BAC Brings Ben Marney Show Back For Concert

By popular request, the Business Activities Committee of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce has booked the Ben Marney Show for a concert engagement in Muleshoe on Saturday, January 10 at 8:00 p.m. at the High School Auditorium. Tickets for adults will sell for $3.00, students' tickets are $2.00 and pre-school age children are admitted free.

The group was reorganized just after their last performance in Muleshoe, which was last August sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi sorority in August, so you can expect an entirely new sound with this performance. They are now into the progressive country style, which is becoming so popular across the nation and seems to be continuing in popularity in Muleshoe.

Upfront, the group features Ben Marney from Houston, Texas and Dana Dameron Marney from Muleshoe, Texas. Ben combines the excitement and enthusiasm of Tony Orlando with the down-home charm of Mac Davis to bring you musical entertainment and laughter from beginning to end. Ben is a "Playboy Records" recording artist and can do equal justice to Rock Country songs, as well as the slower ballad type "Top 40" numbers.

Dana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dameron, as most local people know, adds a great deal of talent and glamour to the show. The former Texas Tech music major, is indeed versatile as she can turn out one of the latest "Linda Ronstad" country numbers with the same finesse as she does the beautiful "The Way We Were". Her range in voice is from very low to extremely high, and she will keep your attention with the tremendous expression that she puts into every number.

As a back-up group for Dana and Ben, their "Home-Cookin' Band" now features five super-talented musicians, three of which are new to the Ben Marney Show. They all play four Cont. on Page 3, Col. 1.

The Eastern Fish Disease Laboratory, in operation since 1932, has gained worldwide reputation as the finest disease research center in existence. In recent years the techniques for intensive fish culture have improved to the point where fish farming has become a major contribution to the supply of animal protein in ordinary diets.

The Eastern Fish Disease Laboratory has been one of the leaders in developing ways to control and prevent losses of fish in hatcheries due to diseases. The expansion of the laboratory will make it the most modern fish health research facility in the world. It will enable the Service to continue to meet its growing responsibilities in the vital area of fish disease research - the results of which are shared with States and others. It will also enable the Service to combine fish husbandry training schools with the existing Leetown school of fish diseases.

There is an increasing demand on the Service from State fish and game commissioners, universities, other Federal agencies, plus foreign countries for new knowledge in fish disease research, specifically, new and more efficient methods for the diagnosis and control of disease and the training of personnel in diagnosis and treatment.

Knowledge of fish diseases in wild fish populations must be expanded also to respond to the Service's needs for protection of stocks of native fish species.

The construction of the new facility will begin in 1976. It will take about 2 years to complete and will triple the space of the present facility.

Plans for the new $4 million facility boasts a modern design which incorporates a series of solar panels around the second story. The panels will reflect the sun's rays at a series of water conductors. The temperature of the water flowing through the conductors will be maintained high enough to generate heat throughout the building, although an extensive back-up system will be available.

The new facility will enable researchers to expand their work and provide the future capability for delving into the area of saltwater fish diseases as well.

January 6, 1976, the Council approved a petition to vacate a plat in the Country Club Addition. E.T. Ford and Wayland Harris requested the vacation of streets and alleys in that portion of the Country Club Addition which is outside the city limits. Since the city has extra territorial jurisdiction over this section, Ford and Harris must obtain the Council's permission to return these lots to acreage. The Council felt it would be to the city's advantage to return these lots to acreage so if this land ever started to develop, it would have to come under the guidelines of the Subdivision Ordinance.

A bid in the amount of $2,500 from Boise City, Oklahoma for the 1969 GMC sanitation truck was accepted by the Council. The Council decided to advertise for bids on this truck when it was felt it would no longer be needed by the City, following purchase of a new, more modern truck.

The Ben Marney Group has been one of the most consistently popular groups to play the larger hotels across the country for the past four years, and with their new country sound they are hoping to go more into the concert area of entertainment. Some of their recent credits are the Marriott Hotel in Denver, Colorado; The Marriott-Ritz Hotel in Acapulco, Mexico; The Playboy Club, Chicago, Illinois; The Marriott Hotel in St. Louis, Missouri; and the new Lincolnshire Resort just outside of Chicago.

Tommy Black, Chamber Manager says that the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce feels fortunate in securing the Ben Marney Show at this time between other engagements, and they hope for an excellent turn-out to support them, with the proceeds going to support the various activities which promote our city and area. Ben and Dana and their "Home Cookin' Band" will take you on a musical tour that you won't soon forget... through virtually every phase of pop music: country, Top-40, gospel sing-a-longs, and specialty and original tunes featuring Ben's Playboy recordings. So sit back and prepare yourself to be entertained in the grand style of one of America's great showgroups.

In girls consolation games, Levelland nipped Littlefield 49-48. Karen Veretto paced the winners with 19 points while Monica Phillips had 21. Muleshoe won the other girls' consolation, 40-32 over Olton. Sheryl Stovall guided Muleshoe with 23 and Kathy Athrens led Olton with 10.

Littlefield defeated Olton 72-59 in boys third place with Robbie Green scoring 21 for the winners and Jimmy Parker getting 20 for Olton.

A bid from Motorola for the pagers and encoder for the Fire Department in the amount of $3,773 was accepted by the Council during Tuesday's meeting. "Purchase of this equipment will provide an increase in the capability not only for the Fire Department but for Civil Defense operations because the Fire Department is a primary part of the overall Civil Defense scheme." City Manager Dave Marr pointed out. The encoder will be put in the Fire Chief's car so he can have contact with the other firemen. There are presently between 35 and 40 firemen in the Department.

The City Manager brought the Council members up to date on the problem of the ground storage reservoir which has begun to leak in several places after the plastic lining had been installed. Marr told the Council that the contractor and engineer are expected in town this week to repair the liner in the reservoir, which had apparently broken in several joints. The Council was told that apparently the walls of the reservoir had shifted somewhat causing the liner to pull apart in four or five different places. City Manager Marr said if after the liner is repaired the reservoir continues to shift, then other measures will have to be taken.

A letter to members of the Muleshoe Independent School District Board of Trustees concerning City and School Tax Office consolidation was approved and will be mailed. The letter solicits comments from the School Board.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was noted that a $25,000 sealcoating project for streets in the city would be advertised for bid. Notice to contractors will be made.

Minimum Wage

Increased On

January 1

WASHINGTON -- The new year promises more pay in the checks of many workers in the United States, as the federal minimum wage increases to $2.30 an hour on January 1, 1976, the Labor Department announced.

Workers eligible for the 20-cent wage base increase from the current $2.10 an hour are those in jobs covered under the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) before it was amended in 1966.

Also beginning January 1, workers covered by the FLSA in 1966 and later must be paid at least $2.20 an hour, and agricultural workers at least $2 an hour.

Other work standards set by the FLSA are overtime pay, child labor, and record-keeping requirements. The department's Wage and Hour Division enforces the act.

Texas Brucellosis Quarantine Delayed

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced Friday (Jan. 2) that it is delaying the effective date of its federal brucellosis quarantine on Texas from January 5 until January 9.

According to officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), the quarantine is being postponed because of a temporary 10-day restraining order issued December 30 by Judge J.T. Boyd of the state's 64th Judicial District Court in Castro County, Texas. The temporary restraining order requires the Texas Animal Health Commission to bring the Texas brucellosis program into compliance with the cooperative state-federal brucellosis program.

A hearing on the state court action is scheduled for January 8 in Dimmitt, Texas.

Issuance of the temporary restraining order by the state court means that Texas officials must comply with the uniform methods and rules of the national brucellosis eradication program for the duration of the order, according to Dr. John M. Hejl, APHIS deputy administrator for veterinary services. Therefore, in view of the state court's action and the forthcoming January 8 hearing, the effective date of the federal quarantine is being postponed until January 9, he said.

Dr. Hejl also said that through January 8 APHIS will continue to cooperate with Texas in carrying out the brucellosis program, including the payment of indemnities to owners of infected cattle.

Federal Supplemental Benefits End

Federal Supplemental Benefits (FSB), created by Congress to assist unemployment benefit claimants who have exhausted their regular benefits, came to an end in Texas January 3, 1976.

"This is not to be confused with the Texas Employment Commission's regular unemployment benefits which remains unchanged," says Henry Rothell, Administrator of the Commission.

Under Federal statute, the FSB program became inoperative after January 3, 1976 in any state whose rate of insured unemployment is less than five percent. The insured unemployment rate in Texas for November was 1.7 percent.

Claimants who qualified for Federal Supplemental Benefits on or before January 3, 1976, can continue to draw these benefits on claims dated through April 10, 1976.

Those claimants who qualified for Federal Supplemental Benefits on or before January 3 and who have not drawn all of their benefits, will be notified in January of the April 10 deadline on claims.

No Federal Supplemental Benefits will be paid in Texas for claims dated after April 10, 1976.

Good To Be Alive in '75... Production Records.

Although final figures aren't in yet, it is clear that during 1975 Texas farmers did what they like to do best--produce, produce, produce.

In major areas of crop production except cotton, Texas farmers out-produced themselves in 1975 compared to 1974. Production increases were noted in sorghum, wheat, peanuts, soybeans, oats, and other crops. Unfortunately for agriculture producers, expenses were also up; so they did not benefit as consumers did by the bountiful production.

Wheat production, for example, totaled 1,031,000 bushels for this year. For 1974, the total output was only about half that, or 52,800,000 bushels.

COTTON PRODUCTION was down considerably in 1975 from what had been projected earlier in the year, but even at that, the final figure will likely show the 1975 cotton crop only slightly below 1974.

Latest cotton production figures from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service show the 1975 production at 2,450,000 bales. Earlier, a production of 2,800,000 was expected in Texas. The decline came about due to unusual September weather on the High and Low Plains.

The 1975 estimate compares with 2,462,000 bales produced in the state in 1974. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 4,000,000; this is down 10 per cent from the 4,400,000 acres harvested in 1974. Average per acre yield for 1975 is set at 294 pounds compared to 269 pounds in 1974.

OTHER PRODUCTION FIGURES for 1975 show now that sorghum production in the state is at 387,600,000 bushels. This compares with 317,000,000 bushels in 1974.

Corn production for Texas is set at 115,500,000 bushels for this year compared to 73,600,000 bushels in 1974. Per acre yield is one of the highest ever for Texas, set at 105 bushels.

Peanut production for the state this year is estimated now at 474,300,000 pounds; the 1974 production figure was 413,280,000 pounds.

Soybean production also increased this year compared to last year. The 1975 production is set at 9,100,000 bushels; the 1974 production was 7,830,000 bushels.

Oat production is more than double this year compared to a year ago. The 1975 production is set at 19,500,000 bushels; for 1974 the total production was 8,100,000 bushels.

EVEN PECAN PRODUCTION is well above a year ago. Figures now indicate pecan production this year will be 50,000,000 pounds. Last year, pecan production was two-thirds below that figure. It appears that Texas this year will produce about a fourth of all the pecans to be harvested in the nation.

Livestock producers will be watching future estimates on cattle and calf numbers. As of Jan. 1, 1975 there were 16,600,000 cattle and calves--more than the human population--in Texas.

Many economists believe 1975 will see the end of the buildup in cattle numbers, one of the major reasons for the poor profit prospects for the cattlemen.

Use Good Judgement, Avoid Dissatisfaction

COLLEGE STATION -- Using "shopping know-how" in new appliance purchases is the best way consumers can be sure they get what they wanted, Mrs. Janice Carberry, a family resource management specialist, says.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. She suggested some "good judgement" guidelines for appliance shopping.

--Be sure there's enough room to move the appliance in and out of the house, to clean and service it and provide ventilation around it.

--Check gas or electricity to be sure they are adequate for the new appliance. Water supply and drain facility should be checked for washers, dishwashers and food waste disposers.

--Consider appliance size in relation to family size and future needs.

--Before installation, be sure the brand, style, model and color of the appliance is satisfactory.

--Be sure "extra" features which add to purchase price are needed and will be used.

--Be sure the appliance is sturdy enough to meet the family's needs, that finish, trim working components and decorative parts are high quality, and that it's easy to maintain and works as claimed by the seller.

Ask if a demonstration is possible.

--Ask about the warranty before buying and be sure it plainly states what is covered or not covered.

--Consider whether competent service is available nearby.

--Look for seals verifying that certain performance and safety requirements have been met.

"The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM) verifies claims by manufacturers on the performance of room air conditioners, refrigerator-freezers, humidifiers and dehumidifiers.

"Underwriters Laboratories' (UL) labels on electrical appliances and American Gas Association Laboratories' (AGA) seals on gas appliances assure that certain safety standards are being met on all units of that model and brand," Mrs. Carberry noted.

--Compare efficiencies of otherwise similar units and consider the size of various models in terms of what each will cost to operate. Labels on the appliance itself and data available from dealers, manufacturers and industry trade organizations can be most helpful.

Gourmet First-Course Salad

"Mushrooms Vinaigrette a la Iceberg" can be the answer to the gourmet's dilemma of what to serve for a first-course salad. Taste buds will awaken when introduced to this tangy yet subtle treatment of mushrooms mixed with chopped green pepper, pimiento and ripe olives which mellow in an oil and vinegar marinade and are served atop crisp wedges of western iceberg lettuce, the nation's favorite salad green.

Your guests' delight in this simple yet elegant salad far outweighs your effort to prepare it.

Mushrooms Vinaigrette a la Iceberg

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1 head western iceberg lettuce | 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento |
| 2 1/2 cup corn oil | 2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives |
| 1/4 cup white wine vinegar | 2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms |
| 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 1/8 teaspoon black pepper | |
| 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper | |

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce; refrigerate in plastic bag or plastic crisper. Rinse, pat dry and slice mushrooms. Combine oil, vinegar, mustard, pepper, green pepper, pimiento and olives; mix well. Pour over mushrooms and toss lightly to coat. Chill for an hour or longer. Just before serving, add salt; stir to blend. Using sharp knife, cut lettuce head lengthwise into halves. Place cut-sides down; cut each half into halves or thirds for 4 to 6 wedges. Place on chilled serving plate or individual plates and spoon mushrooms and dressing over lettuce wedges.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Safety Last

"What's making you look so angry?"
"Nothing much. I cut myself with a safety razor, burned myself with a safety match, and nearly got run over while reading a safety first notice."

Sad Case

"Now, what do you do in a case like that?"
"Like what?"
"They tell me to strike and my wife orders me to keep on working."

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I have heard that there are some people who are so consciously like to punish themselves because they feel guilty about things they have failed to do. I couldn't believe such a thing but recently I have been concerned about a neighbor who always seems to be in a stir and I can't understand why this is so. She is well and has domestic help and yet she always has no help when she needs it most. Then she does a great many unnecessary things for others when she has the most to do at home. That is also the time that she tries out new recipes or takes a new hobby. Then she ends up in hysterics. Why does she act as she does?

Neighbor--Ala.

Answer:

I really haven't the answer to this but she does sound as though she is trying to prove something and that she is going about it the wrong way. She may feel that she is a failure in some phase of her marriage people who unconsciously try to punish herself by doing hard jobs.

Some men and women never grow up emotionally and are constantly trying to get attention or approbation from others. Some feel guilty about things they have done in the past and continue to let these things influence their lives. If this is true of your friend my advice would be this:

If she has done all she can to atone for the past, bury it. Realize that there are no perfect people in the world and that all of us, at one time or another, have done things that we regret. She should ask forgiveness and organize her life so that there is no place in it for hate and dissention. If we expect and look for the best in people that is usually what we will find. But if we pry around for faults in others and in ourselves it will only bring unhappiness. The lines "Give the world the best you have and the best will come back to you," are very true. Your best will mean consideration and kindness for others.

Louisa.

Fashion

The sleeveless dress with coat or short jacket continues its popularity. For the older woman the dress with a short sleeve is more practical.

Some of these costumes are the answer for the girl who wishes to attend a party before she goes home after work. The jacket comes off and different jewelry is put on.

Whenever teaching degenerates into a money-making profession, the cause of education will be lost.

The Scientists Tell Me...
Our Inland Waters
Produce More Food

By Robert L. Haney
The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

As pressures build on both our land and sea for more and more food production, Texans are turning to still another resource, our inland waters. Our rivers and lakes total more than 4,500 square miles that has the potential for greatly increased food production.

Add to that figure the existing farm ponds and the number of fish ponds that could be built in the state and we begin to realize the size of this somewhat neglected resource.

Freshwater fishermen will tell you the number, size and quality of fish vary widely from one place to another. A lot of this reflects management problems.

"The Aquaculture Research Center of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) was established to conduct research into various problems related to the culture of both fish and invertebrates which are of interest as human food," says Dr. Robert R. Stickney who is in charge of this research.

"At present, our primary research is with two species, the channel catfish and the freshwater shrimp. The catfish work is being done in response to the great interest that this species has generated, particularly in the southern part of the country.

"Texas presently has, I understand, about 250 catfish farmers. A great deal of interest has also been expressed in recent years in shrimp culture and the freshwater shrimp appears to be among the best species for culture.

"We are also interested in exploring other species which might become important in aquaculture. Among these, we are presently working on a fish originally from Africa and the Middle East called blue tilapi. It has become established in a few reservoirs in Texas.

"A second species of interest is the saltwater redfish which adapts well to freshwater. We presently maintain both species at the Aquaculture Center.

"With catfish, in terms of current and future research, we plan to do several things. We are working on ways to grow fish as fast as possible and finish them on rations that will make the flesh especially tasty.

"We're also working on food requirements of brood stock to increase egg-laying rate and hatchability of eggs. And we're working on nutritional requirements of fry (small, newly hatched fish).

"We've been able to grow catfish to 3/4 pound in a single year, and our aim is to get this to one pound. Catfish usually take about 1 1/2 years from egg to market.

Catfish are extremely efficient food converters. They're fed about 1.3 to 1.5 pounds of feed to make 1 pound of gain.

"One angle we're working on to lower cost of fish rations is to substitute plant protein for animal protein."

Stickney is with the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Sciences at Texas A&M as well as TAES. He's quick to tell you of the work of his associates such as Dr. Robert Brick who has recently joined the faculty and will be doing research on the freshwater shrimp. Brick is presently setting up a shrimp hatchery.

A method of distinguishing several different strains of channel catfish by a blood chemistry procedure has been worked out by Loren Skow, one of the graduate students working with Stickney.

CANCER Answer line
American Cancer Society

An office worker explains: "I don't smoke cigarettes, but some of the people around me do. We work in pretty tight quarters. I want to know, is all that smoke getting to me?"

ANSWERline: Unfortunately, yes. Research recently reported in the leading British Medical Journal, "The Lancet", shows that it takes no more than one or two cigarette smokers to change the air in an indoor space. The researchers concluded that even non-smokers have measurable amounts of nicotine in their body fluids throughout most of their lives. Why don't you ask your local American Cancer Society for some leaflets about the dangers of cigarettes and pass the information along to your co-workers.

Question: "What is a tumor? Is it the same thing as cancer?"

ANSWERline: A tumor is a thickening or lump caused by a new growth of body tissue, or it can be an accumulation of liquid as in a cyst. Some tumors are perfectly harmless, and they are called benign. But there also is a malignant kind of tumor -- one that keeps growing and spreading to other parts of the body. That's a form of cancer.

A housewife writes: "Is it best to do a breast examination for cancer in the bath or shower? It seems easiest to do it then."

ANSWERline: The bath or shower is a good place to begin your monthly breast check because your skin is slippery, and it is easy to feel each part of your breast. However, there is more to the examination than that; you must look at your breasts in a mirror, and do a simple check lying down. Your American Cancer Society has easy instructions and the complete procedure done monthly won't take much more of your time.

A reader reports: "For some time I've been bothered by bleeding in my mouth. Now that is pretty common, and I've had it in the past. But this is going on for a while and I wonder if I should do something about it. My teeth feel fine and I've never even had a cavity!"

ANSWERline: Please see your doctor or dentist as soon as possible. Repeated bleeding in the mouth without cause should be checked. Only a professional can diagnose your individual case. But, while you shouldn't jump to a conclusion yourself, it's only fair to explain that this could be a cancer signal.

The head of a family tells us: "We are moving into a home that belonged to a person who died there of cancer. Should we have it fumigated or something?"

ANSWERline: No! No! No! Cancer is not catching. Enjoy your new home and don't worry about the past.

TEXAS WATER QUALITY BOARD
AUSTIN TEXAS 78711

WHERE WILL WE GET THE $$$?

That question has confronted nearly every city and town in Texas which has been required by the Texas Water Quality Board to improve sewage treatment facilities in order to protect the waters of the state.

Texas' population rose from 11,196,730 in 1970 to 12 million (estimate) in 1974--an increase of some 853 thousand between 1970-73 alone, constituting 1.7 percent of the population.

Those additional people add new homes and businesses, thus creating more wastewater--much more than when most city treatment plants were designed and built, some years and several thousand people ago.

Serious problems arise for our rivers and streams when overburdened treatment plants discharge effluents which pollute. On the other hand construction of sewage treatment facilities takes time, and even small construction projects are costly.

Common Sense - Part 1

As the new year opened two hundred years ago the American colonies witnessed the publication of one of the most inflammatory documents yet to appear in the struggle with Great Britain.

Thomas Paine has been called the pamphleteer of the Revolution. At the beginning of 1776 he was slightly under forty years of age and had only been in America for about a year. During that short time he had come under the influence of Benjamin Franklin and other intellectuals of Philadelphia.

Paine had been raised in an atmosphere of dissent and resistance in England. As the son of a Quaker, he had learned from personal experience the dangers of holding unpopular ideas.

The radical party in Congress was more convinced that the public had to be aroused to the necessity of independence. Back in November 1775 Franklin encouraged Paine to write a document that could be used to do that very thing. When the draft was completed in January, Paine brought it to Franklin, David Rittenhouse, Samuel Adams, and Benjamin Rush. It was Rush who titled it "Common Sense."

The basic thrust of the essay was to blame George III for the problems of the colonies. This was an important change of impersonal Parliament.

Now, however, the focus changed. Paine told the American people that they were oppressed because of the personal decisions of George III. He referred to him as the "Royal Brute," and made a serious attack on the entire monarchical direction for the radicals. Previously, American attacks were leveled at Parliament for restricting the rights of Americans through obnoxious legislation. Throughout the years no serious effort had been made to attack the king since that might have caused a backlash against the radicals. Thus, for years the villain had been the rather form of government.

The long range significance of this document will be discussed

The voice of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. was added to that of other cotton and general farm organizations favoring a producer referendum on funding of increased research and market development for U.S. cotton on December 16.

PCG President, W.B. Criswell of Idalou, presented PCG views in Washington at hearings before the Cotton Subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture. Committee Chairman David Bowen of Mississippi called the hearings for December 16 and 17 to obtain testimony on his bill to authorize a cotton producer vote on increased financing for Cotton Incorporated.

CI is the producer's national research and market development company set up under the Cotton Research and Promotion Act of 1966.

Criswell, reflecting the wishes of the PCG board, told the subcommittee that PCG wants "legislation that will permit producers to decide whether they want more research and market development of the kind they have been getting from Cotton Incorporated, and whether they want to pay for it."

The PCG official emphasized that any increased producer contributions should be as a percentage of bale value, not a fixed dollar amount. Such a system, he explained, will help to equalize CI revenue in high and low production years, and will tend to increase the number of dollars available to CI as inflation erodes each dollar's buying power.

Also, he said, "It is much more equitable to ask each producer to pay a percentage of his cotton's value than to ask him for a fixed dollar amount on each bale whether the bale sells for $150 or $300."

Producers have voluntarily supported CI activities since 1966 at the rate of $1 per bale. This amount was supplemented in early years of the program by $10 million a year and later by $3 million a year from Commodity Credit Corporation funds. However, the $3 million from CCC in 1975 is expected to be the last appropriated.

In addition to this loss of CCC funds, inflation has substantially cut the number and size of programs that can be carried out by CI with money from producers at $1 per bale.

Chairman Bowen's proposal, made at the request of industry leaders, would permit a producer referendum in which each grower would have the opportunity to vote for or against an increase in his voluntary contribution to CI. The current $1 rate is set by law and legislation authorizing a referendum, plus passage of the referendum, is required before it can be changed.

Under Bowen's bill as now written, producers would vote on whether to invest up to one per cent of the gross value of their production each year in addition to their current $1 payment. Passage of the referendum would require either (1) a two-thirds majority of the producers voting or (2) a favorable vote from producers who grow two-thirds of the cotton produced, provided those producers also constitute a simple majority of all producers.

If the referendum passed, the percentage of gross bale value to be paid by producers would be set, not to exceed one per cent, by the Cotton Board with approval from the Secretary of Agriculture. The Cotton Board is made up of cotton producers appointed by the Secretary from nominations made by cotton interest organizations.

In the meantime in Spanish Texas, cattle ranching was becoming more organized. In the late 1770's the Spanish government first began to regulate and aid the activity in Texas.

Prior to that time cattle roamed wild and untended on the open range. When settlers or missions needed meat, riders went onto the plains and rounded up cattle. Obviously, such haphazard methods did not produce the most efficient means of operation or the development of the best animals.

Such unplanned business activity was really not the fault of the settlers. Since markets were not readily available and the population was sparse, there was no need for more organized ranching procedures.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN--Almost a dozen new Texas laws, products of the 1975 legislative session, went into effect January 1. Among them are at least four with statewide implications.

--Boat owners should find it easier to obtain financing and insurance under H.B. 292, sponsored by Rep. Ben Munson of Denison.

The law requires a certificate of title on all boats over 14 feet and motors over 12 horsepower in which ownership changes after January 1. Dealers must provide buyers of new boats with forms and manufacturer's statement to purchase the $2 state title.

Used boats being registered must be accompanied by a notarized affidavit of ownership before certificate of title will be issued. The law should give boat owners added protection in recovering stolen property. --The Texas Department of Public Welfare is placing a number of additional child care institutions under regulation. There is some controversy over intent of S.B. 965, which passed as a result of investigations which showed unsafe conditions in some homes.

It has been brought to the attention of the welfare agency that some of the guidelines formulated would appear to go beyond intent of the legislature and could force some homes out of business.

We want our children adequately protected, but it was not intended the welfare department dictate to the schools every step in every area.

--H.B. 750 by Rep. Joe Salem of Corpus Christi provides for cancellation of licenses of auto inspection stations that fraudulently require unnecessary repairs or parts before approving vehicles for state inspection.

--Signed statements on the back of new driver license forms allow motorists to declare intent in donating parts of their bodies for transplants. H.B. 916 was authored by Dallas Rep. John Bryant.

Between now and mid-year, the Texas Railroad Commission will be issuing regulations on coal, lignite and uranium strip mines to see that land is restored after mining.

Other bills which became law on the first day of the year provide for registration of cotton buyers, set out alternate disclosure requirements in the state credit law and provide for municipal courts, county courts and juvenile boards in certain counties and cities.

For the first time Texas citizens can find in a single document all the new rules and regulations stemming from new laws and all other matters pertinent to state government. It will all be in the twice-weekly Texas Register, available from the Secretary of State's Office for $26.25 a year.

1975 Texas Grain Harvest Nets High Yields, Lower Prices

AUSTIN--Texas grain farmers have ended 1975 with near-record crops and lower prices for most grains, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

The temporary moratorium on U.S. grain exports is the major factor contributing to the lower prices, which are averaging $1-$2 less this year, Commissioner White said.

Prices are now beginning to make a slight recovery,

White added.

Wheat production hit a record 131.1 million bushels. The previous high was 116.9 million bushels in 1947.

Wheat production across the nation reached an all-time high this year, with 2.1 billion bushels harvested. Texas producers contributed a major share of that increase, White noted.

The sorghum crop will be 387.6 million bushels this year, exceeded only by the 1973 crop of 417 million.

Sorghum EEC Sales Good

LUBBOCK -- Technicalities in the threshold price and levy systems in the European Economic Community are resulting in a price advantage to grain sorghum over corn, creating renewed interest in imports of sorghum.

A four-man grain sorghum team from the United States indicated after recently returning from a three-week, nine country seminar tour in Europe and the Soviet Union, that the favorable price relationship is making EEC grain buyers eager to learn more about grain sorghum. The team, sponsored by the U.S. Feed Grains Council and the Lubbock-based Grain Sorghum Producers Association and Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, was composed of Eibert Harp, GSPA-TGSPB executive director; Jack King, GSPA-TGSPB research director; Dr. Lloyd Rooney, cereal chemist from Texas A&M University and John Baumgardner, animal science professor from Texas Tech University.

Team leader Harp explained that grain sorghum was virtually eliminated in the European Economic Community for the past five years because the threshold price gave a price

Parents Can Help Protect Children From Disease

Children should be able to breathe the way they laugh. Spontaneously. Effortlessly.

Too many cannot. From birth, when the outside air first enters infant lungs, those vulnerable organs are exposed to a host of environmental factors that can interfere with -- even cripple -- their function. Each year, the new chemicals and modern lifestyles resulting from our expanding technology increase the hazard.

More than 2,000,000 children under age 16 suffer from asthma the sudden attacks of breathlessness triggered by an allergic reaction. A new medicine known as cromolyn sodium can prevent asthma attacks in many children and is delivered in an inhaler simple enough to be managed by them. Researchers now studying cellular changes associated with asthma hope for even more effective treatment in the future.

Meanwhile, nearly anything that can be inhaled can cause asthma in some child, somewhere. That includes smoke from parents' cigarettes. Even children who are not sensitive to tobacco smoke are affected by it. Second-hand smoke weakens the lung defenses, steps up the heartbeat, increases blood pressure and robs the body of oxygen it needs. Some studies indicate colds and breathing problems are twice as common among young children whose parents smoke at home, than among those with non-smoking parents.

Parents habits also are a strong influence on children. Most teenagers who smoke, have parents who smoke.

Air pollution, too, affects young lungs. Researchers at a recent air pollution medical conference presented evidence that elementary school children living in areas where particulate pollution is high had less breathing capacity than children from areas with clean air. And that sulfur oxides and particulates in the air may be linked to increased incidence of pneumonia, bronchitis, croup and other lower respiratory infections.

Cough, fever, rapid breathing or wheezing all are signs that something is interfering with the function of children's lungs. A doctor should be called immediately, when any of these symptoms appear. Prompt attention to lung infections can help prevent future breathing problems.

Keeping toxic cleaning materials and other dangerous substances tucked away safeguards against accidents that can cause lung damage. Your local lung association, the Christmas Seal people, will be happy to provide additional advice, and information about childhood lung diseases, air pollution and smoking.

Answer your Christmas Seal letter. It's not too late -- your support is needed more than ever. It's a matter of life and breath.

Mahon Seeks Re-Election

LUBBOCK -- George Mahon, who represents the 19th Texas District in Congress, announced this week that he is a candidate for re-election. He has filed notice of his candidacy with the State Chairman of the Democratic Party.

In commenting on his candidacy, Mahon said, "I fully recognize the deep concern of our people with respect to our problems. This is completely justified but despair over present conditions will not solve our problems. We must make 1976 a year of renewed hope and determination. This is the challenge of this Bicentennial year. I shall do all in my power in that direction."

Mahon said that if re-elected to Congress for the forthcoming term, he would, as in the past, seek to present the views and aspirations of the people of the 19th District, being fully aware of their concern over disturbing trends in Washington.

Mahon noted that the new Congressional budget control law goes into full operation this year. "Federal spending must be better controlled if fiscal disaster is to be averted," he said. "More fiscal restraint is demanded. The law will be ineffective unless the will to achieve results can be developed. As chairman of the Appropriations Committee, I shall do all I can to help make the new system succeed."

SPILLS AND OTHER GUNKY MATTERS

When you hear of spills into or near public waters, visions come to mind of thousands of gallons of precious petroleum covering acres of water in a river or coastal areas.

And indeed, last year, on a world-wide basis, 26 major oil spills were chief environmental hazards, with 11 of them occurring in the U.S. Major spills involve more than 240 barrels or 10 thousand gallons in inland waters, or more than 2,400 barrels-100 thousand gallons-in coastal areas.

Major spills can be disastrous. If not cleaned up promptly, they can kill fish and fowl inhabiting the areas. But what about spills occurring in less quantities from trucks along roadways, or from industries when equipment goes awry?

Minor spills are less than 24 barrels-1,000 gallons-in coastal waters. Medium spills are classified as quantities in between the major and minor.

Common among these minor spills are accidents when oil-like chemical, or other harmful substances are deposited in areas where danger of drainage into a waterway exists. Spills of that nature also can occur within a city, calling upon a municipal sewage treatment plant to process wastes which they are not prepared to process, before discharging them, along with the city's treated effluent, into the receiving waters.

The Texas Water Quality Board is designated by the Governor's Office to supervise cleanup of spills. Other state agencies with interest in spill clean-up are the Texas Railroad Commission (in cases of spills of petroleum products) and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, through its concern for fish, animal and bird life.

In any case, should you find results of a damaging spill, or see one occurring, you should contact the TWQB as soon as possible, or at least within 24 hours. Austin phone numbers are 512-475-5695 Monday through Friday and 512-475-2651 at night or on weekends.

Additionally, in all cases, the regional office of the federal pollution control agency or the Coast Guard (for spills in coastal areas) must be contacted within 24 hours.

For complete information on the State of Texas Oil and Hazardous Substances Pollution Contingency Plan, you can write to the TWQB Public Information Office at P.O. Box 13246 Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

New Cattle Feed Additive Saves Feed

With Rumensin in the ration, a 700-pound beef animal (left) fed to 1050 pounds (right) will consume 350 pounds less feed.

Rumensin, a new cattle feed additive that improves feed efficiency an average of 10 percent, has been cleared by the Food and Drug Administration for use in feedlot cattle.

The new product works in a unique way to improve the conversion of feed into meat. It improves the fermentation efficiency of the beef animal's rumen, resulting in more usable energy per pound of feed consumed.

The active ingredient in Rumensin was discovered in the research laboratories of Eli Lilly and Company, Indianapolis, Indiana. The product will be marketed by Flanco Products Company, the agricultural division.

According to Robert M. Book, Flanco Vice-president of Agricultural Marketing, "Rumensin attacks the biggest single cost in the feeding operation. Feed constitutes over 80 percent of the total cost of feeding out a beef animal except for the original cost of the animal itself," he said.

"Rumensin shows promise of helping the beef feeder cut his feed costs significantly."

Rumensin was tested extensively over several years, according to A.P. Raun, Ph.D., Head of Lilly Animal Nutrition Research. "The more than 5,000 beef animals used in experiments eclipse any previous company effort to receive clearance for a feed additive," he said.

"This research has demonstrated that Rumensin saves feed in any high roughage or high grain ration and works well in both steers and heifers," reports Dr. Raun.

In 19 university and Lilly experiments, cattle fed Rumensin at 30 grams per ton of total ration required 8.46 pounds of feed per pound of gain versus 9.46 pounds of feed per pound of gain for animals not fed the additive. On the average, Rumensin saved one pound of feed per pound of gain.

An average animal fed from 700 to 1050 pounds in the feedlot, then, would require 350 pounds less feed. At $100 per ton, the savings in feed due to Rumensin would amount to $17.50 per animal.

Research also has indicated that Rumensin has no effect on the quality and composition of meat produced. Carcass quality, carcass composition, and cutability were unchanged when cattle were fed Rumensin.

No withdrawal of Rumensin from the feed prior to marketing will be necessary for this non-hormonal feed additive.

Since cattle get more energy from each pound of feed when Rumensin is added, cattle feeders will notice a definite lowering of feed consumption. Cattle will eat only enough feed to satisfy their energy needs, according to Dr. Raun. As a result, cattle fed Rumensin will gain at the same rate as cattle not fed the additive, but will do it while consuming about 10 percent less feed.

ceives is based, in part, on population and per capita income estimates made by the Bureau of the Census, U.S.
Department of Commerce.

The new questions on the income tax form are designed to identify the taxpayer's legal residence, which may differ from his or her mailing address.
Authority to ask the new questions is provided in Section 6017A of the Internal Revenue Code.

The information from the residence questions will be used by the Bureau of the Census to make biennial population and per capita income estimates needed to insure that States and communities receive the amounts of general revenue sharing funds to which they are entitled. For this reason, all taxpayers are urged to provide the information as an assistance to their States and communities.
The Internal Revenue Code
authorizes a fine to be imposed for failure to provide the residence data, unless reasonable cause is shown for such failure.

Information provided to the Census Bureau, under law, can be published as statistical totals only, and no information about a person or individual firm may be disclosed to any person, institution, or government agency.

This law of confidentiality under the Bureau operates applies also to the residence data to be collected on IRS returns.

The new questions are labeled
A, B, C, and D, and the wording of each follows:

Question A -- In what city, town, village, etc., do you live?
Question B -- Do you live within the legal limits of the city, town, etc.?

Question C -- In what county and State do you live?
Question D -- In what township
do you live?

Insulate To Save Fuel

Reducing heat loss will conserve energy and keep a home warm and comfortable when the cold north wind is blowing. Mrs.
Robin Taylor, County Extension Agent, says.

Insulate the home so that all the space between the exterior wall studs and horizontal ceiling joists is completely filled.

Insulation has an R-value which stands for heat flow resistance. The higher the R-value, the better the insulating value. A minimum of R-30 in ceilings and R-13 in outside floors is recommended.

Windows can cause up to 35 percent heat loss, so consider installing storm windows. Tight fitting storm windows can reduce fuel consumption 15 to 25 percent. Plastic can also be used over windows to prevent heat loss.

Cracks at all joints in a house can allow air to escape. Cracks both inside and outside the house should be caulked.

Apply weatherstripping to doors and windows. Masking or duck tape helps weatherstrip metal frame windows. Remember to caulk or weatherstrip a round window or through the wall air conditioners. Covering the units will keep the house warmer.

Insulate heating ducts and pipes to prevent heat loss along their routes--and take care to use a fireproof insulation.
Change filters as needed to keep them clean. Mrs. Taylor, also advised.

Close the damper on fireplaces
when they are not in use.
Remember that hot air will rise up and out the chimney. Check vents and chimneys for obstructions or cracks. Repair them before using again.

Any one of these methods will prevent some loss of heated air.
Using several will increase comfort and decrease heating bills.

U.S. trade deficit shows decline for January.

Drought Across Texas Hastens Range Decline

AUSTIN--Texas ranchers who graze their cattle on winter grasses are hoping the new year will bring rain.

Although grazing conditions are still holding up well, the drought across the state continues to worsen, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

Decline in livestock condition has been noted only in East Texas, where grazing has been especially short.

In most areas of the state, however, livestock condition is normal for this time of the year.

Wheat and oats are furnishing limited grazing, but rain is needed to maintain even the rather low stocking rates.

Ranchers in some parts of the state have been feeding since early November. Feeding is expected to increase if adequate rainfall does not come soon.

Most summer forages have been killed by frost and freezes. In many parts of Texas, dry pastureland is causing a fire hazard.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Controversy over the federal Voting Rights Act's effect on Texas units of government continues to rage.

Tax assessor-collectors boiled over a federal court's instruction that they send out with long-delayed voter registration forms the message that voters don't have to return the forms to remain eligible for elections.

Harris County had 800,000 registration forms sealed in envelopes awaiting court clearance and couldn't make mailing deadlines with necessary reopening and stuffing of the new message.

Secretary of State Mark White Jr. notified the tax assessor-collectors they did not have to observe the original mid-December deadline if faced with impossible problems.

Meanwhile, top U.S. Justice Department officials received lectures from White and Atty. Gen. John Hill at a House Elections Committee briefing on VRA. Under the act, all changes in election practices and procedures must be submitted to the U.S. Justice Department for prior clearance.

Hill said he doubts the act really covers cities and special districts and expressed the view it is confined to state and county activities bearing on elections. Local officials applauded him at the House committee briefing here.

Industries Decline

Texas Industrial Commission reported a continuing steady decline in new industries moving to Texas.

Only eight new industries located in the state during November.

But TIC Executive Director Jim Harwell noted a nationwide study showed Texas has the best business climate in the nation, considering taxes, labor laws, cost of government, welfare cost trends, debt and unemployment.

Harwell said he thinks the decline may be nearing an end and that 40 companies are looking for branch plant sites in the state.

Vets Loans Suspended

The Texas Veterans Land Board temporarily suspended applications for loans under its program effective Dec. 31, 1975.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said the Veterans Land Program is simply too popular and has experienced a whopping increase in applications during the last nine months.

About 12,000 have requested applications for the long-term, low interest real estate loans since June 1—double the usual rate.

Armstrong said the program will be reopened in three to six months, when conditions are more favorable to the veteran and when there will be a minimal delay in loan processing. More than 57,000 Texas veterans already have participated in the program.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court unanimously concluded that Gov. Dolph Briscoe did not have authority to veto more than 130 construction projects at Texas colleges last June.

The high court ordered a trial in an Austin court to determine ownership of a rare documents collection known as the Laredo Archives.

A Dallas theater owner won reversal of a conviction for obscenity because a prosecutor claimed sex crimes result from showing of dirty movies. The theater operator had been fined on for showing "Deep Throat."

A retrial was ordered by the Supreme Court in a suit alleging Frost National Bank of San Antonio was liable for repairs on property damaged in Port Aransas by Hurricane Celia, since it failed to take out windstorm insurance.

AG Opinions

Texas Youth Council may employ house parents on a live-in basis and offer educational services and care, including meals and housing on a voluntary basis to residents of homes for dependent and neglected persons 18-21, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

In general, the Texas Department of Public Safety has access to student and faculty campus vehicular registration information.

Importation of coin-operated machines for personal use and resale does not necessarily bring a person under licensing requirements.

Relationship to a county commissioner does not rule out a person's employment by the sheriff as a jailer.

Gas Curb Ordered

Texas Railroad Commission ordered a 10-year program to reduce use of gas as boiler fuel.

At the same time, the agency acknowledged conversion to oil or coal would cost utilities $18 billion and bring more air pollution.

It directed a 100,000 cubic feet daily ceiling for any gas utility on sale of gas for boiler fuel without a specially-approved exception.

Short Snorts

Palmetto Bend Reservoir opponents urged rejection of a $400 million state bond issue for water development.

Veteran state employees J.K. Davis Jr. (assistant attorney general in the state and county affairs office for 33 years) and Ethel Weitzel (governor's clemency assistant, who has served 25 years) are retiring.
