WEST PLAINS MEDICAL CENTER - MULESHOE, TEXAS

Final Hospital Plans Awaiting Approval

Final plans have gone to Austin this week for construction of a new wing and renovation of the present hospital facility in the City of Muleshoe. Marshall Cook, hospital administrator of West Plains Medical Center here said it will probably take a couple of weeks before they are approved and then the Hospital Board will have to advertise for bids 30 days prior to letting the bid and construction begin on the new hospital.

Brasher-Joyette and Papier, architectural firm in Lubbock have been working on the plans for several months and it is hoped that construction will be underway in the very near future.

They also solicited more doctors for the community.

Besides needing funds to construct a new facility, the hospital Cont. on Page 6, Col 5

New Driver's Licenses Anatomical Gift Clause

All drivers licenses issued after January 1, 1976, will contain a statement whereby the holder of the license may designate any part of his body as an anatomical gift at the time of his death.

Major C.W. Bell, commanding Region 5 of the Texas Department of Public Safety which issues the drivers licenses, said the 64th Legislature enacted the measure that became effective the first of the year.

Accordingly, all drivers licenses issued after January 1, will contain the statement which specifies any or all of the donor's body that may be used as an anatomical gift.

If a person does not desire to participate in the anatomical gift program, Bell said, he need not do anything regarding completion of the statement. Drivers license will continue to be laminated on the front but the back will not be laminated in order that holders of the licenses may sign the statement.

The Dangerous Weed What The Practicing Physician Should Know About Marijuana

Editor's Note: This is the third in a four-part series dealing with the harmful effects of smoking marijuana. In this article, Dr. Hardin B. Jones, professor of medical physics and physiology at the University of California, Berkeley, and assistant director of the Donner Laboratory, discusses what the practicing physician should know about marijuana. Today's article concerns the individuals' sensitivity to the drug and the strength of the marijuana used.

For some persons, smoking the weed once or twice a week may constitute heavy use as judged by its effects. It depends on the individual sensitivity to the drug and the strength of the marijuana used. Certainly all daily smoking of marijuana is heavy use and there are many signs of chronic debilitation. It is common to find that daily users have become unable to cope with ordinary problems. An early sign of such effect is the complaint that he is being "hassled" by almost any interpersonal contact, an indication that the mental reserves are thin. Daily marijuana users, though heavily affected, have no insight into their condition or recognition of what has happened to them.

A morphological causative factor for their mental state has been observed. In ten consecutive cases of young men who were heavy users, the late Dr. Ian Campbell, professor of radiology at the University of London, and his associates, did air electroencephalography and found enlargement of the ventricles and rounding of the usually sharp and well defined edges of the ventricles. Findings that point to severe atrophy of the deepest portion of the cerebral hemispheres. It is noteworthy that the pleasure centers are also in this area of the brain. Clinical findings on heavy marijuana users points to the development of organic brain disease as described by Kolansky and Moore. It appears that irreversible brain changes may be encountered as marijuana use extends beyond three years. Kolansky and Moore note that marked and rapid improvement resulting from abstinence does Cont. on Page 3, Col 4

Drouth Increases Demand For Credit

Even with the easing of inflation from the very rapid rates of a year ago, the prices farmers and ranchers must pay for inputs to production still increased an average of six percent last year.

This increase over the past year pushed the price of agricultural inputs nearly two-thirds higher than in 1970. And as efforts have been made to expand production, costs actually rose even more.

Now, with costs high and still rising, drouth has restricted grazing in some areas and caused crops to be replanted, bringing a further increase in the cash requirements of producers.

To cover their higher operating costs, farmers and ranchers in Texas are turning more to their banks for credit. That is the consensus of bankers active in agricultural loans.

has been increasing for six months. And although loan repayments are sluggish in some areas, the survey, conducted by the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, indicates ample funds are available to farmers and ranchers in most areas, provided they can meet equity requirements.

Nearly half the bankers surveyed, in fact, reported they were actively seeking farm loan accounts. Very few thought funds were short enough to cause a good loan to be refused. But nearly all were limiting their loans to borrowers that were well qualified.

Operating Loans
Demand is strongest in the big crop-growing areas -- South Texas, the Panhandle, the Rolling Plains of North Texas, and along the Gulf Coast. By comparison, demand is generally weak in ranching areas.

With most of the state having had little rain since summer, there is far less forage than usual. Effects on loan demand from stockmen vary somewhat, however, from area to area.

In some parts of the state, such as around Amarillo, lack of forage has sharply curtailed demand for loans to buy cattle for grazing wheat and oat fields. In others, such as around San Angelo, there has been a sharp increase in borrowing to buy supplemental feed for range cattle.

Overall, however, demand for cattle loans is weaker than demand for crop loans. And the difference could become more pronounced.

Without a break in the drouth soon, growers in the South Plains, the Rio Grande Valley, and along the upper Gulf Coast will have to begin irrigating more than usual.

Loan Repayments
Overall, repayment of loans

has not been holding up as well as usual. While lack of moisture and loss of income has given some crop farmers problems meeting their notes, most of the slowing in repayments has been due to conditions in cattle markets.

Plagued for two years with depressed prices for feeder and stocker cattle, cow-calf operators have been badly hit. And with rising costs and limited moisture, many have had trouble repaying their loans, having to fall back on renewals and extensions.

Crop loan extensions have also been fairly numerous, however. This results partly from a strategy some growers use in marketing their crops.

To protect themselves against sharp drops in commodity prices at harvest time, these farmers are spreading the sale of their crops out over several months. While they may forego the best price, by settling for an average price, they avoid selling out at the lowest price.

Some of the increase in crop loan extensions, then, result not so much from reduced profits as delayed profit taking.

To delay sale of their crops, most farmers must have the support of their banks. Many banks, however, are apparently willing to extend crop loans if growers believe this will give them a better chance in the market.

4-Hers Fare Well At Livestock Show

"SUNSHINE" . . . The sun does shine over Kelly Harrison, his dad and Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley as they proudly pose with the first place heavy weight champion Shorthorn Steer of the show in the recent San Antonio Exposition.

Participants Bring Home Top Honors

Several Bailey County 4-Hers attended the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo recently and "did quite well", according to Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley.

Jimmy Lee Gleason, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jerry Gleason of Muleshoe showed the first place Chianina Steer, "Hi Sherrif", weighing 1044 pounds. The steer who was named after Bailey County Sherrif Dee Clements who bred him, was first place in the light weight division.

Jimmy also showed the first place heavy weight champion Hampshire Barrow, bred by Jimmy Seaton at Lazbuddie, using a sow owned by Jimmy Gleason. The Barrow weighed 242 pounds.

Other winners at the Houston Show included Greg Harrison, who took second place with his heavy weight OPB Yorkshire Barrow, weighing 241 pounds.

Jerry Lionel Gleason, second place middle weight Berkshire Barrow, tipping the scales at 225 pounds.

Jacinda Gleason placed eighth with her heavy weight Duroc Barrow; and Sheryl Rasco, 14th with her heavy weight Duroc barrow.

Other winners in steers included Kirk Lewis, who took fourth with his heavy weight English Cross; Kelly Harrison, sixth with his middle weight Maine Anjou; Belinda Wheeler, ninth in the middle weight class with her Limousine steer; and Allan Harrison who placed 15th with his light weight Limousine steer. Other youth exhibiting steers but not placing at Houston were Jay Gleason, Jacinda Gleason and Cammie Wagner.

Tanksley says ten Bailey County 4-Hers exhibited 27 barrows at San Antonio Livestock Show and the following awards were won:

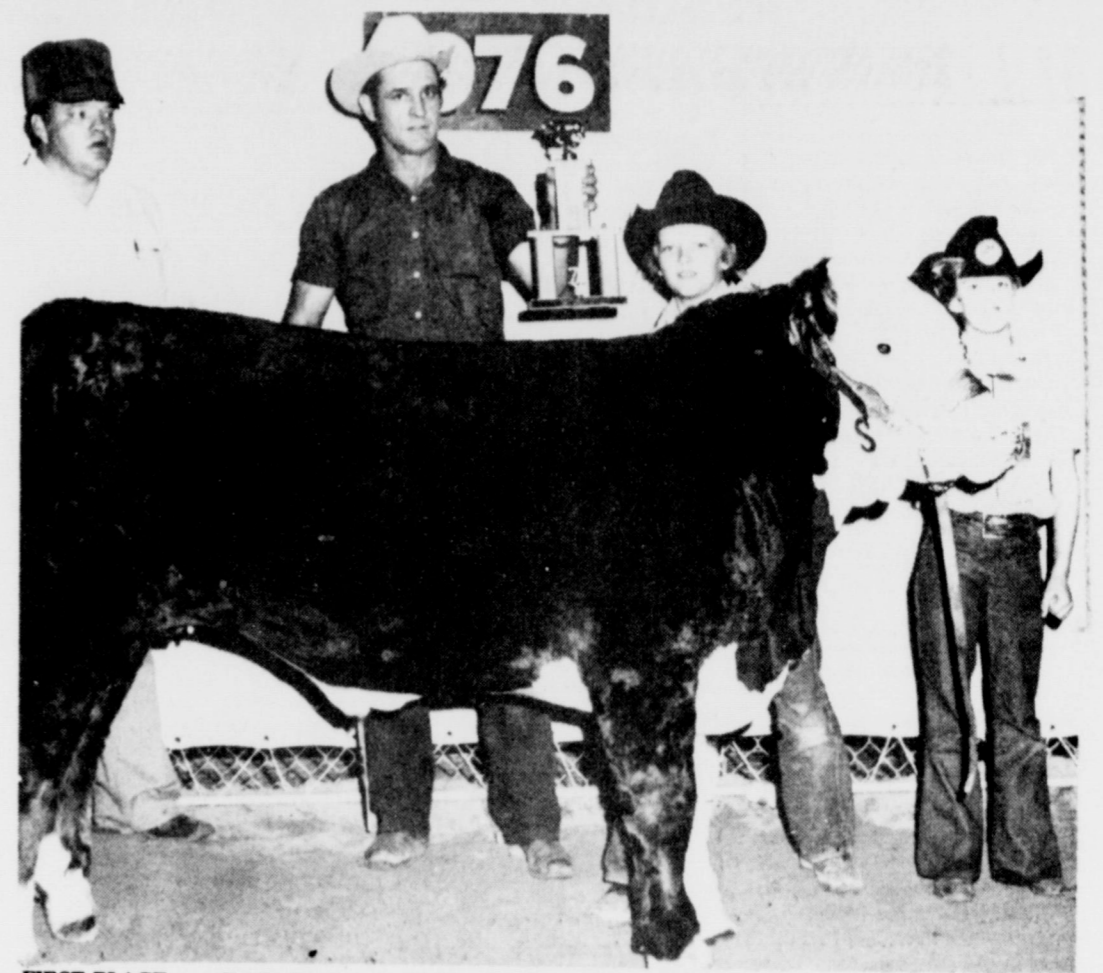

Second place heavy weight Hampshire Barrow was shown by Jimmy Gleason; third place went to Jay Gleason and his middle weight cross; while Tracy Tunnel showed the third place heavy weight Polland.

Greg Harrison showed the seventh place middle weight Polland and Darrell Rasco showed the seventh placed middle weight Cross.

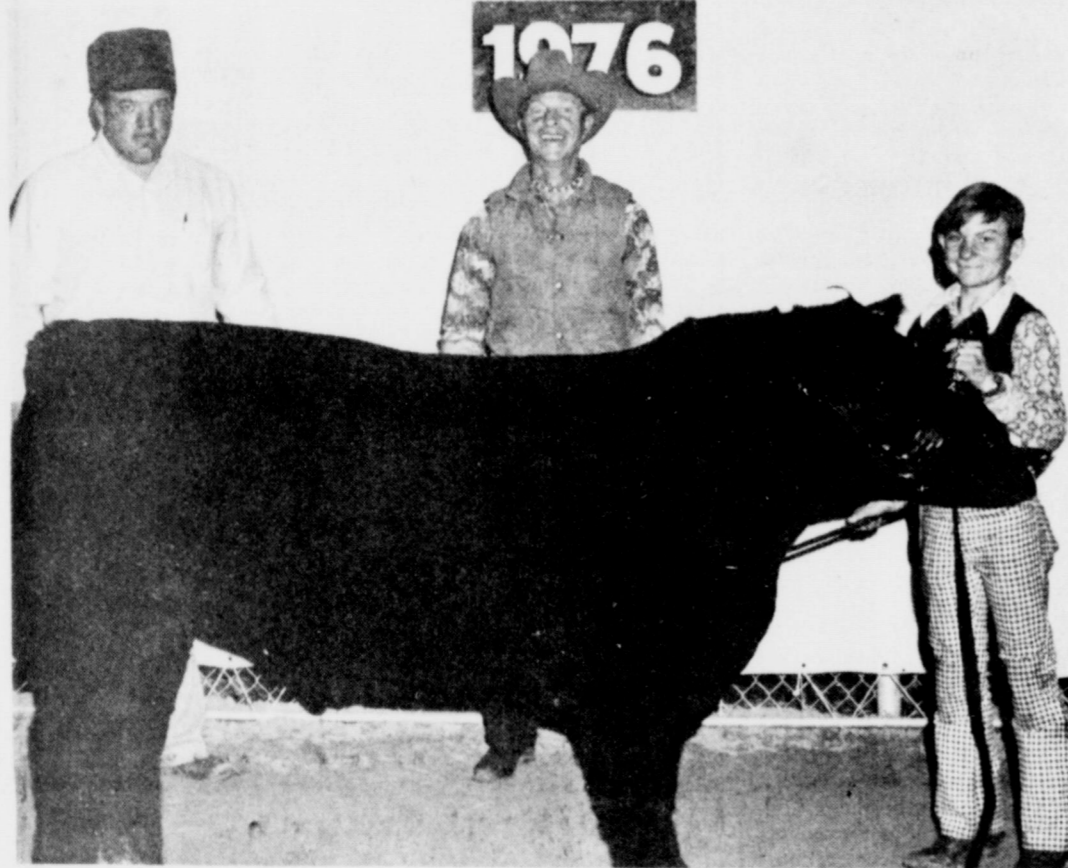

Tracy Tunnel's light weight York placed eighth and Greg Harrison showed the ninth place heavy weight Hampshire. Also placing ninth with his light weight Cross was Tracy Tunnel. Tracy also had the eleventh place heavy weight Spot, while Jerry Gleason showed the 12th place heavy weight Duroc.

Darwin Shaw placed 13th with his middle weight Hampshire and Jacinda Gleason place 15th with her middle weight Hampshire. Sixteenth place in the light weight Hampshire division went to Jason Scoggins.

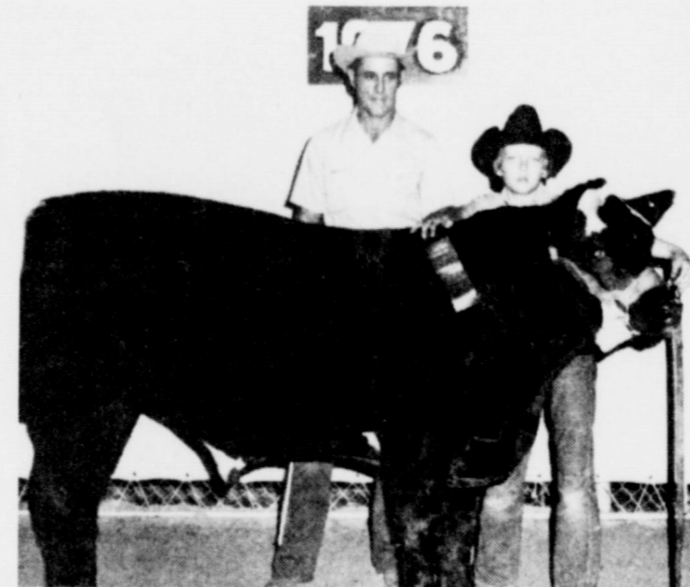

Bailey County Agent Tanksley feels these youngsters did quite well in these two shows and feels they should be commended for their efforts. A lot of hard work and determination goes into getting an animal ready to show. A number of Bailey County 4-Hers will attend the show in Lubbock in the near future.

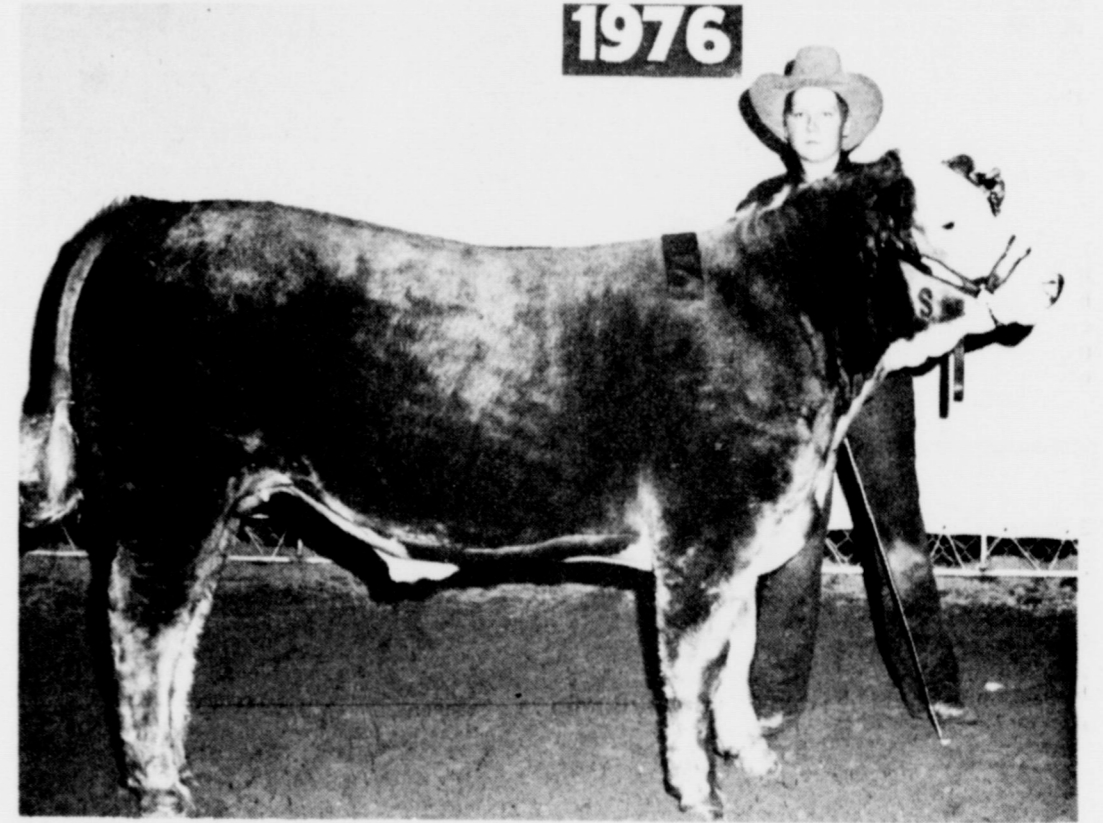

FIRST PLACE . . . Eddie Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Black proudly poses with his first place Simmental "Jack" in the San Antonio Exposition. With him is (l-r) Bailey County Agent Spencer Tanksley, his father, and sister Carol.

"DELMER" . . . Brian Kirby placed second with his middle weight Charolais named "Delmer" in the recent San Antonio Exposition.

"BLACK BEAUTY" . . . Takes first place in the light weight Limousine Division at the San Antonio Exposition. He is shown with his owner, Stacy Kirby.

TAKES FIRST . . . Craig Kirby placed first in the light weight Maine-Anjou division with his steer "Red Eye".

"PRIDE" DOES IT . . . He placed second in the light weight Maine-Anjou Division at the recent San Antonio Exposition. Shown with the steer is Kelly Harrison.

had an obligation to meet at the local bank and the citizens committee not only raised the necessary funds to meet the bank obligation, but to add a wing to the present hospital and renovate the present building.

The members of the citizens committee are not members of the present hospital board, but are just concerned citizens nominated and elected during a public meeting, who have taken it upon themselves to raise the much needed funds. With the help of numerous service clubs and other organizations as well as private citizens, the project has been a complete success.

It has been a long bumpy road to travel, but it looks like with the final drawings having been sent to Austin for approval, target date for construction is not far away.

The committee has accomplished what they set out to do -- to keep this hospital in operation and try and build a new facility. With assistance from Farmers Home Administration and other federal funds, which locally raised matching funds will match, the new facility will soon be constructed in the City of Muleshoe.

TEA Searches For Handicapped Children

AUSTIN -- The Texas Education Agency (TEA) is beginning a statewide effort to locate and identify every handicapped child of school age not now in school.
State Board of education Chairman Joe Kelly Butler of Houston announced the beginning of project "Child Find" at a Capitol news conference in Austin.
"Child Find", he said, "is designed to search out young people between the ages of three and 21 who are blind,
deaf, physically handicapped,
emotionally disturbed, or mentally retarded, and those with learning disabilities."
The program will be implemented by education service

centers in 20 regions throughout Texas, with the cooperation of the state's 1,121 independent school districts. In each region, door-to-door contacts will be made in one specific community served by a school district with an average daily attendance of approximately 3,000 students.
Kelly said through door-to-door
canvasses, handicapped children not in school will be contacted, their families will receive counseling services, and the children will begin receiving the education they need.
No statistics are available on the number of uneducated handicapped children, Butler said.
"We believe the number is above 10,000 children. These children are not receiving educational services promised them

by Texas law, and it is the duty of public education agencies to make their parents or guardians aware that free special education is available.
"Texas has made dramatic improvements in special education," Butler added. "Today,
public education is serving more than 300,000 students in special education programs. But that is only 76 percent of the handicapped children now in the state. It is the goal of public education to be serving the needs of every handicapped
child in Texas between the ages of three and 21 by 1980 -- more than 450,000 children."

Child Find is a project of Texas Education Agency's division of special education and is financed by a grant from the U.S.
Office of Education, Bureau of Education for the Handicapped.
"Hope is what we're offering
thousands of Texas youngsters,
through the project called Child Find," Butler points out. If a child's needs cannot be met educationally, Child Find serves as a coordinator, matching available services and resources to the individual situation of the child. The Board chairman emphasized the program will not duplicate services of other public agencies or private organizations. He said Child Find will act as a "catalyst", representing the child's best interests to appropriate organizations and communicating the availability of special services to parents and guardians on a person-to-person basis.
