Reward Offered For Vandalism At XIT

Officials at the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center report that Gary Miller is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the vandals who demolished the interior of the XIT Steak House last week. Damage estimates are running into the thousands of dollars as clean up work continues. Water damage seems to be the biggest concern at the moment.

The Steak House has remained closed this week while crews have been busy cleaning up the mess left by vandals.

The damage was first noticed when a local policeman sighted water running out of an open back door Friday night. An investigation showed that the interior of the Steak House had been demolished and the fire extinguisher water system turned on, flooding the entire building.

Inside, brick dividers were torn down, dishes broken and food thrown throughout the building. Paintings, painted by local artists, were torn down from the walls.

An estimated $1700 was also stolen from the office of the Steak House.

Tragedy struck the Steak House just over a year ago when the then two-story structure burned. The new Steak House had only been open for about six months when the fire closed it down.

The reward offered by Miller also applies to the vandalism that has occurred at his farm and at the hangers of his flying service. The hangers have been broken into five times with extensive damage being done to an airplane, gas being stolen, and the pumps broken.

Bill To Abolish Hospital District Passes Senate, House

Rep. Bill Clayton announces that a bill to abolish the Bailey County Hospital District has passed both House and Senate.

Parmer County Gas Users To Meet Monday

There will be a meeting of the Parmer County Gas Users Association on Monday, February 26, at 8 p.m. at the Hub Community Center.

There will be a representative of the ASCS office present to answer questions and explain the 1973 Farm Program.

Fuel scarcity problems must be faced by irrigation farmers. As severe winter has called national attention to the problems of the nation in providing enough fuel to meet the ever-increasing demands.

If farmers are to be able to obtain fuel in sufficient quantities it is going to be essential that they band together and unite and speak with one voice, state a representative of the association.

and is waiting for the governor's signature to make it final. The bill allows for the calling of an election to abolish the Bailey County Hospital District and was introduced by Rep. Clayton at the request of the directors of the hospital district.

It was passed by record vote so that it could be put into immediate effect, allowing an election to be called in the very near future to determine the status of the hospital district in Bailey County.

The intergovernmental Affairs Committee heard five bills authored by Rep. Clayton, dealing with finance, banking and savings and loans associations last week. The State Affairs Committee passed out House Bill #219, also authored by Clayton. This bill calls for changing the fiscal year of the state to match the federal fiscal year. It has already passed the Senate, and will be ready for House action this week.

The Education Committee heard witnesses on a proposed resolution until 2:30 in the morning. The resolution con-

Mrs. Griffiths Named County Chairman Of Arthritis Drive

Mrs. Herbert Griffiths has been named as the Bailey County Chairman of the Arthritis Foundation for 1973. She succeeds Mrs. Sam Damron, the chairman for 1972, who will be serving this year on the board of directors of the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

The Steering Committee for Bailey County is composed of Mrs. Harold King, Mrs. Randy Johnson, Dr. B.E. Sanderlin, Mrs. Damron and Mrs. Griffiths.

A meeting was held recently to lay plans for the 1973 Arthritis March in Muleshoe. The date was set for March 20.

Mrs. Damron says that she feels many local people have already been helped by the work of the Foundation in Muleshoe and hopes to see the work grow under the leadership of Mrs. Griffiths. The steering committee hopes that this year's drive might exceed last year's total of $1200.

Jane Wyman has been named national campaign chairman for the Arthritis Foundation's 1973 fund-raising drives.

The appointment of the Academy Award-winning actress was announced at a press conference in New York recently by Charles B. Harding, chairman of the board of the Foundation, and Daniel E. Patton, president and executive director of the organization. Mabry Peel, president of the Plains Division announced.

Miss Wyman told reporters her position is not sincere. "I'm not a casual joiner," she said. "When I belong to an organization, I'm a working member."

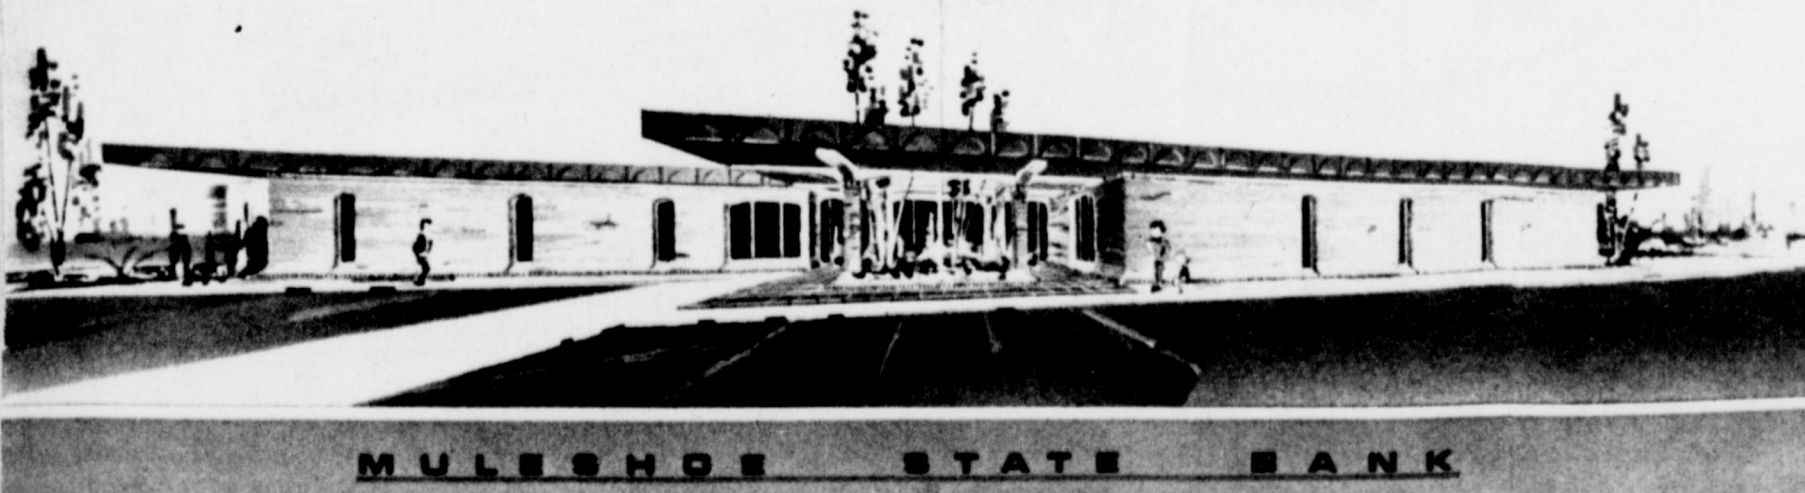

Her record backs her up. Miss Wyman has been a leading volunteer for the Foundation's Southern California Chapter in Los Angeles for a number of years. She has the major responsibility for recruiting talent, producing and presenting that chapter's telethon, a key fund-raising event.

Miss Wyman also serves on the Arthritis Foundation's national board of directors and is a member of the executive committee. This committee does the real work of operating the Foundation, according to board chairman Harding, "making key policy decisions that affect our efforts to bring help and hope to the 50 million Americans who have arthritis."

"I don't have arthritis myself," commented Miss Wyman. "But, some of my closest friends do, and I've seen what a terrible affliction it can be. Our slogan this year is 'Help Stop Arthritis Before It Stops

SPAG Committee Has Meeting In Post

The South Plains Association of Governments' Criminal Justice planning committee held its February meeting Thursday in Post. Approximately 65 public officials and interested citizens from throughout the region met in the courtroom of the Garza County courthouse to discuss the regional criminal justice problems.

One of the primary aims of the committee is to isolate problems and incorporate local needs into the 1974 Criminal Justice Plan. Unless a particular program is requested in the plan, it cannot be funded in 1974.

The need for two programs that are of great interest to the region was expressed. These programs are a police cadet program and delinquency prevention programs.

The police cadet program is a work-study program where by college students pursuing a law enforcement career work part-time in a police or sheriff's department. Students between the ages of 17 1/2 and 20 are eligible to work 20 hours a week at $2.00 per hour while taking 8 to 12 semester hours of college work. The student is furnished a cadet uniform, and his tuition, fees, books, and salary are paid by a grant from the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

The Health Advisory Council of SPAG has been delegated the responsibility for area wide review of applications for health facilities construction and expansion.

In addition, health needs and priorities will receive brief discussion and a plan set up for another meeting to establish health priorities for the area. What Do You Know About Your County Extension Offices?

TALKS WITH HOMEMAKER. Extension agent Robin Taylor is talking with a homemaker concerning an upcoming Home Demonstration Club meeting. Mrs. Taylor works with individuals and groups to help them learn more about homemaking and improving family life. The extension offices have been newly redecorated and updated equipment has been added to the offices.

Mark Mimms Named Winner Of Local Piano Contest

The Muleshoe Music Teachers Association held the local Texas Composer Contest on Friday, Feb. 16, at the studio of Mrs. Sam McKinstry.

This contest is designed for piano students who are in the fourth through eighth grades, and who are members of the Student Affiliate division of the Texas Music Teachers Association. Each contestant played "Busy Corners" by Blaise Montandon, who is a Texas composer from Corpus Christi.

There were 19 students participating in the local competition, which was judged by Harold Carson of Olton.

Mark Mimms was declared the first place winner. He will now play "Busy Corners" at the State Convention of Texas in San Antonio in June. Before doing this, he will be required to pass a theory test to be given locally, but which will be graded on the state level. Mark is a seventh grade student at Lazbuddie, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marving Mimms. He is the piano pupil of Mrs. Sam Damron.

Randall Hamilton, student of Mrs. Jim Milner, was named second place winner. Third place winner was Kim Haydon, who is a pupil of Mrs. Jimmy Craft. Receiving honorable mention was Julia Hettlinga, pupil of Mrs. Sam McKinstry.

Students, other than those already mentioned, who participated in the contest were: Judy Precure, Rena Head, Shawna Eutanks, Janelle Garrett, Becky Turner, Cindy Hamblen, Candy Moore, Terry Shafer, Elizabeth Isaac, Brent Gunter, Angela Matthews, Diane McGuire, Susan Crittendon, Connie Harmon and Daneen Wilson. Piano teachers who had students participating were Mrs. Sam McKinstry, Mrs. Sam Damron, Mrs. W. T. Watson, Mrs. Jim Milner and Mrs. Jimmy Craft.

When was the last time you visited the Extension Offices in Bailey County? If you haven't been by lately, things have really changed. The offices are located on the first floor of the Bailey County Courthouse. Extensive remodeling of the Courthouse and its offices has recently been completed. A new tile floor has been laid and the building's interior and exterior have been painted. New indoor-outdoor carpeting has been laid in the Extension Offices and filing cabinets have been added. Modern, up-dated equipment has been added for the use of the courthouse offices.

Do you know your Extension Agents? Spencer Tanksley is a native of College Station and received his degree at Texas A & M University. He was assistant extension agent in Wilbarger County before coming to Muleshoe in April of 1972. Tanksley and his wife, Linda, have one son, Collin.

Mrs. Robin Taylor received her degree at Texas Tech University and has worked with the Extension Service for a number of years. She is married to C. L. Taylor, who is employed by Chapman Irrigation Supply. The Taylors have two children, Kenneth, who lives in Houston, and Mrs. Don Parker of Dimmitt. They also have one granddaughter.

Tanksley works with result demonstrations in the area of field crops and livestock with study in the areas of varieties, fertility, production and marketing. He assists farmers with individual commercial agricultural problems related to field crops, vegetable production and livestock. He works actively with the 4-H Clubs in Bailey County and with the program building committee and sub-committees. He also has a radio program concerning timely topics at 12:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays over KMUL.

Tanksley is a member of the Bailey County Livestock Show Board. He coordinates extension specialists for educational programs as needed in the form of short courses, clinics and workshops. He works with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the Soil Conservation Service and the Farmers Home Administration officials.

Mrs. Taylor is also active in the 4-H Club program. She works with adult homemakers in the county through Home Demonstration Clubs, Extension Home Economics study groups, short courses, workshops, forums and other meetings.

Home demonstration Club membership is open to anyone interested in learning more about homemaking or improving family life. Clubs meet at times convenient to the members involved. Dues are not required, so the major investment is the time spent by the homemaker learning and sharing information.

The agents work under the direction of the Bailey County Commissioners Court and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service which is located at Texas A & M University.

The agents work to carry out programs planned by the local people serving on extension committees in several areas concerned with agriculture, home economics and 4-H. One governing committee, the Bailey County Program Building Committee, approves plans made by other committees and tries to carry out countywide type projects of interest of all persons in the county, such as in the area of Community Resources and Development. The agents also work actively with the local Senior Citizens group.

The basic function of the agents is education, helping people solve their problems and meet their needs to raise their standards of living. The agents work countywide with all people, regardless of race, color or creed. The agents can go to any part of the county to have conferences or help individuals or groups with their problems.

The Extension Offices are good sources of information for the citizens of Bailey County. Did you know that information is available there on financing your home, how to grow poinsettias, how to save time and energy through planning your work, catfish farming, planning and financing a funeral, what to do with your leisure time, understanding your parents, painting exterior wood of your home, planting a home garden, beekeeping, lawn care and insect control?

The agents also have a vast resource of material on home economics and family living including information on constructing basic garments, meal planning and nutrition, child development and care, and other areas of interest most vital to the homemaker.

Also available is material on commercial agriculture including data from experiment stations across the United States and research centers dealing with the production of crops, such as grain sorghums, field corn and cotton. The agents also have fact sheets covering Keys to Profitable Swine, Sheep, Beef and Dairy Cattle Production.

Resource material is also available on horticulture problems, including lawns, varieties of grass, trees and shrubs adapted to this area, disease and insects of fruit, shade and nut trees, flowers and grasses.

Another area in which both agents are involved is the 4-H Club and Youth program. Without the assistance and dedication of the adult leaders, both volunteers and parents of 4-H'ers who help carry out the program, the program would not be possible.

The 4-H program has many projects to offer youth other than foods, clothing and livestock.

Projects include child care and guidance, money management, photography, electricity, small engines, tractor care and maintenance, bicycle care and safety, etymology, exterior and interior home improvement, gardening or any self-determined project a boy or girl keeps records on and completes. Much of 4-H work is based on the individual desire to excel. There are four organized 4-H Clubs in Bailey County. In addition to individual and group projects, 4-H offers contests, demonstrations, judging activities, camps, district and state meetings and recreational activities.

One of the keys to why 4-H continues to be one of the largest voluntary youth groups in the world is that it is a family participation project. 4-H is open to any eligible youth, ages nine to 19, whether he or she lives on the farm or in the city.

For further information concerning 4-H Club work, Home Demonstration Clubs, individual projects or problems, the agents may be contacted at the Extension Offices in the Bailey County Courthouse or by telephoning 272-3913. If the agents are out of the office working on projects in the county, a full-time secretary, Mrs. T.B. (Martia) Hicks, is on duty to answer the phone and take messages for the agents concerning their work. If you leave a message with the secretary, one of the agents will contact you on their return to the office.

RECEIVES NEW PAMPHLETS. Extension agent Spencer Tanksley is inspecting new pamphlets received in the extension office recently. The agents have available for the citizens of Bailey County a wide assortment of information on topics ranging from beekeeping to understanding your parents. The available information covers the broad range of home economics and commercial agriculture and is designed to help people with their problems in these areas. The agents also consult with interested persons concerning these problems.

John Tower
United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

A significant portion of government funds raised through taxation is spent on welfare, and our state governments are continuing to have difficulty in meeting the rising costs of welfare. Proper administration of welfare laws continues to be exceedingly difficult and complex.

I think all of us would agree that we should continue to provide welfare assistance for those in real need, for those who cannot work because of physical or mental handicaps; for those who wish to work but cannot find employment; for those who are sick and those who are old, and even those mothers who must spend all their time caring for their children without the assistance of a breadwinner.

No one objects to reasonable welfare programs which serve the needy. But there is a fully justified objection to welfare programs which discourage able-bodied persons from working simply because they can rely on welfare instead.

There is in this nation a definite need for reform of welfare laws and I am hopeful that the appropriate Congressional committees will review this need.

In the Senate, I have introduced legislation aimed at one small facet of the overall welfare problem, but I think approval of the measure would reduce welfare costs to a significant degree.

My measure is aimed at those who travel across state lines in order to avoid making court-ordered child support payments.

Under current law, child support is a matter for state courts and there is little if any opportunity to collect child support payments from a parent who has moved away from the court's jurisdiction.

When child support payments cannot be collected, welfare payments, through the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, are forced to help make up the loss. This means the taxpayers are making good on child support which rightfully should be paid by a parent.

The legislation I offered should help to reduce welfare costs and at the same time help many of the nation's families with dependent children to break the poverty cycle. Called the Federal Family Support Act, my bill would provide for the enforcement of support orders in state and federal courts serving areas to which a parent has moved even though that area may be outside the jurisdiction of the court which ordered the support. Also, the bill would make it a crime to flee across state lines in order to avoid compliance with child support orders.

We have in this country a national policy which allows the unrestricted migration of our citizens from state to state. Would this be a freedom we should not lightly limit, we must also recognize that some persons travel from their homes states and from the jurisdiction of their state courts, leaving behind them broken homes with dependent and neglected children. We should not allow the burden for the financial care of these children to simply revert automatically to the taxpayers, it is unfair to ask our taxpayers to accept the responsibility for families where the parents can and should be accepting the responsibility for families where the parents can and should be accepting that responsibility themselves. We should not continue to allow a parent who has fled his obligation for child support to enjoy a practical sanctuary from the enforcement authority of the court.

My bill would give adequate legal recourse to abandoned families by requiring the enforcement of support orders in federal and state courts in areas to which the responsible parent has migrated from the original state, and by providing criminal penalties for persons who travel to avoid compliance with support orders.

In Texas, the largest and most rapidly growing category of public assistance is that of Aid to Families with Dependent Children. The AFDC rolls have grown so in the last few years that the state is finding itself increasingly strained to meet the overwhelming costs of public assistance. Something must be done and my bill would provide a part of the answer.

We must force, through our judicial system if necessary, our nation's parents to accept the responsibility for the welfare of their children. Federal and state governments cannot continue to bear the financial burden of supporting children who have parents whom a court has found to have sufficient income to support those children at least partially.

Congressional passage of my bill would help many states to reduce their welfare costs.

PARDON ME..... At least one spectator wasn't totally impressed by the basketball game. Two year old Shawn Barron decided to stretch out near the court and the referee had to stop the ballgame until his father, Mike Barron, a Royal High School football coach, rescued him. Mike is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Woods of Muleshoe and Shawn is her grandson. Royal High School is located in San Valley, California where the Barrons live.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, Tex.--A new kind of "drug war" seems to be shaping up in the Legislature.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe spelled out his recommendations for complete revision of drug laws and promised to "lobby hard" with all the resources at his command as governor to get the bill passed.

As introduced in the House and Senate, it called for harsh penalties against dope pushers, annual registration of those who deal in legal drugs--and lowering the penalty for first offense possession of marijuana to a misdemeanor.

Briscoe's bill would allow possession up to eight ounces of marijuana without risking felony charge on first offense. However, the misdemeanor would be punishable by up to a year in jail and/or $2,000 fine. The Governor also called for stepped-up education and rehabilitation programs. The bill was drawn, said Briscoe, to mesh with the 1970 federal controlled substance act to allow governments at all levels to work more effectively together.

A few days later, however, former Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth, who headed a Senate study committee on drug abuse, assailed the governor's proposals as "an out-and-out fraud as a reform measure."

Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena introduced in bill form the far-reaching provisions of Kennard's committee.

Brooks' bill would "decriminalize" marijuana possession and set moderate felony penalties for sales. It would also make simple possession of most drugs (heroin excluded) a misdemeanor and provide for commitment of users to rehabilitation facilities. On the other hand, it would call for non-paroleable life sentences of convicted "big time" heroin dealers.

The controversy continues to boil on the reduction of penalties on use of marijuana--and increasing penalties on those who sell marijuana or hard drugs.

H.B. 86 by Rep. Lindon Williams implements more stringent penalties on those who sell drugs.

It is backed by the Austin based Legal Drug Control Society, headed by E.E. Armistead. Armistead has passed petitions for over a year, and submitted these to the Legislature.

"The Legal Drug Control Society asks that concerned citizens write their legislators to express support for H.B. 86, Armistead says. "We realize that there is no simple solution on this complex problem of drug abuse, but removing the pusher and dealer from the scene will certainly be a giant step in the right direction."

Armistead started his crusade against the drug pushers when his daughter jumped from the University of Texas tower two years ago. Her notes told about experiments with drugs. COUNCIL MAKES SURVEY FOR LEGISLATURE--County judges and clerks and District clerks and judges have been asked for important research information to help the Texas Legislature make decisions on current legislative proposals.

Questions on marijuana, automobile accidents, probation, etc., have been posed by the Texas Civil Judicial Council--which is charged in state statutes with the duty of supplying information to the legislature affecting state courts.

"It is understandably difficult for a legislator to judge the merits of proposed legislation wisely without any estimate of its impact," said Ronald Earle, chief counsel for the Judicial Council. "The Judicial Council is seeking to provide this needed information instead of conjecture."

In seeking information regarding the number of persons currently on probation the Judicial Council will be exploring uncharted territory, Earle added. "The impact of probation on the criminal process is too important not to consider in mor detail."

Current proposals on changes in the Judicial Article of the Texas Constitution sets up machinery for an Administrator of the Court--whose office would compile statistics from the courts on a year-round basis. COURTS SPEAK--The State Supreme Court refused an appeal by Continental Oil Company to issue an order in an energy shortage action involving the company's inability to deliver natural gas under contract with other concerns.

The high court upheld lower courts restraining Crystal City from locking what's left of the local county club and upholding a 1956 lease of city land. Court of Criminal Appeals overruled a conviction for theft against a former Crane County hospital executive who allegedly sold a compressor unit used in treating respiratory diseases. The court decision said Crane County had never become owner of the machine, there could have been no theft or embezzlement from the county.

OIL OUTPUT WIDE OPEN AGAIN--The Railroad Commission ordered wide-open, 100 per cent market demand oil production for the 12th straight month.

In making the announcement, Commission Chairman Jim Langdon offered "some good news and some bad news." He said there were no "tremendously serious" shortages during the crucial winter months in spite of heating oil stock declines.

However, Langdon warned, the peak gasoline consuming season is just around the corner, and gasoline stocks are 19.2 million barrels below 1972 in the nation. Further, crude and products stocks in the U.S. are 70.2 million barrels off last year.

"The petroleum industry has managed to get out of the frying pan but now is in the fire," said Langdon.

The allowable responded to requests for 3,764,459 barrels of oil daily in March, a decline of 17,003 from February. Exceptions from the 100 per cent allowable are the East Texas field, 86 per cent; Kelly-Snyder, 76 per cent; and Tom O'Connor, 70 per cent. Several other fields are at 80 per cent.

AG OPINIONS--Atty. Gen. John Hill held probably unconstitutional a bill requiring cities of more than 600,000 and less than 800,000 population to improve highway bridges. Hill indicated the bill would violate local or special law prohibitions which are frequently breached by such "bracket bills."

In another opinion, Hill said appointment of an elected judge or a state legislator to be a "special ranger" would be unconstitutional. He said an elected member of the executive department of state government may be appointed a special ranger provided there is no incompatibility between the office and ranger service.

Rep. David Finney of Fort Worth called on Hill for an opinion on constitutionality of a state ethics commission. APPOINTMENTS--Governor Briscoe appointed Waco newspaper executive Harry Provenca as chairman of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

Jack L. Reynolds, former Edinburg city manager, is new associate director of the State Bar of Texas.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has been named to the national energy and natural resources committee of the national conference of lieutenant governors.

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. announced appointment of Rep. Hawkins Monef Jr. of Houston to the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Hobby named to the Crime and Narcotics Commission Rev. Zan W. Holmes of Dallas, Ted U. Fepple of El Paso and Carol S. Vance, Harris County district attorney. Vance was reappointed.

DELAY DENIED--Lt. Gov. Hobby gave repeated assurances that his plans for a March 20-21 citizens conference on ethics in government will not delay senate consideration of reform measures passed by the House.

Meanwhile, some House members blasted Hobby for indicating final Senate approval of the reform bills would be held up until after he receives advice of citizens on ethics legislation at the conference.

Hobby said hearings will move forward on ethics, lobby control and campaign financing measures. He noted it is extremely unusual for the Senate to vote on controversial measures before March 9 anyway. The Lieutenant Governor said the citizens conference carries out his campaign pledge to seek voter input on matters of intense public concern.

QUARTER PLAN DELAYED--The Senate passed and sent to the governor legislation to delay for two years mandatory implementation of the quarter system in state public schools.

The bill (HB92) moves the mandatory start-up period for the quarter system from next September to the 1975-76 school year. Small school districts urged the delay.

BARGAINING BILL ADVANCES After nearly eight hours of debate, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill giving policemen and firemen collective bargaining rights if local voters approve.

The watered-down bill would prohibit strikes by the firefighters and police, and it would require they get the prevailing wage for their area in comparable work.

SHORT SHORTS. The Senate rejected 13-17 the appointment of Ray Kirkpatrick to the State Insurance Board.

Lt. Gov. Hobby asked Sen. H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock to investigate the spending of the Legislative Property Tax Committee, a panel set up to seek ad valorem tax reform.

Parks and Wildlife Department once more is seeking authority to raise hunting license fees from $3.25 to $5.25 and fishing licenses from $2.15 to $4.25.

Atty. Gen. Hill filed a motion for rehearing of the U.S. Supreme Court decision January 22 which threw out the state's abortion laws.

A bill to permit the Attorney General to recover damages for deceptive trade practices or deceptive advertising victims has Senate Human Resources Committee approval.

State Board Of Education To Develop State School Districts

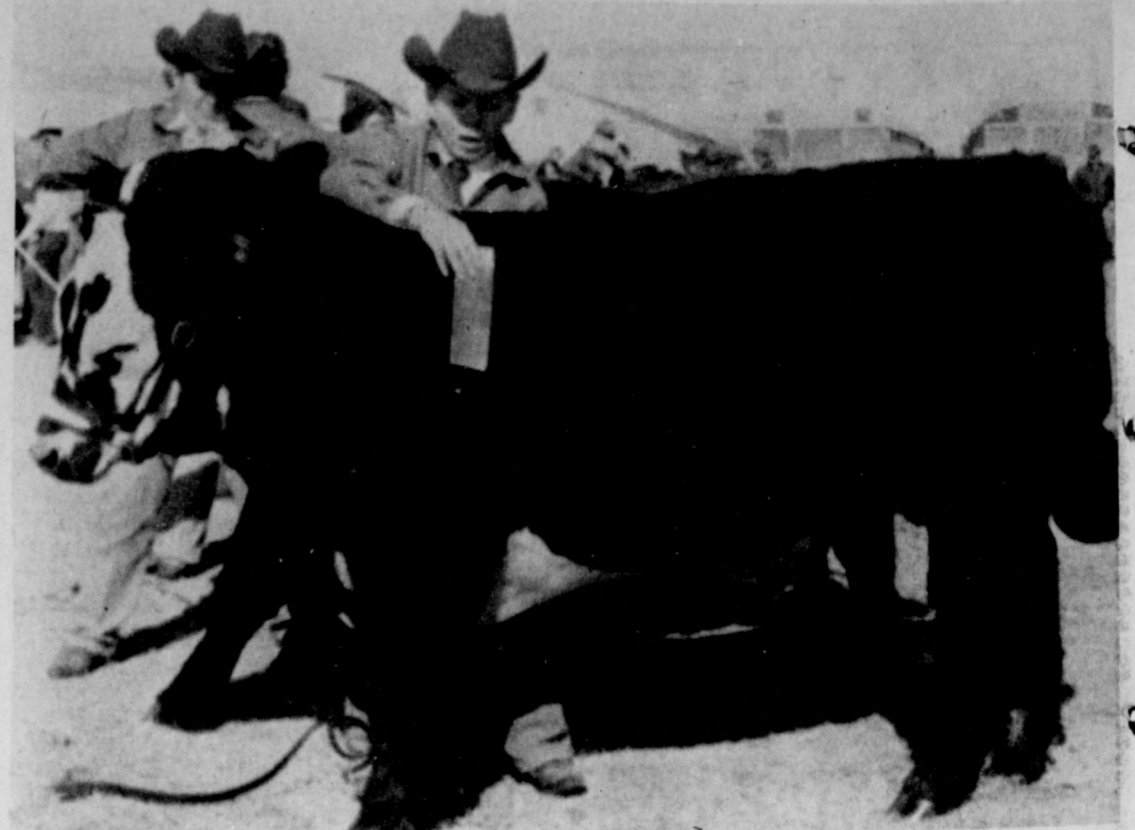

AUSTIN-- A request for legislation which would authorize the State Board of Education to develop an overall state plan for school district organization is being submitted to both the Governor and 63rd Legislature. Under the proposal, the State Board of Education would submit a plan specifically setting out district realignments and legal requirements for adequate school districts to the 64th Legislature in 1975. Procedures for involving school officials and local citizens in the organization plan would also be included, according to the proposal sent to Capitol Hill by Ben R. Howell of El Paso, Board Chairman.

This new proposal follows two earlier requests concerned with school district organization in Texas. The first would declare dormant all school districts except those which are county-wide but do not provide an accredited program in all 12 grades this year. These school districts would be attached to existing districts which do provide accredited 12-grade programs. In most cases, they would be the units now offering high school programs to students from the incomplete districts. The second proposal would phase out state support for county superintendents and county school boards. A number of these small, incomplete districts have extraordinarily high valuation per student, the Board's request for legislation points out. These tax haven districts contribute substantially to the unequal distribution across the state of fiscal capability to support sound educational programs, Howell adds. Currently, 122 Texas counties have elected county school superintendents. 109 have county judges serving as ex officio superintendents paid from local funds, and 21 have neither an elected nor ex officio superintendent.

There are now 230 county school boards supported by $3.2 million in state funds budgeted for county school administration. Under the State Board of Education plan, county school administrations would no longer be supported by the state. However, local citizens could finance them with local money. State fiscal support would be phased out over "a reasonable time" with provision for converting common and rural high school districts to independent school districts. A total of 154 school districts which do not now offer full 12-year accredited programs would become dormant. The new state plan for school district organization, which would be sent to the 64th Legislature in January, 1975, would take Texas one more step along the road to truly efficient public education, Howell said. Demands of modern education have increased and expanded while shifts in population have created a number of problems both in school programs and in district organization," the Board chairman added. "It appears that the time has come when a decision should be made with respect to responsible organization of school districts in Texas." The Board's plan would be designed to insure four desirable conditions for each Texas school district: (1) A sufficient number of students to operate an accredited 12 - grade program efficiently and effectively. (2) Necessary local money to provide funds for local support of the Foundation School Program, adequate facilities and equipment, and local leeway money for enriching programs. (3) Sufficient numbers of schools so located that no pupils would need to ride a bus an excessive amount of time each day. (4) Community interest and initiative to provide leadership and support necessary to achieve an excellent school system.

Congressman Lloyd Bentsen

Again in this Congress, I will propose a law that would prevent the obviously guilty criminal offender from escaping punishment because of a legal technicality. Every American is entitled to the protection of all the basic rights guaranteed by our Constitution. But, by the same token society is entitled to protection from the criminals who escape justice through loopholes in the law that pervert the intention of these constitutional guarantees. The Fourth Amendment to our Constitution protects us against unreasonable searches and seizures. It means that police, and other officials, are not permitted to search us or our property -- because they suspect us of wrongdoing -- without first going before a judge and obtaining a search warrant. And the Exclusionary Rule is the vehicle through which the courts insure our protection against unreasonable search and seizure. This rule was made binding on our Federal courts in 1914 and on state courts in 1961. The effect of the present rigid and arbitrary application of this Exclusionary Rule is that if a law enforcement officer violates any one of a growing number of technical procedures in obtaining a search warrant, the evidence he discovers is automatically thrown out of court. And when this happens, in most cases, the criminal charges must be dismissed. Let me cite an example of the ridiculous and unjust situations that can result. LEGAL TECHNICALITY In the case of the UNITED STATES versus RAVICH, the courts held that a search warrant was defective -- and they tossed out the evidence that was obtained -- because the warrant authorized only daytime searches and the search was conducted at night. As the Exclusionary Rule now applies, it made no difference that the case would have justified a nighttime warrant. The legislation I propose would give the courts greater latitude in deciding whether evidence is admissible. It would remove us from the unreasonable straitjacket in which the present Exclusionary Rule has placed us. My bill would allow the courts to consider such factors as whether the police intentionally violate the suspect's rights; the extent of the violation of rights; how far it deviates from sanctioned police conduct; and the extent to which the violation invades the privacy of the defendant. It would mean that a criminal would not escape unpunished simply because a policeman violates a minor technicality in obtaining clear physical evidence of his guilt. But at the same time, the guarantees and protection secured by the Fourth Amendment to our Constitution would continue in full force. SUPPORT FOR NEW LAW There is a growing concern about the fact that the Exclusionary Rule penalizes the public for technical police mistakes in seeking and executing search warrants. Chief Justice Warren Burger has challenged the Congress to take up this problem and to provide some legislation. The American Law Institute has advocated a revision of the Exclusionary Rule in order to provide greater leeway for the courts. And attorneys and judges of the American Bar Association recently conducted a heated, lengthy debate on my legislation at a meeting in Cleveland. Although the ABA declined to support the bill -- by a narrow vote of 114 to 129 -- the measure did enjoy the support of many judges. I will continue my efforts to obtain Congressional approval of this amendment to the Exclusionary Rule, which is unique to our legal system. Neither France nor England has any such provision, yet both nations are noted for the zeal with which they defend individual liberties. We must continue to jealously guard the protection of individual rights in the United States, for this is the cornerstone of our system of government. But we must not be deceived into mistaking legal loopholes for constitutional guarantees. And we should not insist that our courts suppress the truth in their search for the truth. A politician thinks of the next election; a statesman, of the next generation. -James Freeman Clarke.

Six Flags Over Texas Details Expansion Plan

Arlington, Texas--Details of the largest expansion program in several years at SIX FLAGS Over Texas were revealed today by the theme park's general manager.

Robert W. Freeman said the one and a half million dollar project will add approximately five acres to the Park's entertainment area.

To be known as Good Time Square, the new section will include two major rides, a large games area, a miniature circus and a number of other attractions.

Being built in the area adjacent to SIX FLAGS' Boomtown section, Good Time Square will reflect the architectural style of a Texas town at the turn of the century.

The largest of the new rides is the Infernal Electrical Bumping Machines, Freeman said. "In designing this ride we have taken the traditionally popular 'bumper cars' and used them on a much larger scale than most people are accustomed to seeing." He said the ride will use fifty cars, or "about double the number usually found on such rides."

The second major ride will be called Crazy Legs. It carries 72 people at a time in seats which spin at the tips of six, long arching arms. The arms rise and fall as the entire ride turns in a huge circle.

The games area, to be known as Doc Snooker's Magnificent Main Street Exposition, features sixteen games in a semi-closed air conditioned area.

Freeman commented, "We spent several years working on the concept and design for the games area. What we have done is recreate the fun and excitement of the kind of games which have been the most popular attractions at major fairs for many years."

He added, "The whole project reflects the wholesome style of entertainment that has become a SIX FLAGS trademark. We've dusted off an old idea and made it into a really 'fun' addition to the Park."

Another highlight of the new section is Dragon Bros. Circus, a miniature circus built by the late P.K. Schmitter of Irving, Texas. Mr. Schmitter, a technical illustrator who passed away July, 1972, spent more than 10,000 hours building the circus as a hobby.

When the entire layout is in place it will fill a large building in Good Time Square. It includes some 4,000 tiny figures of people and approximately 2,000 miniature animals.

"We are still taking an inventory of the individual pieces making up the circus," Freeman said. "It is so extensive that it has never been set up completely in one place."

Located near the entrance to the section will be a new depot to serve guests who ride SIX FLAGS' narrow gauge railroad. Near the center of the Square will be a new restaurant which will feature several additions to the Park's menu.

A bandstand featuring live music will complete the new section. It will be "homebase" for a strolling brass band which will entertain throughout the Park.

A Matter Of Fit The floorwalker of a department store noticed a young man looking very confused, so he went to him and asked, "Floorwalker--Can I help you, sir? You seem puzzled about something."

"Follow--I am, I was supposed to buy either a camisole or a casserole, but so help me, I can't remember which."

"Floorwalker (amiably) -- Perhaps, I can help you if you will tell me what sort of chicken you intend putting in it."

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm argues some more with computer-thinking this week.

Dear editor: Although science keeps on trying to automate and computerize people, human nature has a way of going on without paying too much attention to it.

For example, in arranging for the return of the Viet Nam prisoners of war (thank goodness they're getting back) the experts decided the men, limited for years to a skimpy diet of rice and thin soup, should return to normal fare very gradually and scientifically.

They should be started out on a bland diet, somebody decided, having no doubt gotten the idea out of a book written by somebody else who got it out of a book, none of whom probably had ever missed a single meal, not to mention gone really hungry for long periods of time.

They had the whole routine figured out down to the last calorie, vitamin, ounces of protein, etc. So much on Monday, so much on Tuesday, etc.

Then what happened? As soon as the returning men hit the ground they demanded steaks and eggs, topped off with strawberry shortcake. They ate that and at the next meal asked for the same. They had a lot of catching up to do.

I'll tell you, there may be some people who'll let a computer tell them what to eat, but most people have found out there's no substitute for their own taste buds. I don't know how many thousands of years ago this was discovered, but it's been a good while. Letting an expert let a computer tell him what to tell you to eat is like labeling the different grasses in a pasture and telling your cows how much of each variety they should select for a balanced diet. They'd just trample the labels down and graze where their taste buds directed and come out fat if the right grasses are there.

I don't care how hard some specialists try, it's almost impossible to abolish nature. Yours faithfully, J.A.

Arthur J. Goldberg, former Supreme Court Justice; "I am opposed to the creation of a new National Court of Appeals."

Obstructing an Officer

Without any doubt, punching a policeman in the nose would amount to the crime of "obstructing an officer." But what about the assorted lesser confrontations that arise daily between citizen and constable? Where does the law draw the line?

Generally speaking, you may be guilty of this offense even if you do not resort to any force at all.

Take the case of a youthful demonstrator who "went limp" when the police ordered him to climb into a patrol wagon. Charged later with obstructing an officer, he argued that he could not be punished for simply doing nothing.

Nevertheless, the court found him guilty as charged. The court said his refusal to obey a lawful order not only delayed and obstructed his own arrest but also delayed and obstructed the arrest of others.

Affirmative action, of course, is even riskier. Thus:

A motorist lost his temper when he found a meter maid beside his parked car, writing up a ticket that he felt was unjustified.

First, he refused to accept the ticket. Then, when the meter maid tried to put it on his windshield, he blocked her path and deflected her arm.

A court concluded afterward that these actions, added together, did constitute the offense of obstructing an officer.

This does not mean, however, that a policeman has to be treated with kid gloves. Reasonable remonstrance is within a citizen's rights.

In another case, while a man was being placed under arrest in a tavern, his wife informed the police—with vigor—that they had no right to take him away. Still, she did not interfere physically with the arrest. Nor did she use threatening language.

Haled into court for obstructing an officer, the woman was found not guilty of any offense. The court said:

"Policemen are no more exempt from criticism than cabinet ministers."

Proof Positive... Sheep and Lamb Feeding Down... Vegetable Value Increases... Not Just Chicken Feed...

Cattle producers are continuing to increase production, contrary to claims of some consumer groups which have charged that cattlemen are holding back on production to keep prices on the increase.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes that in Texas the number of cattle on feed as of January 1 is up 26 percent from a year ago. Cattle on feed January 1 of this year totaled 2,245,000; a year ago the total was 1,781,000.

In addition, cattle placed on feed in Texas feedlots from October 1, 1972, to January 1, 1973 was up 12 percent from placements of a year ago. Cattle marketed out of Texas feedlots was 16 percent above marketings of a year ago.

Feedlot operators report intentions to market 1,257,000 cattle between now and March 31. This would be 33 percent more than marketed during the same period a year ago.

Nationwide, the trend for upward production in beef continues. Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market as of January 1 in 23 major feeding states is estimated at 13,920,000 head, four percent above a year ago. Cattle feeders throughout the nation plan to market about 6,917,000 head between now and March; this would be seven percent higher than those actually sold during the same period last year.

WHILE cattle feeding increased, the numbers of Texas sheep and lambs on feed as of January 1 was down 15 percent from a year ago, but this is still 61 percent above November 1, 1972.

Sheep and lambs on feed are those intended for slaughter being fed a ration of grain or other concentrates or on succulent pastures and expected in the next three months to produce a carcass that will grade good or better.

Numbers of sheep and lambs on feed in Texas as of January 1 totaled 339,000 head. Marketings of sheep and lambs can increase now through February because additional lambs may be placed on feed early in the period and marketed later during this period.

Nationwide, sheep and lambs on feed as of January 1 in 26 states totaled 2,873,000 head, nearly the same as a year ago. Sheep and lambs on feed in the seven major feeding states—Texas, California, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and South Dakota—were down three percent from a year ago.

VALUE of commercial vegetables—potatoes, sweet potatoes and strawberries—produced in Texas during 1972 totaled $148,827,000; this is an increase of five percent from the year earlier.

Leading crops in value of production in 1972 were onions, carrots, watermelons, cabbage and cantaloupes.

Texas ranked third in harvested acreage, production and value of fresh market vegetables. Only California and Florida outranked Texas.

Texas ranks first in the nation in harvested acreage for fresh market for these crops: cabbage, spinach, and watermelons. It is second in harvested acreage of carrots, onions, cantaloupes, honeydews and cucumbers.
