Wagon wheels roll on Ozona streets again

By Cynthia Harrell Hodges

The pioneer spirit will come alive Thursday morning at 7:00 a.m. when Crockett County Sesquicentennial Wagon Train participants gather at the fairgrounds before their 9:00 a.m. departure on a two day trip to Barnhart.

Participants can enjoy coffee,

Commerce, and served by Beth Boyd, chamber secretary, and Janet Wilson. The wagon train will travel through Ozona beginning at 9:00 a.m. led by wagon train boss Brock Jones.

A special program will highlight Thursday evening's activities at Midway Lane campsite. A Lions Club barbecue, which will cost $3.00 provided by the Ozona Chamber of per plate, will start the activities at 5:30. The program will include a vesper service by Jim Furr, a historical program by Troy Williams and Lee Graves, and a music program by the Ollie Sudduths, featuring old camp fire songs. Tickets to the barbecue may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office or at the campsite.

Many stories about livestock being moved along the Ozona Barnhart

(OB) Trap Company route have come to life. The old Barnhart highway is the route the wagon train will follow in its two day trip. The second day of the trip will enable the modern pioneers to see the state Sesquicentennial wagon train when it camps in Barnhart, near the campsite of the Ozona group.

WTU asks to refund $9.3 million

West Texas Utilities Company's retail customers should see another decrease in their electric bills soon if the Public Utility Commission of Texas approves a request filed Monday in Austin.

WTU is asking permission to refund to customers a total of $9.3 million in retail revenues collected in excess of actual fuel costs, and to lower its fuel charge rate. The total includes $9,146,092 in actual fuel cost savings which have accumulated since the current fuel rate for WTU was set by the PUC last August, plus $215,837 in interest.

This would be the second time within a year for WTU to make a refund and to lower its fuel cost factor. Over $16 million was refunded in August 1985.

A typical residential customer would receive refunds of $22.

Glen D. Churchill, WTU president and chief executive officer, said this refund, as well as the one made last year, is necessary because of a softer fuel market and the fixed factor method of collecting for fuel costs.

The present method was ordered by the PUC after the Public Utility Regulatory Act was amended in 1983. Prevously, an automatic fuel adjustment clause matched fuel billings to fuel expense each month. These immediate adjustments pre-If a reduction in its fuel rates, vented over-recoveries and made all of WTU's eight major power generating stations. In recent years, fuel costs have amounted to more than half of WTU's total operating costs, but have dropped from an all-time high of $3.18 per million BTU in 1983 to $2.55 in 1985.

Pipeline halted

Work on the All American pipeline stopped March 14 after a federal judge in Austin ordered a temporary halt, according to John Smith, local chief inspector for the All American Pipeline Co. The order, signed by U. S. District Judge James Nowlin, came after agreement by both sides to halt construction east of McCamey until after a court hearing April 10. The order is in effect until April 12. Approximately 30 workers in Crockett County were laid off at 5:00 p.m.," according to R. B. Potasnick business manager Don Ireland. Seven All American pipeline inspectors retained their jobs, but three have been transferred to California, said Smith.

Board renews teacher contracts

The Crockett County Consolidated Common School District Board of Trustees, meeting in regular session on Tuesday, March 11, approved contract renewals for seventy-seven teachers in the local school system. Elementary school teachers receiving contract extensions include: Vicky Gonzales, Susie Childress, Tommie Pena-Alfaro, Dena Porter, Kathy Reavis, Katharine Russell, Rita Sigwing, Connie Fowler, Jeannine Henderson, Vicki Jackson, Pat Sinclair, Barbara Wallace, Virginia Cotton, Thelma Janes, Ellen Lipsey, Glenda Winkley, Darolyn Webster, Becky Dillard, Rosalind Williams, Beverly Evans, Maridel Dudley, Deborah Glasscock, Janis Graham, Kathy Grendahl, Sara Hignight, Darla Jones, Shirley Kirby, Alicia Leal, Leticia Macias, Joyce Maness, Judy Probst, Manuela Rodriquez, Martha Sims, Margaret Spiller, Vicki Stokes, Bill Williams and Cora Worthington. Secondary school teachers receiving contract extensions are: Judy Bradford, Jill Crawford, Frances Curry, Lynda Falkner, Glenn Graham, Bettye Hoover, Fred Jones, Mary Nations, Don Payne, Debbie Porter, Renee Schulze, Sherry Scott, Don Stark, Jerry Tucker, Donnie York, Debbie Arrott, Richard Bridges, James Cox, Thomas De-Hoyos, Mark Duncan, Emma Franco, Kelly Glaze, Gene Hood, H. Hoover, Pete Maldonado, Cliff McMullan, David McWilliams, Brant Myers, Jan North, Ruben Pena-Alfaro, David Porter, Frank Reavis, Lane Scott, Jacquelyn Shacklette, Judy Sims, Chesta Stuart, Louise Taliaferro, Eric Wharton, Jim White and Sherry York. Following contract approvals, Curtis Keith, school maintenance supervisor, met with the Board to discuss school roofing needs. The members were shown a video tape prepared by Mr. Keith which showed the condition of the roofs on all buildings owned by the school district. When asked about the overall condition of the roofs, Mr. Keith replied, "Approximately thirty percent are in poor condition, thirty percent are in fair condition, and forty percent are in good-excellent condition." After discussing various types of roofing systems, the trustees voted to advertise for bids on a polyurethane roof-coating system which will be used by Mr. Keith's department to correct the problem. The 1986-87 Ozona School calendar was read and approved by the members. The new calendar calls for teacher inservice to begin on Friday, August 22, for new teachers and/or for those teachers who have not fulfilled their one day of optional compensatory inservice. All teachers will report for work on Monday, August 25, and school will start on Tuesday, September 2. The last day of school will be Thursday, May 28, and graduation will be on Friday, May 29.

Quarterly Fixed Fuel Factor, is approved, WTU officials estimate the fuel cost charges to its customers will drop by 8.2 percent during the three month quarter beginning in May.

The due amounts on customer bills include both fuel costs and base rates. Utility companies are not allowed to make money on fuel. WTU has had no change in its base rates since 1984.

Churchill said WTU's fuel costs have declined two years in a row. "This reflects our successful efforts to purchase natural gas at lower prices to the extent possible, and to take advantage of declining prices,' he said.

"Also, we had substantial benefits from lower fuel costs associated with power purchased over our system's high voltage direct current tie with Public Service Company of Oklahoma, which now has been in

Open house exhibits

Parents, grandparents, teachers and principals turned out to see the exhibits of their children's school work March 13 during the annual open house at Ozona schools.

For many parents, it was a time to discuss with teachers how their child was doing in his studies. The decorated rooms often featured the Texas Sesquicentennial theme, or celebrate his birthday February 6. Halley's Comet. Replicas of the Alamo and other Texas forts featured the student's creativity.

In one room, Mrs. Ted Cotton prominently displayed a card and picture of President and Mrs. Reagan. The students had sent a birthday card to President Reagan February 6. "They received this reply March 12," Mrs. Cotton, a second grade teacher, said. "We all ate jellybeans to help Reagan

"We are shut down for a minimum of 30 days. I sure don't know when or if work will resume here," Smith said.

Suit was filed Tuesday, March 11, by Attorney General Jim Mattox to stop construction and acquisition of right-of-way until the federal government assesses the environmental impact of the McCamey-to-Webster portion of the project.

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management is also named in the suit. Mattox claims that the Bureau of Land Management did not prepare a study of the McCamey - Webster portion of the pipeline, thus making an environmental impact statement of the project incomplete.

The company, a subsidiary of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., is considering a route that would steer the pipeline clear of the Edwards Aquifer.

The work had been progressing on schedule, but there have been environmental objections since construction started on the pipeline several months ago.

Brownies to mall sleepover

By Cynthia Harrell Hodges

Girl Scouts, among them local Brownie Troop 24, invaded Sunset Mall March 14 for the annual El Camino Council sleepover.

Members of Troop 24, headed by leaders Roylan Sullivan, Shawn Mitchell and Roxanne Hailey, were among more than 330 girls who pitched camp at the mall, staking out storefronts with bedrolls and sleeping bags.

The third annual sleepover coincided with the celebration of the Girl Scouts' 74th anniversary and the Texas Sesquicentennial.

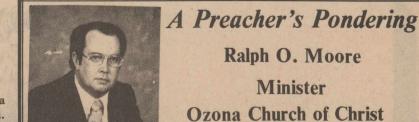

The girls heard stories from a representative of Old Fort Concho about the life of women during pioneer days.

The different troops decorated T-shirts, pillowcases, drew flowers, painted rainbows and did other craft events at the mall.

Girls enjoying the event from Ozona included Shelly Sullivan, Megan Mitchell, Brook Hailey, Jessica Skains, Amanda Maldonado, Amanda Ortiz, Christy Vasquez, Veronica Vasquez, Sara Harrison, Michelle Marshall, Jacinda Borrego, Jamie Porter and Jackie Lara....

The girls participated in a shoebox float competition, and played games. "It was a late night, but everyone did real good," said leader Mrs. Hailey. The troop returned to Ozona March 15.

Too broken to mend

As a child, I had a favorite toy. Mine was a little truck and with it I travelled many miles hauling logs, animals, and other necessitites concocted in the mind of a lad. Occasionally my truck broke, but a trip to my repairman always put it "on the road again." One day, after a particularly gruelling session in the dirt pile, my truck was taken to "the shop" and I was told, "Your truck is too broken to mend."

Too broken to mend. I've observed other situations that have a striking similarity to the one I experienced as a child. A favorite piece of China a child. A favorite piece of china falls to the floor and its shattered pieces are too broken to mend. A devastating crash leaves a plane too broken to mend. Eyeglasses, tools, pencils, windows - the list is endless of things that are broken and cannot be repaired.

If we only had to deal with things I guess we could do a better job in accepting broken things - but people are often too broken to mend. Dreams, ambitions, plans that we have often fail to happen and before long it is evident that we can't do anything about them. Relationships are often broken by an angry word, a misunderstanding, or mistake. Physical problems often present us with pain that cannot be eased. The ultimate breaking that we cannot mend is death. One dies and our hearts experience a loneliness and hurt that no man can take away.

Ralph O. Moore

Minister

We acknowledge that toy trucks, dreams, dishes, automobiles and people are often too broken to mend. Despair, anxiety - even anger often follow that announcement. People often react by throwing the item into the junk pile, harboring ill feelings, or retreating to a hiding place in their lives. That is understandable, but --- God has a mending place!

Listen to the Word of the Lord: "The Lord is near to the broken hearted, and saves those who are crushed in spirit" (Ps. 34:18). God does care! No one is too broken to mend for Him. "He heals the brokenhearted, and binds up their wounds" (Ps. 147.3).

Many people feel that they are too broken to mend. Their lives have been scorched by sin, and it seems to them that they are too bad to come to God. Jesus came to mend. Isaiah's portraval of the Messiah was one of a Great Mender (Isa. 61.1).

Too broken to mend? Not at God's hand. His workmanship restores those that seem beyond repair. The cross of Christ radiates a healing that overcomes the broken. I'm so glad, aren't you?

Style show offers spring colors

By Cynthia Harrell Hodges

The Teacher's Store hosted a spring style show March 13 featuring not only beautiful spring frocks, but also delicious munchies.

The newly redecorated store, owned by Becky Childress and Jody Sessom, featured a buffet table with crackers, olives, celery, and cheeses with deli meats. The centerpiece for the table was of spring flowers white gladiolas, green snapdragon, coral daisy mums and blue Dutch iris.

Accessories of brightly colored belts and costume and silver jewelry pieces accentuated the colorful clothes. "Color is the major story for Spring '86," said mistress of ceremonies Becky Childress.

Primary colors of red. blue, vellow pickup trucks. "Uncle Arthur Hoover had a ranch leased on the Barnhart highway," recalled Lee Graves. "Uncle Arthur was one of the last people here to use trucks. Because of this, I have lots of experience moving livestock to Barnhart on horseback.

"We turned north on the old highway. The first night was spent at the Buckhorn Trap. There was a concrete trough and a little store, where you could get food. Twin Oaks was the campsite the second night, and we arrived at Barnhart the third night.

"I remember on one occasion," Graves said, "Uncle Arthur sold 3,000 head of sheep. It was during a drought, and he was forced to sell. The sheep had to be delivered in 500 head bunches. That meant six round trips.

"This was in the mid-1930's. We camped at the same camps each trip. Three fellows made the trips. When I graduated from high school in 1933, I decided against going to college to be an engineer. I took a job with Uncle Arthur. He did not have a cook for the drives. We ate canned stuff. Someone else drove a pickup, and we had beans and fried taters - not near enought, however.

'We delivered the sheep to a man in Barnhart as fast as we could. We would leave the saddle horses in Barhnart, and go back to get the remaining livestock in the pickup. The horses stayed in traps, because we went when it was a slow time of the year.

"I was not in full charge, as I wasn't yet a full-fledged rancher. I made certain decisions on the drives. I never knew when I became a man...it came about so quick.

"We would round up the livestock early in the morning. Occasionally, we would pass or meet a herd on the trip. One time, we were coming from the west, and we met Sherman Taylor. I was alone with my 7,500 head. Taylor had 10,000 head going west. I had to kick the fence down and put mine in a pasture.'

Graves recalled the long work hours put in by both men and women. "Brite Williams was an old-time cowboy who helped with our drives. It was a privilege to go on the drives. I wanted to see and learn everything that I could. We had good horses, but no dogs. Uncle Arthur used dogs to catch panthers, not to

'The horses and cowboys had a good life then. We have a good life now," Graves concluded.

The water well at Midway Lane, where the travelers will camp the first night, has an interesting history. According to Troy Williams, Hugh Gray was under contract to drill a water well for the OB Trap Company. The late V.I. Pierce was president of the OB Trap Company at the time. Gray informed Pierce that water had been found at 140 feet.

Since most water was found at 350-400 feet in the area, Pierce instructed Gray to continue drilling. at $1 per foot, until he could get to Midway Lane. It was three or four days later before Pierce finally traveled to the site. Gray had continued drilling to 400 feet, but no extra horse and the cook would other water was found, and the well was plugged back to the original 140 feet, where it still pumps 20-22 gallons per day. Pleas Childress Jr. recalled how 60 years ago, when "I was about 12 years old, the trip would take us three to three and one half days. Uncle Hugh (Childress) served as foreman for the group. We had a chuckwagon that served standard camp food of beans and potatoes. At the end of the trip, we could go to the picture show in Barnhart and see a Richard Dix movie.

"We all had a good time, and traveled about eight to 10 miles per day. One night a storm came up, and we got no sleep. When we moved cattle, the trip would take two days. We would cut the calves off in Barnhart. Dogs were not used by Uncle Hugh. We always took an round up the horses. It was an awful slow trip," Childress reminisced.

Many of you have heard about the nationally advertised book titled Fit For Life written by Marilyn and Harvey Diamond. This book does not correspond to the Fit For Life courses being taught by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Unfortunately, they only have the same name.

The Fit For Life book advises liberal intakes of fruits and vegetables, limited intakes of bread, limited milk products, and limited meats. Exercise is recommended, but without a specific plan The Fit For friends. Life book is not endorsed by Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The Fit For Life course taught by Texas Agricultural Extension Service corresponds closely to the United States Department of Agriculture dietary guidelines of: eating a variety of the basic four food groups (limiting too much fat, sugar, alcohol and salt), maintaining an ideal weight, maintaining a regular exercise program, and managing lifestyle habits (stress). These guidelines are especially helpful to individuals with heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure and the average American.

Sodium is a mineral which is necessary for proper body function. It is involved in maintaining blood volume and cellular osmatic pressure and in transmitting nerve impulse throughout the body. Body needs for sodium are not great. Intakes of 1,100-3,300 milligrams of sodium per day are considered safe by the Food and Nutrition board of the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council. One teaspoon of salt contains about 2000 mg. of sodium.

The following guidelines will be useful in limiting salt intakes:

sodium than muscle meats. Shellfish of all kinds is especially high in sodium, but other salt water fish contain no more sodium than freshwater fish.

Processed foods, including commercially canned, frozen, and cured foods, are likely to have more sodium since sodium products are used as preservatives, flavorings and as other aids.

Quilting - an art of the past, an art of today

By Cynthia Harrell Hodges

The art of quilting, of slowly sewing together a comforter or quilt by hand, harkens back to a slower paced age. But for one Ozona woman, Mrs. George Olson, it led to a second place finish at the 1986 Creative Arts Department competition of the San Angelo Stock Show and Rodeo

"When I was a girl, my mother quilted. It is not hard to learn, and I like to sew by hand," Mrs. Olson explained.

"I cut my own patterns. I piece some by machine and some by hand. I like to use small stitches, and I always make sure knots aren't showing. The smaller the stitches, the prettier the quilt will be," said the active Faith Lutheran member.

"I didn't start quilting until 1974, after I retired from my job at White's Auto store after seven years. We moved to Ozona in 1964, when my husband was transferred here with the highway department."

For the beginner, Mrs. Olson advises using a simple pattern, such as the rail fence (straight lines) or the migration (diamonds). Harder patterns, such as the double wedding ring pattern and the moorish motive and water wheel, often contain more than 2000 pieces. The most difficult patterns are grandma's garden, lone star (so many small pieces) and around the world. Secondly, "you have to cut the pieces and piece them together. It is a lot prettier and will mean a lot more if pieced by hand. I use cotton polyester batting because it launders well and will last.

The entire quilting process is time consuming. It takes about 40 hours to cut a pattern; 40 hours to piece the quilt, and 40 hours to quilt it.

The veteran of 50 large quilts has no favorite. "After I get started, I like them all.

'This is the only kind of sewing I do. I like to see the finished product. It is a good pastime, and they make real good gifts," Mrs. Olson explained.

"This is an inexpensive hobby. Scraps can be used on some patterns." Like many craft persons, Mrs. Olson feels the quilts are too pretty to use. "I like to put them in a closet. I do use some of them."

The Olsons plan to continue staying in Ozona following her husband's retirement after 35 years from the highway department in November.

The Olsons are the parents of two grown sons. Gerald Olson is a driller in Kennnedy. "Gerald and his wife, Tami, have two daughters. Their son, Donald, is an architect in Mesquite, and he and his wife, Vicky, have three children, two boys and one girl."

Aside from grandchildren and family interests, the Olsons are active members of Faith Lutheran Church. "I am the church organist and a member of the Lutheran women's group." Her baking talents also contributed 10 cakes to a bake sale last week.

Central Texas. Hays and Travis County officials have challenged the pipeline project in court, viewing it as a potential threat to the aquifer.

One alternate route being considered would add approximately 22 miles to the pipeline. The alternate northern route would go east from McCamey to Bell County, north of Austin, and then southeast to the coast. A second alternate route would take it south from McCamey to Zavala County north of the Rio Grande, and then east to the coast.

The pipeline is an $800 million project that is expected to pump an average of 300,000 barrels of crude oil (with a maximum of 450,000 barrels) per day from California to the Texas Gulf Coast.

Tennis teams shine in Sonora

By T. C. Tucker

Saturday, March 15, the Ozona Junior High tennis team took part in the Sonora Tennis Tournament. Several of the players were victorious in their efforts.

In 7th grade girls' singles, Melissa Watson, who reached the semi-finals in last week's San Angelo tourney, received a bye the first round. However, she was soundly defeated in her next match, thus going into the third place match. She won this match and third place along with it.

Cody Morris lost his first match, but went on to win his next one 8-0. All matches were played in pro-sets but bounced back to win her next except the championship match.

Two doubles teams participated in the 7th grade girls' division. Mary Turnley and Jenifer Colin won their first and second matches easily, advancing to the championship match. There they again won easily 6-1, 6-0.

The other doubles team of Janet King and Tonya Ramos received a bye, then lost 3-8 in the semi-finals. In the third place match, King and Ramos won 8-5.

Tammy Arrott was the only Ozona girl to participate in the 8th grade girls' play. She lost her first match, match. Arrott won the consolation.

Scotty Burks slipped past his first opponent 8-6, only to be beaten in his next match. However, he easily won the third place position 8-3.

The two doubles teams of Sotero Fuentes-Danny Vasquez and Ricky Burger-Martin Childress lost their first matches, but wound up playing each other for consolation. Fuentes and Vasquez prevailed, winning 8-5.

The junior high teams will be competing in the Junction tournament this Friday and Saturday.

The court order halts construction, but allows All-American to continue taking delivery of pipe and other equipment in Corpus Christi. It permits work on the pipe, including coating and insulating. The order also allows the company to take part in land condemnation proceedings as well as conduct surveying work needed for condemnation efforts.

There have been three law suits filed regarding the pipeline. One filed in Midland last month by All American argues that the state has no jurisdiction over the pipeline. In that case, the Texas Railroad Commission and Travis and Hays counties have been temporarily barred from taking any action that would prevent construction of the pipeline. TECAT Day Reflections

7:30 A.M. - Smiling faces. Some smirking...Do we really need photo I.D.?...I Lost mine...Nope. Here it is...Guess this driver's license will do...How about Mastercharge?...Bank Americard?...Of course you know me...What do you mean you don't know ANYONE?... This is the pits...Let's get on with it...

7:45 A.M. - Attentive...Serious...Understand every word...Thank goodness we read all these instructions before today...We must pass this test...Four years of college on the line...Twenty years of teaching...Yet, we still have to prove we can...are competent...The whole nine-yards...Our livelihood...

BEGIN - Pretty thick booklet...Doesn't look too bad...One step at a time...That's what we tell the kids...Relax...Stretch...Yawn...Shuffle papers...[Can a pot of gold be at the end of the rainbow?]...Why don't they just let us do what we know best: TEACH!!...Turn page emphatically crease paper...Inference. Read v-e-r-y carefully...No smoking! The Great American Smoke-out today, Too?...Cough...Cough...Chewing gum... Snap! Crackle! Pop!...Rice Krispies, anyone?

Fact and Opinion - Well, it's a FACT that I'm taking this darn test and MY opinion that I should not be taking it!...Why must we keep proving ourselves outside the classroom?...We educate the kids and do a darn good job if I say so...Ahem! Scratch head...Drum fingers...Pencil is getting dull...Whir...Whir of the pencil sharpener...No eating or drinking within the testing area...Nothing like a rule to make one hungry or thirsty...

A psychology prof could have a hey-day reading all this body language...Crossing legs...Uncrossing legs...Sliding low in chair...Suddenly sitting erect...Shuffling feet...Nervous foot: Tap. Tap. Tap...Deep thinker... Halfway through test: 30 second break??...Reach high...B-e-n-d...Stretch right...Stretch left...Will my back ever be the same?...Kicnard summons: "Come on!"

Punctuation...A snap! Well, for me, anyway. Favorite subject in school---grammar...Oops! Must be careful on this answer sheet...Too many little dots...Eye-hand coordination definitely needed here...Ahah! They left out a comma! Hmmm...Now, let's see...Job-Related Vocabulary...Intrinsic...Extrinsic...Self-explanatory...Norms...Percentile...Reviewing helped... Know how the kids feel on test day. Guess adults are just kids in grown-up clothing. [How's that for a turn of phrase?]

At last...The essay...At least 150 words...Topics?...Only two. To choose? Eenee, meenee, minee, mo, etc...Flip a coin...Better start something...Time is flying...So are pencils...

Erasures...Time for restroom break...Do I really have to raise my hand? O.K., here goes...Nod from Test Administrator...Fastest two minutes of the morning...Count my words: 144, 145, and 146...Darn! Four more words! What to change? Surely an "a", "an" or "the" can fit somewhere!...Erase... Erase...Write...Write...147, 148...Erase...Erase...Write...Write...Write... 149...150!...Now to proof it...It's all on the line...O.K..Guess I'm satisfied...Like I tell the kids: Be able to say you did your best...Sigh...Relief...Looking around I see many others who did their best, too...We're a good group. Devoted...Honorable...and yes, PROUD...If only when we all pastt the test the "powers-that-be" won't say: "Hey! Perhaps we made it too easy!"

Pandale Pannings by Jonny Johnson

This has been another one of those weeks that was. The week started off with a very low profile and descended lower. Noon Wednesday I had to give up and go home, before I was unable to get there.

The shearers came again Thursday night, and we had a shower that held things up until almost noon Friday. We finished shearing about 10:00 a.m. Sunday morning.

It is always a good feeling to have that behind you.
