Animal Warden Will Have Ticket 'Power'

Unanimously approved by members of the city council Tuesday morning was a new 'dog ordinance.' City Manager Dave Marr explained to council members that the ordinance is designed to simplify the procedures for animal control.

"In the past," he said, "most loose dogs have been returned to their owners, if known, regardless whether they had current license and/or vaccination tags, both of which are required by city ordinance."

He explained that with the new ordinance, the animal wardens can issue either a warning citation or a summons similar to a parking ticket. That way, he added, the dog does not have to be picked up and the matter can be handled by the court. It will allow the animal warden to issue a citation in the same manner as a patrol officer for the city police, and the person receiving the citation will have the usual 10 days to appear before the municipal judge.

At the present time, the city of Muleshoe disposes of approximately 600 stray dogs per year, said the city manager. The new ordinance is designed for loose dogs, as opposed to stray dogs. Loose dogs generally are known, and the city manager said the new ordinance will alleviate the situation where repeat offenders are known to the animal wardens.

With a known owner, the animal warden will not have to pick up the dog, but will contact the owner and issue the citation for the violation of one or two ordinances. Already in effect is an ordinance requiring the animal to be tied, in a fenced yard, or "controlled" by an owner or his representative. The new ordinance will preclude picking up the dog. It was explained that although in the past the animal warden frequently picked up dogs belonging to known owners and returning them to their home, this will no longer be done.

The ordinance also provides for a mandatory $10 fine to be assessed for the first offense. This will preclude dismissal of such charges by the city judge. Often, the animal warden will issue warnings for first offenders, followed by citations for repeat offenders.

Marr said it is hoped the new ordinance will further simplify and strengthen the dog control efforts in Muleshoe. This will also in no way affect the ordinances for control of stray dogs. Such animals will be

Earth Rodeo Will Begin With Parade

Today (Thursday) if you will just take off a little early from work and go to Earth, 18 miles east of Muleshoe on Highway 70, you will find "The Biggest Little Rodeo in the Southwest" ready to get underway.

Charlie Thompson of Lubbock is furnishing the rodeo stock and top performers will be at the rodeo which has drawn top contestants over the years.

Texas Farm Safety Week Designed To Cut Losses

Governor Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed July 25-31, Texas Farm Safety Week built around the theme "Safety is a Good Investment." Purpose of the observance is to call attention to methods of preventing the needless accidents on Texas farms and ranches that annually take 200 lives and cause multi-million dollar losses.

Governor Briscoe pointed out that safety must be a personal commitment and an integral part of everyday living. It's up to each farmer, he said, to protect priceless human resources through such practices as developing a home fire escape plan, storing clearly marked poisons well out of children's reach, training family and workers to perform tasks safely, and providing and wearing appropriate protective equipment so that accidents aren't given a chance to happen.

Muleshoe FFA Represented

At State Meeting

Muleshoe FFA was represented at the Texas FFA (Future Farmers of America) Convention in Fort Worth last week by Kirk Lewis, president; Darrell Rasco, Clayton Ramm, Ben Harmon and Tommy Wheeler. They were accompanied to Fort Worth by Bill Bickel, chapter advisor.

Kirk Lewis, Darrell Rasco and Larry Free were awarded the Lone Star degree, the highest degree awarded by the state convention. Darrell was also recognized as the Star Agri-businessman from Area 1 and received a plaque in recognition of his outstanding accomplishments in the Texas FFA.

First Baptist Will Sponsor Junior Trip

Muleshoe's First Baptist Church will sponsor a junior high trip to Lubbock on Saturday, July 23. The group will leave the church at 10 a.m. on the church bus from the West Parking lot.

Included on the agenda will be lunch at McDonald's, swimming at K.N. Clapp pool and miniature golf.

Each youth is reminded that necessary funds will be needed to pay for each activity and that costs will be as follows: McDonald's, $1.50 to $3; swimming, $.65 and miniature golf, $3.

All junior high school age students in Muleshoe are invited to enjoy the day of fun and recreation said Kenny Carter. He will be bus driver for the trip and the group will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jake Saylor and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Holt.

Rev. Carter reminded that swimsuits will be needed and that shorts or halter tops will not be permitted.

Since traffic, firearms and drowning accidents pose the greatest hazards for Texas farm families, a specific investment in their prevention would be well during Farm Safety Week.

Drivers can learn to avoid collisions in the eight-hour National Safety Council Defensive Driving Course. Offered regularly around the state, it can also save graduates 10 percent on their automobile insurance. More information is available from the Texas Safety Association, P.O. Box 9345, Austin, TX 78766.

The National Rifle Association's Hunter and Firearm Safety Courses (coordinated by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department) and the American Red Cross First Aid and Learn-to-Swim Courses also provide valuable safety training, pointed out Governor Briscoe.

A sampling of the 169 accidental farm deaths recorded by the Texas Farm Bureau for 1976 indicates that accident prevention efforts are still timely and necessary today.

In Anderson County, for instance, a man fishing from a bank, fell into a stock pond and drowned. A house fire in Leon County resulted in a woman's death when she was cleaning with gasoline. In Willacy, a tractor rolled over into a drainage ditch killing its driver. And, more than half of the 34 firearms deaths were attributed to guns accidentally discharging while being unloaded or carried.

Accident data being compiled from individual states provide national estimates indicating that 5,400 farm residents were killed and 500,000 disabled in work, home, recreation and traffic accidents during the past year.

The occupationally related portion of these totals indicates that work related accidents claimed the lives of nearly 1,900 per-

Commodities Broker Here On 'Hedging'

J. L. Hutcheson, a former Three Way resident, and graduate of Three Way High School, visited Muleshoe last Friday night as a commodities broker for Schneider, Bernert and Hickman, Inc. of Lubbock. He was in Muleshoe to explain "Hedging," and to show producers how hedging is a price protection or insurance device for producers.

He said the hedging device is used to protect profits in commodity producing, storing, processing or marketing after the commodity is acquired or committed.

"A hedge can be defined as a temporary substitute of a futures contract for a later cash transaction," he said. "Hedging shifts the risk of price change to others who are willing to assume the risk in anticipation of a profit."

He explained how to figure the hedge price and showed an actual hedge situation in his discussion.

Hutcheson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hutcheson, former Three Way farmers, said he plans further visits to Muleshoe around October and will explain more in the markets at that time. His meeting was in the Muleshoe State Bank community room.

Little League Loses In Tournament Action

Stunned Muleshoe Little League All-Stars watched a comfortable six point lead slip away in their tournament game against Olton Monday night, then lose out 9-8 by the time the game ended.

Getting off to a fast start in the second inning, after a scoreless first inning, both Mike Isaac and Israel Reyna scored to lead the Olton All-Stars 2-0 at the bottom of the second.

That lead was narrowed in the top of the third when Sammy Ruiz hit a long homer for Olton to make it 2-1. This was followed by runs in the bottom of the third when Michael Isaac scored for the second time, along with Bart Elliott and Tyrry Vandiver. Going into the fourth Jaime Torres scored to again narrow the gap just a bit at 5-2, but in the bottom of the fourth, runs were scored by Renee Sandoval, Sammy Gonzales and again by Bart Elliott.

Headed into the top of the fifth, the Muleshoe Little League All-Stars maintained a comfortable 6-2 lead. But! In the top of the fifth, that old bugaboo--ERRORS--shows up. Fielding errors proved to be costly for the young Muleshoe team as Olton started scoring. By the time the stunned Little League All-Stars realized what was happening, scores had been made by Rios, Medina, Moya, Kinsler, another Rios and Richards.

And the Muleshoe Little League was in trouble with the score at 8-8. Up to bat, it was virtually three up and three down then Jimmy Kinsler slammed across home plate in the top of the sixth and final inning for Olton to make it 9-8. Again Muleshoe felt the reverse of the game as a young Little League All-Star went down swinging to end the game, Olton 9, Muleshoe 8.

With Muleshoe out of tournament action, Olton was to meet Plainview at Roger Miller Park Tuesday night for the next Little League All-Star Action. In the

Monday night game between Muleshoe and Olton, Sammy Gonzales pitched for Muleshoe and Tony Rios pitched for Olton. Most of the Plainview Little League All-Star players and coaches were on hand to watch the action and see who they would be playing on Tuesday night.

Prior to the opening on Monday night, Tony Clines played the National Anthem on his trumpet as the Muleshoe Boy Scouts raised the flag and invocation was given by Rev. Walter Bartholf. Eugene Howard was announcer for the game.

PRESENTATION MADE...In appreciation to Sammy Gonzales, back left, three Muleshoe Little League team members made presentations of a plaque and gift certificates prior to the All-Star tournament Monday night. President Gonzales was honored by from left, Lance King, Tyrry Vandiver and Brett King. The Kings are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Max King and Tyrry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Butch Vandiver.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Isaac are hosting their grandson, Nicky Abdelnour, 12, from Lavonia, Michigan. He is also visiting in the home of an uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Isaac.

Nicky reports he is enjoying his trip as it is the first time he has visited this area since he was very small.

Southwest Airlines have announced that on Monday, July 18, they added an additional round trip flight daily between Dallas and Lubbock.

They reported that during June, their first full month of operation in the Lubbock area, they carried 19,309 passengers.

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture said Jest Amusement Carnival, featuring two new rides, will be in Muleshoe August 1-7.

Bailey County USDA office reported that 40 of 64 eligible voters cast their ballot in the recent beef referendum. No count of the vote had been made by presstime.

Throughout the Panhandle, a vote of approximately 75 percent was reported by USDA offices.

Visiting over the weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernis Camp were Mr. and Mrs. Randy Cornelison and daughter, Amy, of Borger. Also visiting was Susie Kiser.

Anne Camp, librarian, extends an invitation to all children to visit the library on Wednesday mornings from 10:00 to 10:30 a.m. Short films and cartoons are shown in the library basement during this half hour.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

The Board of Directors of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. July 13 adopted a $207,500 budget for the organization's 1977-78 fiscal year.

In other action the Board elected one new member to its Executive Committee and re-elected five others, voted to cease participation in the making and publication of monthly crop estimates during the 1977 growing season, and agreed to sponsor a textile mill tour early this fall.

The Board also resolved to express its "unanimous regret at the announced retirement of Congressman George Mahon at the end of the current term" and to "convey its great appreciation for the innumerable times he has befriended the High Plains cotton industry and made possible its continued growth and prosperity..."

The budget covers the cost of such items as agricultural research, advertising and promotion, fiber research and services, market development and legislative activities, all aimed at providing benefits to approximately 20,000 High Plains cotton producers. The 1976-77 budget came to $196,900, but Board members were told that prudent use of funds during the year had saved about $20,000 of that amount.

PCG has one elected member on its Executive Committee from each of six districts. The new member, Jimmie Holder of Lubbock, was elected to represent Lubbock, Crosby and Dickens Counties, District 4. He replaces Gary Ivey of Ralls who was elected PCG Secretary-Treasurer last April.

Re-elected from District 1 (Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Swisher and Briscoe Counties) was W.L. Edelman of Friona. Returned to the committee from District 2 (Bailey, Cochran and Hockley) was Lloyd Miller of Morton. District 3 (Lamb, Hale, Floyd and Motley) will continue to have Paul Bennett of Littlefield on the committee.

District 5 (Yoakum, Terry, Lynn and Garza) will again be served by Truett Jones of Brownfield, and Marion Bowers of Seminole was re-elected to the committee from District 6 (Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Martin, Howard and Midland).

Serving on the Executive Committee with these elected members will be current PCG officers and past presidents.

Since the 1970 crop PCG has had a four-man producer committee which worked with a four-man merchant committee of the Lubbock Cotton Exchange to compile and publish monthly crop projections from July through December each year. But the PCG Board on a split vote decided not to continue in this role for the remainder of the current year. Lubbock Cotton Exchange officials have not yet made known whether that organization alone will continue the estimates.

One of the troubles with the nation's economy is that there're too many people sitting at executive desks without just cause or excuse.

There're any number of persons who are attuned to the idea of getting something for nothing but not many who are ready to give something for nothing.

Dear Mr. Bullock: I am a student, with a question. How much money does Texas receive from the federal government, and how does this compare to the other states?

In 1976, the State of Texas received $1.8 billion in federal assistance, ranking it fourth among the 50 states in total federal aid. The states that received more than Texas were New York, California and Pennsylvania.

On a per capita basis, however, the federal aid picture is not as good for Texas. In terms of total federal dollars per person, we ranked ninth from the bottom.

Mr. Comptroller: Are the labor charges taxable when a welding shop makes wrought iron chairs and a table for my patio?

Yes. The full amount charged for the items would be subject to the tax. Labor in the manufacturing process is taxable so long as it is not a repair.

Dear Sir: Is the money from life insurance policies exempt from the state Inheritance Tax?

The first $40,000 received from life insurance policies are exempt from the tax if the policies are made payable to a named beneficiary. If the insurance is payable to the estate, the total amount received is taxable.

I am a serviceman stationed at Fort Hood, but I claim Virginia as my residence. Do I have to pay property taxes in Texas?

You must pay tax on any real property you own in Texas. Your personal property, however, is taxable only in Virginia.

The Korean Question

WASHINGTON—In an unpredictable world, America's commitment to its allies and to world peace has always been a stabilizing influence.

That is why the Administration's policy announcement that our troop strength in South Korea should be reduced and phased-out over a five-year period is disturbing. Clearly, it would jeopardize the basic stability in Korea that exists now and plant the false impression that American resolve to maintain strengthened world alliances is guaranteed only from one administration to the next.

Pulling our troops out of South Korea would foster confusion and uncertainty among other friendly powers in Eastern Asia, and elsewhere, forcing them to reassess the course of American foreign policy, and sowing the seeds for a new and potentially dangerous world order.

The Administration's withdrawal plan, conceived largely in campaign pledges—without the benefit of consultation with our own military experts or with the affected governments in the region, particularly South Korea—is based on the naive assumption that future South Korean military strength could replace the deterrence to aggression the American presence provides.

Nothing could be more inconsistent with the facts. With America's military presence, and South Korea's military strength, any threat from the North would be countered. This is understood. Without that presence, perceptions of South Korea's overall strength would change drastically.

There is ample reason to believe that an American troop withdrawal might be just the spark needed to ignite the tinderbox that is the Korean peninsula.

The North Koreans have made clear their objective to unify the two Koreas. Undoubtedly, a wavering American commitment to the Seoul regime would be perceived as an opportunity to achieve that objective.

History has shown us that ill-considered foreign policy decisions reap consequences that may not fully unfold until years later. South Korea's carefully developed strategic defenses have assured stability in that portion of the Asian mainland. Withdrawing American troops, and by implication our commitment to maintain peace there, would heighten tensions that could create the same climate for hostilities which incited the North Korean attack 27 years ago.

Future generations of Americans could pay the price for today's errors in judgment.

If we are to avoid in Korea the tragic miscalculations of foreign policy which long-characterized American involvement in Vietnam, the American people must be fully apprised of developments, and the Congress must be a full partner in the decision-making. Up to this point, that joint consultation has been virtually nonexistent.

For over a quarter century, the American presence in South Korea has represented the only hope for peace and stability for that Nation's people. Their belief in us should not be undermined now.

The Lonely Heart

On Wall Street

By Bob Hill

The light-truck market is literally exploding. June will make the seventh straight month in which light-truck sales (pickups and vans) will set a record. Light trucks are 90 percent of the truck market. Chevrolet now sells one light truck for every 1.8 autos. In 1960 this ratio was one for every 6.3 cars.

Auto marketing executives can supply lots of reasons for the sales boom—some call trucks "adult toys"—but they are stunned by the rapid growth rate. The truck craze began in California where many auto trends start. It happened in the 1960s when young people began converting trucks into personalized rigs and even into homes on wheels. The youth market is still an important factor, but trucks are finding new markets elsewhere.

Pickups are hot with those who want to haul snowmobiles and motorcycles. But they are also appealing to urban and suburban families that have no such specific use for them. Japanese mini-pickups control nine percent of the light-truck market.

According to one truck merchandising expert, people are buying pickups and vans partly as a means of avoiding the shrinking size of Detroit's sedans and station wagons. It seems a truck has become socially acceptable. That view is supported by the expensive options that buyers hang on their trucks. Some 90 percent of the Chevy light-truck buyers now pay extra for power steering, 75 percent of the buyers add automatic transmissions, and 50 percent of the buyers go for air conditioning. A Van Nuys, California Dodge dealer says he recently sold a van for $16,000, completely outfitted with a television, "Pong" game and stereo.

All of the auto manufacturers have their van assembly lines working overtime and Saturdays. Chrysler lost 20,000 vans produced during a six-week strike at its St. Louis assembly plant. To challenge the market dominance of Chrysler's Dodge vans, Ford plans to add 50 percent more van manufacturing capacity, and GM will add about the same of new capacity this year.

Sometimes you can best look out for yourself by looking out for other people.

An evening ceremony united in marriage Miss Karen Rena Head and Russel Ray Treider, Thursday, July 7, in the First United Methodist Church of Muleshoe. Rev. David Hamblin conducted the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Head of Muleshoe and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Treider of Lazbuddie.

Vows were exchanged before an altar setting of a large bouquet of seven gladiolas, blue and white carnations and fugi mums with the memory candle amidst. A large open family Bible was tilted in front of the arrangement with single tapers on either side. It was flanked on each side by candelabrum holding seven blue lighted tapers. The family pews were marked with blue bows. The bride gave each mother a long stemmed white rose.

Seven, being the perfect number from the Bible, was used all through the wedding in the date, candles, flowers and reception.

Miss Judy Precure provided the traditional wedding music on the electric piano accompanied by Miss Patty Pena on the chimes for the wedding march. Soloist, Miss Debbie Kerr of Lubbock sang, "The Wedding Song."

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of alencon lace over white satin in Victorian style featuring an empire waist, leg of mutton sleeves and chapel train. Her veil of illusion fell from a headpiece of lace leaves. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white silk roses on top of a lace covered Bible.

Carrying out the tradition of something old, the bride carried a white Bible given to her mother 25 years ago. Something new was her watch, given to her by the groom. Something borrowed was a rhinestone bracelet borrowed from her mother and something blue was her blue satin garter.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Fran Dunbar of Muleshoe. She wore a blue gown with a blue flower hair-piece. She carried a bouquet of

Serving as best man was Wesley Barnes, Jr., of Hobbs, N.M. He wore a baby blue tuxedo trimmed in dark blue and a blue ruffled shirt. He wore a white silk rose boutonniere.

Serving as ushers were Kelly Head, brother of the bride, and Reggie Treider, brother of the groom.

The groom was attired in an all-white tuxedo with a white ruffled shirt. He wore a boutonniere of white silk roses.

Mrs. Head, mother of the bride, wore a blue dacron floor length dress and a white silk rose corsage. Mrs. Treider, mother of the groom, wore a pink dacron floor length dress with a floral chiffon cape. She wore a pink silk rose corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. The serving table was laid with a floor length cloth of white net over white satin. The bride's bouquet served as the centerpiece with a candle placed in the center flanked by three candles on each side, carrying out the seven theme. The traditional wedding cake was separated between layers and decorated with three wedding bells on two layers and the seventh bell on top with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was decorated with blue roses. The cake, slush punch and nuts were served from crystal and silver appointments by Miss Linda Lewis of Guthrie and Miss Shirley Lewis of Lubbock, cousins of the bride.

Guests were registered in the bride's book by Miss Cindy Dodd at the wedding and by Miss Cynthia Isaac at the reception.

For a wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a white vested pants suit with a baby blue blouse and a blue silk flower corsage. The couple will be at home at 411 West Second in Muleshoe.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Calvin Embry, Mrs. Marshal Head, Mrs. Gordon Wilson and Mrs. David Pitcock. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Lindel Terry, Herman Mitchell and Meada Head of Clovis, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mitchell of Santa Rosa, N.M., Mr.

and Mrs. Chuck Sudduth, Brad and Brenda, Ronald Lewis, Shirley, Linda and Clinton of Guthrie; Mr. and Mrs. Reece Wilterding and James of Tulsa; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neely of Okmulgee, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Campbell of Oxnard, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamblin of Las Vegas, N.M.; and Mr. and Mrs. Dusty Davis of Columbia, Missouri.

Miss Head is a 1977 graduate of Muleshoe High School. Treider is a 1976 graduate of Lazbuddie High School and is now engaged in carpentry.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Treider at the Corral Restaurant. The head table was decorated with a blue and white silk flower arrangement which was presented to the bride and groom.

Back-To-School Wardrobe-With Children In Mind

In school clothes, it's the Who, Why, What, When and Where that counts—and it can be a meaningful occasion when children are part of the planning and shopping, says Mrs. Marlene Odle-Kemp, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Style is important. Young people want to wear what their friends wear," she emphasizes.

Other major factors are the child's growth rate and activities—along with fabric types and garment care, she says.

In planning, make a list of specific items needed. Decide on quantity with growth patterns in mind. Consider buying only two or three outfits to mix and match, if the child will outgrow them in about three months, the specialist advises.

Choose styles and fabrics that will "grow along"—raglan sleeves, cuffed pants, wide hems in dresses and tops can add to the life span of a garment.

Stretchy knits are popular, comfortable and "easy care," especially cotton or cotton/polyester. Durable fabrics like denim and corduroy withstand rough play and many washings.

"If a child needs costumes, uniforms or any special clothing for activities, budget for them, too—they can be important to children. They can wreck budgets if unplanned, though. Decide if perhaps mix-and-match will serve here, also, if parts of these special buys could be everyday wardrobe-extendors," Mrs. Odle-Kemp suggests.

Be especially careful of shoes, she cautions. No hand-me-downs; this forces a child's foot to conform to the footprint in the shoe. Have a reputable shoe salesman determine the child's size.

Buy at least two pairs of sturdy shoes that support the ankle—and interchange them for longer wear.

Refreeze seafood ONLY if ice crystals remain on the food and ONLY if it has been held in the refrigerator for no more than two days, warns Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The specialist adds that although flavor and texture may seem altered, the food is safe.

Pace of consumer price rise slows.

Consumer Food News

Soft-shell squash quality is high and prices low; beef prices are up a bit, and dairy specials are many in Texas grocery markets this week.

Current economical food buys, compiled by Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, are the following:

FRESH VEGETABLES--Budget buys include yellow crook-neck and straightneck, zucchini and white flat, or "patty pan," squash—along with green beans, cabbage and corn. Other economical good-quality items are cucumbers, carrots, head lettuce, radishes and green onions—as well as snap beans, okra and southern peas, such as blackeye, purple hull and crowder.

BEEF--Prices are slightly higher, but specials include chuck roasts—the arm, the blade and the boneless blade roasts—along with fresh briskets, hamburger, sirloin tip roasts and liver. Other specials appear on sirloin, chuck and round steaks.

DAIRY--Look for specials on many dairy products—milk, yogurt, sour cream and a variety of cheeses.

FRESH FRUITS--More peaches on the market offer better flavor—however, quality varies as do prices. Nice quality appears in cherries, nectarines, plums and apricots in most markets—and lower prices make cantaloupe and watermelons more economical.

POULTRY--Fryer chickens, turkeys and turkey parts offer real economy for the summer. Egg production may rise slightly in upcoming months; currently eggs are one of the good protein buys. Buy refrigerated eggs and keep them refrigerated to retain quality.

PORK--Production is decreasing as usual for this season, but it remains above last year's levels. Best buys are bacon, smoked picnics, whole semi-boneless hams, end chops—and canned ham, one of the most economical buys at present.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES--Budget buys lean toward easy-fixing picnic-type foods, such as tuna, crackers, peanut butter, sandwich buns and breads—and pork and beans.

FROZEN FOOD CHESTS--More economical buys appear on prepared dishes, such as fried chicken, Salisbury steak, stuffed peppers and complete dinners.

Competition On Increase From Banks Out Of State

With above-average growth of deposits and further consolidation of banking resources through expansion of multibank holding companies, banks in Texas are in a better position than a few years ago to meet competition from outside the state.

But with the state's sustained industrial growth holding up demand for bank services, out-of-state banks have also put themselves in a better position to compete for business in Texas.

Some of the most marked changes have come in response to the increased importance of foreign trade in the Southwest.

Shipments through the Houston Customs Region have been rising sharply for several years. Last year alone, shipments increased 15 percent.

While much of the expansion has been in imports of crude oil, exports of manufactured goods have also been on the rise, especially chemicals. Farm exports have increased, first with the big increase in grain shipments in 1972 and more recently with expanded cotton shipments.

And with the search for oil intensified worldwide, new markets have opened overseas for oilfield equipment made in the Southwest. And other forms of petroleum production technology, such as engineering services, are being sold overseas more than when oil prices began rising.

The result has been a rapid growth in demand for international banking services in Texas. And to help meet the demand, seven of the country's ten biggest banks have opened offices in Houston, specializing in international banking.

All headquartered in New York, California, or Chicago, these offices operate in Texas under federal law that limits their business to international banking.

They are not allowed to conduct ordinary banking operations in Texas. But five of the parent banks also keep representatives in Houston to process domestic business loans for their home offices. And that is allowed.

Foreign banks, too, are making loans in Texas. Twenty-three of them have come into the state with offices for producing business loans. Included are representatives of some of the world's largest banks, some with deposits roughly equivalent to the total of all Texas banks.

Here, again, most of the representatives are in Houston, the only exceptions being offices of two Canadian banks in Dallas.

Other banks have also come into Texas to take part in the business expansion here.

Fourteen out-of-state banks have subsidiaries in Texas that lease plants and equipment. They will buy equipment or build a plant to a lessee's specification. Or they will buy property under a leaseback agreement that makes the seller a lessee.

A Boston bank operates a factoring office in Dallas, where businessmen can borrow

of state has been in pursuit of business loans. But Texas has also seen the rapid growth of consumer finance organizations, some of which are subsidiaries of bank holding companies in other states.

And seven large out-of-state banks and mortgage companies have opened offices in Dallas and Houston to take part in financing the building boom in Texas.

Cotton Council Asks Common-Sense Rule

The National Cotton Council today called for a "rational, common-sense approach" to rule-making concerning worker exposure to cotton dust.

In post-hearing comments filed with Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the Council emphasizes that the cotton industry is not insensitive to its employees' health and safety needs and does not challenge OSHA's responsibility to assure that safe and healthful work conditions are provided.

However, the Council maintains that the preponderance of evidence presented during the hearings on OSHA's proposed new industrywide dust standard shows that safe and healthful work conditions already prevail in most of the work areas in the industry's various sectors.

On the basis of evidence in the hearing record, the Council asserts that OSHA should (1) exclude non-textile sectors from the standard, and (2) set exposure limits in keeping with potential hazard to workers in those textile sectors where it considers a standard necessary. Cited as an example is testimony showing that workers in spinning and weaving sectors of textile mills could be exposed to higher dust levels and still be given the high level of protection that the proposed 0.2 milligram standard would provide.

vide in opening and carding rooms.

The Council also notes that studies currently planned by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health on worker exposure to dusts in the various industry sectors will enable OSHA to promulgate an equitable standard without unduly penalizing the industry.

"In sectors where there is no proof of a problem, OSHA has no basis for placing an insurmountable cost burden on industry," the Council states. "In sectors where there is evidence of a problem, OSHA has a responsibility to assure worker protection in the most cost effective way."

The statement also points to greatly expanded research programs on byssinosis which have been stimulated as a result of industry efforts over the past five years. Findings from this research, the Council says, offer hope for short-term answers to the cotton dust problem and strong indications that much progress can be made within the next year or two.

The second phase of the management plans for Buffalo Springs lake near Lubbock and McCellan lake near McLean have just been completed by fisheries personnel of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Routine procedures were followed at both lakes as nets were strung across predetermined coves and a rotenone chemical was dispensed into the water. All the fish were collected as the chemical affected their ability to breathe. Fisheries technicians using landing nets gathered all species of fish normally found in each lake. The remainder of the lakes and their fish populations were not affected by this operation as the chemical dissipated within hours.

Complete information pertaining to fish production, growth rates, and ratio of game fish to rough or forage fish will be determined after all the figures are compiled by the P&WD. These new facts about each lake will be compared with previous surveys completed over the last several years and trends of fish populations will be evident.

The next step for each lake will be the use of electro-fishing gear to collect fish samples not accessible to chemical or net operations. Plans for the final survey with the electro-fishing gear is planned for late July or early August.

Texans Could Have Saved 80 Million Gallons Of Gas

Texas motorists could have saved at least 80 million gallons of gasoline worth about $46.8 million in 1976 had they properly inflated their tires, the Tire Industry Safety Council estimates.

"The simple act of keeping the right amount of air in automobile tires will make an important contribution to energy conservation," said Council Chairman Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr. "Proper inflation will benefit the car owner by saving both gasoline and tires."

Properly inflated tires can add five percent to gasoline mileage, or an extra mile per gallon, because they roll easier, according to industry experts.

The correct air pressure also extends tread wear, which in turn saves oil because many components of tires come from crude oil, Lovell pointed out. It takes seven gallons of crude oil to make a tire, industry sources say.

A study by the National Bureau of Standards shows that more than one out of four cars has at least one seriously underinflated tire. A seriously underinflated tire is four or more pounds of air pressure below the amount recommended by the vehicle manufacturer in the car owner's manual.

More than eight billion gallons of gasoline were consumed by an estimated 8.6 million cars, trucks, buses and other vehicles in Texas last year, according to the Federal Highway Administration. The Council estimates that 80 percent of that amount--or 6.4 billion gallons--was used by automobiles. A five percent savings of that figure would be 320 million gallons.

Thus the savings lost by one-fourth of the Texas drivers with underinflated tires would total 80 million gallons. Based on the recent average U.S. price of 58.6 cents per gallon, the loss due to underinflation would amount to more than $46.8 million.

The American Petroleum Institute says the entire U.S. consumes 100 billion gallons of gasoline a year--more than 1,000 gallons for every automobile on the road. A five percent savings on that amount of gas would come to at least 50 gallons for each car or a savings of at least $29.30 per car annually on gas alone.

"Overall, American motorists could save at least 800 million gallons of gasoline, or 41 million barrels of crude oil, a year if they would only inflate their tires with free air," Lovell said. "Total domestic demand for crude oil has been running about 20.2 million barrels a day. So the amount which could be saved by proper tire care would satisfy all the oil needs of the U.S. for two days."

Most of the people who are in a hurry have nothing else to do.

Senator Will Be Energy Panel Member

U.S. Senator John Tower confirmed today that he will appear as a panel member, on energy development, for the educational symposium at the High Plains Agribusiness Exposition in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center, September 8, 9 and 10. Tower is the first of a group of nationally known panelists to be confirmed for the event.

Other, yet-to-be-named, energy panelists will appear with Tower. Additional topics to be presented at the symposium include marketing, water development and estate planning. Danny J. Cunyus, Director of the Exposition, said that in addition to appearances as speakers, panelists will be available to answer questions for registrants at sessions.

A natural fiber fashion show, microwave cooking demonstration, home decorating seminar for rural and urban homemakers and the Texas Department of Agriculture's "Taste of Texas" are among the other special events scheduled at the three day Exposition.

Cunyus also reported that 122 exhibitors of agribusiness goods and services are currently signed for inside and outside space at the show.

South Plains College Boosts Country Music

How can you miss with an original script telling the history of country music in Texas and some of the greatest hits ever performed?

You can't. Not when more than 11,000 people from Borger to Odessa sing along with, clap to and stand up to enthusiastically applaud "Texas  Cradle of Giants," the country music road show put on by South Plains College.

The college road show, whose performances are all free of charge, may be able to match the mileage traveled by a professional troupe. Since their opening performance in May on the SPC campus, the "Texas  Cradle of Giants" cast and crew have logged well over 2,000 miles to perform for concerts from Lake Meredith near Borger to Odessa's Wynwood Mall.

The 12-member cast, cream of the country music crop at SPC, perform more than 40 country music hits in their two hour show—hits by Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings, Bob Wills, Mac Davis and many other.

Audiences have been heard to cheer when Eddie Hill, guitarist and vocalist, plunges into "Whiskey River," or Carl Sims, guitarist and vocalist, does the Jennings medley, "Good Hearted Woman," "Amanda" and "Lukenbach."

A professional musician in his own right, John Hartin, director of the country music program at SPC, sings Ernest Tubbs' "The Soldier's Last Letter."

Buddy Faulk doubles on saxophone and harmonica for numbers like "Hello Walls" and Keith Brashear, Texas Tech fiddler, is featured in "Arkansas Traveler." Vocalists Kristy Brock and Carrie Vaughn take the spotlight respectively for "Funny How Time Slips Away" and "Wayward Wind." Danny Crunk, guitarist, performs Roger Miller's 60s hit, "King of the Road," and Baxter Vaughn, on pedal Steel guitar, rouses audiences with "Steel Guitar Rag," "He'll Have To Go" and the number with which the show is closed, "The Proudest Fiddle in the World," honoring the late Bob Wills.

Randy Henderson is drummer, and dancers Toni Mixon and Scott Yarbrough perform a hoe down.

Buddy Moore, dean of men at SPC, narrates a script researched and written by Helen Roberts, assistant professor of speech and drama at SPC. Mrs. Roberts interviewed dozens of country musicians and poured through what books and magazines she could find on the subject to get material for her "Texas  Cradle of Giants" script. It tells, through story, as well as song, a capsulized history of country music in Texas, from the early cowboy herding songs like "Home on the Range," to "Blue Eyes Crying In The Rain," typical of the current hits now revolutionizing country music.

Show technicians are Monte Roberts and Chuck Evans.

A mobile stage called the Shomobile has replaced a U-haul truck originally used to haul the show equipment. The Shomobile, in addition to hauling musical sound and lighting equipment and screens for a slide presentation, also serves as an extended stage for each performance. Slides of both SPC performers and the legendary Texans they portray are flashed on screens throughout the show.

With its ability to serve a variety of purposes, the Shomobile eliminates much of the tedium involved in setting up the show. The mobile stage has carried "Texas  Cradle of Giants" to the Wayland Bowl in Plainview, to city parks in Denver City and Post, the town square in Seminole, the football stadium in Hereford and the Littlefield High School tennis courts and its engagement Thursday (July 13) at Slaton.

While the audiences have been the show's greatest friends (they gave standing ovations at Lake Meredith, Hereford, Post and three at the Lubbock Civic Center), the weather has been an enemy of the show, which is usually staged out of doors.

Rain has dogged the trail from the outset, cancelling the show's opening performance in May on the SPC campus and performances at Plainview and Bovina. Rain even had the audacity to threaten the rain check performance at Plainview and performers hurriedly condensed the second half of the show before the deluge started. Cast and crew doggedly took down, then put up again their equipment until the rain stopped and they were able to play.

The road still stretches ahead for "Texas  Cradle of Giants," which had performances scheduled Friday, (July 15) at Plains, July 19 at Hale Center, July 21 at Tahoka, July 22 at Ralls, July 25 at Bovina, July 26 at Amarillo and July 28 at Lovington, N.M.

Screwworms Threaten Two States

Known screwworm populations in central New Mexico, and in Mexico 30 miles south of the Big Bend and 50 miles southwest of El Paso, threaten animals in eastern New Mexico and western Texas, says Dr. James E. Novy.

"Screwworms may already be infesting animals between these points," says the assistant veterinarian in charge of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) Screwworm Eradication Program.

Moisture conditions in the area are becoming ideal for screwworms. Historically most cases of the parasite in the El Paso area are in dogs. Charles Sullivan of the Bar A Ranch at Winston in Socorro County took New Mexico's sixth 1977 screwworm sample from a cut in a leg of a horse on July 10. He also treated two cases in dehorned calves. The rancher says these animals were 20 miles north of Winston and five miles down Monticello Canyon. This puts them along the Alamosa River on the edge of Cibola National Forest. Novy says these cases are some distance from the last reported New Mexico case in Grant County. A.C. Watkins treated that infestation in the horn of a bovine near the Mule Creek Post Office on July 7. The veterinarian says a satellite distribution center at Alpine, Texas, will go into operation the week of July 18. From that center APHIS produced sterile screwworm flies will be distributed five days per week on parts of west Texas and eastern New Mexico. He urges animal owners to watch animals carefully, treat all wounds, and promptly submit samples of all worms found in wounds for laboratory identification.

Osteoarthritis Yields New Clues Slowly

Muleshoe, Texas, July 1977—"The first anniversary of the Viking landing on Mars this month reminds us of the importance of painstaking research in scientific breakthroughs," reports Dr. Mills, Rheumatologist of the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

"While there is still no cure for arthritis," Dr. Mills continued, "a multitude of new research developments have been building and bode well for a major breakthrough at any time."

One form of arthritis that is being closely examined at Arthritis Foundation supported research centers is osteoarthritis, a degenerative joint disease that seriously afflicts 12 million Americans who are over 60. This wear-and-tear form of arthritis involves a breakdown of cartilage and other tissues which make a movable joint operate properly.

"One promising area in osteoarthritis research is the role of the corrosive enzymes responsible for the destruction of joint cartilage," Dr. Mills pointed out. "Researchers are carefully studying chemical agents that might halt such corrosive enzymes and prevent chronic inflammation in osteoarthritis patients."

"Until researchers do come up with the cause and cure, we can do a lot now for victims of osteoarthritis and other forms of this crippling disease," said Dr. Mills.

For further information on this disease, Muleshoe residents should write for a free booklet called "Osteoarthritis—a Handbook for Patients," available from the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, P.O. Box 3335, Lubbock, Texas.

AUSTIN—Atty. Gen. John Hill and Gov. Dolph Briscoe have rival polls which convince them they can win the 1978 governor's race.

Hill's pollsters concede Briscoe is still out front, but they claim his advantage of incumbency is receding.

The attorney general's problems, the Hill survey maintains, "is to penetrate the consciousness of the masses who don't know him, to impress them favorably and to gain their support while maintaining the support of those who already prefer him over Briscoe."

The Hill poll concluded in one segment that 44 per cent of likely Democratic primary voters surveyed favored Briscoe, while 29 per cent favored Hill, and 27 per cent were undecided.

Pollsters for Hill also found a majority of voters are balky about re-electing a governor who would have served 10 years in office by the end of his next four-year term.

Briscoe's campaign manager said the governor has lost no basic strength and even has made gains since November, based on another private survey's findings.

Both Briscoe and Hill have campaign headquarters open here—although Hill has not formally announced.

Former Gov. Preston Smith is regarded as another possible candidate for governor in the 1978 Democratic primary election.

Judges Busy

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals judges and commissioners wrote nearly 19 times as many opinions as State Supreme Court justices last year, according to Texas Judicial Council statistics.

The top criminal court judges turned out 2,177 opinions, compared with 115 (and 667 dispositions of applications for writs of error) by the nine Supreme Court justices.

Fourteen courts of civil appeals wrote 1,562 opinions last year, while 329,373 cases were disposed of in 261 district, domestic relations and special juvenile courts—a two per cent increase over 1975.

Another 286,415 cases were disposed of in county courts, and 918,000 traffic cases were filed in reporting justice of the peace courts—70 per cent of all cases for the j.p.'s.

The Court of Criminal Appeals must write an opinion in every case it decides.

Economizing?

Twenty per cent of Texas visitors travelling by auto last spring stayed in homes of friends or relatives.

The percentage is five times above the in-home visiting level last year.

In spite of generosity of Texas hosts, the visitors did lots of spending, however. The average group travelling by car left $443.46 in the state, an increase of more than $40 above the spring of 1976.

The visitors stayed an average of 10.2 days this spring, 9.91 days in 1976.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court unanimously removed from office District Judge Garth C. Bates of Houston, who was convicted of accepting a bribe.

In other recent action, the high court:

Invalidated an antiquities code provision used to stop demolition of three downtown Dallas buildings.

Took under consideration an appeal in an $800,000 judgment against Bristol-Myers drug company favoring a Corpus Christi man who lost his hearing after using an antibiotic for a hip injury.

Heard an argument that a Wichita Falls man should be compensated by Mexico for 218,000 acres of land confiscated from him in the Mexican state of Zacatecas.

A federal judge ordered a stay of execution for Wilbur Charles Collins sentenced to die in the electric chair Sunday for killing a Waco convenience store operator. The State Court of Criminal Appeals earlier had turned down the stay.

AG Opinions

In guidelines to the legislature on school finance, Atty. Gen. John Hill noted that property taxes must be assessed on the basis of market value and that one kind of property cannot be assessed at a lower percentage of value than others.

Hill said he would have to see a specific bill on school tax values before he could decide its constitutionality.

In another recent opinion, Hill held Dallas school district information on disciplinary action against students involving corporal punishment is open to the public, as is certain other data on teachers, administrators and student body composition.

Offices Filled

Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler was elected new president pro tempore of the Texas Senate. He will take the oath of office after Sen. Don Adams of Jasper, the outgoing president, has served as governor for a day.

Tanner T. Hunt Jr., Beaumont attorney, is parliamentarian of the Senate during the 65th legislature's special session on school finance.

ORDINANCE NO. 170A AN ORDINANCE AMENDING CHAPTER 3 OF THE MULESHOE CITY CODE OF 1974 BY PROVIDING FOR YEARLY VACCINATIONS, PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE OF CITATIONS AND PROVIDING FOR ENFORCEMENT.
Sec. 3-17. Penalty

Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not to exceed two hundred ($200.00) dollars, and if such violation be continues, each day's violation shall constitute a separate offense. (Ord. 54A, 16, 4-23-1965.)
PASSED AND APPROVED THIS THE 19TH DAY OF JULY, 1977.

(s) Kenneth R. Henry
Mayor, City of Muleshoe
The City Council at it's Tuesday, July 19 meeting amended the Animal Control Ordinance. Through the new amendment the City's animal warden will now have the power to issue written warnings and citations to animal owners whose animals are in violation of the ordinance. The warnings or citations may either be given personally to the owner or left on the door of their home. A citation, if issued, will require an appearance in municipal court and a ten dollar ($10.00) fine, will be issued for the first offense. A warning citation will be only a warning to the owner that his or her animal is in violation of the ordinance. No court appearance is necessary for a warning.

The animal ordinance calls for yearly vaccinations and licenses of all dogs and cats. Dogs must be vaccinated by a veterinarian and the vaccination tag must be worn by the dog on its collar. City licenses must be purchased yearly at City Hall for one dollar ($1.00). City license tags must also be worn on the dog's collar. In addition to the requirement for yearly license and vaccination, the ordinance requires any animal to under restraint at all times. Restraint is defined as "...controlled by a leash, at "heel" beside a competent person and obedient to that person's commands; on or within a vehicle being driven or parked on the streets; or within the property limits of its owner or keeper."

Any dog not under restraint as defined, or without current vaccination tag and City license tag is in violation of the ordinance and subject to a warning, a citation, or impoundment.

The average youngster can tell his, or her, parents how life should be lived, and then some.

It's astonishing how wise words of smart men have been forgotten by the so-called human race.

Most of the good things that come to individuals in life have to be paid for in some manner.

Texas Food and Fiber

by Reagan V. Brown, Commissioner
Texas Department of Agriculture

Water-cool, clear, water. Nothing except the air we breathe is as important to our survival as this precious resource. Yet nothing is taken more for granted than water.

If every day, for the next three weeks you turned on the faucet in your kitchen and notice a steadily decreasing flow of water, until on the 19th day there was a trickle and on the 20th day only a few drops and then on the 21st day nothing at all, then perhaps you could realize the seriousness of the water situation facing us in Texas today.

We are running out of water.

Our water planners have been telling us that Texas does not have enough water to meet all of our needs beyond the end of this century, just 23 years from now. I believe them. Texas is growing and so are our water requirements.

Low Water Table

We can no longer rely on "yesterday's water." Around 6 million acres of our prime agricultural land on the Plains depend on the huge underground water supply -- the Ogallala Aquifer -- created millions of years ago. This underground reservoir is not easily recharged by surface water and 30 years of heavy pumping has dropped the water table critically over the years.

Thousands of irrigation wells have gone dry in this region -- an area which provides 25 per cent of the nation's cotton, as well as a large portion of our supply of grain sorghum, corn, wheat and soybeans.

Irrigated agriculture means so much to the well-being of all Texans. Water for agriculture puts dollars in the pocket as well as food on the table.

As an example of the value of irrigation to the Texas economy, recent figures show that 13 million acre feet of water used in 1974 represent more than 143,000 Texas jobs, more than $117 million in tax revenues to state and local governments and more than $1.3 billion in personal income to Texas labor.

Irrigated agriculture, according to the Texas Water Development Board, represents more than $4 billion. This is no small sum, even in these days of inflation and our casual use of the word billions.

No. 1 User

Agriculture is the No. 1 user of water in Texas. It takes a lot of water to produce the food and fiber necessary to feed and clothe the state's more than 12 million people and to help fill the market baskets of those from beyond our borders who want to buy our products.

We are presently overdrafting our supplies to meet our demands for water. This cannot continue much longer. It doesn't take a lot of figuring to determine the results. Like the ole' bank account, if you continue to spend more than you put in, you are soon broke.

This is the predicament facing us today. We can continue overdrawing our water supply and "go broke" or we can develop fully our water resources and find additional supplies to meet all our needs -- urban and rural.

The pressures facing Texas agriculture are great. The failure of the federal government to adopt meaningful food, fiber and water policies, encroachment on productive farmland by urban development, increasing energy prices, skyrocketing interest rates, more and more government regulations all combine to present a perplexing and frustrating maze of challenges and constraints upon our farm population.

Lack of sufficient water to produce our essential food and fiber must not be an added burden for agriculture in Texas.

Everyone's Problem

Shortages of our state's water supply are not a "rural problem." Consumers in our metropolitan and urban areas equally share the importance of water resources.

Have you ever wondered why it's so much easier to tell someone else how to do something than it is to do it yourself?

A little work, plus some responsibility, should be a part of the education of every boy and girl.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN--The 65th Session of the Texas Legislature acted on two issues that are very near and dear to all our hearts--life and death.

Senate Bill 416, permitting medical personnel and private hospitals the right not to participate in abortions, and Senate Bill 198, permitting persons to execute a living will in which a person can elect not to be connected to life support machines if he has a terminal illness, were enacted by the legislature.

The bill to prohibit forcing medical personnel to perform abortions was seen as a milestone by right-to-life advocates. Although several bills were introduced in both houses of the legislature to restrict the performance of abortions, this was the only anti-abortion bill enacted.

One basic premise of this bill is that medical personnel should be allowed to exercise their freedom of conscience in choosing whether or not to participate in the performance of abortions. If they believe abortion is morally wrong, they should not be forced to participate.

Private hospitals were deemed to be able to exercise a right of conscience as a unit, and if policy of the hospital states that abortion is morally wrong, the hospital would not have to provide abortions except when the life of the mother is at stake.

The "Natural Death Act" cleared both houses of the legislature in response to the concern many people have expressed regarding medical advancements in the development of life support systems which have caused a growing concern about the patient's choice to terminate life supports.

Under the bill is a procedure whereby an adult can execute in advance an instrument which provides for the withdrawal or withholding of medical care when the person has a terminal condition in which there is no chance of recovery.

This bill has safeguards--it makes willful destruction of a person's directive to remove support systems a Class A misdemeanor, and makes forgery of such a directive with the intent to cause death (contrary to the wishes of the patient and causing death to be hastened) subject to prosecution for criminal homicide.

Nothing in the act enacted by the legislature is intended to permit any action other than to permit natural death.

you and the LAW

Q: If a woman remarries, does she need to have her will revised to show her new name?

A: No. But she will probably want to re-examine her will because of her changed status. A new marriage imposes new legal obligations. Factors which could affect a will would include children born after the new marriage and the rights of the husband to property acquired after the marriage.

Q: Before my marriage, I bought a home with funds I inherited from my grandfather. We're moving to another city, and I want to have the proceeds from the sale of the house kept separate because my wife and I are having problems. Can this be done? Can my original equity be kept from becoming community property if it's used to buy a new home?

A: Only the original amount invested would be separate property. The difference between that figure and its value today would be community property. A lawyer can help you put together a schedule of separate property.

Q: I want to contest a ticket for speeding -- do I need an attorney?

A: While it is advisable to consult an attorney anytime one is involved in court, most citizens represent themselves in Municipal Court. You may want to attend prior court sessions on similar cases in order to familiarize yourself with the type of questions asked and the type of evidence used, and also to determine whether you should bring witnesses for your case to the trial.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," Muleshoe Journal, P. O. Box 12887, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.
