About Your Health .

You've heard it or read it dozens of times . . .

A youngster is bitten by a dog or cat which promptly disappears. A public appeal is made for help in locating the offending animal, lest the child has to unnecessarily take the "painful" rabies shots.

State health officials are the first to agree that such public appeals are highly beneficial. But those same officials do not mince words denouncing the "painful" label as grossly inaccurate. They are no more accurate than any other immunizing injection, and less so than some shots which are accepted with philosophical cheerfulness.

Ask Dr. A. B. Rich, director of the State Health Department's veterinary public health division or F. W. Huff, a laboratory man, who in his career of some 30 years has autopsied well over 97,000 animal heads for rabies. Both men can speak with the authority that comes only with first hand experience.

Once while in private practice, Dr. Rich examined a dog for tonsillitis. The very next day the animal displayed typical signs of rabies. Since he had a scratch on his hand, prudence demanded that Dr. Rich take the shots. He says that he found them almost painless beyond the initial brief prick of the needle.

Huff echoes the same sentiment. He ought to know -- since he has taken a 21 - shot course of treatment on four separate occasions. Anyone who handles his volume of autopsy work -- from African lions to Alaskan wolves -- is bound to be exposed on occasions.

Has the "pain" label dissuaded anyone from taking the shots when they should have? There is no way of knowing. But Dr. Rich says he can readily imagine how it could happen. From this point of view, the inaccurate label is dangerous since rabies is endemic over most of Texas -- particularly among wildlife, primarily foxes and skunks. A total of 567 positive cases were reported last year, and for the first six months of this year 357 positive cases have been diagnosed.

Rabies vaccination carries a slight risk of reaction, so should never be given thoughtlessly. It should always be given in cases of exposure to an apprehended animal known to be rabid or an unapprehended animal in regions where rabies is known to exist.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cotton of Pecos visited Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cotton the first of the week. Bruce Cotton played with the Pecos Pony League in the Abilene tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lee Floyd and daughter, Vicki and Linda Rogers of Abilene visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lee Floyd last Sunday for a belated birthday dinner. Ed Lee had lunch with his brother and wife, and Mrs. Ray Floyd.
 Ray Floyd has a peculiar ailment, he has a paralyzed muscle in his right shoulder. Its oddness is that he has use of his arm except when he undertakes to use it. X-rays showed no pull on muscles or vertebra out of place to cause the paralysis, but two doctors suggested he try action therapy for three hours each day. The doctors also advised him to continue working.

Long Season, 15-Limit Set On Doves

Hunters seem to be well pleased at the bonus dove shooting they will get during the 1960 season, according to the executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

The North Zone season this year will start at 12 noon, Sept. 1, and close at sunset October 30. The South Zone will open October 7 and close December 5, except in the counties where white-winged dove shooting will be permitted three days earlier.

The white-winged dove season will be for three days, September 9, 10, and 11. This season will be from 2 p. m. until sunset.

There also will be an increase in bag limit on mourning doves for the upcoming season. The shooter will be permitted to take 15 per day and have 30 in possession.

White-wing shooters, who may also kill mourning doves at the same time, will be permitted to have 10 whitewings and 5 mourners for the first day of hunting. They may have 20 mourning doves and 10 whitewings in possession after the second day.

Generally, the Texas quail season will begin December 1, under the general laws. The Bill King is manager of the agricultural department of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, assistant manager of the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth, secretary of the Fort Worth Farm and Ranch Club, past Kiwanis Club president and a raiser of miniature pinchers -- or maybe it's boxers; anyhow, they're dogs and one costs a good deal of money.

All of this is so you'll know who Bill King is. He has advanced a suggestion that a book ought to be written on "How It Started", to explain the origin of expressions that we use every day.

For instance, everybody has said, "Jack has more of this-or-that than Carter had oats." Who was Carter? He was a farmer in the Old South a long time ago who was asked how his crop was coming along and he declared that his oats were so abundant they were breaking down the fences.

Then everybody has spoken of such-and-such a situation as being "Hobson's choice." Hobson a livery stable in England a long time ago and he rotated the use of his horses. The animal whose turn was next, he placed in the first stall and a customer could select any horse he wanted provided he took the one in the first stall.

And then there is "a Garrison finish." As a boy, I got the idea that it meant the garrison of a besieged fort sallied forth and gave the besiegers hell Columbia. But there was, many years ago, a great jockey by the name of Garrison and he always put on a rousing finish to a race.

If the brackish, "hard as bricks" water common to many parts of West Texas can be made suitable for domestic use, Texas' available water supply would be materially increased.

To this end, the State Water Board has approved a de-mineralization research project to be carried out by the board, University of Dallas and Texas Electric Service Co. Board will put $20,000 into the work.

Board engineers say total demineralization is not necessary and that it is possible the process can be accomplished at an economically feasible cost.

In another move to increase available water, the Board has set a series of hearings on cancellation of water appropriation permits that have not been used. First 10 of the permits reviewed are scheduled for hearing Sept. 22. Some of the permits date back as far as 1918.

DPS ASKS BOOST - With more traffic to patrol and more crime to fight, the Department of Public Safety will ask the next Legislature for money to increase its staff.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director, has presented a budget calling for $16,461,260 for 1962 and $17,720,166 for 1963. This compares to $12,420,490 allocated to DPS for this year and $13,353,272 for the next fiscal year beginning Sept. 1.

Requested increases would allow the addition of 200 new highway patrolmen, 10 Texas Rangers, four narcotics agents and four intelligence agents.

Supporting his request, Garrison made this grim forecast: 29,000 more major crimes will be committed in Texas in 1963 than in 1959. This is apparently a continuation of the trend which saw major crimes rise 45 per cent in the past five years, rising to 175,851 in 1959.

PAROLE EXPANSION Sought - Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles has a plan for saving the state some money.

But to do so, the Board says it will need some more money to invest in enlarging the state's staff of parole supervisors. Since the paid parole system got underway in 1958, the Board says it has saved the state $3,000,000. It costs that much less to pay a supervisor to keep tab on a parolee than it costs to board and clothe a prisoner and make relief payments to his family.

The Board feels it needs a 70-man parole staff, rather than the present 40 -- to do the job. For this, the Board is asking an appropriation of $1,468,819 for the next two years. This is an increase of $480,863, or nearly a half-million dollars, over the present bienniums appropriation.

Board contends this extra investment will save the state $2,500,000 in prison costs, plus offering a better chance of returning more men to useful, law-abiding places in the community.

OIL FLOW UNCHANGED - Texas Railroad Commission has announced that eight-day producing pattern for the Texas oil industry in August -- the same as for July.

Daily allowable will be 2,630,069 barrels a day. A majority of producers appearing before the Commission said there is still an oil glut in Texas and continued restriction is needed to protect the market.

Commission action came in the wake of a declaration by UT's Bureau of Business Research director that oil is no longer king in Texas. Even with foreign import limits, said Dr.
