Kerr Compares Cost Of Farming Tuesday

Earnest Kerr, manager of the Federal Land Bank in Muleshoe, was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club meeting Tuesday, June 10. Kerr compared the farming in 1961 and 1975. Kerr stated that through modern technology and research the area farmers have doubled production on corn, wheat and cotton.

Kerr gave facts about farmers being big spenders. They spend $1.5 billion on cars, and three billion dollars on plows, harvest machinery and other equipment. They also spend more for food, clothing and entertainment than in 1961. The cost of farming has gone up. The average farmer invests in approximately 200-300 thousand dollars in his farm. The cost of production is at such a high level today that it takes 75% of every sales dollar to produce a crop.

Kerr also stated that farming is a risky business compared to other businesses. Weather and prices play an important part in farming. Unlike most industries when a farmer plants he has no way to determine what the outcome will be or what the amount of in-

Arthritis March Nets $2507.29

Mrs. Sam Damron, chairman of the Bailey County Branch of the Arthritis Foundation, has given the final tabulation of the funds collected in this year's Victory March.

From the March itself (including mail-in's) the total was $2483.10. The coin collectors totaled $24.19, making a grand total of $2507.29.

This is a very commendable amount for this drive, and Mrs. Damron states that it was due to a total effort on the part of the community, with many, many persons doing a great job. She wishes to thank all of those who donated so willingly of their time and efforts to raise this money which will go to a very worthwhile cause.

Much of the money will be kept right here in this area to promote research at Texas Tech Medical School and of course for education and services to the people of the area.

Thrip Populations Causing Problems

Thrip populations are causing problems for some local cotton producers, reports Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley. There is no economical injury level for thrip population on cotton established at this time, says Tanksley, however, there are certain criteria used in evaluating a thrips infestation to determine whether control should be initiated.

Producers should consider the following factors: the thrips population present, the extent of injury observed, the plant growth stage and height, the current moisture situation and potential for additional moisture, and the effect this particular insecticide application may have on current beneficial insect populations and the development of future populations.

If the plant damage is extensive, so that the top two leaves are gnarled and blackened and the terminal bud is blackened in conjunction with threat the crop, thrip populations greater than five per terminal bud, producers should treat the crop.

Tanksley said that some producers are usually concerned about having to use early season insect control because of their detrimental effect on beneficial insects in the field. The agent said that most of

USFGC Executives Finalize European Project Plans

Lubbock -- Officials of the U. S. Feed Grains Council, currently touring Eastern Europe, have finalized plans for a waste and grain usage project in Poland and a nutrition seminar in Austria, each designed to increase demand for U. S. feed grains.

Representing the council are chairman Elbert Harp of Abernathy, Texas, present Darwin Stolte of Washington, D. C., and consultant John Baumgardner, animal science professor at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Specifications for the livestock production research project in Poland will be provided by the council, which will oversee its operation along with the Polish Ministry of Agriculture.

While touring other council facilities in Poland, the USFGC executives met with officials of Rolinex, the government trading company which is responsible for buying all the grain imported into Poland. Baumgardner was expected to spend several days in Poland, encouraging the use of feed grains such as grain sorghum in place of poor condition corn, which has been the subject of quality complaints recently.

Prior to leaving Poland, Harp and Stolte attended the U. S. Food Show in Warsaw. The program, sponsored by the U. S. attaché, attracted more than 300 key Polish agricultural leaders to view and sample U. S. food products.

According to Harp, the food was semi-prepared or prepared, ready for serving, and included everything from grapefruit to cereal.

During a stop in Vienna, the council officials finalized plans for a livestock nutrition seminar to be conducted there later this year. Agricultural leaders from throughout Eastern and Western European countries and Russia are expected to participate.

Harp is executive director of Grain Sorghum Producers Association, which was instrumental in the formation of the U. S. Feed Grains Council, and the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, both headquartered in Lubbock.

The council is composed of commodity organizations and agribusiness groups working through the Foreign Agricultural Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Its purpose is to increase dollar sales abroad of U. S. feed grains and to provide an effective network for world market development.

Kerr...

farmer must often borrow money, Kerr explained the bases used when money is loaned. It is based on personal history and financial record. Kerr stated that the present day farmer must be a super record keeper. Credit is influenced by the farmer's ability to produce, his education and his ability to apply new technology for better production. Kerr said that in 1961 they loaned 30% of the market value and now it is 60-75% of the market value. He also gave facts stating that in 1961 a farm is mortgaged for 18% of the market value. Now in 1975 a farm is mortgaged for approximately 35-40% of the market value.

Kerr brought into his talk about how important exports were to the farmer. In 1961 exports had to be improved and Russia was cultivated to purchase U.S. farm products. Kerr said that whether the American people liked it or not Russia is today a big purchaser of U.S. crops. No matter where it goes they are a major factor.

Kerr closed by saying that a farmer makes decisions daily that no one else can make and when its made he can't back up. But the Panhandle farmers were basically some of the most efficient in the Panhandle South-plains.

Conny Martin To Teach Three Day Workshop

Conny Martin will teach a three day painting workshop at the Lubbock Art Association. The fee is $30.00 and must be paid in full before the class begins. The aim of the class is to help beginners and intermediate painters learn how to paint more on their own and to know how to judge their own work without outside help. The principles of design and composition will be presented in such a way as to be easily recalled when working alone. The painting demonstrations and assignments will not be directed toward a finished painting, but will be reference material to help one understand more about their chosen subject matter and the selection and use of color. Emphasis will be on inspiring students to be more original and creative.

Conny Martin taught children's classes for sixteen years and has been teaching adult painting, drawing and design at the Garden Art Center about nine years. She has taught three day workshops in many area towns and will teach in Rockport, Texas in March 1976. Her paintings are in many private collections, in public schools and in the West Texas Museum. She has won many awards in area and state exhibits.

The class will be June 16-18 from 9:00-5:00 and June 19-21 from 9:00-5:00. June 19-21 night classes will be held for working people from 7:00-10:00 p.m. All painting, no design for beginners and intermediate will be $15.00.

For more information call the Garden Art Center at 762-6411 or send a $10.00 deposit to Garden Art Center, 4315 University, Lubbock, Texas.

Mrs. Timmus comes each day as does Mrs. Nan Gatlin to help their mothers Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Sein with their meals and to visit with them for a while.

The following little verse by Lillian Killough is indeed "my wish" too and I am sure you will agree that it is what we all wish for and need to apply each day as it comes.

Maybe you will like to read it too, and it will make your days bright. It follows: "my wish is not for worldly gain, nor do I crave rare gold. I only ask for loving friends and faith they give, untold.

A song to sing day by day, a smile to cheer the sad; a kindly word to pass along making a lone heart glad!"

I think each of us really wants to do this and it is my sincere wish that you will find it will help you too, in your daily lives and that it will be a blessing in your lives as it has in mine.

Meat Prices Rise Again

College Station --- Meat prices are rising again above last week's levels.

With the upward trend in prices affecting beef, pork and poultry, the only apparent specials this week are "occasional good buys on turkey" and "forequarter beef cuts, such as chuck roasts and steaks, getting special attention in some markets, along with ground beef, liver and stew meats," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt said. At pork counters, "good values may be found on ham portions, smoked picnics, frankfurters and liver," the consumer marketing information specialist added.

"More chicken is bought in the summertime, so specials on this product are few," Mrs. Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, also reported varying egg prices. She advised consumers to compare prices and sizes before buying.

"Medium-size eggs are providing cost appealing buys," she added. At produce counters, items in good supply at most economical prices include oranges, bananas, strawberries and pineapples.

Also cantaloupe, honeydew melons, avocados, and lemons -- along with cabbage, cucumbers, red and russet potatoes, radishes and green onions.

Peaches are available on some produce counters, but prices are high.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — A threatened slowdown of some doctors in major cities in protest to rising medical malpractice insurance costs was eased with signing of two new legislative acts.

Texas Medical Association's House of Delegates went on record against the work stoppage and said the short-term laws should be given a chance to work.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe urged immediate start of a study of the overall problem by a blue-ribbon panel of 18.

Former University of Texas Law School Dean W. Page Keeton was designated chairman of the Medical Professional Liability Study Commission established by one of the new acts. The bill would also create a pool or joint underwriting association to issue policies up to $300,000.

Another would authorize the State Board of Insurance to set malpractice liability rates and cut the statute of limitation on filing of suits to two years.

Both acts will expire in 1977. A bill pushed by doctors and hospitals to place a $500,000 limit on claims in malpractice actions failed to clear the House of Representatives.

The Commission will report its findings and long range recommendations by Dec. 1, 1976.

Legislature Closes

Texas has a new $654 million public school finance act and authorization for a Public Utilities Commission to regulate telephone rates and services and to control other utilities (except gas) in rural areas.

Cities may elect to come under the Commission after two years with utilities other than telephones. Gas will be regulated by the state Railroad Commission.

Both the school finance and utilities acts were among the last major pieces of legislation approved by the 64th Legislature which ended its session at midnight June 2.

A record $12.1 billion appropriations bill passed by lawmakers on final night of the session has been certified by Comptroller Bob Bullock as within anticipated income.

Briscoe has until June 22 to decide which of the legislature's acts he will sign and which he will veto.

Hearing Recessed

A Railroad Commission hearing on phasing out natural gas as a boiler fuel has been recessed for 30 days after three days of testimony and opening statements.

Some spokesmen said converting plants to other fuels would be extremely costly.

Others urged that any phase-out should be "orderly" and with attention to what effect the changeover might have on rising consumer rates.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court suspended the Southwestern Bell $45 million intrastate long-distance rate increase and set a hearing June 18 on the attorney general's suit to block the increase.

The Supreme Court will hear arguments in a McAllen city and school district appeal from lower court rulings that a nursing home operated as a public charity is exempt from property taxes. The local officials disputed the home is a true charity.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the life sentence given a Dallas man in a murder case due to an inadequate definition of circumstantial evidence by the trial judge.

An Austin district court jury sentenced Robert Kleasen to death in the butcher-murder of a young Mormon missionary.

AG Opinions

Public school teachers with contracts for the following school year cannot collect special unemployment assistance benefits, after all, on signing of the new school finance bill. Atty. Gen. John Hill held. Before passage of the bill, with its prohibition on the benefits, Hill had held the teachers eligible.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The House speaker can set reasonable and expeditious procedures for release of information concerning representatives' records.

College faculty members are entitled to information and recommendations in their personnel files on tenure and performance evaluations.

A missing page out of a budget received by the comptroller does not prevent its being certified where meaning is clear.

A Dallas college district must obtain a permit from the Antiquities Committee for demolition of three historic buildings, regardless of destruction contracts.

Assistant county purchasing agents are subject to the county civil service act, but adult probation officers and assistant county auditors are not.

County Pioneer, Jennings Passes Away

Joseph William Jennings, 86, former rancher and farmer, passed away at 7:15 a.m. Saturday, June 7, 1975, at Westview Manor, in McGregor, Texas. He had been a resident of McGregor for twenty-five years, the last few of which he had been in poor health.

Jennings was the eldest of the nine children of Joseph Humphreys Jennings of Martindale, Texas, and Eleanor Petty Dunlap of Luling, Texas, members of four pioneer Caldwell county Texas families. The Jennings and the Humphreys came to Texas together by wagon train from Pontotoc and Tippah, Mississippi; the Dunlaps and the Applings from Georgia and Alabama. Jennings father was a Confederate veteran and a Chisholm Trail driver. He died in Lubbock, Texas, in 1920. His mother passed away in 1933. Both are buried in Lubbock.

Jennings was born in Martindale, on the banks of the San Marcos river, April 21, 1889. He entered Texas A&M College at College Station, Texas, in 1907, by special examination. In 1910, he won a gold medal and was presented the traditional silver sabre for being the best-drilled man in Company "A". The same year he was awarded a gold medal by the dairy department of the State Fair of Texas, in Dallas, for winning first place in the contest for making butter. Those two medals were symbolic of his life. He was a man of peace who believed in action when necessary.

He was graduated from Texas A&M with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture in 1911.

His first job after graduation was teaching the first course in vocational agriculture in the Jasper, Texas, high school. While teaching, he met Miss Celeste Willis Seale, the daughter of Judge Edgar Augustus Seale of Jasper and Nancy Louise Causey of Kirbyville, Texas. Miss Seale was teaching music. They were married in Jasper, July 10, 1912. They had one daughter, Kathleen Virginia.

While in Jasper, Jennings cleared the stumps from the 800-acre Seale farm near Bevilport, the old steamboat landing on the Naches river, for more efficient farming. The farm is now owned by U. S. Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont, Texas. Rep. Brooks also bought the Bevilport home of Col. Randolph C. Doom, great-grandfather of Miss Seale and early Texas attorney, customs collector, and legislator, and moved it to the Seale farm. The house contains the table upon which the first Texas constitution was written and has been awarded a medallion by the Texas Historical Society. Jennings was employed by the Kirby Lumber Co., also, while in the Jasper area.

After leaving Jasper, Jennings owned and operated a small ranch near San Antonio, Texas. The ranch land is now incorporated in the Alamo Heights area of San Antonio.

In 1916, Jennings' father purchased an 18,000 acre ranch comprised of part of the old county school lands south of Muleshoe, Texas, and moved all of his family to Lubbock. Jennings served as foreman and manager of the ranch until he entered the Civil Service as a meat inspector during World War I. During the time he was on the Muleshoe ranch, whose cattle brand was the Bar-C, he was selected as one of two delegates who were sent to Austin from that area to successfully petition the Texas legislature to allow Bailey County to become organized as a county while having less than the required number of residents.

In 1920, Jennings became Lubbock county's third agricultural agent. He won several prizes for the county in agricultural exhibits at the state and regional fairs. He also worked with the Lubbock chamber of commerce. It was his suggestion that they enlist the aid of the small towns and communities around Lubbock to help influence the Texas legislature with the home of the proposed Texas Technological College. After leaving Lubbock, he served as county agricultural agent for Randall county for four years. He won several prizes for Randall county, also. Mrs. Jennings passed away in 1928. She is buried in Lubbock.

In 1930, Jennings began farming in the Plainview area. He married Miss Goldie Porter of Willis Point, Texas, in 1931, and they had one daughter, Josephine. He farmed near Plainview for twenty years. During the time in which he was farming near Plainview he helped to develop a variety long-staple cotton which would grow on the Panhandle Plains. He also developed a large-head, short-stalk hygeira which is very productive today. His grain seed bore the Plainsman name.

In 1950, he moved to McGregor. He served as manager of the chamber of commerce until he entered ranching in McClennan County.

Both Mrs. Jennings and Miss Josephine, a junior at Baylor University, passed away in 1952. They are buried in Lubbock.

In 1953, he married Mrs. Elizabeth H. Young, a staff member of Texas Technological College for many years and the sister of Mrs. George Dupre, Lubbock. After he retired from active work, he spent some time in travelling and devoted much time to political writing. In 1963, he and his daughter visited in Pontotoc, Miss., where they found the undelivered marble slab of a great-uncle, Jesse Goode Jennings, who had died during a typhoid epidemic in 1849. The slab was being used as the type-setting table of the Pontotoc Weekly News, and was called to their attention by the editor.

In 1967, Jennings was given the Liberty Award of the Congress of Freedom, Inc., in Montgomery, Ala., for his literary contributions to the McGregor Mirror, The Dallas Morning

News, and the Summit, Miss., Sun. He continued to write until his eyesight failed him.

He was a former member of Rotary International, former president of the Plainview Texas A&M Club, a former director of the Texas A&M Former Students' Association, and a member of the McClennan County A&M Club. While he was in Plainview, he served as foreman of the Hale County grand jury, and he made two unsuccessful but close races for the Texas senate.

Although his grandfather gave the land for the location of the Primitive Baptist Church in Martindale, and he was raised in that faith, but he had no church preference.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Jennings, McGregor; his daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Jennings Ullrich of Houston and Clear Lake City, Texas; his son-in-law, A. B.

Fruit Rot Common In Vegetables

College Station --- Rotting of fruit on certain vegetable plants is a common disorder in home gardens this time of the year.

The problem, called "blossom-end rot," affects tomatoes, squash and peppers, points out Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Blossom-end rot is identified by water-soaked areas near the base of the fruit which rapidly turn dark and eventually rot.

"Although the exact cause is unknown, blossom-end rot is thought to be caused by plant roots being unable to take up water as fast as it is being lost by the leaves," explains Cotner. "Consequently, water is removed from the developing fruit, causing a breakdown of the cells at the base of the fruit. Oftentimes, secondary diseases occur, resulting in further decay."

Conditions causing the disorder may occur several weeks before symptoms appear, notes the Texas A&M University System specialist. Soils which are too wet or too dry inhibit uptake of water by plant roots and this results in the rot.

Blossom-end rot often becomes a problem during prolonged wet weather as well as during extreme dry conditions. Of course, during dry weather the home gardener can water plants at regular intervals to keep the problem at a minimum.

According to the specialist, mulching around plants helps equalize the soil moisture and will reduce losses from blossom-end rot. Applying lime or gypsum before planting may also be of some help.

If the problem is already occurring, Cotner recommends a foliage spray of one level tablespoonful of calcium chloride per gallon of water. Repeat the treatment every five to seven days if conditions are favorable for blossom-end rot to continue, such as hot, dry winds in combination with overly wet or dry soil.

"Fortunately, blossom-end rot is usually only a temporary problem, and fruit which develop and ripen during good weather conditions should be of high quality," adds Cotner.

Ullrich, Jr., of Houston and Clear Lake City, and a native of Waco; two grandchildren, Mrs. Celeste Ullrich Crowder of Arlington, Texas, and Tony Ullrich, III, Houston; two great-granddaughters, Lieschen Kathleen Crowder and Leslie Celeste Crowder, Arlington; two sisters, Miss Evelyn Jennings and Mrs. Julia Jennings Long, Waco; two brothers, H. Dudley Jennings, Harlingen, Texas, and Leslie C. Jennings, formerly of San Antonio, now of Luling and Copperas Cove, Texas; and ten nieces and nephews, including Mrs. Pete West and Mrs. Watson Carlock, Lubbock. He is also survived by a step-daughter, Mrs. Jean Young Thompson of Oklahoma City, Okla., and her four children.

He was the brother of the late Mrs. M. C. Overton, Edgar Petty (Smiles) Jennings, and Robert Quincy Jennings, all of Lubbock. He was a nephew of the late Mrs. J. C. Anderson of Plainview.

Pallbearers will be Tony Ullrich, III; George Thomas Crowder, his grandson-in-law; his nephews, Joseph Floyd Jennings, Jennings Long, Whitesboro, Texas, Pete West and Watson Carlock, Lubbock. Arrangements are being made by Lee Funeral Home, McGrregor, and Sanders Funeral Home, Lubbock. Memorial services were held in Lee chapel Monday, June 9 at 10:30 a.m. conducted by Rev. Bill Brewer. Burial services were held in Sanders chapel at 2 p.m. Tuesday, by Rev. Brewer, assisted by Dr. J. O. Haymes, First United Methodist Church. Interment was in the family plot in Lubbock Cemetery.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers those who wish send contributions to the Texas A&M University Former Students' Association, Mrs. Olive Delucca, Secretary, College Station, Texas.

Hot Weather Brings Some Lawn Problems

College Station --- Summer means hot weather in Texas along with outdoor sports and long lazy days. It also brings lawn problems.
"Lawn problems can cause many headaches for homeowners unless they are accurately diagnosed and properly treated before they become severe," points out Dr. Richard L. Dubble, turfgrass specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
"Dry spots, thin turf and weeds are symptoms of improper watering, fertilizing and mowing practices," notes Dubble. "Before applying a chemical to correct lawn problems, be sure that recommended cultural practices are followed."
Drought stress most often occurs in mid-summer and shows up as wilted, discolored turf. Watering schedules should be adjusted to wet the soil to a depth of four to six inches, and only when the grass shows symptoms of drought stress. Mowing heights might also be raised one-half inch to improve drought tolerance in mid-summer.
"Lack of nitrogen or iron often creates a lawn problem. Grass with a nitrogen deficiency may have a pale color and be heavily infested with weeds," explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. "Abundant seedheads are another symptom of nitrogen deficiency. A light application of a soluble nitrogen fertilizer will improve the lawn's appearance."
Grass leaves that have yellow and green stripes parallel to the leaf margins may be deficient in iron. An application of iron sulfate or iron chelate at six ounces per 1,000 square feet will usually solve this problem, says Dubble.
If a St. Augustine lawn has symptoms similar to nitrogen or iron deficiency but does not respond to applications of either material, St. Augustine Decline (S.A.D.) should be suspected. Close examination of turf infested with S. A. D. shows green and yellow blotches on the leaves. Good maintenance practices should be continued where S. A. D. is a problem. Also, Floratam, a new St. Augustine grass variety which is resistant to S. A. D., may be sprigged into the infested area.
"Chinch bugs and white grubs are two insects that cause lawn problems," points out the specialist. "The symptoms are similar to that of drought stress and insects should be identified prior to initiating chemical treatment."
Adult chinch bugs are about one-sixth inch long with black bodies and white wings folded over the back. To find chinch bugs, sink a can with both ends open into the ground and fill the can with water. The bugs will float to the surface in three to five minutes.
White grubs are the larval stage of the May or June beetle and are about one inch long with white bodies and dark heads. They are usually found in a curled or half-moon position several inches below the ground. White grubs can destroy the entire root system of lawn grasses so that the turf can be rolled like a carpet.
Chinch bugs can be controlled with applications of diazinon, Trithion, Ethion or Azinphos and white grubs with chlor-dane or diazinon.
Brown patch disease is another problem with St. Augustine grass, adds Dubble. The disease is caused by a fungus that attacks St. Augustine lawns each fall. Brown patch can be distinguished from drought and chinch bug damage by the em-

SAVE ON GRAIN STORAGE

20% DISCOUNT ON ALL BIN ORDERS RECEIVED DURING JUNE

SIoux STORAGE BINS

The large plenum chamber combined with high airflow per bushel and a reflective combustion insulator ever heat distributor and evenly dried grain throughout the bin. Ever distributor plus ever heat plus even unloading equals uniform drying at highest capacity and at lowest cost.

AUTOMATIC FEED
All units are equipped for automatic loading. The bin switches let the driver fill automatically from truck wagon or well storage.

DISTRIBUTING SYSTEM
Uniform drying is assured by this adjustable system which distributes the grain evenly over the full length of the bin and keeps fines from piling up at the inlet end that cause uneven drying.

TOTALLY ENCLOSED
Weather shields and front enclosure reduce recirculation, increase drying capacity and abate or pollute. The roof saves you valuable down time in case of rain or snow.

SAFE VAPORIZER
In DriAll models using LP Gas, low temperature vaporizers are safely located in the plenum chamber away from flame, as contrasted to short tube systems that are located directly in the flame that can be potential fire hazards.

SIMPLE CONTROLS
Easy to read temperature limit flame out loss of airflow, and thermostat temperature controls provide quick, effortless control.

FRONT ENCLOSURE
Reduces the noise level and provides operator safety as well as reduces recirculation of the air to increase drying efficiency.

AIRFOIL FAN
Specially designed fan delivers correct airflow for uniform high speed drying. Blades can be factory set for various power sources.

INDUSTRIAL PUMPER
Heavy duty burner especially designed for each mode provides proper combustion and heat distribution. Optional diverter unit can be added at any time.

POWER OPTION
Either power take off (PTO) or Electric Drive may be selected for any DriAll model.

GRAIN FLOW
Straight 12 inch grain columns expose an equal amount of grain on each side to proper heat and airflow to give high quality, uniform drying. Grain moves slowly down the columns and passes into the cooling section where it completes drying the grain and equalizes. Grain leaving the cooling section is cooled to near outside air temperatures.

INSULATED DECK
The deck that separates the chambers is insulated for more efficient heating and cooling.

METERING AND UNLOADING
Straight aluminum metering rolls meter the grain positively and accurately and are designed to prevent jamming. The closure auger turn slowly to gently move the grain to a central unloading point at the rear for ease of handling.

MOISTURE CONTROL AID
Because of reduced recirculation, proper airflow, and even heat distribution, a DriAll unit needs only one moisture control sensor. This control helps keep grain dried to a set moisture level and takes the work out of drying.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm reviews the malpractice situation this week, in his own way.

Dear Editor:

While it may be true that a bunch of writers went on strike one time and nobody noticed, I'm still having difficulty realizing that doctors have now taken up the strike weapon. But it's true of course, as everybody has been reading about the big city doctors who are taking only emergency cases to pay for mal-practice insurance.

It just occurred to me that while they're on strike they might use some of their spare time to weed their ranks of the people who're causing their high insurance rates -- their mal-practicing members. No use following the legal profession's custom of generally not disbaring any member until he's spent at least two months in the penitentiary. This is in contrast to the writing profession, which has no standards for admittance and no by-laws for kicking anybody out. Makes no difference, you can continue writing in or out of jail. Sew up a story with a sponge left inside and nobody sues you.

But speaking of mal-practice insurance, I was just wondering, you reckon the next thing somebody is going to think of is insurance against mal-teaching? You know, here you spend all that time and money sending a kid to school and sometimes he comes out about as ignorant as he went in. Some of them even have trouble reading the funny papers. Looks like it might be a clear case of mal-teaching and there's bound to be some teachers who ought to protect themselves against a damage suit. After all, the teaching profession doesn't have any by-laws either for barring incompetents. You ever hear of a teacher losing his or her certificate because a pupil graduated without learning to read? And that's just in high schools. Colleges this past week turned out thousands of graduates who were certified as having passed courses in a foreign language and not 2 percent of them can speak it. Thousands of them spent two years studying French for example and if it weren't for the pictures couldn't even understand a French postcard.

Speaking of insurance, do you know where a person can but some insurance against higher insurance rates? Yours faithfully, J. A.

"My M-C Dryer helps me get more yield per acre."

David Hicks
Shullsburg
Wisc.

David Hicks bought his M-C 600R10 Continuous Grain Dryer 6 or 7 years ago because he thought it would be a good investment. Has it worked out? "Yes," says Dave and for a number of reasons. One reason is because he can start harvesting corn early, knowing that his dryer will handle the high moisture grain with no trouble. In this way, he gets all the crop he's raised because there are no field losses due to poor weather late in the season. How about maintenance? "I've had to replace one belt on the fan." How about grain condition and automatic moisture control? "Every time I sell corn, it tests just the way I expected it to," says Dave.

If you're considering a grain dryer, look at M-C... the Continuous Grain Dryer more farmers are buying every year. M-C Dryers are made in 14 models... Single Phase or Three Phase electric, or PTO for LP or Natural Gas. Capacities to 600 bu./hr. May we send you complete details?
