

Three Young Men Charged In Burglaries

Three) young men from Wilson were charged with burglary of a habitation in two burglaries at Wilson last Saturday. Two other young persons, both juveniles, were also involved and their cases were turned over to juvenile court, according to the Lynn County Sheriff's Dept.

Arrested, jailed and charged were Juan Antonio Munoz, 19; George Albert Munoz, 21; and David Sandoval, 17. Bond for each was set at $5000 by Justice of the Peace H.W. Edwards.

The three were charged in connection with burglaries at the homes" of Lucus Garcia and Rita Munoz, both in the 1400-block of Lumsden St. in Wilson. Stolen from the Garcia home were a stereo and a clock. Stolen from the Munoz home were two packages of meat.

About 400 gallons of diesel fuel were stolen from a location eight miles south of U.S. 380 on FM 2956. owner Tony Botkin reported. The diesel was pumped out of Botkin's tank Monday or Tuesday.

against Ralls Friday night, only to lose when Ralls scored with just 16 seconds left in the game to win it 16-14.

As in any other close game, there were several opportunities for Tahoka to win, but the breaks just didn't go the Bulldogs' way.

This week the Bulldogs will go to Seagraves for the second district game of the season. Seagraves, unbeaten this year, last week defeated New Deal 26-6. The week before that, the Eagles beat Brownfield 12-10, so Tahoka will be in the accustomed role of underdog for this one, too.

The Ralls game was expected to be about even, and it certainly was. Tahoka took an 8-0 lead in the first quarter when QB Trey Nance passed

IN A COUPLE OF publications recently I have read that snoring is more than just a topic for jokes and a problem for the non-snorer laying there gritting his or her teeth; it is dangerous to the snorer.

People who snore, said both of the articles, "often develop high blood pressure, morning headaches, chronic fatigue, memory lapses, depression, and loss of intellectual capacity." Not to mention bruised ribs and arms where the spouse keeps hitting you.

The latest article, in The Rotarian, said snorers also are three times more susceptible to strokes than silent sleepers and that overweight persons are more likely to snore. It went on to say that all the patented and home remedies don't help much and that the best advice is to lose weight, avoid tranquilizers and not eat heavily before bedtime.

Some of those symptoms I have, such as fatigue, memory lapses and depression, the latter aggravated by reading about things that can happen to fat snorers.

Other sleep disorders which the article mentions include sleep apnea, where a person falls asleep for a few seconds at any time, bruxism, a word I never heard of which describes grinding the teeth, and something called "Nocturnal myoclonus," which means, we are told, repetitive movements of the lower body during sleep, starting with the big toe followed by flexing of other leg joints.

I don't think I have that problem, but I asked some folks around the office if they did.

"Do you have myoclonus?" I asked. To which one replied, "No, I don't have your oclonus. You probably laid it down wherever you left your keys or your glasses."

points after the touchdown.

After Tahoka kicked off, Ralls fumbled again and Cruz Rivas recovered for Tahoka at the Ralls 40. Mike Jackson then ran 14 yards to the Ralls 26, and Nance hit Daniel Garvin for 11 yards and a first at the Ralls 15. Stone made 3, then Nance ran 4 more, but fumbled and Ralls recovered at the Jackrabbits 13, averting another Tahoka score.

In the second quarter, Ralls' 236pound placekicker, Morry Martinez, made a 37-yard field goal to make the score 8-3, and this was the score at halftime.

In the third quarter, Ralls went ahead 10-8 after recovering a Tahoka fumble at the Dogs' 12-yard line. Chris Castro ran 3 yards for the score and Martinez kicked the point. Tahoka mounted almost no offense in the third period.

In the fourth, however, Michael Tipton recovered a fumble for Tahoka at the Tahoka 44, and then Stone broke free on a 43-yard run to the Ralls 13. Nance then passed into the end zone to Garvin, who made an astounding catch in the midst of a big nest of Rabbits to score the touchdown. A kick was no good, and Tahoka led 14-10 with six minutes left in the game.

Ralls came back though, driving 5 and 6 yards per carry, to march relentlessly downfield to a first and goal at the Tahoka 6, with 1:01 left. A run gained a yard, then another run lost all the way back to the 10 as Garvin and Nance downed the quarterback. On third down, a pass play carried to the 1-foot line, leaving 4th and goal from there, with just 16 seconds remaining. Joe Samarripas scored, barely, the point kick missed, and this was the game, although Tahoka had a chance to tie it on the last play of the game.

After the Ralls kickoff and a penalty, Tahoka took over at the Ralls 35, and with time running out, tried a field goal into the wind which was downed about a foot outside the Ralls goal line, with one second left and the ball belonging to Ralls. The Jackrabbits couldn't down the ball behind the line on the last play, because that would have been a safety, so they ran it, and just barely made the line of scrimmage, avoiding the safety on the last play.

Stone had his best game rushing, gaining 94 yards on 11 carries, with the 43-yard run his biggest effort. Stone also was the leading tackler, and Jay Forsythe recorded sacks.

profit, with funds raised from booths and ticket sales going to pay expenses, buy prizes, obtain bands for entertainment and other items. In the last couple of years, due to the hard work of many Queen and Princess contestants, who sell the tickets, the Harvest Festival has been able to donate some leftover funds to the community. These funds were contributed to the Christmas decorations fund for the city, so as to benefit the entire community.

The festival takes many hours of planning and volunteer work by concerned citizens, who enjoy bringing this event to the community. "We appreciate all of our area merchants, who have always been so cooperative in providing prizes for merchant drawings, which is a big draw for the festival," said a spokesman. "The festival is for the enjoyment and 'bringing together' of our community ... something to bring the entire family to. We hope we can continue to make this a fun event."

Following is some of the highlights of each year's festival, beginning with the first one in 1976. Every year, the festival followed the same guidelines, with booths, games, Queen contest, entertainment and Gloria Scoville and Tommy Gardenhire II exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening, Sept. 22, 1990, in the home of the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Gardenhire of O'Donnell. The Rev. Wesley Brown, pastor of First United Methodist Church of O'Donnell officiated at the doublering ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Patton of Houston. Parents of the groom are Martha Gardenhire of Boerne and Tommy Gardenhire of Lubbock. Grandparents of the groom are Mrs. Pauline Collard of Sherman and the late Roy Collard and Mr. and Mrs. Gardenhire.

A prelude of traditional and popular wedding selections were provided by Mrs. Sheryl Clopton of O'Donnell. Mrs. Floy Ash of O'Donnell, aunt of the groom, sang, "God, A Woman And A Man" and candlelight as the couple exchanged their marriage vows. Massed greenery composed of emerald and leather leaf fern covered the mantle which was centered with a pair of ceramic love birds.

"Look Through The Eyes of Love". The bridal setting was aglow with

A brass unity candelabrum was featured to the center of the setting with a pillar candle enhanced with lace pearls and leaves. Flanking the unity candle were two seven point brass slanted candelabrum with greenery, mauve and ivory satin bows and streamers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a candlelight tealength dress of Chantilly lace. The moulded bodice was accented with lace and pearls, with a sheer illusion yoke and sleeves. A layered finger tip veil of silk illusion and scalloped lace attached to a bridal hat was worn.

"This meeting is for anybody interested to attend," explains Mrs. Isbell. "We just want to see who might be interested in such a group, . to support each other and our families who are with the military in all areas of the world, protecting the United States," she added.

Ribbons are still available to anyone who wants them, to tie on their front doors, trees, or wherever to show support for the military. Yellow ribbons show that a family member is in the military. These ribbons may be obtained, free of charge, at Tahoka Drug, where Mrs. Isbell is an employee.

Tahoka sixth graders are also showing their support, as they plan to tie ribbons on trees around the school sometime this week. They will have a short ceremony along with this activity, according to Mrs. Isbell.

Four more names have been added to the list of local military. They are Michael Rivera and Ronnie Sparks, in the Army; Ronnie Rivas, in the Marine Reserves; and Delwin Williams, in the Air Force.

The list of names is being kept by Mrs. Isbell, of military personnel from Tahoka or military personnel who are members of families in Tahoka. These military personnel do not have to be stationed in the Persian Gulf to be on the list, as it is being kept for a general list of military persons from this area.

For more information on the support program, contact Mrs. Isbell.

Cypert Misses One To Win Local Football Contest

Brett Cypert missed only football game last week to win the Lynn County News football contest. He named all the correct winners except for the A&M game to win the $5 prize. Secret sponsor for the week was Poka-Lambro Telephone Cooperative, which Cypert did not name.

Two tied for second place, missing only three games. They were Bryan Inklebarger and Sinah B. Gandy, who was the first winner in this contest several weeks ago.

One of the games was incorrectly printed in last week's contest, as O'Donnell had an open date and did not play. This game was not counted in the contest.

Entries for this week's contest are due by 5 p.m. Friday at the News Office.

4-H Legislators Debate Bills

State 4-H'ers showed their opposition to new taxes as they voted against a bill proposing a state income tax at Texas 4-H Congress.

Over 500 4-H'ers from throughout the state participated in this mock legislature serving as senators in the House of Representatives and the Senate at the state capital this summer.

one of the best opportunities for young people to learn the legislative process first-hand, said Janet Yeates, 4-H and youth development specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

They also had the opportunity to improve their public speaking and communication skills, engaging in debates on the House and Senate floors where 6 of the 61 bills introduced by 4-H'ers were passed.

Issues that drew the most attention dealt with state taxes, the budget and funding. The environment was also a priority for 4-H legislators. One of the top three bills prohibited the use of landfills for imported waste from areas outside the state boundaries.

Opponents argued that this bill would lose possible revenue for the state, while supporters staunchly repeated, "We don't want our state to this bill was being addressed on the Senate floor. He encouraged 4-H legislators to continue their interest in cleaning up Texas' environment.

Teens took their jobs as senators seriously. They researched issues, studied bills being introduced and came prepared to argue pros and cons.

Other top issues of major concern to 4-H'ers included education and illiteracy, substance and child abuse and rape.

They voted to improve academic excellence in school systems, to have a student representative on local school boards, to provide more therapy and harsher penalties for child abusers, and to increase the classification of rape to a first degree felony. At the closing joint session, 4-H

Governor Chance Brooks of Terry County signed the legislation introduced by the 4-H'ers. Copies of these bills were then presented to David Marowitz, assistant legislative director for Gov. Bill Clements.

Other 4-H legislative officials were Chad Lee of Erath, 4-H lieutenant governor; Melode Chance of Crosby, speaker of the House; and Willie Lee of Live Oak, 4-H chief iustice.

JV Bulldogs Bop Ralls 30-0

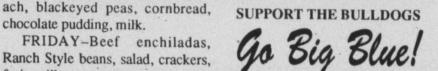

Tahoka Junior Varsity Bulldogs did all the damage in the first half last Thursday as they rolled over the Ralls JV team 30-0 behind two touchdowns scored by Mike Solarzano, one of which was on a long punt return.

Also scoring touchdowns were Heath Brewer and Seth Prince. John Quintinilla and Chris Montez scored 2-point conversions and Juan Luna kicked two extra points.

Coaches lauded Jason Heath in the secondary, defensive end Clayton Laws and linebacker Cody Hale for outstanding defensive work.

The 7th grade team lost a close one to Ralls, 8-6. Donny Webster scored on a short run for Tahoka.

The 8th grade lost 32-0. Coaches said Wesley Solomon, quarterback and defensive linebacker, played an outstanding game.

Amherst goes to 3-1 with the victory, while Wilson falls to 2-0 with the defeat.

Wilson compiled a 12-0 firstquarter lead when Steve Garza ran 49 yards for a touchdown and Albert Riojas bulled one yard for a touchdown.

But the Bulldogs started their comeback in the third quarter when Cardale Scott hit Michael Clark with a 34-yard pass for a touchdown. The kick by Scott was good to make the third-quarter score 12-8.

The Bulldogs took the lead with 8:54 left in the game when Scott sprinted 48 yards for a touchdown. Scott's kick was good, making the score 16-12. Amherst added to the lead with 6:11 left in the game when Scott hit Keith Wilson with a 33-yard touchdown pass.

Wilson's final touchdown was too late when Riojas ran 10 yards for a touchdown with 29 seconds left in the game to make the final score 22-18.

For Amherst, Scott ran for 114 yards, while Riojas had 107 yards rushing and Garza rushed for 115 yards for the Mustangs.

I have neglected to tell you ball bats. We also packed enough about my last vacation. I know food and drinks for a group of 20 you have all been worried sick to be stranded a month on a debecause of this, and haven't been serted island. We were PREable to eat or sleep for worrying PARED. about missing this little tidbit, so

We took off in good spirits, ready to take on the world. About halfway there, my son, who thinks he has to know exactly how many miles it is to the next town, asked us why we were going to Johnson City. "We're not," I replied, paying him little attention. "Yes we are," he insisted. "That sign said Johnson City, 18 miles," enough. My good buddy (the one he added. So we did a semi-panic, and sure enough, we were on the wrong road. My 8-year-old son is a better navigator than I am.

We corrected our direction (sounds like a song - "we corrected our direction, hey now, hey now ...") and without much further ado we made it to the big city of San Antonio. We even found our hotel after only a couple of wrong turns.

Early the next day we headed for Sea World, along with about 5,000 other people. Within an hour after our arrival, my daughter said she didn't feel too good. Oh. Great. I rented one of those cute little strollers where it looks like your child is sitting in a dolphin, and carted her all over that place for about seven hours. She still felt "not good," but good enough to stay", so to the other kid's relief, we stayed. We probably infected half the population with chicken pox. I know - I'm a bad mother.

For the next two days, while the others went to the zoo, and the river walk, and swimming and various other fun activities, my daughter battled the chicken pox. I got to watch her. She had red spots in places where I didn't even know we had places. The poor thing was miserable. We called ing down with chicken pox. First down late one night to room servmy buddy's two children had 'em, ice to bring us some baking soda

So we, tentatively, decided to just go ahead and go, hoping the chicken pox would not show up until after our trip.
