned and installed on the land in order to meet the January 1, 1995 deadline.

How is Conservation Compliance determined?

Prior to January 1, 1995 each producer that earns program benefits and is using Highly Erodible Land (HEL) to produce a commodity crop will be checked by Soil Conservation Service personnel to determine if the compliance plan is being installed and maintained.

If the producer does not understand the compliance plan or is unable to install the practice as scheduled, it is his/her responsibility to contact the Soil Conservation Service to review the alternatives and revise the compliance plan. However, regardless of the number of times the compliance plan is revised, the plan must be fully implemented by January 1, 1995.

If, at any time, the plan is not being followed, the producer may be placed in noncompliance and denied program benefits until compliance is restored. A producer that is placed in noncompliance for failure to comply with the requirements of the 1985 and 1990 Farm Bills will be denied benefits in 24 USDA programs. A complete list of the USDA programs that are included are available at the local office of the ASCS or the SCS.

Contact the Agricultural, Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) or the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) in Haskell if you have any questions concerning the requirements of the 1985 and 1990 Farm Bills.

All programs and services of the United States Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, are offered on a nondiscriminatory basis, without regard to race, color, national origin, age, sex, religion, marital status or handicap.

Teaching soil and water conservation

Soil and water are recognized as our basic natural resources. The way we manage these resources and their products—plants and animals—is important in determining our present and future welfare.

Conservation and wise use of soil and moisture on croplands, grasslands, and woodlands is the key to keeping our land productive, our people healthy, and our nation strong and beautiful.

How well this is done doesn't depend entirely on land owners and operators; we all have a share in the job to be done. It is too important a job to be bypassed by anyone. There must be teaching conservation in the schools throughout the nation. On this teachers and conservationists agree.

carried out a few of these activities, they will want to move ahead creatively and independently, to see problems, to ask questions, and to plan new studies or activities to get answers that satisfy them.

Both science and social studies teachers can find suggestions that will help them guide their students in understanding the resources around them. Such possibilities are limited only by teacher ingenuity, school curriculum, and community soil and water conservation problems, and opportunities for field trips and for practical application of resource use and conservation to the schoolgrounds and elsewhere.

Each activity is presented in two parts: A how-to-do-it part and interpretation. The how-to-do-it part is written in a language and style for presentation to students. The interpretations are addressed to teachers to give readily available background information.

As an aid to busy teachers, the Soil Conservation Service offers a publication that gives some practical suggestions to help them in carrying out activities and observations in the classroom and out-of-doors.

Teachers can modify the activities according to the interests or needs of their students. Not all the steps needed in developing, carrying out, and analyzing the activities are given. These will depend on the conservation projects undertaken and on how the teachers and students plan together. Procedures can be planned as the work progresses, usually in connection with a larger activity or curriculum unit that draws on all subjects.

In the beginning stages of teacher-student planning, teachers may find it helpful to follow a few planned activities such as those given here. After the students have
