Commissioners discuss wellness center plans

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

The Crockett County Commissioners' Court and members of the Wellness Center Board met during a special called commissioners' court meeting on Nov. 22 to continue discussions of the new wellness center construction documents.

The item on the special called meeting agenda was to approve the documents, but Architect Rick Burnight said his firm was not finished working on the documents.

He said they would be finished and ready for approval by the commissioners' Dec. 12 regular meeting. Burnight also said the project would be ready to advertise for bids during the Dec. 12 meeting.

Burnight proposed not opening bids until late January due to the holidays.

Since no action was taken on the wellness center plans, Commissioner Eligio Martinez chose to leave the meeting early.

Ozona Airport Manager Charles McCleary received The Wright Brothers "Master Pilot" Award on Nov. 15 from the Federal Aviation Administration during a ceremony held at Zentner's Daughter in San Angelo.

Lots of people from Ozona attended the ceremony.

The award is in appreciation for dedicated service, technical expertise, professionalism and many outstanding contributions to further the cause of aviation safety.

He received his private pilot certificate on March 27, 1967 and commercial pilot certificate on Oct. 29, 1974.

He also received his instrument airplane rating on July 14, 1976, his A&P certificate in 1979 and IA in 1982.

McCleary has airman experience with the following planes: Piper J-3, J-4, PA-12, PA-18, PA-23, PA-24, PA-28; Cessna 150, 151, 170, 172, 175, 180, 185, 195, 210, T210, 310, 335, 340; Beech A-19, A-23; Taylorcraft; Murphy Renegade and Boeing 727.

His father, a Flying Tiger and captain for Braniff Airlines, got McCleary flying.

McCleary went to the Braniff flight engineer school and got his flight engineer certificate in a Boeing 727 in 1979.

He went to Ozona to fly a C-185 as a bush pilot for oil field construction.

He then got his A&P and IA in 1979 and opened a maintenance shop in Ozona.

Small Businesses can do business with the federal government

As I discussed in my last article, small businesses can do business with the federal government. They purchase up to $500 billion of goods and services annually. The Small Business Administration (SBA) created the 8(a) Business Development Program in order to help small, disadvantaged business compete in the marketplace. The 8(a) Business Development Program is a business assistance program for small disadvantaged businesses. The 8(a) Program offers a broad scope of assistance to firms that are owned and controlled by at least 51 percent by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals. The program is an essential instrument for helping socially and economically disadvantaged entrepreneurs gain access to the economic mainstream of American society. It assists thousands of aspiring small business owners to gain a foothold in government contracting. Participation in the program is divided into two phases over nine years: a four-year developmental stage and a five-year transitional stages. Participants can receive sole-source contracts up to a ceiling of $4 million for goods and services and $6.5 million for manufacturing. While the SBA helps 8(a) firms build their competitive and institutional know-how, they also encourage small businesses to participate in competitive acquisitions.

8(a) firms are also able to form joint ventures and teams to bid on contracts. This enhances the ability of 8(a) firms to perform larger prime contracts and overcome the effects of contract bundling, the combining of two or more contracts together into one large contract. The overall program goal is to graduate 8(a) firms that will go on to thrive in a competitive business environment. There are some requirements in place to help achieve this goal. Programs require 8(a) firms to:

- Maintain a balance between their commercial and government business

- Limit the total dollar value of sole-source contracts that an individual participant can receive while in the program: $100 million or five times the value of its primary NAICS code.

To make sure 8(a) firms are on track to accomplish their goals and are following requirements, the SBA district offices monitor and measure the progress of participants through:

- Annual reviews
- Business planning
- Systematic evaluations

Additionally, 8(a) participants may take advantage of specialized business training, counseling, marketing assistance, and high-level development provided by the SBA and the Angelo State University Small Business Development Center. Small businesses can also be eligible for assistance in obtaining access to surplus government property and supplies, SBA-guaranteed loans and bonding assistance for being involved in the program.

Some politicians want your attention and some don't ete Laney, the former Texas House speaker, said once that he'd know he was in trouble if his name ID rose above 10 percent. There's no reason for most people to know who the speaker is, he reasoned, and when any of his predecessors had become well known, it was always because they were in some kind of trouble.

STATE ANALYSIS

that spending in the next budget and expanded pre-kindergarten programs. He hasn't produced a pre-session list so far, but he has pointed to at least one issue — funding and reforms of the state's programs for abused children and those in foster care — that he wants legislators to tackle. Then there is Straus, whose position largely defines his pitch to voters and lawmakers. Unlike Abbott and Patrick, whose audience is voters, Straus is elected to speaker by the other members of the House. Their issues are his issues, and unless they're pushing him — or any speaker — in a particular direction, there's no reason for him to take a position. After the elections, he gave the San Antonio Hispanic Chamber a fill on his plans. Straus' to-do list included increasing oversight of foster children and abused kids the state is supposed to protect, reforming the state's school finance system, overhauling mental health care, improving cyber security and promoting entrepreneurship.

Even our dogs are being named after cats, like CATahoula, for instance. Llassa Apso and Shih Tzu may have fooled some people into thinking they are dogs but I know they are really just cats parading as dogs. Put them in a room with a Siamese and watch them run. The problem is that we as a nation are adopting the characteristics of cats instead of man's best friend, the loyal dog.

Patrick is most of the way through his version of a Casey Kasem countdown of his top issues for the coming session, releasing an ambitious, 30-part legislative program 10 parts at a time. It's got everything from limits on local property tax increases to vouchers for private schools to hailstorm lawsuit restrictions. Abbott issued a 91-page plan for "restoring the rule of law with states leading the way" in January, urging other states to join Texas in a convention that would attempt to add nine state-empowering amendments to the U.S. Constitution. It's a hard sell both with voters and with state lawmakers, but it's a big idea. And Abbott, like other governors, will present his own wish list to the Legislature in a State of the State speech early in next year's session. Last time out, that included ethics reform (still on the to-do list), money for border security (many lawmakers want to continue forms of the state's programs for abused children and those in foster care — that he wants legislators to tackle. Unlike Abbott and Patrick, whose audience is voters, Straus is elected to speaker by the other members of the House. Their issues are his issues, and unless they're pushing him — or any speaker — in a particular direction, there's no reason for him to take a position. Straus' to-do list included increasing oversight of foster children and abused kids the state is supposed to protect, reforming the state's school finance system, overhauling mental health care, improving cyber security and promoting entrepreneurship. Patrick's plans are more specific, numbered to correspond with the bill numbers on legislation filed in the Senate. Legislators aren't being asked to agree with Straus on individual bills, which makes sense, since he answers to them. Patrick is looking for votes for legislation and not for his position, so his is more specific. The lieutenant governor is also more likely to have his name on his body's work than the speaker is; Patrick has to ask voters for another term in 2018 and would like to showcase his work. The right kind of fame helps a lite guy stay in power. Straus has to take care of his House members and the voters in his San Antonio district. The members should get the showcase stuff; in the speaker's case, fame is something to avoid.

A Country of Cats

IT'S THE PITTS

LEE PITTS

Like cats, we are becoming cocky, strong willed, jealous, quarrelsome and lazy. Cats are the reason we see more crime in places like Chicago because there aren't enough watch dogs. If there is a crime being committed cats are probably in on it. And cats are ruthless killers. They are responsible for half the startling deaths in this country.

And in England, where the bobbies don't carry guns, cats kill an estimated 70 million small animals every year. Cats are bred to be bad, just look in their family tree and you'll find cheetahs, mountain lions, tigers, ocelots and leopards lurking. As a country we are out of shape because not enough people are walking the dog any more. Just try putting a leash on your cat and taking it for a walk downtown and see all the strange looks you get. Milque-toast males and their cats can no longer be trusted in our society to bring home the bacon. Cats are sneaky too, they cover up everything. And smart. The average dog is about as smart as a three to four year old child whereas the average cat is as smart as a 78 year old Congressman. And almost as promiscuous.

I ask you, what has a cat ever done for society? Name one famous cat in history. They don't pull sleds, herd sheep, sniff bombs or point out birds. What is their function in life? They are like a laid-off middle manager of a big corporation. A big waste of hair if you ask me, or fur. Whatever it is that's all over the couch. In my highly valued opinion, cats just aren't good for anything. Throw a tennis ball and a dog will retrieve it until the end of time. Throw a ball for a cat and he'll sit and stare as if to say, "Look dude, it's like this, you threw it, you go get it." Like the rest of our society cats are always "THE VICTIM." If they spill the milk they'll shrug as if to say, "Don't look at me. I wasn't the idiot that put too much milk in the bowl." And like a mistreated wife, a scorned cat remembers forever. Get your dog fixed and he'll have forgotten all about it by the time you get it home. Get your cat fixed and when it wakes up you'll have scratch marks all over your arms and face. The cat's only redeeming feature is they keep the mice population under control without chemicals. But that too will change. Just watch. I have a sneaky suspicion that behind that catty smile is a militant vegetarian animal rightist with a battery of lawyers ready to pounce. We really are becoming a country of cats.

Texas African American History Memorial unveiled at Capitol

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Ed Sterling | Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — A crowd of citizens and dignitaries gathered on the south lawn of the state Capitol on Nov. 19 to witness the unveiling of the Texas African American History Memorial. The 32-foot-wide, 27-foot-tall bronze monument by sculptor Ed Dwight features images of African-Americans in Texas from modern times going back nearly 500 years. Houston Mayor Sylvester Turner, a former long-time member of the Texas House of Representatives, spoke at the event. "This monument stands as a marker that no matter how smart you may think you are, no matter how gifted you may be, and no matter what contribution you may have made, we are standing on the foundation and the shoulders of people who have sacrificed to get us where we are today," Turner said. Gov. Greg Abbott, who also delivered remarks at the ceremony, said: "Today we come together to proudly honor the African-Americans who helped to grow Texas from the bounty of the land, from the sweat of their toil and from the passion of their dreams." "We are reminded that our work is not yet done," Abbott said. "If we are to truly elevate Texas to its limitless potential, we must continue to expand liberty and opportunity for all." The effort to have a monument to the contributions of Texas' African-Americans commissioned and installed on the Capitol grounds was launched some 20 years ago, according to the Texas African-American Memorial Foundation, an organization created to raise funds for the project.

The United States Geological Survey on Nov. 15 announced the largest estimate of "continuous oil" ever assessed in the United States, and it's in Texas. The Wolfcamp shale in the Midland Basin portion of the Permian Basin contains an estimated mean of 20 billion barrels of oil, 16 trillion cubic feet of associated natural gas and 1.6 billion barrels of natural gas liquids. This estimate, according to the USGS, consists of undiscovered, technically recoverable resources. The estimate of continuous oil in the Midland Basin Wolfcamp shale assessment is nearly three times larger than that of the 2013 USGS Bakken-Three Forks, which is situated in a land area that includes the western two-thirds of North Dakota, the northwestern corner of South Dakota and northeastern Montana, and extends northward into the Canadian provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Continuous oil and gas, according to the USGS, are dispersed throughout a geologic formation rather than existing as discrete, localized occurrences, such as those in

OZONA SENIOR HAPPENINGS

Crafts starting Monday

BY BRENDA NEWTON
SENIOR CENTER DIRECTOR

Be sure to support our Helping Hands at their arts and crafts shown on Dec. 8. There will be members selling tickets for the quilt made by our Hands in Service Quilters. Buy some tickets and support their effort in taking care of our elderly and shut-ins. Thanks is advance.

There will be not be a December Bingo Social due to the busy schedule for Christmas.

Don't forget this sit-down exercise on Tuesdays at 10:30 a.m. Nikki Bishop is leading this exercise. She is the Wesley Nurse at the Methodist church. Such a sweet girl, and she will take your blood pressure and keep a record of your progress.

I am also going to start crafts again on Monday afternoon at 3 p.m. We will be learning to make mesh wreaths. You will need to bring a wire base ring and a roll of mesh in the size and color you want and pipe cleaners in a close color.

I have been told that the Dollar Store has some of this or you can get someone to get what you want in Angelo. Come on out and learn how to do those beautiful mesh wreaths yourself you see on Pinterest.

I have had some request for the balance exercise on Thursday at 9:30 a.m. It is not a very hard exercise, but will help strengthen your muscles for the balance we all need to keep us from those dreaded falls.

Isn't a little discomfort in your muscles better than the disablement of a broken hip? Just saying.

Call Lisa Valencia with Area Agency on Aging for help on age related problems at (325) 223-5704. Corina Sturgeon with Esperanza and Jorge Salizon are on the insurance information. The number is (325) 949-6220. You can call Mary Landa with 2-1-1 Texas.

If you need information on any of things that concern us older generation, dial 2-1-1 and you will get a message asking you to choose English or Spanish - choose one of these and then choose option 1. This will get you to Mary and she can pass you to the person that can help you.

Grains are perfect disrupters of skin health

Dr. William Davis, cardiologist and author of "Wheat Belly" has determined... "The whole grain package adds up to an impressive collection of skin conditions that can take a variety of forms, from simple red, itchy rashes to scaly, oily raised patches to large vesicles and even gangrene."

"Healthy grains" is a gross misnomer. Grains like wheat, barley and rye do not belong in the human body. Grain must be ground and processed to be assimilated through the digestive tract and into the body. To accomplish this and extend the products' shelf life, almost all available nutrients are removed, rendering the product with calories devoid of any nutritional benefit. It is incomprehensible how bread in all its forms, the "staff of life" for many cultures, has evolved from wheat... a near worthless ingredient for human consumption, if not harmful over time.

Not all skin conditions are caused by grain consumption but the clear majority are, and too numerous to detail here. A few of the most common linked to grain consumption are acne, seborrhea, psoriasis, eczema, bluish-colored skin, hives, facial swelling and mouth ulcers (aka: canker sores).

Teenagers and adults of the western world are quite aware of the problems associated with acne. However, most do not know that it is a direct result of eating grains and the subsequent production of an oily secretion of the sebaceous glands called sebum.

Dr. Davis clarifies the grain-to-human relationship resulting in acne, "It's believed that acne is provoked by foods that trigger insulin and the hormone IGF, Insulin-like Growth Factor. All grains raise blood sugar, and thereby insulin and IGF, to high levels, so they all share the capacity to create facial havoc. Repetitive high blood the perfect setup for acne."

The familiar red rash that commonly occurs on the sides of the nose, eyebrows, chest, back, and scalp (where it is called dandruff), is seborrhea and is caused by the malassezia fungus. This same fungus lives on the skin of most humans, with or without seborrhea. It's the relationship between grains and seborrhea that is very consistent and predictable, and is the signature skin rash of grain consumption; namely - wheat, rye and barley.

Psoriasis takes the form of raised, red plaques with a silver or white sheen that broadly covers the affected area; the elbows, knees, scalp, belly and back. It can occur in other forms and most are annoying and disfiguring. Much of the conventional treatments involve steroid creams and immunosuppressive formulas usually reserved for cancer treatments and intravenous agents like etanercept and infliximab. Treatment often continues for years but rarely accomplishes positive outcomes.

Eczema is a term applied to a broad range of red, itchy, and raised rashes that can appear anywhere on the body. 1 in 3 people around the world have or will experience an eczemic episode at some point in their life. Eczematous rashes nearly tripled worldwide in the years between 1995 and 2008 and most these increases were pre-school and school-age children. These rashes are autoimmune reactions, often caused by grains and their phytochemicals, causing the body to be literally at war with itself.

Many other allergic reactions accompanying eczema include asthma, allergic rhinitis and sinus congestion, acid reflux, eosinophilic esophagitis (esophageal inflammation), infantile colic, and small intestinal and colon inflammation.

"People with celiac disease are three times more prone to eczema than people without it, while relatives of people with celiac disease (who don't have celiac disease themselves) are twice as prone... Eczema has indeed been associated with various foods, including peanuts, dairy, soy, fish, and eggs, as well as grains. Wheat, rye, and barley contain a smorgasbord of proteins that have been associated with eczema, asthma, and other forms of allergies," explains Dr. Davis

The solution: eliminate grains from the diet, at least for a 45 to 60-day trial period. They can easily be added back into our ways of eating. Most people get relief from facial seborrhea and dandruff within the first week and from eczema and acne within the first few weeks of going grain-free. Some complex skin conditions like psoriasis or lupus can require many weeks or months, to respond.

Women are more apt to report improvements in appearance. They claim years of facial puffiness and redness disappear, skin color improves and their skin looks more vital and vibrant. Such skin changes are usually a big part of the reason many people, men included, look younger after grain elimination.

Here's to your health.

OZONA WOMAN'S FORUM NEWS

Holiday cooking by Stormi Oglesby

BY GILDA HAMILTON
OZONA WOMAN'S FORUM

The Ozona Woman's Forum met Nov. 15 at The Senior Center with 29 members and one visitor in attendance.

President Beth Hoover presided over the meeting, and Jean Odom led us in the Pledge of Allegiance followed by Shirley Kirby leading The Collect. Marolyn Bean read the five verses of Psalms 100 as the invocation.

The theme of the day was Holiday Cooking, and the group was fortunate to have Stormi Oglesby to inform and feed us. Stormi provided an assortment of pizzas and desserts, and shared some of her trade secrets.

One tip she shared is she uses regular cookie sheets and pizza pans, not the fancy stones that are heavy and prone to breaking. Stormi used a variety of fresh herbs and veggies on her pizzas, and she brought beautiful raspberry phyllo cups and chocolate covered strawberries, plus a wonderful concoction called tiger butter for dessert.

Her most important tip was that we eat with our eyes first, so take the time and effort to make food pretty.

The next meeting will be Dec. 13 at the Ozona United Methodist Church where we will be entertained with a musical performance by the Community Handbell Choir.

Members present were JoAnn Babbitt, Marolyn Bean, Tina Bean, Sandy Beebe, Cathy Carson, Norma Carson, Elizabeth Clark, Arlene Clayton, Marilyn Cox, Janie Everett, Gilda Hamilton, Jeannine Henderson, Beth Hoover, Shirley Kirby, Linda Moore, Brenda Newton, Jean Odom, Willa Perry, Jean Reardon, Laura Skehan, Vicki Stokes, Ronda Stuart, E.A. Wadsworth, Celia West, Nell Wester, Rosalind Williams, Belinda Wilkins, Anita Woodruff, plus one visitor, Carol Jane Graves.

IN THE FOG

I live in a place where it is very easy to become disoriented if you leave the house in foggy weather and about this time of the year there are mornings and days of fog. When this occurs I can't tell where I came from or where I am going. I have also found myself in a similar situations in my Christian life. I can't explain as to why; I just know it happens. I might be going to church regularly, reading our Bibles daily; praying and doing everything God says to the best of our ability and still seemingly lose touch with God. I have come to the place in life that I want to have fellowship with God above everything else, (Psalm 119:33-35). I don't want to stray away from or lose fellowship with Him, (1 John 1:3&6). When in the Spiritual fog, my soul or spirit seems empty, the strong joy and peace is not there and I have no sense of spiritual direction and it scares me. I start by searching and seeking for God with all my heart, (1 Kings 8:54-61). I spend more time reading my bible, and praying. Sometimes, I am not in the fog for long and at other times it may be awhile. Oh, what a joy (there is life within my soul or heart) when the fog clears, (Psalm 119:1-6).

See you in Church next Sunday.

The family of Zelma Johnigan wishes to extend their sincere thanks for your prayers and support during this difficult time. We also send our gratitude and appreciation to Jaime Knox for the beautiful service, and the ones who sang hymns at the service. Also, thanks to Kerbow Funeral Home, to Hospice, and to the Crockett County Care Center staff for the extra special care they provided, and thanks to all the people who sent the beautiful flowers.

"Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud, it does not dishonor others, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres. Love never fails. But where there are prophecies, they will cease; where there are tongues, they will be stilled; where there is knowledge, it will pass away." 1 Corinthians 13:4-8

The best way to describe Luis C. Martinez is to say he was loved. He loved his family, friends, community, and especially the love of his life of 64 years, Teresa. On behalf of the Martinez Family, thank you to everyone who showed their love, support, and prayers during this difficult time. It is with that love that we begin to heal our broken hearts.

With love we thank you,
The Martinez Family

'Elf' featuring Ozona performer

Celebrate the Christmas season with your family at the theatre with the sugar-sprinkled, holiday musical "Elf!"

Produced by San Angelo Broadway Academy with special arrangements with Music Theatre International, Buddy the Elf brings his Christmas cheer in a hilarious way to the Foster Communications Coliseum Dec. 9-11.

Featuring happy elves, tap dancing Macy's employees, and the big guy himself, Elf is a musical comedy for all ages.

Ozona's Dallas Martinez will be performing in the production.

Based on the beloved holiday film, a young orphan named Buddy mistakenly crawls into Santa's bag of gifts and is transported to the North Pole.

The would-be elf is raised, unaware that he is actually a human, until his enormous size and poor toy-making abilities cause him to face the truth. Buddy embarks on a journey to New York City determined to win over his new family and help New York remember the true meaning of Christmas.

Tickets are $15 for adults and $12 for children 12 and under and military, and can be purchased in advance online at sabroadway-academy.org or at the door one hour prior to the performance.

Performance times are Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m.

All seating is general admission.

For more information, call SABA at (325) 763-4807 or email info@sabroadway-academy.org

Eminent domain meeting Dec. 12 in Mason

BY LARAMIE ADAMS
TEXAS AND SOUTHWESTERN
CATTLE RAISERS ASSOCIATION

A growing coalition of 18 Texas-based organizations, leading the Texans for Property Rights grassroots initiative, will host a meeting at the Mason Community Building in Mason on Monday, Dec. 12 at 5:30 p.m. There will be discussion of eminent domain issues along with ideas to safeguard Texans' private property rights.

Property owners who attend will learn about upcoming legislative efforts to achieve fairness in the laws that govern the use of eminent domain in Texas. A legal expert will be present for an overview of current laws and discuss possible improvements.

No RSVP is required to attend this meeting. Anyone interested in this topic or who has past or present eminent domain issues is encouraged to attend.

To learn more about Texans for Property Rights and to find a meeting in your area, visit www.texasforpropertyrights.com. Additional meetings will be announced.

The coalition advocating for eminent domain reform is comprised of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Texas Farm Bureau, Texas Wildlife Association, Texas Forestry Association, South Texans' Property Rights Association, Texas Poultry Association, Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, Independent Cattlemen's Association, Texas Grain Sorghum Association, Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Corn Producers Association of Texas, Riverside & Landowners Protection Coalition, Texas Land & Mineral Owners Association, Texas Association of Dairymen, Texas Cattle Feeders Association, Texas Grain and Feed Association, Texas Citrus Mutual and Texas Hill Country Heritage Association.

conventional accumulations. Because of that, continuous resources commonly require special technical drilling and recovery methods, such as hydraulic fracturing.

TEXAS ECONOMY ADDS JOBS

The Texas Workforce Commission on Nov. 18 announced Texas grew by an estimated 13,700 nonfarm jobs in October and the state has added jobs in 18 of the past 19 months.

Also, Texas' seasonally adjusted unemployment rate decreased to 4.7 percent in October, down slightly from 4.8 percent in September, and remained below the national rate of 4.9 percent.

"Texas employers continue to demonstrate the resiliency of the Texas economy with 207,500 jobs added over the past year," said Andres Alcantar, chair of the Texas Workforce Commission.

The rest of the commissioners and wellness center board members went over the interior of the building with Burnight, including the type of flooring, colors, materials and equipment that would be used.

In November 2015, Crockett County Voters approved a $4 million bond for the new wellness center.

The building will include a 20-foot by 40-foot indoor swimming pool, open gym with various exercise equipment, two open exercise rooms with one that can be divided, locker rooms and a .1 mile walking trail on the outside of the building.

The pool will be four-feet on the edges and around 4.8-feet in the center.

Wellness center board members asked about having a lift for the pool and a swimming lane.

Burnight said that could be done, but that an additional person would be needed to operate the lift.

The group also discussed mirrors for the exercise rooms.

In the open gym, the architects showed room for six treadmills, five stationary bicycles, a utility bench, four elliptical machines, 12 strength equipment machines, three adjustable benches and two dumbbell racks.

Pricing for exercise equipment ranges from $71,000 to $108,000 depending on the type of equipment. The project has $175,000 budgeted for exercise equipment.

Construction budget is estimated at $2.9 million.

Plans for the wellness center are available to the public at the courthouse annex.

County Judge Fred Deaton has said discussion and decisions about the new wellness center would be made at commissioners' court meetings, which are open to the public.

He has also said input from the public is also welcomed at these meetings.

If the project runs on schedule, the wellness center is estimated to be completed by March 2018.

Commissioner Frank Tambunga was absent from the meeting.

The commissioners will have a special called meeting at noon Thursday, Dec. 1, at the courthouse annex.

The only item on the agenda is discussion and action on contract with Frontier Communications on Internet.

The next regular commissioners' court meeting will be 9 a.m. Dec. 12 at the courthouse annex. Both meetings are open to the public.

Public Notice

Q&A

What is a public notice?

It's information about important government activities. Notice in the newspaper is required for a good reason — to make sure it's NOTICED. It's crucial to government transparency...and government accountability.

Your local paper is the most visible, independent source for this crucial service. We not only print notices in the paper, but post them on our website and a statewide website at no extra charge. And they're archived forever, so there's a permanent and unalterable record.

Texas newspapers have published public notices since 1836. As your hometown paper, we're proud to provide this service to our communities.
