Lions capture bi-district

By T. C. Tucker

Using a fourth quarter rally, the Ozona Lions beat the Stanton Buffalos and won the payoff for the 6-AA district title. Then Friday, Feb. 26, the Lions broke away in the same quarter and obliterated Presidio 82-56 to capture the bi-district title as well.

Although the Lions won the first half of district play, they suffered three losses in the second half while Stanton won it, setting up the confrontation between the two teams to determine the district winner and runner-up. Regardless of the outcome, both teams were ensured a bi-district game.

The situation did not look good at the start of the Stanton game. The Buffalos tallied 16 points while the Lions had trouble putting the ball through the hoop.

With this advantage, Stanton held onto a favorable five to ten point lead throughout the second and third quarters. In the fourth and final quarter, things changed.

One moment the Lions were down by eight; the next they held the lead by that amount.

"That's the quickest turn-around we've ever had," Coach John Curry said. "It took a run in the final period to win the game."

And yes, the Lions went on to win by the same margin Stanton had led with during much of the game, 57-48.

"We had a good game and played smart ball," Coach Curry said of the district win, the first for Ozona since 1963.

Scott Denman, the powerhouse post, scored 17 points while Sam Hightower added 14 of his own.

Denman controlled the boards as usual with nine rebounds, and Oscar Payne pulled down six.

With the win, the Lions played a runner-up from another district. As the Lions learned, Presidio ranked as a good team, but lacked the quality that Stanton possessed.

Friday night rolled around, and Ozona rolled over Presidio 82-56. Denman and Hightower again highlighted Ozona's scoring with 26 and 15 points, helping in the Lions' early grasp of the lead and continuation of holding it.

"I was pleased we were able to score that much as well as play everyone," Coach Curry said.

All the team members played, but those such as Denman continued to dominate. He led in rebounding once again with 14 points. Danny Sanchez and Abel Lara stole the ball three times each.

The win moved the Lions into area play against Coleman on Tuesday, March 3.

"Coleman is a good team with very few weaknesses," Coach Curry said. "They don't have any outstanding players, but have several good players which helps in them being a good team. I figure it will be a close game."

If the Lions defeated Coleman, they will advance to the regional tournament. The possible opponent would be the winner of the Stratford-Morton game either at 6:00 or 8:00 p.m. at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum in Big Spring March 6.

Quiett transferred to Balmorhea

Reggie Quiett, range conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Ozona, has been promoted to district conservationist in Balmorhea. The promotion and transfer will become effective March 15.

Reggie came to Ozona in January of 1982. As a staff member of the local Soil Conservation Service, he has been instrumental in continuing and strengthening the range and wildlife management program of the Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District.

"His activities in Crockett County have increased the district's ability to provide local ranchers with the professional services they deserve," says W. R. Baggett Jr., chairman of the Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District.

"With Reggie's help we have expanded our expertise in brush control, wildlife management and grazing management. His efforts have been tireless, and we are most fortunate to have had his services for the past five years," Baggett said.

Reggie has been an active supporter of various local organizations. As a member of the United Methodist Church, he has served on various advisory boards. He is a member of the Extension Service Program Building Committee and has assisted in training 4-H youth plant identification and range evaluation teams. He is a member of the Masonic Lodge where he serves as their chief officer.

"We wish Reggie all the best in his new position," said Baggett.

It takes more than two to stop me!

Sam Hightower is determined to make his shot as Stanton players attempt to block. The Ozona Lions defeated Stanton Feb. 24 57-48 to win the district championship for the first time since 1963.

Ranchers told bracero program best bet

Crockett County's ranchers turned out in force Thursday evening at the Ozona Civic Center to learn how the new immigration law will affect them and to hear suggestions as to what they can do about it.

Donald Coe, assistant chief patrol agent of the Del Rio sector of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, told listeners about their responsibilities and liabilities as employers under the new law.

Coe's program was followed by a report and urge to action from P. L. Childress III, first vice-president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, and Pierce Miller, both Crockett County ranchers, who reported on the activities of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association regarding the immigration bill.

The Immigration Reform and Control Act signed into law Nov. 6, 1986, by President Reagan became effective immediately, enabling illegal aliens who have been residing in the United States since before Jan. 1, 1982, to become legal residents.

Employers must assume new responsibilities for the first time under provisions of the law including the maintaining of documentation proving employees legal status and right to work.

For the first time, employers of illegal aliens will be liable to citations and fines after June 1, 1987.

A six-month education period is in effect until June 1 during which no citations or warnings are being given.

First offenses after June 1 will draw a citation, but subsequent offenses will carry fines ranging from $250 to $10,000 per alien, depending on the number and frequency of offenses.

A pattern and practice of employing illegal aliens will put an employer in the position of drawing a six-month jail sentence in addition to a $3,000 fine.

One year later on June 1, 1988, the new sanctions will become fully effective with fines assessed on first offenses as well as all subsequent offenses. There will be no warnings issued once the sanctions become fully effective.

"Anyone you hire after Nov. 6, 1986, is subject to arrest, but employers are not until June 1, 1987," Coe said.

To facilitate the documentation of workers, a new employment form called an I-9 form is being readied by the government. These should be ready to distribute to all the nation's employers by mid-April, according to Coe.

An I-9 form will be required for each employee and must be kept in the filing system of the employer. I-9 forms must be maintained for U.S. citizens employed as well as all aliens.

The U. S. Departments of Labor and Justice may examine the I-9 forms at will.

The government will consider it reasonable to complete the form within 24 hours of the time an employee is hired," Coe said.

The question of salary requirements arose with Coe speculating that employers would be

Childress, Jones attend commission brunch

Geniece Childress, Crockett County Historical Commission chairman, and Camille Jones, Crockett

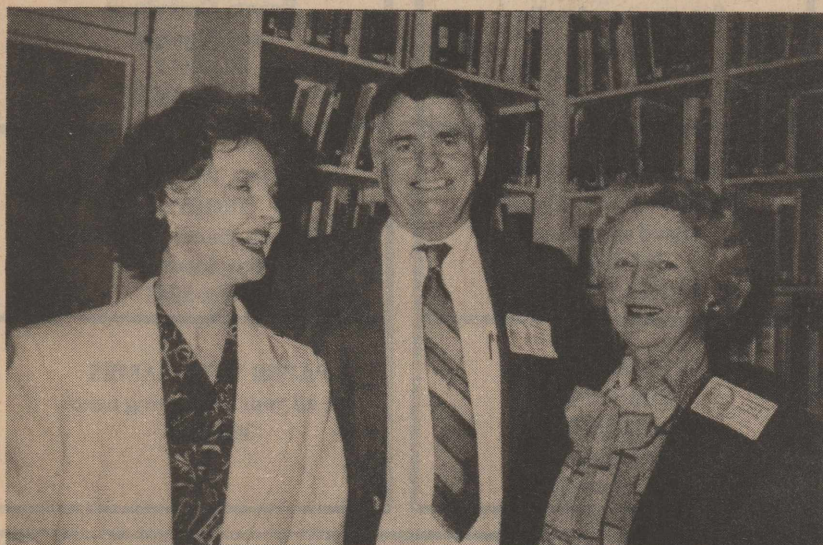

County Historical Society president were in Austin Feb. 25 to attend a brunch at the Texas Historical Commission Headquarters. Their special guests were Senator Bill Sims, Rep. Gerald Geistweidt and Rep. Dudley Harrison. Historical commission county chairmen from many counties in the state attended with their respective senators and legislators.

That afternoon Mrs. Childress spoke before the Historical and Cultural Affairs Committee urging no further cuts be made in the Historical Commission budget.

She expressed Crockett County's appreciation to the Historical Commission for the help given the county in archeology work, architectural assistance on the Emerald House, and in the many phases of museum work. She urged restraint in further budget cutting of the Historical Commission.

Rep. Geistweidt and Sen. Sims, Crockett County's congressmen, were extended a cordial invitation to visit Crockett County.

Aycock to speak to Lions

Bobby Aycock will discuss the dangers of H2S gas at the Lions Club meeting at noon March 5. Aycock has been trained to deal with that lethal gas. He will cover the hazards the gas can create, such as the case recently when I-10 was closed.

Louise Ledoux informed the Lions in their Feb. 26 meeting about the tremendous resources that are available through Crockett County Public Library. She reported that not only are all kinds of books available, but so are films, equipment, meeting rooms and many other services.

The club heard moans and groans from some of the players in the recent basketball game. It seems the game was a great success in spite of the many strained muscles the players complained of.

Charlie's to close this week

Charlie Frazier, owner of Charlie's Highway Cafe, is closing his establishment this week and will begin training with the Kettle restaurant chain.

The training will involve three months on the road according to Frazier. He hopes to be assigned to the Kettle Restaurant in San Angelo following the training period.

"The economy has reached the point to where we need to close down," said Frazier. He opened at his present location Nov. 13 after 14 years of feeding the public in Ozona.

Students told to "Say no to drugs"

Fourth grade students at Ozona Intermediate School learned about the dangers of drugs and alcohol Feb. 26 during a special program presented by Keith Turner and John McDaniels of the Midland County Sheriff's Department Crime Prevention Unit.

Turner urged the students to avoid friends who do drugs. "You do what mom, dad, school teachers and what you want to do," he said.

Drinking and driving were also topics discussed during the session. The students were each given a copy of the leaflet, Don't Lose a Friend to Drugs featuring McGruff, the Crime Dog.

Six ways to say no to drugs are included in the leaflet.

★ Bracero

As to pay minimum wages.

At several times during the session, a murmur came from the audience at Coe's revelation.

"Minimum wages and workman's compensation are problems between the employer and the Department of Labor," Coe said. "But, illegal aliens granted temporary or permanent residency will not be eligible for public assistance for five years. However, they will be eligible for school lunch programs and other similar aid."

Employers must now examine documents at the time of employment and fill out the I-9 forms. However, the employer will not be held responsible for the authenticity of the documents examined.

"The government is not expecting employers to be document experts," Coe said. "Employers are not liable if the documents reasonably appear to be genuine. Of course, something scrawled on the back of a cigarette pack would not be acceptable."

Some illegal aliens presently residing in the U. S. may be eligible for permanent or temporary legal residency status.

Those persons who feel that they may qualify for legalization are urged to begin compiling documents which will help prove their claims of having resided unlawfully in the U.S. Such documents may include employment-related documents, utility payments, school or medical records and rent receipts. Other documents may be used to prove the residency as well.

Illegal aliens residing in the U. S. since before Jan. 1, 1982, and who have been absent for brief periods of not more than a total of 150 days altogether or 60 days at one time may apply for legal temporary residency between May 5, 1987 and May 5, 1988.

After becoming temporary residents, a wait of 18 months before applying for permanent residency status is required. The application for permanent status must be made within a one year period after attaining eligibility for the status change or deportation may follow.

Some aliens may be eligible to apply for special agricultural worker (SAW) status if they have performed seasonal agricultural services in the U.S. for at least 90 days between May 1, 1985 and May 1, 1986.

However, county ranchers were dismayed to learn that the care of livestock, meat processing, poultry care, and wood products are not considered to be perishable products by the government. Workers employed in these services are not eligible for SAW status.

Workers involved in the planting, cultivating, picking, etc. of perishable agricultural products are eligible for SAW status.

Several quirks in the new law were explained by Coe. If an alien were outside the U. S. on the day of the bill's enactment, he has lost his eligibility for legal status.

"If an illegal alien were picked up Nov. 1 and did not return to the U. S. until Nov. 8, he has lost his eligibility," Coe said.

The Immigration Service has been instructed to not deport prima facie claimants (those who on the face of it appear to be eligible) between Nov. 6, 1986 and June 1, 1987.

"The law applies to all foreign nationals - not just Mexicans," Coe said.

The ranchers' best bet is to petition the U. S. Department of Agriculture for workers, saying there is a shortage of particular kinds of workers, according to Coe.

"There's no provision for workers not eligible for permanent residency to come to the U. S. to work," Coe said. "Not under this law, but there is a movement afoot similar to the old bracero program to bring agricultural workers - not ranch workers."

Such workers coming to the U. S. for temporary work would still be required to have passports and visas.

"Mexico is underemployed - unemployed. We have jobs here," Coe said. "The theory is that if there were no jobs - if no one would hire them - then they wouldn't come."

Childress urged ranchers to fill out survey forms for the TSGRA. These will be used in an effort to persuade the government to initiate a bracero program.

Pierce Miller also urged ranchers to fill out the forms. "It is very important to fill this out. If you do nothing else today, fill this out."

"We are looking for the salary requirements of plain old ranch hands - not ranch foremen with years of experience and in supervisory capacities."

Miller explained some of the activities of the TSGRA in relation to the immigration bill.

"State Senator Bill Sims, Tuffy Whitehead and I represented the TSGRA in Washington in October and lobbied for the ranchers," Miller said. "Since then every other crop group in the country has been there to lobby. We just got left out."

Miller appeared optimistic that some sort of bracero program will eventually be initiated. It is expected that the TSGRA will be instrumental in this.

"The status of the TSGRA, because there aren't a whole lot of us, is that we can react much more quickly than some of the other organizations, but the down side is that there aren't too many of us," Miller said.

Coe also expressed some optimism for a bracero program as a remedy to the ranchers' plight. "I think this is the most viable route for you at this time."

Ozona tennis team makes tourney

By T. C. Tucker

Due to the cancellation of the San Angelo tennis tournament Feb. 20-21 because of rain, the Ozona High School tennis team's first tournament proved to be at Junction last weekend. Scoring 45 points, Ozona finished fifth overall against such tennis powerhouses as San Saba, Mason, Junction and Fredericksburg.

Singles player Summer Shacklette advanced the farthest of any Ozona member. Winning her first match 6-3, 6-4, Shacklette went on to beat Jennifer Ramirez of Sonora and moved into the semi-finals.

There Shacklette was outlasted 6-1, 3-6, 3-6 and forced to play for third. However, she failed to put anything together in her final match and instead finished fourth out of 16.

Jena Allen lost to favored Angie Carrasco of Sonora in her first match. She received a bye in her second match, but then lost her next two in close play.

In boy's singles action, Tommy Tucker won his first match, but lost in a rain-delayed duel 6-4, 4-6, 1-6. Tucker lost his two remaining matches and finished eighth overall.

Mark Sellers lost his first match in a close encounter with another rival from Sonora, Mike Hooper. In his next match, Sellers easily won 6-0, 6-0.

Sellers had another tough opponent in his third match, but played him close 2-6, 4-6. From there, Sellers captured the 11th place out of 16 in a pro-set 8-2 win.

Travis Burks and Marcos Gonzalez headed up the top doubles team for Ozona. They faced a top doubles team from Wall in their first match and came close to winning, but not close enough, losing 6-2, 6-7, 6-7.

Their next two matches proved close in score and action, but they won each. In the consolation match, a doubles team from Fredericksburg overpowered Burks and Gonzalez 8-3.

The doubles team of Mark Sanchez and Chris Ramirez gave a good effort against a top doubles team, but lost 0-6, 3-6. They lost their following match before winning 8-6 over a pair from Mason. Sanchez and Ramirez placed 14th overall after their final match.

Sylvia Flores and Suzy King were surprised in their first match, but rebounded to win their next one. In a three-set match, the two finally faltered against a doubles team from Wall. Flores and King eventually finished 11th after winning their last match 8-5.

Eileen Moran and Stacie McDaniel lost all four of their matches, but gained valuable experience toward future tournaments.

Several of the matches were delayed Friday night until the following morning due to a sudden rain storm. On Saturday, all the players had to battle fierce winds as well as their opponents.

"Overall we did all right, and there were several bright spots," Coach Jerry Tucker said. "We learned that we still need to work a lot and play in more competition tournaments."

The weekend following spring break, Ozona will travel to Big Lake on Friday and Saturday for the tournament there.

Boys place fourth in relays

By T. C. Tucker

Enduring cold and even snow, the Ozona boys' track team scored 77 total points to place fourth at the Fort Stockton Comanche Relays over the weekend, Feb. 26-27. Sanderson, Buena Vista and Grandfalls Royalty topped the first three positions with third place only two and one-half points ahead of Ozona.

The 400-meter and mile relay teams highlighted the meet for Ozona. In the 400, Beto Diaz, Valdo Galindo, Johnny Lombrana and Robby Tambunga sprinted to a 46.27 second win over Grandfalls.

James Sanchez was the only change in the line-up for the mile relay where Ozona beat the next two

Limits of Christian Liberty

By Rev. Carlos Venegas
Templo Bautista Jerusalem

I Cor. 8:1-13

Therefore, if food causes my brother to stumble, I will never eat meat again, that I might not cause my brother to stumble. I Cor. 8:13

Paul restates the principle he has been explaining. In regard to doubtful things, a Christian's first concern should not be to exercise his liberty to the limit, but to care about the welfare of his brother in Christ. Paul set the example. He would never eat meat again, or do anything else his own conscience allowed him to do, if that would cause his brother to stumble.

In deciding about whether or not to participate in any behavior that is doubtful, the following principles make a good checklist to follow.

EXCESS - Is the activity or habit necessary, or is it merely an extra that is not really important? Is it perhaps only an encumbrance that we should willingly give up? (Heb. 12:1)

EXPEDIENCE - "All things are lawful for me," Paul says. "But not all things are profitable," or expedient (I Cor. 6:12). Is what I want to do helpful and useful, or only desirable?

EMULATION - "The one who says he abides in Him ought himself to walk in the same manner as He walked." (I John 2:6). If we are doing what Christ would do, our action not only is permissible but good and right.

EXAMPLE - Are we setting the right example for others, especially for weaker brothers and sisters? If we emulate Christ, others will be able to emulate us, to follow our example. (I Tim. 4:12).

EVANGELISM - Is my testimony going to be helped or hindered? Will unbelievers be drawn to Christ or turned away from Him by what I am doing? Will it help me conduct myself, "With wisdom toward outsiders, making the most of the opportunity" (Col. 4:5)?

EDIFICATION - Will I be built up and matured in Christ, will I become spiritually stronger? "All things are lawful, but not all things edify". (I Cor. 10:23)

EXALTATION - Will the Lord be lifted up and glorified in what I do? God's glory and exaltation should be the supreme purpose behind everything we do. "Whether, then, you eat or drink or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God". (I Cor. 10:31)

Keep looking up, brother.

there during the month of March. Margaret Henderson of Cristoval is the creator of the many beautiful quilts on exhibit.

Methodist Church to have Dobson film series

The Education Committee of the Ozona United Methodist Church is pleased to announce the showing of the film series Turn Your Heart Toward Home - Dr. James Dobson's latest film series on the vital issue of family relationships. More than 50 million parents were inspired by the Dobson's first film series, Focus on the Family, and the Dobsons have taken the next dramatic step with this most powerful six-part series that will move parents into action and Christian commitment within the family.

Turn Your Heart Toward Home

begins at the Ozona United Methodist Church on Monday evening, March 9, from 5:30-6:30 p.m. (nursery provided) with the first in the series entitled A Father Looks Back - emphasizing how swiftly time passes and appeals to all parents to "turn their hearts toward home" during the all important child-rearing years. As the series continues, issues are confronted from early childhood battlegrounds such as mealtime and bedtime to the all important adolescent years.

Dr. Dobson, America's most trusted family life expert, brings to focus the all important idea of the vital Christian family in today's rapidly changing world. The series deals with pressures that today's parents and children are forced to confront, and portrays ways to counterbalance this struggle by a loving, Christian home. This is a personally challenging film series that every parent should see.

The public is invited and encouraged to attend this important film series. A free will offering will be taken to help defray the cost.

Dempster and Kate Jones celebrate 50th anniversary

Dempster and Esther Kate Jones were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary Friday, Feb. 28, 1987, by their daughters, Pamela Acton and Shelley Conner, and their husbands, Earl and Tommy.

An evening meal was enjoyed by family members at Charlie's restaurant. Tables were covered with white cloths with a centerpiece of yellow roses. Yellow candles lit up the table, and the cake was white with yellow roses and lemon filling.

Family members present were: grandchildren Tommy and Robin Conner, Fred and Clara Louise Dobson of Van Court, niece of Dempster; J. S. "Pie" Pierce III, brother of Esther Kate; and her nephews, William Pierce and Joe Pierce IV and his wife, Sammy; Mrs. Ralph Jones, sister-in-law of Dempster; Raleigh and Jean Conner.

Pie Pierce and Mrs. Dobson were present at the wedding 50 years ago.

Other grandchildren, Marty and Bobbie Acton, were unable to attend due to snowy weather in Alpine.

Tina Moran has successfully completed an EMS Basic Skills instructor course at Midland College.

Upon completion of the course, she received 16 hours of continuing education credits and certification as a basic skills instructor by the Texas Department of Health.

Baptist Church to host concert

Paul and Susie Luchsinger will be in concert at First Baptist Church March 11 at 7:30 p.m.

Susie is Reba McEntire's sister and has performed with Reba.

Paul is a professional rodeo cowboy who will give testimony.

During their five years of marriage, the two have traveled across the United States telling of God's goodness through Paul's testimony and Susie's music.

After their total commitment to the Lord in 1984, God began to close the doors to clubs and other places where Susie had once sung country music. He opened up new opportunities for their gospel ministry, especially rodeo arenas. The rodeo cowboys are the primary goal of Paul and Susie's ministry, but they also share their testimonies and music in churches, gospel concerts, and through working with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Piecing it all together

Quilt displayed in library for month of March

Quilts by Margaret Henderson are on display at Crockett County Public Library during March. Mrs. Henderson began her artistry with a needle and quilt frame with the Veribest Quilting Club in the early 70's at the age of 18.

Once the quilt addiction took hold, she had no time to do any other type of sewing. She favors using simple, traditional quilt patterns in somewhat untraditional color combinations. Her mother and grandmother are also quilters.

Mrs. Henderson is currently employed as the Director of Education at Planned Parenthood of the Concho Valley in San Angelo. She and her husband live in the country south of Cristoval.

A building separate from the home houses Mrs. Henderson's quilt projects. She attends quilt shows where she sells many of her wares. Custom made quilts take some of her time along with creating gifts for friends.

A number of Mrs. Henderson's large quilts are displayed at the library along with wall hangings and baby quilts. Smaller items may be viewed in the parlor where a photo album filled with pictures of her quilts is also displayed.

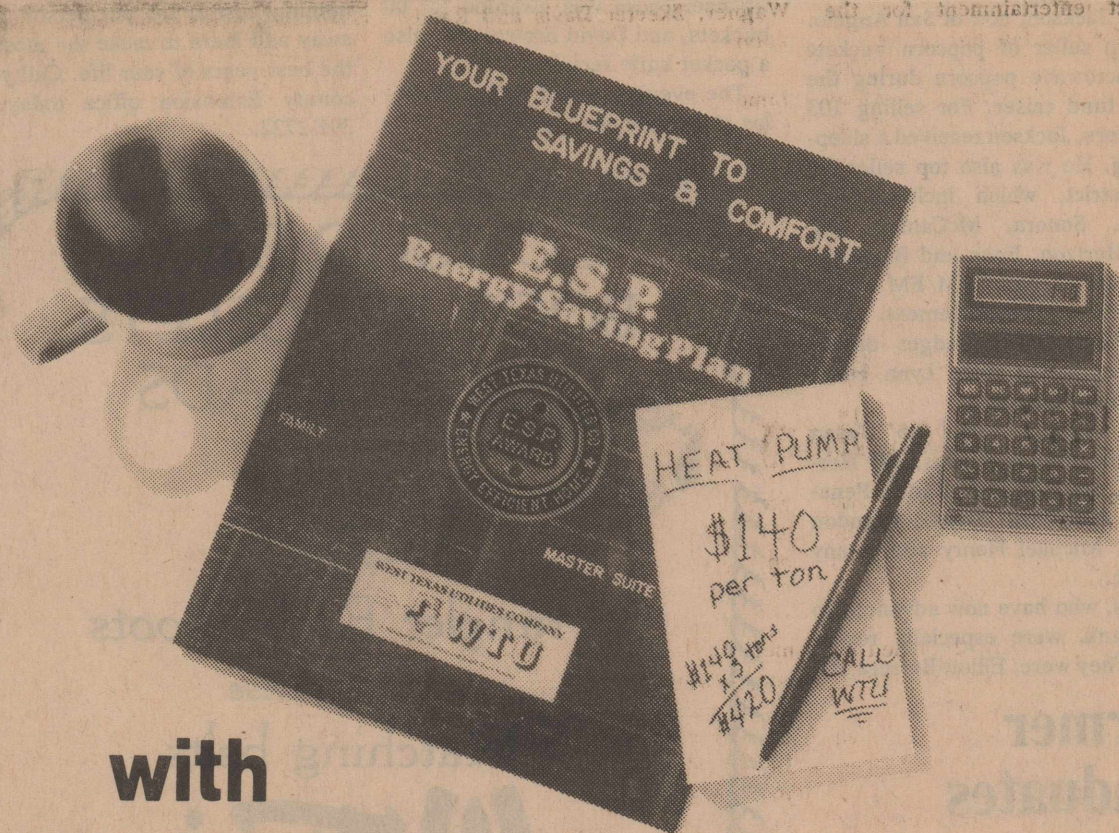

Two large quilts hang at the top of the stairs. The brilliant colors catch the eye of visitors to the library.

Two quilts, one a floral pattern, are also on display in the conference room upstairs.

Blue and Gold banquet honors Cub Scouts

Shining faces and slicked-down hair above Cub Scout and Webelo shirts marked the annual Blue and Gold Banquet Feb. 28.

Young Scouts and their parents gathered at the Civic Center for the annual awards ceremony and a delicious meal of fried chicken, brisket, potato salad, beans, cake and the trimmings.

Blue balloons tied with yellow cord and blue and yellow streamers down the white-covered tables carried out the banquet's theme.

Wooden airplanes crafted by the Cubs decorated the speaker's table.

Scoutmaster Esmi Barrera welcomed everyone prior to a flag ceremony by Webelo Scouts.

Discipline and single parents

All parents sometimes feel frustrated and overwhelmed in dealing with children. This is not a problem just for single parents. Single parents can manage their children's behavior in effective and rewarding ways.

Effective Parenting

There has been a long debate over whether parents should be strict or permissive. Research tells us that the answer is some of both. Studies have shown that effective parents expect mature behavior from their children and set clear standards. They firmly enforce limits and standards.

On the other hand, the research also shows that effective parents encourage individuality and independence by allowing children to think how to solve their own problems. These parents encourage discussion of issues, standards and problems.

Perhaps most important, they recognize the rights of both parents and children. Children are expected to be responsive to parents' demands and parents accept a similar responsibility to be responsive to children's needs.

Effective Single Parenting

According to the research, this same style of effective parenting promotes the well-being of children from single-parent families. Children accustomed to this style of parenting generally get along better with their peers and have high self-esteem.

These children develop a greater ability to think for themselves, and they do better in school. They also gain greater self-control.

Discipline Principles

Several important principles are related to effective parenting.

Clarifying expectations means parents must know what they expect of their children. As a single parent, you may want to decide what kinds of behaviors will be expected of the children and even write them down.

As you think about your expectations, ask yourself, "Is this appropriate for my child at his or her age?" If you're unsure, talk to friends and childcare providers or read some parenting books.

After you have determined your expectations, discuss them with your child in a positive manner. Say, "I want you to put your toys in the closet," rather than "Don't leave your toys on the floor". Clear expectations teach children that rules of life exist.

Consistency provides the child with an ordered word that he or she can understand. The child learns, for example, that it's not okay to eat in the living room because that rule is repeatedly stated and enforced. It's impossible for children to learn appropriate behavior if the rules are enforced only some of the time.

Research has also shown that when negative behavior is not constantly discouraged, it becomes harder to change.

Responsiveness also affects discipline. It's important for parents to take the child's needs and wants into consideration when making rules. Perhaps, for example, a child is crying and complaining. If this is a frequent behavior, you may respond very differently than you would if the child did not get much sleep the day before and has been upset during the day.

On bad days it may be hard to be responsive to our children's needs. But in the long run, responsiveness is important to effective parenting. While attempting to be consistent, be responsive to the particular circumstance. In most cases it's possible to be both consistent and responsive to the child's needs.

Explanations and reasons help children understand the effects of their behavior on others. Good explanations tell the child how his or her behavior makes others feel.

Explanations that focus on the feelings of others, that encourage the child to apologize or make amends for a wrongdoing, all help the child better understand people's needs. For example, when a child hits another child, you might say, "You don't hit other people because it hurts them". Provide explanations to your children at a level that they can understand.

The explanations you provide your children will serve as their guides for behavior in the future. As they learn how their behavior affects others, they will increasingly control their own actions.
