Eula FHA Observes FHA Week, Nov. 4-10

During National FHA Week, November 4-10, the Future Homemakers wore their colors, red and white. Activities included a Mother-Daughter Progressive Supper, a Joint Sock Supper with the FFA boys, and attendance of the District FHA Meeting.

On November 5 fifteen girls and their mothers met at the Homemaking Cottage for the Progressive Supper. The appetizer was served by four freshman girls. After everyone arrived, the group progressed to the home of Mrs. H. M. Burleson for the main course. Each girl brought a covered dish. Upon completion of the main course, the girls and their mothers proceeded to the R. H. Brock home for the dessert. At the business meeting following the dessert, Roberta Edwards was nominated for a district officer and Beth Farmer was elected as delegate to the District Meeting.

On November 9 the FHA and the FFA held a Joint Sock Supper. Socks filled with food were auctioned off, after which the FFA presented their Chapter Beau. Ken Anderson. After the boys found the matching sock to the one they had bought, the group ate supper. Then the FHA directed an evening of entertainment.

On November 10 Beth Farmer, FHA president; Doris Black, Bobbie Farmer, Robbie Farmer and Mrs. Evelyn Scott, Chapter Advisor, attended the District I Area IV FHA meeting at Seymour. SOUTH TAYLOR PLAYS ROCHESTER THURSDAY

The Rochester Steers, kingpins of District 10-B, and the South Taylor Flying Tigers, chosen Monday afternoon at Baird as the 9-B representative, will meet in the bi-district round Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at Haskell.

Representatives of the five 9-B schools—South Taylor, Baird, Moran, Carbon and Strawn—met Monday afternoon at Baird to choose a bi-district representative after Baird, Moran and South Taylor finished in a three-way tie for the championship.

Voting proved unsatisfactory, so a drawing was held with South Taylor drawing the lucky slip.

A resolution was passed by the five district members, making the choice unanimous.

K. H. Rowland, Baird superintendent, who is 9-B football chairman, presided at the meeting.

Supt. D. E. White and Coach Bill Anderson of South Taylor met with Supt. Bob King and Coach Phil Simmons of Rochester Monday night at Wooten Hotel in Abilene, to pick a time and site for the bi-district game. Rochester won on both counts. South Taylor wanted to play the game at South Taylor Friday, November 30.

Ev Hughes attended a banquet at Cisco Friday night, honoring Pop Summers, who is retiring from the Humble Company.

Aunt Sipple Warren is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Eunice Bowers, at San Angelo.

Gala Program Is Planned For Old Santa and His Reindeer

The moon rides high on the new fallen snow. To lend an air of Christmas to the scene below. When out of nowhere who should appear. But Santa, his sleigh, and four reindeer.

With a quick, sure movement the little man in red. Pulled gently on their reins then gave them their head. It's Donner and Blitzen with Santa at the sleigh. And Dancer and Prancer looking your way.

The reindeer pranced, then shuffled and shied. "Look! It's old Santa Claus," the children all cried. Their eyes blazed with excitement, they shouted in glee. Then moved in closer the better to see.

The scene so vividly brought out in this Christmas rhyme will come to reality in Baird at 4 p. m. on December 8th. For on that day Santa Claus and his four live reindeer will parade through the town to bring the spirit of the season nearer to children and adults.

There definitely is a Santa Claus. This has been borne out through the passing years by newspapers and by word of mouth.

People for miles around will be here to view the parade. Old Saint Nick will pull the reins over his charges as they prance down the street, resplendent in their bright red harness with shiny brass nameplates.

Grady Carothers, Goldthwaite ranchman, is bringing the live reindeer here. They are a part of the herd he owns in the Central Texas area.

Several years ago, Carothers came to the conclusion he would try to satisfy his children who asked every Christmas season, "Where is Santa's reindeer?" After three years of hard work that included many letters, the ranchman finally obtained authority from our government to get the reindeer from Alaska.

Today, the only herd of live reindeer are on the Texas ranch. Their main first year diet consists principally of oatmeal just like you eat for breakfast. Each animal eats about two and one-half pounds of the cereal each day. After that they do well on peanut and alfalfa hay to replace the lichen moss they eat in Alaska. The moss is highly nutritious but transportation costs prohibit its being used on the ranch extensively.

Carothers secures his animals each year from Eschscholtz Bay, 90 miles south of Kotzebue, an Eskimo village of 200 population. The bay section is a peninsula on the Bering Sea. Here, he camps in snow some three weeks each year getting his herd together for the air trip back to Texas. Temperatures where the reindeer are captured range as much as 80 below zero.

The Arctic reindeer have some all characteristics. For example, their ankles pop when they walk, a crackle you can easily hear. Their cloven hoofs are large and act as a firm foundation for the deep Arctic snows. They are completely covered with fur except the tip of their nose. They breathe like a dog when warm, and regurgitate like a cow when eating.

Both male and female reindeer have antlers with a range spread as high as four feet, and with as many as forty points. Flies are their pet peeve for if one gets even close to a reindeer he shudders.

Zoos have no live reindeer, but the Texas rancher who can't sing cowboy songs, and is aptly called Santa Claus' best friend has them. The Yuletide season will take on a new meaning for children here this year with the visit of Santa Claus and his reindeer.

Texas Editors Hold 35th Annual Meeting in Galveston

On a trip to Galveston, where we attended the 35th annual convention of the Texas Editorial Association, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday was most delightful and enlightening. The Star editor boarded the T&P Eagle at noon Wednesday, leaving the matter of printing and mailing that week's edition of the Star in the hands of our very capable force. We were present for the 3-day convention of Texas editors, and were on the Friday morning program to discuss "Reader Interest in Local Historical Sketches."

At the last business session on Saturday morning, The Star editor was elected 2nd vice president of the association, an office we are extremely proud to hold. It is a tradition to elect the 2nd vice president, promote him to 1st vice president and then to president. So, if all goes well we are due to be president of this association in 1954.

H. Frank Bridges of the Nixon News, was president at the Galveston convention. J. Emerson Edwards of Troup was elevated to the office of president for the ensuing year. Franz W. Zeiske of Bellville became 1st vice president. T. C. Richardson, Texas editor, the Farmer-Stockman, Dallas, was made recording secretary. G. A. (Pop) Mabry, Humble Oil & Refining Company, Houston, corresponding secretary, and Arthur Lefevre, editor Texaco Topics, Houston, remained as assistant president for the 36th year.

The Galveston people entertained the editorial folk in gala fashion. At noon the first day a luncheon was given by Thomas J. Lipton Co., with Manager Toby Fleming as master of ceremonies. A trip to the Lipton tea plant was most enjoyable and educational. Mr. Fleming, a professional tea taster, conducted the editors through the fine plant, which was built early in 1951 and is the most modern tea blending plant in the world. Each guest was given a souvenir kit of Lipton products at the end of the tour of the five-story building.

Texas Gulf Sulphur Company was host to the group Thursday evening at dinner, after which a most interesting and instructive U. S. Bureau of Mines film was shown. Luncheon on Friday was served in the dining room of the Buccaneer Hotel at the courtesy of Buccaneer-Houston Breweries, Inc. At 6 p. m. Friday Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation was host at a sumptuous steak dinner. Luncheon on Saturday was given the editors by The Galveston News and The Galveston Tribune.

The program for the 3-day meeting was key-noted by a speech by Attorney General Price Daniel, when he blasted President Truman for his stand on the tidelands case. Other speakers enlightened their audiences on subjects of freedom of the press, Galveston's future, importance of newspaper editorials, A & M information services, what goes on in the legislature, photography, historical features, problems of an editor, the natural gas industry in Texas, forest conservation, and many other views of interest to editors of daily and weekly newspapers of Texas.

The part of the convention we place the greatest value on is our visiting with those who attend. We have known many of them for a long, long time. We enjoyed meeting some of the new-comers who had never attended the editorial convention before. After hearing the report of the memorial committee and realizing how many of the old newspapermen are passing from this life, we are encouraged to know there are quite a number of younger newsmen coming into their right as members of the association. Requirements for membership is 20 years in active newspaper work. There are no dues, no registration fees. The host town and its industries entertain in a way that make the assessment of dues, etc., unnecessary.

RETURN QUARTERBACK TICKETS BY FRIDAY

All members who have Quarterback Club tickets must make their report to Lee Loper or Jay Ashlock by Friday. The club will appreciate your prompt action in this matter.

Baird Rabbits Hit The Jack-Pot

Now for a pen of rabbits to hit the jack pot, might seem to be not uncommon to most of our readers, but when Smokey Edwards and his son, Bill, took their fine rabbits to the first annual show of the Longhorn Rabbit Breeders Association at Sweetwater, Sunday, Nov. 18, and bring back five first places, two second places, two third places, one fourth place, and one fifth place, we contend that they hit the jackpot. This is just what happened at the Sweetwater show, and the Edwardses are leaning backwards with pride over their accomplishments, and of course, to hold up all these ribbons and medals pinned across their chests.

It's not the first time the Baird rabbitmen ever won prizes with their fine rabbits at district and state shows. Although this was the stiffest competition they ever faced, their collection of prizes have come from Dallas, Houston, Wichita Falls, Abilene, and other Texas show places. At the Sweetwater show, 16 different breeds were entered with a total of 178 rabbits.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roe Kelly, of Dallas, visited Mrs. Kelly's father, B. L. Boydston, and her sister, Mrs. B. L. Russell, Jr., and Mr. Russell during the weekend.

Miss Beverly Leache, of Dallas, spent the weekend with Mrs. Maria Leache.

IT WAS a grand idea. Mr. Emmott, who had charge of the Philadelphia office for the circulation department of Sperry's Weekly, thought it up all by himself.

"We'll advertise for girls, see? We'll state in the ad that they won't have to do any soliciting. That'll dispel any doubts, see? Then when the girls get here we'll send 'em out with you regular salesmen, see? All they have to do is introduce you to their friends, and then you regulars put across the sale, see?"

Jeff Elliot didn't see. He thought it was a rotten idea. But he didn't say so. He couldn't afford to lose his job. Selling magazine subscriptions had been paying him an average of $10 a week for the past six months.

Two days later when he reported at the office there was a girl there. A red-headed girl with a straight little nose and wide blue eyes. Mr. Emmott introduced her as Miss Patsy Jordan.

"Jeff's one of our best men," he told Patsy. "All you have to do is introduce him to your friends and he'll do the selling, see? Then you split the commissions, see?"

"I see," said the girl.

They took a trolley out to Evanson. They got off and walked up Maple avenue and turned up Harris. "I've loads of friends living here," Patsy said. "Do you feel lucky?"

"I never felt more lucky in my life," Jeff said, looking at her.

They called on a motherly sort of woman named Pierce. Mrs. Pierce seemed delighted to see Patsy.

She invited them in and before they left Jeff had sold two subscriptions. At the next apartment he sold one. Before noon he had sold five more. He stared at Patsy admiringly across a table in a tiny restaurant.

"Say, what's your formula for being popular? Those sales were pushovers. Maybe Emmott wasn't so cockeyed with his idea after all."

Patsy regarded him over a glass of milk. She was, Jeff thought, about the prettiest girl ever.

"Are you always going to be a magazine salesman?" she asked him. "I am not!" he told her emphatically. "I'm studying now for my law degree. Nights, I've only one more term. Then, when I pass the bar and save up a thousand dollars I'm going to some little town up in the hills."

"I like little towns in the hills," Patsy said.

That afternoon they called on four more of Patsy's friends and Jeff made 100 per cent sales. He was delighted. He was delighted with Patsy. Tomorrow he was going to ask her to have dinner with him before his law class began.

The next morning they visited another district. Patsy introduced him to a woman in a dilapidated looking apartment house. He sold her a subscription. Then they mounted the stairs and knocked on another door. There was a long wait. Finally the door opened a crack and a man's face peered out at them.

"Is Flora in?" Patsy asked. "Who wants her?"

"I do, I'm Patsy Jordan."

The man stared at her. "What d'yuh want her for?" he asked.

Patsy glanced at Jeff appealingly. Jeff didn't like the man's looks or tone. He said: "She wants to introduce her to me. I'm a magazine salesman. Patsy—Miss Jordan is working with me. If you'll please tell—"

"Don't want none," the man said. The door closed.

That night Jeff took Patsy to dinner. She wore a satin gown that gave her skin a milky-white look. He almost lost his head and asked her to marry him then and there. The next morning when he came to the office Patsy wasn't there. He waited an hour and she didn't come.

At noon he went out and ate a sandwich. He felt glum, low-spirited. He went back to the office, but Patsy hadn't reported. At 2 o'clock Mr. Emmott told him he was wasting time hanging around.

Jeff didn't sell a single subscription that afternoon. The next day he got to the office early, but Patsy didn't show up. He cut his law class that night and went to her address. It was an apartment house. The janitor told him that the apartment where Patsy said she lived hadn't been occupied for three months.

He went back to his own room. He didn't know what to make of it. He was a little angry.

At 9 o'clock there was a knock on his door. It was Patsy. She came in and handed him an envelope. He opened the envelope and gaped at its contents. It was a check made out to him for $1000.

Patsy enjoyed his bewilderment. She said, before explaining: "Now, all you have to do is pass your bar exams." Then: "It's your share of the reward."

"What reward?"

"For the capture of Flora Darrell. The police suspected where she was hiding. They didn't dare investigate for fear of scaring her off. They needed an outsider. They saw the advertisement for girls. My brother is a police inspector. He asked me to help out. We planted all those subscriptions, so you wouldn't get suspicious, so you'd act like a real salesman when finally we called at where we thought Flora lived. It worked. Last night they made the capture. . . No, please don't say it. Of course it was a mean trick, but Flora was Public Enemy No. 1. Besides, you don't like selling magazines and I don't like small towns in the hills—And doesn't that mean anything to you?"

Jeff swallowed. He cleared his throat. He scratched his head. He decided to say nothing that he thought he ought to say. Instead he merely said "Yes." And took her into his arms.

Illegal Shooting Costs $8,462.98 In October

AUSTIN — Law enforcement, a vital routine for the main fall hunting seasons, was spotlighted with the disclosure that $8462.98 was collected in fines and court costs during October.

The Chief Clerk of the Game and Fish Commission pointed out that several of the major cases involved illegal shooting of deer and wild turkey, which become legal prey November 16. Fourteen persons were prosecuted for hadlighting deer, one more than was brought into court for hunting deer at night. Sixteen cases involved taking deer in closed season.

Four persons were prosecuted for killing wild turkey during the closed season.

Twelve persons were arrested for hunting from automobiles. The $8462.98 fines and costs total, involving 320 cases, contrasted with $6796.92 involving 310 cases in October last year.

The fine report for September this year also was high. The total comprised $8708.95 for 303 cases.

The mourning dove season in the north zone, opening September 1, added to the October cases. Forty-five persons were fined for lacking hunting licenses; 13 killed doves before or after legal hours; ten exceeded the bag limit of ten doves, and nine used an unplugged gun.

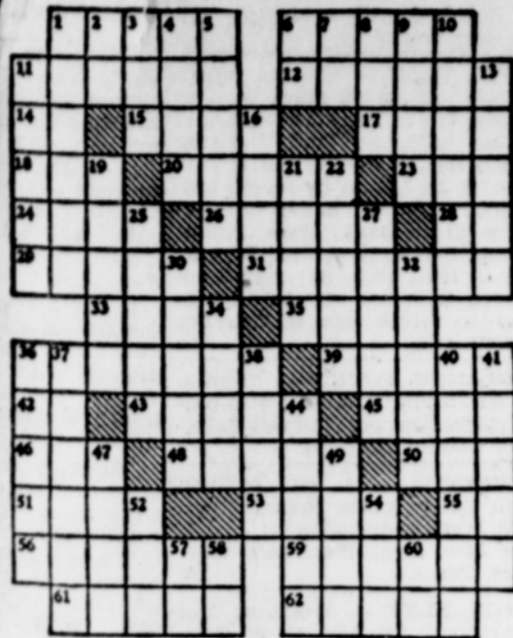

One hunter was fined for shooting doves with a rifle.

Mrs. Grady Davis spent last weekend in Marshall visiting friends.

support prices
UP 30%!

Yes, Texas farmers are guaranteed at least $3.70 a bushel for 1952 crop Flaxseed, delivered at Kenedy! That's the new support price set by the government to increase acreage of this badly needed crop.

Add this high price to all its other advantages, and Flax is hard to beat. It's hardy, dependable, drought resistant . . . and best of all, requires less work than almost any other cash crop you can grow. That's why Texas farmers are saying: "Flax will be my Number One crop in 1952."

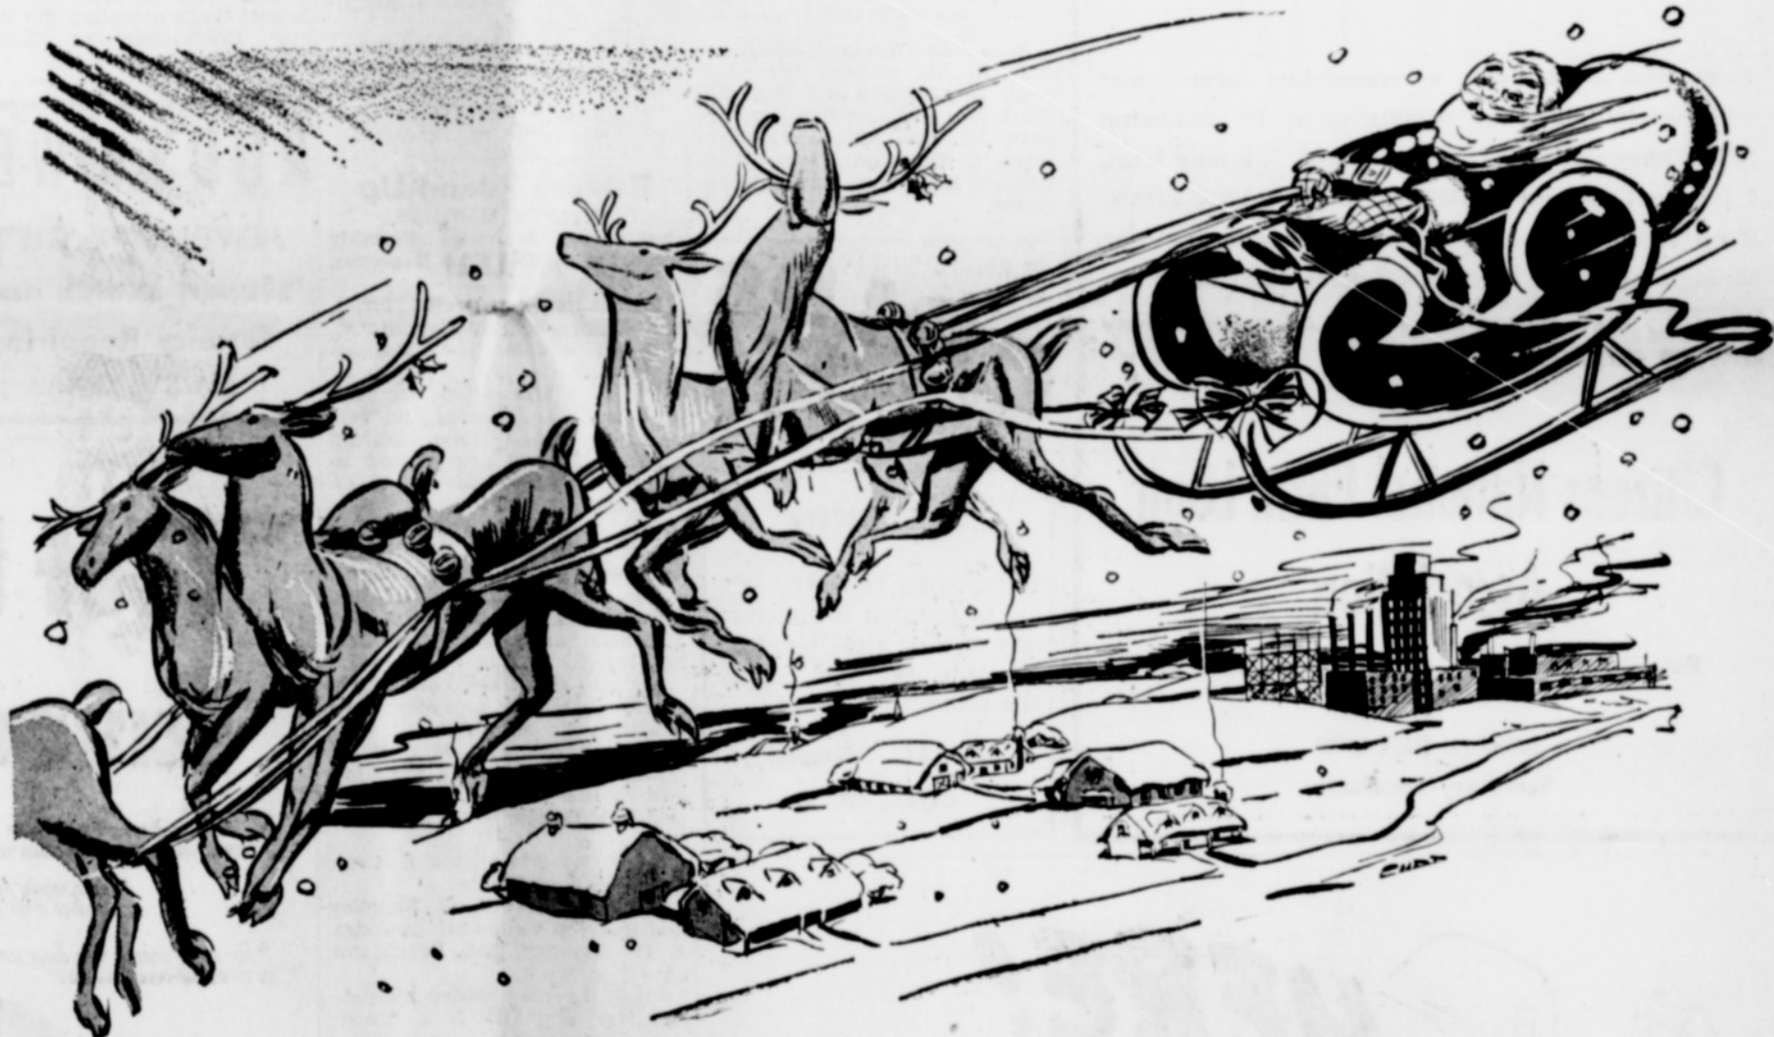

"Flax is the surest crop we can grow and it brings us the biggest profit," says Vester Richie, Melvin, Texas. "There's less risk, it requires less labor, and it spreads the work so we can handle more land. "Give us any kind of a season with just a little rain and we'll make 10 bushels. Give us a good season and we'll do 15 to 25 bushels an acre."

IT MIGHT BE MORE PROFITABLE TO COOPERATE

Street paving has started in Baird with the first work being done on the 300 block on Chestnut Street. The actual construction began Tuesday morning.

The committee, including at least one resident in each block, will try to keep ahead of the contractor by having complete blocks ready for the paving when he gets to them. The contractor cannot afford to wait for the property owners to decide whether they want their street paved. Cash must be in hand before the work begins. At a price of only $75 for each fifty-foot front, it is believed that this is a real opportunity for Baird to get some more pavement. If this proposition is turned down now, there's no telling when local residents will ever have another opportunity.

It is very much desired that all residents of each block under consideration for paving will gladly cooperate with their neighbors in this project. To make it easy for all property owners, a finance plan has been worked out whereby the payments might be spread over a year.

In the event that one property owner refuses to carry his part of the paving program, the contractor will leave that portion of the street unpaved. If the city council should later on decide to have the gaps paved by assessing the property, the price will probably be double the amount it is now. No threat of forcing anyone has been made, and it is hoped that all property owners in blocks where the paving is to be done will cooperate and help make Baird a better place in which to live.

Those who would like to have their street paved should contact others in their block. If most of the property owners want the paving, report to the committee in charge. With the work now going on, don't delay. Make your request for paving as soon as possible.

A SPRIG OF ACACIA FOR DAD

Not so long ago we were in a group of men about a door, waiting for the pall bearers to carry out the casket. There were young men, middle aged men, and old men in the group. There were thin men and fat men, short men and tall men, but in one thing they were all alike—each wore a white apron under his coat, a sprig of green in his buttonhole. You have guessed that it was a lodge funeral. And so it was. One of the members had laid down the working tools of life, and the others assembled to carry the body out to the brow of the hill where someone had been and dug a grave.

Every time we attend a funeral of a man who has been a husband and father, we think of what that home has lost. We associate the success of the well managed home so much with the mother that we are prone to lose sight of Dad. But when we stand around the yard waiting for them to bring Dad through the doorway, we begin to think of him as the man who furnished the shingles over that home—as the man who held the butcher and the grocer off with his weekly pay envelope—the man who mowed the grass and hauled out the ashes each spring. Dad is the man who buys the chicken, who carves the chicken, and for all expense and trouble he draws the neck and wing. Dad is the chap who wears his last summer's straw hat in order that mother and the girls may have new bonnets. True, it is mother who darns the socks, but who pays for the darned socks? It was Dad who went to lodge and came back smelling like a smokehouse and rolled and tossed because he had eaten four ham sandwiches and drunk two cups of coffee after eleven o'clock. Poor old Dad! He was an awful fool about the work at that lodge, but with all his faults there was something about him and his brother Masons that make us sigh as they drop their springs of acacia into the new made grave.

Dad was as steady as a steam roller; as constant as the drip of a faucet. When he was silently rubbing his itch and gazing into the fire, he was probably thinking of the price of fuel. Sometimes mother had to chide him for wearing a shirt too long or neglecting to hang his hat in the proper place. Sometimes daughter wished he wouldn't come into the living room without a collar. Sometimes the boys thought he was hard on them and tight with them. But now that he is gone they will miss him sorely and understand why he went without a new overcoat to pay the last premium on his life insurance. And when you come back from the place you laid him, and all the brothers of the lodge have gone back to their homes, and the undertaker has gathered up the folding chairs and removed the crepe from the door, you are going to miss that sober presence that stood between you and so many outdoor annoyances. Never go back on Dad.

Serenity, Courage, Wisdom

ONE DAY as Louis D. Donaldson, Bloomingdale, Ohio, was driving to his home over icy roads, he made the most disastrous move of his career. The car skidded and he suddenly jammed on his brakes!

The next thing he knew, the next morning, he was in the hospital. When the doctor came in a few hours later he asked if he could have his clothes and go home. Said the doctor, "Yes, you can—in about six weeks. You have a fractured skull and you must stay right where you are, flat on your back—and be quiet."

Flat on his back for six weeks! He certainly would not. He couldn't do it; his business would be gone; he would be ruined. He explained the situation to the doctor, who was adamant. He pleaded, threatened, raved. All to no avail. He complained to his wife. She decided against him. "Lou," she said, patiently, "you must do what the doctor says."

"To heck with the doctor. I am going home."

But when he made an effort to move, he didn't feel like carrying out his resolve. He looked in the mirror, saw blackened eyes, almost closed; his nose was swollen to the size of a football; his head was covered with gauze and mercurochrome. What a mess! And it all had happened in one unguarded moment!

That evening his wife brought him something to read. He didn't feel like reading long, but one thing he read stuck; just a few lines transformed his thinking and aided his recovery: "God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change; the courage to change the things I can; and the wisdom to know the difference."

Wonderful lines! Lines that not only calmed his mind for the time being, but lines that have helped him in all the time that has passed since that memorable day.

PONTIAC TO HOLD DEALER MEETING IN KEY CITIES

PONTIAC, MICH. — First of the General Motors car units to launch 1952 sales activities, Pontiac Motor Division will hold a series of factory and dealer meetings in key cities throughout the country beginning, Nov. 19, according to an announcement by L. W. Ward, general sales manager.

The dealer meetings will be held in 25 cities where details of the 1952 line of Pontiac cars will be discussed and plans outlined for their public introduction.

Ward said that production of the new models already is under way with view to supplying dealers in time for public display early in December. Important engineering developments having to do with engine performance and power transmission will be among features of the new line, he said.

Current dealer stocks are at a minimum and Pontiac showrooms across the country will be relatively bare immediately prior to the announcement of new models. The executive said that production will be scheduled to insure prompt delivery of the 1952 cars beginning in December.

Mrs. Ella Farrar visited relatives in Big Spring last week.

Manpower Pool Reduced 25%

AUSTIN — Actions of state draft boards in October reduced the manpower pool of men with dependents by 25 per cent, a state Selective Service report to Washington revealed today. During the same period, local board actions increased the pool of men available for military service by 34 per cent, the report showed.

At the end of September, draft boards had 69,610 men deferred because of dependents. At the end of October the figure had dropped to 52,508. At the end of September, boards had 43,328 classified in I-A. By the end of October this pool was increased to 56,411.

Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield, state Selective Service director, explained the decrease in the number of men with dependents.

"Men with only dependent wives are no longer deferred under our new regulations," he said, "unless they can show extreme hardship. The local boards are reopening all these cases, and the figures show that many of them are being reclassified into I-A."

"This is proper and is in compliance with law and regulations," the state director continued, "if the man with a dependent wife alone is not otherwise deferrable because of some other status."

General Wakefield again reminded men of their legal responsibility to notify their draft boards if they get married, or if wives are expecting a child.

Under present draft regulations, if a man's wife is expecting their first child, the man is required, prior to the date his draft board mails him an induction order, to file a statement from a licensed physician that a child has been conceived.

If he fails in this responsibility present draft regulations make it mandatory that he be inducted into the service.

"Draft boards are currently hard at work reclassifying men with only dependent wives," General Wakefield said. "Several registrants over the state already have been too late in notifying their boards."

"There's nothing we can do about their cases. All we can do is implore all young men affected by the draft to notify their boards of any change in status."

"Tomorrow may be too late. The time to act is now," the state draft director concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Gwin, who were long time residents of Oplin have purchased the Olton Pool house on Vine Street. They moved to their new home a few days ago.

Governor Issues Seal Sale Proclamation

Citing the "invaluable work" of the Texas Tuberculosis Association in fighting tuberculosis in Texas, Governor Shivers made public today a formal proclamation calling for "100 per cent generous support" of the 1951 Christmas Seal Sale. The campaign will be conducted by the Tuberculosis Association from Nov. 19 to Christmas.

In issuing his proclamation, the Governor spoke of all "the excellent tuberculosis-fighting projects of the Association," but singled out the Association's health education programs for special commendation.

"Working on a year-round basis, the Texas Tuberculosis Association and its local affiliates make every effort to get across to the people facts about tuberculosis which will help them protect themselves against the disease," the Governor pointed out.

"This is only one of the major projects of the Association, but it is an example of how the Association is helping to bring the disease under control," said the Governor. "I appeal to all Texans to take an active part in supporting the invaluable work of the Tuberculosis Association by buying and using Christmas Seals."

"Tuberculosis, a communicable disease, is a threat to the health, lives and happiness of the people of Texas."

"The Texas Tuberculosis Association and its 97 local affiliates are doing invaluable work in bringing tuberculosis under control in the State."

"The support of the Tuberculosis Association is derived from the sale of Christmas Seals and this sale is the sole annual appeal of the organization or any of its affiliates."

"Therefore, I, as Governor of Texas, hereby designate the period from November 19 to December 25, 1951 as CHRISTMAS SEAL MONTH and urge all residents of Texas to express their wholehearted support of the tuberculosis control work of the Association by the generous purchase of Christmas Seals during the 1951 Christmas Seal Sale and by the use of Christmas Seals throughout the holidays."

"In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 15th day of November, 1951."

ALLAN SHIVERS,
Governor of Texas.

Star to Publish Children's Pictures Free

"The best investment is in children," says Wm. J. Cameron. "You had better take a good look at them as they pass you on the street, for they are the ones who are going to make a new world for you, and you can catch some glimmer of the dawn in their fresh young faces."

This is a bit of philosophy in which the publisher of this newspaper firmly believes. And because we think our readers should "Catch some glimmer of the dawn" we intend to help them do it. That is, of course, with the cooperation of the parents of the children of this and surrounding communities.

The only way we can give all our readers a good look at these future "World Builders" is by publishing pictures of them in a feature series titled "Citizens of Tomorrow."

To assure the latest and best reproduction pictures — they must be of uniform size and quality — we have made arrangements with the Woltz Studios, nationally known children's photographers, to take these special pictures for us.

Expert children's photographers for the studios, with all the necessary equipment for this specialized work, will be here Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 10 and 11. The special studio will be set up at Mrs. Sally Crawford's and will be open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily.

There is no charge to the parents. There are absolutely no strings to this invitation. There is no age limit. It is bonafide in every sense of the word. Parents do not have to be subscribers, nor even readers of this newspaper to take advantage of this feature. Neither are they obligated to purchase pictures after they are taken. Those who want some additional prints may obtain a limited number by arrangement with the studio representative when they select the pose they want printed in the paper.

It is entirely up to them!

The Star simply wants pictures of all the youngsters and the more the better. Mothers and fathers of the community in which this paper circulates should remember the day and dates, Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 10 & 11 at Mrs. Sally Crawford's residence, and not fail to bring their children to the photographer.

You will be mighty glad, afterwards, if you did, and very, very sorry if you fail to allow your children to participate in this event. The kiddies will have much fun and both Mother and Dad — and the youngsters, too — will be very proud to see their pictures in print later. Many will clip them out and preserve them until Junior grows up.
