Here's Easy Way To Tally Veterans Insurance Fund

The Veterans Administration has announced a scale of payments for insurance dividends next year that will give some World War Two veterans as much Administrator Carl R. Gray, Jr., said the figure was the maximum to be paid to the 16,000,000 veterans who will draw the special dividend from a fund totaling

Other payments now being figured, will scale downward, he said.
The maximum payment represents a dividend on a $10,000 policy in force for 96 months-the longest possible period-for a vet eran aged 40 or less at the time the policy was taken out. This is a payment of 55 cents a month per $1,000 of insurance.

The rates of payment will be: To those under 40 years old, 55 cents per month per $1,000 of insurance; 31 to 45 years old, from 52 cents to 40 cents; 46 to 50 years

"The dividend will be paid on both term and converted insurance policies," VA said in a statement, "and will be paid only for the period that the policy was in force prior to the policy anniversary in 1948. No payments will be made for periods of lapse.

Gray said that the estimated rate of the dividend was arrived at after long acturial studies. He said that the rate of payment will be the same for both term and converted policies, since the dividend is based on mortality savings and not on excess interest earnings.

Gray said standard insurance practices were followed in arriving at the dividends. In other words, he said, the payments on each National Service Life insurance policy represents a return to the amounts requierd for settling death claims and setting up necessary reserves.

Most poultrymen are familiar with what happens to their laying flocks when Newcastle disease hits. Now comes a research report that shows what happens to the eggs produced by hens that are infected with the disease. Profes-sor E. D. Parnell, department of poultry husbandry, Texas A. and M. College System, says eggs produced by infected hens are low in quality and do not store well.

He says when laying hens are infected with Newcastle disease. egg production declines rapidly egg size is markedly reduced and many are odd shaped. The shells are thin and sand papery; the albumen becomes thin and watery in most of the freshly laid eggs and many contain loose, bubbly air cells. When heavy producing flocks become infected, the production drops tozero within 5 to 8 days. It takes from 3 to 5 weeks for the flock to resume normal egg production and as it returns to normal egg size and shell strength also regain most of their original quality, he adds. Eggs from infected and noninfected pens were placed in cold storage and were graded at intervals of 2, 4, 8, 16, 32, and 64 weeks. Parnell says eggs from the infected hens were far below the healthy hens in quality ach time they were graded. There is a definite relation between the amount of thick albumen in the egg and its subsequent keeping quality in storage says Parnell. The storage looses in

To Defer Grazing Where Possible

The reduction of livestock numbers in all sections of the state coupled with fairly good moisture conditions made it possible for many ranchmen and stock farmers to practice deferred grazing on much pasture land in the state this year. This is the pay-off season, says A. H. Walker, extension range specialist of Texas A. and M. College, and he recommends that grazing be withheld for another month or two to give the grasses a chance to mature their seed.

In some areas the preferred grasses have already made seed. but in others, they are making seed right now. He says give the elements a change to shatter and distribute the seed first. If you permit grazing too soon, chances are good that you may lose what you have gained.

The choice is up to the indiidual producer as to whether he vill grow the high producing good grasses or the low producing por ones, says Walker. The essentials of good range management must be practiced to get the job done and it takes time.

By balancing the livestock with range forage production, deferred grazing, proper salt and vater distribution and other management factors, more range livestock producers are finding that t pays to grow the good grasses

The good grasses will produce from two to five times as much forage as the poor invaders, and he says that the more pounds of good grass you can grow per acre will mean the more pounds of meat per acre.

It takes grass to grow grass.

From 1-3 to 1-2 must be left for maintenance of the plant and litter each year, says Walker and that left is insurance for the future.

Last year the average American consumed a half pound of tea.

edible eggs resulted from stuck yolks which is a condition associated with thin albumen in eggs, says Parnell. This report is released through the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Your local county agricultural agent can give you more details on the subject.

MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD STRIKE?

Over twenty years ago, the Congress of the United States passed the Railway Labor Act. It was hailed by union leaders as a model for the settlement of labor disputes.

THE LEADERS of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Missouri Pacific Railroad have refused to avail themselves of the peaceful means provided by this Act for settling their dis-putes. They insist that they be the sole umpire of their own disputes over the meaning of contracts.

There is no Need for Strikes

With all of the available methods for the interpretation of contracts, there is no need for a strike or even a threat of a strike, but the leaders of these railroad unions have ignored the ordinary procedures established by law and insist upon imposing their own interpretations of their contracts by means of a strike.

The wheels have stopped rolling on the Missouri Pacific. They may stop rolling on other railroads at any time. Recently the Wabash Railroad was forced to discontinue operation for several days under similar circumstances.

What are These Strikes About?

These strikes and strike threats are not about wage rates or hours. They result from disputes over the meaning of existing contracts. They cover claims for a full day's pay for less than a day's work, or for payments for services performed by others who were fully paid for the work done.

President Truman's Board Condemns Strike

There is an established legal method for handling disputes involving existing writ-ten contracts—just as there is such a method of settling any contract dispute which you may have in your daily life.

The President of the United States appointed a Fact Finding Board to investi-gate and adjust the Missouri Pacific dis-puts. This Board reported, in part, as follows:

"... It is with a doop sense of regret that we are obliged to report the fallure of our mis-sion. It seems inconceivable to us that a coercive strike should occur on one of the nation's major transportation systems, with all of the losses and hardships that would follow, in view of the fact that the Railway Labor Act provides an orderly, efficient and complete remedy for the fair and just settlement of the matters in dispute. Grievances of the character here under discussion are so numerous and of such frequent occur-rence on all railroads that the general adoption of the policy pursued by the organisa-tions in this case would soon result in the complete nullification of the Railway Labor

Obviously the railroads cannot be run efficiently or economically if the leaders of the unions ignore agreements or laws.

Provisions of the Law which are Disregarded

There are five ways under the Railway Labor Act to settle disputes over the meaning of contracts:

1-Decision by National Railroad Adjustment Board.

2-Decision by System Adjustment Board for the specific railroad.

3—Decision by arbitration. 4-Decision by neutral referee.

5—Decision by courts. The Missouri Pacific Railroad has been and is entirely willing to have these diputes settled in accordance with the quirements of the Railway Labor Agentless of this fact, the union leader have shut down that railroad Innocent Bystanders Suffer Losses and Hardships

There are about 5,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen en the Missouri Pacific. They are known as "operating" employes, and are the most highly paid of all employes on the nation's railroads, but their strike action has resulted in the loss of work to 22,500 other employes of the Missouri Pacific. In addition, they have imposed great inconvenience and have imposed great inconvenience and hardship upon the public and the communities served by that railroad.

The Railway Labor Act was designed to protect the public against just such interruptions of commerce.

If these men will not comply with the provision of the law for the settlement of such dispute. then all thinking Americans must face the ques-tion, "What is the next step?"
