On Farm Corn Dryers Is Big Business

M. Gutierrez Wins Football Contest

This week's winner of the football contest sponsored by the Muleshoe Journal is Margarito Gutierrez, 412 W. Fifth. Gutierrez missed only one game as did Donna Halsell, who placed second. However Gutierrez, was only one point off in the tie breaker and Mrs. Halsell was 15 points off.

Seven persons missed only two games in the contest, so the tie breaker had to be used to determine the third place winner, who was Mary Watkins, Rt. 3, Box 92, Muleshoe. She was the only one point off in the tie breaker, placing her third. Donna Halsell resides at 921 W. Avenue D, in Muleshoe. Margarito Gutierrez now has 10 points racked up in the contest, while Donna Halsell has six points and Mary Watkins, four.

The majority of the contestants missed either three, four or five games, with only one person missing all eight games.

Margarito Gutierrez will receive $5; Donna Halsell is the recipient of $3 and Mary Watkins will receive $2.

This contest will continue each week through football season and the winner of the contest will win $50 in cash and two tickets to the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas. Points will be totaled each week and a record will be kept.

Burn Victim Satisfactory

Lusia Coronado is reported satisfactory though still in serious condition in West Plains Hospital after backing into a vat of hot water for cooking corn, last week. A hospital spokesman said it would be determined this week if she will have to be transferred to the burn center in Galveston. She is reported responding to medication well now, however; there were some setbacks this week. Despite the setbacks, she is said to be doing better.

Clayton Goes Over Proposed Constitution

Speaker of the House Bill Clayton was in Muleshoe Monday, September 22 from 6-7 p.m. at the courthouse to discuss with citizens the proposed constitution and pointed out those things he thought was a change in the prior constitution. He pointed out the proposed change in the judicial article, merging the criminal and civil appeals court into one system. Clayton said this new proposed judicial article has been endorsed by the State Bar of Texas.

House Speaker Clayton also pointed out that they currently had sales tax exemption included in the new proposed constitution has added additional protection in taxing these articles.

In the new proposed constitution, all property in the county will be valued by the county at market value, and all taxing jurisdiction within the county Cont. on Page 3, Col. 1.

Progressive Farmers Asset To Economy

In talking with Harmon Elliott, chairman of the Agricultural Committee, Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce the other day, the Journal learned of an interesting story in connection with the process of corn drying in the area. Elliott told the reporter that in the last 6-8 months around 15-20 farmers have put in individual corn dryers on their premises. Most of these are portable type operations. Pointing out that corn has to be dried to a certain moisture content before it is marketable, a costly and time consuming process, the farmers can save time and money with the installation of these corn dryers on their farm. This is big business investing anywhere from $60,000 to $100,000 in the equipment. The corn dryer used uses a lot of natural gas for operation which is also money invested by the farmer.

Littlefield Tough Says Coach Stout

"Littlefield is going to be tough," said Mule Coach Chuck Stout, "but we're looking forward to playing them during their homecoming Friday." Coach Stout says Littlefield has a good sound football team.

"The Mules are in good shape, we're healthy now," the coach said when asked if any of his players had suffered any injuries during the game with Friona last week.

The game will be played at Littlefield. Game time is 8 p.m. The Littlefield Wildcats are looking forward to tangling with the Mules and Head Coach Jerry Blakely lists the strong points of his team as experience in the skill positions, and tradition. He also pointed out that the Wildcats are lacking in speed and size.

The maroon and white Wildcats have a 3-6-1 record in 1974 as well as a 1-3 1974 District or conference record. Coach Blakely says they have no injury problems at this time though they were plagued with injuries and inexperience in the skill positions last year. He feels their toughest opponents will be Floydada and Olton.

Wildcat returning lettermen include Ronald Parmer, quarterback; Rick Hopping, fullback who also started as a defensive tackle; Bill Turner, halfback and also started as defensive safety; Larry McDonald, guard and defensive end; Jack Speak, center; Dean Walden and Randy Hall, tackles; Brad Banner, guard and also started some as a defensive linebacker; Steve Cruz and Reginald Payton, linebackers; and Lonnie Twitty, halfback.

Coach Blakely is beginning his fifth year coaching at Littlefield and has a 40-20-3 career record. Cont. on Page 3, Col. 5

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Auctions can be fun, as anyone who has heard the auctioneer's fast-paced chant can attest. And they can be places to make good purchases, too, in anything from art and antiques to cattle and farm equipment.

But once in a while, Texans have experienced some problems in buying at auctions because of unscrupulous actions on the part of a few auctioneers.

Sometimes, such auctioneers are itinerants, renting a hotel room for a well-advertised one-day auction, then moving on to new territory, perhaps out of the State. Occasionally, they leave behind dissatisfied consumers who feel their purchases were misrepresented.

But a new law passed in the recent legislative session and now in effect will work along with the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act to protect both the public and the large majority of reputable, honest auctioneers, many of whom supported passage of the law.

Under this new law, which is administered by the Texas Department of Labor and Standards, auctioneers must post a $5,000 performance bond and pay a $100 annual licensing fee if they are Texas residents, or a $300 fee if non-residents.

Our Attorney General's Labor Division lawyers, who represent the Department, say that while the new law may help curtail deceptive trade practices in the auctioneering field, the best protection for consumers still is to be informed and alert.

Labor Division attorneys, representatives of the Department of Labor and Standards, and experienced auctioneers all recommend the following practices when attending an auction:

1. Take advantage of the inspection time allotted before an auction to look carefully at any item you may want to bid on, and to talk with the auctioneer about it. Be wary if no time is allotted for such inspection.

2. If possible, visit merchants who handle similar items to get an idea of current prices and quality.

3. Set a limit for what you feel you can spend on an item, then try to stay within that limit.

4. Don't be afraid to bid against dealers. You may be able to pay more for an item than they can, since they must be able to add on their profit, yet still keep the price attractive enough for resale.

5. If you have not signed up as a bidder, be careful of making gestures or movements that may indicate to the auctioneer that you are meeting his price.

6. Use good judgment at an auction—don't get carried away by "auction fever" and make a purchase you may regret.

If you have a problem with goods you feel were misrepresented by an auctioneer, or with other deceptive trade practices involving auctioneers, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection or Labor Divisions or get in touch with the Auctioneering and Safety Division of the Texas Department of Labor and Standards.

Livestock Feed Being Studied

COLLEGE STATION -- Research is underway by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station to determine how ruminant livestock can use feed protein more efficiently. Such information should help stockmen decide which protein is the best buy, contends Dr. Glen A.

Broderick, animal nutritionist with the Experiment Station.

Researchers already know that not all protein eaten will benefit an animal directly. Bacteria in the ruminant's stomach break down some of the protein for their own use. How to avoid this breakdown and divert more of the protein to the animal's benefit is the subject of this study.

Urea is a useful source of nitrogen when fed to ruminants under certain conditions, points out Broderick. Bacteria can utilize this low quality nitrogen and make good quality protein. However, urea is not equal to true protein sources, such as cottonseed meal. The degree to which true proteins exceed urea in feeding value depends largely on the amount of protein that escapes breakdown by microbes in the rumen.

Research results so far suggest that feed proteins differ considerably in the degree to which they are broken down in the rumen.

MEASURING MOISTURE CONTENT... Gene McGuire is shown measuring the moisture content of corn harvested on his farm near Progress. He measures the moisture content before the corn goes into the dryer and again when it comes out for storage.

are spending a lot of dollars, a lot of labor and are an asset to economy," said Elliott.
Jess Wynn, manager of Pioneer Natural Gas Company in Muleshoe, says his company can service these portable corn dryers simply because it is normally an out of season load. The irrigation season is over and the heating season is not yet started.

He pointed out that the dryers will dry approximately 600 bushels of corn per hour. Corn drying is a continual process. The corn is dumped into a pit in the ground, an auger picks it up and puts it through the dryer and when it has reached the correct moisture content, the corn comes out a chute and goes into a truck. The farmer can then take it to an elevator to sell or store.

A field trip with Wynn took the reporter to the Gene McGuire place located at Progress, about five miles west of Muleshoe to see his drying operation. McGuire's corn dryer is probably the most elaborate operation around, according to Wynn and can dry between 900-1,000 bushels of corn per hour. On Tuesday McGuire was putting corn through the dryer that measured about 28 percent moisture and was coming out of the dryer at about 15.4 percent moisture.

McGuire's operation does not use an auger to run the corn through the process. The corn is dumped into a pit, is picked up or goes into what is called the "wet leg" and into dry storage bins, set up alongside the dryer.

McGuire says he now has an investment of about $150,000, but he is not through yet. More improvements are planned, including some paving, other equipment and barns. At the present time he is able to store about three million pounds in the three big bins. He also has two wet bins which hold about a half million.

Wynn again pointed out that McGuire's is about as elaborate an installation as one can get for on the farm use.

McGuire said the corn being cut on his place is being cut by an International Harvester experimental machine with an eight row corn header. He has will use the county evaluation except that agricultural lands will be valued on a productivity basis, considering the productivity of the area. The evaluation will be done by the local county government and this provision does not abolish the office of any tax assessor for any taxing jurisdiction.

The proposed revisions to the Texas Constitution will be voted on in a referendum, November 4. Eight propositions will be put to the voters.
Speaker Clayton said, "I have always felt that a well-informed electorate will make the right decisions at the polls." It was his hope that these meetings with the public would help clear up any questions people might have.

about 850 acres of corn and the first cut yielded about 9,400 pounds per acre, wet. This dried out at 8,475 pounds per acre and his corn should average this over all. McGuire said the price for corn is $4.90 per 100 weight.

Corn was being dried on the Doyce Turner place, three and a half miles southeast of Lariat. His operation is not quite so elaborate as McGuire's and Turner is drying about 630,000 pounds in 12 hours. Turner is taking his corn to king's Elevator after it is dried and he has planted about 830 acres in corn.

A smaller and more portable corn dryer has been installed on the John Gunter farm, located three miles west of Muleshoe. His dryer is processing about 20,000 pounds an hour.

Gunter has 600 acres of corn which is going into the dryer at 32 percent moisture content and coming out at 19-20 percent. Gunter estimates he will make about 7,000 pounds of corn to the acre. His dryer uses an auger to take the corn out of the pit, into the dryer and then into a truck after it is dried. His is a portable unit and he has some corn north of Clovis. He plans to move his rig to the farm north of Clovis from the Muleshoe location, when he is through here. Gunter will take his corn to the Farmer's Coop and TexasSesame.

As Harmon Elliott pointed out, this is a big investment for farmers but shows the progress being made by the local farmers, which is a real asset to the economy.

Farm Bureau Gratified At Boycott

WACO -- Texas Farm Bureau President Carroll Chaloupka said he was "extremely gratified" that the National Labor Relations Board had issued a complaint charging secondary boycott by the International Longshoremen's Association in refusing to load grain shipments to Russia.

"This is a major victory in prohibiting labor unions from interfering with exports of American farm products," the Dalhart grain and livestock producer said. "It proves that there are legal means to correct illegal actions."

The Texas Farm Bureau, along with the American Farm Bureau Federation and the Kansas Farm Bureau, on Aug. 25 filed secondary boycott charges against the International Longshoremen's Association.

Chaloupka said Farm Bureau received notification Sept. 19 that the NLRB has authorized its Houston office to issue a complaint and file injunction proceedings in the U.S. District Court. Issuance of a complaint is preliminary to a full hearing on charges filed with NLRB.

A secondary boycott is defined as an unfair labor practice under the Taft-Hartley Act and is pressure by workers on a party against which they have no grievance in order to win concessions from another.

The Farm Bureau complaint was filed to stop the unions' interference with grain shipments to Russia.

Subsequently, the ILA resumed ship loadings under court injunctions as a result of suits filed against the unions by Texas Gulf port shipping associations. The unions have appealed.

Cotton Forecast Down

The Texas Farm Bureau indicates the 1975 cotton crop was forecast at 9,416,000 bales of 480 pounds net weight by the Crop Reporting Board on August 11. This prospective production, based on crop conditions as of August 1, is down 18 percent from production of 11,540,000 bales in the 1974-75 season.

The Board estimated the 1975 total planted acreage at 10,067,000 acres, down 138,000 acres from the June 30 report. Growers are expected to harvest 9,338,000 acres of cotton in the 1975-76 season compared with 12,547,000 harvested in the 1974-75 season.

Abandonment of planted acreage this season is indicated at seven percent. The indicated yield per harvested acre is 484 pounds, up from the 1974 average yield of 442 pounds. The American Pima cotton crop was forecast at 66,600 bales compared with 90,200 bales a year earlier.

Farm Bureau says the U.S. Department of Agriculture has reported the upland cotton prices received by farmers for this calendar year as follows: January 39.90; February 32.00; March 30.00; April 32.20; May 36.30; June 36.90; July 40.50; August 42.90 (All figures are cents per pound.)

These figures were gathered by USDA as an indication of what the farmer received for upland cotton sold during the period. The figures do give consideration for unredeemed loans at estimated average loan value.

The first eight months of the calendar year 1975 indicate an average price for the period of 36 cents per pound. If cotton prices continue to improve, or to hold at the present level, it is quite likely that the calendar year average price received by farmers for upland cotton, as reported by USDA, will be near or above the 38 cents per pound target price.

Payment rate for the 1975 upland cotton crop will be the amount by which the average price received by farmers for upland cotton during the calendar year 1975 is below the target price established by Congress (38 cents per pound).

The International Cotton Advisory Committee reported in its August 1975 Monthly Review of the World Situation, that the world acreage planted to cotton has dropped to an estimated 74 1/2 million acres, which is a decline of five and a half million acres or seven percent from the 1974-75 level. The 1975-76 tentatively estimated world cotton crop is 58.5 million bales, compared to the 1974-75 record of 63 million bales.

The committee reports that the prospective drop in production will be the first in six seasons with the largest decline occurring in the United States and Mexico.

Young Homemakers Plan Activities For Community

The Lazbuddie Young Homemakers have a well planned year going in full swing. Already, they have the pecan sales going strong, and have had a successful Membership Party, helped the F.H.A. give a Style Show and Tea. They plan to have a Book Drive to benefit the school library.

Other activities they have planned for the following year are to purchase another piece of playground equipment for the school and some other needed items for the band, to remember the elderly citizens monthly and our big project is to sponsor and Bicenennial Pioneer Days Celebration in Lazbuddie next summer. If everyone in the community will help, it will be an event to remember. They have programs planned for each monthly meeting.

They would like to encourage any young women in the Lazbuddie area interested in becoming a YHT to attend one of the meetings. They meet the first Thursday of each month in the Lazbuddie Homemaking Department at 2:30 p.m.

The State Association of Young Homemakers of Texas has designated Sept. 21-27 as Young Homemakers Week. As Young Homemakers interested in reaching out to other Young Homemakers we would like to tell something about our organization.

It is a chartered organization for young women interested in homemaking. The Association functions under the direction of Homemaking Education, Texas Education Agency, in cooperation with the local school and the homemaking teacher, who serves as chapter advisor.

The purpose of the organization is formed exclusively for educational purposes with particular reference to the area of homemaking. The overall goal of Young Homemakers of Texas is to provide creative opportunities for young women in maintaining effective personal, family, and community life.

Active membership is open to women in maintaining effective Active membership is open to women not enrolled in high school and who are not over thirty-five years of age. Eligible members may be single or married. They may be homemakers in small or metropolitan communities, or living on farms or ranches. The members also may be employed in wage-earning occupations. Women over thirty-five years of age may become associate members upon payment of dues, with rights and privileges of active members, except that of holding office and voting.

The State Association of Young Homemakers of Texas is composed of chapters in the ten supervisory areas of Homemaking Education. Chapters form area organizations and have representation on both area and State Executive Committees, and at State and area conventions.

Each chapter develops a program of work, including projects, which helps achieve the purposes of the Association. Local plans are based on a State program developed from suggestions submitted by local members and adopted at State conventions.

State and area recognition awards are given to Outstanding chapters, Outstanding New Chapters, and to the Future Homemakers of America recommended by local Young Homemakers chapters as outstanding in their work in the home, school, and community. Winners are honored at area and State conventions.

PSYCHOLOGY

A gift of the highest quality creates good feelings two ways: the giver knows he has chosen something truly fine and the receiver knows that he is thought of highly. So, it's good psychology to give a small gift that is the best of its kind (like a fine silk scarf), instead of a larger one of lesser quality.

Entertaining guests is like gift-giving, so here, too, it's good psychology to give the finest. Take coffee. Making a truly good cup means you really care. An easy, fool-proof way to make great coffee is the filter method. A disposable paper filter traps grounds and sediments and your coffee is pure, clean, flavorful, without the bitter taste of perked coffee. A good filter coffeemaker buy is the quality Melitta System available at our supermarket. At home, it means you think enough of your guests to give them the finest.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I have married to a family which is very clannish. They are perfectly satisfied to associate with members of their family and never seem to care about knowing other people.

I come from a family of extroverts who like to meet other people and discuss things with those who may or may not agree with their ideas. I think my husband should get out more but he seems very reserved with strangers although he is a very smart man.

Begin by asking one or two couples over in the late afternoon or for dinner. Make everything casual and

Prepare Children For New Baby

COLLEGE STATION -- In anticipating the arrival of a second child, it's important to prepare the first child long beforehand.

"Parents will want to take care that the older child's life is not changed in any manner which he will associate directly with either his mother's pregnancy or the birth of the baby.

Miss Dix is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Although each family situation is different, the specialist suggested some general ways to avoid sibling rivalry as the new baby grows and establishes his place in the family.

"Keep friction at a minimum by fostering the children's interest in different activities.

"With some parental encouragement and assistance, each child can build interests of his own. For the preschooler nursery school might be the answer.

And for the older child, friends, organizations and any other outside activities could rechannel his interest and make teasing his sibling less attractive."

Parents soon have a fairly good idea of their children's limits in getting along together. Then they can involve the children with activities before those limits are reached, she said.

As a final note, Miss Dix pointed out that eventually children outgrow most sibling rivalry or friction.

Greenbugs May No Longer Be A Problem

Due to a breakthrough in plant genetics, Greenbugs may no longer be chewing into grain sorghum grower's profits. After years of plant breeding, public and private researchers have successfully incorporated resistance to the pest into key sorghum hybrids. The announcement comes in the nick of time for sorghum growers who have fought greenbugs for several years.

Since 1968, the tiny pest has resulted in huge dollar losses to farmers and caused serious damage. The tiny aphids have been the cause of losses totaling $20 to $80 million a year because of yield loss and chemical costs.

Some authorities say the breakthrough should make grain sorghum a more profitable crop.

Dr. Bruce Maunder of Lubbock, a sorghum research director with DeKalb Ag Research Inc., estimates these new hybrids with bred-in resistance will save the farmers millions of dollars in 1976. "When you figure savings in chemicals; the extra yield advantage from the new hybrids and the reduced management time, the savings add up in a hurry," he said. Maunder feels there will be enough resistant seed to plant some four million acres of the crop in 1976.

The insect reduces yields by sucking plant juices while simultaneously injecting a cell-killing toxin into sorghum leaves which eventually kills the plant. This unique biological genetic control, incorporated into the resistant hybrids allows greenbugs to remain on the plants but prevents them from causing severe economic damage.

The genetic make-up of hybrids with resistance, seems to slow down greenbug growth and reproduction. The insect don't like hybrids with greenbug resistance so they seek tastier non-resistant sorghum.

In some cases, chemical costs can more than pay for the seed and fertilizer, according to Maunder. He says the insect has developed a resistance to commonly used chemical controls; mutated into another genetic form much like mosquitoes and house flies have done.

Greenbugs are so tolerant to chemicals they are hard to kill, so the only other alternative is to control them with bred-in resistance.

says, "it's a new animal now." Explaining they are calling it 'bio-type D' because it has more resistance than 'bio-type C'. He also says this new bio-type D seems to reproduce much more rapidly and they are seeing twice as much population increase per week as with "C".

According to Maunder, the new form of genetic resistance allows natural parasites to do a better job of keeping greenbug mutations since bugs are compatible with resistant hybrids and have less pressure for change.

Farmers can depend the new hybrids offering full season protection without spraying which reduces sorghum production costs, avoids environmental concerns and prevents killing the many beneficial insects which help control greenbug resistance, is the biggest advantage to the farmer, experts say.

Farm Exports May Total $21.6 Billion In 1976

U.S. agricultural exports during fiscal year 1976 are now expected to at least match exports of $21.6 billion in fiscal 1975, according to John Fuston, ASCS.

Fuston said a report arriving at his office from Washington D.C. shows that besides a substantial increase in U.S. exports to the USSR, larger exports are expected in fiscal 1976 to South Asia, Southeast and East Asia, Japan, Canada, and North Africa.

The outlook report was published by the USDA's Economic Research Service and Foreign Agricultural Service.

"Export volume of principal agricultural commodities is likely to total some $9 to 9-1/2 billion in fiscal

"Export volume of principal agricultural commodities is likely to total nearly 100 million tons -- about 12 million tons above the level in 1975 and near the record of 1974," Fuston said. "But export prices will likely average below fiscal 1975." Fuston said that agricultural imports are now expected to total some $9 to 9-1/2 billion in fiscal 1976, up from the earlier estimate, but perhaps a little below actual imports of $9.6 billion in 1975.

The value of total U.S. grain and feed exports should approach $12 billion in 1976, and should run somewhat above the $11-1/2 billion in 1975. Feed grain exports are expected to total around 43 million metric (47.3 million short) tons, well above last year's volume. Exports of wheat are expected to total around 34 million metric (37.4 million short) tons, compared with last year's 28 million metric (30.8 million short) tons.

Exports of oilseeds and products are expected to fall short of the fiscal 1975 level of $4.9 billion to approximately $4.4 billion.

Fuston indicated that cotton exports, including linters, are expected to approach last year's $1.1-billion level. Foreign sales of livestock and livestock products are not expected to differ greatly when compared to last year's $1.4 billion. Exports of fruits, vegetables and nuts for 1976 are forecast to about match last year's $1.2 billion.

He said that fiscal 1976 exports of dairy and poultry products

Fertilizer For Small Grains

Farmers in Bailey County who are getting ready to plant small grains should give close attention to fertilization, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Fertilization of small grains is essential for profitable production, with nitrogen especially playing a key role, says Tanksley. Phosphorus is also a key element in small grain production while potassium is needed in only a few areas.

Tanksley recommends applying phosphorus at or before planting since it is essential for seedling development, early vegetative growth and root formation. He suggests a range of application rates from 15 to 60 pounds per acre, with the higher rate to be used in soils quite low in phosphorus.

are expected to approach $400 million level, compared with last year's $276 million total. Overseas deliveries of tobacco during 1976 should approach $1 billion compared with the $910 million recorded last year. Exports of sugar and tropical products during 1975 totaled $355 million, and are expected to approach $400 million in fiscal 1976.

How much nitrogen to be used depends on several factors, notes Tanksley, such as type of crop, yield potential and whether or not the crop is to be grazed. A range of rates would be from 40 to 120 pounds of nitrogen per acre. Since plants should not be allowed to become severely nitrogen deficient, some nitrogen should be applied in the fall, with about 30 pounds per acre a minimum rate. The remainder of the nitrogen may be put down in one to two additional applications through the season.

If a soil test shows a need for potassium, this element should be applied along with the phosphorus at or before planting.

Both forage and grain production were reduced last year because a number of products skimped on fertilizer, points out Tanksley.

Then take a look at the 1976 EPA Mileage Guide test figures for Oldsmobile. They're impressive, too.

They show that good gas mileage runs in our family. Remember these mileage figures are estimates. Naturally the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment.

From sporty Starfire supercoupes to full-size, front-wheel drive Toronados, there's good gas mileage in every size Olds.

That's quite a feat considering the array of sizes and models that Olds is offering this year. With this kind of selection, there's bound to be an Olds to fit your lifestyle and pocketbook. And every Olds, whether small, mid-size or full-size is built to be right for the times.

This year Oldsmobile is offering an available five-speed overdrive transmission on Starfire, Omega and Cutlass models. (You may be used to thinking of five-speed as strictly a performance feature, but the fifth gear gives you overdrive efficiency.)

We invite you to make a total comparison. Good gas mileage, traditional Oldsmobile engineering, construction, dependability and solid comfort. You'll find each Olds packed with value because it's built with the care and attention to detail that's a tradition at Oldsmobile. Can we build one for you?

second half, Kelly Harrison kicked off for the Bills. The Cowboys had the ball and made a first down; but, the Bills recovered. They made a first down but couldn't go any farther. In the first half, neither team could seem to get anything going. To begin the second half, Kelly Harrison kicked off for the Bills. The Cowboys had the ball and made a first down; but, then Michael Davenport the Cowboys quarterback had to punt. The punt bounced out of bounds. The Bills had the ball, but still couldn't seem to put anything together, so the ball went over. The Cowboys called a play to the wingback, Albert Lopez. Lopez broke through for about 50 yards before Jeff Hyde caught up with him and made a great tackle and saved a touchdown. A few plays later the Cowboys threw a pass and Clifford Watson intercepted it and returned it for about three yards. The last play of the game was a completed game by both teams.

There will be games played every Wednesday and Thursday starting at 11:00 a.m. We would like to invite anyone who would like to, to come out and watch the boys.

School Is...

What is school? During the last week a lot of students were asked this question. "School is what?" They gave their opinion to this question. Teachers, students, even Mr. Etheridge was asked this question.

We got a lot of opinions, like the sixth grade students thought school was: fun, neat, cool, boring, nonfreedom, crowdedness, and nothing! The seventh grade students thought school was: learning, sports, teachers, friends, students, and a lot of fun things. The eighth grade students said they thought school was: girls, boys, sports, running in athletics, and student council.

The teachers said that they thought school was enjoyment, learning, great, very fun, and exciting. Mr. Etheridge said he thought school was more important than ever. So that answers what school is. School is a lot of different things to different people.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Campaigns for and against the proposed new state constitution already are generating lots of heat.

Texas Press Association, Texas Daily Newspaper Association and Texas Association of Broadcasters got a broad introduction in a day-long pro and con seminar here last week.

A day later, Citizens for the Texas Constitution, leaders of the revision change, held their statewide kick-off meeting launching a six-weeks public information effort before the November 4 election.

The opposition group, Citizens to Preserve the Texas Constitution (the present one, that is), already was doing lots of kicking. Its statewide steering committee broadened steadily, picking up such members as former Gov. Preston Smith and Court of Criminal Appeals Presiding Judge John F. Onion Jr.

Bula - Enochs Lions Buys Fire Truck

The Bula - Enochs Lions met Thursday evening at 8:00 p.m. in the Bula Community Center, with wives and friends as their guests.

D.J. Cox president called the meeting to order, and had each Lion introduce his wife and friends.

During the business session, further plans were made for the purchase of the community fire truck. Twelve hours of training on how to drive and operate the truck will be given free. Two women of the community have volunteered to take the training along with several men.

Mrs. Quinton Nichols made a report from the Enochs Home Demonstration Club, that they were going to sponsor with the assistance of the women from the Bula community. A rummage sale Friday and Saturday, Oct. 3 and 4 will be held at the community center and proceeds will go toward the fire truck fund.

Following the meeting refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. James Sinclair, Mrs. George Tyson and J.D. Rowland furnished the music for the evening.

re-take defensive driving courses. Those who passed the National Safety Council course in accident avoiding three years ago can renew their discount eligibility for an additional 36 months by completing another eight-hour course.

New films and visual aids, new information on traffic laws, driving habits, road design and engineering innovations are available, according to State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie.

More than 400,000 Texans have completed the course during the last three years, and statistics indicate they have 32 per cent fewer accidents, Christie said. The discount is also available to motorcycle operators.

Courts Speak A federal judge in Washington, D. C. refused to block publication of Census Bureau statistics which will bring Texas under punitive provisions of the federal Voting Rights Act.

A Belton man who shot another because he feared a karate chop lost an appeal from a 99-year prison sentence for murder.

Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a 199-year murder sentence in a San Antonio robbery-killing. The Court granted a new trial in a controversy over sanity of an Odessa man convicted and sentenced to 10 years for the fatal shooting of his wife. It upheld 99-year sentences of two men in a Dallas murder and rape case.

Highways Slated If costs keep going up and income doesn't, the State Highway Department says in another six or seven years it may have barely enough money to maintain the present 71,000-mile road system.

Major new construction could be out of the question if the state hasn't the cash to match federal building funds. Gasoline tax and motor vehicle registration income, which traditionally increased at six or seven per cent a year, is no longer growing much. Meanwhile, construction costs have doubled since 1967.

The Highway Department, as explained here previously, is studying its manpower needs with a view to reduced payrolls. Some districts already have reduced their work forces.

Mowing along highway rights-of-way also has been reduced to save money.

Discount Expiring Ten percent discounts on auto insurance premiums for 35,000 Texans may be lost this fall unless they

Football Forecasting, Uncertain Moments

Football forecasting has its uncertain moments, and one that much consternation is when we receive conflicting scores. Two weeks ago, for example, one wire service reported Ball State 38, Toledo 28, while another service said Toledo 41, Ball State 21.

the Bucks have a let-down after Penn State, it should be win number three. The Tar Heels will be short-enders by 34 points.

Average department: of the 286 games forecast during the first two weeks of the season, we missed 73, hit on 207, and six ended in ties. The average, .739.

The powers on the West Coast haven't diminished as Southern Cal and U.C.L.A. continue to roll. The Trojans meet Purdue, a team that has already been whipped by Northwestern and Notre Dame. Prospect for the Boilermakers in this one aren't bright.

Missouri and Notre Dame, two more occupants of the top ten in college football, are also matched against teams from the Big Ten. Missouri, with the toughest assignment, is only seven points stronger than Wisconsin, and Notre Dame will beat Northwestern by twenty-nine.

Highlighting the games in the Southeast and Southwest Conferences, Tennessee plays Auburn and Texas Tech challenges Texas. The two Southeast rivals are returning from inter-conference battles with U.C.L.A. and Baylor respectively. Tennessee is favored. And the Longhorns of Texas should edge the Red Raiders of Texas Tech.

I couldn't believe my ears not long ago when I learned that the wholesale price of coffee has jumped 20%, ironically right at a time when some coffee brands were still being sold at special sales at reduced prices. All of this increases in coffee prices is due to a killing freeze in July which won't affect this year's crop of coffee beans at all--it's next year's crop that will fall short. However, the damage to Brazilian coffee production is serious.

Brazil ordinarily supplies 30% of the world's coffee. The July freeze ruined over half the coffee trees in Brazil. It will take at least three years before production can be brought back to normal. Meanwhile, the American coffee drinker is used to the taste of Brazilian coffee. Some coffee companies, counting on a bonanza coffee crop this year, delayed purchasing coffee and used up a good part of their inventories while waiting for coffee prices at the wholesale level was General Foods, maker of the nation's largest selling brand, Maxwell House. Prices on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange have gone from 54¢ a lb. to 88¢ a lb. as buyers tried to cover their low inventories. Will all this lead to hoarding coffee as it led to the hoarding of sugar? Probably, since a price rise this early will certainly be followed by other price rises. Shortages create greater shortages as buyers, fearing a complete unavailability of coffee, will begin buying two or three cans extra each time they shop. For the moment, retail activity is high but not at the panic buying level. The number of cans of coffee moving off the shelves has accelerated. One grocery chain said that they had moved 12 weeks worth of coffee in just four weeks and that was with a limit of one can for $5 worth of groceries. Other grocery chains are trying to counter the buying rush by encouraging shoppers to buy tea and other beverages while discouraging over-buying. Now, it looks as if there will be an increase in tea prices as suppliers take advantage of the sales jump in tea to get a higher price for the product.

Research Leads To Cotton Varieties

COLLEGE STATION -- More than 60 commercial cotton varieties are now offered for sale to Texas producers, and at least six of those offerings have been developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Selection of a suitable variety depends on several factors, including climate, soil and prevailing cultural systems, points out Dr. G.A. Niles, cotton breeder with the Experiment Station.

A comprehensive cotton variety testing program is under way throughout the state by the Experiment Station to obtain objective data on performance characteristics of commercial varieties and advanced experimental strains developed by breeders. Such data will provide information on yield and ginning traits, earliness, fiber and spinning properties, and other factors. About 20 to 22 field tests are conducted each year at 13 to 16 Texas locations by the Experiment Station. More than a hundred varieties and strains are being evaluated, notes Niles. The trials are becoming increasingly more useful as new types of cottons are produced by breeders in an attempt to alleviate problems associated with increasing mechanization, insects, diseases and other production variables.
