Early Days In Lynn Co.

By MRS. H. C. CRIE,
Formerly Co-Editor of The Lynn County News and an old-time in this section.

(Editor's Note: This week begins the series of articles being written by Mrs. H. C. Crie, the first of which is found below. Mrs. Crie is an interesting writer and needs no introduction to our readers. Each week one of these articles will be found in The News. Next week she promises a long article. Look for it and read it.)

The tale of the long ago which I shall weave is one of golden dreams come true—a woof of hope and a warp of work. To us old timers this is a wonder county. Every new achievement and every improvement is to us an added beauty to the vision we saw as we looked into the future when the voters of Lynn county were only nine.

In 1896 we were attached to Lubbock county for judicial purposes. The hardships and privations were gaily met, and we were just as happy then as now with the meager comforts our frontier surroundings afforded us.

3 Women Here In 1896

We hated to walk in those days just as bad as we do now. A "bronc" was about as hard to crank on a cold morning as a Ford, though a lot of time it took more room to get him strung out across the prairie, but we had more room than anything else unless it was breeze.

In 1896 there were only three women in Lynn county. They were Mrs. Jack Alley, who came in 1896 a bride, Mrs. Petty of the T-Bar Ranch, and Mrs. Enos L. Seeds who lived a little south of Grassland.

Postoffice At Grassland

Mrs. Seeds kept the first post office at her home four miles south of Grassland, which was the name borne by the first post office and was the half-way stand between Gail and Lubbock. The mail made the journey across country in a white top hack drawn by little Spanish mules. This wonderful vehicle was the passenger train and express car as well as the mail carrier.

Nine Cast Vote

The first election was held at the T-Bar headquarters. Those to cast votes were Jack Alley, Bill Petty, Ellis Payne, Tom Preston, Ane Lockwood, Bob Majors, Major Johnson, a boy named O'Neal, and another man whom we will have to call "the hired hand," as the name has been forgotten. This was a very exciting election and everybody had then picture taken after it was over. Mr. Alley tells the story that he kept the O'Neal boy on the ranch three months to help swell the election returns and then the boy voted the wrong way.

The Baptist Church was the first to be organized. It was organized by a preacher named Farr who came at long intervals to preach to the faithful few; saint and sinner alike attended. Bro. Miller took over the flock when he came to make his home in the northwest part of the county and dispensed fire and brimstone and baptism to all who were so inclined. Bro. Miller was a powerful preacher and everybody came, from the youngest to the oldest.

BROWNFIELD PEOPLE TO VOTE ON STREET PAVING

The city council of Brownfield has ordered an election to determine whether or not bonds in the sum of $60,000 shall be issued for the purpose of paving the streets of the city. It is planned to pave about twenty blocks.

Heavy Rains Fall; Picking Is Delayed

RAIN AMOUNTS TO 3.38 INCHES

Slow Downpour Extends Over Four Days. Some Farmers To Plant Wheat.

Practically the entire plains and Panhandle have been soaked this week by drenching rains. So far as we have heard, the rains were generous over the entire section except the extreme southern portion near Big Spring and Midland, where the precipitation was very light. In Lynn county there were no destructive downpours, most of the rain falling in gentle showers extending over a period of three days. The total precipitation in Tahoka from Saturday morning of last week until Wednesday morning of this week, according to the U. S. rain gauge kept by the News, was 3.38 inches. In some portions of the county, the precipitation apparently was not quite so heavy, while in other portions it was possibly heavier, notably in the New Home community which was visited by a heavy rain and some hail Sunday night.

Owing to the gentle manner in which the rain fell over most of the county, little damage apparently has been done to the cotton except to delay picking and possibly to stain it a bit. Practically all the water soaked into the ground as it fell, very little of it running off into the lakes, and therefore the soil has been wet thoroughly and deep. While these rains were not welcomed by farmers and business men on account of the cotton, yet they are fine for the grass and put the soil in excellent condition for the beginning of next year's crop. They will prove to be of great benefit to the wheat sowers a little further north.

Since these rains have fallen, many farmers in Lynn county are talking of sowing some wheat. Business men are encouraging them to do so, believing that this is a propitious time to try a wheat crop and that the farmer who practices diversification of crops is more likely to prosper than the one-crop farmer. There should be a large acreage sowed in wheat in Lynn county this fall.

Cotton Pickers Are Coming In

A. M. Sullivan returned Wednesday from San Antonio with nineteen Mexican cotton pickers for Chas. Connolly and J. E. Ketner. Mr. Sullivan left San Antonio with forty Mexicans but lost half of them before arriving in Tahoka. He let a Snyder man have part of them and others quit him for jobs along the route.

Other Mexicans have arrived during the week. In fact, a few are coming in almost every day. A few negroes have arrived also. We noted a bunch Wednesday that said they were from Brenham, going to pick for a farmer east of town as soon as the weather clears. The indications are that pickers will be arriving almost daily in ever increasing numbers from this time on out and we expect the country to be full of them within two or three weeks.

The ladies are planning to take their husbands to the meeting of the Parent-Teachers Club once each month. And after they get them there they are going to feed the brutes. These meetings will be held on the third Tuesday night in each month.

J. S. Edwards spent Sunday in Lamesa visiting his daughter and granddaughter.

Turns Car Over No One Hurt

A Buick driven by Munday Holloway and occupied by himself and two young ladies of Brownfield went into the ditch and turned topsy-turvy at the west limits of the city on the Brownfield road Tuesday night. The highway was wet and slick and Munday evidently was stepping on the gas just a bit too lively considering the condition of the road. The car skidded, turned around completely, went into the ditch, which is three or four feet deep at that place, and turned upside down in water two feet deep. Luckily none of the occupants were hurt except a slight injury to the knee received by one of the young ladies. They hastily found an opening in the wreck and climbed out, wet and frightened but otherwise all right.

The top of the car was smashed and it was otherwise damaged.

TO ENTERTAIN TEACHERS FRI.

Everybody Invited To Reception For Teachers Given By Parent-Teachers Club

As previously announced, the Parent Teachers Club will give a reception to the members of the faculty of the Tahoka Public Schools on Friday night at 8 P. M. at the Baptist Church.

The Parent-Teachers Club requests that we state that not only the members of the club but all the Patrons of the schools and citizens of the town are urgently invited and requested to attend this reception. The main purpose of the reception is not only to give the teachers a welcome but to get acquainted with them. Let every parent and every person interested in the welfare of the school and the community be present. "We want it understood that everybody is invited and urged to be present," Mrs. Paul Miller, President of the Parent-Teacher Club, stated to the News.

The following program has been prepared for the occasion:

1. Meeting Our Teachers
2. Sing Song
3. Invocation: Rev. Jno E Eldridge
4. Instrumental Solo: Miss Weakley
5. Reading: Mrs. Nat Williams
6. Music: Miss Juanita Jackson
7. Reading: Miss Don Clinton
8. Vocal Solo: Mrs Hansford Tunnell
9. Reading: Margaret Wetzel
10. Music: M. L. H Baze

The Parent-Teachers club is one of the best civic organizations in Tahoka. Attend one or two of its meetings and see if you do not arrive at the same conclusion.

Cotton Coming In Slowly This Week

The farmers, the gins, and the public weighers have been out of business this week. The continued rains have caused a complete cessation of cotton picking. Only four bales have been received at the local yard this week up to noon Thursday, making a total of 826 received to date. One bale was being ginned, however, and if no more rain follows considerable cotton will probably be coming in again by Saturday. A few pickers are arriving and it is probable that the work of gathering the fleecy staple will be resumed with greater vigor than ever about next Monday. The price for strict middling is given as 14.42.

FAIR EDITION OF THE NEWS TUESDAY

Next Tuesday The Lynn County News expects to issue a special Fair edition. The paper will take the place of the regular weekly issue published on Tuesday.

Contributors must therefore, have all articles in by Monday. Business men, we will try to solicit each of you for special advertising, but in case we miss anyone phone us and we will call on you.

Several hundred extra copies of this edition will be issued, and those desiring papers may secure them at this office to be sent to relatives and friends in other parts of the country.

Parkhurst Getting Ready For Oil

What if oil is struck? That is the question that is worrying postmaster D. A. Parkhurst just now. D. A. seems to think there is a probability of that very thing happening and so says he is taking time by the forelock and making preparations to get Uncle Sam to furnish the necessary help in the event a gusher should blow in out on the T-Bar.

Mr. Parkhurst is constantly securing other equipment for the post office in the splendid new building into which he and his official family recently moved. This week he received a pair of self-reading automatic parcel post scales. These scales automatically show the amount of postage due on any package weighed. They are great time savers, and Mr. Parkhurst says that there are many post offices in towns much larger than Tahoka that are not yet equipped with this character of scales. He is accordingly grateful to Uncle Sam for what he is doing for him and for the people of Tahoka.

There is only one fly in his ointment, namely, the rural routes. "There seems to be nothing in the way of the establishment of the routes and yet they are not established," Mr. Parkhurst stated. He thinks the delay is due to the fact that Uncle Sam is short on funds for this work. We will have two new rural routes some of these days, however, he feels sure.

D. E. Faulkner and family returned Monday night from Midland, where they had gone to visit relatives. Mr. Faulkner states that they encountered very little mud on the return trip Monday until they reached Dawson county.

New Home School Has Four Teachers

The most prosperous year for the New Home school in its history is in prospect, according to E.E. Hancock, the principal, who was a visitor in the News office Saturday. A new high school building has been completed since the last term and the district now has all that could be desired in the matter of a building. There is a faculty of four teachers thus far. It is possible that another will be added before the close of the school year. The faculty is composed of E. E. Hancock, principal, Miss Velma Hancock, Miss Fuller, and Mrs. Bates. The district has about 170 scholastics and about 125 have been enrolled thus far. The curriculum extends through the tenth grade and thus quite a bit of high school work is being done. Twenty-five are enrolled in the high school. Mr. Hancock is now making plans to build up a good laboratory for the science department of the high school. The school term opened on September 13 and will continue for nine months.

New Home is an independent district, with Sam Smith as president and Frank Ratliff as secretary of the board.

Court In Session; Have Busy Week

Barnes Says Cotton Pickers Are Coming

C. C. Barnes returned Tuesday afternoon from Las Vegas, New Mexico, to which place he went last week in search of cotton pickers. He brought only two back with him but others were to follow. Mr. Barnes says that he found many cotton pickers there who will be coming this way in a few days. "I think we will have plenty of pickers here in twenty days," he stated to the News. "Many of them have a few days work to do there yet and then they will come this way."

Mr. Barnes says that the rain was heavy all the way from Las Vegas to Tahoka. Along most of the route it was much heavier than it was here. The roads from Texico to Lubbock were awful, he declared.

W. E. Ponder esq. of Sweetwater was here this week representing a client in the district court.

TAHOKA BAND VISITS FAIR

Nearly 75 Boosters Invade South Plains Fair; Lynn County Has Good Exhibit

Despite the mud and rainy weather, Tahoka observed her day, Wednesday, at the South Plains Fair in a creditable manner. Between sixty and seventy-five people were in Lubbock, accompanied by the band. The local delegation left here at about 8:30 in the morning and arrived in Lubbock in time for the band to give a concert at the fair grounds at eleven o'clock. The band, according to those who accompanied it, made quite a hit, and it was again called on for a concert at 2:30 in the band stand, following which it played for the Tahoka-Floydada football game and, also, for the trapeze acts in front of the grand stand.

Lynn county has an excellent exhibit at the Fair and promises to win some of the prize money. G. H. Nelson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has charge of the exhibit, and he says many compliments are being passed on it. Post also has an excellent exhibit.

MEXICANS CHASE ALBERT BONDS

DEL RIO, Texas Sept 26—Mexican rangers were reported today close on the trail of Albert W. Bonds, wanted in Bell county on charge of murdering Wiley Fisher, Temple police chief.

Andres Garza chief of Mexico rangers, declared Bonds' capture was expected momentarily. Bonds was reported to have crossed the border between here and Eagle Pass last Thursday night, bound for a ranch in Mexico.

Santa Fe Builds Cotton Platform

The increased cotton production in Lynn county has demanded better shipping facilities in Tahoka and the Santa Fe Railway has recognized the necessity and has just about completed a new platform along its tracks near the station here. The dimensions of the new platform are 23 by 150 feet. Request for additional platform facilities was made some time ago by the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and by the secretary of the Kiwanis Club and they were promptly assured by Santa Fe officials that the matter would have proper attention.

CIVIL DOCKET DISPOSED OF

Criminal Docket Taken Up Monday; Civil Cases Disposed Of Last Week

The trial of the criminal docket begun in the district court Monday morning. During the first three days of the week three cases were tried, resulting in two acquittals and one conviction. Two men, charged jointly with the theft of automobile tires, and another man charged with a like offense in another case, were found not guilty, while one man, charged with unlawfully receiving stolen property, to wit: a mule, was found guilty and given a sentence of two years in the penitentiary.

The first case tried was The State of Texas vs. Ray Walls and John F. Balch. They were charged with the theft of automobile tires alleged to have been stolen from Fred Dawson, a filling station man, at Wilson. The jury decided that the evidence was insufficient to establish the guilt of the defendants beyond a reasonable doubt and they turned the defendants loose. Defendants were represented by Judge G. E. Lockhart of Lubbock.

On Tuesday morning the case of The State of Texas vs. Bethel Gillespie, charged with theft of tires from C. D. Crouch, was called for trial. While Mr. Crouch and his wife were in the picture show one night last winter his car was taken. It was found next day in the T-Bar pasture a mile west of town with five tires, a pump, a jack, and other accessories missing. About two weeks later a search was made of the premises said to have been occupied by the defendant nine miles west of town and the pump and jack were found under the floor of the residence while three or four tires were found in the bottom of a well. Defendant was not present when the search was made and the State did not adduce sufficient evidence, in the minds of the jury, to prove that defendant was the man who stole the tires. Their verdict was "not guilty." Defendant was represented by Hon. W. E. Ponder of Sweetwater.

Parent-Teachers To Meet Next Tuesday

The Parent-Teachers Club will meet at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, October 5, at the public school auditorium. An interesting program has been prepared. "We urge every patron of the school to attend this meeting," said Mrs. Paul Miller, the President of the Club, in asking us to make this announcement. "If you are not a member of the P. T. A. we will be glad to have you come as a visitor."

The Parent Teachers Club is planning great things for the year. It can be and expects to be of great service to the school and the community at large. It should not be necessary for any patron of the school to be urged to join this organization but every one should voluntarily and enthusiastically do so.

A program for next Tuesday afternoon has been arranged as follows:

1. Song
2. Prayer: Rev. Jno E Eldridge
3. Piano Solo: Miss Weakley or pupil
4. Business session
5. Round Table Talk: How P. T. A. Can Help the School Lead by Mrs. Walker.
6. Song by First and Second Grades Refreshments.

LYNN COUNTY'S BIG FAIR, OCTOBER. 8-9

Hon. C. S. Perkins of Sweetwater was here Monday his way to Lamesa on professional business. Mr. Perkins thinks that a big oil field is sure to be developed at Trent sixteen miles east of Sweetwater, where the big oil well was unexpectedly brought in a few weeks ago.

Sauce For The Goose

THERE is almost no meat or poultry that is not improved by the accompaniment of a tart fruit sauce. Chief of these is applesauce. Without it the goose would lose much of its popularity. As for perfectly-devised applesauce, it would be like a story without a point. Provided it is made of rather sour apples, applesauce is excellent with duck, chicken or even turkey. It is the handiest possible sauce for the housewife, since it is now put up in ready-to-serve form, thus saving her much time and labor. She may also get her duck, chicken or turkey out of a can, as well as most of the staple meats. The velvet-smoothness of the commercially prepared applesauce is a great asset. Sugar or lemon juice may be added according to taste. Otherwise, it is ready for the table or to use in making various dainty desserts. Baked Apple-Pudding is made by mixing a can of applesauce with two beaten eggs and bread-crumbs which have been moistened with melted butter. If applesauce is very tart, add sufficient brown sugar to sweeten. Bake until brown. Apple Roll—Mix and sift 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking-powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Work in 2 table-spoons butter and add 3/4 cup milk, mixing with knife. Roll out dough on floured board, cover with canned applesauce and roll dough like jelly roll. Steam one hour and twenty minutes in covered vessel. Serve with vanilla sauce.

FACTS OF HISTORY
GET ODDLY MIXED

People Seem to Want Them Made to Order.

It is a curious thing that the people will have history as they want to have it regardless of what really happened. This singular retrospection over actual events extends even to the lives and deaths of persons. A case in point is the assumption, found in virtually all the papers, in connection with the sad death of the President's son, that during the incumbency of the Presidency Lincoln lost his boy, whose nickname was "Tad," says the Boston Transcript.

This is not at all the case. "Tad" was the familiar name of the President's son, Thomas, who died, at the age of eighteen, some years after his father's death and, of course, after the family had left Washington. The President's son who died during his term of office was Willie (William Wallace), whose death, at the age of twelve, in February, 1862, brought a pang of sorrow to the nation. Nor is it true, as one paper asserts in order to explain this confusion, that it was Willie Lincoln who was properly called by the nickname "Tad." This was the familiar name of the boy Thomas always.

Not infrequently after his brother Willie's death "Tad" Lincoln accompanied his father in his appearances in public places. He was a familiar figure, but his death, after the family's removal, did not attract the poignant attention that Willie's death did, coming, as that previous blow did, during the severest stress and strain of the early period of the Civil war.

All this is made clear in the biographies of Lincoln, and it is a part of the recollection of many of those now living whose memory covers the days of the Civil war, but the notion that "Lincoln's Tad" died during his father's term of office is so firmly fixed that some even of those who were alive in the early '60s entertain it.

If there is a remedy or a correction for this particular error perhaps it lies in teaching the true names of Lincoln's sons, and the reasons for them, so that they will get these boys differentiated.

Lincoln's eldest son, Robert Todd, now living and distinguished (people sometimes forget that, too), was named after his mother's father, Robert S. Todd, an influential Kentuckian. The second, Edward Baker, who died in infancy, was named for a friend. The next, William Wallace, was named after Gen. William Wallace, a friend of Lincoln's in Illinois. Thomas ("Tad"), the youngest, bore the name of Lincoln's father.

Locates the Pain

Vagrant aches and pains which often afflict the stomach and are hard to identify may now be accurately located and classified by an instrument resembling a miniature seismograph, the device with which earthquake tremors are recorded. The pain finder, devised by Dr. W. C. Alvarez of the University of California, is said to register the course of such ills in almost any part of the abdomen and to clearly reveal every step of the digestive processes. By the recorder, the passage of food through the digestive tract can be closely followed, and the exact spot and instant of the setting up of any trouble definitely learned in a few minutes. The instrument, called the multiple-electro-enterograph, is said to obtain its data by means of a pendulum swung in a vacuum tube and marks its records with a needle.—Popular Mechanics.

Braille Bibles Homemade

In three schools for the blind maintained by Near East relief, there are no complete Braille Bibles, although each of the schools has a more or less complete New Testament in the Braille of the native tongue. Most of the Braille books used in these schools have been punched out by hand by the students and teachers, Greek and Arabic being the languages used. A Braille version of parts of the Book of John made in a blind school at Athens was recently on exhibition at the Near East relief headquarters in Greece. Owing to lack of suitable material for the purpose the students had made the book out of pages secured by carefully cutting the front and back cardboard from boxes of American breakfast food. This cardboard made an ideal material for punching out the Braille letters, and similar books covering a wide range of subjects are constantly used in the schools in Athens.

Narrow Escape

Friends of Child Hassan like to tell of the time when he just barely escaped being taken for an artist. It seems that Hassan, in need of a shave, went into a barber shop in a little town in Mathe not far from a famous artist colony. "Hair-cut?" asked the enterprising barber. "Yes, if you think it needs it," said Hassan; "I guess you better trim it off a little." "Sure thing," said the barber. "You know, you don't want to be taken for one of them artist fellows."

Fisherman's Odd Bait

"While fishing off Fire Island with a party of men, women and children," says John J. Halloran of Fishing, L. I., "I ran out of bait. I borrowed a gundrop from a child for bait. A few minutes later I pulled in a three-pound fish."

COTTON THIEVES MADE THEIR APPEARANCE THIS WEEK
Cotton thieves made their appearance a little early this season, one farmer reported last week that he lost his first day's picking, about 1200 pounds, scales and some cotton sacks. The pesky pilferers drove a truck or a car up to his place, loaded it on and skipped without leaving any address. A great deal of cotton was stolen in this country last year and the farmers should be on the lookout for a return visit of these thieves.—O'Donnell Index.

Government Using Chevrolet Patrol Cars

Smugglers and undesirable immigrants attempting to cross the border between the United States and Mexico will face a still more efficient barrier with the announcement that the government has purchased four Chevrolet touring cars for its immigration patrol squadron. "Modern law evaders use automobiles and not horses" said D. P. Gay, Jr., border patrol chief, at Brownsville, Texas, where the United States Immigration Service purchased four Chevrolets.

"With smugglers using cars to transport their contraband and aliens endeavoring to speed by our inspectors in fast automobiles, we decided to speed up our organization with more cars. We must be equally as well mounted as our adversaries."

Illegal entrance to this country has naturally been sought by the smugglers at the most inaccessible points to the border, remote from well-traveled roads at spots where automobiles are subjected to the most severe tests in deep sand and gullies. Government inspectors found their transportation needs demanded a car of rugged construction, free from necessity of frequent repairs, and with ample cooling facilities to withstand the torrid heat.

The Chevrolets were purchased in open competitive bidding. In the official specifications it was detailed "the cars are for scouting work, will be required to run on an average of from 1200 to 1500 miles per month on both smooth and rough as well as rocky roads and through mud and sand country of mesquite vegetation." Supervision of the border is exercised from the headquarters of the immigration service at Brownsville for hundreds of miles along the Rio Grande river.

SEMINOLE, TEXAS NOT TOWN WANTED BY LADY

The peaceful little village of Seminole, capitol of Gaines County, Texas, proved to be the wrong place entirely yesterday when one Miss L. E. Q. Moody, from somewhere? hit Seagraves enroute to that place.

It happened to fall on our fellow townsman and realtor, Charley Richards, who is ever obliging and courteous to convey Miss Moody by automobile to her supposed destination. Upon their arrival, Mr. Richards was informed that she was wanting to go to Seminole, Okla.—just a slight error on her part.

She was returned here and spent last night in room 13, Hotel Simpson catching the early morning train out for her intended destination, Seminole Okla. Thanks, to Mr. Richards, some 225 pounds worth—Seagraves Signal.

Canadian—The cotton industry, which was started in this section last year, is rapidly and the crop promises to be among the best comparison with older cotton regions. The wheat crop in this section is especially good also this season, and nearly 400 cars of this grain have been shipped from Hemphill County already.

TAHOKA LOSES TO FLOYDADA

Score 20 to 0 in First Football Game of Year; Played At S. P. Fair

Outweighed several pounds to the man, Tahoka went down in defeat before Floydada in the first game of the season, played at the South Plains Fair in Lubbock Wednesday afternoon, by a score of 20 to 0. However, the game was much tighter than the score might indicate. A large crowd, a number of whom were Tahoka people and members of the Tahoka band, witnessed the game.

Floydada's first score was a safety, counting 2 points and came as the result of a bad pass made by Tahoka. The opponents scored again in the second quarter and again in the fourth as the result of a blocked punt when a pass was made.

Hackney was the star player on Tahoka's team. He ran 60 yards from kick-off on one instance, and on another tackled a Floydada man on the 1-foot line and prevented another touchdown in the last three minutes of play.

The referee complimented the Tahoka boys on their game. He praised their defense work.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES IN NEW CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

There will be services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and night conducted by Rev. W. K. Johnston of Lubbock in their new church. Let us have a full turn out of our members and friends. As the fall season challenges the fullest endeavor so may it be in the Lord's work.

At the meeting at Van Horn the 15th, we missed getting the spring meeting of the El Paso Presbytery at Tahoka by six votes. Next "run-off" we will get it. All good things are worth trying for. We grow by hard work and faith in our future.

Any new families moving into Tahoka, we shall be glad to have you with us always on first Sunday and we shall be glad to have you make your church home with us. Meet with us in the new church next Sunday. W. K. Johnston, Pastor.

Library Contains Indian History

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 29—A consistent account of the historical Indian tribes of Texas which at present the world knows very little about can be written from material in the Garcia Library of the University of Texas, according to authorities in the department of anthropology. In that collection and in the copies of the church and state archives from Mexico are a great many accounts of early Texas Indian tribes yet to be translated into English, it is said.

If you know little about the Parent-Teacher Club, attend its meeting in the school auditorium next Tuesday afternoon and learn.

Owing to the bad weather this week the Presbyterian missionary society did not have their usual lesson.

Mrs. Otho Thomas underwent an operation at Lubbock this week on her throat. Mrs. Thomas is at home and doing nicely.

Vernon—Plans have been made here to open war on coyotes, prairie dogs and rodents of Wilbarger county late this fall. A L. Coleman of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture has announced his intention of returning to this section to kill the pests and to distribute poison for their extermination.

W. M. S. Studies Moslem Women

The Women's Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at the parsonage for their regular study lesson, sixteen members being present.

Mrs. Eldridge as teacher very ably conducted the lesson on The Development of the Moslem Women. This is the third chapter of the study on treatment of the women under the religion of Mohammed. With the opening of the chapter a list on the differences between the Moslem women and the Christian women was read and discussed by the different members of the society, we realizing how fortunate we are to live in a Christian land. Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Fenton gave very interesting talks on The Progress Made in Turkey, in India and Persia, and Reforms in General, respectively.

W. L. GARDENHIRE INJURED IN VERY PECULIAR ACCIDENT

While heading mail last Saturday W. L. Gardenhire happened to a peculiar accident. His team became frightened and started to run away and in his haste to climb into the wagon and stop the horses he dropped his pocket knife. Failing to find the knife he went on with his work and when unloading he felt a sharp pain in his left foot and upon examination found that he had stepped on the knife and it had penetrated the foot through the sole of his shoe. The knife made a deep and painful wound and since then he has been on the shelf so far as work is concerned.—O'Donnell Index.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wells returned Wednesday from Lubbock, where their 3-months old infant had undergone an operation in a sanitarium.

PLENTY OF COTTON PICKERS EN ROUTE SAYS WOODMAN

The farmers of Lubbock and surrounding territory should not worry about cotton pickers, according to C. W. Woodman, of Fort Worth assistant director of the United States employment Bureau of the state, in a letter to W. R. Roach, special agent here yesterday. Woodman stated that the pickers were being released farther south and it would only be a matter of time until they will be here.

IT DRIVES OUT WORMS

The surest sign of worms in children is paleness, lack of interest in play, fretfulness, variable appetite, picking at the nose and sudden starting in sleep. When these symptoms appear it is time to give White's Cream Vermifuge. A few doses drives out the worms and puts the little one on the road to health again. White's Cream Vermifuge has a record of fifty years of successful use. Price 35c. Sold by THOMAS BROS. DRUG CO.

State Press of The Dallas News, returning home from a tour of the New England States, reports that he traveled through twenty-two States, making stops at the larger cities, and did not see an intoxicated man or woman. This well-known writer thinks that this is irrefutable argument in favor of the dries. We hear a great deal about bootleg liquor and bootleg drunks, but the proof is lacking when it comes to making a comparison with the wet age.—Ballinger Ledger.

It is an irrefutable argument, but S. P. has something else along that line to add to what he first said. Not only did he fail to see a single drunk in twenty-two States and a dozen large cities outside of Texas, but he hasn't seen a drunk in Texas for months. Recently he attended a thronged celebration in a Texas town of twenty thousand people. It was estimated that an additional twenty thousand visitors were present. The event lasted all day and half the night, with an overlap into the second day. There were present men and women from farms, ranches, villages, cities. There were seven hundred soldiers encamped, and three or four hundred sailors on ships at the wharf. There were signs of prosperity on all who were present. There were public men—call them politicians if you will—by the dozens. There were merchants, lawyers, doctors, bankers and journalists. And not a solitary drunk! Doubtless there was a little liquor to be had in some of the hotels. But nothing approaching drunkenness Corpus Christi was the place last week the time. Contrasts this condition with conditions which hose with twenty-year memories can recall. Contrast it and still say with a straight face, that prohibition is a failure—State Press in Dallas News.

The evidence that prohibition has been a magnificent success are to be found everywhere in this country every day. To cite another striking example: Judge C. H. Cain publicly stated that during the two or three days that he was in attendance upon the Democratic convention in San Antonio recently, he did not see a single drunk man in or about the convention. Try to imagine a state Democratic convention in San Antonio twenty-five years ago without a drunk. Many a good Democrat back in those days felt that he had been woefully derelict of his duty as a loyal Democrat if he attended a state Democratic convention without

CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH II.
TO REPEAT CLASSIC ESCAPE

Francis Gow-Smith's Radio Tames Murderous Natives

INTO a tropical jungle of Brazil from which few white men have escaped alive, a modern Captain John Smith is about to venture. He is placing his faith upon modern science to soothe the savage breast, as did Smith, with his magnetic compass, some two hundred years ago. A powerful electric flashlight and a sensitive radio receiving set are the means by which the intrepid American explorer hopes to divert the murderous intentions of the cruel Chervantes Indians, who inhabit the River of Death Region, just south of the Amazon basin.

"There is a legend in Brazil," according to Francis Gow-Smith, who dares to risk his life upon so thin a thread, "that no white man has ever returned from an exploration trip up the Rio das Mortes, and from that fatal connotation the waterway derives its name, the River of Death."

The hostile Chervantes Indians, who sink through the heavy tropical foliage of the River of Death territory, acquired their hatred of the white man hundreds of years ago while the Spaniards held them under an iron rule. For years treasure ships of booty, laden with gold and jewels rewarded the Spanish conquerors. But a well organized revolt of the Chervantes resulted in the death of every last invading Spaniard and to this day they have successfully resisted the advance of civilization.

Few Escape Poison Arrows

A few years ago three hardy Brazilians ventured into the Chervantes territory. Two of them were slain. The third escaped because the Indians thought that his eyeglasses denoted supernatural powers. They adopted him as a medicine man and gave him a native wife. But these signal honors held him only until the first opportunity to escape offered itself. Another explorer, a German, escaped from the River of Death country with the aid of a violin, substituting the old adage, music soothes the savage breast. Another explorer enchanted these murderous natives by means of his binoculars. But these are the only cases of successful penetration of the Chervantes territory.

Francis Gow-Smith was the next to expose himself to the poisoned arrows of the slinking Indians. For five days with a hastily collected crew of timid but friendly Carajas he worked his way up the Rio das Mortes.

Gow-Smith's "Vest Venture"

"The scene was an endless paradise of peace and flaming beauty. The banks were walled with forests and draped with the gorgeous colors of flowing vines. Over the silver sheet of the water flashed in a kaleidoscope of amazing color the wings of parrots and strange butterflies. Solemnly on the rocks along the shore stood countless long-billed birds, flaunting their plumage in pastel shades of red, green, purple and blue. Other fowl, the graceful jaguars, lay daintily draped on branches over the stream where shoals of fish, feeding on floating petals, were so thick that a swift paw could scoop up a mouthful at will," wrote Smith in a recent issue of World's Work. "All was enchanting peace. Yet I could almost feel the unseen eyes of the Chervantes watching our every move from among the trees. And a column of signal smoke, rising now and again above the forest roof, revealed that our progress was being reported to natives higher up."

On the sixth day this languid peace was interrupted by the vicious swishing of poisoned arrows. Instantly a babble of hysterical cries from Smith's terrified Carajas. In a moment the canoe was headed down stream in a panic stricken flight. So ended Smith's first expedition.

But the march of civilization is not easily turned back. Smith is once more bound to the darkest corner of the earth. This time he will be equipped to face the poisoned arrows of war, his weapons are implements of flashlights and a radio receiving set. By shooting a beam of white light five hundred feet into the well nigh impenetrable jungle he expects to win the respect of the Chervantes Indians. With a power that seems supernatural, he will gather music from the skies in order to divert their attention. Like the famous Captain John Smith of Colonial days, his modern namesake will stake his life upon the effectiveness of science in curbing the natural desire of the savage to practice with the tomahawk and poison arrow upon the susceptible anatomy of the white man.

New Type of Batteries Used

Smith's life depends upon the successful functioning of his radio equipment and his flashlights on his present trip. He will not only paddle up the River of Death but will visit the strongholds of the Chervantes in order to make their acquaintance. Smith has taken with him a goodly stock of reserve flashlight cells and "B" batteries of a size and quality which will give him well over a year's service.

It is interesting to observe that a year ago "B" batteries had not been developed which would give with any degree of certainty a full year's service. New and modern methods of "B" battery construction however have so improved the quality and life of "B" batteries that a year's power supply is now assured him. The elements of a radio receiving set are subject only to mechanical wear. Unless accident occurs, therefore, Smith can call upon radio music to soothe the savage Chervantes should they become irredeemably inclined.

getting drunk. Prohibition has wrought a wonderful change.

One hundred and thirty thousand people crowded into the stadium at the Sesquicentennial last Thursday night to see one man beat up another. They didn't know which one was going to do most of the beating but they felt sure that one or the other would be knocked out. Dempsey, the big champion for several years, proved to be no match for his young antagonist Gene Tunney who whipped him all over the ring and the world now has a new hero. Most folks like a fight. That is probably the reason why the fighting politician always has his following of worshippers no matter how crooked he may be. Whether it be pugilistic ring or the political ring, people admire the fellow who can slug 'em the hardest.

"Beg the farmers to sow wheat," a business man said to us Tuesday. We learned a long time ago that farmers pay very little attention to advice given by an editor on farming. Our begging them to sow anything would probably be just as useless. We are sure, however, that many farmers have decided that it would be a good idea to mix a little wheat along with their cotton. Cotton alone will ruin any country, we have often been told. Not every year is favorable to wheat production and wheat is possibly not as sure a crop in Lynn county as cotton is. There are years, however, when it can be produced in abundance. With the ground thoroughly soaked now, it would seem to be a propitious time to sow wheat. It occurs to us that wheat ought to be as easily raised here as in Crosby county, for instance, where the rainfall and the soil are about the same as in Lynn county. Crosby county raises some wheat nearly every year and much wheat some years. We hope that many of our farmers will sow some wheat this fall.

THE LAWYER'S DUTY TO HIS CLIENT

"The Lawyer's Duty to His Client," seems to be a favorite topic for editorial writers as well as the laymen who give their opinion in letters to the press. In as much as Farm and Ranch has led in the campaign for court reform and has expressed its opinion regarding lawyers of a certain class, it is not out of place to comment upon the subject which seems to be so popular. Farm and Ranch holds that the lawyer's first duty is to his country and to his State. His responsibilities in the matter of good citizenship are no less than those of the judge upon the bench. As a licensed lawyer and an officer of the court it is his sworn duty to protect and uphold the Constitution and all the laws of the land, and when he has done that his next duty is to see that his client is fully protected under the law that every right granted him by it is preserved.

Within the meaning of the law, the lawyer's duty to his client does not obligate him or even encourage him to secure victory either in criminal or civil cases by the exercise of unfair tactics. It is not the duty of established for the purpose of interpreting the law and to enforce obedience to it, and to insure justice to all alike. Lawyers are not licensed for the purpose of defeating the law, but to assist in unraveling some of the tangles some of us get into. The practice, however has grown up which leads to contrary results. Lawyers have assumed that they are a privileged class. Some of them will employ every trick and every device within their knowledge to win a victory, right or wrong.

It is true that every man, in the eyes of the law, is supposed to be innocent until he has been proved guilty, and that every man is entitled to counsel. Even a criminal who never has recognized the rights of others is entitled to have his own preserved. That does not mean, however that his lawyer is justfied in discovering some loop hole in order to secure his freedom.

When a lawyer secures an acquittal of a known criminal or wins a victory in a civil case by successfully hiding out evidence or by improperly influencing a jury, he fails to abide by the oath sworn to when he accepted his license. The man who receives stolen goods or provides a criminal with saws to cut his way out of jail is no more guilty of crime than some lawyers who assist in securing the freedom of criminals, the guilt of which was well known to them when they took the case—Farm and Ranch

Some who are in a position to know assert that the rain this week will help the staple of the cotton. The theory is that the cotton was so dry that the lint was being badly cut by the gin saws, making the staple bad. They say that this rain will make the fiber tougher and less brittle and that the lint will be injured less in the ginning process. Hence they argue that the rain will greatly improve the staple. There may be something in this argument.

In spite of sandstorms and drought and grasshoppers and wet weather and worms and early freezes and other misfortunes that beset the farmers of the plains, this is one of the greatest cotton farming sections of Texas. Watch Lynn county make 40,000 to 50,000 bales of cotton this year. Now, if the market will pick up just a bit we will all be sitting on top of the world, thank you.

The downward trend of the price of cotton has made some of us feel a bit blue. But why worry? Just think how good you will feel when the price starts back up again.

With this fine fall season in the ground and cotton going down every day, many south plains farmers are expected to sow some wheat this fall. Why not?

The men are not barred from membership in the Parent Teachers Club. In fact there are quite a number of male members already. The women are wondering how more men may be interested in this fine work.

SYSTEM CHOKED
Texas Was Helped by Use of Black-Draught.
Mr. James W. Burnett, who lives on Rural Route No. 4, Whitney, Texas is a great believer in Theford's Black-Draught for the relief of such common ills as indigestion and constipation. He writes: "Since I first found out about Black-Draught, I have never been without it in the house. For several years, I had been a sufferer with indigestion. Occasionally, my system would become thoroughly choked with poison, and I would have a real sick spell. Now I ward them off by being forehanded, and taking Black-Draught before they come, instead of after. "We all use Black-Draught in our home, for constipation and indigestion."

TERRY'S FIRST OIL WELL SPUDDED IN MONDAY

Well No. 1 on the M. V. Brownfield ranch, about nine miles east and two miles south of Brownfield, was spudded in Monday, we understand. It was to have been spudded in Sunday, but for some cause the drillers were hardly ready for spudding in but said they would have everything in shape for spudding in Monday.
In the meantime a new location several miles nearer town has been decided on, as the owners have two standard rigs, a derrick will be built at once, and as soon as it is completed well No. 2 will be spudded in. Mr. Brownfield informed the writer that the company putting down the wells on his ranch have good rigs, and that he expected the work of drilling to go forward with little delay.
The geologists and drillers alike are of the opinion that pay sand will be struck in the neighborhood of 2500 feet, but they are prepared to go much deeper if necessary, 3500 feet we are told.
The people of this section are watching anxiously the first real tests to be made in this section, and in view of the fact that every geologist who has examined this section say it is underlain with a good oil strata, they will be badly disappointed if these wells are dusters. Another thing that keeps the citizens on edge is the fact that oil scouts who look the country over, are all ready and anxious to obtain leases even before any well was started—Terry County Herald.

THE PASSING OF THE WEST

There was a time when bovines played
Upon the bald, west Texas downs;
When snakes and other reptiles stayed
Where now are large and stately towns.
When bandits rode the hills and glades
And terrorized the countryside
With bold, outrageous escapades.
There's bandits now but they don't ride.)
When painted redmen had their way,
And called this land their native Soil.
Twas picturesque, as poets will say,
Until some guy discovered oil.
But all is changed. The ranches now
Have been divided into leases
The place where once sat Standing Cow
Is being drilled for gas and greases.

MIDWAY NEWS

We have to report no sickness this week except poor old man Enthusiama. He was very sick all last week. We can only hope that he will recover.
The cold wave last Saturday sent us into town in high and hitting on four after some of the canned energy that is so welcome on cold days and we spent the Sabbath sitting by a hot stove.
Some of the farmers harvested their beans only to have them rained on and, perhaps, ruined. First hauled out then wormed out and finally rain comes and spoils the rest of the stuff. Its the Lord's will though or it would not have been. We hope that it will all turn out for the best.
Everybody come to see us and bring your folks.

POLAR MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED

J. H. Mitchell of Polar was seriously injured in rather an unusual manner last Sunday. He was riding the running board of a friend's car, when a blowout occurred, throwing Mitchell from the running board into a barbed wire fence. The impact against the wire cut the young man's throat from ear to ear but fortunately did not sever the jugular artery. He received other cuts and lacerations. He was brought to Snyder Monday for treatment, and later reports stated that he would recover unless complications set up.—Scurry County Times.

101 PICKERS GATHER TEN BALES DAILY FOR MAC HAMILTON

M. C. Hamilton has been dubbed the wildest farmer on the South Plains, and he is wild, but in his wildness he seems to do the right thing at the right time. While other farmers were standing around talking about the best method of securing cotton pickers, Mr. Hamilton was down in South Texas wanking up the sleepy sons of the land of Poco Tempo and giving them a start toward his 2,100-acre cotton patch. The result is, Mr. Hamilton has 110 pickers that are able to pick ten bales a day. It cost him $1,000 to get them here and $1,700 to feed them until his cotton was ready for picking, but he has them and is losing no sleep over how he is going to get his cotton picked.
Three years ago Mr. Hamilton was not quite sure his next meal was coming, but his confidence in his ability made him feel sure that he would get it somewhere. Today he owns three sections of the finest farming land on the Southplains and he has 21,000 acres of cotton that promises to make him half a bale to the acre. In the meantime he has lived well, used up more fine automobiles than any man in Lynn county and if nothing worse than bad luck befalls him, he will be in the millionaire class in five years. He was born to do big things and he is doing them, that is why we call him wild—O'Donnell Index.

COURT IN SESSION; THREE CASES TRIED

On Wednesday morning came on for trial the case of The State of Texas vs. Frank Harrell. Harrell was charged with unlawfully and fraudulently receiving and concealing stolen property. His brother Roy Harrell is charged with the theft of a mule, and Frank was charged with having received it and concealed it after it was stolen. This case also originated in the Wilson community. The jury found the defendant guilty and assessed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary. The defendant in this case was represented by Judge G. E. Lockhart.

On this morning (Thursday) the case of The State of Texas vs. Sullivan Roberts was tried. He entered a plea of guilty and asked that the sentence be suspended. The jury found him guilty, assessed the punishment at five years in the penitentiary, and suspended sentence. Roberts was charged with burglary by breaking into the chicken house of S. A. Cummins residing near Wilson and stealing about fifty chickens. About 35 of the chickens were recovered from a poultry dealer at Post, to whom Roberts and his companion had sold the chickens. Roberts is a young man eighteen or twenty years old. He was represented by Judge Lockhart.

Immediately following the verdict of the jury in his case, the companion case was called The State of Texas vs. Travis Mathis. Mathis also entered a plea of guilty and asked for a suspension of the sentence. Just as we go to press we learn that the jury found the defendant guilty and assessed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary. Sentence not suspended.

There are a number of other criminal cases which are scheduled for trial at this term of the court.

District Attorney A. W. Gibson is being assisted in the prosecution of some of the cases by County Attorney L. C. Heath.

The grand jury is still in session, having more work seemingly than usual.

Last week was "divorce week" in the district court here. Four divorce cases were disposed of. That is not many, to be sure, but more than is usual for a Lynn county court. There was no contest in any of these cases. A few other non-jury cases were also disposed of last week. The record is as follows:

Alms Plant vs. Walter Plant, divorce granted.

W. A. McCarty vs. Mary McCarty, divorce granted.

J. V. Early vs. Maurice Early, divorce granted.

First State Bank of O'Donnell vs. Citizens Insur. Co., suit on insurance policy, judgment for plaintiff.

W. J. Lng vs. Mrs. Ettie Wicliffe, suit to clear title to land and for possession, judgment for plaintiff.

J. R. McAtee vs. New Home Ind. School Dist, suit for rescission of contract for purchase of lots Settled and dismissed.

J. E. Ketter vs. Ethel Rhodes et al, suit on notes and for foreclosure of lien on land, judgment for plaintiff.

Security State Bank vs. J. C. Young et al, suit on note and for foreclosure of chattel mortgage, judgment for plaintiff.

The Grand Jury remained in session practically all the week last week and as a result of their investigations they turned into court seven indictments charging felony offenses. The defendants have been placed under arrest some of them have made bond. Others are in jail, awaiting trial. The following is a list of the indictments presented:

State of Texas vs. Lloyd Dawson, charged with rape.

State of Texas vs. Eddie Stell, charge with rape.

State of Texas vs. Joe Grigsby, violation of liquor law.

State of Texas vs. Joe Grigsby, violation of liquor law.

State of Texas vs. Sullivan Roberts burglary.

State of Texas vs. Travis Mathis, burglary.

Varying Behavior of Animals on Shipboard

To be in charge of animals on a sea voyage is sometimes a perilous as well as an unpleasant task. For, unlike human beings who, on the approach of sea-sickness, evince a dismal desire to die, dumb creatures often display a violent desire to live.

A rough night on a boat carrying a cargo of cattle can provide many thrills, and, unhappily, a number of horrors.

It is fortunate, however, that while cattle are the most usual live stock carried by sea, they are also the most heroic of all creatures in a storm, showing a stoical determination to conquer the devastating powers of sickness.

Some animals do not feel the effects of a journey by sea in the same way as others, and while some are ill during the whole of the trip, others quickly become used to their new home, and flourish.

The worst sailor of all is said to be the tiger, while the only one that can be described as being really comfortable on board ship is the polar bear.

Horses are great sufferers at sea, as every cavalryman knows, and they frequently die from the effects of sea-sickness.

Birds, reptiles, monkeys and other small animals suffer in varying degrees, but, in comparison with the bigger creatures, they are much better sailors. Thousands of these little travelers are brought to our shores each year, and on an average the casualties are fairly small.

Sometimes, of course, scores of birds will die off in the early stages of a voyage, but that is not always actually caused by sea-sickness. More often it is a disease that is spread among them by one infected member of the batch; or it may be a complaint brought on by being confined in necessarily close quarters.

When once a disease is established in a cargo of birds, numbering hundreds or perhaps thousands, there is little hope of many being landed alive.

He Wasn't Interested

Lincoln Springfield, whose career of more than forty years in Fleet street has admirably fitted him to write his reminiscences thereof, relates a story of a reporter named Jewell, gifted with a brilliant descriptive pen, but sadly lacking in knowledge of the value of news:

"Down at Blackwall, at the Thames iron works, H. M. S. Ablon was to be launched one June afternoon by the duchess of York (the present queen); and this occurred to me to be just the kind of function that Jewell would do prettily and gracefully.

"Sure enough, Jewell wrote a brilliant description of the scene—the nearest thing to a Turner sunset that you could get in manuscript. I was on the point of sending it up to the compositor, and was glowing with pleasure over my judgment in having selected Jewell for the job, when a messenger placed on my desk a report from the tape machine, announcing that 30 people had been drowned at the launching. As the ship took the water, the displacement had submerged a staging where masses of spectators were assembled. Several hundred of them were thrown into the water, and more than 30 of them could not be rescued.

"There had not, in Jewell's masterpiece of scenic effect, been a hint of any disaster, of anything at all untoward.

"I demanded an explanation from Jewell. Hadn't he seen anything of the catastrophe?"

"Well," replied the languid Jewell, "I did see some people bobbing about in the water, as I came away, but—"

English Bibles in East

A great many English Bibles have found their way to the foreign depots of the Near East relief organization frequently gifts of individuals in America. In many cases an American church member contributing an old clock or suit to the annual Bungle day campaign, has tucked a Bible or an English Testament into one of the pockets, forgetting that very few of the refugees are able to read even a single word of English. These Bibles are carefully sorted out and are distributed to the teachers or to students in English classes for use as text books.

Gentle Hint

Hiram Snickleby, a New Jersey horse dealer, sold a horse to an ex-pressman who, however, returned it a day or two with the statement that he was not exactly satisfied with his deal. He was asked the reason for his dissatisfaction.

"There's only one thing I don't like about this mare," he said. "She won't hold her head up."

"Oh, that's only her silly pride," exclaimed Hiram. "She will when she's fully paid for."

Greatest Artificial Lake

What will be the largest artificial lake in the world is being built in a remote section of Alabama to assure a constant flow of water for driving three large electric generators. These will feed power into the electrical transmission system of the state. The lake will have a shore line 700 miles long and will cover 40,000 acres of farm and forest land.—Popular Science Monthly.

What It Sounded Like

Suitor—I called to—er—talk to you about—er—your daughter's hand.
Father—James, tell Miss Dorothy the manure has arrived.

O'DONNELL MAY HAVE OIL DEVELOPMENT SOON

There is a probability that the Pan American Oil Company will take 10,000 acres for oil development purposes in the vicinity of O'Donnell soon. A representative of that company was here last week and went over the territory blocked by H. C. Frost, C. J. Beach and Ben T. Brown and was so favorably impressed with the surface showings that he offered a proposition to Mr. Brown, who holds the leases in escrow. A meeting of the land owners was held at Fairview school Monday night and the proposition was submitted and to a man, they agreed to the proposition offered by the Pan-American, representative. This calls for a 4,000-foot well, work to start as soon as the abstracts could be worked up and approved by the company's attorney. The land owners are to receive $2 per acre cash.

The land coming in the acreage lies about six miles west of O'Donnell and the surface showings for oil and gas makes it a valuable prize for the company. Several companies have been negotiating for the acreage, but the Pan-American proposition was the only one that the owners of the land would accept. Should the deal go through it will mean the immediate distribution of $20,000 among the farmers who have land in the lease, besides considerable money will be put in circulation through the active drilling campaign contemplated by the company.

The country to the west of town is the lid to a big oil pool and only needs puncturing to bring the liquid gold to the surface is the opinion of geologists who have been over the structures. Oil has been encountered in a number of shallow water wells and it is even oozing out of the ground in certain localities. It was through surface showings of oil that the Pan-American became interested in that section. While here this summer Col. W. D. Hornady, Publicity Director of the University of Texas, secured samples of oil impregnated sand from the E. D. Yeatts farm and submitted them to the Pan-American. The result was that a scout was sent here at once to look over the acreage. Mr. Hornady owns land in the acreage block.

Messrs. Frost Beach and Brown are to be congratulated upon their unselfish efforts in securing this acreage and placing it with a strong company. They have spent much time and considerable money in trying to help the land owners get development.—O'Donnell Index.

WET MARYLAND VOTES DRY

Considering the results of the republican sectional primary in the state of Maryland.

Maryland is one of the "wet" states; that is, the anti-prohibitionists have long led us to believe and next to New Jersey, it was the wettest of all—in sentiment, at least.

The king-bee of the "wets" in the house of representatives at Washington is John Philip Hill. Every time he rose to speak, which was frequently, he said something about prohibition in anything but a complimentary tone. He is regarded as the leader of the wet bloc in the lower house, as Senator Bruce of Maryland is a wet leader in the upper.

What more natural than that John Philip Hill should consider the time ripe for a shot at the senatorship? To think was to act for the gallant Baltimorean.

His opponent was the incumbent, Senator Weller. As senators go, Mr. Weller isn't specially well known. He hasn't set the weds afire in the senate, by any means. The most remarkable fact about his political career is that he is a "dry." That fact probably aided the "wet" Hill in reaching his decision. It ought to be easy for a wet to defeat a dry in the supposedly wet state of Maryland.

The balloting is over now, with results that must be a painful surprise to Mr. Hill and his wet friends. Senator Weller won the nomination with a comfortable margin to spare. This in "Wet" Maryland, with the "wet" Hill as opponent!—Abilene Morning News.

Rising Star—Work on the Brown-wood-Rising Star state highway is making good progress. The right of way, which will go through fields will be delayed until crops are gathered. Three crews are at work on this project at present.

The giant arena in the centre of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition site in Philadelphia was built in approximately 300 working days. It was completed and in use a month before the opening of the big exposition which celebrates the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. This photograph, made from the air, shows nearly 3,000 boys on the playing field, massed there for the dedicatory exercises on May 1 which formally opened the structure. In the stands are seated 10,000 persons watching the program. A group of 10,000 persons in a large crowd but they are only a "drop in the bucket" in the big Philadelphia stadium. The boys paraded onto the field to the accompaniment of fourteen bands and there went through their drills and athletic exercises for the benefit of city officials and parents.

Secretary,

Her Prophecy Came True

Uncle Henry Jones had died very suddenly and a distant relative of the relict was offering her condolences. Finally the lady got around to the point where she felt she could decently ask a burning question. "Leave?" snorted the widow. He left the barn only half painted just as I told him he'd do!"

Littlefield—President Arthur P. Duggan and Manager Homer D. Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have just completed a tour of the Hill Country district of the Chamber of Commerce territory. The first speech of the tour, made by President Duggan at Eastland, opened the campaign in that section for the equalization of taxes in Texas.

DRAW NEWS

The bad weather has checked all field work the past three days. We are hoping we shall soon have some sunshine so the farmers may get back to gathering.

L. D. Jackson and wife lost their eight months old baby by death last Thursday. The baby had been sick several months. Brothers Hart and Hicks of O'Donnell conducted the funeral services. The bereaved have our sympathy.

The Draw teacherage sold at Auction September 27. Mr. Belton Howell of Tahoka bought it. The school board intends to build another out of a part of the old school house.

If the weather doesn't hurry and turn warm the coal dealers will soon have several customers, as a good many have put up their heating stoves like it was winter time.

D. A. Kirkland's little girl has returned home from Lubbock, where she was in a sanitarium for several days.

Mrs. V. H. Hancock is visiting in Tahoka at present.

Mr and Mrs. I. H. Parks visited their daughter at O'Donnell, Mrs. N. T. Singleton, last week. Mrs. Singleton's baby has been real sick.

Billie Porterfield and brother, also X L. Sherrill, have returned home from the east, where they have been at work.

Marvin Eldridge and C. C. Jackson were Lubbock visitors last week.

Delman and Floyd Jackson returned from Wilson Monday.

Feeding The Children

THE "old woman who lived in a shoe" had no monopoly on the "realistic problems" connected with large families. There are plenty of women today, both old and young, who have so many children they don't know what to do. Even with one child, and living in a much more commodious domicile than a shoe, a mother has worries enough.

But the modern mother has one advantage over the ancient shoe-dweller of Mother Goose fame. The feeding problem is solved for her by ready-to-serve foods. The well-read woman knows that she can rely upon canned foods, not only for convenience and economy, but for their highly nutritive qualities.

She buys canned corn for dinner because it is rich in sugar, starch and fat, which supply the body with heat and energy. She selects peas and stringless beans because of their protein and vitamin content. Canned spinach her children must have because, besides being rich in vitamins, it serves as a broom to sweep out the digestive tract. She orders plenty of canned tomatoes because they contain both fruit and vegetable acids, mineral salts and all the essential vitamins. Prepared spaghetti, blended with cheese and tomato sauce, and thus containing practically all the body-building elements, is included in her purchases. Baked beans and a variety of canned and fresh fruits she will also want.

It is not likely that children fed on these healthful foods will ever drive their mother to the extreme measures adopted by the old woman who lived in a shoe.

Early Day In Lynn C

By MRS. H. C. CRIE, Formerly Co-Editor of Lynn County News and old-timer in this section.

(Editor's Note: This article were a number of others, was ten before the fair was called with the expectation that great occasion would take place had been advertised for months. And, though it is not as appropriate as it would have been if it were of intense interest those interested in the early in Lynn County.)

This is Fair week! What robbed the magic lamp and made possible?

In the days when Tahoka bunch of huddled shacks, ever along the road of improvement hailed with delight. We have looking backward through columns of the Lynn County and the spirit of the County was alive when Tahoka and county were in their infancy. News office served as a corner fair. Mr. Cade brought in a potato weighing 8 lbs. and weighing 23 inches round. It was on display and was the wonder of prospectors.

Mr. Carvender, who was master at Lynn brought a couple prize friers to join the big fair. They were on display for 3 days as proof positive that chickens could be grown in Lynn county. potato went to make Sunday for a bunch of hungry young and the chickens ended their in the soup kettle to feed a friend.

The first flowers we saw coming to Lynn county was a bunch of gorgeous Zinas raised presented by Mrs. Beeman lived east of town. They graciously office window as long as they be coaxed to keep fresh and the pride and admiration of town. Prospectors were brought to see that they could be as beautiful as the things of life.

Mr. Luttrell of Moore's brought in 3 pounds of the cotton raised in Lynn county ginned in Big Spring. It is a sheaf of maize heads contributed by J. H. Conway, one of the men and two 1st canteloupes raised by Jim Cowan south of town.

H. Wells informs the News, a good deal of pride, she has messes of Irish potatoes and have peas the next Sunday.

It almost makes us weep Judge Bartley drove home a black horse and a rubber tire.

Mr. and Mrs. Porterfield, and managers of the Cotton Hotel, bought vegetables everyone who had a little to do. The choicest of everything on display in the dining room for the edification of the public, as everybody was mental home seeker.

In 1905 the first barbecue staged and everybody from 80 miles came to see Lynn make her social bow as one of the youngest counties of the state. The barbecue partook very much of the nature of the fair. Even which was near enough matter of interest was brought about being the 4th of July, most thing was a promise rather than a surety. The arrangement was proud of the donation which amounted to $70 including beef and pork donated for over the pits. The ladies of Lynn and surrounding country as they always have more.

Cakes and pies and fancy of all kinds were compared with lavish praise given in prizes and blue ribbons. Mr. double-decker lemon pies were the best in the state by all.
