School Board Changes Hours Back

School To Resume Old Time Monday

The Muleshoe Independent School District Board of Trustees met in regular session on Monday, March 11.

The board heard the current financial report and reviewed balances in each category of the operating budget; checked bank balances of all funds, including the lunchroom fund (it was reported that the lunchroom was having a difficult time breaking even so they reviewed a letter from the State Department of Public Welfare that stated that there would be a big reduction in available commodities next year, discussed raise in minimum wage law that is being considered in Congress and that these two changes plus inflation will put the school lunchroom program budget in bad shape for next year); approved the payment of current bills; heard a report on the Athletic income for the year and a comparison with preceding years; heard the current tax collection report which showed that 94.9 per cent of the current taxes have been collected.

The board approved the request by the Muleshoe State Bank to withdraw $5,000 in pledged securities that are maturing. This will leave a balance of $675,000 in pledged securities to secure school funds.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm gets about half-way serious this week.

Dear editor:

I was looking through a copy of a news magazine the other day and ran across an article on the plight of a young couple in these inflationary times. They got married in 1968, and shortly thereafter when the man's salary reached $16,000 a year they bought by the small down-payment route a 4-bedroom house, an air-conditioned Pontiac LeMans, and an expensive pedigreed dog. Probably paid cash for the dog, but I'm not sure, the article didn't say. They went bowling five nights a week and on weekends went to movies and dined out at a famous lobster place. Lately though due to cutbacks in production the man's salary has dropped to $14,000 a year and that coupled with inflation has just about ruined them. They've sold the big house and moved to a smaller one, sold the big car and bought a used Volkswagen, and they gave the dog away. The man blames the government for his plight, adding "I've lost faith in everything the government says." Understand, I'm in favor of blaming the government for everything you can, but I was just thinking, times have changed.

It used to be that a young couple started out with a small house and worked up to a big one, but nowadays they start out with a big one and frequently work down to a small one. Their economic philosophy seems to be: bowl now and bawl later. Speaking of young people, a neighbor has asked me what I think of those college kids' streaking. I am unimpressed. I mean, the kids apparently think they're doing something original and daring, but shucks, there are tribes in Australia and Africa that have been running un-clothed through a clearing for thousands of years without causing a single giggle. Yours faithfully, J.A.

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION -- Fryer prices leveled off to a "good value" range recently, and supplies are ample, according to one observer.

Attractive prices appear on whole fryers and mixed parts --and egg supplies are plentiful. Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reported.

"At produce counters, fresh vegetables are in more generous supply this winter than a year ago because of increased acreage," she said.

"Substantially larger supplies include lettuce, broccoli, carrots and celery.

"However, onion stocks are lower than they are in most other seasons, and storage stocks of fall-crop potatoes were four per cent less than the small volume for the same date a year earlier--and prices have been advancing in recent weeks.

"High prices on potatoes are expected through the spring months at least," the specialist predicted.

Turning to fruit, Mrs. Clyatt cited grapefruit as the item in peak season and apples as continuing in good supply. Prices are unchanged for both.

"Pineapple supplies are seasonally high, tangelo season is almost over, and there's a seasonal decline in tangerines. Oranges, bananas, pears and strawberries are worthy of consideration, pricewise."

Beef values this week include chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and ground beef.

"Pork remains on the high side, and features are scattered," Mrs. Clyatt said.

"A few features show up on Boston butt roasts, end chops, loin-end roasts and quarter-loin cut into chops. Smoked cuts include some hams, bacon and roll sausage. Ham prices are working up toward Easter levels."

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Liver is kind to the family food budget.

At beef and pork counters, consumers can find economy in the various liver choices. Calf, beef and pork liver all contain iron, so served at least once a week, they help fill a nutrition need, too.

"Polish Up" For Spring '74

COLLEGE STATION--Spring '74 fabrics shine and sparkle, according to one observer.

She's Marilyn Brown, consumer education-clothing and textiles specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"This season's refined look leans toward new, cleaner fashion."

"Shiny fabrics are a natural for spring since fall's sequins and metallic fibers proved important," she said.

Spring's fabrics shine two different ways.

"True sparklers feature fabrics with metallic yarns threaded through them--or knitted with shimmering fibers, or topped with sequins.

"Not-so-true sparklers, on the other hand, get shine from a mixture of rayon or nylon with flat acrylics or polyesters."

Spring patterns -- stripes, prints and flowers--also are polished, Miss Brown continued.

"Watch for diagonal stripes--the brightest light in spring patterns."

"Since the interest generated by the bias swirl skirt, designers can't get enough of the diagonal stripe.

"It's best when very narrow --or medium width. Some fabrics add dots and dashes--or break them up with flowers--for interest.

"Cream remains the major background for bright, bold stripes."

Geometric prints also flaunt polished looks, the specialist noted.

"Neat lines, spruced-up circles, squares, and zig-zags strike out in bold colors. Never plain, they form more patterns by their placement.

"Geometrics appear best on dark grounds, surrounded by lots of space," she added.

Spring flowers also "pop up" with a fresh new look.

"When mixed with stripes, they're Art Deco in feeling--or Art Nouveau when flower designs contain flourishing swirls and curves.

"The newest floral idea involves printing its name--in French--beside the flower."

Texture also plays an important role this spring. "Crunchy" or "light and frothy as spun sugar" describes the best fabrics, Miss Brown said.

"The linen look also has undergone some changes. For one it's been polished up.

"Although no longer nubby, nubs remain to give fabric a degree of dimension.

"As for single-knit fabrics, they're getting lighter.

"In fact, some lacy acrylics practically float. They're sheer, slightly nubby and knitted to resemble gauze.

"When combined with shiny, floral or diagonal-striped fabric, they have the best spring looks," she concluded.

John Tower United States Senate

This week completely agreed with the veto by President Nixon of the Emergency Energy Act. I fully support the veto because it is counter-productive of the very problems which the legislation ostensibly sought to solve in the current energy shortages.

In a letter to my Senate colleagues urging them to sustain the veto, I pointed out that the act not only would worsen the current shortages, but it would usurp the critically important oil and gas conservation authority now belonging to the states and put this authority in the hands of inexperienced federal bureaucrats.

While the current energy shortages have brought on a number of problems, this certainly is not a time for the federal government to be enacting laws that will only complicate existing shortages.

Petroleum shortages dominate much of our thinking these days and have even led some to speculate that these problems could interfere with our military preparedness. So far, however, the Defense Department assures me that all necessary levels of military training are being maintained. Nor is the military using a disproportionate amount of our domestic supplies. This year Defense is projected to use only three and one-half per cent of our total domestic petroleum supplies; but regardless of how much it requires, the military must have adequate supplies to maintain the proper strength to defend ourselves if necessary.

I have heard some complain that the United States is exporting fuel to South Vietnam when in fact Congress passed a law last year restricting such exports. Actually, the United States has never exported much, if any, fuel to South Vietnam, though we did pay for it through

Where a Barrel of Refined Oil Goes

- ← GAS for cars, trucks & buses - 37.7%
- GAS for light planes - 0.28%
- ← GAS for farms, boats and other non-highway uses - 1.26%
- ← DISTILLATE FUEL OIL for home heating oil, diesel fuel, public utilities and military uses - 17.96%
- ← RESIDUAL FUEL OIL for electric power plants, industrial use and commercial and industrial heating - 15.46%
- ← NATURAL GAS LIQUIDS for industrial and farm use - 13.78%
- LUBRICANTS (oil) - .88%
- ← KEROSENE for rural heating - 1.4%
- ← JET FUEL (Naptha) for military use - 1.48%
- ← JET FUEL (kerosene) for commercial aviation - 4.9%
- ← MISCELLANEOUS (asphalt, etc.) - 4.5%

Once you see how a 42-gallon barrel of oil is distributed, it is easier to understand why general aviation pilots are in a unique position to survive the energy crisis. Courtesy General Aviation News our Military Assistance laws. The South Vietnamese now buy their fuel on the public market from Shell and are seeking additional contracts. Rumored oil deposits in Southeast Asia have not been fully explored or developed; thus, of course, it will be several years before the South Vietnamese can use these, if they become productive.

Recently, the decision was made by Defense to have post exchange gas outlets adjust themselves to the conditions of sale in the local community. So now these stations will be closed on Sunday with varying hours of operations and in all probability, long lines in certain areas. Military families can look forward, then, to joining us in the inconvenience and expense of the energy shortages.

I believe that most of us are now beginning to recognize one fact involving energy. The current world-wide shortages are going to cost us more than we have paid for energy in recent times of surplus. For a time, we will have to recognize the fact that we must pay more and use less. Prices are higher both because of the general fact that we must pay more and use less. Prices are higher both because of the general inflation around the world, and because the independent operators who locate 70 to 80 per cent of our oil supplies need more risk capital to find new sources of oil and gas. It has been reliably estimated that the cost of satisfying the oil needs of the free world over the next 15 years will run over 500 billion dollars, and possibly as high as a trillion dollars.

This will, of course, have its impact on the Defense Department. Currently, we are estimating an additional one billion dollar cost for the fuel needed this year, despite the fact that the amount of petroleum to be used has been cut 15 per cent.

While energy consumption has been increasing, domestic production has not kept pace. As a result, this has meant greater reliance on imported petroleum. American dependence upon imports will continue to increase until we will be requiring nearly half of our needs from abroad by 1980. Such dependence on oil from abroad is bound to have disturbing implications for American foreign policy. We have already seen the effect the recent embargo had on our relations with our NATO allies, who are far more dependent than we upon foreign oil.

Recently we saw a more solid front among the Arab states which resulted in the oil embargo. The more dependent we become on foreign oil, the less likelihood exists that we can count on a steady flow of cheaper oil as we have in the past. Unless a final equitable settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute comes about, the future holds the distinct possibility for other, more effective embargoes.

We also must realize that there is a growing Soviet Naval threat to the security of our oil imports. Soviet ability to deploy ships in the Indian Ocean or Persian Gulf currently exceeds our ability to place an effective counter-force in this region. I believe that we should give serious consideration to what could become an expensive modernization and expansion program if we are to fully protect our sea-borne oil imports from the Soviet naval threat.

We must not let our guard down because of energy shortages. The defense of our country must remain our number one priority. There is no dollar value that can be placed on the security of the American people.

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

Do you find making rolls from scratch just too time consuming when planning dinner for a few guests? This recipe takes only a few minutes and your guests will rave over the biscuit-roll flavor.

- Angel Biscuits
- 1 pkg. yeast
 - 2 T lukewarm water
 - 1 t salt
 - 2 1/2 t baking powder
 - 1/4 t soda
 - 1/2 c shortening
 - 2 T sugar
 - 3/4 c buttermilk
 - 2 c flour

Dissolve yeast in water for 5 minutes. Stir flour, salt, soda, baking powder and sugar together; add shortening. Combine yeast and buttermilk. Add to flour mixture slowly, stirring with a fork. Turn on floured board and knead. Roll out 1/2 inch thick and cut. Bake at 450 degrees for 10-12 minutes. Omit soda if sweet milk is used but add 1/4 teaspoon more baking powder. Makes 16 biscuits; double recipe for larger dinners.

Managing Brush To Benefit Wildlife Is Big Business

Managing brush to benefit wildlife while increasing forage

Farm-facts
A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News
Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Parity Creeps Up Again... Fuel Situation... Turkey Poultry Hatch Increases... Broiler Hatchings Also On The Rise.

Farm parity as of February 15 is 95. That's up one point from January and is up 13 points from a year ago. Agriculture is five points away from being on an even financial par with the rest of the economy.

Only one category of livestock—sheep—is at or above parity. Wheat, corn, oats, rice, and grain sorghum are above effective parity levels. Cotton is still a big exception. Parity is 67.58 cents per pound, but the average price as of February 15 was 54 cents.

Hogs at $38.40 average are almost $2 under parity. Beef cattle at $43.80 are $4.70 under parity. Calves at $51.30 average are $8.30 below parity. Lambs at $39.20 are about $2 under parity. Sheep at $21.50 are $8 above parity.

Eggs average 63.9 cents per dozen, which is three cents a dozen under parity. Wool averaged 85 cents per pound compared with $1.84 parity.

Wheat as of February 15 averaged $5.29; parity is $3.74. Grain sorghum averaged $4.63 while parity is $4.23.

Rice at $16.70 compared with parity at $11.10 per hundred pounds. Hay prices as of February 15 averaged $41.50 per ton which is $1 higher than a month ago.

The all farm products index of prices received by Texas farmers is one per cent below the previous month but 40 per cent above a year ago.

The livestock and livestock products index is down three per cent from last month but is seven per cent above February 15 of 1973.

WILL YOU get enough fuel to produce and harvest this year's crops? It depends on what you do. The first thing you should do (if you haven't already done so) is to tell your distributor how much fuel you will need this year to plant and harvest your crops.

If you have trouble during the season getting sufficient fuel, you should contact your county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office. ASCS county office has been designated as the agency for farmers to contact regarding their fuel problems for 1974. ASCS offices are to have the latest information relating to energy supplies and are to be in a position to provide you with the answers you'll need.

Agriculture does have a priority for 1974 for fuel, but it's up to you to first tell your distributor how much you will need, and you will also be required to practice fuel conservation measures.

The Texas Department of Agriculture has a booklet available for you giving you information on how to conserve energy. You can get a copy by writing Texas Department of Agriculture, Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

A 13 PER CENT increase in turkey poult hatching is noted for Texas during the recent week. Eggs placed in incubators at 483,000 are the highest reported so far this season. This set is 21 per cent above 1973 and 18 per cent more than a week ago.

Nationwide, an increase of 12 per cent is reported in hatchings. The set of eggs was two per cent above the previous week.

BROILER hatchings also show an increase. Texas hatcheries placed 3,712,000 broiler chicks, which compared to a year ago is eight per cent more. The total hatch was up six per cent from a week ago.

In the 21 leading broiler producing states, a nine per cent increase is reported. Eggs placed in incubators, which is up two per cent from 1973, is only slightly above the previous week.

for livestock has become big business in Texas.

In fact, more than one-fourth of the brush control work on-the-ground in Texas today has been applied by livestock producers who have given special consideration to wildlife.

Edward E. Thomas, state conservationist for the soil Conservation Service in Texas, said the figures came from a recent study conducted by his office.

"Our figures reveal that 7.7 million acres of former brush land in Texas is being controlled or managed for mutual benefit of wildlife and livestock," Thomas said. "Most of this work consists of leaving brush in carefully designed patterns which provide food and cover for wildlife. Alternating strips are cleared or thinned so choice forage plants can thrive without undue competition from the brush for sunlight and moisture."

Thomas said the study does not cover thousands of acres of brush land which is being left undisturbed specifically for the benefit of wildlife.

Many brushy areas have become so thick that the woody plants have crowded out the choice forage plants preferred by livestock, deer, game birds, song birds, and other wildlife. Such areas often need reseeding after brush control work. Thomas explained that opening up some areas while leaving adjoining land in brush actually improves wildlife habitat. "Many species of wildlife are what biologists call 'edge' animals," Thomas pointed out. "That is, they prefer to feed on woody plants in the brush and on forbs, native legumes, grasses, and other plants in open areas along the edge of trees and brush. When danger threatens, they escape to the protective cover nearby. Leaving strips of woody plants near open areas increases the amount of edge available to wildlife."

Thomas said his study revealed that 26,000 land users in Texas are managing brush for both wildlife and livestock.

"This demonstrates the genuine concern farmers and ranchers in this state have for environmental values," Thomas said. "Most wildlife is produced on privately-owned lands. Wildlife enthusiasts, sportsmen and others interested in maintaining large numbers of wildlife owe these producers a deep debt of gratitude."

SCS biologists and range conservationists in Texas developed the new brush pattern technique in the mid 1960's which is now proving so popular with livestock producers.

Men speak of what they know; women of what pleases them.
