School Board Hires Seven New Teachers

The Muleshoe Independent School District Board of Trustees met in their regular session on August 12, at 8:00 p.m.

The members of the board heard the current financial report including; review of the operating fund budget, checked bank balances all funds, approved payment of current bills and heard the current tax collection report, which showed that ninety-six point thirty-two per cent of current taxes have been collected.

The members studied and renewed a two year contract with McCreary & Huey, Attorneys at Law, to collect delinquent taxes. They also approved a request by the Muleshoe State Bank to withdraw $95,000 in pledged securities that have matured and approved the addition of $95,000 in new pledged securities to secure the school funds deposited in the bank. This will leave a total balance of $675,000 in pledged securities.

Resignations were accepted from the following school personnel; Loy Hampton, Junior High Coach; Mrs. Ellen Jo Hills; and Mrs. Jessie Pierce, English and Spanish teacher at High School.

Plans were studied and discussed in detail for the possibility of implementing Applied Music Individual Study in the Senior High School; however, the study was disapproved due to the red tape and complicated process in administration with the present guidelines from the Texas Education Agency.

HARD WORK, TEAMWORK, WORK, WORK, WORK. . . Makes a good team, says Coach Chuck Stout, as he gives the boys a pep talk after their first official workout of the season, held Monday morning, August 12. Contact workouts will start August 16.

Coaches Impressed By Varsity Workouts

'Impressed,' is the Coach Chuck Stout used when describing the football practice sessions at the first of this week. The coach stated that: 'The boys are putting forth a good effort, and we are now working out in organizing drills.' For the first four days of workouts, shorts will be the attire used; on Friday, full uniform and pads will be issued.

The Muleshoe High School Varsity teams first game will be played in Dimmitt on September 6, Friday at 8:00 p.m. A scrimmage on Friday, August 23 will be held in Muleshoe with Tulsa.

'Our basic offensive formation this year will be the Basic 'I' Slot, and the defense will use the Pro-43.'

Muleshoe has eight returning starters this year, with six of them being seniors and two juniors.

The practice sessions will be two a day on Friday and Saturday beginning this Friday, August 16.

Freshmen will report for workouts on Monday, August 26, the first day of school.

Project HELP Nearing Goal

The Muleshoe Jaycees Project HELP Chairman, Ted Barnhill reports that only approximately one hundred tickets are left on the 1974 Ford.

Last Tuesday, August 13, the Jaycees assisted by the Jaycee-Elts held a telephone drive which netted an approximate one thousand dollars for the project. This is an estimated total of $18,500 which will be added to the hospital fund, in addition to the funds brought in by the remaining tickets.

The drawing for the 1974 Ford will be held in conjunction with the Miss Muleshoe Pageant at the High School Auditorium on August 24 at 8:00 p.m.

Fall Fertilizer Picture Bleak

COLLEGE STATION -- Texas Agricultural producers will likely take a 'wait and see' attitude as far as fall application of fertilizer for next year's crop is concerned.

According to Dr. Charles Welch, soil chemist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, "The fertilizer picture is considerably different now compared to a year ago. Last year fertilizer supplies were available and prices were still down. But there has been a complete turnabout in the fertilizer cost situation and in a number of fertilizer materials.'

Welch points out that last year conditions were generally favorable for fall application of fertilizer. A good crop year had been completed and farmers had received high prices for their commodities. In addition there was growing concern that fertilizer would be scarce in 1974.

"This year producers are faced with a different situation.

Fertilizer supplies are limited and what is available is at a high price. Special formulations of fertilizer are almost nonexistent. Producers must often buy a complete fertilizer (one with nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium) regardless of whether or not they need all three nutrients.

"And the percentage of active ingredients is also being reduced in many instances so

Rotary Sponsor Pancake Feed For Hospital Fund

President of the Rotary Club, Gil Lamb, has announced that the Muleshoe Rotary Club will sponsor a Triticate pancake and sausage feed all day Friday, August 16 at the Muleshoe High School Cafeteria. The kick-off for the project is scheduled for 6:30 a.m. that morning. Breakfast, lunch and supper will be served.

"The 'feed' price is set for $1.50 per person and all proceeds will go to the Hospital Action Fund. 'We consider this to be a worthy community cause," Lamb commented in his interview with the Journal.

The project committee heads are Kerry Moore and Bob Blackwood. They will be assisted by Floyd Gafford, J.P. Winn and L.B. Hall.

This fund-raising is being made possible through the cooperation of the Triticale Food Corporation of Muleshoe, the Owens Brothers Sausage Company of Richardson and the Jimmy Dean Sausage Company of Plainview, White's Cashway Grocery, Jim's Pay and Save, and the XIT Steak House are also cooperating locally in this project.

Funds were donated by Cobbs Department Store, Western Drug, and Poyner's Whites Auto for the extras which will be needed to carry out the project.

Crusade Film Will Be Shown Locally

"The Cross and The Switchblade," one of the outstanding films of recent months will be shown locally at the Wallace Theater in Muleshoe on August 19 and 20.

The film is sponsored by the Community Cinema Crusades. Dr. B. Owen Oslin is sponsoring the film here because of its depiction of the many problems of modern life; and how one man sought to change them.

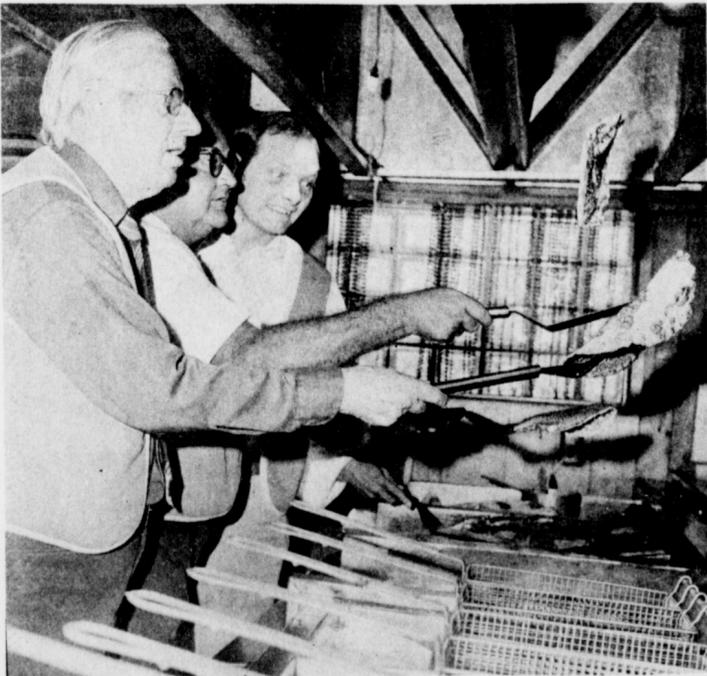

The film is adapted from the autobiographical best-seller of the same title, which has sold over nine million copies in fifteen languages.

The experiences of Reverend David Wilkerson, a then unknown country minister, are related after he entered the New York ghettos for ministry among street gangsters and dope addicts. It depicts the trials and hardships along with the heartbreaks he experienced during this time of his life.

Reverend Wilkerson's crusades nearly cost him his life on three occasions.

Pat Boone stars as the minister, Erik Estrada as the gangster who threatened the preacher's life, and Jackie Groux, who saw her romance with the gangster shattered because she was caught up in drug addiction, are co-starred in the film.

FLIPPING FLAPJACKS . . . Shown l to r are Gil Lamb, Jess Winn and Kerry Moore who are practicing up for the Friday, August 16 Rotary Triticate and Sausage feed. The feed will begin at 6:30 a.m., and continue through the supper hours. All proceeds from this project will go to the Hospital Action Fund.

The Meet Jesus Crusade was opened Sunday, August 11 at the Muleshoe Football stadium by the Reverend H.D. Hunter.

Reverend Hunter spoke to a crowd of approximately one thousand persons in the absence of Cecil Todd.

Cecil Todd, the evangelist from Joplin, Missouri will be here through the remaining part of the crusade, which will end on Sunday, August 18.

Roy Lee Jones of Sugarland is directing a seventy-voice choir made up of local people. The choir performs every night preceding the speaker.

In addition to the choir, the crusade is featuring special music presented by Sue Chenault Dodge and her husband Amos Dodge.

Publicity Chairman Gil Lamb said, "The people of this area have taken to their hearts this young couple from San Antonio, and anyone who can come and hear them will not regret the effort."

Youth Football Reminder Noted

The Board of Trustees for Youth Football have issued a reminder that Sunday, August 18 at 2:00 p.m. is the date for physicals and registration.

Boys must be ten years of age by September 1 and not over thirteen before September 1, 1974.

The first practice session will be held during the first regular school week and the regular games will be held on Sunday afternoons at 2:00 p.m. thereafter. The first game is scheduled for September 8. Four teams will be in action and all equipment except for shoes will be furnished.

If for any reason a boy cannot be present at the regular registrations and physicals, he is advised to contact one of the board of trustee members, being: Bob Finney, Curtis Walker, Darrell Oliver, John Fuston and Glen Watkins.

Spokesman Bob Finney stated that "the organization had about one hundred boys out for the sport last year; this year, we are hoping for that many and more." He further encouraged "all youth to come and participate in this event."

John Tower United States Senate DEFENSE SPENDING

The President has just signed into law an act providing for over $22 billion to finance the research and development of a weapons system for the defense of our nation during the present fiscal year. Taken in the aggregate, I am highly pleased with this year's defense spending bill. It was passed by both Houses of Congress without any severely adverse sections that could have dealt our defense capability a crippling blow. It is my opinion that this legislation will provide the Defense Department with adequate means for protecting America here at home and for defending her considerable interests overseas.

There recently was another act signed into law which, although it is not directly related to defense spending, I fear could have considerable impact in this area in the near future. I am referring to the Congressional Budget Act, which will bring about sweeping changes in the way Congress conducts its budgetary business from now on. This legislation creates new procedures so that Congress can deal with the budget as a whole package, instead of piecemeal passage of spending provisions as has been the practice in the past. While I strongly supported this legislation and believe it can be a very effective weapon in controlling federal spending, it is my fear that some members of Congress may use this as a tool to drastically cut defense spending.

I have been a constant advocate of a strong national defense since coming to the Senate nearly 14 years ago. Virtually every year during the past decade there have been very serious efforts on the part of some to cut large portions of our defense budget, but in the main, these efforts have failed. The Senate did vote to cut our authorized military manpower by 49,000 troops in the current budget, but this section was dropped in the final bill approved by the joint conference committee and signed into law.

I am pleased that we were able to delete the troop cut because I believe we have cut back U.S. troop strength enough from the Vietnam period. I do share with some of my colleagues a concern about inefficient use of our servicemen. The United States has a large portion of its military men in support units rather than combat units. While much of this support is essential to the performance of these combat units, I believe there is some non-combat "fat" that can be done away with. Where I differ with many is how we should accomplish this. I do not believe we should simply cut this fat out, but rather should convert it to muscle.

Our nation still faces a serious threat by conventional Soviet forces in Europe, and we should not let other events now gripping this country cause us to let our guard down. We must have every ounce of conventional strength if we are to respond in any fashion other than with tactical nuclear weapons -- and let me hurriedly add that I am firmly opposed to the use of nuclear weapons, not only because of the dangers of escalation to a strategic exchange, but also because they would destroy much of what we are trying to save. I am therefore particularly hopeful that the recent creation of a manpower subcommittee in the Senate Armed Services Committee will enable Congress to make prudent recommendations to the services on how best to convert these non-essential personnel into combat strength.

The new defense bill did contain modest cuts in two programs for strategic nuclear defense -- the B-1 bomber program and Site Defense, an improved antiballistic missile weapon. While I believe these cuts will not fatally impair these important programs, we should be very cautious about any further cuts in strategic spending. The Soviet Union has under development four new large size ballistic missiles. While these weapons probably will conform to SALT agreement restrictions, they will nevertheless significantly increase the throw weight of the Soviet nuclear rocket forces. Throw weight, of course, is the best way of measuring the destructive potential of nuclear missile forces. It is, in essence, the payload of a missile and includes warhead and any associated guidance mechanisms.

In addition to increasing their throw weight, the Soviets are testing multiple independently-targetable re-entry vehicles, known as MIRV's. These weapons will enable the Soviets to put as many as three very large warheads on their largest mis-

HOMAGE TO TEEN YEARS IN "AMERICAN GRAFFITI"

Some people celebrate the 10th anniversary of their high school graduation by organizing the old gang for a nostalgic party. There are drips and hors d'oeuvres and talk of children, divorces and good times of the past.

George Lucas marked the 10th anniversary of his own high school graduation another way.

He directed a feature-length motion picture in Technicolor, and helped write the script of his high school experiences, Universal's "American Graffiti," which comes Aug. 16-22 to the XIT Drive-In.

The 28-year-old filmmaker, who graduated from Modesto (California) High in 1962, admits that it's an elaborate 10th anniversary present to himself and his classmates, but says "it was marvelous film material."

"American Graffiti" was produced by Francis Ford Coppola and co-produced by Garry Kurtz on locations near San Francisco from a screenplay that Lucas co-authored with Gloria Katz and Willard Huyck.

A homage to everybody's teen years, the story traces the misadventures of a group of high school buddies on the last night of summer vacation. As rock music (there are more than 40 individual numbers in the film and the MCA sound track album) blasts from the car radio, youths cruise up and down the streets, looking for a girl, a buddy, or somebody to drag race.

Lucas has no apologies to make for drawing on his own life for a movie. "I spent four years of my life dragging the main streets of Modesto," he tells it. "And I'm one of the world's great experts on rock 'n' roll. Why not make a movie about what one knows best?"

siles -- warheads whose size and accuracy would enable them to destroy our underground ICBM silos.

Should these developments take place without any compensating improvements in our strategic nuclear deterrent, it could encourage Soviet adventurism by giving them a false sense of security. This in turn could destroy the detente that so carefully and painfully has been cultivated over the past years. Perhaps we forget too easily that the reason we have detente is the America has proved her willingness to resist aggression. If we are to enjoy world peace over the next decades, we must maintain a defense that is second to none. I believe the bill just signed into law will enable us to do just that.

Fertilizer...

that it takes a larger volume of fertilizer to provide the necessary nutrients. This means increased transportation and handling costs.

What all this amounts to, according to Welch, is that producers will have to take a close look at their particular situations to determine their fertilizer needs and time of application. "Soil testing will be especially important in determining profitable fertilization practices for each field and each drop."

Although U.S. fertilizer production was up six per cent during the year ending June 30, the amount sold was up 15 to 20 per cent. This means that inventories are now low at the retail level as well as at the manufacturing point.

"Fall fertilization will be a difficult decision for producers to make, so many will probably shy away and wait to see what the spring season brings," points out Welch.

Sound Judgment Needed Irrigating Late Cotton

LUBBOCK -- Because of erratic weather conditions over the South Plains this year, the cotton crop varies as much as six weeks in planting dates. This means farmers will need to look carefully at soil and plant conditions and stages of growth as they determine when to irrigate, says Dr. Bob Metzger, area agronomist.

"Hot, sunny weather has promoted heavy fruiting with less vegetative growth in most of our irrigated early-planted cotton," says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

"Irrigation in many fields of early cotton has been behind schedule all season. Early cotton can utilize considerably more water due to the heavy fruit load with less than normal vegetative growth.

"But we face a different picture on late cotton planted after the June hail storm," he cautions. "This cotton is making good progress and fruiting rapidly. Full size bolls should be reached by the third or fourth week in August.

"Although the fiber of late planted cotton is expected to reach its full staple length by the last of August, the bolls will still be immature. Fibers must fill out (increase in micronaire) during September and October if these bolls are to reach the desired yield potential.

"It is much better to stress late-planted cotton a little than to have luxuriant growth," he adds. "Observations and studies have shown that late cotton is much more sensitive to excess water, which usually results in rank, immature bolly cotton.

"You don't have to have a large stalk to obtain profitable yield," Metzger adds. "I realize that growthy cotton certainly looks attractive during the season, but if you end up with a plant having 1/3 white cotton at the bottom with 2/3 bolly cotton at the top, it can be costly with present-day quality discounts and premium, to say nothing of irrigation costs."

The specialist who is based at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, says that each year he cautions producers about over-watering cotton, especially late cotton. It is even more critical this year, he adds, because most late cotton is located in the short season area north of Lubbock.

"Temperature may actually become more important than moisture for this crop," he emphasizes. "It also becomes imperative that this cotton remain in a fruiting phase and allowed to continue fruiting at a rapid pace. One way to do this is by careful use of irrigation water."

The agronomist explains that it may not be necessary or profitable to irrigate late cotton that is currently not wilting and has sufficient soil moisture. However, if some wilting is occurring and soil moisture is low, a light or alternate row irrigation around Aug. 10-15 should provide adequate moisture for the remainder of the season.

War Of The Giants

Two corporate superpowers, American Tel & Tel and IBM are about to do battle over who will supply the office of the future. The market is staggering; the data-processing and telephone industries together gross about $60-billion a year and are growing at a compound growth rate of 13% annually.

The telephone industry enjoys a government regulated status as a monopoly, serving an exclusive territorial area. The data-processing industry is one of the most competitive in the world. The big stake is the communications in the office of tomorrow. Which industry will supply communications gear, typewriters, data-retrieval displays, telephones with push-buttons which can handle dictation, double as calculators and as computer input and display terminals? The computer manufacturers feel that all of these office activities are natural extensions of their present data-processing activities and they are determined to keep from being "legislated" out of this mushrooming market.

The telephone companies are so determined to stop the growth of computer manufacturers in the communications field that they warned of higher residential rates in North Carolina if competition was permitted. The state utility commission proposed a ban on attaching any equipment to telephone lines unless the equipment was owned and maintained by the telephone companies, North Carolina reconsidered after substantial opposition and has allowed computers and terminals to hook up but the state has banned customer-owned telephones and switchboards, Oklahoma and Utah are considering similar bans.

The key issue is whether the telephone companies should manufacture all products attached to their lines or whether the market for these devices and telephones should evolve naturally and not be restricted to telephone company products and devices. The next question is whether the user should be permitted to own the communications equipment used in his office.

AT&T says it can compete but that fair competition just means a regulated company and one that is not regulated just isn't possible.

Too much talk loses most arguments.

Wanted: 150 Artists

Artists and craftsmen from this area are being summoned to send in their entries to the Fifth Republic of Texas Chilympad Arts and Crafts Show in San Marcos.

Although the arts and crafts show is just one of the many attractions of this State Chili Cook-off, a Chilympad aficionado reports that this event has been one of the most interesting for chili buffs (and profitable for hundreds of artisans) throughout its five year history.

The cook-off with its many attractions is expected to draw between 75,000 and 100,000 persons for the event, which is scheduled for September 19-22. "In fact the event has been so successful that we have had to extend it one extra day," said one of the San Marcos chili pod directors.

And this year's event will not be at the tradition site, which was previously held at the famous Aquarena Springs resort. The people of Hays County have recently completed a 50 acre civic center complex conveniently located off IH 35 between Austin and San Antonio.

"This new site has afforded plenty of room to spread out on," said the director, "and even allocates a sheltered area for the arts and crafts display."

The display area is 10,800 square feet, and completely covered to ensure environmental protection. Chilympad directors have also commissioned a security guard so that the arts and crafts people may leave their displays up overnight.

"There's one drawback, however," said the director. "We've decided to place the display areas on a first come basis and we're only allowing 150 spaces for the show."

Entry fee for the arts and crafts displays is $15 for the four-day Chilympad festivities. Those desiring to enter should have their entries in as soon as possible to ensure a space. Mail to Chilympad Arts & Crafts Show, P.O. Box 2310, San Marcos, Texas, 78666. Those late comers will receive a refund if spaces are taken.

As mentioned, the arts and crafts extravaganza is only one of the events for the four-day zany chili battle. Also featured will be the Ole Fiddlers Fiddle-Off, antique and classic car show, Confederate Air Force Static Display and the Chilympad Beauty Pageant.

Every night of the Thursday through Sunday cook-off will be filled with dancing and entertainment by some of the top musical performers this side of the Atlantic. Willie Nelson, and that composer and singer of progressive country and western music will be performing Friday and Saturday evenings; Darrell McCall is billed for Thursday; and the Velvets for Sunday's dance.

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION -- Meat prices are trending upwards, as predicted, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt said this week.

"Bacon and ham prices have increased, and the cost of many fresh pork and beef cuts have risen," the consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, added.

"Prices on blade chuck roasts and corned beef are economical, and some stores are offering ground beef with soy protein, round steak, standing rib roast and beef liver at special prices."

Occasional values at pork counters include quarter loins cut into chops and liver.

Chickens are also a little higher than they were, and consumer demand has dropped a bit -- probably because of fewer bargain prices, Mrs. Clyatt said. Diminishing appetites during hot weather may be another factor, she speculated.

The marketing information specialist further predicted higher egg prices within the next few weeks.

Noting that now is the time to enjoy fresh fruit and vegetables currently on the market, Mrs. Clyatt also predicted higher prices for processed fruits and vegetables.

"At fresh vegetable counters, lettuce is abundant with prices a bit lower, and potatoes follow the same pattern. Cabbage, dry yellow onion, okra, squash, radishes and green onions are among the most economical choices."

"At fruit counters, plums and nectarines are in good supply, and prices are mostly moderate. Peach prices are relatively high."

"Cantaloupes and watermelons -- of excellent quality -- are moderately priced, and grape prices should decrease some as their season progresses," the specialist said.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Turkey supplies are predicted to remain at record levels this month -- and turkey is now 'spealed' at most attractive prices.

Roast turkey, turkey in casseroles, a la king or in salads can turn casual meals into special occasions.

Gelatin is added to canned hams to help hold the boned ham together during shipping. It is added in dry form just before the can is vacuum-sealed and cooked. Gelatin also thickens juices drawn from the meat and fills the air spaces, Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, explained.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

With summer heat scorching Texas, there is the possibility you could become a victim of sunstroke or heat exhaustion during the blast-furnace weather ahead, advises the Texas State Department of Health.

The combined effects of the sun, exercise, heat and excessive perspiration with water and salt loss can produce serious symptoms and may even be fatal.

Exposure to excessive heat may result in heat exhaustion, heat stroke, and heat cramps, with heat exhaustion being the most common. In exhaustion cases, the persons temperature is approximately normal; in stroke, it is high. Most likely to be affected are the aged, the obese, the very young, alcohol addicts, and those suffering from any disease that impairs the strength on the entire body, say state health officials.

Sunstroke is caused by over exposure to the hot sun while heat exhaustion is due to prolonged exposure to high temperatures indoors or outdoors. In sunstroke the body overheats. Usually the victim has a severe headache and everything looks red to him. Often the victim becomes unconscious.

Heat exhaustion is caused by prolonged heat and high humidity, but it is very different from sunstroke. The victim is usually conscious but weak and dizzy. His temperature falls instead of rises, and he feels cold and clammy.

Don't overindulge in alcoholic drinks.

On sultry days, keep the air circulating to help the evaporation of perspiration. Keep shaded windows open and use an electric fan.

Profuse perspiration helps cool the body, but it draws fluids and certain chemicals away. If you perspire freely, you may need extra water and salt. Drink water often throughout the day, one glass at a time. The amount of salt needed depends on how much you lose through perspiration. Office workers probably get enough in their food, but others doing heavy labor may need salt tablets periodically or a quart of a teaspoonful of salt dissolved in a glass of water every day.

Elderly people are prone to develop heat stroke. It may appear in them on hot days during such apparently mild activity as a walk. But they are not the only victims.

Heat cramps usually involve the abdominal muscles or the limbs. Loss of chemicals in profuse perspiration precedes the cramps. The condition may be associated with heat exhaustion. Heat cramps usually respond better to firm pressure than to vigorous kneading.

Remember, the aging, the very young, alcoholics and people with heart trouble are easily affected by the sun and heat.

Scarfs and blouses in prints are good with these solid color coat dresses.

Buckled belts, chains, beads and buckled shoes are being worn by smart young women.

To Make Or To Buy Clothes

COLLEGE STATION - Every homemaker must decide for herself whether she will buy or make new clothing for her family.

Marilyn Brown, consumer education-clothing and textiles specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, pointed out several advantages and disadvantages to both buying and home sewing.

Some points in favor of buying ready-made clothes are: --They can be seen in final form and are ready for immediate use.

--Many fabrics in read-to-wear garments are not available in piece goods.

--Buying rather than making saves time.

--Many notions and trimmings are available to the manufacturer but not to the home sewer, and --More consumer information is available on read-to-wear clothing than on bolts of fabrics.

"But some people consider sewing a highly rewarding creative experience. To them, there are more advantages in making than in buying the finished product," the specialist noted.

Some points for the home sewer to consider are:

--Can she plan and visualize the garment well enough to be satisfied when it is completed.

--Does she have the necessary time to finish a quality garment.

--Does she have the skill to make the garment as planned.

--Does she have the necessary equipment.

--Can she find the fabric and notions of the quality, color and textures desired.

--Can she fit herself properly, and

--Is her motivation sufficient to make her give up other activities in favor of this.

Quarrels would not last long if the fault was only on one side.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

My husband is a very fine man but his salary is not enough to support his family. We have three children. So I, also, work and together we get along very well. Now the problem is this. Someone has to stay with two of the children until I get home and a very good woman has been doing this. She likes the children and cooks the dinner. She is perfectly satisfied with what I pay because she is alone and in my house she gets to look at television and read good magazines. Now, if I pay her two dollars an hour for six days that is more than I make on my job. She can't get another job and I shall have to give up mine. Isn't this a ridiculous situation? Worried-Ala.

live in small towns, where salaries are low, are finding that they have to cut the hours of domestic workers, in order to afford help. They use conveniences and either have the workers come in on special days or for a few hours each day.

This new ruling will cause many women to give up jobs they enjoy and go back to housework.

Of course, there are many people who can afford to pay the new wage and they will not be hurt.

I do not know whether the government would allow you to deduct the time your helper spends relaxing or not. If that is satisfactory with her, you might look into it.

Louisa.

August Gasoline Supplies Adequate

DALLAS, TEXAS - Reports from refiners indicate the supply of unleaded gasoline in the southwest region of the nation should be adequate during August, it was reported today by Delbert M. Fowler of Dallas, regional administrator for the Federal Energy Administration.

Based on reports from refiners supplying the five-state region, nearly five per cent of the total gasoline available will be unleaded, Fowler said. The five states include Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Under regulations of the Environmental Protection Agency, every retail gasoline outlet which sells more than 200,000 gallons of gasoline per year must market unleaded gasoline. In specified rural areas, stations selling 150,000 gallons per year must stock the unleaded product.

Many stations across the nation have sold unleaded gasoline for years. In fact, Amoco has been selling an unleaded product since 1915.

However, to meet the new EPA regulations, virtually all automobiles manufactured in 1975 must have catalytic converters to reduce air pollution.

The catalytic converter, which filters exhaust fumes through chemicals to remove air pollutants, requires the use of unleaded gasoline. Otherwise, the converter, which costs about $150, will be ruined and must be replaced.

The retail pumps for unleaded gasoline have smaller hose nozzles and the 1975 automobiles will have smaller gasoline tank openings, which will not accommodate the hose nozzles for regular or premium gasoline.

The FEA has been charged the responsibility of allocating unleaded gasoline, so that all areas will have sufficient supply for the new model automobiles.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm works around the edges of truth-telling, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor: I have about decided maybe that everybody in this country ought to start telling the truth or everybody ought to decide not to believe anybody.

What went on in Washington is one thing, even the revelation that some Boy Scout leaders were lying about how many boys they had enrolled in order to get more Federal money was bad enough, but I guess the final straw came when it was revealed that the new World Football League has lied about how many tickets it sold at its opening games.

According to an article I read the other day, the head of one team announced that 64,719 fans paid their way in to see a nationally televised game, and while there were that many in the stands, only 6,200 actually paid to get in. The rest were given free tickets so the stadium would be packed and things would look good on television.

This leaves a person with no place to turn. If he didn't see the game how does he know the report of the final score is even right? It'll spread everywhere. It's one thing for example to doubt the weather forecast for tomorrow, but to doubt if the figures on how much it rained yesterday are true, leaves everybody floundering.

If we have to take everything that's said or printed with a grain of salt, I'm going to clean up by buying stock in a salt mine.

What the country needs I guess is not only elected officials who tell the truth but ordinary people as well.

However we don't want to rush into this too fast. If everybody in government and out started telling the truth all at once it might be too much to believe. We've got to work into this gradually. Personally I won't mind answering truthfully any question you put to me if you'll let me pick the questions.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Harp Heads FGC

Elbert Harp of Lubbock, Texas was named chairman of the U.S. Feed Grains Council during the Council's annual membership meeting in Stratton Mountain, Vermont this week.

Harp is executive director of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association and the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, both headquartered in Lubbock.

The U.S. Feed Grains Council, which represents virtually every sector of feed grain production and marketing, is one of the major organizations responsible for the development of foreign markets for U.S. Agricultural commodities.

The council was formed in 1960 by the Grain Sorghum Producers Association and other agricultural groups. The USFGC, a non-profit organization, works under contract with the foreign agricultural service of the Department of Agriculture to increase dollar sales abroad of U.S. feed grains.

The Council has developed and is currently implementing marketing programs in 20 countries and has generated more than $2 billion in direct sales during the past fiscal year.

Harp toured the councils marketing areas in Asia early this year and will travel worldwide later this year as a representative of the council.

Other executive officers of the USFGC are Harold E. Norton of Dekalb, Ill., Alan J. Noble of Wayzata, Minn., and Lyle P. Campbell of Chicago, Ill.

The Mantle Of Power Passes

The President the American people elected has resigned. It is my prayer and wish that everyman, woman and child in our nation will join together in a mutual, national and individual renewal of dedication to America in an effort to remove the animosities, prejudices and other obstacles which divide our people. As the mantle of power passes from Richard Nixon to Gerald Ford, it is vitally important that we have national unity.

I sincerely believe that all the people of our nation must take a more active part in our political process in order to maintain democracy. Our government reacts indirect relationship to the efforts put forth by its citizens to see that the men and women they have elected to public office are responsible to their needs.

Having known Gerald Ford for eight years in the House of Representatives as a personal friend, I believe he meets the qualifications necessary to become an outstanding President of the United States.

I hurt inside with disappointment as if a tragedy had happened to my own family, which time -- and time alone -- will heal; but time does heal many wounds to the mind and body.

Richard Nixon has served his country well and has reduced war and suffering on our planet. He has succeeded in bringing about the closest thing to peace among all the people of the world that has existed in my lifetime. Peace, prosperity and help for the suffering have all been among his aims and goals. History I believe will show he has been in large measure successful in these goals. But the atmosphere in Washington had been like a lynch mob.

No man is perfect -- nor will any of us mortals be the final judge.

AS ONE OF HIS LAST OFFICIAL ACTS, President Nixon did veto the appropriations bill for Agriculture and Environmental and Consumer Protection because the bill exceeded by some $540 million his budgetary request. I had voted for this bill, although I had opposed spending money on food stamps for strikers, estimated by some at $234 million annually, and I would have preferred reductions in other unnecessary areas in the non-agricultural portions of this bill. Funds for water and sewer improvement, conservation and rural development are among the items in this bill which I believe are vitally important, and I shall work for a substitute measure which still provides the vital assistance to rural America which is so necessary.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS TIME is the subject of House Commerce subcommittee hearings which open Monday. The subcommittee will have under consideration my bill to abolish Daylight Savings Time as well as other proposals from other Members.

Last year the Congress passed a two-year nationwide full-time Daylight Savings Time law in hopes of saving energy. The Department of Transportation has reported that the energy saved by DST last winter amounted to only one-half of one percent. I had suspected such a negligible saving and had opposed the law because I felt it presented a danger to children going to school in the dark. Now the Transportation Department is urging that winter-time Daylight Savings Time be ended.

The Congress will have to act before November if we are to avoid another winter of Daylight Savings Time. I am encouraged that this week's hearings have been called and I am urging the abolition of Daylight Savings Time.

THE CAMPAIGN FINANCING REFORM BILL was carefully orchestrated in the House last week by the leadership of the Democrat majority. At the onset of the House debate, the minority attempted to open up the rule under which the bill was being considered so that any and all proposals could be considered by the full body. The majority leadership had brought the measure to the Chamber under a restricted rule in which only amendments already approved by the Democrat leadership could be considered by the whole House. The effort to open the rule failed, 219 to 190, on a nearly straight party-line vote.

I supported reasonable reform in campaign financing practices, but opposed public funding of political candidates. In my opinion, political campaigning is not a valid use of taxpayer funds. Political candidates should not depend upon a few very large contributions, but the desirable alternative is a sufficient number of small contributions to provide the desired independence. People should support the candidates of their choice with small contributions as well as votes, but campaign funds should not be taken out of the national treasury.

My view prevailed on the financing of Congressional and Senate candidates and the taxpayers will not share this burden. But public financing was voted for Presidential candidate in the general election will receive public financing through the check-off provision on income tax forms.

THIS PAST WEEK the Congress took a number of votes. Here is a synopsis of my votes on major issues (and how the House voted): --Opposed reduction of defense spending by $2.5 billion (rejected, 178-216)

--Opposed reduction of defense research and development by $169.5 million (rejected, 69-328)

--Supported improvement in veterans home loan programs (agreed to, 341-0)

--Opposed funding denial for our missile defense system (rejected, 182-219)

--Supported comprehensive review of our national security and international policies regarding chemical warfare (agreed to, 315-70)

--Supported effort to lower campaign expenditure limits by $34,500 (rejected, 187-223)

--Supported effort to bar public financing of Presidential nominating conventions (rejected, 205-206)

--Opposed Federal Election Campaign Financing Act

--Opposed Federal Election Campaign Financing Act containing public funding provisions (passed, 355-48)

Cow Farms Up
New Type Owner

COLLEGE STATION -- The current trend in the beef cattle industry is toward more beef cow farms, says a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. But the farm owner is changing.

"This is of significance to the purebred breeder because it means an expanded market for bulls and heifers," explains Ernest E. Davis.

"Texas' commercial farms with beef cows and heifers that have calved increased in number by more than 17,800 from 1964 to 1969. Texas' Census data indicate a 35 per cent increase of medium sized farms of 20 to 99 cows and a 13 per cent increase of farms of 100 to 499 cows while ranches of more than 500 cows remained constant.

"What has brought the increase in beef cow farms?"

"Many new landowners who bought land for other reasons have decided to raise cattle," explains Davis. "There's that urge to run a few cows. There is a prestigious image associated with being a rancher or cowman, especially in Texas and the Southwest. Furthermore, some supplemental income can be derived from cattle."

This new breed of cattleman is generally a cattle hobbyist who knows little or nothing about any breed of cattle, says the specialist. He must be introduced to and convinced of the merits of the breed he eventually chooses. Thus breeders must implement awareness and educational programs to reach and sell to this new client.

Of course, the purebred breeder should not forget his other customer, the commercial cow-calf operator, cautious Davis. These cowmen are producing beef to meet the demands of consumers, retailers, packers and feedlots.

"So, not only must cattle breeders recognize the role a breed has in producing the market animal of today and tomorrow, but they must also be cognizant of new customers or new trends affecting the market," adds Davis.

Non-essentials take up too much time in life but why be different from those about you?

Funeral Planning Expenses, Legalities

AUSFIN -- Planning funeral arrangements can be a difficult, confusing task -- and an expensive one, too. It is hard to make such important decisions in an atmosphere of grief and sadness, harder still to seek out the facts necessary to make informed decisions at such a time. It may be easier for Texans to make responsible choices should the need arise if they have gathered sufficient information in advance about legal requirements, alternatives to the traditional funeral service and burial, and what questions to ask when arranging a funeral. As for legal requirements, contrary to what many think, there is no Texas law requiring embalming, although in most cases it is a practical necessity. The State Health Department, the agency with the authority to set regulations in this matter, requires only that a body held more than 24 hours either be embalmed or refrigerated, unless death was due to communicable disease, in which case it must be embalmed. If a body is to be shipped by common carrier, it must either be embalmed or enclosed in an airtight metal casket in a shipping case, or in a casket encased in an airtight metal or metal-lined shipping case. There is also no Texas law that says a casket or other burial container must be placed in an airtight vault before final disposition, although some cemeteries -- both municipally owned and private -- do have such a requirement. As a matter of fact, as the Texas Funeral Directors Association points out, there is nothing in Texas law that requires a family to use the services of a licensed funeral director. The specific requirements of the public health and vital statistics laws of the State would make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, however, for an untrained person to handle, transport, or bury the dead. And any person performing such services for the public or for a fee must be licensed as a funeral director or embalmer. A growing, although still decidedly small, segment of the population is investigating and choosing alternatives to the traditional funeral service and burial, according to some studies.

Some persons choose cremation, others donate their bodies to medical schools, or will certain organs such as kidneys or eyes to organ banks. Still others join memorial societies which handle the details of burial, cremation, or body donation at a lower than average price for members who pay a fee to join. While any of these alternatives generally will be less expensive than a traditional funeral and burial, many people choosing them do so not only for economy but for reasons of personal preference. It's worth noting that persons who donate organs still have the option of a traditional funeral and burial.

For that majority of Texans who still favor the traditional funeral and burial, our Consumer Protection attorneys strongly advise acquiring information in advance when there is time to think logically about such matters. They suggest that you consider, or have others consider, the following when making funeral arrangements:

*Are you or your friends and family familiar with the funeral home and its reputation for good service?
*What is the least expensive service offered by the funeral home and what does it cover? What is added to this for a more expensive service? Do you consider the additional items worth the extra cost?
*Inquire about the price of the casket, services, and other charges before discussing any insurance, pension, or government death benefits due to the family of the deceased.
*Ask what is included in the total cost of the service. Be sure you know about services or goods that will result in extra charge (newspaper notices and police escort are often considered "extra").
*Find out about cemetery charges. In addition to the plot or mausoleum space, there usually are charges for maintenance or "perpetual care." If you buy a plot or crypt in advance, there may be additional charges for transferring or selling it if you move or decide you don't want it. Some cemeteries require an airtight vault, an extra cost. Others require a certain type of marker or monument,

Sunflower Is Oil Producing Crop Now

An old foe may turn into a new friend for High Plains farmers according to Dr. Doug Owen, High Plains Research Foundation Agronomist for oilseed research. For years considered only an undesirable weed, sunflower has been domesticated and developed into a highly desirable oil producing crop. Plant breeders now have developed hybrids with high seed yielding potential and high oil content. The oil is especially valuable for its excellent nutrition qualities as well as its fine flavor and good cooking characteristics. The hulls and residue left after the oil is extracted is used as cattle feed in the same manner as cottonseed hulls and meal.

The High Plains research Foundation is in its second year of cultural studies with sunflowers sponsored by a grant-in-aid from the Plains Cooperative Oil Mill. These studies include a variety test containing twenty experimental hybrids; a fertilizer test containing seven treatments of nitrogen and phosphorus in various rates and ratios; and a date-of-planting test having four planting dates beginning in April and ending the last week of July. Each date consists of five hybrids planted under dryland and irrigated conditions. Tests conducted last year showed that both early (April) and late (July) planting matured before frost and made satisfactory yields even after sustaining severe hail injury. Some of the earlier plantings in 1974 received severe hail in June and recovered to produce large wellfilled seed heads. A special attachment to the combine header is necessary to minimize harvesting losses but these are available and may be purchased at reasonable cost. Losses estimated as high as 27% occurred in 1973 using a combine without the special attachment. Two insects are economically important. The sunflower head moth is fairly easily controlled by timely application of the recommended insecticide. There is no insecticide known to be effective in controlling the carrot beetle, but damage from this insect may be limited to certain zones or areas. Large infestations of this insect can cause severe damage and loss, however, few insects have been detected in 1973 and 1974.

Research indicated that sunflowers are drought tolerant requiring less moisture than soybeans, sorghum, and corn; and apparently requiring less fertilizer than sorghum or corn thus costing less to produce. Yields ranging from two to three thousand pounds per acre have been obtained. "With prices at fifteen cents per pound these yield potentials make sunflowers a competitive crop for the High Plains, and the possibility of planting after wheat or hauled-out cotton may provide a valuable alternate crop for area farmers," stated Dr. Owen. The sunflower research as well as many other research projects of interest to High Plains farmers and businessmen can be observed on the field tours from 1:30 to 5:00 on Thursday, September 12, 1974 during the 18th Field Day and Open House.
