JUDGE MCGUIRE DIES SUDDENLY

District Judge Is Victim Of Heart Attack; Buried At Lamesa Sunday Afternoon

News of the sudden death of Judge Gordon B. McGuire of Lamesa, which occurred at his home shortly after six o'clock last Saturday afternoon, brought deep and genuine sorrow to thousands of his constituents and other friends throughout West Texas.

Death came as the result of a heart attack, no one being present when he suffered the fatal stroke. He had been seriously ill for two or three days and his wife, who was also ill, had been near him most of the time. She left him for a few minutes and when she returned to his bedside at 6:30 she found him dead. He had been in very ill health for more than a year and had suffered two or three severe attacks before the final one. Funeral services were conducted at Lamesa Sunday afternoon. Evidently on account of the very inclement weather, many people here did not learn of his death until too late to give to Lamesa to attend the funeral.

Judge McGuire had been judge of the 106th judicial district ever since its creation in 1925. He was first appointed to the position by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and had been repeatedly elected to the position since that time. Prior to his appointment to the bench, he served for several years as district attorney of the old 72nd judicial district, which then embraced all the counties now included in the 72nd and the 106th. He practiced law at Haskell many years before his removal to Lamesa in 1919.

As district attorney, Gordon B. McGuire gained the reputation of being an able but fair prosecutor. (Cont'd. on last page)

Jim Farley Pays Texas A Visit

Big genial Jim Farley was in Texas last week, and Texas gave him a royal welcome.

He came ostensibly to dedicate post offices at Waco and San Antonio.

But the trip doubtless had a much deeper purpose than this. Indeed it may have had a double purpose.

Jim Farley has political aspirations. There are those who say that his highest ambition is to be the next governor of New York. But the governorship of New York is frequently a stepping stone to the Presidency. During this visit to Texas, his name was frequently mentioned in connection with that high office. It may be that Big Jim came to deaden timber and lay the wires to capture the Texas delegation to the next Democratic convention. That is a long time off, but politicians look far into the future. Any way plenty of friends are never a liability, and there is no telling when one will need them. So, at any rate, Jim was here making friends and maybe selling himself to the people of Texas.

There are others who think that he came to help out with the Roosevelt court plan. Senator Connolly is openly fighting the scheme and the Texas Senate recently voted its disapproval by a vote of more than 20 to 3. In practically every speech that Farley made in the state, he touched on the President proposal, declaring that the President has the votes in both houses of Congress to win. Probably he figures that in helping the President he is likewise helping himself. There are many wires to be pulled in politics, and Jim Farley knows how to pull most of all of them. He may be a statesman, but there is no question but that he is an expert wire-pulling politician.

Mrs. W. J. West, residing nine miles north of Tahoka, was taken to Dallas by her daughter, Dr. Ann West, on last Saturday for treatment in Baylor Hospital. Word came back later that she was to undergo a most serious surgical operation Tuesday. No further report as to her condition has reached the News.

Will Start Farm Program Sign-up

The 1937 sign-up campaign for co-operation of farmers and ranchmen with the 1937 farm and soil conservation program will probably start within the next few days. County Agent V. F. Jones has informed The News. Sign-up days will be arranged for major communities of the county, for the convenience of farmers, except those living near Tahoka, who will be expected to come to the county agent's office to sign compliance papers.

Mr. Jones and Marshall Stewart, county committee chairman, will attend a meeting in Lubbock Tuesday of farm leaders, and signing up is expected to follow this meeting, which is for the purpose of acquainting farm leaders with the program.

Mrs. Barker Victim Of Sudden Death

Stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage, Mrs. Minnie Belle Barker died suddenly and unexpectedly Tuesday afternoon at her home here. She had recently been seriously ill while visiting in the home of a son in California but had recovered sufficiently to return to her home here, having arrived on Saturday, March 30. Since that time she apparently had been gaining strength and vigor until the fatal stroke came Tuesday. She lived only a few hours after being stricken.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist Church here at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Geo. A. Dale officiating. Burial was in the Tahoka Cemetery under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home.

Mrs. Barker had been a resident of Tahoka for more than 17 years, and in recent years she and her son Fred had lived alone in their home here. Fred has also been seriously sick, having undergone treatment in the West Texas Hospital and having returned to Tahoka about the same time as his mother's return. He was not entirely well at the time of her death.

Mrs. Barker was a native of Hill county, this state, having been born at Fort Graham on March 6, 1870. She was married to Estel Barker at Whitney in 1897, her husband dying 22 years ago, and she and the children removed to Lynn county in November, 1919. Surviving her are: Carl W. Rogers of San Diego, California, son of a former marriage, Fred Barker of this city, Mrs. W. A. Strickland of Munday, and Mrs. Eleanor Gist of Colorado. Two sisters also survive, Mrs. J. F. Wright of Morgan, and Mrs. J. T. Wade of Colorado.

Mrs. Barker had long been a member of the Baptist Church, having united with this church when about fifteen years of age. She was a noble Christian woman, a devoted mother, and a loyal friend. The News joins many friends in expressions of condolence to all the bereaved.

Callaways Return From Long Visit

Dr and Mrs. E. E. Callaway returned to their home here Monday after a few weeks visit, with relatives in Wichita Falls and a trip to McAllen in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Mrs. Callaway suffered a severe and prolonged attack of the flu while in Wichita Falls. When she had sufficiently recovered, she and the Doctor went to the Valley. They came home with Mrs. Callaway much improved but not entirely recovered from the effects of the disease.

The Doctor reports that the valley is very beautiful now. Cotton was up and corn knee-high when he left. Fruits and vegetables were flourishing. But he thinks prices obtained for fruits and vegetables are too low to make the raising of them very profitable.

Wash Hickerson of Three Lakes took his wife to Glen Rose Sunday for treatment. They were joined at Carlton by Mrs. J. B. Lowe, who went to Glen Rose to be with Mrs. Hickerson and to take a few treatments herself.

ELECTIONS ARE IN SPOT-LIGHT

Trustee And City Elections Will Be Held Saturday and Tuesday; More Names Filed

Two elections are scheduled in Tahoka within the next few days. Saturday is trustee election day and Tuesday is the date set for the City election.

The names of J. O. Tinsley, Frank Hill and N. M. Wyatt have been filed, in the order named, for trustees in the Tahoka Independent School District, two to be elected to succeed Alvin Hicks and Sam Holland, whose terms expire.

Elections will likewise be held in practically all the other school districts of the county.

In the City election Tuesday, interest is much more spirited, with contests for several places.

Deen Nowlin is unopposed for mayor. Likewise, is Judge C. H. Cain, whose name has been filed for city attorney.

Two aldermen are to be elected from the following four candidates: T. J. Bovell, A. J. Mullins, L. F. Craft, and H. B. Howell.

For city marshal, Jim Dye, Milt Finch, Homer Harrison, and L. E. (Lucien) Miller have announced. Mr. Miller entered the race late last week.

Louis B. Reed Is District Judge

News came over the wires from Austin late Monday afternoon that Governor James V. Allred had appointed County Attorney Louis B. Reed of Lamesa to fill the unexpired term of Judge Gordon B. McGuire, who died Saturday afternoon, as judge of the 106th judicial district. This district embraces the counties of Garza, Lynn, Terry, Yoakum, Gaines, and Dawson.

Mr. Reed has been county attorney of Dawson county the past three years. Prior to that time he was associated for a short time with Judge J. E. Garland in the practice of law, having removed to Lamesa from Clarksville in 1931. Judge Reed had served as county attorney of Red River county for two terms prior to his removal to the plains. He is a young man of attractive personality and is said to be a good lawyer.

The News joins many other friends of Judge Reed throughout the district in extending congratulations and wishing for him a most successful career on the bench.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wetzel and daughters Margaret and Baby Tot left Thursday for Arp, Smith county, to visit another daughter, Mrs. P. A. North. They also visited New London and saw the ruins of the school building that was destroyed by the gas explosion, but were unable to get into the church Sunday where the memorial services for the dead were held. The Wetzels report that they left East Texas in a heavy snow Monday morning.

J. A. Jaynes and daughter, Lillian, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jaynes visited Otis and Truman Jaynes at Albuquerque, New Mexico, over the week end. Truman has been in a hospital there for several months and Otis removed to Albuquerque a few months ago for his health. Both are showing steady improvement.

LYNN COUNTY IS THREATENED WITH LOSS OF HIGHWAY ACTIVITY BECAUSE CITIZENS ARE NOT FILLING IN CARDS

According to the latest available report from the Highway Planning Survey, 152 car owners of Lynn county have mailed the post cards which were handed to them at the time they paid their 1937 automobile license fees at the office of A. M. Cade, tax assessor and collector.

Since the number of cards thus far returned from this county are insufficient to give complete proof of the real needs of the county, every car owner should request one of these self-addressed, postage-free cards and should fill it in and mail it at once because information so collected, together with information compiled by other branches of the

Complete Farm Set-Up In County

Organization of Lynn county's 1937 farm "set-up" was completed last week at the first meeting of the newly-elected board of directors. These men, one elected from each of five districts of Lynn county, will direct the 1937 soil conservation program.

The board of directors is composed of the following men: Marshall Stewart, chairman, E. W. Holloway, vice-chairman, T. H. Basinger, P. O. Cabbiness, and J. R. Strain. County Agent V. F. Jones acts as secretary and Assistant Agent C. A. Lawrence as assistant secretary.

From the board of directors, the following three men have been selected to serve as members of the county board: Marshall Stewart, chairman, E. W. Holloway and J. R. Strain. W. D. Nevels was selected to serve as an alternate and advisor on all range problems, and John Bulman has been elected to serve as range inspector.

Contractor Ready To Complete No. 9

The Morgan Construction Company of Brady unloaded their rock crusher here Monday and have had it set up at Tahoka Lake preparatory to the placing of the topping on the unfinished eight-mile stretch of Highway No. 9 north of Tahoka. Men to supervise the work arrived also, and the work will probably have been begun before this paper reaches the readers.

A modified triple bituminous surface treatment, consisting of four applications of crushed rock and asphalt, will be given this stretch of highway, similar to the surfacing that has been done on the remainder of the highway through this county.

If favorable weather conditions prevail, it is estimated that the job may be completed in six weeks or two months.

Mad Dog Bites B. Shaw Children

Among the children bitten by a dog afflicted with rabies in Lubbock Monday were Jackie and Maurice Shaw, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Shaw and nephews of Clyde Shaw of Wilson and Mrs. Ott Patterson of this city.

They are being given the serum treatment to prevent the development of rabies in them, and it is believed that no serious consequences will result from the bites.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Kennedy and little daughter, Dorothy Dale, and George T. Dale, and their friend Miss Helen K. Clapp, all of Lubbock, were guests in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Geo. A. Dale last Sunday and attended Easter services here.

J. B. McPherson, who is recovering from his recent illness, was able to be down town a few minutes Wednesday. However, it will be some time before he is able to go back to work.

Group Attending Range Conference

Lynn county is represented at the Range Conservation Instruction School being held at Spur Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week by four Lynn county citizens.

The party is made up of County Agent V. F. Jones, Marshall Stewart, W. D. Nevels, and John Bulman.

Mrs. Beulah Shaw Died Saturday

Mrs. Beulah Shaw, 67, a resident of this section of the state for the past 30 years, died Saturday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Don Hatchett, in Slaton. She had been seriously ill of heart trouble since December 25, 1936. Funeral services were conducted in the Baptist Church there by the pastor, Rev. C. G. Sewell, assisted by other ministers, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and interment was in the cemetery here under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home of this city.

Deceased was the mother of Mrs. Ott Patterson of Tahoka. Other surviving children are: Cecil Shaw of Brownfield, Clyde Shaw of Wilson, Bryan Shaw of Lubbock, Mrs. Ed Milliken of Morgan, this county, and Mrs. Don Hatchett of Slaton. Also surviving are eight grand children and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Shaw was born at Weatherford October 12, 1869. She was married to James A. Shaw in Jack county October 17, 1887. The family moved to Lynn county in 1907, making their home in the Morgan community. Mr. Shaw died in 1910, and the remains were buried here. Mrs. Shaw continued to reside at the family home in the Morgan community until a few years ago, since which time she has been residing with the children.

Mrs. Shaw was a devoted Christian and had long been a faithful member of the Baptist Church. She was very highly esteemed by her neighbors and friends. The relatives have the sincere sympathy of many friends.

Out-of-town relatives attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Shaw and daughter Lorene and Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Shaw and baby of Groom, Mrs. Charles Odom of Plainview, Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson of Happy, Mrs. Annie Winstead of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Smith and son Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Ford Scott and son Gene Miller and Mrs. Alice Porter, all of Jackboro.

Tahoka Scouts Will Attend Camporall

Plans are being made by the local Boy Scouts and M. L. Penn, local Scoutmaster, to participate in the Camporall at Lamesa April 23 and 24. Approximately 250 Scouts and Leaders from the following towns will participate: Brownfield, Tahoka, Slaton, Post, O'Donnell, and Lamesa.

The Camporall will open with a Friday afternoon April 23 at 2 p. m. when the Scouts will make camp and prepare for inspection. Friday evening the Scouts will prepare their supper and participate in a huge campfire and Court of Honor program.

Throughout Saturday special contests in camping, Scoutcraft, and Scout projects will be conducted. The Camporall will be closed with the awarding of recognition to all troops qualifying for awards.

Little Miss Barbara Jean Henderson, who was carried to a sanitarium in Lubbock last week suffering from a severe case of measles was able to be brought home Sunday and is rapidly recovering. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Henderson.

Osa Gattis is visiting his mother at Cross Plains this week.

Much Interest And Large Crowds At Annual Contests Held Here Last Week

The Lynn County Interscholastic League Meet held here Friday and Saturday was attended by hundreds of people from over the county. Scores of events, both athletic and literary, were hotly contested and therefore afforded much interest to the crowds.

O'Donnell carried away the all-around championship of Lynn county in Class A high schools, New Home won the Class B honors, and Morgan is champion of the rural school division.

The meet was under the efficient direction of Supt. J. T. Carter of New Home, who has furnished us the following results of the various contests:

Class A High Schools
All-round championship: O'Donnell 154 points, Tahoka 132, Wilson 103.

Literary: Tahoka 74, O'Donnell 64, Wilson 57.
Athletic: O'Donnell 90, Tahoka 58, Wilson 46.

Class B High Schools
All-round championship: New Home 93 1/2, Draw-Redwine 45, Wells 18 1/2.

Literary: New Home 38 1/2, Draw-Redwine 25, Wells 10 1/2.
Athletic: New Home 55, Draw-Redwine 20, Wells 8.

Scout Training Course In April

A Scout Leaders Training Course is planned for Tahoka Scouters April 17 and 18. Approximately 10 to 15 men are expected to attend the week end camp which will be located somewhere between Tahoka and Brownfield. Special training will be given in camping, cooking, and Scoutcraft. The men will cook their meals and sleep in tents. M. L. Penn, Scoutmaster of the local troop, is to act as Patrol Leader for recruiting men to attend this course. Earl M. McClure, Scout Executive, will be in supervision of the course.

Few Local Employers Paying Compensation

Austin, March 31.—Contributions under the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act are being paid by 6 employers in Lynn County, Chairman-Director Orville S. Carpenter announced today.

Contributions from these employers will set up unemployment benefit accounts for 43 workers in Lynn County.

The Commission's activities in Lynn County are under the direction of District Fieldman E. E. Merriman who has headquarters in the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. All employers who have problems arising under the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act are requested to call on Merriman for assistance, Carpenter declared.

The Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission was established by an Act of the Texas Legislature, which was signed by Governor James V. Allred on October 27, 1936. In five months of operation the Commission has collected approximately $7,000,000 from 11,707 Texas employers. All money collected from employers will be used to establish benefit accounts for more than 600,000 workers, while all operating expenses of the Texas Commission are paid by the Federal Social Security Board, Carpenter pointed out.

The next payment to the Texas Commission will be due April 25th when Texas employers who are subject to the Act must pay a tax of one and eight-tenths per cent on their total payroll for the months of February and March, 1937.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Spanish War Bringing Italy, France and Great Britain Into Conflict—Lewis Ends Chrysler Sitdown Strike—Martin Warns Henry Ford.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD © Western Newspaper Union.

SPAIN'S civil war is becoming a great extent a war between Italy and France fought on Spanish soil, and both those nations are exasperated and enraged, while Great Britain anxiously strives to avert an open breach. Italy, too, is now furious against the British because English newspapers taunted her with the fact that Italian volunteers were defeated by French volunteers in recent victories won by the loyalists northeast of Madrid. Count Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to London, told the subcommittee of the international committee on non-intervention that he would not discuss the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain and that not a single Italian fighting in the Spanish war would be ordered home until the conflict ended.

Dino Grandi

France's response was quick and startling. Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos proposed to British Ambassador Sir George Clerk that France and Britain assume a naval blockade of Spain to keep Italian troops from landing to join the fascists. The British and French governments thereupon agreed, with full knowledge of other European powers within the non-intervention committee, on "all points" of a program to make non-intervention completely effective and decided it was imperative to prevent, even by force, any further Italian landings. No decision was reached to send warships at once for this purpose.

In Rome the belief was expressed that if France appealed to the League of Nations against alleged dispatch of Italian troops to Spain, Europe would come near to war. A spokesman for the government angrily repeated the official denial that Italy had sent any volunteers to Spain since February 20, when the international agreement for non-intervention was reached.

The indignant outburst by Grandi followed closely on a speech which Premier Mussolini delivered in Rome. Alluding to the League of Nations' sanctions against Italy during the Ethiopian war, of which England was the chief promoter, he said:

"It has been said that the Italian people forget easily. Error! Error! On the contrary, the Italian people have a tenacious memory and know how to bide their time. We waited 40 years to avenge Adowa, but we succeeded."

Mussolini had just returned from a visit to Libya, Italy's North Africa colony, and on that trip he made a patent bid for Italian leadership of the Moslem world. This, and his intention to build a naval base on the Red sea which would challenge British control of the Indian ocean are irritating Great Britain, which is not yet ready to check Mussolini by a display of armed force. She will be ready, however, before very long, for she is expending vast sums on her fleets and naval establishments.

Germany is not taking active part in these international spots just now, but is awaiting developments. Hitler is absorbed in his domestic difficulties and the threatened break with the Vatican.

DR. HANS LUTHER is soon to be replaced as German ambassador to Washington by Dr. Hans Heinrich Dieckhoff, a veteran diplomat who is now secretary of state for foreign affairs. He was counselor of the embassy in Washington from 1922 to 1926 and has been a staunch friend of Americans. Dieckhoff is described as belonging to the "Ribbentrop group" in German affairs, and is a brother-in-law of Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to London.

UNDER the persuasion of Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., and Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler motor corporation, were brought together in more or less peaceful conference at the state capitol in Lansing. The immediate result was an agreement that the sit-down strikers should evacuate the eight Chrysler plants in Detroit, and that the corporation should not resume production during the period of negotiations. Six thousand strikers had held possession of the plants since March 8 in defiance of court orders and the governor, as in the case of the General Motors strike, had been extremely reluctant to authorize forceful methods of enforcing the law. He had, however, insisted that the men must obey the law and court orders, and this concession by Lewis was a victory for the governor, as well as for the corporation which had declared it would not negotiate while the men held its plants. Mr. Chrysler also has asserted the company would not enter into any agreement recognizing any one group as sole bargaining agency for all employees.

It seems likely that this Michigan case will put an end to the epidemic of sit-down strikes. Most of the smaller strikes in the Detroit area have been settled, and in Chicago and elsewhere vigorous action by the authorities has brought sit-downers to their senses.

President Roosevelt had steadily refused to take a public stand concerning this new weapon adopted especially by the Lewis labor group, but finally yielded to the pleas of his lieutenants so far as to agree to hold a conference on the matter on his return to Washington from Warm Springs. Secretary of Labor Perkins has shown a partiality for the sit-down strike, and various New Dealers have defended it; but others in the administration, like Secretary of Commerce Roper, have condemned it. And in the senate and the house it has been attacked by Democrats and Republicans alike.

IN THE big mass meeting of workers held in Detroit, Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, addressed himself to Henry Ford, saying:

"Henry, you can't stop the labor movement. You can't keep your workers from joining the labor movement even if you have a 'fnk' (company sympathizer) at every other post in your factory. The best thing for you to do, Henry, is to get ready to do business with your organized workers."

Mr. Ford is on record as saying that his company will continue to make cars as long as a single man will continue to work for it; and in reply to Martin's threat, Harry Bennett, Ford chief of personnel, says:

"What Martin calls 'organized labor' is not going to run the Ford Motor company. For every man in this (the Ford Rouge plant) that might decide he wants to follow Martin and take part in a sit-down strike there are at least five who want their job and don't want a strike."

The Rouge plant employs 87,000 men. The minimum wage is $8 a day, or 75 cents an hour for the eight hour working day. The plant operates five days a week, with the exception of the blast furnaces which must be kept going seven days a week.

AMELIA EARHART'S globe-circling flight ended, for the present, at Honolulu when she cracked up her $80,000 "laboratory plane" at the take-off for Howland island. By quick thinking and action she saved her life and those of Capt. Harry Manning and Fred J. Noonan, her navigators, but the plane was so badly damaged that it had to be shipped back to the Los Angeles factory for repairs.

Amelia Earhart

The daring aviatrix sailed immediately for San Francisco, asserting that she would resume the flight as soon as possible.

As the big plane rushed down the runway for the take-off it swayed badly, the right tire burst and the ship went out of control. The left undercarriage buckled and the left wing slashed into the ground. The ship then spun to the right, crashed down on its right wing, and the right motor snapped off the right wheel. Miss Earhart quickly cut the ignition switches, so there was no fire and no one was injured.

TEN passengers, two pilots and a stewardess were killed when a big Transcontinental and Western airliner crashed near Pittsburgh. No one survived the disaster. The plane, from New York for Chicago, had been awaiting a chance to land at the Pittsburgh airport, circling around, and suddenly fell from a height of only about 200 feet. Presumably the motor failed.

CONGRESSMAN RALPH E. CHURCH of Illinois raised a storm in the house by making a fierce attack on Adolph J. Sabath, also of Illinois and dean of the house. Sabath is chairman of the committee to investigate real estate bondholders' reorganizations, and Church accused him of "questionable practices," demanding in particular an explanation concerning benefits reaped by the Chicago law firm of Sabath, Perlman, Goodman & Rein as a result of Sabath's activities.

Democratic leaders rushed to the defense of Sabath, and finally stopped Church's attack by forcing adjournment. Sabath was furious and promised a reply at length.

"Skirmish Line"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

TODAY'S Distinguished Adventurer, boys and girls, is Charles Levine of New York city, an old soldier, and a veteran of the Philippine campaign. Charley has an army citation for gallantry in action—and here's how he won it.

It was the night of January 22, 1913, and word had come to the army barracks at Jolo that a Moro stronghold had been located eighteen miles in the interior. Charley Levine's outfit—Troop H, Eighth Cavalry—augmented by two companies of Philippine scouts and one company of native constabulary, started out after the insurrectionists. With them went a "jackass battery" consisting of one three-inch mountain gun hitched to four balky mules, and Charley was one of twelve men assigned to that battery.

All night long they forced their way through matted jungle. At daybreak they were in sight of the Moro retreat—a rectangular trench, surrounded by a wall of bamboo palings, covered over with a thick matting of cogan grass, and stocked with enough food and supplies and ammunition to withstand a long siege.

The Skirmishers Went Too Far.

There was no time for rest. The Moros espied the cavalymen and discharged a blast of rifle fire. The Americans set up their mountain gun on a knoll five hundred feet away and let loose a rain of shell-fire as the rest of the men deployed in a long skirmish line and advanced on the fort.

The skirmishers moved on—the mountain gun shooting over their heads. Then, suddenly, the lieutenant in charge of the gun shouted, "Hold it, boys. THEY'VE GONE TOO FAR." The skirmishers, almost to the fort now, had advanced into the range of fire of their own artillery.

The bombardment ceased. "Somebody will have to go down there and tell them to fall back," the lieutenant snapped. A man was sent down with the message. "We watched him plunge into the jungle growth and strike off toward the line," says Charley. "Suddenly a lithe brown figure streaked out of the underbrush. A bolo flashed and the messenger crashed into the sea of grass—DECAPITATED. It was over in a moment."

"We gritted our teeth with helpless rage. Another man went forward—to his death. The jungle down there was full of Moros. Still another man went down—and again that macabre performance was repeated."

Charley Took the Suicidal Job.

It was sheer murder to send a man down into that Moro infested no-man's land—sheer suicide to volunteer. But in the meantime the skirmishers on the line were firing blindly at the bamboo walls, exposed to the fusillades of the Moros, while they waited for the mountain gun to open a breach. Something had to be done. Charley and a buddy, Claude Underwood, volunteered to try it together.

"It wasn't much more than three hundred feet to the line," says Charley, but it looked like miles. The tall grass rippled sleepily in the early morning breeze. Ahead of us lay the Moro fort swathed in swirls of gun smoke which rose sinuously in the damp air. Rifles roared and blasted.

"We darted and ducked through the cogan. The creptation of the grass under our feet—the drowsy rustling of the tall shoots—made us grip our rifles hard, and pivot from one side to the other in the direction of the sound. Every movement of the undergrowth looked like a Moro—bold in hand, waiting to pad out silently behind us and cut off our heads, as they had cut off the heads of the others."

But evidently no one Moro wanted to tackle two men. They got through to the line. The line fell back and once more the gun on the knoll boomed out and sent its shells screaming into the fort. Great gaps yawned in the walls. The fire from the Moros became feebler and feebler.

Surrounded by the Moros.

Charley and Claude stayed on the line until the order to charge was sounded. Then they leaped forward with the rest. They stumbled over a muddy creek bottom and swarmed through a gap in the wall. The fort was deserted. The Moros had slipped away—those that remained alive—leaving behind their dead, their supplies and their ammunition. The men started back to the knoll. Mopping their sweaty faces, Charley and Claude turned to follow when—

Out of the jungle came eight Moros, spread fanwise, their bolos poised for their work of decapitation. "We gripped our rifles," says Charley, "and retreated slowly, exchanging glare for glare with the insurgents. A scatter of rifle fire sounded behind us. Cut off! SURROUNDED! 'The creek bottom, I roared to Underwood. 'Let's run for it!' We ran for that slimy asylum, reaching the creek bed as another burst of gunfire crashed over our heads."

They hugged the floor of the creek, breathing hard. It was their last stand. They peered through the grass, but there was no one in sight. Where were those Moros? Why didn't those birds with the bolos come and finish their deadly work. And where were their own pals? Didn't they see the predicament Claude and Charley were in?

Comrades to the Rescue.

The suspense was maddening. They decided to make a break for it—try to shoot their way out. The Moros weren't much good as marksmen. They might make it. Another crash of rifle fire, and Charley started to get up. An anxious voice yelled: "Get down, Charlie. Stay down, Claude." And Charley says that for the next ten seconds you couldn't have slipped a cigarette paper between him and the ground.

Another volley or two and it was all over. The rifle fire had come from the Americans, who had seen those eight bolo-swinging Moros and were trying to drive them off by shooting over Claude's and Charley's heads. Ducking into the creek had saved both their lives, because it gave their buddies a chance to shoot over them and drive off the enemy.

Twenty years later, almost to a day, Charley Levine received the army's silver star citation—"for gallantry in action against hostile Moros at Jolo, Philippines, Islands, January 22, 1913."

Napoleon Chose Grave on the Island of St. Helena

Jamestown, Island of St. Helena, is the town and countryside where Napoleon spent an exile of six years. Longwood, the house where Napoleon lived, is a long one-story building with a peaked roof, high enough for attic bedrooms for servants. The house is partly of mortar and is as it was when the deposed emperor of France lived there, notes a writer in the Washington Post.

In this house Napoleon was virtually a prisoner, guarded night and day. He was allowed walks about the countryside, but if he strayed too far an alarm bell rang out, calling him back.

During one of his rambles Napoleon came upon a spring beneath a great cypress tree which overlooked a peaceful valley. Many times he returned to the place. He grew to love the spot and finally asked that when death came that he might be buried there. Napoleon died on May 5, 1821, and was buried in the space which is surrounded by an iron fence. The body was removed to Paris October 15, 1840. It is related that on the last page of Napoleon's copybook, used when he was a schoolboy in Corsica, where he was born, these words are written in his own handwriting: "St. Helena, an island in the South Atlantic; British possession." St. Helena lies 1,200 miles west of the coast of Angola, Africa, and about twice this distance east of Brazil. It is in practically the same latitude as Mozambique.

Desert Mountain Sheep lives in the most severe environment of any of the Bighorn sheep of North America. In much of its range, permanent water holes are 30 to 50 miles apart, and about these the life of these hardy animals must center during most of the year. The desert mountain ranges which are their homes are low, rugged, hot, rocky, unforested territory. Vegetation is sparse, and the whole terrain is the most forbidding occupied by any major species of big game. That the animals can find sustenance there, where the annual precipitation may amount to less than three inches, is astonishing.

English Mock Cheese Cake

- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoonful salt
- 1/2 cupful boiling water
- 3/4 cupful butter
- 1/2 cupful butter
- 1/2 cupful sugar
- 1 cupful fresh-grated coconut
- 2 eggs
- 2 teaspoonfuls cream
- 1 teaspoonful vanilla

Make a rich pie paste of the flour, salt, three-quarters cupful of butter and the boiling water. Roll out, cut in rounds, and line muffin tins with it.

Make a filling of the quarter cupful of butter, well creamed; add the sugar and well-beaten eggs, cream and vanilla. Fold in the coconut, fill the lined tins, and bake in a moderate oven until a delicate brown, and they are set. These may be topped with whipped cream when they are cool.

Fortitude Shown by Refugee Wasn't Sectional

For three years no water had flowed through the irrigation ditches of a certain rancher, and his fields lay untilled and barren. The rancher's shallow well was dry and for several months he had hauled water for his stock and for household purposes from a neighbor's well five miles distant. One day without warning a flood rushed down out of the foothills and the rancher and family fled to higher ground for safety. As they stood watching their belongings being swept away, the rancher turned to his son John and said: "Well, anyway, Johnny, come Saturday night, we can wash all over."—Kansas City Star.

The Garden Murder Case

by S. S. VAN DINE

CHAPTER X—Continued

"Not now. No," Vance returned. "A little bromin gas a few minutes ago; but the air will be clear in a little while. No casualties. Every one doing well. . . Did you want to see me?"

Garden looked roud at the group on the roof with a puzzled air.

"Awfully sorry to interrupt you, Vance; but the fact is, I came for the doctor." His eyes rested on Siefert, and he smiled dryly. "It's the usual thing, doc," he said. "The mater seems almost in a state of collapse—she assured me that she hadn't an ounce of strength left."

A worried look came into Siefert's eyes.

"I'll come at once, of course," he said. He looked at the nurse and then lifted his gaze to Vance. "Will you excuse me?"

Vance bowed. "Certainly, doctor. But I think Miss Beeton had better remain here in the air for a while longer."

Siefert left the roof reluctantly, with Garden following him.

Vance watched them until they turned through the door of the passageway; then he spoke to the nurse.

"Please sit here a few minutes, Miss Beeton. I want to have a talk with you. But first I'd like a minute or two with Mr. Hammie."

The nurse nodded her assent and sat down a little wearily on the settee.

Vance beckoned curtly to Hammie. "Suppose we go inside for a moment."

Hammie rose with alacrity. "I was wondering how much longer you gentlemen were going to keep me here."

Vance led the way into the study, and Markham and I followed behind Hammie.

"What were you doing on the roof, Mr. Hammie?" asked Vance. "I told you some time ago, after our brief interview, that you might go."

Hammie sighed. "He was patently apprehensive and wary."

"There's no crime in going out into the garden for a while—is there?" he asked with unimpressive truculence.

"None whatever," Vance returned casually. "I was wonderin' why you preferred the gardens to going home. Devilish things have been happening in the garden this afternoon."

"As I told you, I wish I had gone. How did I know—?"

"That's hardly the point, Mr. Hammie," Vance cut him short. "It doesn't answer my question."

"Well now, look here," Hammie explained fulsomely; "I had just missed a train to Long Island, and it was more than an hour until the next one. When I went out of here and started to go downstairs, I suddenly said to myself, 'It'll be pleasant waiting in the garden than in the Pennsylvania station.' So I went out on the roof and hung around. And here I am."

Vance regarded the man shrewdly and nodded his head.

"Yes, as you say. Here you are. More or less in evidence. By the way, Mr. Hammie, what did you see while you were waiting in the garden for the next train?"

"Not a thing—absolutely!" Hammie's tone was aggressive. "I walked along the boxwood hedges, smoking, and was leaning over the parapet by the gate, looking out at the city, when I heard you come out carrying the nurse."

Vance narrowed his eyes: it was obvious he was not satisfied with Hammie's explanation.

"And you saw no one else either in the garden or on the terrace?"

"Not a soul," the man assured him.

"And you heard nothing?"

"Not until you gentlemen came out."

Vance stood regarding Hammie for several moments. Then he turned and walked toward the garden window.

to know if the key was in its place."

The girl nodded.

"The shot we all heard," Vance went on, "was fired from another revolver after Swift's body had been carried from the vault and placed in the chair out here. We were naturally anxious to find that other weapon, and Sergeant Heath made a search for it."

"But—but—my coat?" Her hand went out and she clutched at Vance's sleeve as a look of understanding came into her frightened eyes.

"Yes," Vance said, "the Sergeant found the revolver in the pocket of your top-coat. Someone had put it there as a temporary hiding-place."

She recoiled with a sudden intake of breath.

"How dreadful!" Her words were barely audible.

Vance put his hand on her shoulder.

"But it's too terrible! . . . And then this—at this attempt on my life. I can't understand. I'm frightened."

"Come, come," Vance exhorted the girl. "It's over now, and we need your help."

She gazed directly into his eyes for several minutes. Then she gave him a faint smile of confidence.

"I'm very sorry," she said simply. "But this house—this family—they've been doing queer things to my nerves for the past month. I can't explain it, but there's something frightfully wrong here. . . . I was in charge of an operating room in a Montreal hospital for six months, attending as many as six and eight operations a day; but that never affected me the way this household does. There, at least, I could see what was going on—I could help and know that I was helping. But here everything goes on in dark corners, and nothing I do seems to be of any use. . . . But please don't think I am not ready to help—to do anything I can for you. You, too, always have to work in the dark, don't you?"

"Vance! Come Down From There!"

"Don't we all have to work in the dark?" Vance murmured, without taking his eyes from her. "Tell me who you think could have been guilty of the terrible things that have happened here."

All fear and doubt seemed to have left the girl. She moved toward the balustrade and stood looking over the river with an impressive calm and self-control.

CHAPTER XI

"Woode Swift's death wasn't at all the sort of thing I would expect to happen here," the nurse said. "I wouldn't have been surprised at some act of impulsive violence, but this premeditated murder, so subtle and so carefully planned, seems alien to the atmosphere here. Besides, it isn't a loving family, except on the surface. Floyd Garden is saner than the others. His interests are narrow, to be sure, but on his own mental level. He's dependable, too, I think."

She paused and frowned.

"As for Mrs. Garden, I feel that by nature she is shallow and is deliberately creating for herself a deeper and more complex mode of life, which she doesn't in the least understand. That, of course, makes her unreasonable and dangerous. I have never had a more unreasonable patient. She has no consideration whatever for others."

"And Professor Garden?"

"He's a researcher and scientist, of course, and, therefore, not altogether human, in the conventional sense. I have thought sometimes that he isn't wholly rational."

"What is your impression of the guests who were present today?" Vance said.

"I don't feel competent to pass judgment on them," the girl replied seriously. "I can't entirely understand them. But each one strikes me as dangerous in his own way. They are all playing a game—and it seems to be a game without rules. To them the outcome justifies the methods they use."

"Yes, quite. You have clear vision." Vance scrutinized the girl beside him. "And you took up nursing because you are able to face the realities. You are not afraid of life—or of death."

"Ah!—That was why you wanted

The girl looked embarrassed. "You're making too much of my profession. After all, I had to earn my living, and nursing appealed to me."

"Yes, of course. It would," Vance nodded. "But tell me, wouldn't you rather not have to work for your living?"

She looked up.

"Perhaps. But isn't it natural for every woman to prefer luxury and security to drudgery and uncertainty?"

"No doubt," said Vance. "And speakin' of nursing, just what do you think of Mrs. Garden's condition?"

Miss Beeton hesitated before she answered:

"Really, I don't know what to say. I can't understand it. And I rather suspect that Doctor Siefert himself is puzzled by it. Mrs. Garden is obviously a sick woman. She shows many of the symptoms of that nervous, erratic temperament exhibited by people suffering from cancer. Though she's much better some days than others, I know that she suffers a great deal. Doctor Siefert tells me she is really a neurological case; but I get the feeling, at times, that it goes much deeper—that an obscure physiological condition is producing the neurological symptoms she shows."

"That's most interestin'." Doctor Siefert mentioned something, of the kind to me only a few days ago. Vance moved nearer to the girl.

"Would you mind telling me something of your contacts with the members of the household?"

"There's very little to tell. Professor Garden practically ignores me—half the time I doubt if he even knows I am there. Mrs. Garden alternates between periods of irritable admonition and intimate confidence. Floyd Garden has always been pleasant and considerate. I've rather liked him for his attitude."

"And what of Swift—did you see much of him?"

The girl seemed reluctant to answer.

"The truth is, Mr. Swift asked me several times to go to dinner and the theater with him. I got the impression that he was one of those unhappy men who feel their inferiority and seek to bolster themselves up with the affections of women. I think that he was really concerned with Miss Graem, and merely turned to me for a few moments in silence. Then he said:

"What of the big race today? Had there been much discussion about it?"

"Oh, yes. For over a week I've heard little else here. A curious tension has been growing in the house. I heard Mr. Swift remark to Floyd Garden one evening that the Rivermont Handicap was his one remaining hope, and that he thought Equanimity would win."

"Was it generally known to the other members of the afternoon gatherings how Swift felt about this race and Equanimity?"

"Yes, the matter was freely discussed for days."

"By the way," asked Vance, "how did you come to bet on Azure Star?"

"Frankly," the girl confessed shyly, "I've been mildly interested in the horse-betting parties here, though I've never had any desire to make a wager myself. But I overheard you tell Mr. Garden that you had picked Azure Star, and the name was so appealing that I asked Mr. Garden to place that bet for me. It was the first time I ever bet on a horse."

"And Azure Star came in," Vance sighed. "Too bad. Actually you bet against Equanimity, you know—he was the favorite. A big gamble. Most unfortunate that you won. Be ginners' luck, d'ye see, is always fatal."

The girl's face became suddenly sombre, and she looked steadily at Vance for several moments before she spoke again.

"Do you really think it will prove fatal?"

"Yes, Oh, yes. Inevitable. You won't be able to resist making other wagers. One doesn't stop with the first bet if one wins. And, invariably, one loses in the end."

"Again the girl gave Vance a long and troubled look; then her gaze drifted to the darkening sky overhead.

"But Azure Star is a beautiful name, isn't it?" She pointed upward. "There's one now."

We all looked up. High above we saw a single bright star shining with blue luminosity in the cloudless sky. After a moment Vance moved toward the parapet and looked out over the waters of the river to the purpling hills and the still glowing sunset colors in the west.

"No city in the world," Vance said, "is as beautiful as New York seen from a vantage point like this in the early twilight. (I wondered at his sudden change of mood.)"

He stepped up on the parapet and looked down into the great abyss of deep shadows and flickering lights far below. A curious chill of fear ran over me—the sort of fear I have always felt when I have seen acrobatic performers perilously balanced high above a circus arena.

Miss Beeton was standing close to Markham, and she, too, must have experienced something of the sensation I felt, for I saw her face go suddenly pale. Her eyes were fixed on Vance with a look of apprehensive horror.

"Vance!" It was Markham's stern voice that broke the silence. "Come down from there!"

Lesson for April 4

GOD THE CREATOR

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:1-5, 26-31. GOLDEN TEXT—In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. Gen. 1:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When God Made the World. JUNIOR TOPIC—In the Beginning—God. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—God the Maker of All. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God in Creation.

From the completion of the great Gospel of John, which took us back to that time "in the beginning" when the Living Word "was" and "was with God and was God," we turn to the first book of the Bible, which is, as indicated by its title, a book of "beginnings." We find in it not only the record of the creation of the heavens and earth, but of man, and the beginnings of his history, the entrance of sin into the world, the beginning of God's revelation of redemption. It is indeed a most important book, fundamental to an understanding of the rest of the Bible.

Genesis has been the special object of attack on the part of critics, and especially by those who saw in its account of the creation statements which apparently did not square with the announced findings of science. Fortunately, as men make advances in scientific discovery, as well as in the understanding of God's Word, they are beginning to realize that there is no real conflict between the established facts of science and a proper interpretation of Scripture. When there is an apparent clash it will be found that either the Bible has been misinterpreted by men or they have mistaken a hypothesis of science for a fact.

We are in error when we talk about the Bible's being confirmed by archaeology or by science. If the United States naval observatory should find that its master clock does not agree with the observation of the stars, it would not assume that the universe had gotten out of order. It would know that the clock is wrong, and would make correction. Science does not confirm the Bible; the Bible confirms true science.

The account of creation may be considered in two great divisions. I. The Creation of Heaven and Earth (1:1-5).

"In the beginning God"—what awe-inspiring words! How fully and satisfactorily they state the origin of all things.

Men ask us to believe their theories, but there is no cosmogony offered which does not call for a measure of credulity. Man cannot explain the origin of matter, the origin of life, the origin of rational life. These three great gaps and many smaller ones his theories cannot bridge. Man asks us to take his word for them. But we prefer to take God's Word.

Study the entire account of creation. Space here forbids more than the briefest reference to its perfect order and symmetry, its completeness, the self-evident fact that it is a true account of the working of God. It is so received by thoughtful men and women of our day. Even scoffers have long since ceased to speak foolish words about "the mistakes of Moses."

II. The Creation of Man (vv. 16-23).

"Let us" is an indication that the Holy Trinity was active in creation. God the Father is mentioned (v. 1), the Holy Spirit (v. 2), and without the Son was nothing made (John 1:3).

"Man was created in 'the likeness and image of God.'" This undoubtedly refers to a moral and spiritual likeness. Man is a moral being, possessed of all the characteristics of true personality. He is a living spirit, with intelligence, feeling, will-power. This image, no matter how it may have been defaced by sin, is that in man which makes it possible for us to seek him in his sin and beseech him "to be reconciled to God." "Down in the human heart, crushed by the tempter, feelings lie buried that grace can restore."

Notice that God gave man "a helpmate unto him," that he established the family as the center of life on this earth. He gave man dominion over the entire creation, and his restless pioneering spirit still carries him on to the complete realization of that promise. He provided not only for man's spiritual and social needs, but also for his every physical need. Surely we may say with Moses that "everything that he (God) had made . . . was very good" (v. 31).

A Man of Sorrow

One reason why Jesus was a man of sorrow was that he saw as none other the pain and sin and woe of the world.

A Hard Road

The hard road of sin is always so crowded that it gives little room for turning around—and going back.

Determination

He only is a well-made man who has a good determination.—Emerson.

Harmonizing With Spring

THIS week's crop of fashions seem fully as sweet and gay and long-awaited as lovely Spring—with which they're meant to harmonize. Mary, Sue and Emily, three charming stans, know how to have day in day out chic without forfeiting that pretty silver lining in their new Spring purses.

Hints From Mary's Boudoir.

"I'm especially fussy about the slip I wear, perhaps that's why I always sew-my-own! I never miss the few hours it takes, and I can spend the difference for a finer, better-wearing fabric. A slip that's well-behaved is a joy to yourself—others as well—and just as easy to have. So take a tip from one who knows: choose this model and a good fabric and you'll have no further slip troubles."

A Lift for M'Lady.

"A new frock means more to me than a new fabric and a change of color—it means a lift, a new lease on life!" So says Miss Sue, a snappy sophomore who sews. "I decided 1232 had the kind of newness I want: the clever cut of the waistcoat bodice first caught my fancy and the saucy swing skirt made me sign on the dotted line. I go for simple necklines, and I like lots of buttons too. You should see my version in royal blue silk crepe—really, it's something to be proud of."

Designers Win Praise.

"Smart Matron your granny," retorts Emily to an intended bit of flattery regarding her new welcome-to-spring frock. "If I look as young as I feel I'll be mistaken for a Laf-a-Lot! But honestly, this new dress gives me a more dressed-up feeling than any I can remember in Springs gone by. I think Sew-Your-Own designers are smart to give us '40's some of that swing the youngsters rave about. Do you suppose they sympathize with the poor young men who are urged nowadays to 'Swing, Swing, dear Mother-in-law'?"

NELSON LEADS THE ANTI-GAMBLING FIGHT

The bill to repeal race track gambling probably will have been finally passed or killed in the senate before this paper reaches the reader. But whatever fate may await the bill, proponents and opponents alike must admit that our own Senator G. H. Nelson has put up a brilliant and valiant fight for repeal.

In answer to claims made by opponents of repeal that it would destroy 12 million to 15 million dollars worth of race-track property, Nelson produced tax renditions to show that the property of Arlington Downs, claimed to represent an investment of five million dollars, was rendered for taxes in 1934 and 1935 for only $125,000 and in 1936 for only $175,000; that Alamo Downs at San Antonio, which it was claimed represented an investment of three million dollars, had paid only $150.00 state and county taxes
each year for the past three years;
that Epsom Downs of Houston with a claimed investment of three million dollars had paid only $1,000 state and county taxes and no school taxes the past three years.

Nelson conducted the hearings for the repeals before the Senate committee Thursday night and made a dramatic closing speech for a favorable report. Here we quote a press report: "Senator Nelson introduced a woman from near Fort Worth and her five children to the track tragedy. This woman's husband and these three children's father took all of his money to the track, lost it and came home and took his life. All of the thoroughbreds in Texas can not restore to this little boy his father," he said, holding up a blond baby."

But race track gambling, like every other entrenched evil in this state, has its representatives in the senate and its lobbyists hanging around the Capitol, and it is hard to do anything with them. Here's hoping that Nelson whips their ears down.

A few nights ago we read in its entirety the speech of Senator Tom Connally made recently before the Texas legislature opposing the proposal of President Roosevelt to reorganize the Supreme Court. We had read several other speeches and had heard several radio addresses, including two by the President himself, upon the same subject, and in our humble opinion this speech of Tom Connally's is by far the ablest and greatest in every respect that we have yet read or heard. He discussed every phase of the issues involved, and his logic is unanswerable. Since it must have required a good deal more than an hour for the delivery of this speech, we can give no adequate conception of it here. There was one point, however, that Senator Connally stressed perhaps above all others; that was the importance of maintaining the independence of the court. A few sentences on this point will give some idea of the force and eloquence with which he spoke: "Let me say tonight in speaking to you,
my friends, that of all the considerations that may enter into this question, the one that is most prominent in my mind, the one that looms above the hills of the horizon like a mighty mountain, is the question of the independence of the Court. The ages of the judges are secondary. They are mere individuals; they will pass away by death or retirement in the course of time.
The amount of their salaries is not of importance. But when you strike at the independence of a court, you are striking at the very foundations of the court. Why, my fellow citizens, a court, whether it is a justice of the peace court or a county court or a district court or the Supreme Court of the United States, a court that is not independent is not a court. It is not a court; it is merely an administrative bureau." And he utterly demolished, too, the charge that the Court had no Constitutional authority but had usurped the authority to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional. We think that it would be fine thing for President Roosevelt to carefully read and study this speech of Tom Connally's. It might give him a deeper respect for the Constitution he is sworn to protect and defend.

Texas, New York, Massachusetts, and Nebraska have recently disapproved the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution, which was submitted to the states thirteen years ago. This proposed amendment has thus far met with defeat because it deserved defeat. If a federal child labor law is needed at all, this proposed amendment is too sweeping in the first place and the age limit is too high in the second. The amendment would give the federal government unlimited power to regulate and prohibit the labor of all persons under 18 years of age. If a reasonable and sensible amendment should be submitted, it would probably be adopted promptly, but parents do not care to turn over to the government the absolute control of their children. They say that Congress could be depended upon to enact only reasonable child labor laws under the powers granted it; but who knows? One of the first demands of organized labor would be that all child labor on the farms as well as in the factories be stopped, and organized labor is becoming stronger and more radical each year. We doubt the propriety of giving the federal government any control over child labor, though we are in favor of it if that is the only way that we can prevent the big manufacturing establishments from exploiting the labor of little children. The states, however, can do that if they will. Texas already has a fairly adequate child labor law, and we believe that many of the other states have.

That great Constitutional lawyer,
big Jim Farley, came down to Texas last week and in a number of speeches criticized the Supreme Court for its decisions in New Deal legislation and asked the people to help Roosevelt "turn the rascals out". That was not his exact language but that was the substance of it. Now what we want to know is: Where did Jim Farley get his great fund of legal knowledge?
When did he become so learned in the law and so skilled in interpreting the Constitution that he feels competent to criticize the opinions of the Supreme Court?
Did he gain this knowledge as a wrestling umpire while a member of the New York State Athletic Commission? Did he gain it as a student of ward politics in the Tammany Wigwam? We have never found in any of his brief biographies where he ever attended a law school. We have never found where he ever devoted a single day to the study of the law. "Upon what meat then hath this our Caesar fed that he hath grown so great?" Surely this is one of the greatest jokes of the year, that Jim Farley has set himself up as a competent critic of the Supreme Court, generally conceded to be the greatest tribunal on the face of the earth.

Yes, March came in like a lamb, and her conduct the first week was above reproach. Following the first balmy days, she brought us nearly an inch and a half of rain. But that was about as long as she could be good. The first thing we

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, rundown condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CAR-DUL, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardul, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

knew she was on a rampage. Since then she has kicked up a half dozen wicked and bothersome sand-storms that eroded our soil and almost ruined our dispositions. Just as the fruit trees were in full bloom
she stirred up the icy north winds and caused them to sweep across these plains, driving the mercury far down below freeze and sending all us men folks scurrying for our warm out overcoats. Just as we were beginning to hope that some of the fruit had escaped destruction and we might yet enjoy the pleasure of plucking at least a few fine Elbertas from the trees this summer, old obstreperous March staged another come-back for bleak and blighting Winter, and the mercury dropped to 26, 25, 20, 20 and before she would release her grip, it was actually snowing and seeming to beat the band. March sees just about as treacherous as Josh Bill-ing's mule. He said he had known this mule to be good six months
just to get a good chance to kick.

PAPA SAM

The sooner the government weans
the citizens from all forms of aid that much sooner will we begin to get up and hustle in an effort to help ourselves, especially all able-bodied mortals. A certain amount of assistance must be forthcoming for the sick, the aged and the unemployables.—Big Spring News.

From thinking of Uncle Sam as merely a benevolent uncle, many of us have come to regard him as a real parent to whom we have a right to look for support. We will confess that those checks for the cotton we didn't plant and the hogs we didn't raise looked mighty good and came in mighty handy, and we hate to see them chopped off.
We kind o' like this sort of governmental paternalism that puts money in our pockets, but we are gradually regaining our spirit of self-reliance. Just give us another good cotton crop and a good price, and most of us will quit begging our Government for any kind of handout, and Papa Sam will just be dear old Uncle Sam again.

The Federal Government is now tackling the farm tenancy problem, and it is a problem that needs attention. If the trend toward tractor farming continues, however,
most of the cotton tenants in Texas will eventually be driven off the farms any way, and the farm tenant question will not then be so acute. When that day comes, farm laborers will probably form farm labor unions and demand union prices for their labor, which they will have the right to do. If in the meantime, the Federal Government enacts a minimum wage scale law and 40-hour per week law for farms as well as factories, and the Supreme Court has been so reorganized in the meantime as to hold such legislation Constitutional as applied to farms and factories alike, then we may hear a different kind of howl going up from the land-owning farmers of this country respecting the powers of Congress. They will then probably be wanting the Supreme Court stacked so as to hold such legislation unconstitutional.

The recent murder of that Lamb county sheriff was done by a drunken negro. Whiskey and negro blood are a bad combination, in fact whiskey and any kind of blood is a bad combination. A negro cafe of bad repute had been selling whiskey in Littlefield, according to one of the Littlefield papers, and this negro had gotten drunk and wounded a negro woman prior to his murderous assault upon the officers. They told us when they were seeking repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and repeal of the dry amendment in the Texas constitution and repeal of the Dean law that regulation would be so much better than prohibition; that there would be no low liquor dives; that there would be no saloons; that all liquor sales would be open and

Texas now has good state laws for the regulation—in the public interest—of all transportation. These laws are helping to stabilize transportation, and all business and industry that has to use transportation. These laws are helping to reduce the terrible accident toll on your highways. They are helping to conserve your investment in your highways.

Regulation of transportation in the United States has been developed over a period of fifty years. Reasonable regulation is admitted to be both advisable and necessary in the public interest.

Strict regulation of one form of transportation and the lessening of regulation of any other form is unfair and un-American, and can only result in crippling that part of your transportation facilities which is handicapped—

without any resulting benefit to the people of Texas.

Texas railroads obey the rules of the game,—those imposed by the agencies of government and those taken on voluntarily in the interest of public safety.

Texas railroads are spending this year, large sums of money for new and modern equipment—locomotives; freight and passenger cars, improved rail and roadbed facilities, and are expediting freight and passenger schedules to meet growing public demands. All of this is being done in the interest of improved service to the public and at the lowest rates in twenty years.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES
We had a pleasant time at O'Donnell last Lord's Day, even if it was as cold as it is in East Texas. The sermon of the Resurrection was kindly received and much favorable comment given the preacher.
How it helps to receive encouragement along life's way, so let's give our flowers to the living while they may smell their fragrance and see their beauty.
Neglect, what a monster! Think of what he did at the New London school! He is slaying his thousands every year on the highways and everywhere we look we see his foot prints. Parents, what about neglect in child training? Church member, what are you doing to win them to Christ? Preacher, what are you doing about preaching, the whole truth, because that is what it takes to make sinners free. "He that knoweth to do good and doeth it not to him it is sin." (James 4-17). The sin of neglect will send us to Hell as well as the sins of commission.

I will fill the pulpit here next Lord's morning and night at New Home Lord's morning and afternoon. The church with a Gospel message and Scriptural singing.—R. P. Drennon.

NAZARENE NOTES
Well, Springtime is here again, and birds are singing, sun shining, and we shall soon take on more work. Broad acres are to be planted with hopes of a good harvest. Christians, there is a full grown crop of souls to be harvested, and there is a distress call going out for more help—the laborers are few. (Rev. 14-15).
If you are not going elsewhere to Sunday School or church, come to ours. We will try to do thee good at the 11 o'clock hour Sunday. We plan to preach a doctrinal sermon. We do not believe we are right and everyone else is wrong. We thank God for all of our good churches. But if you are in doubt about what the Church of the Nazarene stands for, come Sunday and hear this message. You are always welcome to our church.—Jno. R. Ferguson, pastor.

METHODIST CHURCH
We had a good day Sunday, a good attendance at Church School and on the preaching services in the morning. Three united with the church on profession of faith. Some had their children dedicated in Holy Baptism.
We are counting on you to be present again next Sunday. We want you. We need you. So, come on!

Mrs. J. W. Horton Jr. and son Teddy Lee of Santa Paula, Calif., are visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Simpson. In the future they will make their home in Lubbock, where Mrs. Horton will be associated in business with her father, J. S. Poe, and brother, Lee Poe.

BAPTIST CHURCH SERVICES
Rev. George A. Dale, pastor of the Baptist Church, left Thursday for Aspermont to assist Rev. J. B. Rowan in a revival meeting there. The pulpit here will be filled by Rev. Elmer Holt of Plainview Sunday morning.
Easter services were held at the church here last Sunday morning, and at night an unusual musical program was given by a Mr. Frazier of Carlsbad, New Mexico.
A special Easter program was also given Sunday morning by Mrs. Rafe Richardson and her little daughter LaVoyle at the Downtown Bible Class taught by Mr. Hogan, followed by a very fine exposition of the story of the Resurrection by the teacher. The T. E. L. Class attended in a body and expressed their great appreciation of the entire program.

"MORE THAN A SECRETARY STARS ARTHUR AND BRENT
IN GAY, SPARKLING COMEDY
Continuing in the glorified tradition of "It Happened One Night," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," and "Theodora Goes Wild," a new comedy-drama entitled "More Than A Secretary" with Jean Arthur and George Brent in the star roles comes to the English Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The picture has an exceptionally strong supporting cast including Lionel Standler, Reginald Denny, Ruth Donnelly, Dorothea Kent and Geraldine Hall.

The story concerns itself with the submerged emotions of a young, prim-spinster proprietress of a secretarial school whose devotion to business has robbed her of romance. On the other side of the fence is the editor of a health magazine, bran-fried, diet-conscious, addicted to callisthenics and a lost cause for Cupid. The two meet when Miss Arthur, the one with the school-girl inhibitions, is forced to accept a position as Editor Brent's secretary in the offices of the Crosby Publishing Company.

The woman in Miss Arthur soon asserts itself and she steps out in a fashion unbecoming a secretary. First, she radically changes the make-up of the magazine and doubles the sales volume. Though Brent is furious and fires her, he is forced to re-instate her when she takes Brent to lunch—and does the ordering herself. But when Brent falls for one of her ex-pupils, a dizzy blonde, and installs her in his office, she quits the second time and vows never to return. How the editor finally recovers her affections leads to the hilariously contrived climax.

Mrs. McAllister Of Draw Is Dead

Mrs. Mary Frances McAllister, wife of W. N. McAllister, died at the family home two miles south-west of Draw Wednesday afternoon. Funeral services were held in the Draw Methodist Church Thursday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. C. F. Carmack, followed by burial under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home of Tahoka.
Mrs. McAllister was born April 18, 1867, and was therefore almost 70 years of age. She and her husband had been residents of the Draw community for many years, and had many friends there and in other parts of the county, who deeply deplore her death.

CARD OF THANKS
I wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Gaignat, all those who voted for me, and all others who were interested in my behalf during the recent contest.—Mary Ellen Pesterfield.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Donaldson returned Wednesday from a visit of several months with Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Thomas at McAllen, a son at Houston and J. D. Jr. at Galveston. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Donaldson's parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Callaway of Crawford. The visitors are well known here. Rev. Callaway having been pastor of the Methodist Church here more than twenty years ago.

Mrs. Ben C. Wileman of Oklahoma City and Mrs. Everett Dison of Fritch, formerly Misses Addie Mae and Lucille Carmack, spent last week visiting their brother, Condy Carmack of Tahoka and father and mother, Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Carmack, of Draw.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Davis are the parents of a little daughter born last Saturday morning. Mother and babe are doing well and Daddy is happy.

Time For Teamwork

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

As every sports-follower knows, no athletic team, however brilliant its individual stars, can hope to win consistently until its members learn to coordinate their efforts.

This is known as teamwork. It is a primary requisite to success in every human activity.

It seems particularly necessary in our national affairs today. America during the past few years has been fighting a stiff battle against depression. The palm of victory—Recovery—is in sight. Yet it can be lost if lack of co-operation—of teamwork—among the various agencies involved, persists.

Extravagance in government, which handicaps the workers on whose earnings the nation depends; overloading of public payrolls, at the expense of all citizens; differences between employers and employes, interfering seriously with needed production; disrespect for the laws under which we operate—all these are the antithesis of the teamwork we need.

In peace, teamwork—the quality of striving together for a common aim—has built great nations. In war, it has won more battles than cold courage or shrewd strategy. As the simple verse of one soldier-poet has pointed out:

"It ain't the individual, nor the army as a whole,
But the combination of every bloomin' soul!"

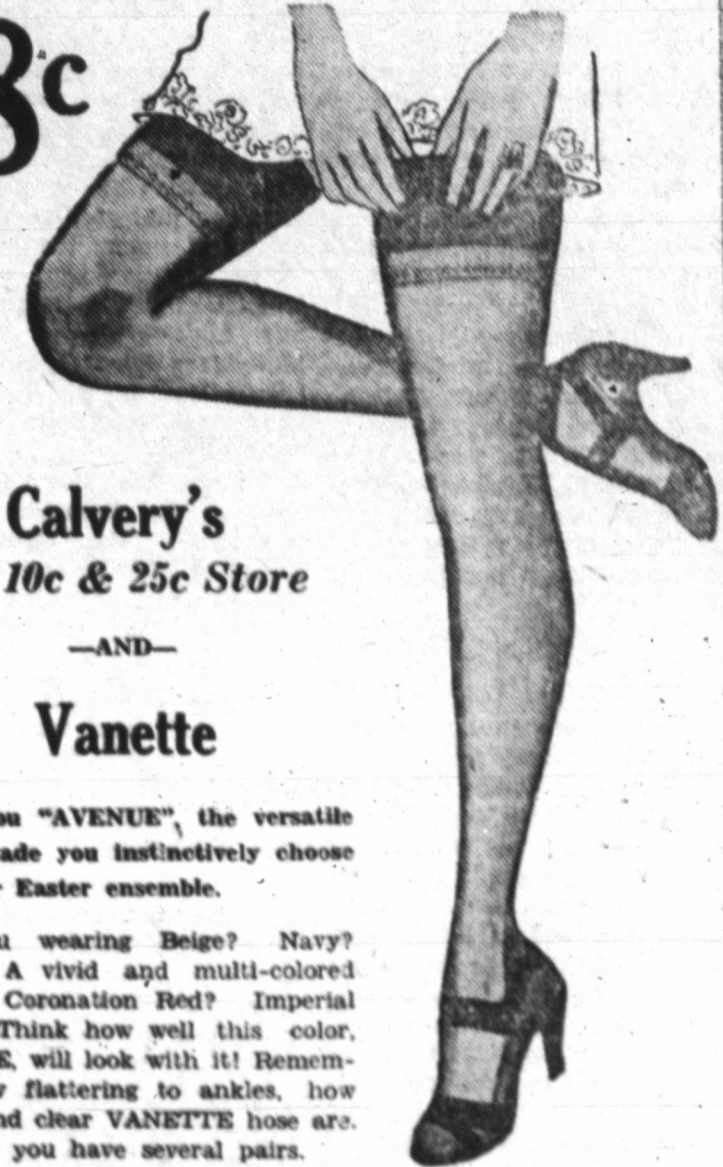

And it is this same co-operation that can bring us victory in our current striving for a sound and complete recovery.

Without it, success remains gravely in doubt.

Mrs. James E. Oye was called to Bowie Sunday night by the serious condition of her aged mother, Mrs. J. W. Wynn. She wrote back Monday that it was not believed that her mother could survive but a short time. Mrs. Wynn was very sick at Mrs. Oye's home here several weeks during the winter.

Legislative Re-Districting Proposal Would Put Lynn In New District

An Austin dispatch Monday stated that a bill redistricting the state into new representative districts on the basis of the 1930 census had that day received a favorable report from the house legislative districts committee. The bill was drafted by a sub-committee. If enacted, it will be the first legislative redistricting in fourteen years.

The new bill would make radical changes of South Plains districts due to the heavy increase in population of this section of the state since 1920.

Lubbock county alone with a population of 39,104 would constitute the 112th district with one representative in the legislature.

The 111th district would be composed of Lynn, Terry, Borden, Dawson, Martin, Gaines, and Andrews, with a total population of 45,654.

The 110th district: Garza, Kent, Crosby, Dickens, King, and Motley with a population of 37,066.

The 109th district: Hale, Floyd, and Swisher, with a population of 39,941.

The 113th district: Lamb, Ballex, Hockley, Cochran, and Yoakum, with a population of 37,162.

Those who drew this bill seem to have done a good job of it so far as the South Plains is concerned, though Martin and Andrews could both be dropped out of our own district and it would still have a larger population than any other district in this section except one, according to the 1930 census. However, there can be no objection to their being attached to this district, and we are sure that all South Plains people are hopeful that the bill will pass, thus giving the South Plains the representation in the legislature that it has long been entitled to.

Gaignat's Contest Closed Saturday

The Friendship contest which had been conducted by the D. W. Gaignat Hardware and Furniture Store for a period of three weeks, came to a close last Saturday night, and it was pronounced a most successful contest not only because of the vast volume of business which it brought to the store but also because of the good-natured rivalry developed among the contestants.

The first ten prize-winners were announced in the following order: Mrs. Houston Hoover of Grassland, Miss Mary Ellen Pesterfield of Tahoka, Mrs. H. R. Tankersley of West Point, Miss Pauline McCord of Tahoka, Mrs. John Thomas Tippitt of Tahoka, Miss Helen Ruth Bell of New Lynn, Miss O'Bea Forrester, Mrs. E. E. Curtis, and Miss Robbie Milliken, all of Tahoka.

CARD OF THANKS

I am very grateful to all of my friends for their assistance, which made it possible for me to win a nice prize, in the Friendship Contest at Gaignat Hardware.—Mrs. H. R. Tankersley. 1tp.

TEXAS PIONEER DIES AT HALSEY HOME IN LUBBOCK

Mrs. E. I. Hill and the editor were called to Lubbock Tuesday afternoon by the death of Mr. Dave S. Campbell, 88, father of Mrs. Mark Halsey of that city.

Mr. Campbell was not a native of Texas but he came to Salado in Bell county in early life and continued to reside there and at Belton until the removal of the Mark Halsey family to Lubbock in 1924.

He was a member of the Church of Christ and funeral services were conducted by Elder John T. Smith, pastor of that church in Lubbock. Funeral services were conducted in the chapel of the Rix Funeral Home at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and burial was in the Lubbock cemetery. Mrs. Hill attended the funeral.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish our friends to know that we keenly appreciate the many kindnesses shown to our mother, Mrs. Minnie Belle Barker, during her recent illness and the numerous expressions of sympathy given to us upon her death. To those who gave the beautiful floral offerings to Dr. Turrentine who ministered to her so faithfully during her last illness, and to all who did a kind deed of any character, we wish to express our gratitude.—The Children.

Pan American Fair Traces Mexico's Mails Back Through Centuries to Indian Runners

PAN AMERICA, Dallas, Texas, March 29.—From the days when Aztec runners carried hieroglyphs of tribal chieftains to Montezuma and emperors before him, through the centuries down to today's super-efficient postal system of Mexico, the means of communications below the Rio Grande will be shown in an exhibit planned as part of the Mexican participation in the Pan American Exposition at Dallas.

Mexico's Postmaster General Alfonso Gomez Morentin

Postmaster General Alfonso Gomez Morentin of Mexico has not committed his government definitely to the idea. In a recent visit with Director General Frank L. McNery of Pan America, however, he described the plan he has for portraying an intriguing story; how the mail has gone through between Mexico City and points outlying from the capital since the days when it was Tenochtitlan.

Long before European governments first thought of systemized postal service, the Incas and Aztecs had a runner system of carrying their cochineal-dyed writings on silk and maguey fibers about official business of empires that flourished before the Golden Age of Greece.

In Montezuma's reign, communications had developed to the stage that, when Cortez landed his conquistadores at Vera Cruz the news was transmitted in less than twenty-four hours to the emperor at the capital, 300 miles away. The mails from Spain and how they were carried, how mail was speeded up when the horse was introduced as a new and faster beast of burden and developments from the very start of the Mexican national government are on record as part of a treasured collection in the postoffice department at Mexico City.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lillian Boyd, H. D. Agent

THREE LAKES CLUB

"A tooth cavity of a child may be grown up—if the right kind of food is eaten," said a club member at the home of Mrs. Lon Johnson on March 18.

Our teeth are one of our most valuable possessions, and we should take great care of them. The condition of the teeth depends largely upon the diet of the mother before the birth of the child. Milk is one of the best foods to make the teeth strong and healthy. A child should be taught at a very early age to care for his teeth by brushing regularly with a mild tooth paste, seeing the dentist about twice a year, and eating wholesome foods.

There were two new members, Mrs. Eliza McMillan and Mrs. Clay Sparks.

Refreshments of filled cookies, candy and hot chocolate were served to the following: Mesdames A. L. McMillan, Fred McGinty, Wright Edwards, Carol Edwards, Jarrell Cox, J. L. Johnson, C. F. Galyen, Miss Mildred Cox, the two new members, the hostess, and two visitors, Mrs. T. Ellis and Mrs. W. E. Sikes.

MIDWAY 4-H CLUB

We must try to have our slips and towels done as quickly as possible and start our dresses so we can have them done in time. Mrs. Littlepage told the Midway 4-H Club Thursday, March 25, at one o'clock at the Midway school house.

We talked about how to make hat racks.

Members present were: Nieto, Marcelene, and Icapene Stephens, Evelyn and Mary Louise McDonald, Opal and Letha Pearl Johnson, Bessie and Mary Louise Rainey, Irene and Ruth Grider, Reba Phillips, Clovis Stephens, and Clara Lee Henry.

PETTY 4-H CLUB

Petty 4-H club had a party, for the club girls Monday night at the home of Mrs. Lowrey.

The girls are working on their sliph and poi-holders. They have started on their hat racks.

Those present were: Veda Porter, Dannie Mae Porter, Wilma Doris Crews, Thelma Mae Watkins, Kathryn Osborne, Wadansell Hemmeline, Frankie Turner, Dollie Mae Hagins and Ruby Don Middleton. New members are: Dollie Mae Hagins, Wadansell Hemmeline and Ruby Don Middleton.

"Horse Play" At Club April Fool

April Fool's Day foolishness was mixed with seriousness at the Rotary program Thursday at noon, Leonard Craft presiding as master of ceremonies and President Mack Penn being the "goat" of many off-side remarks from various members.

Direction of a question and answer number was by Wynne Collier. Bernard Bryant of Stamford, past president of the 41st Rotary district, and son John Bryant, were present and the former made a short inspirational address. He is a partner in the Bryant-Link store company.

Dr. Emil Prohl was introduced as a new member of the club. About fifteen members of the club expect to attend the charter night program of the new Lamesa Rotary Club tonight (Friday).

CARD OF THANKS

We are truly and genuinely grateful to our neighbors and friends who were so kind to us during the long illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Beulah Shaw. We deeply appreciate the floral offerings and every token of esteem for our mother so generously given by you. May God bless you all.—The Shaw Children.

A little son weighing 7½ pounds was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jaquess Thursday morning. Mother, babe, and Dad all doing well.

Mrs. Janie Minor and Miss Echo Milliken attended the convention of beauty shop operators in Lubbock Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris of Wink spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. John Harris.

GRASSLAND 4-H CLUB

"A place must be arranged for your folded garments," said Miss Belle Stewart at the meeting of the Grassland 4-H Club March 19. "Also provide a place for your hate," she added.

Members present were: Viola Roberts, Mona Laws, Neida Lois Moore, Margie Shepherd, Mary Alice Norman, Allene Williams, Bessie Williams, Faye Hasingame, Rosalee Thompson, Jay Moore, Billie Greer, Alta Bess Reeves, Bernice Huffaker, and Lorene Norman.

EDITH 4-H CLUB

"Our hat stands can be made from cardboard, which may be papered or painted to make an attractive stand, or one may be made of heavy wire with a ball by filling with cotton or cloth, which may be used to keep the hat in shape," said Miss Marie Owens, sponsor, at a called meeting on March 24 of the Edith 4-H Club.

Members present were: Rebecca, Hazel and Silvia Jenkins, Dorothy Brown, Mary Stewart, Eva Woods, Dorothy Kahl, Lamfyie Ramsey, and the sponsor, Miss Owens.

T. J. Renfro, 81, Died Thursday

Just before closing our forms, word came to Tahoka that T. J. Renfro, 81 years of age and a citizen of this county for a number of years, had died at the home of his daughter ten miles south of Ackerly in Martin county. He had resided the past several years on a farm about six miles south of Tahoka on Highway No. 9. He had been in bad health for the past three or four years. Death came at about 8 a. m. Thursday.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon at the Harris Funeral Home, Rev. Ben Hardy, pastor of the Methodist Church, conducting.

Dixie

There was a large crowd out for Sunday School Sunday. We want everyone to come back and bring some one with you next Sunday.

An Easter egg hunt was given by Miss Nell Hallmark Sunday. Those present were: Noble Rumbo, Earl Shultz, Billy Jack, Robert, Vasil, Wayne and Verdine May Warren, Orneltha and Travis Inman, and Buck Jones.

Frank Raindl visited friends at Wilson Sunday.

Little Jimmie Gilliam, who underwent an operation in a Lubbock sanitarium, is improving rapidly. Miss Verdine May Warren of Lubbock spent the week end with home folks.

Mrs. John Hindon, formerly Miss Caviness, has resigned as teacher. Miss Meida Bell has taken her place.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bartos of Seymour spent Easter holidays with his sisters, Mrs. H. A. Macha and Mrs. V. H. Macha.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartos were married in Haskell early Easter Sunday, and immediately after the ceremony drove to his place to spend their honeymoon. They will make their home in Seymour.

Since the County Meet is over the school children are very busy with their school work.

Miss Minnie Freeman was an attendant at the Beauty School held in Lubbock the first of the week.

R. C. Wells is making some improvements on his home this week.

C. A. Thomas reports that he is having one of his houses worked over on the inside this week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Howell returned last week from Seminole, where they spent the winter.

Looking Backward

Our annual Interscholastic League meet has become one of those things upon which we look backward. Whether we look back upon it with pleasure, pain, or indifference may depend upon several things. More than likely if it is with indifference that we think of it, we had no part in contests and no proper interest in our school. We may feel a bit pained if we lost our contests. We deserve this if we did not do our best in those contests. If we trained thoroughly and did our best in our contests then we need feel no regrets for we have not really been beaten. If we have done our best and won our contests then we are justly proud. Those of us who won or lost without doing our best should be heartily ashamed of ourselves.

Those of us who entered on contests should feel very interested. We should be proud of our friends who have done their best and not critical of their efforts. After all, no one has a right to make criticism of a performance if he cannot do better. We should show our loyalty by support of our contestants whether they win or lose. Let us go on being loyal and working hard for the bigger contests that are to come.

After being accused of all sorts of laziness, the Seniors have at last got ready to publish an annual. They intend to put it out in spite of all criticism. Work has already been started on the typing and some additional pictures are being taken. We plan to have sixteen pictures in our book this year. We hope to have the annual completed by the first of May.

Seniors

While preparing to start the annual Senior play, the Seniors are resting just long enough to pat themselves on the back for having won 55 out of 74 literary points of the County Meet. Seems as if those so-called "lazy good-for-nothing Seniors are sitting up just a little.

Home Economics News

The girls of the Home Economics department worked in a food market on the campus during the County Meet. They sold rather a large quantity of food. The proceeds will be used for general expenses of the Meet.

Sports

Coach Walker says that we lost the track meet because of lack of interest and entrants. We are very sorry that this has happened, but we see in it a possible incentive for harder work in the future to prevent any similar disappointments.

The Volley-ball girls lost their first game and are to play later in the week to see if they get second place in the county. Even so, we are proud of the girls and the work they have done in volley-ball this year.

First Grade

We are working on some rhythm band numbers for chapel program. Joan Henderson is out of school on account of the measles.

Nancy Ray Weathers and Charles Stevens won first places in the tiny tot story contest Friday.

Second Grade

The Second Grade boys are learning a marching drill and the girls are doing folk dances. The gym period is one of the bright spots of the day.

The pupils in Mrs. Henderson's room regret that Robert Harp has withdrawn from school.

Third Grade

Bobbie George Finch, Kate McMillan, Alice Roberts, and Rex Earl Bostick are out of school with the mumps.

Mrs. Smith's room thought it was time for spring, and so they decorated their room with flowers and birds, only to find they were a frozen look Monday morning.

Fourth Grade
 Miss Douthitt is out of school on account of the mumps, and we surely hope they don't hurt her badly. Mrs. Pete Hegi is teaching in her place.

The music pupils are going to Lubbock to play in the Festival Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Fifth Grade
 James Roberts was a member of the relay team that won first place. Several members of the Choral Club, which won first place, are in the Fifth Grade.

Sixth Grade
 Betty Lou Ivey won a blue ribbon for first place in ready writing. We are all settling down now and getting ready for exams since the county meet is over.

We have several absent on account of the mumps, also the weather.

Draw-Redwine

The Draw-Redwine schools won many places in the County Meet at Tahoka Friday and Saturday. (Editor's note: Complete results of the meet are to be found in other columns of the paper.)

School News

The different rooms enjoyed Easter egg hunts Thursday. The primary room at Redwine gave a program.

There will be a play at Redwine Friday night entitled "The Hoodooed Coon." It is full of fun for everyone. The admission is 10 and 15 cents.

The Draw-Redwine Players have begun work on another play. This time it is "A Small Town Romeo." Buck and Bud Autry turned in their books last Thursday. They are going to enter school at O'Donnell.

Society

There was a good crowd at both services at Redwine Sunday.

Bruce Giles, who is employed by the Swift Meat Co. at Fort Worth, visited his parents Sunday.

Several Tech students of the Redwine community visited their parents over the Easter holidays.

All but two of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Coursey's children were at home Sunday.

W. E. Shannon left Wednesday to stay a month or two with his aged brother who lives in Nogales, Arizona.

Mrs. W. E. Shannon and Mr. and Mrs. Mart Willingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Otis Cash of Post.

Florence-Hensley

Miss Louise Florence and Zan Hensley were united in marriage March 18 in Southland by Rev. Hester, pastor of the Methodist church there.

Mrs. Hensley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Florence, while Mr. Hensley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hensley.

The young couple is active in church and social affairs. Mrs. Hensley was a Freshman in Draw-Redwine High School, while Mr. Hensley was a graduate of this school several years ago.

They have the best wishes of many friends for their success and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Simpson had as guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Hershal Roberts and son Allen T. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stuart and son Frankie, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Poe and son Bobbie Roy of Lubbock.

Edith

Miss Ruby Payne, Reporter

Here we are again after being absent for so long a time. We hope everyone will enjoy reading our bit of News.

Not very long ago the Edith Sunday School was reorganized, and it is growing every Sunday. You who do not attend another Sunday School, we would be pleased to enroll you at Edith. Everyone is cordially invited to attend each Sunday.

Singing was also revived, and we are having some pretty nice crowds. Everyone come out each Sunday night. We also have the new 1937 "Harbor Bell" song books, so we need some help.

Edith school was represented at the County Meet and carried away one first place. This place was won by Mary Stewart in junior declamation. She also won a place in another event. Edith is very proud of her.

Miss Lola Smith, who is a student in Denton College, visited in our community over the week end. We were happy to have her. She spent Sunday and Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sanders.

Miss Ruby Odom of Grassland spent Friday night with Miss Ruby Payne.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Carson of Monahans visited Mrs. Taylor and children Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Taylor is Mrs. Carson's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Vaughn visited Mrs. Vaughn's sister and husband.

Strength During MIDDLE LIFE

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place.

In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.

Mr. and Mrs. McClain, at Gail Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Stanford of Andrews visited Mr. and Mrs. Brown the latter part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Martin and children of Draw spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Payne and family.

Several children enjoyed an Easter egg hunt at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vaughn Sunday afternoon.

Don't Sleep When Gas Presses Heart

If you want to really GET RID OF GAS and terrible bloating, don't expect to do it by just doctoring your stomach with harsh, irritating alkaline "gas tablets." Most GAS is lodged in the stomach and upper intestine and is due to old poisonous matter in the constipated bowels that are loaded with ill-culturing bacteria. If your constipation is of long standing, enormous quantities of dangerous bacteria accumulate. Then your digestion is upset. GAS often presses heart and lungs, making life miserable. You can't eat or sleep. Your head aches. Your back aches. Your complexion is sallow and pimply. Your breath is foul. You are a sick, grouchy, wretched unhappy person. YOUR SYSTEM IS POISONED. Thousands of sufferers have found in Adlerika the quick way to rid their systems of harmful bacteria. Adlerika rids you of gas and cleanses foul poisons out of BOTH upper and lower bowels. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika. Get rid of GAS. Adlerika does not gripes—is not habit forming. At all Leading Druggists.

President Woodrow Wilson delivering his war message to congress, April 2, 1917.

Twenty Years Ago: A Call to Arms

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

FOR two months it had been apparent that the march of events was slowly but surely turning the footsteps of a nation toward the path which would lead it into the gigantic conflict raging across the Atlantic. And, ironically, this was the nation whose people only two months earlier had re-elected its Chief Executive partly because of the plea in his behalf: "He kept us out of war."

The first significant step in this march of events had been taken on January 31, 1917. The German high command, gambling desperately to end the two-year stalemate, announced that on the next day it would begin unrestricted warfare and that American shipping entering the war zone would be limited to one vessel a week.

When Secretary Joe Tumulty entered the office of the President in the White House and laid on his desk a copy of the Associated Press dispatch containing that news, Woodrow Wilson read it slowly, then re-read it. A look of surprise, then incredulity, then stern determination passed across his face. "Tumulty, this means war," he exclaimed. "The break that we have tried so hard to prevent now seems inevitable."

The next day the President met with his cabinet and told them of the "astounding surprise" of this latest act of that "madman who must be curbed"—Germany. But even with this crisis thrust upon him, he was determined not to do more than sever diplomatic relations with Berlin nor take any action until there was an "overt act" on the part of the Central Powers. He repeated that determination the following day when he appeared before the congress to tell it that we had broken, diplomatically, with Berlin.

The First Overt Act.

During the next month that "overt act" was committed. The Ancona, an American ship, had been sunk in the war zone. Again Woodrow Wilson appeared before congress to announce a policy of "armed neutrality" and to ask authorization for mounting naval guns on our merchant ships.

The house readily granted him that authority but the senate, with 76 in favor of the resolution and 11 opposed—enough to block the unanimous consent necessary to bring the matter to a vote—wrangled for three days. Then at 12 o'clock, noon, on March 4 the session came to an end. Four minutes passed by, during which time the United States technically had no President. Then Woodrow Wilson stood before Chief Justice White, raised his right hand and again took the oath of office to guide the nation through the four stormy years which he realized full well were ahead of him.

During the next two weeks events marched slowly to a climax. On March 20 the cabinet again assembled in the executive offices of the White House. The President told his aides what they already knew — three more American ships had been sunk by German submarines. Several American seamen were missing. These were "overt acts." What was the next step for the American government to take? The congress was due to convene on April 16. Should he call it in extra session before that date?

Unanimous for War.

Their advice was that he should. They were unanimous for war. So he issued a proclamation calling congress together on April 2.

Then followed a period of waiting—waiting—waiting. The cabinet met at regular intervals but the matter of war was not discussed. Between meetings the President spent most of his time in his study on the second floor of the White House. There, day after day and far into the night, Woodrow Wilson wrestled with his problem, went through his Gethsemane alone.

Came the second of April. The senate, a continuing body, convened officially and after 12 minutes adjourned. Over in the house order, the doors at the rear of the chamber opened and a doorkeeper announced: "The vice president of the United States and the members of the United States senate." In the midst of a hushed silence Vice President Marshall and the elder statesmen of the republic filed into the room and took their seats. Then, as the slight figure of a scholarly-looking man appeared, congressmen and spectators alike surged to their feet in a storm of handclapping and cheers.

Wilson's Momentous Message.

It died down as Woodrow Wilson stepped to the reading desk just below the dais where Marshall and Clark sat. He began to read.

"I have called the congress into extraordinary session because there are serious, very serious choices of policy to be made, and made immediately, which it was neither right nor Constitutionally permissible that I should assume the responsibility of making."

His hands trembled slightly as tience. What was he going to ask of the congress? And then . . .

"With a profound sense of the solemn and even tragical character of the step I am taking and of the grave responsibilities which it involves, but in unhesitating obedience to what I deem my constitutional duty, I advise that the congress declare the recent course of the imperial government to be in fact nothing less than war against the government and people of the United States; that it formally accept the status of a belligerent which has thus been thrust upon it and that it take immediate steps not only to put the country in a more thorough state of defense, but also exert all its power and employ all its resources to bring the government of the German empire to terms and end the war."

So it was to be war! As the President uttered those words, Chief Justice White, who was sitting in the front row of chairs below the speaker, dropped the hat he had been holding and brought his hands together high over his head. That explosive sound set off a torrent of noise which filled the chamber for a moment, then died down quickly as the low voice continued:

"We have no quarrel with the German people. We have no feeling towards them but one of sympathy and friendship. It was not upon their impulse that their government acted upon entering this war . . .

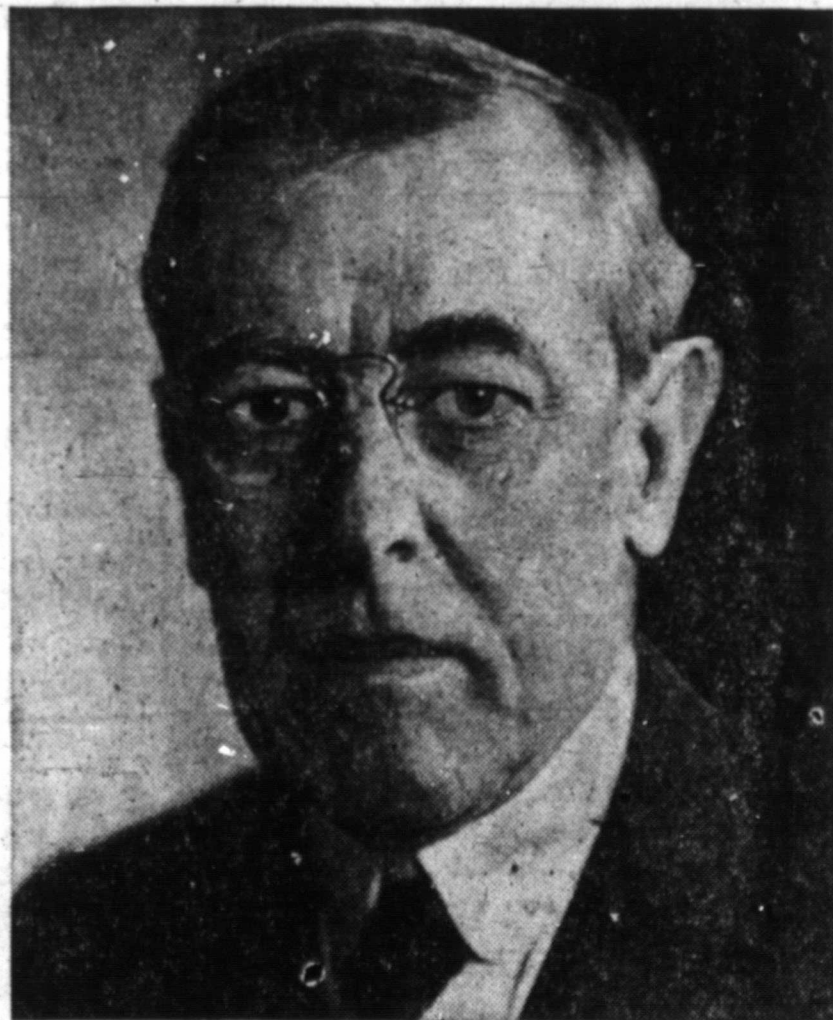

"We are glad, now that we see the facts with no veil of false pretense about them, to fight thus for the ultimate peace of the world and for the liberation of its people, the German peoples included; for the rights of the nations great and small and the privilege of men everywhere to choose their way of life and obedience. The world must be made safe for democracy. Its peace must be planted upon the trusted foundation of liberty . . .

And so on the quiet voice continued for 32 minutes—interrupted no less than 23 times by the applause of its hearers. At last it came to that most splendid passage of all:

"It is a distressing and oppressive duty, gentlemen of the congress, which I have performed in thus addressing you. There are, it may be, many months of fiery trial and sacrifice ahead of us. It is a fearful thing to lead this great peaceful country into war, into the most terrible and disastrous of all wars, civilization itself seeming to be in the balance; but the right is more precious than peace, and we shall fight for the things which we always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free people as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world itself at least free. To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged, to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and happiness and the peace which she has treasured.

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON

of representatives they were electing a speaker and other officers and ratifying committees. After eight hours and ten roll-calls they were ready for business. In the White House the President was dining with members of his family. As they finished, a delegation from congress arrived with the message that the senate and the house were ready to receive a communication from the President.

Outside the Capitol a great throng milled about, kept in order by two troops of cavalry that had ridden over from Fort Myer. Inside, the galleries of the house were packed. Even the seldom-used diplomatic gallery was filled. Two outstanding figures in it were Ambassador Jusserand of France and Ambassador Spring-Rice of Great Britain. The day they had long hoped for had arrived.

A moment after Speaker Clark had called the house to

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

If you store eggs with the small ends down they will keep better.

If sirup for hotcakes is heated before serving it brings out the flavor of the sirup and does not chill the hotcakes.

Your doughnuts will have that different flavor if one half stick of bark of cinnamon and four whole cloves are added to the fat used in frying them.

When the frying pan becomes slightly burnt, drop a raw peeled potato into the pan for a few minutes. Then remove it, and all traces of burning will have disappeared.

A thin sirup of sugar and water flavored with almond essence is good to sweeten fruit cup.

Filling for a sponge cake is made by creaming three ounces of fresh butter and six ounces of sifted icing sugar, adding two ounces of chopped pineapple and a little pineapple sirup.

To keep the crease in men's trousers, turn them inside out and soap down the crease with a piece of dry soap, then turn back to the right side and press, using a damp cloth. The crease will remain for a long time.

Date Kisses — Thirty stoned dates, one cup almonds, white one egg, one cup powdered sugar.

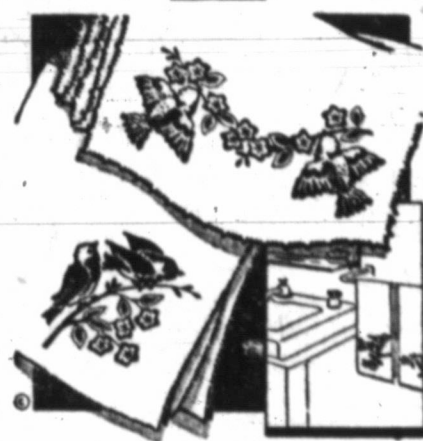

Chop dates; blanch almonds and cut into long strips. Beat egg very stiff, add sugar, dates and almonds. Drop in buttered tins with teaspoon and bake in quick oven.

If a hot cinder falls on your carpet and damages it; repair it with wool. Buy skeins of wool to match the colors in your carpet. Fill in the damaged part with loops of the various wools, following the pattern as nearly as possible. The loops should be tightly packed together and made slightly higher than the pile of your carpet.

Stockings can become a very expensive item for the mother of school-children—who are always falling down and tearing big holes in the knees. Try this way of repairing an outside hole: Take a piece of strong net to match the stocking and place over the hole on the inside of the stocking. Then darn the hole with wool that exactly matches the stocking on the right side of the stocking through the net. The repair, you will find, will be scarcely visible.

JUDGE McGUIRE DIED SUDDENLY SATURDAY

 It fell to his lot to prosecute some of the most noted cases that ever found their way into the courts of this section of the state. Among these were the cases against Mill Good and Tom Ross, who were charged with the murder of two cattle inspectors, Robinson and Allison. Robinson and Allison were slain in the Gaines Hotel at Seminole by a fusillade of shots alleged to have been fired by Good and Ross, and Judge McGuire, then district attorney, was sitting in the lobby of the hotel when the murderous assault was made.

As district judge, he soon became recognized as one of the ablest and best in this entire section of the state. Possessed of a deliberate and judicial temperament, a constant student of the law, a good judge of human nature, conscientious and fair to a marked degree in rendering his opinions and in conducting the trial of cases that came before him, he held the respect and esteem not only of the members of the bar who practiced in his court but also of the general public. His integrity, honor, and honesty were never questioned. It is no mere conventional or meaningless phrase when we say that he was a distinct ornament to the judiciary of this state.

He left surviving besides his wife, one daughter and one son: Mrs. Betty Freedy residing near Lamesa, and Gordon B. McGuire Jr., engaged in business in Lamesa. He also left a brother, "Jack" McGuire of Texarkana, Arkansas.

Mrs. Dr. C. B. Townes has recently treated her home to some new interior decorations.
