

ROBBERS' ROOST

by ZANE GREY

SYNOPSIS

Jim Wall, young cowpuncher from Wyoming, seeks a new field in Utah. He meets Hank Hays, who tells him he is working for an Englishman, Herrick. Hays and others are plotting to steal their employer's cattle and money. With Hays, Jim Wall goes to Herrick's ranch. Hays and his lieutenants drive off a bunch of cattle. Heeseeman is Hays' rival among the cattle rustlers. Jim is sent to meet Miss Herrick. Hays betrays unusual interest in the girl's coming. Wall finds himself falling in love with Helen, and he fears Hays has designs on the girl. Jim coaches her in riding western style, and finally kisses her. She is angry and dismisses him, but relents and asks him not to leave the ranch. Hays' men return from the drive, having the money. A quick getaway is imperative. Hays tells them to go on ahead, that he will join them. He comes, with Helen Herrick—a captive, Hays explains that he stole Helen for ransom. Realizing that Helen will be worse off if she falls into Heeseeman's clutches, Jim Wall does nothing. Heeseeman's riders come in pursuit. Hays leads the gang into a canyon retreat—The Robbers' Roost. In the "roost" Jim keeps a watchful eye on Helen. Heeseeman's riders appear. Helen is taken to a cave, and Hays and his followers prepare for the coming battle.

The others. They shore run, turn away. "They were... for their horses, tied half a mile... k. Where'll they go, Hays?" "Fer more men. Morley is most as stubborn as Heeseeman. An' once he's seen this roost of ours—he'll want it, an' to wipe out what's left of us." "Heeseeman?" "Wal, he didn't run, Jim. Eaw! Haw! He's dead." The chief strode to the mouth of the cave and stared around. Jim remained at the spot he had selected, to one side, between the robber and Helen's covert. "Jack an' Mac, too?" he ejaculated in amazement. "How come? No more of that outfit sneaked down in hyar." "Mac stuck his noodle too far out of that hole in the cave. And Happy Jack stopped a glancing bullet. There's just two of us left, Hays. By the way—you going to bury your dead?" "No. If I do anythin' at all it'll be for my gurl. Them stiff's ain't a pretty sight."

If Jim Wall needed any galvanizing shock to nerve him to the deed he had resolved upon, that single possessive word was enough. "I'll bury them later," he said. "Good. I'm all in. I climbed more'n a mile to git to them fellers." Hays sat down heavily, and ran his right hand inside his shirt to feel of the bulge on his shoulder. Jim saw him wince. Blood had soaked through his shirt.

"Flesh Wound. Nothin' to Fuss Over This Minnit."

"You got hit, I see." "Flesh wound. Nothin' to fuss over this minnit. An' I've got a crease on my head. That hurts like sixty. Half an inch lower an'—"

"I'd have been left lord of Robbers' Roost?" "You shore would, Jim. Lousy with money, an' a gurl to look after. But it jest didn't happen that way." "No; it didn't. But it will!" That cool statement pierced the robber's lethargic mind. Up went his shaggy head and the pale eyes, opaque like burned-out furnaces, took on a tiny, curious gleam. When his hand came slowly down from inside his shirt the fingers were stained red.

"What kind of a crack was that?" he demanded, puzzled. "Hays, you forget." "You're sore that I didn't divvy square?" "Hays, I take it you double-crossed me same as you did them." "Uh-huh. Wal, you got me in a corner, I reckon. That's only two of us left. I'd be crazy to quarrel... Would a third of my money square me?" "No." "It wouldn't. Wal, you air aimin' at a bargain. Say half then?" "No." A tremor ran over the robber's frame. That was a release of swift passion—hot blood that leaped again. But he controlled himself. "Air you tryin' to pick a fight with me?" At this Jim laughed. "Cause if you air, I jest won't fight. I'd be senseless. You an' me can git along. I like you. We'll throw together, hide somewhere a while, then build up another outfit." "It can't be done."

Scarcely had he gotten out of sight when Jim thought of the field glass. Smoky should have taken it. Jim risked going back to his pack to secure it, and had the fun of dodging another bullet.

What had become of Hays? Waiting alone among these deflecting bullets wore on Jim's mood. He decided to peep out of the hole again. To this end he climbed to the shelf, rifle in hand and the glass slung around his neck.

He could command every point with the aid of the field glass, without exposing his head.

An instant later a far-off shot thrilled Jim. That might be Smoky. Suddenly a dark form staggered off, flinging arms aloft, silhouetted black against the sky. That must be the sharpshooter. Smoky had reached him. Headlong he pitched off the cliff, to plunge sheer into the wash below. Smoky had at least carried out his idea.

Suddenly Jim espied Hays boldly mounting the slope. But it appeared that he had not been discovered yet. Those on top were facing the unseen peril to the west.

CHAPTER XI

Jim picked up the field glass and Allging it on his elbow, essayed a peep into the cave. On the shelf he hesitated and sat a moment locked in thought. A second time he started down, only to halt straddling the notch. The battle had worked out fatefully and fatally. Would he see Smoky again? Yet nothing had changed the issue. The end was not yet. With his blood surging back to his heart, Jim leaped down to meet the robber chief.

his unseen... suddenly loomed with tremor... meaning. "Shore, T... doesn't surprise me," admitted the... robber. "When men's fee'l'n's are... as in a time like this, they ell... But I did my share to clear the... An' if Smoky had come back he... I could have... have seen it different. I've more smart enough to see that, an' you... oughter be honest enough to admit it."

"I darsay... you could have won Smoky back... He had a fool worship for you... But you can't talk me out of anythin'..."

"Why, fer G... your sake—when I'm givin' you all t... the best of the deal?" "Because I want the girl," thundered Jim. A great astonishment held Hays stricken. Through it realization filtered. "That! That was it—all the time!" he gasped.

"All the time, Hank Hays," replied Jim, steadily, and it was the robber's eyes, pale fires no longer, that he watched for thought to flash and will.

Still he saw the violent muscular quivering which slowly diminished to quivering into rigidity. He had struck the right chord. In whatever way possible, Hank Hays loved the woman. However it had begun, the sordid, brutal thing had ended in the worship of the golden-haired sister of Herrick. Jim read this in the extraordinary betraying eyes; and read more—that it had been Helen the robber had fought for, not his lost castaway with his men, not the honor of this life. It was this that accounted for the infernal blaze of unquenchable hate, of courage that death itself could scarcely have stilled.

All this immediately coalesced into the conscious resolve to act and kill! As the robber sprang up Jim's first shot took him somewhere in the breast. It whirled him half around. His gun, spouting flame, tore up the gravel at Jim's feet. A terrible wound with its agony, a consciousness of its mortality, added to the overwhelming ferocity of jealous hate, gave the man superhuman physical activity. He whirled, bounding the other way, and so swiftly that Jim's second shot missed him altogether. Hays' gun was booming, but it was also describing the same curves and jerks as his body. Then as passion gave place to desperate need and the gun aligned itself with Jim, Jim's third shot destroyed aim, force and consciousness.

Hays' demonic face set woodenly. The gun, with hammer up, dropped to explode. The robber lodged against the slant of wall, dead, with the awfulness of his mortal passion stamped upon his features. It was over, Jim breathed. The hand which held his gun was so wet that he thought his blood was flowing. But it was sweet.

"I wish—Smoky could—know," muttered Jim, over a convulsive jaw. He shoved Hays off the wall. Wiping his face, Jim staggered to the rock and sat down. Spent and heaving he sat there, his will operating on a whirling mind. It was over—the thing that had had to come. All dead! Loyal and faithless robbers alike. What to do now? The girl! Escape from that hellhole, soon to be besieged again! He must pack that very hour and ride—ride away with her.

VOLCANOES IN ACTION
The volcanoes which erupted recently in the state of Vera Oruz, Mex., and in Alaska, are in that belt of volcanic activity which engirdles intermittently the huge basin of the Pacific ocean. This ring of volcanoes may be traced, on this side of the Pacific, from Cape Horn to Alaska, while on the other sides the cones are found in Japan, the East Indies, New Zealand, and other islands.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a more natural movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a prescription. It is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they may do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Farm, Livestock and Poultry Hints

(By Ross B. Jenkins, County Agent)

Peanut Information

Washington, D. C.
October 26, 1934.

Mr. Ross B. Jenkins, County Agent, Bairst, Texas.
Dear Mr. Jenkins:
We have your letter of October 21 asking for additional information regarding the peanut adjustment program. Copies of the releases which have been issued with reference to the program have been mailed to you. Additional copies are enclosed.
No minimum prices for peanuts are established under the program. However, payments offered to peanut oil manufacturers tend to establish the prices indicated in the press release. We understand that due to weather conditions in Texas, much of the crop has a rather low meat content. Consequently, average prices for farmers stock peanuts in that state would tend to be lower than prices indicated in our press release, as the latter prices refer to peanuts of normal sound meats content.
Peanut growers are not required to withhold any part of the crop from the market. They may sell the crop to shellers in the usual manner or to oil millers. The plan which is described in detail in the release of Oct. 10 enables oil millers to include in the prices they pay for farmers' stock peanuts the amounts of the payments offered to these millers in connection with the crushing peanuts. Each grower who signs and carries out an adjustment contract will be entitled to receive payments for diverting up to 20 per cent of his crop into use as oil or as livestock feed. These payments would be in addition to the benefit payment made in return for acreage reduction in 1935. The amount of the benefit payment will be measured by the quantity of peanuts produced in 1934, except that an additional provision will be included to provide equitable payments to growers whose yields are usually low.

The processing tax on peanuts is required to be paid on the first processing of all peanuts other than those used in the manufacturing of oil. Usually the first processing is due by the sheller, in which case he is required to pay tax.
The price which you state is being paid in your county would seem to be rather low in view of the present low prices of peanut oil and peanut meal and the rates of payments offered to oil millers. We would suggest that you attempt to interest peanut growers in cottonseed crushing plants in your plan now in operation.
Yours very truly,
H. B. BOYD, Peanut Prog. Acting in charge

THESE PROGRESSIVE FIRMS OF BAIRD Appreciate Your Business

You cannot be a good citizen of two towns, trade where you live and make your money. The Firms on this page are doing their part for the people they serve. Buy at home, sell at home. Try these stores first.

JONES DRY GOODS COMPANY

For the past 13 years this store has stayed with you and the people of this community are indeed fortunate in having a store like this located so near them. This store has never allowed their stocks to run down, they have never overcharged you for what you bought. They keep posted as to market conditions and are the first to show the newer and better things in good merchandise, their immense buying power makes it almost impossible for other stores to meet their price and quality. You will find in this store you will be given very courteous attention and they try to help you with your needs and to save you money. The Progressive Review indorses this store and their merchandise, and we say trade at home and keep Baird money in Baird.

HOLMES DRUG COMPANY

If you want good, pure drugs from a reliable druggist who gives your prescriptions personal attention, we suggest you take it to Holmes Drug Store where they have two registered druggists on duty day and night. They fill them as per the doctors orders, without substitutions. We recommend this drug store operated by Mr. Lawrence, who tries daily to help the people that he serves. He has spent much money in Baird trying to give you a drug store that you would like to call your drug store. He enjoys helping you with your drug needs, and trying to save you money on expensive medicines. This is a home owned and operated drug store for home people, and the Progressive Review indorses this Drug Store and what they are doing for the people they serve.

HOME LUMBER COMPANY

For almost a quarter of a century this name has meant good lumber and good treatment, and they have always kept a good stock of building materials for your approval, and it does not matter whether your bill be large or small, you will always receive courteous and prompt attention at this dependable yard. Mr. Coffman is always anxious to give you estimates on any job, and you will find him and his assistants very accomodating and courteous. This is home owned and trying to do their part for the people they serve and the Review of the Progressive would be very incomplete without mentioning this progressive, active firm. They are anxious to figure with you on the new Government Re-Housing Plans

HAMBY & BARNHILL MACHINE SHOP

At this shop you will find a machine shop that is equipped to do anything that will help your machinery. They specialize in industrial and automobile work and there is no job too large or too small for them to handle it in a satisfactory way, and you may rest assured that what ever job you may allow them to do for you will be turned out in the most scientific way and the work done by trained, skilled mechanics, and after all, a job like this is worth more to you and this shop does not charge you any more than an ordinary mechanic would charge you. They will gladly give you estimates on any job, and you will find them most courteous and anxious to help you in any way possible. The Progressive Review indorses this shop and their work.

TEXAS COMPANY

Mr. Black is the wholesale distributor for this company in this territory and he and his company has spent much money in making their equipment complete to care for their business, and you will find that they are spending much money in this community in the way of stations and equipment, and giving you a gas that has gained a national reputation for quick starting, and a quick-get-away and is much better in the long run, than the famous "Fire Chief" Gas is distributed by all Texaco stations. At these stations you will find experienced men, these men are here to give you superior service. They are here to help you, but in that Texaco station you will find good advice about your car and a grease job it is really a pleasure to use it. The Progressive Review indorses their stations.

R. F. MAYFIELD

At this store you will find every-thing to protect you for the winter. This is a modern store that holds the old traditions of courtesy, service and saving, the store where quality is better by test, the prices lower by comparison, the store where quality fashion and price unite to give values that cannot be duplicated. This is your own home owned and operated store striving every way possible to please and to co-operate with you, and they ask you to remember one thing that the sweetness of low price never equals the disappointment of poor quality. Mr. Mayfield and his assistants are always glad to serve you. The Progressive Review indorses this store and their merchandise, and we say try your own home store first.

FLORES' FEED STORE

Here is where you will find the home of a feed company that has served this county for the past year in the most efficient and capable way, trying at all times to give you the very top prices for what you had to sell and to sell you good merchandise at the very lowest possible prices. They have been responsible for much money being spent in Baird that might have gone to other places, and they are always anxious to do their part for the people they serve, and you may rest assured that you will get good honest treatment at this feed company and whether your purchase be large or small, you will receive the same courteous attention. This is the home of Purinia Feeds, the cheapest feed in the long run. Feed for all animals. The Progressive Review indorses this company and what they are doing for the people of Callahan County.

McELROY'S DRY GOODS

Since this store opened its doors they have tried each day to give you better values for less. They have tried at all times to bring to you the merchandise that was best for the purpose that you wanted them for, and they have never overcharged you for what you bought. This is a home owned and controlled store for home people, and they are trying to serve you better and save you more. Their stocks are now complete for fall and they ask that you come in and let them show you what they have, to offer you. You will find Mr. McElroy and his assistants very courteous and anxious to help you with your needs. The Progressive Review indorses this store and their merchandise, and we say—try your own home store first. Buy at home and sell at home, and make yourself a better place to call home.

THE AMERICAN CAFE

If you are particular about your food, and want to be sure that it is clean and sanitary, we suggest you try the American Cafe, where they serve you with good, clean, wholesome food, and they do not charge you any more for this good clean food and good service than you would have to pay at places that would not stand such rigid test as this cafe does. Make this your meeting and eating place, you will always find a welcome here if it is for just a cup of coffee or a real meal. Bring your girl friend down for a real feed, or the missus, she too, would like to get away from home for a few good meals like this cafe serves. They try at all times to cook it just like you like it, and serve it to you with refinement and dignity. The Progressive Review indorses this cafe. Their meals and service and we suggest you try them for food goodness.

HOME TELEPHONE COMPANY

How many times recently have you heard it said, "Call Me Up And Let Me Know", and how many times have you heard the reply we do not have a telephone. This company has spent much money making and keeping their equipment for modern and up-to-date for you and giving you twenty-four hours service each day. They have given many jobs and have paid as much as could be paid at all times, and we suggest that you borrow your neighbors phone one more time and call up and have your own phone installed and then you will enjoy the privileges of using something that belongs to you—it is not a luxury, it has become a necessity! Be fair with your neighbor, be fair with your telephone company, and remember the cost is small compared to the returns. The Progressive Review indorses this company and what they are doing for the people they serve.

RED & WHITE STORE

The Red and White Stores are fastly spreading over the country. The thrifty house wives are learning that the Red and White is an emblem of economy, and a store of courtesy, filled with good staple and fancy groceries priced in keeping with the times. Mr. Hutchison is anxious to demonstrate and prove these things to you. Their buying connections make it almost impossible for any other store to meet their price and quality. You will find that you receive good honest weights and full packins and superior treatment from these stores wherever you may find them. The Progressive Review indorses this store and the manager who is anxious to help you in any way possible, and the town and community which he serves.

CITY PHARMACY

For many years this Dependable Drug Store has been your friend during sickness, and is at all times anxious to help you with your drug needs. Their prescription department is most complete and you may have any doctor's prescription filled without substitution. Their drug sundries line is most complete. They are among the first to show the newer and better things in cosmetics. This is a home owned and operated store, and they sell merchandise at the regular authorized prices, so you should try your own drug store first. The Progressive Review indorses this store, and Mr. Ray who is always anxious to do his part.

BEARDEN'S SERVICE STATION

Mr. Bearden who is an experienced and schooled service man is here to give you better service and better products. He is featuring that famous "Fire Chief" gas, and you win if you use that good high pressure gas and oils. Mr. Bearden and his company has spared no expense in making this station modern and convenient for your business and this station is home operated and the profits stay in Baird to help make a bigger and a better town in which to live and trade. Ask for a Marfax, not a grease job. Mr. Bearden is a licensed Marfax man, he can really grease your car. He is the only certified lubricationist in Baird. The Progressive Review indorses this station and their products and we say try this "Fire Chief" once and then it will become a habit and a pleasure to use it. Also agent for Goodrich Silvertown Safety Tires and Dunlop Tires which are guaranteed tires.

Bares Massacre of Old Alaskan Race

Scientists Find Skeletons on Kodiak Island.

Washington.—Evidence of a prehistoric "massacre" on desolate Kodiak Island, Alaska, at a time when it was inhabited by an unknown race of advanced culture, was uncovered this summer by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of physical anthropology of the Smithsonian institution, who has just returned to Washington.

This was the sixth expedition of Doctor Hrdlicka to Alaska, and the third summer he has conducted extensive excavations on this site, which in some respects probably represents the highest aboriginal art in North America north of Mexico, although there is as yet practically no clue to the exact identity of the people who developed it or brought it from Asia.

"Nest Burials" Puzzle. In past years Doctor Hrdlicka has been puzzled by what he terms "nest burials," where a number of skeletons would be found together, of all ages and both sexes and without any of the customary mortuary offerings which the ancient people ordinarily placed in graves.

The clue came with the discovery that many of the skeletons had cracked skulls and other evidences of combat. This is a strong indication that they were not wiped out by some epidemic and justifies a picture of a village massacre from which a few escaped, to return later and bury their dead in heaps.

Assisted by five volunteer college students, Doctor Hrdlicka was able to make substantial progress this summer in uncovering the remains of the old settlement—apparently the "metropolis" of the bay on which it is located in the days when the island was an important center of population. The site rests on glacial till and in places on a peculiar geologic formation called by Doctor Hrdlicka "butter earth," a gritty, yellow clay, identified by geologists as representing old metamorphosed volcanic ash.

Had Higher Culture. The unknown people were master craftsmen, especially in the making of beautiful stone lamps and in the carving of ivory. The latter art they carried to the extent of carving individual portraits.

Doctor Hrdlicka added extensively to his collection of skeleton remains and artifacts gathered there in other years; besides what was sent previously there are more than forty boxes of material on the way to the institution. But, he reports, one of the most important results of the excavations this summer was the great family difference found in the many ancient households studied.

All partook of a common culture, yet each family group had its own variation. Some were good lamp carvers, others specialized in other artifacts. The work furnishes a potent illustration of the fallacy of considering a prehistoric culture as almost invariable from individual to individual, or of judging of the whole culture of a people from a localized sample.

VICTORIOUS VITALITY

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

The fatalist believes that, regardless of our best efforts, conditions occur according to the decrees of fate. Fruitless are all efforts to alter that decree. We may as well accept the inevitable without argument or explanation. If the decrees of fate are thus final and irrevocable the only alternative is wholehearted acquiescence. But is fatalism the true interpretation of values?

Is there not some other explanation of this life? Is a complete surrender to fate the only way out? If fatalism were accepted as a philosophy of life in the business world all progress would be blocked and complete disintegration of economic values would be near at hand.

A man must either drive his work or be driven by it. The latter may produce the fatalist but never the former. Resigning himself to the inevitable, like the prisoner caught with the goods on him, he sees no way out but suicide, so the fatalist commits mental and spiritual suicide. The man who drives his work, however, substitutes for the law of surrender the law of control.

A sudden calamity will either paralyze us or urge us on to "vaster issues." Much has been written about Theodore Roosevelt's "second wind." He never recognized defeat and the word failure was not in his vocabulary. This same philosophy of life which substitutes control for acquiescence is very greatly needed in the depression experiences through which many people are passing. Acquiescence kills pride, lowers the "morale" and makes one a prey to many of the false social theories rampant today.

Control creates a victorious vitality which refuses to be mastered by outward conditions. Instead of surrendering to fate it uses every unfortunate experience as a means to higher ends. The loss of money may lead to the conviction that "life does not consist in the abundance of one's possessions," and that life should be counted by heart throbs and not dollars in a bank.

Using misfortune for higher ends creates values which we may never have thought existed. An entire new world has been opened up to many who refused these days to surrender to the irony of fate. Victorious vitality may come to everyone who uses misfortune as a "stepping stone to higher things," and who hears, "A deeper voice across the storm."

The Household

GLASS is invading the realm of interior decoration. Never before has it taken quite the place it does now, although it has had repeated revivals. Today even the walls of a house may glisten from tiny filaments of spun glass introduced into the wall paper together with similar filaments of metals to give a burnished surface. Mirrors have returned in all their glory and are hung to duplicate beautiful portions of rooms, or of bough, branches and landscapes glimpsed through windows. It is easy to see that the positioning of mirrors is important to bring out the desired reflections for beauty or for impressions of space.

Mirror doily reflections of vases, usually of silver or glass, and flower-filled, give added attraction to tables, since the arrangement is in duplicate. These table mirrors are fascinating dining-table centerpieces as fleeting visions of those seated across the table are often caught, adding to the jollity of an occasion, or permitting swift, unspoken messages to be exchanged. It is true that these matters apart from the decorative function of the doily mirror which is to reflect the ornamental centerpiece standing on it, but interest is added just the same. Doily mirrors come in round, oval, etc., shapes merely veiled at rims, or with dainty etched decorations on the glass. These mirrors are again in high favor after a lapse of several years.

Collector's Glassware. Glassware is still in the ascendancy as a collector's hobby. It results to the advantage of interior decoration as many of the pieces take their places on mantelpieces, tables, sideboards, and also on glass shelves in windows. The light shimmers through the transparent crystal white or colored surfaces in a gay and enticing fashion. Many of the pieces can be of genuine practical use, serving as vases, salad bowls, cream pitchers and sugar bowls, paper weights, but we are not so familiar with glass book ends, paper cutters, and letter holders. Novel they are and handsome, whether in plain solid blocks or molded and chiseled or cut and engraved. Speaking of cut glass, its vogue is becoming more and more in evidence each season.

Cut Glass Comes Back. Cut glass is returning to favor. It may be said that it has always been in fashion since very light cutting has been in style during the many years when deep cut glass was demode. But the cutting was so very delicate that it made little impression on the surface of the glass, and also but little impression of cut glass in the minds of purchasers. Etched glass has been in higher favor than cut glass.

Two designs are especially featured—pineapple and star cutting. Out-glass goblets come in all sizes from the very small wine-glass size to the large water goblets. The cutting on this stemware has to be completed on the sides of the glass, for the rims must be polished smooth.

Scarce Advice Combination. "For advice to do any good," said Uncle Eben, "dar has to be one man smart enough to give it and another smart enough to take it; which is a scarce combination."

Makes Impression

PATTERN 9040 This frock has been designed upon the principle that one should always leave a good impression behind one. Look at the little sketch of the lady walking away. Hasn't she saved the prettiest part of her frock to show us last? See how clearly the ends of the combination sleeves and yoke knot at the neck! And don't you like the bow at the waistline? It is a divine little frock in plaid or flowered fabric, but the woman who never wears a fancy fabric can make it in a plain one and be delighted with it. And the making is surprisingly easy. Pattern 9040 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 40 and 42. Size 14 requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE. Complete, diagrammed sew chart included. Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth street, New York.

ADJUSTING BANKING TO CHANGING NEEDS
By ROBERT V. FLEMING
Vice President American Bankers Association

BANKERS recognize that changing conditions require new methods of doing business. However it is their responsibility to retain those essential and sound financial principles upon which this country was founded and has grown to be what is still the richest nation in the world.
Many of our difficulties have arisen from lack of confidence and from misunderstanding. Therefore it behooves the banker to bend every effort to create a better public understanding of sound banking and thereby bring about that united effort and cooperative spirit which will hasten the day of national recovery and restore to the banker the confidence of the public to which he is entitled.
As an approach to the realization of this ideal, bankers should carefully scrutinize every application for a loan to see if it is bankable and, if it is not in bankable form, then make further examination to see if the loan can be made so, in order that the uses of credit may be stimulated.
Explaining Loan Factors to Customers
We must not expect our customers to be bankers and understand all the factors which we must consider before granting a loan. If we find that a loan is not, and cannot be made, bankable, then I think we should take pains to explain to the applicant the reasons why it cannot be granted.
There are other measures which I think it important for the banker to undertake in order to eliminate the misunderstandings which have arisen and overcome the sentiment which exists. Under present conditions we have to operate under many laws and regulations, and also watch what further legislation is being proposed which affects our methods of operation and may not be in the best interest of the communities we serve. Nowadays it seems at times we must sit with a law book in one hand and a book of regulations in the other in order to make certain we are discharging our daily duties and functioning strictly in accordance with the law. All of this is very trying, yet I think in the end we shall become better bankers.
I believe it is the duty of every banker today to endeavor to understand the public he serves. In addition to his daily duties, trying as they are, he should participate in the activities of his community, so that, with the fund of information available to him, he may be as helpful as possible in all public and civic matters

COMPTROLLER COMMENTS
INSTITUTE OF BANKING
WASHINGTON, D. C.—The American Institute of Banking, said to be the most successful project of its kind in the field of applied adult education, has performed a valuable function in training bank clerks for "sound public service as well as personal success," J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, said here in a recent radio address. The Institute is a section of the American Bankers Association.
"While imparting useful knowledge, it has improved the morale of banking personnel and has stimulated in its members an intelligent interest in national and international monetary problems," Mr. O'Connor said. "Its courses cover a wide field in banking. Among the subjects, one finds Bank Organization and Operation, Commercial Law, Negotiable Instruments Law, and Economics in the Pro-Standard

LUCKY GIRL
Her mother felt that family physicians and child specialists, and the hospitals must be right. A simple test that proves they are.

If anyone in your family is occasionally sluggish or constipated; especially any child, you should know this medical truth:

You cannot get safe relief with any medicine if you cannot regulate the dose. And to regulate dosage, you should have a liquid laxative. With a liquid laxative, you can gradually reduce the dose. And that is the secret of safe relief from a sluggish, constipated condition.

Why Doctors Use Liquid Laxatives
A liquid laxative can be measured. Its action can be thus controlled. If properly made, of natural laxative elements like senna and cascara, it forms no habit—even in the youngest child. And such a laxative will help the bowels to help themselves, not make matters worse.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative containing herbs, active senna, and cascara, and is the one widely used. You can always obtain it at any drugstore. Why not make the "liquid test" which has attracted so much attention of late? It helps nearly everyone who tries it. It may make you feel better than you have in a long time.

If you will risk sixty cents to discover the natural, comfortable action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, we believe bowel worries will be over for your household.

History in the MAKING

That is what is covered in our Weekly News Review feature each week. It is an interpretation of the events of each week that are making the history of the nation and the world. It is prepared by Edward W. Pickard, one of the highly trained newspaper observers of the nation, and syndicated to a limited number of newspapers in the different states. It is the best feature of this character that goes to American readers from any source. You can make it the foundation of your discussion of world events with friends.

An Army of Goodwill
When members of the Junior Red Cross learned that schoolbooks had been destroyed in the Kentucky floods last August they gave $100 from the National Children's Fund to buy new textbooks for use in the schools. The maximum membership for the Junior Red Cross last year was 7,350,289, an increase over the previous year of more than 250,000. They carry on civic and service programs in their own communities which each year bring comfort and pleasure to thousands of needy and unfortunate people. An international friendship is built up through correspondence with Junior Red Cross members in foreign countries.

To Teach Water Safety
Life saving services offering training in first aid methods for swimmers have been carried on by the Red Cross for two decades. In 20 years, life saving certificates have been awarded to more than a half million people who are interested in water sports. Last year chapters issued 72,503 life saving certificates.

The Red Cross enrolled 3,802,334 members in last year's roll call. Join in the 1934 roll call—Armistice Day to Thanksgiving.

Why Doctors Use Liquid Laxatives
A liquid laxative can be measured. Its action can be thus controlled. If properly made, of natural laxative elements like senna and cascara, it forms no habit—even in the youngest child. And such a laxative will help the bowels to help themselves, not make matters worse.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative containing herbs, active senna, and cascara, and is the one widely used. You can always obtain it at any drugstore. Why not make the "liquid test" which has attracted so much attention of late? It helps nearly everyone who tries it. It may make you feel better than you have in a long time.

If you will risk sixty cents to discover the natural, comfortable action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, we believe bowel worries will be over for your household.
