WHEAT YIELD MAY BREAK ALL RECORDS.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—A wheat production of 1,236,000,000 bushels this year, combining the winter wheat and spring wheat crops was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture from the condition of crop June 1. Winter wheat production is forecast at 893,000,000 bushels, compared with 899,915,000 bushels forecast last month, making it the largest ever grown. Condition of winter wheat was 94.9 per cent of normal, compared with 100.5 last month and 83.8 last year.

Spring wheat production is forecast at 343,000,000 bushels, compared with last year's production of 359,000,000 bushels, which was a record crop. Acreage this year is 22,593,000. Conditions of the crop June 1 was 91.2 per cent of normal, compared with 95.2 a year ago.

Transients Bring in Smallpox.

County Judge G. A. Welhausen and Dr. J. N. Lightsey went over to Harriss Valley Monday evening where a case of small pox was reported. They found a Mexican boy that had just "peeled off" and put him in quarantine. He and two other Mexicans had just arrived there that day from Mexico.

A case of small pox was found two weeks ago on Jim Walker's place west of town. Several Mexicans were placed under quarantine by the County Health Officer, but no other cases have developed. These Mexicans recently came out of Mexico. No doubt there will be trouble in controlling disease over this part of the state this year because of so many Mexicans coming across to work in the fields.

Norvell and Frank Graham left Monday for North Texas.

Mrs. J. C. Poole and children returned Wednesday from a week's visit to her mother in San Antonio.

Let's Celebrate!

Uvalde, Pearsall and other places are planning for a big barbecue on the Fourth to celebrate the return of the boys from the Army.

By that date ninety per cent of the boys from La Salle county will have returned home, and why not honor the boys with a celebration on this date. Why can't we have a regular old time barbecue on the Nueces?

The war is over, the boys will be at home, the country is in good shape and conditions are prosperous. Let's have a good, old genuine get-together barbecue. Who'll take the lead?

Two States Ratify.

Springfield, Ill., June 10.—The Illinois House this morning unanimously passed a resolution ratifying the federal suffrage amendment. Action was by viva voce vote. By a vote of 45 to 1, the Senate concurred in the House joint resolution ratifying the federal suffrage amendment. Later the House took a roll call on the federal suffrage amendment, the voting being 132 to 3 in favor of its ratification. The roll call was taken to obviate legal difficulties.

Madison, Wis., June 10.—The Wisconsin Legislature today ratified the federal suffrage amendment, the assembly voting 54 to 2 and the Senate 23 to 1.

Boll Weevil Bad East Of Here.

Messrs. J. M. Warnock and Ed Halloway, stockmen of Edna, were here Wednesday on their way to Uvalde. They said the coast country had had entirely too much rain for crops and that in the country East of here about Beeville farmers reported boll weevil plentiful, and outlook for a crop is not good. Corn crop is good nearly everywhere in that part of the state they said.

Letter from F. I. Rock.

Cotulla Record,
Cotulla, Texas,
I have been intending to write you ever since I came back to my post, but one thing or another has delayed me.

While in Cotulla I was impressed by the start made towards organizing the Boy Scouts and want to say something if I could to the people of Cotulla that would cause them to take a special interest in this work. I consider this one of the greatest movements in the land today for the benefit of the boys. Fill a boy's mind with clean ideas; learn him to be trustworthy and let Jack play some with the idea of being absolutely square in all his plays and you have gone a good way toward the training of the boy. But that is not all the Boy Scout means to him.

With the right man in charge of the boys he can accomplish with the assistance of the people of Cotulla, a good deal.

I had a nice little visit with the present scoutmaster while there, and must say I was very much impressed with his ideas and methods on which he based his work with the boys. We want our boys to be men, and when I say men, I do not mean just grown up. We want them to be men in every sense of the word; men that will be a credit to the town, the state and the nation.

Hoping the fathers and mothers will give this work their hearty support, I am
Very sincerely,
F. I. Rock.

Texas Boys Win American and French War Crosses.

Corporal Luis Yaeger and Sergeant Roy Yaeger, who recently returned from overseas were here this week visiting at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Jodie Earnest, where a family re-union was held.

Both these young men made records in the great war and returned with Distinguished Service Crosses and also Croix de Guerre. Probably no other boys from this particular part of the state won as great honors as did these youths.

It was on September 12th last, near Pont a Mousson on the bank of the Moselle river where they displayed such heroism that the Commanding General awarded both the D. S. C. About ten o'clock on the morning of that day four machine gun companies advanced quite a distance under terrific fire from the Germans, and soon it appeared that they were about to be overwhelmed and a retreat began. In Co. D, to which the Yaeger brothers belonged eleven machine guns were put out of commission and every gun of the other three companies were abandoned. A Lieutenant came to the aid of the two boys and these three men held their position for eight hours. Time and again the Germans demanded surrender and as many times were refused which was followed by a charge, but in each case they were met by accurately aimed machine gun bullets and stopped. At one time the Germans got within thirty feet of the boys and were checked by pistol fire. They began to run short of ammunition and the Lieutenant crawled back in the woods and discovered several thousand rounds which served them to "hold the fort" until dark when they were rescued. During the day an attempt was made to rescue them but the Germans had laid down a barrage and many American boys were killed in this.

On the occasion when they were awarded the Croix de Guerre it was in the Toul sector and the Germans made a sudden raid landing in the Allied trenches before they were discovered. It was the rapidity with which these two stalwart Texas boys dispatched the Huns on this occasion that attracted the attention of the French Officer in command, who recommended that both be awarded Croix de Guerre.

The brothers went through the entire war together, and there is probably not another case like it. They were never separated more than four days, and that was when Luis was gassed and had to be taken to the hospital. Roy received a shrapnel wound between the eyes, but it did not give him much trouble. They fought with the 82nd Division, Co. D, 321 M. G. Bn. They were in five distinct major advances, and it seems miraculous that they could escape without a scratch from bullets that filled the air.

Luis said the Germans had the advantage of knowing the ground and in every battle he participated in the Americans lost heavily. From their machine gun nests they literally mowed down the American boys, but when cornered the German continued to fight. Said that he had seen many machine gun operators bayoneted before they would stop firing.

The boys are more than glad to get home and say they have had enough war to last them the rest of their lives.

MATTERS THAT ARE APART

Wooer Discovered That Business Methods and Lovemaking Are Things That Will Not Mix.

There was no sentiment about the young man. His had been a business training, and he carried business methods into his social life.

"Will you be my wife?" he asked, bluntly.

The girl looked startled.

"I'm not much of a lover," he added, "but I guess I'll make a pretty good husband. I might give you a whole lot of soft talk, but what's the use? Marriage is a contract and should be settled on a business basis. When I want anything in business I go after it bluntly. I generally know what I want, too, and I want you."

She gasped, but presently regained her composure.

"Fortunately," she said, "I've had a little business training myself, so we can discuss this proposed contract properly and dispassionately."

"I'm glad to find you so sensible," he told her.

"I can give you nothing better than a second option," she said.

"What?" he exclaimed.

"I might tell you that I am conscious of the honor you do me, but that I am already engaged," she explained.

"That, with a suggestion that it is very sudden, would be the sentimental way, but I will merely say that the first option is already taken."

"Then there is no hope?"

"How foolish," she commented. "As a business man you ought to know that a first option does not necessarily mean a closed contract. If you don't want to take a chance on a second option, say so; if you do, I'll drop you a line if I find myself on the matrimonial market again."

"That's sort of cold-blooded," he complained.

"That's business," she asserted.

"I—I don't believe I like business as well as I thought I did," he remarked.

"Very likely," she returned.

"I'd rather have a first option."

STAND ON SITE OF TRAGEDY

Whoever has read Longfellow's poem, "Evangeline," will be interested in visiting the land of Evangeline, the Annapolis valley in Nova Scotia, Canada and the country about Wolfville, which is the center. Grand Pre, the little village which was the scene of the deportation of the Acadians in 1755, is only a short distance from Wolfville, but little is left of the village where the tragedy told of by the poet was enacted. The chief object of interest in what was once Grand Pre, are the mammoth, gnarled ancient willow trees, known as Evangeline's willows, which stand, a conspicuous group, amid the fertile green meadows and serve as a windbreak. They show their age, these ancient trees, and were undoubtedly planted by the French Canadians, for the Acadians invariably planted willows wherever they settled, and these trees are perpetual memorials of them. Beside the willows, there may be seen at the site of Grand Pre the old well, portions of the foundations of the church of St. Charles, and some stones that mark the site of the priest's house. These willow trees are always visited by tourists, and although history does not exactly tally with the poet's account of the deportations of the Acadians, and though there may be a division of opinion as to the justice of the act by the English in the deportation of the Acadians, the old willows tell no tales, but stand, sturdy and strong, and are rightly landmarks still hale and vigorous.

Poetical Inspiration.

It is not about great events that great novels are written. The same is true of great poems. Not "the 15 decisive battles of the world," but such relatively unimportant ones as Balislava, Irvy, Hohenlinden and Blenheim have inspired the poets. "Waterloo" was considered to be the greatest battle of modern times, but the lines Byron inserted in "Childe Harold" constitute the only memorable poem ever written about it. The only ballad of the Civil War, which became fixed forever in people's minds, related to no great battle but to Stonewall Jackson's march through the little town of Frederick.

The great events are peaks in the mountain ranges of time, that leave little to the imagination. Literature thrives by the streams of legend and glory that run down from them and by the lanes and roads of emotion, aspiration, passion and endeavor that lead up to them. The side lights and side issues and everyday events make literature as they make life itself.

ROOMS FOR WORKING GIRLS IN S. A. HOME

Oklahoma City to Get $60,000 Building.

A women's and children's rest room will be one of the features of the new Salvation Army building which it is planned to erect in Oklahoma City with the proceeds of the Home Service Campaign.

C. G. Fencil, who is in charge of the plans for the drive, says, "The experience of local officers emphasized the necessity for the provision of women's and children's rest rooms and a day nursery as a very practical and much needed feature."

It is expected that mothers who are in the city on shopping trips will leave their small children under the care of the trained Salvation Army nurses.

It is also planned to provide some 18 or 20 moderate sized bed rooms to be rented to working girls at a minimum price. It is hoped that this feature will afford clean and wholesome living conditions on a cost basis at a reasonable rate compatible with the girls' wages.

Lieut. Col. George Wood, who is in charge of Salvation Army activities in the Southwestern Division, has announced that similar institutions for working girls will be established after the campaign for Home Service work in many of the larger cities of this division.

THE OUT-OF-LOVE CLUB

"No, the Out of Love Club is not made up of jilted girls. Many of the members have been jilted—may be cruelly used by conscienceless men in the past—but that isn't what the name means. It just means that what is done by it is done out of love and affection and good-will for all those who suffer and need a helping hand."

"It is a plain, but prettily furnished house at 318 East Fifteenth street, where the Out of Lovers gather for their meetings and teas and various good times, or are welcome to stay, when they need the shelter and strength of this home. There is the Salvation Army Hospital, too, next door, at 316—the Booth Memorial Hospital it is called, after the old General who founded and started the Salvation Army. And many a desolate girl, some country girl, perhaps, who had come to the city and gone upon the rocks, has found shelter and comfort and the restoration to health in one of the white beds of this hospital.

"Commander Evangeline Booth stated recently that 85 per cent of the unfortunate girls they had taken in for reclamation had turned out well. Hundreds of them have been placed in service, and it is the rule of the Salvation Army to follow up the girls who leave the home, to keep track of them for three years at least and see how they turn out. Sometimes the girls are only too glad to report frequently.

"There was the girl who set out to starve herself to death on a park bench. It was one cold autumn night when a man's voice called up the matron at this home and told her that he was much concerned over a girl who had sat for several days on a bench in the little park opposite his house. He watched her in the early morning and at night, he said, and he was convinced that she hadn't moved; he thought she seemed in great trouble. So the Adjutant of the home, which faces the same park, ran out and hunted up the bench where the girl sat.

"Come! Come with me and I will take you to a place where you will be more comfortable," she told the poor creature, who was a pitiable object indeed, her hair matted, her face thin and drawn, her eyes vacant and glazed, her clothes torn and wet. The girl shook her head.

"It's no use talking to me—I'm going to sit here till I starve to death," she said in a dull monotone. For an hour the Salvation Army matron pleaded, argued, tried every wile to induce the half-crazed creature to go with her. Finally, not daring to leave her there, she told the girl that if she didn't come a policeman would be called. At this she gave in and went.

CIVILIAN CLOTHES FOR DISCHARGED SOLDIERS

The Salvation Army is spending about $200 per day in Chicago on civilian clothing for discharged soldiers. Commissioner Estill has placed Ensign J. A. Ryan in charge of this bureau. His office is always crowded. Every applicant is carefully interviewed and registered to prevent fraud and duplication. No clothing is given to men who have not yet secured jobs as they can seek employment in soldiers uniform as well as in civilian's clothing.

Insects in Amber.

The proverbial "fly in amber" is strikingly exemplified in a collection of red amber from Burma recently presented to the British museum by R. C. J. Swinhoe, of Mandalay. The amber unusually rich in insects, including, according to Prof. T. D. A. Cokerell, a new species, of which five are types of new genera. Most of these are found in a block of amber rather larger than a man's fist. This has been cut into slabs about half an inch thick. Nearly every large order of insect is represented with the exception of ants.—Scientific American.

Hand Picked.

The young bride was enthusiastic over her home and its furniture. It had cost exorbitant prices because it was hand made. To agree with it she demanded hand-made curtains, sheets, etc. Then came the end of the honeymoon and the settling down to actual living. One day the bride tripped to market to buy her first chicken. "I want a very good one," she stipulated. "Hand-picked," the dealer said. "How much it costs if it's only hand-picked."

THE OUT-OF-LOVE CLUB

"No, the Out of Love Club is not made up of jilted girls. Many of the members have been jilted—may be used by conscienceless men in the past—but that isn't what the name means. It just means that what is done by it is done out of love and affection and good-will for all those who suffer and need a helping hand."

"It is a plain, but prettily furnished house at 318 East Fifteenth street, where the Out of Lovers gather for their meetings and teas and various good times, or are welcome to stay, when they need the shelter and strength of this home. There is the Salvation Army Hospital, too, next door, at 316—the Booth Memorial Hospital it is called, after the old General who founded and started the Salvation Army. And many a desolate girl, some country girl, perhaps, who had come to the city and gone upon the rocks, has found shelter and comfort and the restoration to health in one of the white beds of this hospital."

"Commander Evangeline Booth stated recently that 85 per cent of the unfortunate girls they had taken in for reclamation had turned out well. Hundreds of them have been placed in service, and it is the rule of the Salvation Army to follow up the girls who leave the home, to keep track of them for three years at least and see how they turn out. Sometimes the girls are only too glad to report frequently."

"There was the girl who set out to starve herself to death on a park bench. It was one cold autumn night when a man's voice called up the matron at this home and told her that he was much concerned over a girl who had sat for several days on a bench in the little park opposite his house. He watched her in the early morning and at night, he said, and he was convinced that she hadn't moved; he thought she seemed in great trouble. So the Adjutant of the home, which faces the same park, ran out and hunted up the bench where the girl sat.

"Come! Come with me and I will take you to a place where you will be more comfortable," she told the poor creature, who was a pitiable object indeed, her hair matted, her face thin and drawn, her eyes vacant and glazed, her clothes torn and wet. The girl shook her head.

"It's no use talking to me—I'm going to sit here till I starve to death," she said in a dull monotone. For an hour the Salvation Army matron pleaded, argued, tried every wile to induce the half-crazed creature to go with her. Finally, not daring to leave her there, she told the girl that if she didn't come a policeman would be called. At this she gave in and went.

"It took weeks of nursing and care to win from the girl her story. It was one of misunderstanding and trouble at home and harsh treatment that had driven her out into the world, where lack of training made it impossible for her to get work, and she was soon without money. Now that girl is an assistant in the Out of Love Club, where she is busy and happy all day, and the matron says she has saved many another girl who was tottering on the brink of despair."

CIVILIAN CLOTHES FOR DISCHARGED SOLDIERS

The Salvation Army is spending about $200 per day in Chicago on civilian clothing for discharged soldiers. Commissioner Estill has placed Ensign J. A. Ryan in charge of this bureau. His office is always crowded. Every applicant is carefully interviewed and registered to prevent fraud and duplication. No clothing is given to men who have not yet secured jobs as they can seek employment in soldiers uniform as well as in civilian's clothing.

Insects in Amber.

The proverbial "fly in amber" is strikingly exemplified in a collection of red amber from Burma recently presented to the British museum by R. C. J. Swinhoe, of Mandalay. The amber unusually rich in insects, including, according to Prof. T. D. A. Cockerell, 31 new species, of which five are types of new genera. Most of these are found in a block of amber rather larger than a man's fist. This has been cut into slices about half an inch thick. Nearly every large order of insect is represented with the exception of ants.—Scientific American.

Hand Picked.

The young bride was enthusiastic over her home and its furniture. It had cost exorbitant prices because it was hand made. To agree with it she demanded hand-made curtains, sheets, etc. Then came the end of the honeymoon and the settling down to actual living. One day the bride tripped to market to buy her first chicken. "I want a very good one," she stipulated. "How much does it cost?" she asked. "How much it costs if it's only hand picked."

FACTS ABOUT LEGAL TENDER

Points in Law Which Seem to Show That Money Can Sometimes Not Be Money.

In a Philadelphia police court a number of years ago there came up an interesting question that related to a nickel.

The coin in question had been offered to a street car conductor by a tough citizen, who, inspired by an alcoholic sense of humor, inserted it in the toe of his boot and proffered it thus.

A row ensued, which wound up in court, where the conductor was vindicated, the judge declaring that he was under no obligation to accept money offered in such fashion.

What constitutes a lawful "tender" of money is a question that occupies many pages in the law books, an exchange remarks.

A man has been known to offer a bucketful of pennies in payment of a debt to a creditor with whom he had a quarrel; and in most instances the creditor has felt obliged to accept the coin.

But there was no such obligation, for pennies under the law of the United States are not legal tender in amounts above 25 cents. If you owe me a dollar and offer me 100 pennies it is no payment unless I choose to accept them.

How about nickels? Exactly the same. They are not legal tender in amounts over 25 cents.

Silver dimes, quarters and half dollars are legal tender up to $10. Above that sum they may be refused and the creditor may justly claim that no lawful proffer of money has been made to him.

NO MACHINERY FOR ANCHORS

Indispensable Shipping Adjuncts Are Still Constructed by Manual Labor Exclusively.

Strange though it may seem, anchors are made by men and not by machines. At one time Germany seemed anxious to capture our anchor industry. High wages were offered to tempt our smiths to go to Hamburg and Lubeck to shape the anchors for the great Hamburg-American liners then on the stocks. Fortunately for Britain the attempt failed and the business remained this side of the North sea.

The ancient anchor shape was, and is, good enough for light shipping, but the hand-hooks of the present day mammoths must have a more extensive grip on the sea floor. They are vast pieces of metal work, in weight running up to many hundredweights.

Anchor smithing is about the only shipbuilding trade in which machinery has failed to displace men. The blackest of black squads are the anchor smiths; their work is continually among white hot metal, among fumes, smoke, glare, and dust.

The hammers regularly wielded by them are the heaviest known in any industry.—London Tit-Bits.

Couldn't Go Without Pipe.

"Force of habit is a wonderful thing," said a Lewiston girl. "Now, my father smokes a pipe. Smokes a great deal, and then when he is going away or anything his pipe is his first consideration. Some time ago there was a fire in the neighborhood in the middle of the night.

"Father was out of bed with the first stroke of the alarm and rushed downstairs. Mother and I were a little longer getting there. When we got downstairs we found father with a raincoat on over his night shirt, leaning as far out of the back door as he could, gazing wildeyed at the blaze down the street.

"When he heard us enter he brought his head in long enough to exclaim, 'Great Gosh, Alice, the Jones' house is all afire and I can't find my pipe!'"—Kennebec Journal.

Wetting the Block.

In many villages in Berkshire and Hampshire, England, the ancient custom of "Wetting the Block" is still kept up. The Crisplins of these two counties used to meet together on the evening of the first Monday in March, and celebrate the fact that they had ceased working by candle-light.

There was sometimes a supper, provided by the employer, on these occasions; there was always a little to drink. After the meal was ended, the block candlestick was placed in the middle of the room, the shop candle was lighted, and when all glasses were filled, the oldest hand poured the contents of his glass over the candle to extinguish it.

Handy Employee.

The lady manager of the business concern put an ad in the paper for an experienced fireman to work in the office.

"Why do you need an experienced fireman for the office work?" asked the efficiency expert, who was on the job.

"Well, you see," she responded sweetly, "I just haven't the heart to discharge anybody, and I thought we could employ an experienced man to do it."

Thoughtless Dealers.

"It's a new car," explained Mr. Chuggins, humbly; "and the dealers didn't put a tape measure in the outfit."

GENERAL PERSHING ENDORSES S. A.

Cables Appreciation to Commander Evangeline Booth.

The Home Service Drive of the Salvation Army, to be put on soon, for $13,000,000, cannot fail to be successful when General Pershing himself tells of the wonderful work accomplished in France. Every member of the American Expeditionary Forces feels the same gratitude that General Pershing expresses in the following cablegram which has just been received at the Salvation Army headquarters in New York.

The message reads as follows: "Commander Miss Booth, The Salvation Army, New York City.

I wish to express sincere appreciation and that of members of American Expeditionary Forces for the splendid services rendered by Salvation Army to American Army in France. Outstanding features of work of Salvation Army have been its disposition to put its activities as far as possible to the front and experienced character of its workers. It has endeared your organization and its individual men and women workers to all divisions and other units to which they have been attached. It has spread their good name to every part of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Please accept this as a personal message to each of your workers. (Signed) PERSHING."

SOLDIERS HELP IN DRIVE FOR FUNDS.

(Editorial in Los Angeles Paper)

One of the finest tributes to the service performed by The Salvation Army for the American soldiers abroad is the fact that hundreds of discharged soldiers have volunteered to help in the drive for funds which the organization is going to make.

There is no question that The Salvation Army came out of the war with flying colors. The institution, which so many folks had only supercilious smiles for in the days before the war, has proved its worth, and has given conclusive proof of the fine spirit which actuates its personnel—the simple spirit of Christian service.

Its workers in the field abroad, both men and women, DID things for the men. They gave them what they most needed and wanted, not "uplifting" them, but feeding them coffee and doughnuts when they needed these most of all not "saving brands from the burning," but saving cold and weary bodies from discomfort.

In the language of the street, The Salvation Army stands "aces high" with the boys of the A. E. F.

But those of us who may not have known it before, now learn that The Salvation Army did abroad merely what it had been doing for years before in the places of want and need in our great communities. They had been helping those who need help, and helping them with the things they most needed—food, clothing, concrete assistance.

They made converts of their wards not by doctrinal argument but by example. They showed these men and women who were on the verge of the economic abyss just what sort of men and women Christian belief can produce. It was thus they "brought men to Christ," as their own phrase has it, because they proved in their own works what the Christ spirit really means.

And now they will ask us all for help in broadening out the great work which they have been doing under such great difficulties all these years before the war, which has brought them this new "popularity."

"We are going back again to our work in the slums of the great cities," she says.

Yes, they are going back to that work, with the blessing of millions of folks who never thought of The Salvation Army before. They are going back not only with the blessing of these millions, but with their dollars, concrete evidence of the good-will that has grown up toward the organization in return for the service rendered to "our boys" abroad.

We have not the slightest suggestion of doubt that they will get every penny they ask. And what we have said above should show that we have not the slightest suggestion of doubt that they deserve it and that having got it, they will use it wisely and well in their own spirit of truly Christian service.

SALVATION ARMY WAR WORK ON FIVE CONTINENTS.

The Salvation Army is doing welfare work among the allied soldiers, not only in France, England and the United States, but on five continents. From Honolulu to Hong Kong and from the Arctic to the Cape of Good Hope, the Salvation Army is giving its best service to the man of war—be he American, Ally, or Neutral.

This vast field of activity includes England, Egypt, Macedonia, Salonika, Iceland, Siberia, Holland, France, Belgium, Switzerland, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South America, India, the West Indies, Newfoundland, Serbia, Mesopotamia, and the occupied zones of Germany.

TOOK HIS WORK SERIOUSLY

A scholar of unusual appearance and manner was Professor Sophocles of Harvard, whose genuine love of Greek left him no patience with indifferent students and sometimes led to the charge that he dealt unjustly with the young men in his classes. This anecdote of him appears in Mr. John Spencer Clark's life of John Fiske.

One day a backward student called to explain his remissness and to assure the professor that he did love his Greek study.

"Then name two of your favorite passages," said the professor.

The student named one in the Iliad and one in the Oedipus. Professor Sophocles handed him the books, saying "Find those passages and read them to me."

The student, in his reading, made several serious mistakes.

"Young man," said the professor, brusquely, "you do not understand Greek! You have no love for that noble language! You murder it! Enough! I want no more to do with you."

There was much complaint in the class of '93 that the professor's marks were incorrect, and particularly in the cases of three students entitled to widely different marks. When they complained, Professor Sophocles replied:

"I can't distinguish between you, gentlemen. You must take your chances as to what you get."

OCEAN'S LAW MOST STRICT

Among Fishes the Important Fact of Life Seems to Be, "Eat or Be Eaten."

In the Dublin museum a stuffed angler fish, commonly known as a fishing frog, may be seen, its stomach still swollen by an enormous cod which it had swallowed. In the stomach of the cod were found two large herrings. In each herring were several sprats, while each sprat, in turn, contained a number of tiny crustaceans, or shell fish.

In the salt seas, it is eat or be eaten. The fishing frog, a fish shaped like a gigantic legless frog, and provided with a luminous bait which it dangles from a long feeler over its wide mouth, has the most prodigious appetite. As many as 20 foundlers have been found inside one fishing frog; another contained 60 herrings.

Each fish has its special prey. Pollock assemble in shoals and pursue the close formations of young cod. They surround the cod, drive them to the surface and devour them. Whiting, in similar fashion, pursue and devour the herring shoals, while hake feed upon sardines.

Mackerel will eat any small fish. They devour enormous quantities of fry, being especially fond of young mackerels. The John Dory's favorite food is sprats, while rays are not particular; they will devour any fish that come their way.

Self-Reliance.

Now is the time for every one who wants work to think up something for himself. Don't depend upon somebody else. The integrity of life consists in self-reliance. Be your own proprietor, if it is of nothing else but an acre and a little shop. We know the difficulty and do not discard the sympathy. But regard rather that independence and high purpose that make up the real manhood. Men will have to work for others while time lasts, but there is nothing so noble in the hearts as the aspiration to be one's own man and direct one's own destiny. Society is divided in classes these days, each one striving to outwit the other, but the grandest class of all is the man himself, with his own destiny in his fists. With all our organized industry, there never was a time when individual enterprise had a better chance than now. If you are articulated in some great industry, keep in the heart the hope that you will be your own master some day.—Ohio State Journal.

Few Fine Pearls Found.

Now fine pearls are rarely found nowadays because the demand has been so great and the fisheries have been worked so continuously that the pearls are not given time to grow. If a fine pearl is bought, it is rarely one that has not been in the market for many years and passed from one dealer to another. Dealers today depend to a large extent upon purchases of pearls from collections of rajahs and princes in India and of old families in Europe. They declare that every time a large and really fine pearl appears in the market a hundred wealthy persons bid for it. Consequently the best pearls are beyond the reach of any but the wealthiest people.

Quipe Which Tickle Travelers.

Nature seems occasionally to have been in an imple mood of jocularity when she was about her work of shaping and molding things. For instance, why did she make the Dalmatian side of the Adriatic one mass of islands and creeks, which are just so many hiding holes for any power that has designs on Italy, and at the same time lay the Adriatic seaboard of Italy as bare and flat and plain as she could plan it? Was it to make the Italian people wide-awake and watchful and resourceful? Besides, the modern world in its pride must never forget that the peninsula produced the Roman.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnation matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing, before breakfast.
