Jaycee Easter Egg Hunt Set

The Muleshoe Jaycees will host the annual Easter Egg Hunt in Muleshoe Saturday, March 29, at 2 p.m. in the new city park. The eggs will be hidden in the area of the youth football field.

The annual hunt is for children 12 years old and under and it will be divided into four groups this year. The groups will be 10, 11 and 12 year olds; seven, eight and nine year olds; five and six year olds; and four years old and under.

There will be prize eggs and prizes donated by Muleshoe merchants will be given away.

Women Assisting With Painting Inventory

The Muleshoe Art Association and the American Association of University Women are assisting the National Collection of Fine Arts at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. in a Bicentennial inventory of all American paintings done before 1914.

One of the primary reasons for the inventory is to establish a list of these paintings so they may come to wider attention of researchers, and what could be a better time to do things than in connection with the celebration of American's 200th birthday.

No painting will be omitted from the list because it is thought to be unworthy of consideration by someone. Worthiness is in the eye of the beholder and owner. An object of negligible interest to the art critic may be of vital concern to the historian.

The inventory is intended to lead to discovery and recovery of all of American paintings executed before 1914. If you have a painting that was done before 1914 you are asked to call Mrs. Delbert Watson, 946-3679, Mrs. Jack Schuster, 946-3626, or Mrs. Jack Rennels at home 272-4989 in the

Prisoner Escapes From Jail

Michael James Thompson escaped from his cell in the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning, according to Sheriff's Deputy Bud Street.

The prisoner allegedly escaped by taking a steel plate off the back of a shower stall and then entered the outside hall where he apparently escaped through a window.

Street said Thompson was being held in jail on five counts of burglary. The escapee was still at large at presstime.

Holy Week Services Continuing

The Community Holy Week services are continuing at the First United Methodist Church this week.

Thursday's service will feature Rev. H.D. Hunter, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church, as the speaker. Rev. Walter Bartholf of the First Christian Church will be the worship leader, and Marvin Lewis will be the song leader. M.D. Gunstream will provide the special music, accompanied by organist Mrs. Elbert Hamilton.

On Friday, the speaker will be Father Tim Schwertner of the Catholic Church. Rev. Paul Pecina of the Assembly of God Mission will be the worship leader, and song leader will be Darrell Turner. Dean Spraberry will provide the special music and organist will be Marilyn Black.

The services have been held each day this week beginning at 12:05 p.m. Lunch will be served each day in the fellowship hall for a nominal charge of $1.00.

Harmon Elliott, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, reported that agriculture producers, nationwide, are becoming exceedingly alarmed at the economic situation facing them. At a time when their production costs are soaring 200 to 300 percent, they are witnessing drastic drops in their market prices to levels much below production costs. Markets have been lost due to interference by the government in normal export channels; livestock taken off feed due to bankruptcy of the feeding industry; and a general lack of confidence on the part of buyers of agriculture commodities.

Due to these lost markets, it is now apparent there will only be a need for approximately 80 percent of our projected 1975 feed grain and wheat production. It is estimated that prices of all grains will be cut in half if this excess 20 percent is produced. Conversely, a study by Iowa State University indicates that prices of grain would rise by 46 percent if acreage was cut by only nine percent.

Elliott says that is was because of this situation facing producers today that a meeting was called in Hereford on March 20 to discuss what can be done to avert a major agriculture disaster this summer and fall. The meeting was attended by 40 farmers, cattlemen, and bankers from across the panhandle and South Plains area. The result of this meeting was a unanimous decision to call together all farmers, cattlemen, agri-businessmen.

1975 Plates Required On Vehicles April 1

AUSTIN -- "Are you plated or belated?"

That's the question motorists may be facing after midnight, April 1, deadline for motor vehicle registration in Texas. After that time, law enforcement agencies have been instructed to stop motorists not displaying the 1975 plates to remind them of their licensing responsibilities.

Since February 1, county tax offices and selected substations throughout the state have been conducting registration business as usual. Early reports indicate the annual procedure, required of the state's 9.2 million motor vehicle owners, is running smoothly. However, many registrants traditionally wait until the "last minute" to react, resulting in longer lines and necessary delays.

According to a Highway Department spokesman, public response to the new five-year plate, being issued for the first time in Texas, has been good. In fact, motorists have shown an uncommon interest in the "label" their motor vehicle will wear through 1979.

In lieu of annual replacement, motorists will be issued an adhesive-type sticker beginning in 1976, that will update their plate for another year of driving. The sticker will be placed in the debossed upper left corner of the plate. The following year, the tag will be

SPD Annual Meeting Set For March 28

LUBBOCK -- The economic outlook of major cash crops of the South Plains will be focus of discussions in an annual meeting of the South Plains Development Program Friday, March 28, according to District Extension Agent Billy C. Gunter.

Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is keynote speaker for the event, which gets underway at 1:30 p.m. at Lubbock's Koko Inn, 50th and Avenue G.

South Plains Development Program, commonly known as SPD, is a volunteer organization of area citizens interested in the social and economic growth of the South Plains.

Included in SPD's program area are 19 counties extending from Bailey, Hale, Lamb and Floyd counties on the north to Andrews, Martin and Howard on the south, and extending east to Crosby and Garza counties.

Four other top speakers have been named to address the gathering of area leaders, industry representatives and guests. They are Donald Johnson, executive vice-president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. of Lubbock; Norman Brints, area economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Vernon; Dr. Roland Smith, Extension grain marketing economist from College Station; and Marvin Sartin, area Extension farm management economist of Lubbock.

Hutchison will speak on the concept of area economic programs, Gunter said. SPD is one of seven economic programs in the state. All are composed of leaders in the respective areas, with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, USDA and other public agencies providing guidance, resource and leadership assistance.

Afternoon agenda includes presentations on outlook of corn, grain sorghum, soybeans and cotton, and on criteria to use in selecting the most profitable crops.

A report on the economic status of the South Plains will conclude the annual event.

"This meeting will be of great interest to farmers who are deciding on the most profitable crop," said Gunter. "Information on price outlook, improved cultural practices and economic trends should be of importance to both producers and agribusinessmen."

Primary efforts in the SPD program, said Gunter, are generated by the program building committee of each of the participating 19 counties in the SPD area. Task forces spearhead the activities of these local groups, he added. They range from swine and cotton to machinery and a feed grain committee currently being organized.

Spring Planting Underway... March 17 Important Date... Census Forms Still Needed.

Texas generally enters the 1975 planting season with one of its best moisture supplies in years. There are exceptions of course, but good amounts of sub-soil moisture are reported over most of Texas.

And while farmers in the northern reaches of the state shiver from cold temperatures, planters are rolling in fields in South and Central Texas.

Grain sorghum planting for the state is already about 10 per cent complete which is well ahead of last year. Planting of sorghum has been reported as far north as the central Blacklands. Rapid progress will be seen in the coming weeks as temperatures begin to rise.

Cotton planting is underway in South Texas and will soon pick up momentum in other parts of the state in the coming weeks. Indications as of Jan. 1 project a 23 per cent cut in acreage for Texas this year.

Corn planting is now about 10 per cent complete, and is also well ahead of a year ago. Rice seeding is in progress along the Upper Gulf Coast.

Meanwhile, wheat continues to make good growth on the High and Low Plains. Livestock have been moved off fields where a grain crop is expected. Prospects at this time are described as excellent.

Peach trees have been blooming from Central Texas south. Pecan trees are budding in most southern areas. Citrus harvest is virtually complete. Vegetable harvest is underway in the Valley and Winter Garden areas.

All in all, farmers are either busy planting, or preparing to plant for the 1975 season.

WHILE ALL THIS ACTIVITY is going on, farmers are also waiting-as are others-for March 17. That's the date for the March 1 planting intentions report which should provide a good insight into the anticipated acreages for major crops this year.

That report will be read more closely than ever because of renewed interest in food and fiber production.

CONDITION OF LIVESTOCK, particularly in the eastern half of the state, is poor. This is due to malnutrition as well as an increase in internal parasites. Low cattle prices are also causing many livestock producers to follow less than normal animal husbandry practices.

HALF AND HALF. That's about the situation regarding the 1974 agriculture census. About half the forms have been returned; about half have yet to be returned.

Officials of the Census Bureau are urging farmers to complete the forms as soon as possible and return them. Farm owners are required to answer the questions which apply to their particular operation.

Census officials again emphasize the returns will be treated in strictest confidence. No other government agency will have access to the report. Individual reports will be compiled into county, state and national totals.

Farmers who have difficulty in answering any question should contact the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office with which they do business. ASCS is the "answer man" for this project.

Information obtained in the census is used for a host of agriculture programs, and is the basis of information on which to project the nation's agriculture production as well as other important data on farms and ranches.

John Tower United States Senate

I want to report to you today on what I think is one of the most encouraging developments that has taken place so far in the 94th Congress.

I have been concerned for a long time about the way in which Congress and the Administration have been "tilting" energy policies in favor of the Northeast at the expense of other regions of the country, in particular the South and West.

We will all have to sacrifice if we are to begin to overcome our energy problems, which are very real. We know that and we're willing to do our share. But virtually every energy proposal that has been made by the majority in Congress, or put forth from the White House, would make Southerners and Westerners do most of the sacrificing. And that simply isn't fair.

For instance, under the plan the Federal Energy Administration is considering for passing on the higher costs of the President's proposed tariff on imported oil, Texans would be expected to pay an additional 50 cents per barrel of crude oil, while New Englanders would have to pay only 24 cents more.

This would come about because the FEA is planning to "weight" the price increases on petroleum products so that more of the burden would be borne by gasoline and less by home heating oil and other petroleum products.

That's fine for the northeast where people live close together and where alternative forms of transportation usually are available. But in the South and West, where the automobile is a virtual necessity to rich and poor alike, the impact of the proposed policy clearly is discriminatory.

Unfair as the proposed Ad-stuck in the upper right corner to cover the debossed "75," and alternated for the ensuing years. Once in place, the tags cannot be easily removed without deterioration, a part of the plan to discourage vandalism or theft.

ministration plan is in some respects, it is much less discriminatory than the alternatives to it being proposed by some Congressional leaders. Their plans would call for placing the entire burden on a higher gasoline tax, or impose some form of gasoline rationing. Whereas the President's proposal would be somewhat harmful to the interests of the South and West, these alternatives would be catastrophic.

A major cause of this discrimination against the South and West is the effectiveness of a tightly organized lobby of New England lawmakers who work together to benefit the interests peculiar to their region. They have been pushing for policies that benefit the Northeast at the expense of the rest of the nation, and -- largely because they have met no opposition -- they have succeeded.

I said at the outset of this broadcast that I wanted to report to you on an encouraging development, and I know I haven't sounded very encouraging so far.

The encouraging development, to me, is that lawmakers from the South and West are moving now to protect the legitimate interests of their states. A month ago I sent a letter to the Senators and Congressmen representing the twelve largest oil and natural gas producing states. I suggested in that letter that we form a bipartisan "producers

This meeting is scheduled for Monday, March 31, 1975 at 8 p. m. at the Bull Barn in Hereford. This will be a most important meeting and all area farmers, cattlemen, bankers and agribusinessmen, and their wives are strongly urged to be in attendance. Representatives of commodity groups from all areas of the nation will be invited to attend to report the actions being taken in their areas.

caucus" to counter the lobbying efforts of the lawmakers from the Northeast.

I'm heartened and encouraged by the response I've received so far. As of March 6, fourteen senators and 36 congressmen have indicated to me that they would like to sit down and talk about forming a producers caucus.

I am encouraged and heartened not only by the number of responses, but by the enthusiasm for this venture that I have found among Southerners and Westerners of both parties.

The prominence of many of those who have indicated an interest in the producers caucus indicates that the caucus, once formed, should be an effective force.

I am certainly pleased that the largest number of respondents -- eighteen -- are from Texas.

The next step is for us all to get together to organize formally and to plan strategy.

It would be presumptuous of me to predict what policies the producers caucus will pursue because those will be collective policies decided upon by all the members of the producers caucus.

Whatever it is we decide to do, it is urgent that we take some action soon. The liberal majorities in both houses of Congress are pushing for measures that would impact severely on all Texans. We must be able to move effectively to prevent passage of harmful legislation. I am confident that we will be.

USDA Proposes Review System For State Food Stamp Program

States would be required to develop systems for monitoring and improving their administration of the food stamp program under an amendment to food stamp regulations that was proposed today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The proposed change implements amendments to the Food Stamp Act included in Public Law 93-347, approved last year. That law authorizes USDA to provide 50 percent of state food stamp administrative costs (see USDA press release 3636-74). It also directs USDA's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) to determine whether or not a state is running the program efficiently and effectively and to withhold federal administrative funds if a state fails to do so. Under the proposed amend-

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Many homeowners view the beginning of warm weather as the ideal time to get house and yard in shape for a long summer of enjoyment.

But lawyers in the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division caution that this is also a favorite season for unscrupulous door-to-door salesmen and repairmen to solicit home improvement jobs.

These operators pop up as regularly as Texas bluebonnets each spring, selling aluminum siding, patio additions, pest control, new roofs, remodeling, and other jobs.

And while some door-to-door solicitors for such jobs are legitimate, our Consumer Protection attorneys emphasize that you should be especially careful to determine this in advance. That's because itinerant businessmen can disappear just as fast as they appeared on your doorstep. It's important to make sure you'll be dealing with someone who won't pull such a disappearing act after he has your money but before he completes your job.

Legitimate construction and pest control businesses and siding salesmen are as eager to see that consumers get a fair shake as consumers themselves, since they realize that unscrupulous practitioners of their trade can give the entire industry a bad name.

Some complaints about fraudulent home remodeling or repair solicitors indicate that work was not completed within the stated time limit or sometimes not at all, that construction or repairs were not performed in a workmanlike and satisfactory manner, that inferior materials were used, or that the final price far exceeded the price agreed to orally.

Problems with unscrupulous door-to-door pest control inspectors include complaints about "inspectors" who carry containers of termites and rotted wood with them when they make their "free inspection" of a house. Such an inspection virtually always results in a recommendation that a complete pest control job be started immediately. In some cases, repair of "structural damage" is also recommended.

Complaints about aluminum siding salesmen sometimes come from persons who were told they would get a "special discount price" if their house could be used as a "demonstration model." The salesman indicates that a sign will be put up for a certain number of days, with the homeowner getting a $10 discount for each day of advertising. Often the sign is never put up, and the "special discount price" usually was the regular price of the siding.

Our Consumer Protection Division recommends taking these precautions to avoid having possible problems later: Tell the door-to-door salesman you want to think over his offer, then get three other estimates for the job he proposes. Get a written estimate from the person you pick and make sure the starting and completion dates are included, along with total cost, description of work, type of materials, any guarantees, and method of payment.

Cotton Acreage Down This Season

Growers intend to plant 10,000,000 acres of all cotton in 1975, 9.9 million to upland and 67,200 to American Pima, according to the USDA's Crop Reporting Board. If realized, this acreage will be down 29 percent from the 14.0 million acres planted in 1974 and the lowest since 1967.

Texas and Oklahoma upland growers intend to plant 4.7 million acres, five percent more than was intended January 1 but 20 percent less than 1974 plantings. Planting has started in southern areas of Texas.

Parents Teach Nature Appreciation

COLLEGE STATION -- Interested parents can find excellent opportunities to help their children enjoy and appreciate nature during springtime outdoor activities, Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist, said this week.

"Many attitudes a child forms depend on examples his parents set. When parents respect living plants, trees and wildlife they see, then children learn that living things are valued and have a definite purpose," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said.

Parents would do best to teach children to study insects, snakes and other wildlife from a distance, though. Wild creatures might bite, sting or cause injury if they are suddenly frightened by a curious child. But from a safe distance, wildlife can be safely studied and admired, the Texas A&M University System specialist pointed out.

"Through careful observation, a youngster can learn to recognize and appreciate the variety and adaptability he sees in nature.

"Accepting responsibility for keeping the environment clean and in its natural state for others to enjoy can be taught through examples and clear, simple explanation. Children need to know why they should look but not touch," she said. They also need help in understanding the possible consequences of their actions if they do not follow a parent's guidance, she reminded.

"However, attempts to frighten a child so he will behave in a specific way won't help him understand or enjoy his surroundings.

"Parents can best help children appreciate and respect nature by providing a variety of opportunities for the child to explore and learn more about his world. If a child knows how to respond in a certain situation and what to expect, then he will enjoy the experience more," she explained.

Respect for a person's ideas and feelings, even if you disagree with what he is saying, helps improve communications, Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reminds.

So far, science has developed no process to make pupils eager to study.

Support Urged For Easter Seal Appeal

A further request for support of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its program of services to the handicapped was issued today by Jimmie Crawford who is the Easter Seal Representative in Bailey County.

The Easter Seal Society provides treatment and services for 20,152 physically handicapped children and adults in Texas last year, and this program needs to be expanded. Many people are going without services that would increase the productiveness of their lives and make them happier. Increased public support of the Easter Seal Society will enable more and more of these people to be reached.

The Society is carrying out a continuing program to seek out the disabled who are doing without services and see that they received the help they need. As Easter Seal Representative, Crawford is the person to contact for services from the Easter Seal Society.

The Easter Seal Appeal continues through Easter Sunday, March 30 and full support by every citizen was urged.

Hard work has never killed a man really interested in the work he does.

Former Local Family Wins FHA Award

The Loyd W. Vaughn family of Deaf Smith County has won the 1974 Texas Farmers Home Administration Farm Family of the Year Award, according to an announcement by J. Lynn Futch, State Director of the Farmers Home Administration in Temple. They are former residents of the West Camp area in Bailey County.

The Vaughn family of 213 Ranger, Hereford, Texas, was selected from eighteen district winners nominated for the award. This is the fifth year that the Agency has selected a state winner. Those nominated are farm families who have made outstanding success through the use of Farmers Home Administration credit in developing a family farm, while at the same time contributing to the betterment of agriculture and their community.

Futch stated that the State Selection Committee had a difficult job in determining the final winner due to the outstanding programs of all families nominated.

The Vaughn family owns and operates a 323 acre irrigated farm with an additional 290 acres of rented land. Primary crops grown on this land are wheat and milo. Immediate plans are to seed 50 acres of improved grasses, cross fence, and add a cow-calf operation. Starting in 1965 with Farmers Home Administration financing, the Vaughn Family, through improved management practices, hard work, and the wise use of credit, has been able to develop a most successful and profitable family farm, while at the same time exemplifying rural community leadership and citizenship at its best. The Vaughns have three sons and all are active in school, church and community affairs.

As a state winner, the Vaughn family will compete for the National Farmers Home Administration Farm Family of the Year Award in Washington in April.

Mrs. Gregory Named Chairman

Mrs. Claude Gregory Jr. has been named chairman of the Breath of Life Campaign to fight children's lung diseases, according to Chuch Laurent, president of the Lone Star Chapter, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Mrs. Gregory, Lazbuddie, Texas, will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lung-damaging diseases like cystic fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, and a condition called "childhood emphysema".

Cystic fibrosis, an incurable genetic disease, is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene for C/F. It is believed that one in twenty persons or 10 Million Americans may carry the C/F gene, usually without knowing it. Current research funded by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is seeking a practical test to identify these carriers.

Because of improved therapy and constant research, many C/F patients are living beyond infancy to their teens and into young adulthood. That same kind of therapy is relieving and often curing children suffering from other respiratory afflictions whose symptoms resemble those of C/F.

The Breath of Life Campaign supports not only research but over 100 C/F Centers for diagnosis and treatment across the country, six of which are located within Texas.

Seven 4-H members from Bailey County participated in the District 2 4-H Food Show held at Texas Tech on Saturday, March 22, 1975. Dishes that were displayed featured Southwest Foods.

Alta Ramm and Sheila Hunt received red ribbons. Alta prepared an Apricot Bread for the Snacks and Beverage division and Sheila was entered in the Side Dish Class with Stuffed Orange Halves.

Among the junior members participating were Staci Vandiver, Jo Rhonda Rhodes, Tim

Sain and Keva Roming. Keva and Tim took blue ribbons in the main dish and snacks and beverage classes. Staci and Jo Rhonda were red ribbon winners in the Bread and Dessert and Side Dish classes.

Easter, 1975

Easter, the principal ecclesiastical event of the year, gets its name from Eostre, a Teutonic goddess, whose festival was celebrated in the spring. Her name was given to the Christian festival, as it was she, according to legend, who opened the portals of Valhalla to receive the White God and Sun God, representing purity and light.

The Christian observance, this year on the 30th, is a symbol of the Resurrection, and intertwined with many religious customs and observances, some dating back hundreds of years before the time of Jesus Christ.

The Easter egg became associated with Easter because eggs were forbidden to be eaten during Lent and on Easter Sunday they were traditionally served. The Easter egg, though, dates back to the Egyptians and Persians, and also the Greeks and Romans, who ate eggs annually in spring festivals.

In any event, it's appropriate that Easter comes in the spring, when the renewal of life is so apparent. Sunrise services in our churches—an observance of recent origin in most churches—symbolize the Resurrection at sunrise. This practice is observed in practically all churches today as a symbol of hope, inspiration and faith.

Geneva

Some diplomats, both here and abroad, are beginning to conclude peace in the Middle East might be obtained more quickly, if it's possible to attain it, at a Geneva peace conference.

This may sound odd to those who have until now put their faith in Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's step-by-step approach. But some in Israel and in the State Department are beginning to wonder if the Geneva conference, so long urged by Moscow, might not be as good a gamble as step-by-step, largely with Egypt alone.

They reason piecemeal withdrawals from occupied Arab countries (Egypt, Jordan and Syria) cannot obtain for Israel the overall guarantee of peace which is her basic and primary aim. On the other hand, Israel will not give up all or most of the 1967-occupied territories, and recognize a Palestinian state, for less.

At Geneva, any settlement would presumably be backed by both the United States and Russia, and very likely by the United Nations also. That would mean much to Israel, especially in view of the fact a part of the peace settlement would have to be agreement on all sides, including the Palestinians, that Israel's borders are inviolate and that Israel's right to exist is accepted.

Only for such a broad guarantee, backed by Washington, Moscow and the U.N., can an Israeli government politically justify giving up the land she occupied in 1967, today a buffer or protective zone acting as security for Israel in the event of Arab attack. Morally, a case can, of course, be made for withdrawal without a worldwide guarantee but, from the standpoint of political reality, such a withdrawal is only likely in exchange for such a guarantee.

And Geneva, while it might not produce a peace settlement but evolve instead into propaganda forum, may be worth a gamble because of the chance a permanent settlement might be reached at one conference.

WASHINGTON NEWS REPORT

The Presidency—
The Politics—
The G.O.P. Scramble—
The Demo Scramble—

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The office of President may be an awesome responsibility and the job may be strenuous but there are always a wholesale number of ambitious politicians scrambling to fill it.

Currently the hottest item in Republican ranks is the ambitious campaign of White House Chief of Staff Donald Rumsfeld. A Nixon appointee who survived the deluge, he has inherited the old Halderman-Haig staff, and that effective organization is boosting Rumsfeld at every turn.

Helping most is Rumsfeld himself, who is alert to every chance to score with key people, highly capable as an administrator, very impressive in personal appearance and a smart politician. The way his backers see it, he would step into the middle-road spot as the compromise choice between Ronald Reagan and Nelson Rockefeller if President Ford should decide not to run, or if any untoward event prevents him from running. Rumsfeld's chances are almost nil, of course. White House chiefs-of-staff just do not move up into the big chair. His fans, however, are quick to point out he was a Congressman, which supposedly makes a difference.

On the Democratic side, there are those who continue to inject the Ted Kennedy name into the 1976 race. Even two well-known but sometimes off-the-mark columnists have recently called on Kennedy to again issue a Sherman-like statement on his intentions. That, of course, isn't necessary. It's true that no dominant figure is emerging from the Democratic camp; that's one reason for the Kennedy talk. But the Senator meant what he said and will not become a 1976 candidate. He has plenty of time and risks serious embarrassment in any 1976 bid and knows it.

THE NOT SO DARK HORSE

WASHINGTON REPORT BY Lloyd Bentsen, United States Senator

Late last month, four A&M University students doing field work in the mountains of Northern Mexico were severely bitten by a rabid animal.

The incident touched off a crisis which, in the end, gave gratifying proof that the massive bureaucracy of the United States government can respond to American citizens in immediate need.

By the time my office was called in on the case, precious hours had already elapsed from the time the students were bitten. The students had somehow got word of their pig to the Medical Center in Brownsville. And, not knowing exactly where to turn for help, the doctors at the Center called in the Coast Guard in Texas.

However, the mountains of Northern Mexico in the vicinity of San Carlos are hardly accessible by common means. Despite the quickness of their response, Guardsmen soon discovered that there was only one way the students would be able to be reached.

That one way was by air -- and then, only by helicopter. This is when the authorities in Texas turned to me. By this time they were desperate. Unless the anti-rabies treatment was begun within a matter of hours, there was no medical way the students could be saved.

BRAVING THE RED TAPE TANGLE
We tried the State Department first and hit a blank wall. Turning to the Defense Department, we found officials there impressed enough with the urgency of the situation to give us their total cooperation.

There are only a handful of helicopters large enough and with enough fuel capacity to make a round-trip, non-stop flight to transport the students as a group to the Brownsville Medical Center. Luckily, one such helicopter was located in Corpus Christi.

The problem then became one of getting permission from the Mexican government to enter their air space. We went to the Mexican embassy here and called our own embassy in their country. Together with the cooperation of top officials in the Mexican Department of Defense, our emergency flight to the mountains of Northern Mexico was approved.

Calls then went out to our own Federal Aviation Administration, in order to re-enter American air space coming back from Mexico, we needed their approval. And, we got it.

Throughout all this, we were in constant contact with the doctors in Brownsville, making sure that we were still within the all-too-brief time limit they had specified. Four incredibly hectic hours had elapsed from that initial desperate call to my office. But, we had made it.

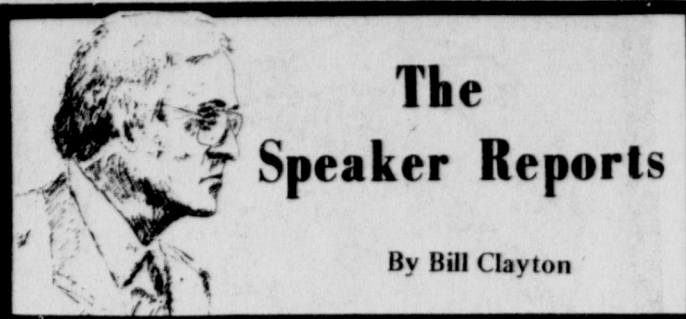

The helicopter was in the air and the students would soon be under the care of our physicians in Texas.

GOVERNMENT BUREAUCRACY PROVES RESPONSIVE
Many criticisms are leveled at the multi-layered bureaucracy that holds up America's system of government. The overlapping jurisdictions, the endless red tape, the impassive walls of secretaries to the secretary, have given birth to an unfortunate image of our government as some sort of lumbering giant with impossibly slow reflexes.

And, to be frank, this reputation is all too often deserved. But it is especially important to remember that, in cases of emergency and when the lives of American citizens are at stake, that lumbering giant can snap to attention. It can be made to work. It can respond.

There are four young men and their families in Texas that will testify to this. Their story is not only an instance where the Federal bureaucracy came through, but it is a case study of what can be accomplished through the cooperation of all the distinct governments involved.

From the local and state authorities in Brownsville, Corpus Christi and Texas to the high level officials here in Washington and in Mexico, the crisis was resolved with both human sympathy and cooperative efficiency.

The Speaker Reports

By Bill Clayton

On March 7, I held a news conference to denounce the U. S. Senate Oil and Gas Products and Distribution Subcommittee for refusing to hear public testimony on a number of energy bills which could rock the foundation of this state's economy.

No public testimony was heard and the subcommittee started mark-up on the bills March 11. Among the proposals being railroaded through this committee are:

1. Set a price ceiling on new natural gas at the wellhead at 75 cents per Mcf. The price of new intrastate gas in Texas is now deregulated and currently selling from $1.70 to $2 per Mcf. The reduced price would curtail production of marginal wells and diminish the incentive for full production. Texas has shown that there is an over-demand for deregulated intrastate gas at higher prices. To control the market would only depress the economy and discourage production at a time when there is a shortage of domestic energy.

2. Prohibit boiler use of natural gas. Many utility companies are now in the process of renegotiating contracts with natural gas suppliers. This provision would not give these companies enough time to convert their energy sources to fuel oil, lignite or coal.

3. Give the Federal Power Commission authority to breach contracts in "emergency" situations. This provision states that the company would be compensated at the same rate as the highest gas sold by the company, plus any additional price the FPC deems necessary. This would encourage companies to go along with federal attempts to preempt state authority and drive Texas-contracted gas from the state at higher prices than currently being sold.

4. Make all new transportation and gathering facilities common carriers. This would put additional controls on an economy that is already feeling the strangulation of too much regulation. Letting the market system determine its own course seems to be a lesson we have yet to learn.

5. Instigate oil import quotas. This would drastically drive up the price of domestic oil and put the burden of the increased price on the back of the consumer.

6. Rollback the price of crude oil. This would decrease the incentive to drill and frustrate producers who have made investments within the present price structure. It would perpetuate the two-tiered price system.

7. Establish a National Energy Supply Corporation. This would place the government in competition with private industry. It is the first step toward complete nationalization of our oil and gas industries. Its presence in a free market system would only serve to further discourage and depress domestic oil production.

It seems that both Congress and the President are out to discourage future production of oil and gas, mandate future recession and move in the direction of nationalizing our oil companies. Such policies demand strong reaction from Texas and other oil-producing states.

Stopping or slowing down the leasing of state-owned lands for drilling is one of the most effective ways of telling the federal government that Texas is not willing to stand by while our prices are cut and our resources depleted.

The Texas Senate has already unanimously passed a bill which would keep gas produced on state-owned lands in the state unless there was a surplus.

It is time for Texans to seriously consider such proposals if the federal government continues to disregard the nation's oil-rich states.

I believe we should unite and focus on the following energy policy alternatives:

1. Maintenance of the Oil Depletion Allowance
2. Gradual deregulation of all oil and gas
3. Plowback guarantees on a windfall profits tax
4. An all-out effort to develop nuclear power plants and other potential energy sources.

Texas leads all other states in both the production and consumption of natural gas. We produce 38 per cent of the nation's gas and consume 58 per cent of that gas.

We are currently producing at capacity and continue to run the risks of capital investment losses and environmental hazards in offshore and inland exploration.

Texas is tired of bearing the burden of domestic oil and gas production for the rest of the nation, while sustaining attacks from the federal government. It is time we unite together in pronouncing a strong energy policy which will benefit all states.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Legislators are getting nervous over new reform laws which restrict their political fund-raising. House Speaker Bill Clayton has advised representatives to postpone their efforts to retire campaign debts until after the legislative session in view of warnings by a district attorney. Travis County District Attorney Robert O. Smith told House leaders direct solicitation of Austin-based lobbyists for contributions to campaign war chests is a violation which he would feel called on to take before a grand jury. The issue came to Smith's attention when a Texas Civil Liberties Union official, who is a registered lobbyist, complained that he had been solicited for a contribution to a representative's fund-raising reception in Dallas.

A provision of the new penal code makes it an offense for a legislator to solicit any benefit from a person known to have an interest in legislation. There are less-strict interpretations than the one by Smith, but the district attorney is the one lawmakers feel they must stay on the right side of.

Serious attention is being given to amending some of the laws passed in 1973—particularly the penal code provisions which cast a legal cloud on a lawmaker's accepting a "benefit" from a person who has an interest in any matter before the legislature or "contemplated" by the legislature.

LOSS REPORTED

A Texas Education Agency indicates students lost more than 2.4 million in tuition refunds they should have received from 19 proprietary schools.

When a student quits, he is supposed to get back the unused portion of his tuition within 30 days.

Woodrow W. Bean of El Paso, State Board of Education member, called on Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Atty. Gen. John Hill for a complete audit of all Texas Education Agency financial transactions during the last four years.

Bean charged refund losses may be as much as $5 million to $8 million. He also claimed (while admitting he could not confirm) that about $105 million in public funds administered by TEA has been "misused, misapplied or otherwise lost somewhere."

SMOKE BAN VOTED

Smoking in public places could bring a stiff fine under a bill just passed by the Texas Senate and sent to the House.

The ban covers elevators, theaters, movie houses, libraries, museums, hospitals, school facilities, intrastate buses, planes or trains—except in specifically designated areas.

SCHOOLS CRITICIZED

Some public schools and junior colleges have been criticized by House members for allegedly using emergency funds to raise teachers' pay, make investments and pave parking lots. Rep. Tom Massey of San Angelo, House Education Committee chairman, said a special report is being compiled on the "abuse." Rep. Fred Head of Troup proposed to repeal an $18 million emergency grant to meet junior college enrollment increases.

COURTS SPEAK

The State Supreme Court again upheld constitutionality of a law permitting legislator-lawyers to delay trials in which they represent clients. The Court said the continuance provision may not be used if only enforcement of prior court orders are involved, however.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a negligent homicide conviction of a Hillsboro man because the jury assessed an improper punishment of two years in jail.

Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld power of the State Finance Commission to prohibit savings and loan associations from offering premiums to lure new accounts.

In an order applauded by the Attorney General as the beginning of a statewide enforcement effort, a Bexar County district judge granted an injunction to prohibit air pollution by a rendering plant.

AG OPINIONS

Attorney General Hill warned legislators they may be overstepping the law by accepting speech-making honorariums from groups interested in legislation.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- The open meetings law applies to hospital authorities created by city ordinance.
- Texas Coastal and Marine Council has no authority to supplement the legislatively-determined salary of its executive director.
- Port of Houston Authority may appoint and employ peace officers, and the officers may carry handguns while on duty.
- Proposed annexation of school district territory must be approved by a majority of trustees in the receiving district.
- Kidney Health Care Act benefits may not be denied to aliens.

APPOINTMENTS

Edward P. Halbert of San Augustine was reappointed to Texas Animal Health Commission by Governor Briscoe.

Briscoe also named Mrs. Naomi Andrews of Houston, B. DuBois Brown of San Antonio and Dr. John B. Coleman of Houston to the board of regents of Texas Southern University.

Attorney General Hill appointed W. J. Murdaugh Jr. chief of his bonds and charitable trusts division, succeeding Mike Willatt who resigned to enter private law practice in Austin.

Dr. Phyllis Procter has been appointed manager of research and program development for Texas Industrial Commission.

SHORT SNORTS

Texas' traffic death toll for 1974 was 3,046, representing a saving of 646 lives from the record 3,692 highway deaths of 1973.

Campfire Girls and Boy Scouts can sell their candy and cookies and other goodies without paying sales taxes under a bill passed by the Senate.

Claudia Brummett of Alvarado, Alicia Chacon of El Paso and Lem Allen of Kingsbury are new Texas members of the National Democratic Committee.

The House reversed ground and rejected a bill requiring the state to pay 100 per cent of right-of-way buying for U.S. and state highways.

Sinking of 12 ships for artificial fishing reefs at four locations along the Texas coast has been approved as a Texas Coastal and Marine Council project.

An authorization to purchase $29,928,000 worth of rice under Public Law 480 has been issued to Bangladesh, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said recently.

Farm Bureau Asks Support For Target Price Levels

WACO--The president of the Texas Farm Bureau recently asked Texas Congressmen to support target price levels "which will provide insurance against major financial loss, but which will also allow the market system to function realistically."

Services Held Wednesday For Hattie May

Mrs. Hattie M. May, 72, died Monday, March 24, at West Plains Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Wednesday morning in the Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home Chapel of the Chimes, officiating was Rev. Jimmy Low of Plainview.

She was taken to the First United Methodist Church in Custer City, Oklahoma where she laid in state from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m. Graveside services were held at 6 p.m. Wednesday in the Masonic Cemetery in Custer City, Oklahoma. Officiating there was L. Neal Kennedy. Arrangements were under the direction of Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. May, born at Custer City, has been a Muleshoe resident for six years, coming here from Oklahoma City. She was a member of the Church of the New Covenant.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Jo Anne Head of Muleshoe and Mrs. Helen McDonald of Alton, Mo.; a son, J.P. of Norman, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. Tina Miller of Custer City, Mrs. Dorcas Gossett of Riverside, Calif., and Mrs. Alice Gossett of Alameda, N.M.; a brother, Phillip Graves of Salt Lake City; and eight grandchildren.

Carroll Chaloupka of Dalhart said target prices in a pending emergency one-year farm bill would "stimulate over-production, result in a loss of markets, assure a build-up of surplus stocks, and guarantee depressed prices over the long-run for producers of affected agricultural commodities."

"We have been down that road before," Chaloupka said in a telegram to members of the House from Texas.

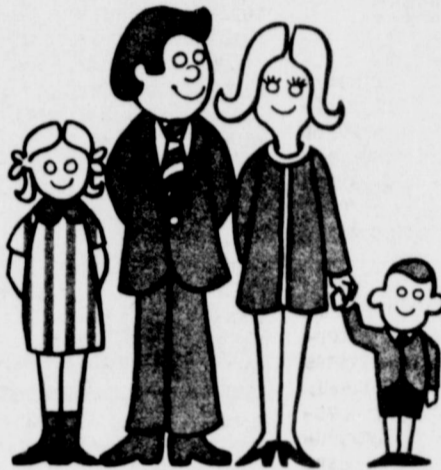

The House is expected to vote Tuesday (March 18) on H. R. 4296 which increases target prices, loan and purchase levels on the 1975 crops of upland cotton, wheat and feed grains; sets loan rate on soybeans; and establishes a price support level for milk.

"We deeply appreciate efforts of Congress to come to the aid of farmers and ranchers who are economically depressed," the leader of the state's largest farm organization said. "However, over-reaction to the current situation may prolong the depression rather than alleviate current financial stress."

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm gets riled up this week over some Congressmen's opinion of the American people, we think.
 Dear editor:
 I was alternately reading a newspaper and wondering if I could interest the CIA in finding a garden plow I lost somewhere around this place a few years ago, I know it's somewhere out there in the weeds and if the CIA has a few thousand dollars left over from its submarine job and can't think of anything else to do it's welcome to start looking - I won't tell anybody - when I ran into an article on the latest dope on the tax rebate Congress is fiddling around with.
 According to it, some members of Congress are objecting to a tax refund for everybody on the grounds it wouldn't stimulate the economy because too many people would just take the money and pay off some debts or sock it away in the bank. "You can't stimulate the economy that way," they argue. "The money ought to go to people who'll spend it."

 This argument is a slander on the American people. If there's one thing you can trust the people to do it's to spend whatever handout they can get their hands on, from a $200 rebate to an average citizen to $200,000,000 to an average railroad. It's pretty clear those Congressmen must come from some part of the country nobody else has ever heard of.
 Speaking of Congress, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said the other day that he wouldn't have arranged the Paris peace agreement that stopped the fighting in South Vietnam a couple of minutes at least two years ago if he'd thought Congress wouldn't continue to appropriate money for that beleaguered country.
 This is puzzling. You'd think that a man who has taught at Harvard and has been Secretary of State for several years and living right there in Washington would have learned you can't predict what Congress will do even tomorrow, not to mention two years hence.
 Say, back to the rebates, there's a guy not far from here who has owed me $21.50 for four years and I was just thinking, you reckon he has refused to pay me because he thought I'd slow down the economy by socking it in a bank? Yours faithfully,
