Goodwin Re-elected To Irrigation Panel

The Board of Directors of the High Plains Undergraduate Water Conservation District No. 1 recently traveled to Austin to learn the status of pending and future water legislation which will affect the High Plains farmer.

Meeting with House Speaker Bill Clayton of Springlake and Senator Kent Hance of Lubbock were Ray Kitten of Slaton, President; Selmer Schoenrock of Levelland; Vice President; Chester Mitchell of Lockney,

The Bailey County School Board voted Tuesday to annex the Bula School District to the Three Way School District for the next school term.

A large crowd of interested citizens and parents were on hand Tuesday and the Board made their decision.

Bailey County Judge Glen Williams who is also the ex-officio of the Board, reported that the circulation at the Bula school had gotten to the point, because of low attendance, that the school could not successfully have school next year. The Average Daily Attendance had dropped to approximately 67 students and two or three classes had only one student per class.

Football activities were lost last year and it was possible that the school would lose the vocational agriculture and home economics departments for next year. The school would also be losing two additional teachers, and bus aid would be cut down.

The school district was hurting all the way around and the only way it could go would be to raise taxes and it still probably wouldn't have made it.

The community held a referendum and overwhelming expressed its desire for terminating the Bula School District and annexing to another district. Although the majority wanted to be annexed to Three Way, some expressed wishes to be annexed to Morton or Littlefield.

The Bula School Board was in favor of the annexation to Three Way as was the Three Way School Board as Three Way has sufficient means to take care of the additional students.

The Bula School Board passed a resolution asking for annexation and brought it to the County School Board who has authority to annex districts when the people request it. This is a legal method and does not have to be done by an election.

Bula asked the County School Board to annex it to Three Way and the Three Way Board brought a similar resolution stating that they would receive the Bula students.

At the Tuesday meeting, two other petitions were presented, one requesting that a portion of the Bula School District be detached and annexed to Morton, and the other asking that a portion be detached and annexed to the Littlefield district.

Tuesday afternoon, the County Board . . .

BAC Discusses Items During Meeting Here

The Business Activities Committee of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture met Tuesday, March 11, at 10 a.m., with Chairman Royce Harris presiding.

The committee discussed the reward fund decals and the fact that this fund has paid off in two instances recently. With a contribution of $10, a decal will be placed on the door of the business and in case of vandalism, a $100 reward will be paid to anyone having information leading to the conviction of the guilty party.

The committee also discussed the rugs that the BAC are selling and John Clark agreed to serve as chairman. Both decals and rugs are available at the Chamber office.

Harris is the chairman of the Clean Up Campaign in Muleshoe. The National Keep America Beautiful Campaign will be held April 20-26 with a special emphasis put on April 26, Harris will be organizing efforts in Muleshoe for a clean-up campaign that week.

The July 4 parade was discussed for the coming year. The BAC discussed whether or not to have cash prizes for floats in the parade this year. The possibility of having some special shows in conjunction with the July 4 Celebration was also discussed such as a dog show or craft show, mostly for children.

The Father's Day promotion for Muleshoe was also discussed and it was decided that some appropriate item will be drawn for and awarded on Father's Day. Other items of discussion included the carnivals that the BAC sponsors, the special fall show and other items concerning the July 4 celebration.

Harris recommended a budget and it was approved subject to the Chamber Board approval.

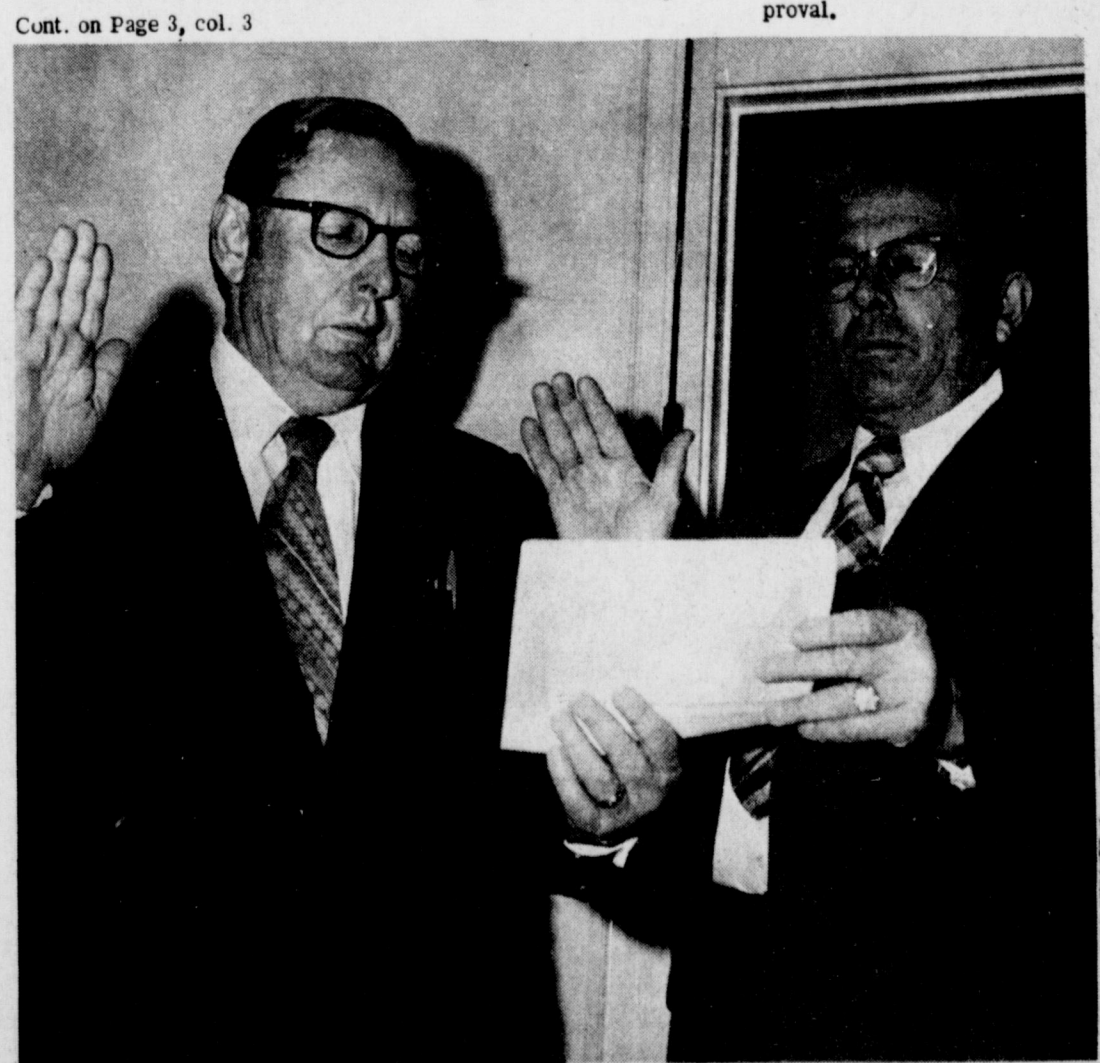

Diabetic Camp Sponsored By Lions Clubs

Applications for summer camping fun for diabetic children in the Muleshoe area are now being sought by members of the Muleshoe Lions Club. The Texas Lions League, which has operated a crippled children's camp at Kerrville for 22 years, has expanded its Texas Lions Camp for Diabetic Children and is offering two camping sessions at two different locations for its 1975 program.

A two-week session at Camp Manison near Friendswood for Diabetic Children from six Members, and Ross Goodwin, Muleshoe, past President and Member of the Board. The group also met with Representative E.L. Shert of Tahoka and Representative Pete Lane of Hale Center.

He was also appointed as Corporate Judge by the City and will serve as the Veteran Service officer and as the Registrar of Vital Certificates.

School Board Hears Reports On Monday

The Muleshoe Independent School Board of Trustees met Monday, March 10, for its regular session.

The board heard and discussed the current financial report and heard the current tax collection report which showed that 90.17 percent of all current taxes have been collected.

A report on Economic Index received from the Texas Education Agency for 1975-76 for the Current Minimum Foundation Program was heard. As a result of the state Attorney General's opinion in which the State and County values were changed from present of assessment to total values, the local fund assignment has been raised $70,000. This is an increase in cost to the local district. At this time, pending state legislation, the board does not know whether or not the schools will be under the State Minimum Foundation Program for 1975-76.

The library circulation report as of February 28, was heard. A total circulation of 40,208 included 15,441 at Senior High School; 7,572 at Junior High School; 11,032 at Mary DeShazo; and 6,163 at Richard Hills Primary.

The school received $58,266 in emergency school aid that was approved by the State Legislature and signed by the governor.

It was announced that the annual School Board Workshop is to be held at Texas Tech University on April 9, from 1 to 7:30 p.m. This is sponsored by the Texas Association of School Boards.

The board discussed the "Open Meeting Law" as ruled by the Attorney General of Texas. An individual employee's salary can be discussed in executive session and then voted on in open meeting. A general salary schedule for employees must be discussed in an open meeting.

The new State Textbook Adoptions for 1975-76 were discussed and approved as recommended by the local Textbook Committee.

The board reviewed the marriage policy, pregnancy policy and graduation policy that are effected by Title IX of the Civil Rights Act. No action was taken until legal advice can be obtained and a further study is made.

The dates of the School Board election were reviewed and they approved the drawing for places on the ballot. Names will appear on the ballot as follows: E. Jim Shafer, Josie Baca, Lewis W. Shafer, Jerry D. Gleason, D.V.M., Royce L. Turner, Floyd O. Gafford and Ernest Ramm.

Absentee voting will begin in the County Clerk's office at the Bailey County Courthouse on March 17, and will end on April 1 at 5:00 p.m. April 5 will be election day and the elections will be held at the High School Cafeteria between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The board then approved the Title I E.S.E.A. Migrant Summer Program for six weeks beginning during the summer of 1975 if and when the program is funded.

The present status of the Workmen's Compensation Program was discussed. The local schools are participating in a state wide program sponsored by the Texas Association of School Boards.

The board considered and re-employed teachers for the 1975-76 school year. Some teachers were approved for employment but cannot be issued a contract until funds become available. Salaries were not set because there is not, at this time, a valid State Teachers Salary Schedule.

It was reported that the roofing is completed on Mary DeShazo gym and the painting on the inside of Mary DeShazo cafeteria is completed. The board discussed the purchase of 20 joints of three inch irrigation pipe for the Junior High Campus, but no action was taken. The painting of heating units on the roofs at Junior High, the High School cafeteria and vocational building is not completed.

The Average Daily Attendance report for the first four six weeks periods showed 486.10 in 1973-74 as compared to 478.52 for 74-75 in high school; 441.12 in 1973-74 as compared to 419.36 in 1974-75 in junior high; 401.32 in 1973-74 as compared to 408.05 in 1974-75 in Mary DeShazo; and 387.83 in 1973-74 as compared to 377.54 in 1974-75 in

Arthritis March Set For Next Thursday

"Is arthritis worth $9 billion a year?" asks Mrs. Sam Damron, who has been an active volunteer for the West Texas Chapter of The Arthritis Foundation for four years.

"No, I don't think it is, but that's the economic impact of this devastating disease," Mrs. Damron said. "The physical and psychological suffering of victims attacked by crippling arthritis is bad enough. Then when they lose jobs due to inability to work and the medical bills start piling up, a family's life savings can quickly be destroyed."

Arthritis strikes one out of every ten people. That adds up to over 20 million Americans who suffer so seriously that they need continuous medical care. "You are not talking about one disease," Mrs. Damron pointed out. "but nearly 100 -- with each variety requiring a specific treatment."

Mrs. Damron stated that right here in West Texas there are 110,000 people afflicted by the disease.

Extension Cotton Specialist Named For South Plains

LUBBOCK, March 6 -- Dr. James R. Supak assumed the position of area agronomist -- cotton with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service here on March 1.

Supak, who has served as area agronomist for the South Plains for the past three years and has worked primarily with crops other than cotton, will continue to be headquartered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center here.

He fills the position vacated by Dr. Robert Metzger, who was transferred to College Station to become Extension cotton specialist last October.

"Dr. Supak has conducted an outstanding educational program in sorghum, soybeans and small grains while serving as area agronomist," said Dr. John E. Hutchison, Extension Service director, in announcing the appointment. "He has also become quite familiar with cotton production in the South Plains area, and we feel that he can give the leadership needed to direct an intensive educational program on the top cash crop of this area of the state."

Supak will work closely with county Extension agents, county program building committees and the leaders of the South Plains Development Program in planning and conducting educational programs in cotton, with special emphasis on increasing production efficiency, noted Hutchison.

The specialist is a native of Williamson County and a graduate of St. Mary's High School in Taylor. He holds three degrees from Texas A&M University in the area of soil chemistry.

While in college Supak received the Distinguished Honor Award and the Agronomy Student Award. He was also selected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and was awarded a National Defense Educational Act (NDEA) Fellowship.

He is a member of the American Society of Agronomy and the Soil Science Society of America. Supak served three years in the U.S. Marine Corps. He and his wife, Patricia have four children.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Special early-bird Easter Sale! One-third off regular price! Many businessmen agree that there's nothing like such a sale to draw potential buyers to a store.

And most merchants feature a variety of special sales during the year. There may be mark-down sales, holiday sales, pre- or post-season sales, discontinued merchandise sales, or a host of others.

All of these sales could result in savings for bargain-minded consumers, too. But there is a small minority of businessmen who may attempt to attract consumers with deceptively advertised or misleading sales, according to lawyers in the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

They warn that a few merchants advertise "sales" almost continuously and that such "sales" may not offer prices that are any lower than regular prices.

The term "sale" generally should be used only to advertise significant reductions from a merchant's usual and customary price for the merchandise, and should continue for a reasonable period of time, not continuously.

Special "limited time" sales should be carefully observed by merchants. For example, a "one-day only" sale should be just that. Prices for goods should go back to regular prices immediately after expiration of the stated time.

"Introductory" sales should be for a limited time only, too, and the price should be increased to advertised regular price after such a period is over.

"Emergency," "fire," or other "distress" sales, or "going out of business" or "liquidation" sales should not be advertised unless the stated or implied condition is true. And these sales also should continue for only a specified time. A few merchants are reported to have been "going out of business" for several years. Consumer Protection attorneys note.

General claims by some stores that their prices are "guaranteed lowest in town," that they are "never under-sold," or that they offer the "highest trade-in allowances" should be taken with a grain of salt. It's highly unlikely that a merchant could have accurate, up-to-date knowledge of all prices at all stores.

However, some careful merchants who strive to make valid "lowest price" or similar claims advertise that they will refund the difference in price if a customer can bring proof that an item could have been purchased elsewhere in town for less.

Advertised savings of "up to 40 per cent off" for a group of items offered at a range of reduced prices could be misleading if only a few items in the group sold at such a savings. Advertisements in such cases should note maximum and minimum savings to avoid confusion, such as "savings from 10 to 40 per cent off on advertised items."

If you have a consumer complaint about misleading or deceptive advertising, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Not many things are more ridiculous than a civic leader without followers.

Goucher Tells About Rhine

By S.E. GOUCHER

I'd like to tell you about a river, the Rhine. Not a magnificent beauty. Because it's not. It's a mighty river of commerce and transportation. Also a railway on each side with trains that run rather close together.

The river runs into the north sea at Rotterdam. Holland Ocean ships unload their cargo and it is reloaded on river boats and railroad cars. The big ships are then reloaded with the products that come down the river from Germany, eastern France, Austria and Switzerland. No port in the world handles as much freight as Rotterdam.

The boats travel upstream to Basel Switzerland where a lot of heavy industrial products are made. We watched the great streams of water gushing out of the Alps of Switzerland which make it possible for boats to move so far from the ocean.

We transferred from our bus to a river boat near Munich, Germany and went downstream through the mountain passes. Back in the dark ages they built a lot of castles up on the peaks, looking down on the river. Lots of grapes are planted on the sides of the mountains. It all looks rather beautiful. Some people live in a few of the castles, but most of them are empty. Just relics of the past. The river was full of boats. I could see fifteen or twenty at all times. My guess is they would hold ten to fifteen loads each. People lived on them. The children played and the women hung clothes out to dry. Coal and logs seemed to be in great demand.

We returned to the bus near Köln, then on to Dusseldorf, Germany, through the Rhur Valley. What a sight! As far as we could see, there were huge smokestacks belching smoke. Hundreds of them. Big piles of coal and steel. Also factories everywhere. Roads and railways running all through the mess in haphazard fashion. Tiny little huts by the thousands for the imported workers to live in, along with high rise apartments to hold a lot of people with little space.

The air was hazy and dirty, all the buildings were black with soot, the only way it can be removed is the sandblast machine.

I keep thinking, if we sent all our environmentalists over there to the Rhur Valley and they went to work on those industrial giants, they would clean up the air and the buildings. But Germany would not be the industrial giant she is today, and a lot of people would lose their jobs.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD E. ALLGOOD

Miss Davis, Allgood Exchange Vows

Miss Charlotte Davis became the bride of Ronald E. Allgood, Friday, February 14 in the re-organized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Austin, Texas. Rev. Raymon Carson, of Olton, officiated the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Freman Davis of Lazbuddie and Mr. and Mrs. H.N. Allgood of Austin are parents of the couple. Altar decorations of two arrangements of yellow gladiolas and yellow and white daisies were accented by a spiral candelabra featured with fern and finishing the decor was the unity candle.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a formal length gown of royal blue velvet accented with a Victorian neckline and an empire waist. The bodice and cuffs of long full sleeves accented by white sa'in buttons. The dress fell into a chapel length train. The headpiece of white daisies finished the bride's attire. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies accented with yellow roses and baby's breath.

Reta Sue Davis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length yellow double knit dress accented with a V-neck and elbow length puffed sleeves. She wore a corsage of yellow mums and daisies.

Paul Hinchliffe of Austin served as bestman. Ushers were Jim Smith and Roger Friar, both of Austin.

After the wedding trip, the couple will reside in Austin, where the bride is employed at Texas Education Agency and the groom is employed at Sigmor Corporation.

Mr., Mrs. Ben Yeager Honored At Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Yeager, who were married February 15, were honored at a reception Saturday evening, March 8. Mr. and Mrs. E. D. (Dee) Chitwood were hosts in their home, 901 Ivy, and were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. R.D. (Dick) Chitwood.

Mrs. Yeager is the former Pat Chitwood Hutton and the daughter of the E.D. Chitwoods. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Yeager of Amarillo.

The Yeager's received approximately 150 guests during the open house calling hours of eight until eleven in the evening.

Mixed arrangements of spring flowers, including iris, daisies, ranunculus, gladiolas, daffodils and acacia, centered the two serving tables. At the formal bride's table laid with white damask and appointed with silver and crystal, silver punch bowls complemented the mixed floral arrangement. A second serving table featured the traditional brass and copper appointments in honor of the groom. Out-of-town guests included

Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Yeager, the groom's parents; Mrs. C. Lane McAfee, his aunt; and Mrs. Melaney Currie, a cousin, all of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Busch and Mrs. Cathy Busch Brown, parents and sister of Mrs. R.D. Chitwood, of Norman, Okla.

Carrots Good In Food Value And Economy

Carrot color is the key to carrot value, because the color is really carotene, which becomes Vitamin A when eaten. One medium-sized carrot gives us five thousand, five hundred international units of Vitamin A - and that's 500 more units than the recommended daily allowance for an adult. Also, according to a recent Nutrition Survey, many people in this country are deficient in Vitamin A.

Carrots are at produce counters all year 'round. Because of this, carrot prices are usually reasonable and they do not change greatly during the year, even with popular prepackaging in the one or two-pound packages. A pound of prepackaged carrots yields about two and a half cups of dice or shredded carrots - and provides five servings of one-half cup each.

Prepackaged carrots are topped by the grower as they are harvested. There are no tops to pay freight on and ice is not needed to keep useless tops cool, resulting in reduced transportation costs. Homemakers indicate a preference for the prepackaged carrots because they are usually fresher, crisper, cleaner, and there are no tops to dispose of. Carrots are usually prepackaged in one-pound cello bags; however, we now see quite a few two-pound packages on the market.

There are lots of ways to serve carrots raw. Crisp and slender strips of raw carrots are a popular relish tray item, they're so easy to prepare. Just brush or scrape the carrots, cut them into desired shapes and crisp them in ice water.

You can make carrot curls by cutting lengthwise slices "paper thin," roll each slice into curls, secure with a toothpick and crisp in ice water. These are excellent served with dips or with sandwiches.

For a real taste treat, try carrot cake. The carrots not only give the cake an extra good flavor, but help to keep it moist for days.

When you shop, keep in mind that there are many varieties of carrots - short carrots with blunt ends may be as tender as the long, slender varieties.

To be at their best, carrots must be crisp and firm, clean, fresh in appearance, smooth, well-shaped and a good, orange color.

Avoid wilted or soft carrots and those dull in appearance, broken or badly bruised or damaged by decay or defects. Also, shun over-sized carrots - that's usually a sign of a hard or pithy core.

Deep green shoulders indicate a bitter flavor, and a thick mass of leaf stems signals a tough core. Also, forked, gnarled or rough carrots will cause waste in preparation.

"Sew Fair" Scheduled

A "Sew Fair" will be held Thursday, March 13, in Friona at the Community Building located at the corner of Highway 60 and 214. The fair is being sponsored by four counties: Bailey, Parmer, Castro and Deaf Smith. In charge of the fair will be the Family Living Sub-Committee from each county and the home demonstration agents.

The Sew Fair will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 4 p.m. The afternoon program will be a repeat of the morning, so people can attend either the morning session from 10 a.m. until noon, or the afternoon session from 2 until 4 p.m.

There will be a concession stand and exhibits.

Three young specialists will present 30 minute programs with questions and answers. They will be Sally Olsen, Marsha Fredrickson and Becky Culp.

Plan Ahead For Income Tax Time

COLLEGE STATION -- Income tax time puts some people in a dither -- but a little organization can keep it from being a time of panic, one family resource management specialist said this week.

"Families can set up a filing and record keeping system that will help them know where they stand at anytime during the year," Mrs. Doris Myers, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

Turning to specific suggestions, Mrs. Myers said, "Separate receipts and cancelled checks into categories of expense as the monthly bills are paid."

"Record expenses into categories such as medicines and drugs, other medical expenses, contributions, interest, taxes and any other miscellaneous expense that might be a deduction."

Some of these kinds of expenses might be child care or other dependent care necessary for working outside the home. Or it may be dues to professional organizations or small tools and supplies used in employment.

The Internal Revenue Service publication "Your Federal Income Tax, Publication 17" will help in determining what other items to include under itemized deductions," Mrs. Myers said.

She suggested keeping the list of expenses separated in a file folder along with cancelled checks and receipts.

"At the end of the year it is an easy matter to total up each category to determine if there are enough expenses to justify deductions."

"Even if deductions don't amount to over 15 percent of the adjusted gross income, consumers can tell at a glance where their money has gone over the year. This helps plan for the next year," she said.

Two-Day Sew And Save Jamboree Scheduled

Women who sew, did you know: --Now you can sew many of your own home furnishings? --Recycling your wardrobe is easy with lots of imagination and not much expense? --It's possible to eat and drink, as well as wear cotton? This is just a small part of the sewing information that will be available to those attending the Sew and Save Jamboree, sponsored by the Curry, Roosevelt and Quay County Extension offices.

Representatives of local and national companies are pooling their sewing know-how to educate interested people. The Sew and Save Jamboree is set for March 18 and 19 at the Holiday Inn in Clovis. The Jamboree will run from 1:00 til 7:00 p.m. (MDT) on Tuesday the 18 and from 9:00 a.m. til 2:00 p.m. (MDT) Wednesday the 19. Admission is 50 cents per person.

Consisting of continuous exhibits and formal presentations, it will "help the consumer get up-to-date with the latest home sewing techniques, products and information", according to Mrs. Sheryl Borden, Curry County Extension Home Economist, with the Cooperative Extension Service of New Mexico State University.

Does making men's wear appeal to you? Want to learn pattern alterations? Interested in what's new in spring fabrics? Representatives from major sewing machine companies, experts from area fabric shops, as well as professional home economists will demonstrate special areas of home-sewing as well as provide answers to consumers' questions.

There will be twenty-five booths, featuring such things as: using underlings, interlinings and interfacing; sewing lingerie, menswear, swimwear, knits, and leather; pattern fitting and alteration; upholstering, just to mention a few. These booths will be set up for the public to view, much like at a county fair.

Printed literature and brochure about sewing and fabric care also will be available at no additional charge. Movies, slide sets and transparency programs will be presented in various booths.

Aiding in the planning of the Jamboree are the Extension

Home Economists from Roosevelt and Quay counties, Mrs. Ruth Ashley and Mrs. Travis Nelson.

Formal "sit-down" presentations begin Tuesday at 2:00 when Joy Best will demonstrate "Putting a Fly Zipper in Menswear", at 3:00 Alice Harelson will present a program on "Pockets"; at 4:00 Susan Wright, Extension Clothing Specialist, New Mexico State University, will discuss "How to Buy a Sewing Machine", followed at 5:00 with a program on "Pressing Equipment" by Layneigha Chapman, Home Economist for General Electric Company.

The Wednesday schedule begins at 9:00 a.m. with the first formal presentation at 10:00 by Alice Harelson, whose program is entitled "Tricks with Collars"; at 10:45 will be a repeat program by Joy Best; at 11:30 Susan Wright's program; and the final presentation at 1:00 by Layneigha Chapman.

In addition to the exhibits and formal presentations, a major pattern company will state a style show featuring mens, womens and childrens clothes for spring. The Style show will be at 6:00 p.m. (MDT) on Tuesday and again at 12:15 p.m. (MDT) on Wednesday.

The public is cordially invited to attend. Printed flyers have been mailed to many area residents. If you did not receive one, and would like a copy or more information on the Sew and Save Jamboree, please contact Mrs. Borden at 763-6505 or come by the county Extension office, located in the courthouse.

The Extension Homemakers' Clubs in all three counties are assisting with the Jamboree by setting up booths and demonstrating the latest techniques in many areas of sewing, acting as hostesses, and taking care of registration.

Don't be uninformed or out dated in the area of home sewing -- come to the Sew and Save Jamboree and learn What's New!

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discusses gardening this week, we think.

Dear Editor:
As I understand it, there's a tremendous interest in home gardens all across the country as more and more people realize they're going to have to take the battle against the high cost of food into their own hands.

Naturally there's going to be some disappointments as beginners start to discover whose side the weather's on and find out there's no way to get peas for example to come up already shelled and sealed inside a plastic bag. Also, when the insects start attacking those tender shoots a lot of city people with backyard gardens may re-study their opposition to chemical insecticides. Up to now, some city people have taken the position that it's all right to use an insecticide on roaches and ants in your home but if you use anything out in the fields it's likely to upset the balance of nature. Personally, I've never understood the phrase, "balance of nature." Anybody who has ever tried to farm or ranch ten years in a row knows there's nothing more unbalanced than nature, unless it's the market at harvest time, or Congress when it's called on to act in a hurry.

But back to gardening. I've been reading articles in the newspapers and magazines pointing out how small a plot of ground it takes to feed one person. A piece of ground 10 feet by 20 feet when properly tended will grow an enormous amount of food, if you've got a strong back, a garden hose, and enough money to pay the water bill. Years ago a man named Thoreau proved you can feed yourself on just a tiny plot of land out in the woods and not work over 30 or 40 hours a year, provided you go into town every other night and have supper with Mr. Emerson. You don't get biscuits and gravy out of a garden.

But the man who has reduced the amount of land it takes to make a living on down to the absolute minimum with the absolute smallest amount of work is an Arab sheik I read about. He does it on a piece of ground about three feet square. His oil well produces 40,000 barrels a day, which at $12 a barrel comes to $480,000 a day, which, even with inflation and all, is enough to get by on, provided you can get the U.S. to give you a cash rebate on all the military equipment you buy over here. Yours faithfully, J.A.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

You don't hear much about rabies in man because it doesn't occur too often. But, says the State Health Department, the possibility of rabies is a continuing threat. One reason is the existence of rabies in wild animals. Another is the unvaccinated pets which live with us and about us -- and the strays which are free to roam around. Last year's rabies report, tabulated by the State Health Department's Bureau of Veterinary Public Health, showed a marked increase in the state's rabies totals. During 1974 there were nearly 400 laboratory confirmed animal rabies cases in Texas. This represents an increase of 125 cases -- or a 46 percent rise -- over the cases which occurred in 1973. The big increase was in the number of dogs with rabies. While only seven dogs were found with rabies in 1973, this number jumped to nearly 90 during 1974. In addition, nine cats were found to be rabid. With all the human exposure associated with pets, it is easy to understand why State Health Department officials are concerned about having all pets protected against rabies. Last year, to protect persons who may have come in contact with a rabid animal, the State Health Department Laboratory supplied well over 1,000 series of antirabies treatments to people of Texas. This is one of the factors in the absence of rabies from humans. Health authorities are happy to point out that the last documented death due to natural exposure to rabies in Texas was in 1962. During 1972 one human death was attributed to the rabies virus but exposure was in a laboratory. Of some 400 cases of rabies reported last year, over 200 cases were confirmed in Texas wildlife, nearly 100 cases were in pets and over 40 cases were in livestock. In wildlife, which showed a 24.3 percent increase, skunks accounted for 132 cases, bats 76 cases, foxes 35 cases and raccoons 11 cases. In addition, rabies was found in a bobcat, opossum and ringtail. The opossum diagnosed as rabid was the first case of rabies found in that species since 1965 when one case was diagnosed. Here's something to consider about wildlife. Often an animal with the disease may lose its fear of humans -- and come right up to them. Anyone outdoors -- on a hike or picnicking should avoid any wild animal which acts strangely. It could be rabid. The 42 cases of rabies confirmed in livestock last year showed this breakdown: cattle 26 cases, horses 12 cases, sheep two cases and goats two cases. Rabies in livestock can be a rather dangerous situation for both farmers and ranchers and for veterinarians. Some of the early symptoms of rabies may mimic other diseases. Often in attempting to diagnose an animal's illness, a person will expose himself to rabies. During 1974, rabies cases were reported in 105 counties of the state, denoting its wide range from north to south and east to west. Largest number of cases was reported in El Paso County, where a large outbreak was reported in canines. Of the 81 confirmed cases, 75 were in dogs, three in bats and one each in a skunk horse and goat. El Paso at one time had an enviable record for the lack of rabies in dogs and cats. But that record was shattered last year despite a continuing program of picking up stray animals. During 1974 an average of 1500 unwanted animals per month were removed from the streets. Rabies may be of little concern to the average person these days, but to your State Health Department, local Health departments and veterinarians it still remains as a serious matter. You can do your part to insure the safety of your family and friends by having all pets vaccinated against this disease.  The man who gives advice to others rarely knows how to advise himself.

WASHINGTON REPORT BY
Lloyd Bentsen,
 United States Senator

It is time for Congress to shift its emphasis to the overlooked transportation problems of rural areas in Texas and across the country.

For the past twenty years, the Federal government has concentrated much of its resources on completion of the Interstate Highway System. Last year, a comprehensive mass transit bill was passed to help our cities move people as efficiently as possible through a blend of public and private transportation.

This year, as Chairman of the Senate Transportation Subcommittee, I intend to focus on the transportation problems of our less populated regions. And although they are different from those our cities face, the need for immediate solutions is equally great.

One of the paramount issues is future financing of highway construction.

The Administration favors a continuation of the Highway Trust Fund, but only for the completion of the Interstate System. This position has brought deep concern to local governments in Texas and other parts of the nation.

Counties are now responsible for maintaining and improving about two-thirds of all highways in the nation. They also control the bulk of the secondary road system and those urban systems created under the 1970 Highway Act.

STATE AND COUNTY ROADS NEGLECTED
 Unfortunately, many of these roads have been badly neglected since 1956, when this nation made an all-out commitment to the Interstate System. Yet, many of them are located in areas of heavy population growth. Many are important arteries serving thousands of people.

We can't afford to concentrate on the Interstate to the exclusion of these other needs. Whatever the structure of future Federal aid to highways, we must insure that county roads receive their fair share.

And there are other problems unique to our rural sections. Rail abandonment, with an average yearly decrease of 1000 linehaul miles, has a severe impact on agriculture at a time when it is under increased pressure to meet export demands. Those demands cannot be met without adequate transportation systems.

And the rural road picture is far from rosy. Only about one-fifth of our rural roads have a high load-bearing capacity and bridges on these roads are often in bad shape.

The Chief Engineer of the Texas Highway Department points out another problem -- the growing number of categorical programs eligible for Federal aid. So many projects have been added so fast that there are now 37 different programs, each with its own procedures and each receiving a different Federal share.

In order to deal with the mushrooming number of programs, the Texas Highway Department has had to increase its administrative work force by over 400 percent in the last few years. This trend especially must be reversed. We have to explore new methods of turning more Federal funds back to States, and giving the States more leeway to set their own priorities.

MAJOR CONCERN MUST BE PEOPLE AFFECTED
 Most importantly, in all that we do in transportation this year, we cannot think merely in terms of dollars spent, or miles of roads constructed, or even of jobs created. We have to think of the people who will be affected.

Many of our rural poor and elderly are geographically and economically isolated. Jobs depend on transportation. Without it, rural areas lose talented people, lose their tax base and either stagnate or fall far behind their urban counterparts. Without it, that rural factory in East Texas loses his livelihood when he can't get to his job. And that school child in West Texas must spend hours travelling to school.

In all our sophisticated talk about impoundments and recissions and deferrals, we cannot forget that transportation is not only the lifeblood of our economy but an essential of life for millions in Texas and across the country.

We cannot forget that human element. We considered it during the years we've devoted to completing our Interstate System. We considered in 1974 when we passed the mass transit bill to aid our congested cities. And, as Chairman of the Transportation Subcommittee, I will make sure we consider it this year, as we turn our time, energies and resources to the special transportation needs of our rural areas.
