Kenny Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor, played in the Junior PGA Golf Tournament at Brownfield Monday and won first place. The young golfer won in the 14-15 year old age group. He was tied on the 18th hole with Mart Noble of Lubbock and won on the second hole in sudden death playoff.

This win qualified him for the Tournament of Champions which will be played at the Odessa Country Club on the 12-13 of August. He has also played in the tournament in Plainview and Kermit.

The last two games played by the Muleshoe Senior Babe Ruth League show a win and a loss. Saturday night, Muleshoe played Amherst at Littlefield and lost the game 5-1. Amherst had four hits and Muleshoe two hits.

Winning pitcher was Gary Robinson and losing pitcher was Monte Barnes.

WORK PROGRESSES ON NEW POYNOR'S WHITE AUTO--Marshall Milligan and Otis Epperly, left, are busy hammering and nailing while Max Gillet of the Southwest Specialty Co. of Lubbock, at right, works on the new ceiling at the location where Poynor's White Auto will be moving next month. Workmen are remodeling and restoring the former dual store location where the Poyhors, Haney and Paul, will open their new and enlarged facility in July.

Hunger Highlighted By Cotton Growers

Aside from the possibility of nuclear conflict, hunger is probably the foremost problem of the world today. Approximately half of the world's 3.5 billion people suffer from malnutrition. The World Food Congress in 1963 was told that around 10,000 persons die every day from starvation. And the present outlook is that hunger will grow more and more intense with the passage of time. The world's population increase is zooming along at almost 60 million souls per year. The population of the world reached the first billion by 1830, took only 100 years to reach 2 billion and only 30 more years, 1930 to 1960, to reach 3 billion. It is expected to pass 6 billion people by the turn of the century. Almost every country in the world is searching, some desperately, for ways to increase agricultural production to feed its hungry people. Meanwhile, in the U.S., where agriculture is using only about four-fifths of its productive capacity, consumers are enjoying the most sumptuous and varied diets in the history of the world. So it is not surprising that the urban population of this country scoffs at the possibility that the U. S. may not be immune to the problem of hunger. Mental Patient Chases Officer With Knife When Muleshoe City Police Officers Forrist Williams and E.C. 'Shorty' Kelley received a radio call Monday evening around 8:20 p.m., they didn't realize for a few minutes just what they were getting in to. The call said a woman was walking in the streets downtown and crying. When the officers arrived and tried to talk to the woman, she attempted to cut officer Williams with a butcher knife. Following a short chase with officer Williams well in the lead, the woman was disarmed and taken to the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center where she was booked as a mental patient. She was released later Monday night to her husband and her husband's employer. Officer Williams? He went back to routine traffic patrol.

But the idea may not be so far fetched, says Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Johnson points out that the U.S. population is growing leaps and bounds along with the rest of the world. The population in the U.S. increased from 13 million in 1830 to 123 million in 1930 and 179 million in 1960. It is now something over 200 million and expected to reach 300 million by 1990. "That means the U. S. Farmer in 1990 will be called upon to produce food and fiber for almost three people where he now produces for two," Johnson says, "and he will have to do it on considerably less land than is now available for cultivation." Roads, cities and other non-farm uses for land are on the increase, eating up millions of acres of productive land each year. From 1944 to 1964 harvested cropland in the U. S. declined by 66 million acres. Over and above population increases and reduced land area suitable for the production of agricultural commodities, Cont'd. on Page 2, Col. 4

This year, a camping trailer will be presented some lucky winner who is at the courthouse square at 2 p.m. As it is necessary to be present to win, a crowd of several hundred persons is expected to be on hand for the drawing. He will 'play' the way to the new winner for this year, Little Miss Muleshoe, Mitzi Altman, will draw the winning ticket from a most unusual container, a concrete mixer on the back of a Ready-Mix concrete truck. Chamber of Commerce Manager Jerry Huton explained that the concrete mixer is the only thing they have found large enough to contain the many entries. Last year, 86 merchants helped sponsor the first annual 'Dad's Day' giveaway and this year the list has expanded to 112 merchants and professional people.

This week the camper has been on display in various locations. Today, Thursday, the camper is in the 400 block of South Main; Friday, June 20, it will be on the 200 block of South Main and Saturday, it will be on display on the courthouse square until the 2 p.m. drawing. Hospital District Election Suit Filed On Monday, a suit was filed in the office of District Court Clerk Nelda Merriott. The suit was styled Chester Setliff, et al, contestants versus, Don Harmon, et al, contestees. Basically, the petition, which was filed by the law firm of Kirby, Ratliff and Sansom of Littlefield, attorneys for the approximately 300 contestants, is asking that the May 16 Hospital District and Bond election be set aside. The nine page petition alleges that the election was unconstitutional and that the temporary board or permanent board of directors of the Bailey County Hospital District had no authority to declare the election or canvass the election returns. The contestants asked that the election be declared invalid and that the Bailey County Hospital District be adjudged not created and that the bond issuance be set aside until a proper election can be held. In the petition as filed with the district court clerk, the contestants are objecting to the constitutionality of House Bill 97, which has been passed by the 61st Legislature in regular session to allow the formation of the Bailey County Hospital District. The suit alleges that the temporary or permanent members of the Bailey County Hospital District Board were not legally named. The members included in the suit are Don Harmon, Charles Lewis, D.O. Burelsmith, Mrs. J.G. Arnn, Mrs. Bernard Phelps, Eddy Beene, Sam Damron, Neil Dillman, and Freddy Parkman, in their respective capacity as the Board of Directors of the Bailey County Hospital District, and Roger Gorrell, as County Attorney of Bailey County.

The names of the approximately 300 persons filing the Petition For Election Contest included: Chester B. Setliff, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Claunch, Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Ethridge, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. T.H. Clem, Mr. and Mrs. A.R. McGuire, S.M. Ethridge, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Leldon Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. N.A. Dunlap, Mr. and Mrs. Barry T. Sheriff Dee Clements and Deputy Sheriff Ken Petree investigated the burglary which netted the intruders approximately $400 in tools including an impact wrench; one cutting torch; a welding tip and hose; a box of Proto Tools; a box of Challenger Tools; several drills and bits and some one-half inch sockets. Investigation of the theft is still underway.

Raymond Schroeder, bus driver and Royce Garth, bus driver. Salaries budgeted for the summer session are from $264 to $1,955. Following the study of recommendations by the high school staff and 1969-1970 student council the board made two changes in dress policy for students. (A) Girls skirts and dresses may be worn no shorter than four inches above the knee when measured from standing position. (was two inches previously); and (B) Boys sideburns, trimmed no lower than in line with the bottom of the ear. (previously was to middle of the ear). Also added to the school dress policy was the following statement: "This policy is not designed in an effort to make everyone look or dress alike. It is written in the belief that young people should be encouraged to take pride in their personal appearance, for it has been demonstrated many times that there is a direct relationship between dress and behavior. If young men and women take pride in their personal appearance, they will also take pride in their personal behavior, habits, and achievement." One resignation was accepted and three new teachers approved for the Muleshoe school system. Mrs. J. Waid Griffin resigned to move to Lubbock with her family. Approved for employment were Mrs. Vashti B. Smith, English teacher in Junior High School. She taught in high school last year; Mrs. Wilma D. Hunger...

Johnson continues, there must be people in the U.S. with the know-how and the incentive to feed and clothe the nation from the farm. He says "Farmers can only continue to produce food and fiber above their own needs so long as they have a means to recoup production costs and realize a return on capital investments in land and equipment."
The nature of farming is such that the farmer is in a perpetual "buyers market", without the marketing muscle to demand a fair price for his products.

A hick town is where an individual develops character instead of reputation.

Consequently the market price of many major farm commodities is now and has been for many years well below the cost of production. And the continued availability of these commodities to consumers has been dependent on farm income being bolstered from another source. "Fortunately for agriculture, the consumers and for the Nation, Congress has devised and enacted a series of programs to supplement farm income from public funds," Johnson goes on, "and for this reason

Mr. And Mrs. Fisher At Home In Dallas

Miss Linda Marie Timmons and Mr. Charles Emil Fisher, Jr. pledged wedding vows in a candlelight ceremony, Saturday, June 13, in the First United Methodist Church, Lubbock.

Dr. Paul Bumpers, minister of the First Methodist Church, officiated for the reading of the double ring ceremony in Bowman Memorial Chapel.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Timmons, Littlefield. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Fisher, Lubbock.

Vows were exchanged before an altar flanked by four candleabras which were enhanced by greenery and white satin bows. On the altar were two receptacles of gladiolas, daisies, and baby's breath. The family pews were marked by large white satin bows.

Traditional wedding selections were presented by Mrs. Marion Hayhurst, Lubbock. She accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Al Jordan, Littlefield, as she sang "Through the Years" and "More". "The Wedding Prayer" was sung as the couple knelt at the altar.

Candle lighters were Curtis Timmons and Glenn Timmons, Littlefield, brothers of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal length gown of Peau-d'ange lace and organza fashioned with scalloped lace outlining the sabrina neckline, short sleeves and empire bodice. The lace extended down the front and around the hemline of the A-line skirt. Tiny covered buttons extended down the back. A detachable train of sheer organza fastened at the shoulders and fell at chapel length. The long flowing veil was held by a crown of pearls. The illusion of the veil was edged with scalloped Chantilly lace to match the bridal gown. She carried a bouquet of butterfly orchids surrounded by stephanotis with greenery and white streamers tied in love knots. She presented a flower from her bouquet to her mother on her way to the altar and another to the groom's mother after the vows had been exchanged.

Miss Kathy Kime, Houston, served as Maid of Honor, Miss Peggy Valentine, Corsicana, was bridesmaid and Mrs. Denton Miller, Lubbock, was bridesmatron. The attendants wore identical floor length empire styled dresses with round necklines and short sleeves. The orange dresses were accented with white shoes, white gloves and opera length pearls. White daisies accented their hair. They carried spring nose-gays with daisies, cornflowers, roses and baby's breath. Shelly Macha, Muleshoe, was flower girl and wore a dress similar to the other attendants. She carried a lace covered basket filled with spring flowers.

Mr. Bob Heather, Omaha, Nebraska, was best man, John Fisher, Lubbock, brother of the groom, and Milton Scott, Wichita Falls, served as groomsmen. Ushers were Curtis Timmons and Glenn Timmons, brothers of the bride.

The bride's gown was something new, something old and something borrowed was a hand crocheted lace handkerchief made by her grandmother and borrowed from her mother. She wore the traditional blue garter and a sixpence in her shoe which was a gift from the groom.

A reception was held in the church parlor. The table was covered with a white cloth with a gathered skirt. The centerpiece was of white gladiolas, spider mums, daisies and baby's breath with lighted candles on either side. Orange punch and a four tiered cake was served. Presiding at the table were Miss Mary Hobratsch, Littlefield, and Mrs. Irvin R. Martin, aunt of the bride from Artesia, New Mexico.

Guests were registered at the wedding by Mrs. Jim Gsell, sister of the groom, Washington, D.C.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Timmons chose a beige dress and jacket of dacron with silver threads. She chose beige accessories and a green and orange flowered hat. Her dress was complimented with a green cymbidium orchid. Mrs. Fisher chose a muted yellow green dress and jacket. The bodice of the dress was accented with matching lace. She chose matching accessories and a purple cymbidium orchid.

For a wedding trip to points in Texas, the bride chose a mint green silk dress and jacket. White accessories and white orchids from the bridal bouquet complimented her suit. The couple will be at home after June 18 in Dallas.

The bride attended Junior High School in Muleshoe and is a 1967 graduate of Coronado High School, Lubbock, where she was twirler and a member of NHS. She received a B.S. in Elementary Education from the University of Texas at Austin in May, 1970. While there she was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Lambda Theta, and Phi Kappa Pi. Next year she will be teaching first grade in Dallas.

While at UT he was a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Epsilon Delta, a medical fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa. Presently he is working as a surgical technician in Dallas. This fall he will enter his second year at Southwestern Medical School where he is secretary of the Phi Rho Sigma fraternity.

Dear Amy: Check your dictionary for a definition of the word promiscuous.

If every single girl thought like "Naomi", we would have a lot less hang-ups. This is the 20th Century. Wake up, Amy! Your generation is lost. I've never read in the Bible that a valid marriage is consubstituted by a license and a qualified (?) straight man. Haven't you ever known women who would make wonderful mothers but lousy wives? I say if you want to avoid pregnancy for any reason, take the pill. On the other hand, if you want a baby, but not a husband, by all means go ahead but make sure that you are able to properly support your child!

Be realistic, Amy! What is a marriage license, but a piece of paper? You buy a license for your dog, too, but you aren't obligated to the animal for the rest of your life. What you say is for a certain price, people won't talk about you. You print what you know people will expect, but don't knock it till you've tried it, Amy, and even then you can only relate your own experience. If you want to take the pill, fine! If you don't, that's fine, too! The only thing immoral about it is you judging the lives of people you've never even met before.

Sex outside of marriage for your generation is acceptable as long as you don't get caught. What disturbs you so much is the fact that we are honest about it. Diane in Detroit

Dear Diane: I have never evaded an issue and I'll not start now. No one in their right mind would compare a dog license to a marriage license. God didn't plan woman to conceive a child without man, but for a sex relationship to be meaningful, there must be the desire for decency and respectability, love... and license (the sense to live by God's laws and man's).

If a female makes her own rules, she will end up spent, empty and ill and bring heartache to those who love her and the generation she will bring into this world.

Guns, drugs and prostitution are also available. All you have to do is overlook a few laws. But who other than an emotionally ill person or a degenerate would stoop to such depths.

If you think my generation has hang-ups, they are nothing compared to what your generation has brought upon itself.

Recipe of the Week

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

Newly grown potatoes are reaching the markets and this food can be served daily in many different and delicious ways. German potato salad goes well with many vegetables—especially fresh string beans.

German Potato Salad

- 8 medium sized potatoes
- 2 hard cooked eggs chopped
- 1 onion, minced
- 3 slices bacon
- 1 egg
- 3 T. vinegar

Boil potatoes in their jackets. When well done pour off the water and remove lid, allowing potatoes to dry off. Next, pare and chop or slice while hot. Add boiled eggs which have been chopped and the minced onion. Fry the bacon cut into bits and when crisp remove from the grease. Add the hot drippings to 1 well beaten egg, very gradually. When the mixture is thick as mayonnaise, add vinegar slowly. Beat well and add to the potatoes, being careful that the salad dressing reaches every bit of the potato mixture. To vary this recipe omit the egg and follow same directions—pour hot bacon fat over potatoes then follow with vinegar. Toss until well mixed and keep warm until served.

RICHARD B. RUSSELL
Senator (D-Ga): "In my judgment if we ever hope to get a meaningful treaty in this dread field of nuclear armaments we will have to have at least military equality with the Russians."

BE KINDER TO YOUR IN-LAWS

Dear Amy: Shortly I am to be married. My question may seem unusual to you but I don't know how to treat my future in-laws. They are young, modern and very nice. I admit I feel strange with them at times, but it's not their fault. I know they are fond of me and they do everything to make me feel at home when I visit them. They're really very nice. I asked a friend and she said that I should act toward them as I would toward my own parents. But I can't do that because I honestly don't always talk to my parents very nicely. (You know how it is with your own parents not always seeing eye-to-eye.) Your suggestions would be appreciated.

Dear Iris: Start out by talking to your own parents nicer. But no matter how kind you are to YOUR mother and father, be kinder to your in-laws. No matter what you say to your folks, they will forgive you because they love you. Your in-laws must learn to love you by your words and actions.

Dear Amy: I am 12 years old, but large for my age. Mother and Daddy say I should go to school and not think of boyfriends. Other girls in our school have boyfriends. Please tell me, should I mind Mamma or go with the boys?

Dear Blondie: Mind Mamma. You're at the right age for "thinking," but at the wrong age for "doing!"

Dear Amy: I married my husband for two reasons: First, I loved him and second, while he was courting me, he seemed to always have enough money for everything. So I assumed that he made a good living. Now, after four months of marriage, I have found out how he comes by his "good living." Though he has an honest job and actually makes an average wage ($150 a week), it's what he does with his pay check that I feel is dishonest! He raffles it off every pay day at two dollars a ticket to 150 men, and consequently, he brings home several hundred dollars a week. I'm sure that if his employers ever found out about this, he would be fired. I've talked to him, but he insists that he is doing nothing wrong. Amy, am I picking on him for nothing or should I just keep out of it?

Dear Wife: Your husband's scheme for making that extra buck is the most fantastic I've ever heard! However, he is conducting a lottery which is illegal. If necessary, enlist the aid of your attorney to inform him of the penalties for such an offense. But stop him... before your honeymoon cottage turns out to be separate quarters in the county jail!

Dear Amy: I enjoy your articles, your advice to teen-agers and to adults. Being a grandmother doesn't make me immune from seeking your advice even though at my age, I should know all the answers myself. I know that sometimes it is obligatory to give gifts on certain occasions, but how about the following: If a girl who is to be a bridesmaid gives a bridal shower for the bride-to-be, is a "Thank You" note sufficient or should the bride-to-be send a gift in appreciation for the girl's thoughts and efforts? Thank you.

Dear Nany: The "shower hostess" should be remembered with a token gift of appreciation from the bride-to-be. It need not be expensive. Recently, one of my young friends sent a lovely bouquet of fresh flowers to her "shower hostess" the day following the affair which I thought was warm and lovely.

SUCCESS IN CAMBODIA
 I am hopeful that all of you are flying an American flag this Sunday in front of your homes and businesses in the appropriate and traditional manner of Flag Day.

This year, Flag Day is particularly significant. Today, there are those in other parts of the world who are hopeful that our nation will split a sunder on the home front. There are those who believe it is actually about to do so. I believe that a unified display of patriotism in honor of our flag throughout our great land will be signal to all. It will show that although we may disagree on the best means of achieving peace in Southeast Asia, that Americans are nonetheless a people united behind those democratic principles for which our flag stands.

We are naturally concerned about developments in Southeast Asia. We all desire to achieve a rapid and lasting and honorable peace. Some of us have said that our actions to deny sanctuary to the Communists within Cambodian borders might extend the war rather than hasten its conclusion.

This week I returned from a tour of Southeast Asia. I was honored to have been asked to be a part of a 13-member Presidential task force which observed first hand our current situation in Cambodia and South Vietnam. I went as a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. It was my seventh trip to Southeast Asia in eight years.

The task force visited parts of South Vietnam and many of the areas of Cambodia where our troops and those of our allies have been active. We saw the Parrot's Beak and Fishhook areas of which you have recently read and heard so much. We visited several American units and we even reviewed a unit of the Cambodian Army which had recently engaged the Communists in battle.

I can tell you that our Cambodian operation has been an unqualified military success. We have captured vast numbers of enemy weapons, and vast stores of ammunition, food and communications equipment. I saw these captured supplies in caches in Cambodia, in stockpiles in Vietnam and in warehouses in Saigon.

Our activities, and those of our allies, have reduced the capability of the enemy to mount any main force engagements over the next year in the III and IVth Corps tactical zones, the areas of South Vietnam adjacent to our most intensive Cambodian activities.

I learned that as a result of our Cambodian operation, that the Vietnamization process is now even more advanced than I had imagined it to be.

This has been the first time that the South Vietnamese troops themselves have been responsible for a massive offensive operation involving all elements of their armed forces. They acted in a highly efficient, courageous and professional manner. I heard this from many of our own officers in the field.

The Cambodian operation has also shown the enemy that we are prepared to strike him anywhere and anytime. This has probably had the effect of convincing the enemy of our determination.

The strikes into the enemy staging areas and sanctuaries inside Cambodia has resulted in more than 9,000 of the enemy killed and nearly 2,000 of the enemy captured. It has denied the enemy any future use of more than 15,000 individual weapons, more than 2,000 crew-served weapons, more than 28,000 rocket rounds and more than 50,000 mortar rounds. It has denied the enemy any future use of many thousands of tons of small-arms ammunition and of a quantity of rice capable of feeding more than 250,000 enemy troops for a month.

The fact is that the Cambodian operation has hastened the time when we can minimize our involvement in Southeast Asia and eventually become completely disengaged from any combat activities there. In the long run, the operation has indeed insured a saving of American lives.

The Swine Industry Keeps On Growing

COLLEGE STATION -- Recent developments in swine production have resulted in a rapid expansion of the swine industry in certain sections of Texas, especially in the Plains areas. Advances in production technology and favorable prices have caused many farm operators to consider swine as a possible supplemental enterprise in their farming operation, according to research and extension economists at Texas A&M University.

A study just released as PR-2756 by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station analyzes the economics of swine enterprises in the Plains area of Texas, dealing principally with partial confinement systems. Graduate Students W.R. Masch and J.M. Spratt in A&M's Department of Agricultural Economics and So-ciology made the study. They point out if a farm operator has the management ability and available capital, the addition of a swine enterprise can provide a means for maintaining or perhaps increasing his net income.

The researchers have provided in the publication detailed budgets on investment costs and returns under different conditions emphasizing the importance of good management in the operation of a hog business. They conclude that an "above average" manager can profitably produce hogs in the Plains areas as long as the price of Number 1 and 2 barrows and gilts exceed 18 cents per pound and milo prices are below $2.00 per hundredweight. On the other hand, "average" management as defined in the study would need a price of three cents per pound more for hogs marketed to show a profit under the same system.

They looked over a period of 16 years and found that the price of 18 cents per pound occurred 94 per cent of the time over a recent four year period, but only about 50 per cent of the time over the 16 years studied. The authors estimate that a total investment of $600 or more per sow is required for a partial confinement farrow to finish. For a 120-sow system, fixed cost is estimated at $2.13 and variable cost at $15.28 for a total of $17.41 per hundred weight of hogs marketed. This should yield, they say, an estimated annual return to management of $7,600, basing the price of Number 1 and 2 hogs at $18.75 per hundredweight. The authors point out that this is the first report in a project designed to estimate the economic importance of hogs in Texas under the different conditions which exist and is based upon information obtained from Plains growers during 1969.

Copies of the Progress Report are available from the Department of Agricultural Information, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843 or from area Extension Service farm management specialists. Local county agricultural agents can also assist interested persons in obtaining a copy.

WASHINGTON NOTES

UNEMPLOYMENT UP

The Labor Department reports that unemployment in the poorest neighborhoods of the neighborhoods of the nation's 100 largest cities rose to 6.6 per cent in the first quarter of 1970. This was the first over-the-year increase since the Government began keeping a record in 1967.

ON IMMIGRATION

It has been reported that pressure has been put on Congress to overhaul the present U.S. immigration policy. A bill by Rep. Peter W. Rodino (D-NJ) would lift certain restrictions and make it easier for refugees from communist nations seeking asylum in the United States.

MITCHELL ON CRITICISM

In a recent speech at a Law

Day luncheon, Attorney General John N. Mitchell warned that "irresponsible and malicious criticism" of the Supreme Court had reached a danger point-in that it threatened the nation's Constitutional liberties.

ON EUROPEAN ARMY

The United States has trimmed its forces in Europe to about 300,000 men, the lowest level in 20 years, according to new Pentagon figures. The newest reductions resulted from streamlining of support and administrative personnel, not by trimming combat strength, Pentagon authorities said.

Editor Issues Warning To News Media

By JACK BUTLER
Editor, Fort Worth Star-Telegram

Last year I had the wonderful opportunity to be at Cape Kennedy four days before Apollo 10 took off. We were allowed to go up on the gantry more than 300 feet high to the level where the astronauts enter the capsule.

It was 300 feet of solid power they told us it would take 1,100 freight tank cars to carry the fuel used in the testing and actual shot of one of those big rockets.

I recalled how, in my youth, we used to run out of the house in Mineral Wells to see the single-motor two-winged plane fly by. And when the Ford trimotor came to town - Boy!

A few weeks later I made a little talk at a nostalgic affair in my home town of Mineral Wells honoring a fine old editor. I got to reminiscing about those dear dead days when I was a boy.

I told about how Bill Haley, Kenneth Thoman and I played cowboy, Bill was the biggest and oldest, so he got to be Tom Mix with a stick horse pony. I was next biggest, so I was Jack Hoxey, and Kenneth was the littlest, so he had to be Hoot Gibson.

Of course, when William Desmond was at the Gem in the weekly serial, Bill became the Mysterious Rider, I got to be Tom Mix, and Kenneth got to be Jack Hoxey. Poor old Hoot, I'm glad he never knew.

Those were lovely times. A freezer of ice cream on the back porch - screened in back porch, that is - was reason enough for a quite little party. We took our religion straight, as delivered by the preacher on Sunday morning, spiced occasionally by Alonzo Monk, the fire-eating Methodist evangelist who came to town to be sure none of us were having vagrant thoughts.

Mother ordered the groceries from Suffer's grocery, and one of the Shuffler boys brought them out in the Model A truck, except the meat, which was delivered by the old man with the screened wagon who rode up in front of the house and shouted "MATE" - sending every housewife scrambling. And the milk and butter was delivered by Mr. Knight in his buggy. Mother would fuss about the cows getting in the bitterweed, and we would chant "Old Man Knight comes in the daytime."

When Mother paid her bill at the Shuffler's, they would give me a little bag of candy. Dan - a railroad engineer - was probably the closest thing the town had to a labor problem, since he and a few others on the Gulf, Texas & Western belonged to one of the brotherhoods. A lovely time indeed. Contemplating it, one might cry as did Thoreau as he contemplated Walden Pond: "Simplicity, simplicity, simplicity! I say let your affairs be as two or three, and not as a hundred or thousand."

But no one has figured out how to stop the world and get off. So today we live in a time of cocktail parties for fun, General Motors and giant labor, Higher Criticism in religion, TV violence instead of Tom Mix, and instead of Shuffler's grocery, our friendly TV pitchman threatens us with doom if we don't buy Ban or Dial or Crest or whatever.

It's a turbulent world, and so every morning folks pick up our papers and read about riots and pot parties and Vietnam, etc., etc., and they say: "That blasted newspaper. Why doesn't it bring any good news?"

People are always telling us, we never print any good news, especially about youth. Last year one of our young men, assistant city editor Glenn Dromgoole, did a study of the two Star-Telegrams and the Press in Fort Worth as part of his work on a masters degree. His study revealed that as a matter of percentage we all ran approximately 80 per cent good, 18 per cent bad, two per cent neutral - although of course his decisions had to be subjective and arbitrary as to classifications.

We speculated as to why, that being true, folks always are saying we only run bad stories about kids. I suspect it's because those are the stories people read - or at least remember - and not the story about the Eagle Scout.

But in all honesty, I must say that that is sort of begging the question. Because, indeed, newspapers do have much of crime and war and riots and turmoil and grief and violence. So does TV and so does radio. It is emotion-packed news, and all of us are reacting emotionally to it. We are confused, frightened and angry. We don't understand what our children are trying to say to us.

I'm as worried about it as you are, and I'm worried about something else, too, that perhaps you haven't been worried about, but you may as well be in as much trouble as I am, so I'm going to talk about it. Actually, it is a difficult thing to discuss. Those of us who have been living with the problem for years don't understand what to do.

If you think this speech is confused, you should have read the first draft. It reminds me of the time I heard the city editor on our paper say to the news editor: "I've got a four-page story from Butler." The news editor, desperate for space, said, "What's it about?" The city editor replied, "It doesn't say."

Anyway, this added problem is simply this: The news media in this country are in danger of being like the messenger in ancient Persia who carried bad news and promptly got his head lopped off for his trouble.

I agree to a point, with Bill Moyers, former assistant to President Johnson and now assistant publisher of Newsday. Moyers says the complete objectivity is a myth.

I agree that it is, but I do not agree that it is not a goal to strive for, and that you can't go a long way toward achieving that goal.

Of course, every newsman had to report what he reports from his particular point in time and space.

I, for instance, see from this podium, through the eyes of a 52-year-old grandfather, the son of a railroad engineer, a West Texan, a child of the depression, a veteran of the Navy, and so on. These are the eyes I have, and through them I see, and I can do no other.

But you folks in the back of the room see from that vantage point, through the eyes and intellect you have - and, indeed, you can do no other.

They tell the story of the parson, the geologist and the cowboy, looking at the Grand Canyon:

The parson said, "Look, one of the wonders of God."

The geologist said, "It is a wonder of science."

The cowboys said, "What a hell of a place to loose a cow." In relation to this, one of our problems on newspapers is that television has made everyone an instate reporter. Folks see it on TV, and then they read it in the paper, and then they say, "Oh, no that isn't the way it was. I saw it on TV, and it wasn't that way at all."

But, of course, TV cameras and TV reporters and TV editors also must see and report from a point in time and space. And if you don't think that's true, you weren't watching TV during the Democratic convention.

Please don't think I'm knocking TV. I think it's here to stay. They can do some things that we can't touch - like those breath-taking shows from the moon. Or like giving you an in-the-trenches look at a 270 pound tackle grinding you into the frozen turf along with the quarterback.

But even so, the camera can lie - whether it be TV camera or a newspaper's still camera. For instance, suppose I were standing here between George Wallace and Rap Brown, and suppose there were a camera on that end and one on this end. On station would show I was an associate of a far-right conservative, and the other would show me an associate of a far-left radical. A man sitting in front with a pencil might note that really I was in the middle of the road. That over-simplifies, but you get the idea.

It's such a complicated world, with many wheels. One of its complications is that objectivity as we used to know it - that is just the simple statement of a fact - may really not be objectivity these days unless it is related to other facts. The fact must be fitted into the whole jigsaw puzzle or the picture is incomplete. It is the difference between the literal truth and the essential truth.

A complicated world indeed. About a year ago the big clock in the Census Bureau that ticks off our growing population went past the 200,000,000 mark. That's a lot of us rubbing up against each other - and sometimes rubbing each other the wrong way.

Half of the people who have ever lived in this country are alive today. And that is just a touch compared to the vast explosion of knowledge. When Noah Webster compiled his first dictionary, it had 70,000 words. Today there are 11,000,000 in all categories. The Third International, published way back in 1961, doesn't have such words as solid state and fuel cell.

So where does that leave the villain in this piece, the newspaper?

Let's try for a few stipulations on which I hope we can agree.

First, newspapers are staffed by human beings, human beings who, however hard they try for exactness, must report it as they see it. And I assure you that they try. You know they try.

Second - although I know our critics never make mistakes in their business, sometimes we do make mistakes.

Sometimes they are mistakes of the mind, such as the Yankee reporter who heard the reporter with the deep Mississippi accent calling in when James Meredith was shot on the freedom march. The Southerner said Meredith was shot in the hand. The AP Yankee thought he said shot Daid. That bulletin was on the wire 30 minutes and in lord knows how many newspapers before the correction was made.

And because the news we bring is often unhappy and worrisome, and because we are the tangible evidence most people have, too many are coming to the conclusion that not only are we unpleasant, but they can't believe us anyway.

Just as I did a few minutes ago, many of you yearn for a quieter, happier, more simple time. You cling to the idea that if we all looked the other way maybe it would go away.

I won't. As much as you and I might want it to, it won't. Despite this rising feeling of concern and distrust, I am absolutely convinced that never in the history of human endeavor has a people been so thoroughly informed. Indeed, perhaps that is the problem.

It concerns me, of course, as a newspaper editor. But it should concern all Americans because it is awfully easy to make the jump from saying to us: "You ought to do something about it." to "Somebody ought to make you do something about it."

Already we have a great debate raging between the bar and the press over the right to know what is happening in our law enforcement agencies. The bar holds that the right of the accused to a fair trial should be inviolate. The press holds that the right to know is the foundation of democracy.

There are indications that reasonable men may resolve this in a reasonable way. Because I think that all reasonable men know that if any branch of the government can control the press, God help us.

At that exact moment democracy becomes a memory - and a dangerous memory at that.

There seems to be a growing feeling that we are telling it like we want it to be told. In other words, deliberate distortion.

An indication was the response most of us got when Vice President Agnew made his speech a few weeks ago about television news, and then took on some of the Eastern newspapers. It did no good to take note of the fact that the vice president was reacting to the Washington Syndrome, reading a couple of New York and Washington papers, and feeling he had taken the press pulse of the nation. Those folks up there, including Mr. Agnew, haven't ever found out that it is the people west of the Appalachians that are really making this country run. Every four years we show them again, but they never really know.

And there are mechanical mistakes, born out of the speed of operation usually. Such as the New York newspaper that switched outlines under the pictures of a new bird at the zoo and a society dowager. Under the old gal's picture it said, "What a funny old bird that is. It has hair where feathers ought to be."

But these are mistakes of the hand and of the brain, not of the heart. Of course, there are renegades in our business, as in most. But these, as in most other businesses, are but a tiny fraction.

Take comfort, as do I, that the young people I see now in newsrooms are better educated, smarter, at least as dedicated and maybe more than ever in the history of journalism.

They are consumed with the ideal of arriving at the truth in this complex world, so that there may be an informed electorate.

Walter Lipmann has pointed out that a free press does not mean that every story will be the absolute truth, but that with a free press and free discussion the people will arrive at the truth.

Reaching back into our past there is an example that might illustrate. The Lindberg Kidnapping story was one of the less savory chapters of American journalism. A sensational press hounded the grieving family, made a mockery of the trial, and certainly produced some bad reporting. Yet out of all that turmoil came the Lindberg kidnapping law, and a crime that was commonplace has now become almost unknown.

There are those who have pointed fingers at the press for the coverage of the Kennedy assassination in Dallas. Yes, the Warren Commission, meeting for months, with all of the power of the federal government, produced no really significant new fact that had not already been produced by the press.

Do I need to remind you of the stunning shock and fear that swept the world at that time? Fear that this was part of a major plot? And how our stunned country was able to pick up its load and march on within hours because we were told what had happened?

So here we are. Sometimes sensational? Yes. Sometimes wrong? Yes. Sometimes confusing? Yes.

But are there riots in your country? There are, and our readers need to know it. Is there student revolt in your colleges? There is, and our readers need to know it. Are the kids smoking pot? Some are, and our readers need to know it. Are we engaged in a dirty, tough, costly, frustrating war? We are, and our readers need to know it.

You need to know it; your educators need to know it. Your elected officials need to know it and to know you know it. Above all, perhaps, your churches need to know it.

I read recently from a speech by James L. Knight, publisher of the great Knight Newspapers: "The average age of the world's greatest civilization has been 200 years. These nations progressed through this sequence."

From Bondage to Spiritual Faith
From Spiritual Faith to Great Courage
From Courage to Liberty
From Liberty to Abundance
From Selfishness to Complacency
From Complacency to Apathy
From Apathy to Dependence
From Dependence Back Again to Bondage

In six years the U.S. will be 200 years old. This cycle is not inevitable - It Depends on You," Mr. Knight said.

A few years ago I saw a movie about World War II on the late show, Errol Flynn, as I recall, starred. One of the characters was an old newspaper reporter. They were with a group struggling through Japanese country, besieged by the enemy, by disease, by snakes, by fever, by heat. Finally they won through, and just as they met the advancing column of American troops, the old reporter died.

Flynn looked dreamily into the sky and said, "I'll never read another newspaper that I don't think what a nickel can buy."

That's pretty corny, I guess. But if my thesis is right, that our freedom depends on this few cents worth, I think it's pretty cheap at the price.

So if the situation threatens to come to that, why does the press - and here I include all the media - insist that it must be the messenger of the bad as well as the good?

Is it to sell papers? Well, I will rush to confess that we at our paper are a profit-making organization and we intend to keep it that way. The only alternative I know is government subsidy, and surely none of us want that.

So, indeed, we do like to sell papers. And there is no question that more people will buy papers to read about a pot party than to read about a spelling bee.

Most of us go about our lives paying our taxes, working at our jobs, making our church pledges, educating our kids. Which, of course, is the reason most of us won't read about it. Wes. Gallagher, general manager of the Associated Press, once asked an audience, "How would you like to read a story written something like this:

"The 400 members of All Saints Sunday School showed their usual good manners and pious devotion yesterday, praying, singing and reciting the psalms. All except one. He shot the minister and raped the organist."

Sophocles once said, "None love the messenger who brings bad news."

But who is going to draw the line?

One man's crop - killing freeze is another man's duck hunting weather.

A heart is transplanted and a man lives - but another man dies.

It just isn't the part of the newspaper to say, it is the job of the newspaper to tell it like it is.

But this good news - bad news flap isn't worrying me so much as the belief I have that there is a growing suspicion on the part of more and more people that the media just aren't telling it like it is.

The 1970 commencement is a major event in the Bicentennial year celebration of Dartmouth, chartered in 1769 by Rev. Eleazer Wheelock, to educate "Indian youths and others." The ninth oldest college in the United States, Dartmouth received the last Royal Charter from King George III of England and was founded in the summer of 1770.

Mr. Adams, a 1966 graduate of Muleshoe High School, majored in architecture at Dartmouth. A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, he was a four-year member of the football team and the Glee Club. He graduated with distinction in his major.

Hill-Burton Funds Distributed To 12 Texas Hospitals

AUSTIN, Tex. -- Pressure from the courts may move the Legislature to massive election law reforms next year.

At least two major Texas cases which could have far-reaching consequences for the state election processes and political system are pending in three-judge federal courts.

In one, Corpus Christi, San Antonio and San Marcos plaintiffs challenge the constitutionality of the annual voter registration requirement and the January 31 registration deadline. They ask reopening of registration after the June runoff primaries to allow voters until October to qualify for the November general election. More than 30 states already have a general election sign-up extension, and no state requires as early a close-off of registrations as Texas.

A second case tests validity of the candidates' filing fee system. An El Paso candidate for county commissioner and a Tarrant County candidate for county judge won places on the May primary ballot through court action when they pleaded they could not afford to pay the stiff filing fee.

A third case attacks the constitutionality of the statute denying aid to illiterate voters in marking ballots.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. acknowledges a great many changes are needed in the state election code. He is compiling a list of needs with an eye on court decisions and plans to contact legislators about them soon.

Dies indicates he is inclined to favor the recommendation that May-June primary dates be shoved back until August and September (as some 14 states now provide).

He also tentatively likes the idea of making voter registrations good for four years.

And the state, believes Dies, "is going to have to reach the conclusion candidates cannot continue to completely finance primaries."

LEGISLATIVE DECORUM EYED

A House committee studying ways to improve the legislature's decorum and public image indicated it wants curbs on the familiar practice of lawmakers' voting for absentees on an electronic machine.

Committee members couldn't bring themselves to condemn "proxy" voting for members absent from the floor for a few minutes to take telephone calls from constituents. But they frowned on votes cast for legislators who are truants from the capitol.

Committee, headed by Rep. John E. (Ned) Blain of El Paso, discussed a variety of proposals to make the House of Representatives look and act better.

Among other major suggestions: a glassed-in spectators' gallery, desk-to-desk floor telephone communications and overhead projectors to display hasty floor amendments to legislation.

DRUG MEMO SIGNED

High-ranking state officials signed a "memorandum of understanding" with the U. S. Department of Justice Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Memorandum formalizes the present working agreement and outlines areas of responsibility for state agencies and the federal bureau in which mutual efforts and cooperation will be necessary or desirable.

Overall purpose of the memorandum is to establish and maintain effective working arrangements between the state and the federal bureau to hold to a minimum diversion of narcotics and dangerous drugs from legal channels to illicit traffic. Most of the stimulants and depressants sold illegally originated from legitimate foreign or domestic channels.

APPOINTMENTS AND HONORS

Sen. Criss Cole of Houston, a war-blinded Marine Corps veteran, had been nominated for the "outstanding rehabilitant in the nation."

Former Lake Jackson Mayor William D. Colegrove is the new president of the Beautify Texas Council.

Ralph D. Spencer of Lubbock now is secretary of the Texas Board of Architectural Examiners.

Dr. Robert Skinner was named acting director of the State Health Department tuberculosis control program.

Gov. Preston Smith announced

ed these appointments:
 *Southern Regional Education Board -- Rep. Russell Cummings of Houston.
 *Commission for Indian Affairs -- Barney Joseph Wieland of El Paso.
 *Lavaca-Navidad River Authority Board -- Hans R. Wittenburg of Edna.

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Supreme Court heard arguments as to whether it should uphold a district court decision that the Texas obscenity control law is unconstitutional.

By a six to three decision, High Court held that a man could not recover damages although an Arlington hospital nurse fed him solid food soon after a colon operation.

A suit for $43,600, against a life insurance company that issued a policy on a quarter-horse, was refused by the Supreme Court because the company was not notified immediately when the animal became ill.

High Court ruled for Grand Prairie in a 3,000-acre annexation dispute with Arlington. Court refused to hear the appeal of an Austin teenager dismissed from school after he was caught with marijuana in his pockets.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

Raza Unida Party in Hidalgo County cannot get its local candidates on the November ballot unless it gathers new petitions from non-participants in other party primaries, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:
 *Teacher Retirement System Board of Trustees has authority to invest its trust funds in home office facilities, land and equipment used for administering the system, to manage and control facilities and pay expenses for operating, maintaining, repairing and improving them.
 *Election officers named to hold district school trustee elections must hold a regular election for county school trustees and are to be compensated by the school district which also pays for election supplies out of the maintenance fund.

HOSPITAL FUNDS DISTRIBUTED

State Board of Health allocated $1,477,880 to 12 applicants for federal Hill-Burton health facilities construction funds. Projects and amount allocated are:

*Southwest Texas Methodist Hospital, San Antonio, $400,000; McAllen General Hospital, $315,000; Spohn Hospital, Corpus Christi, $225,000; Torbett-Hutchings-Smith Hospital, Marlin, $150,000; Fort Worth Radiation Center, $60,000; Teague Hospital Authority, $99,715; *West Coke County Hospital, Robert Lee, $38,295; Overall-Morris Memorial Hospital, Coleman, $19,010; Sterling County Hospital, $38,900; Morningside Manor, San Antonio, $41,960; Space Center Memorial Hospital, Nassau Bay, $50,000; and St. Mary's-Gates Memorial Hospital, Port Arthur, $40,000.

Hill-Burton program pays up to 50 per cent of cost of construction or modernization of hospitals and other health facilities in areas of critical need.

THREE CITIES HONORED

Governor Smith presented the Governor's Community Achievement Awards to Lockhart, Atlanta and Graham.

Awards were for cities of up to 12,000 population in tribute to progress made toward improving the quality of living. Smith cited Atlanta for such improvements as a new high school, a 65-bed hospital, city-wide beautification and a new sewage treatment plant.

Lockhart was honored for improved housing, health services and general beautification projects.

Graham drew its citation for broad-based citizen participation to improve medical-health services, beautification and economic and property use.

SHORT SNORTS

Governor Smith directed a $1.2 million highway fund transfer to reinforce the Department of Public Safety budget.

Texas Committee on State and Local Tax Policy invites suggestions on revenue sources and making tax laws more efficient, equitable.

Federal Office of Emergency Preparedness turned down Governor Smith's request to declare San Marcos a disaster area for flood damage aid.
