Cattle Branding Resolution Passed

Cattle branding, a practice recorded on ancient Egyptian tombs, is still going strong in Texas. So is cattle rustling, and state officials and livestock owners would like to see something done about it.

The Texas House of Representatives recently proposed a resolution appointing Agriculture Commissioner John C. White to head a committee to study workable system of brand registration.

"Such a statewide system would make it easier to track down cattle thieves," Commissioner White said.

Brands currently are registered on a county-by-county basis, a practice begun in 1848. Though the Cattle Raisers Association Inc. in Fort Worth has kept an up-to-date record of every brand registered since 1945, a spokesman said many are duplicates. A brand registered in one county can be used legally by livestock owners in any other county.

According to the Manual of Brands and Marks by Manfred R. Wolfenstine, the practice of branding in ancient Egypt was recorded on the walls of tombs. Temple and royal herds were marked as were those owned by distinguished individuals.

During the trail days in Texas road brands were required of all cattle driven beyond the northern limits of the state. The law required that the drover brand his cattle "with a large and plain mark of his choice on the left side behind the shoulder."

Commissioner White points out, however, that branding is more than a part of the romantic past. Over 105,000 brands have been filed with the Cattle Raisers Association during a current reregistration drive. Prior to reregistration 280,000 were on the rolls. Reregistration is held to clear the rolls of brands that are not being used, a spokesman said.

The most popular form of branding -- today as in the past -- is done by heating the iron until it is ash gray and applying it to the hide of the animal. It is important that the right amount of heat and pressure are applied. Deep burning is cruel and unnecessary. Chilling the iron in dry ice and branding with acid are used to a lesser extent.

Earmarking is also prevalent, but not as a substitute for branding except among owners of registered cattle. Owners of purebred herds frequently tattoo the ears of their stock or apply metal tags or buttons with a clamp. This prevents marring the animal's appearance. Some ranchers cut their cattle's ears.

Today's ranchers have made at least one concession to modern times. They no longer brand on the open range. Instead, they run their animals into a chute, bar it front and rear to prevent movement and brand through the chute railings.

According to the resolution, the lack of a statewide coordinated brand registration inspection and enforcement system has caused brand inspection laws to be difficult to enforce, thus making cattle theft much easier and convictions more difficult to obtain.

Commissioner White said cattle rustling is big business, but there is no way of knowing how many head are affected each year. Thieves have been known to hijack truckloads of animals or to lure them into pens to be loaded into pickups. Animals are also shot with tranquilizer guns and butchered on the spot. Stolen cattle are sold at auction or used for private consumption. "We are hoping a thorough study of the problem will provide the answers for a system that will decrease the losses of our livestock owners," Commissioner White said.

Extremity of right is wrong. -John Clarke.

150 million stamps in a commemorative series are printed. The stamps were designed by artist Edward Vebell of Westport, Connecticut.

"We could not depict every type of job performed in the Postal Service", Klassen said, "There are hundreds of vital duties performed in the process of handling our enormous volume of mail." He added, these stamps and the Postal Week observance are both aimed at highlighting the important role performed by postal people as they serve the citizens of the communities where they live."

The stamps, words and pictures, portray these statistics: Nearly 27 billion U.S. stamps are sold yearly, enough to stretch around the world more than 16 times.

Mail is picked up from 313,485 collection boxes and from individual mail boxes.

Almost 90 billion letters and packages are handled yearly--almost half the world's total volume of mail. About 300 million are handled on an average delivery day.

Postal employees handle more than 500 million packages yearly, eight million of them for delivery outside the United States.

Postal Service maintenance people are responsible for the operation of nearly 1,500 mail-sorting machines and equipment; 42,254 postal buildings; and a fleet of 227,607 vehicles.

Fifteen percent of the national volume of some 49 billion pieces of first-class mail is received without ZIP codes and must be sorted manually by postal people.

Specialized letter sorting machines, operated by skilled personnel, can sort more than one million letters during a normal 20 hour operating period.

Postal employees expedite 13 billion pounds of letters, special delivery messages and packages yearly.

Home delivery service was extended last year to an additional 1,320,435 urban and 440,000 rural families, increasing the total served to 53,932,137 urban families and 11,888,780 rural families plus nine million businesses.

Postal employees cover four million miles each delivery day--roughly eight round trips to the moon.

The Postal People stamps will first be printed on un gummed paper by gravure on the Adreotti press. The printed rolls will then be transferred to the Cottrell press where the adhesive will be applied. There will be 50 stamps to the pane. The selvage of each pane will contain five plate numbers and the words: "Postal People include Postmasters and Supervisors, Letter Carriers, Clerks, Mail Handlers, Motor Vehicle Operators, Rural Letter Carriers, Special Delivery Messengers, and Maintenance Employees All Serving You."

Agriculture; George Wheeler, Roping Club; Mrs. Sam Damon, Muleshoe Music Teachers Association; and Henry Stoneham, Muleshoe Kiwanis Club. Other clubs were also represented at the meeting.

Dr. Jerry Gleason told the group that in 1966 the Muleshoe Jaycees set up a committee to study the feasibility and the need for a community center and how other groups discussed the idea. At that time, however, there were not any funds available.

He stated that Muleshoe needs a building that could accommodate any kind of meeting from a family reunion to a livestock show to a banquet, to high school commencement exercises to having outstanding personalities and entertainers here.

A community center could be built to accommodate a lot of diversified activities in just one building.

Also mentioned at the meeting was the fact that Muleshoe could have a four county fair in the fall that would draw people to Muleshoe if they had a community center.

Irvin St. Clair expressed the idea of having a large complex, possibly 20 to 30 acres with ample parking facilities maybe located outside the city limits. This complex could accommodate fairs, circuses and carnivals besides local activities.

Another item discussed was the cost of the building and how it could be paid for.

Harry Stoneham told the group that he had done some research on the building and the price could range from $3 per square foot up, depending on what the community wanted.

One of the most important items discussed at the meeting was the fact that all of the local and area clubs must organize their efforts if Muleshoe is to get a community center.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Production Down, Income Up . . . Cattle on Feed Increases Again . . . Cattle, Calf, Sheep Sales.

Wool and mohair producers are enjoying some of the best prices they've received in years. Mohair prices, for example, were 89 percent higher in 1972 than in 1971. Wool prices are 32 cents per pound on the average higher for 1972 than for 1971.

Increased demand for the commodities plus a continuing decline in production are reasons for the price situation.

Texas mohair production during 1972 was down 32 percent from 1971. The number of goats and kids clipped during 1972 totaled 1,521,000 head, down 31 percent from 1971.

Average price for mohair during 1972 was 83 cents; this compared with only 30.1 cents per pound during 1971. Total 1972 value of mohair to Texas producers was $8,458,000, up 89 percent from 1971.

While mohair production was declining, so was wool. Texas sheep produced 29,400,000 pounds of wool during 1972, a decline of three percent.

A total of 4,145,000 head of sheep shorn on Texas ranches averaged 7.1 pounds per fleece during 1972, down slightly from 1971.

The average price per pound of wool during 1972 was 48 cents; this is 32 cents a pound above 1971. Total value of wool produced was $14,100,000 in 1972 compared with only $4,900,000 in 1971.

Nationwide, the production of wool also declined three percent during 1972. A one percent decrease in number of sheep and lambs shorn was also noted in 1972.

IT'S THE same story for Texas and cattle on feed. Texas continues to be the number one cattle feeding state in the nation. During April, a total of 2,259,000 head of cattle were on feed in Texas feedlots. This is 22 percent above the number a year ago, and three percent above the total a month ago.

Indications now are that close to 4,000,000 head of cattle will be fed out in Texas this year, which will be another healthy increase over last year.

Feedlot operators report intentions to market 1,320,000 cattle between now and June 30. This would be 21 percent more than marketed during the April-June quarter of last year, again proof positive that cattle producers are expanding their operations and not holding back on cattle in an attempt to keep the price at high levels.

Large feedlots—those with 1,000-plus capacity—numbered 238 in Texas and held 2,211,000 cattle on feed for slaughter market. Capacity for these lots showed a 76 percent occupancy.

Steers account for the bulk of cattle on feed with a total of 1,462,000 head, heifers and cows totaled 797,000 head.

Nationwide, cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in 23 major feeding states is five percent above a year earlier. Marketings now through June are anticipated to be five percent higher than a year ago.

SALES of cattle, calves, and sheep increased in Texas during March, while sales of hogs declined.

Cattle and calves marketed through auctions in Texas during March was 38 percent higher than a year ago, and nearly 50 percent higher than a month ago.

Sheep sales were three percent higher than a year ago, and 75 percent above a month ago.

Hog sales during March in Texas were 15 percent below a year ago, but 28 percent above a month ago.

USDA officials are in the process of considering views from interested parties concerning the 1973 Commodity Credit Corporation cotton loan program, including a proposal that the 50 point penalty on barkly cotton be removed. The deadline for submitting comment in May 9 and decisions on the barkly matter, premiums and discounts for quality variations and other loan details should be announced soon thereafter.

The only real controversy revolves around the barkly issue. Producers across the belt are unanimous in support of eliminating the penalty. But certain members of the trade are voicing strong opposition.

Earlier this year officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, recommended that the 50 point penalty on barkly cotton, which is now applied in addition to a reduction of one full grade, be dropped. It was pointed out that an Agricultural Marketing Service study and other research work at Texas Tech University's Textile Research Center failed to justify the "double penalty" in terms of such cotton's loss of spinning and finishing performance.

Apparently based on the evidence presented by PCG, USDA in its Federal Register notice of April 9 said, "there is reason to conclude that the presence of extraneous matter doesn't affect the ultimate value of such cotton beyond that reflected in the grade reduction."

Those in the cotton trade who are objecting are basing their opposition primarily on the grounds that some cotton already has been contracted for Fall 1973 delivery at prices based on points over loan value and that removal of the penalty now would be "changing the rules in the middle of the game."

Responding to the Federal Register invitation for comment, PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, in a letter to Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Administrator Kenneth Frick, said "In our opinion this argument won't hold water," and made the following statements in support of that opinion.

"(1) Both producers and buyers knew when contracts were signed that there might be, and likely would be, some differences between 1972 and 1973 loan values.

"(2) If the argument is followed to its logical conclusion, then (a) USDA would be barred from making ANY change in premiums and discounts for micronaire, staple or grade in the 1973 loan schedule, and (b) since some cotton is already contracted for 1974-75 delivery, the same argument could be used to prevent a change for the next two years if not indefinitely.

"(3) Even if you assume that merchants would be unfairly treated on contracted cotton in 1973, only about 59,000 bales on the Plains (10 year average of 14.9 percent barkies times the estimated 400,000 bales contracted) would be affected, while the alternative is to penalize producers, certainly more unfairly, on 298,000 bales (14.9 percent of an expected 2 million bale crop)."

Johnson's letter concluded by saying "I think you will agree that the objections to your proposal are far outweighed by the merit of the proposal itself and by the necessity for correcting a long-standing inequity in the loan program. We greatly appreciate your understanding of the basic issue in this matter, and again we urge you not to abandon your efforts to give producers a 'fair deal' and a stronger support price for their cotton."
