become limp and break into several parts when squeezed or dropped. This complicates harvesting.

Stalk rots also occur when the fungus penetrates the surface. Under severe conditions, stalks may break and create a lodging problem.

"Several fungicides are cleared for use on corn which serve as protectants from the disease," points out Dr. Berry. "However, treatment costs are high, from three to four dollars per acre, and several applications are required to give satisfactory control. So, fungicide control should be considered only as a last resort on fields with high yield potentials when a damaging disease is occurring in the area."

Producers on the High Plains may also be concerned about the disease possibly infecting grain sorghum. Says Dr. Berry, "There are no reports of the disease occurring on grain sorghum. We will continue to observe sorghum fields for all diseases, but we do not expect to find the corn blight fungus there."

The plant pathologist also points out that there is no evidence of corn blight or any of its by-products being injurious to human health. However, some people are allergic to breathing certain types of mold spores. He adds that livestock fed infected grain or forage have shown no adverse effects. Infected grain stores poorly, however, and may deteriorate from other fungi and bacteria that may be detrimental to livestock.

drugs and their effects. Most of his talk was on the legal aspect of drug usage and selling or possession of drugs.

Much of the blame for the use of dangerous drugs and abuse of dangerous drugs rests with permissive parents, asserted Willis, for allowing it to happen in the first place. He gave the severe penalties involved and how a police record will follow the youth for the rest of his life. Anyone who has been convicted of drug abuse or violating drug laws can never become a doctor, dentist, lawyer, teacher or serve in other capacities, he stated.

He concluded, "The situation is not in the hands of the law, or the hands of your parents, but with you, the youth of today, and our future leaders."

A film was shown to the audience. The film was made by several doctors and other persons who study drugs. They showed some of the actual drug victims and underlined what happens to a person when they become addicted to dangerous drugs.

The high school youths heard a panel discussion, then the students went to classrooms for small group discussion sessions prior to lunchtime.

After lunch, the program was repeated for students in Muleshoe Junior High School.

This was the first session of comprehensive, intensified drug education for the junior high and high schools in Muleshoe. Drug education is being added to the curriculum in all the schools. This regulation was approved by the legislature in an effort to acquaint youths with the hazards involved in drug usage.

Every day we should eat a citrus fruit, juice, or other fruit or vegetable containing vitamin C. What are high vitamin C foods? -- oranges, grapefruit, tomatoes, pineapple, and vitamin C fortified instant breakfast drinks.

Skipping breakfast or lunch does not help one lose weight. It only increases the appetite for between-meal snacks, or the next meal. These eating habits usually result in an unbalanced diet, and a diet that does not contain all the really important foods.

People who cook with pride cook with GAS. Mrs. Viola Jordan does.

Some of the world's best cooks are found in the kitchens of America, and they give themselves every cooking advantage, like gas range cooking. Good cooks like Mrs. Jordan and nine out of 10 professional cooks agree that precise temperature control makes the difference in good cooking, and with gas you get exactly that. Gas also gives immediate response and constant temperature, so important in oven cooking.

So, give yourself every advantage and cook with gas. Remember, people who cook with pride cook with gas.

Here's one of Mrs. Jordan's favorite recipes.

CHICKEN CHOW MEIN
Mrs. Viola Jordan, Gray County Courthouse, Pampa

- 5 lb. chicken (1 sometimes use a large, fat fryer)
- 1 medium sized onion
- 1 small can mushrooms (chopped)
- 1 small package spaghetti
- 1 no. 2 can tomatoes
- 1/2 cup ripe olives (chopped)
- 3 tbs. Worcestershire Sauce
- 1 button garlic
- 3/4 lb. grated sharp cheese

Cook chicken with one button garlic until tender. Cool and bone chicken. Cook spaghetti in plain water. Saute onions, add tomatoes with a pint (2 cups) of broth. Make a paste of 2 tablespoons of flour and cold water and add to onions and tomato mixture and simmer 30 minutes. Add chicken, mushrooms, olives, spaghetti. Sprinkle grated cheese on top of mixture and bake in a large baking dish for 30 minutes in a hot, gas oven (400 degrees). Serves 10 to 12.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm is having gadget trouble, his letter this week indicates. Who doesn't?

Dear editor:
My television set wouldn't work, a tube was out in my radio, another light bulb had just burned out, the washing machine went haywire and put six inches of water on the floor, and my car wouldn't start, so I shut myself up in the living room and started reading a newspaper I'd been saving to wrap around an exposed hydrant.

I hadn't gotten far when I ran across an article that said there are now over 45,000 scientists and engineers unemployed in this country, due to cut-backs in the space program and other reasons nobody is certain about.

Now what really caught my attention was the answer to this problem, suggested by a Washington expert. He wants a sort of new "WPA" for these unemployed scientists, wants a government-financed program going to keep them busy so their minds won't get rusty. "There are plenty of new ideas and things needing developing," he said.

I got to thinking. No, I told myself, I've got a better idea.

Don't put them to work on something new, put them to work on what we've already got.

Put those 45,000 scientists and engineers to work on a tall pipe that'll last longer than one year, a washing machine that's guaranteed for 10 years or 50,000 diapers, whichever comes first; a television tube that'll last through the last bowl game, an air conditioner that'll last as long as an old-style electric fan, a lawn mower that starts every time, a plumbing system you can hand down from one generation to the next, a paved street that'll last longer than the tax bonds it took to pay for it, an auto fender that snaps back into place when dented, and, well I could go on but you get the idea. You probably have your own list.

Let those 45,000 scientists hold up, turn around and start perfecting what they've already turned loose on us.

For a while there it took a life-time of work to buy all the gadgets a man thinks he needs.

but now it takes that plus a livetime of moonlighting to keep them going.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.
