July 4th Activities For Everyone

City Council Seeks New Municipal Judge

The city of Muleshoe is again without a city judge and city council members and Mayor Kenneth Henry are asking for applicants for the part-time job. Mayor Henry has asked that all interested persons contact City Manager Dave Marr prior to the next meeting of the council, scheduled at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday, July 7.

Marr reported to council members that two applications have been made for the position of municipal judge, but additional applications will be accepted until Thursday.

Former City Judge James Williams resigned recently to become a deputy sheriff for the Bailey County Sheriff's office. Interim municipal judge is Justice of the Peace Ken Martin.

During the Tuesday morning meeting of the city council, the city manager reported that everything is on schedule for the proposed paving project, expected to get underway later in the summer.

Council members urged that anyone not presently included in the proposed project and wishing to have their street paved, to contact a member of the city council, the mayor or the city manager. The streets must be designated prior to the final public hearing on the project.

They viewed architectural drawings of the proposed project, which includes streets in the Country Club Addition; the Harvey Addition; East Sixth Street; a portion of West Avenue I and West Avenue H.

Once the final reading of the ordinance authorizing the paving program is read, it will be too late for interested persons to join the project, they explained.

Marr explained that the paving is expected to be completed prior to the first freeze date in mid-October.

Also during the meeting, council members discussed the upcoming Bailey County Civic Center which will be getting underway in the near future. They are attempting to obtain permission to use previously

Police Report

Herb Ramage reported to Bailey County Law Enforcement Officers that a pickup had been stolen Sunday night, Monday afternoon, the pickup was recovered east of Muleshoe.

No arrests were made in the theft, and it is still under investigation by the Bailey County sheriff's office.

Also reported stolen during the past several days were six steers, reported by Vernon Bryant; a boy's 10-speed bicycle, reported by Creston Faver and an air compressor, reported by S.P. Stockard.

Arrests included three drunk; two for possession of marijuana and one each for no driver's license; mental patient; assault and disturbance; disturbance and two illegal aliens.

3-2 Pitch Softball Games Set

One of the highlights of the July 4th celebration in Muleshoe will be a men's 3-2 slowpitch softball tournament planned in conjunction with the full day of activities and celebration.

Kerry Moore, spokesman for the Muleshoe Softball League, said the tournament will be getting underway at 10 a.m. and will feature from five to seven teams at the men's softball diamond just south of the radio station on West Eighth Street.

He said no admission charge will be made and concession stands will be available throughout the day. The tournament is expected to end shortly after 3 p.m., in time for players to attend the parade.

Approximately 26-27 minutes will be needed to play each game and trophies will be presented each member of the winning team.

Moore explained that in a 3-2 tournament, each batter steps up with a full count, and he has one chance to either hit, walk or be struck out.

Fireworks Causing Serious Injuries

Last summer in Texas nine youngsters were blinded by carelessness with fireworks, reported from a survey conducted by the Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Eighty-nine responding ophthalmologists also treated 34 persons for eye injuries, with bottle rockets causing the greatest number of eye loss and damage cases.

Fireworks, even the small ones, are still a needless menace to Americans. Even sparklers, usually purchased for small children, burn at 1,650 degrees Fahrenheit, leaving a steel core hot enough to sear flesh or set clothing afire. A five year old San Antonio girl was treated for severe eye damage from just that cause in 1976, the Society reported.

Ironically, the greatest number of accidents were reported in the major cities of Texas, where it is illegal to have fireworks within the city limits.

The Federal Consumer Products Safety Commission stated fireworks caused approximately 4,750 hospital recorded injuries last year; more than half the victims were under 15 years.

The Commission is presently working on a control law which will ban all but the smallest fireworks in Texas.

The Texas Society makes a special appeal to parents to see to it that children are not permitted the use of any form of fireworks, and to see that their children are kept away from anyone who is using them. Remember that fireworks are not toys for children.

Celebrate the 4th of July, by all means, but without fireworks. Attend a public display, sit at a distance and enjoy the thrill of our nation's 201st birthday celebration.

Local Youth Attend Teen Leader Lab

Several Bailey County residents were among nearly 200 young leaders from 4-H clubs in 20 south plains counties participating in a district team leader lab June 15-17.

Included were Johnny Puckett, Kelly Harrison, Jimmy Gleason, Belinda Wheeler, Delia Shaw, Kristi Henry and Jacinda Gleason.

A team of 12 older youths from Lubbock, Crosby, Lynn, Dawson, Garza and Cochran Counties conducted the learning experiences for the 4-H'ers attending the lab.

The youths performed a variety of tasks ranging from group learning and discussions to game tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies. Emphasis was on success of the local 4-H club.

Activities were geared toward teaching officer duties in the local 4-H club, electing club officers, conducting a mock club meeting, and planning the 4-H club program for a year. Time for relaxation and fun provided the teens with the opportunity to make new friends.

The annual leader lab helps 4-H youth to develop skills in working with younger club members and provides an opportunity for them to broaden their friendships and develop leadership qualities.

Sheep, Goat Herds in State Continue Drop in Number

AUSTIN—The smallest wool and mohair clips since the first part of the century were reported last year, Agriculture Reagan V. Brown has announced.

"Increased production costs and competition from synthetic fibers accounted for the continuing drop in herd numbers of both sheep and goats," Brown noted.

Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service figures show the value of mohair in 1976 at near record levels, with an all-time high average price of $2.97 per pound received. Cash received totaled $24 million.

Fewer goats and kids were clipped last year than at any time since estimates began in 1909, with the 1,100,000 head shorn in 1976 also down from 1975 by nine percent. Overall output in the industry was also aided, however, by a record fleece weight of 7.4 pounds per animal, Brown explained, which was some .3 pound above the 1975 average.

Total value of the 1976 clip, at $24.1 million, was up 52 percent from 1975 and near the record high values of $25.1 and $27.4 million of 1963 and 1964, respectively.

The 1976 wool clip, at 20.1 million pounds, was the smallest since 1919 when production totaled 18.2 million pounds.

At the same time, value of the wool production for the year was up to $15.8 million from $14.8 million in 1975.

Traffic Deaths Mar Holiday Celebrations

The Fourth-of-July holiday period was the deadliest 3-day weekend of last year. Fifty-five traffic related deaths were recorded in Texas. Statistics also show July to be the heaviest traveled month of 1976.

Mindful of the long weekend and increased travel, Governor Dolph Briscoe asked Texans to rally to face the problem of traffic accidents. Said Briscoe, "Texans pride themselves on their sense of individual responsibility. If they are properly informed of a problem, it is my conviction they will respond positively and quickly. The fatality rate on our streets and highways during the Fourth-of-July holiday must be considered a critical problem facing all Texas. Any real solution depends on each of us taking full responsibility for his own behavior behind the wheel," said the Governor.

Briscoe's Traffic Safety Representative, Ken Nevil, said if motorists would not rush they would have a much better chance of survival as they travel. "Interstate accidents have increased by 45 percent over last year. This is due to several factors including increased travel, disregard for speed limits, heavy alcohol use and the like. Frequently, drivers concentrate on their holiday fun rather than the heavy responsibility of maneuvering an automobile. As drivers, we must anticipate the unexpected and be prepared to react. We must rely upon good judgement and skills. But, we must be compassionate in our driving. The basic rules are: leave early enough for trips, limit the use of alcohol, maintain moderate speed and keep totally alert to potential traffic hazards. The traffic accident problem requires everyone's help, collectively and individually. If we drive as a team, together we could reduce the death toll," concluded Nevil.

Too many specialists, not enough broadened personalities, make for narrow viewpoints.

CATTLE PRICES UP BUT PRODUCERS' SHARE LESS... Retail beef prices have increased about 5 per cent in recent weeks, and cattlemen may soon be getting a slightly bigger piece of the beef profit pie, says a livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Of course, marketing costs have been partially responsible for the increase in retail beef prices, but these costs do not benefit producers. Following a substantial drop in the farm-to-retail price spread in April and early May, it is jumping up once again.

The Lieutenant Governor's Report

By Bill Hobby

AUSTIN - In discussing the highlights of the 65th Legislature, I have found that no single bill attracts more interest than the Appropriations Bill. The 65th Legislature approved an appropriation of $15.5 billion from all funds for support of state government in the 1978-79 biennium. Enactment of school finance legislation, which must be considered in special session, could push the state budget for the 1978-79 biennium to a total of over $16 billion, an increase of $3.5 billion over the total appropriations enacted by the 64th Legislature for the current 1976-77 biennium.

The Department of Public Welfare will receive $30 million each fiscal year for day care; $55.1 million in fiscal '78 and $55.3 million in fiscal '79 for in-home care activity of the Community Care for the Aged, Blind and Disabled Program; and, Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients will be given a $5.00 monthly amount to be paid on a nonrecurring semiannual basis.

The Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation will receive $280 million to operate 13 schools for the mentally retarded which will enable the Department to begin operations of the San Antonio State School with admissions to begin in the spring of 1978.

It also received $207 million to operate eight state mental hospitals and $82 million in grants-in-aid to commu-

GRACE WINN

Grace T. Winn Funeral Rites Held Wednesday

Winn, 83, were conducted at the First Baptist Church in Muleshoe Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. Officiating was J.E. Meeks, pastor.

Burial was in Muleshoe Cemetery under direction of Singleton-Elis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Winn died in West Plains Medical Center in Muleshoe on Sunday at 6:20 p.m. following a lengthy illness. She was born May 9, 1894 in Bangs, Tex., and had been a resident of Bailey County since 1915, moving here from Brown County. Her husband, Daniel Welton Winn, preceded her in death in 1955. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe.

Survivors include two sons, Jess, Muleshoe and Weldon B., Moab, Utah; two sisters, Mrs. Olive Jones, Rising Star, Tex. and Mrs. Treacy Fielder, Bangs, Tex.; two brothers, Dean Brooks, Bangs, Tex. and R.L. Brooks, Jr., Lubbock; seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

ity mental health and mental retardation centers.

The Texas Department of Health Resources will receive a total appropriation of $141.7 million for the 1978-79 biennium including $30.2 million for the operation of three state chest hospitals. Major areas of increased funding are in the crippled children and kidney health care programs to provide for expanded caseloads and increased medical

Drought Reduced Migrant Work In Northwest

Texas migrant workers who are thinking of going to the Northwest for the harvest there had better think twice this year.

That is the word from Milton G. Klein, director of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare.

Klein told Texas Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Vowell that Idaho is expecting a severe drought this summer.

"This will have a serious effect upon the number of agriculture jobs which will be available in the State of Idaho," said Klein.

"We are already receiving reports that a higher than usual number of migrant laborers are coming to Idaho thinking that work will be available here. Actually, there will be much less work available in Idaho than there is normally.

"I think it is our duty to inform migrant laborers that work is not available in this state to save them the expense of making the trip to Idaho. To do so would simply serve to further deplete the limited resources which many of these people have," Klein concluded.

Vowell said that Texas State Welfare Department staff throughout the state will be notified so they can advise migrant workers or their families who receive Texas Welfare services of the situation in Idaho.

Forty million dollars is appropriated to the Texas Department of Corrections for a prison hospital to be located on the campus of the U.T. Medical Branch at Galveston along with $38 million for additional prison units.

In appropriating funds to community colleges, the legislature used actual base period enrollments rather than projections which resulted in a decrease of about $45 million. A contingency fund of $3.4 million in 1978 and $7.9 million in 1979 is included for four new campuses.

For the first time, the general academic formulas were utilized to fund Texas' eight upper level institutions. In addition to the formula amounts, a Contingency Fund for Growth was included in the Coordinating Board amounting to $2.8 million for the biennium. These funds may be spent only on faculty salaries, departmental operating expense and instructional administration.

In the area of public education, the bill provides funding for pilot programs for physical evaluation of school children, and increased funds for adult basic education programs and regional programs for severely handicapped children.

Legislation consolidating the three separate water agencies into one new agency titled the Department of Water Resources anticipates a biennial savings of approximately $3.5 million in general revenue through increased efficiency and elimination of duplicative functions.

Our six state medical school units are funded to achieve the maximum enrollments in all class levels.

Classroom buildings are funded at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio to accommodate expanded classes and finish present building expansion programs.

The General Appropriations Bill allocates funds to many more areas than are mentioned here, but this brief discussion gives an idea of the scope and variety of programs funded by the State of Texas.

House approves $4-billion public works job program.

Danny Davis Will Perform During Fair

Signed contracts confirming the appearance of Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass at the 60th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair have been returned, Steve L. Lewis, general manager, announced Saturday (June 25).

Lewis said signing of the popular aggregation to its first stint at the fair marked the beginning of a search to find a slate of family entertainment to headline the exposition, scheduled September 24 - October 1.

Three other shows are being negotiated. Free entertainment will be provided in the Fair Park Coliseum on closing Saturday, Lewis added. That lineup will be announced nearer fair time.

Davis and the Brass have been signed to do only two shows—at 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.—on September 26.

Matinees will be scheduled only for Davis and the Brass and for the Sunday, September 25, date, Lewis said.

Directors decided during the winter that since week-day matinees had not been drawing, they would be limited in the future.

"For instance," Lewis pointed out "Charley Pride" holds the house record for a single performance (5,510), yet he drew no more than 1100 at a week-day matinee.

Selection of Davis and the Brass was from a field of a dozen artists, whittled by Lewis and the board of directors from a host of potential shows.

The appearance of Davis and his group coincides with area school day, which also features the highly popular Parade of Bands in downtown Lubbock.

"The Hard Travelers," an aggregation from Lubbock Christian College, will be on the bill with Davis and company.

The Davis group has been rocking along since 1968, when their first album sold 380,000 copies within six months after it was released.

In 1969, the group won a Grammy award for "Kawliga."

That same year and for six consecutive years thereafter, they received the Country Music Association's best instrumental group of the year award.

They have consistently been voted Country Music's most popular instrumental group by all three major trade magazines—Billboard, Cashbox and the Record World.

They have performed often at the White House and on national television and they were first to take country music to Las Vegas.

And, in 1974, they delivered the first taste of country at Chicago's London House, highly acclaimed for its jazz music.

Vacation Wear Means Better Health

The traditional summer vacation of the American family is highly recommended by your doctor. The family needs to get away from customary home and office chores, forget day-to-day worries for a short time and generally get rejuvenated and ready to face another year.

Whether your vacation will be a short trip to a nearby lake, camping out in a national park, a plane trip abroad, or what have you, there are a few things to keep in mind that will help avoid having the holiday spoiled by illness. Depending on where you're going, you may need some vaccination shots. Tetanus, certainly for anyone who expects to include some out-of-doors activities. Typhoid, if your journey includes areas where the water supply is uncertain. Ask your doctor about these, and possibly other immunizations.

The American Medical Association suggests that you remind yourself to use common sense about your vacation diet. Many a family trip has been spoiled by too many roadside hamburgers and soft drinks. A sound rule while driving crosscountry is to eat lightly. Be cautious about heavy, rich meals, particularly if you're not accustomed to such fare at home.

Know what sort of climate you will encounter at your vacation spot and dress accordingly. It can get cold in the mountains at night, even in midsummer. Good walking shoes are important to the travel wardrobe.

If you wear glasses, take along an extra pair. Or at least a copy of your prescription. If you're taking a regular medication, make certain of your supply before you leave.

And, finally, don't overdo it. Almost no one other than a trained athlete is ready for 36 holes of golf or five sets of tennis under a broiling sun. Schedule your vacation to allow daily rest periods. Do most of the driving in the morning hours and stop for the day in early or mid-afternoon.

Your vacation should be a holiday for rest and relaxation. It should not be a grind that necessitates another vacation to rest up from the vacation.

We have no way of knowing, but prices will probably be high next year.

The matter of your health should be more important than anything else to you.

Cotton Group Praises Action On Cotton Dust

National Cotton Council President Jack G. Stone today praises the Council on Wage and Price Stability (CWPS) for its constructive alternatives regarding a proposed new cotton dust standard.

The President's inflation-fighting agency, in a report recently filed with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, cited the cost impact of the proposed industrywide standard. It said a more cost-effective yet protective approach would be to establish different dust levels for the industry's various processing stages.

"The Cotton Council has long maintained that a single industrywide standard is totally unreasonable since cotton dust varies considerably in composition and toxicity from one processing stage to another," Stone said.

The California producer said he was pleased that CWPS recognized the inflationary impact of OSHA's proposal, and recommended approaches which "might more closely follow the instruction and intent of the OSHA act."

Stone commented, "OSHA seems to think anyone suggesting consideration of costs is putting money over human health and safety. This is not true, of course. No one would deny that worker safety must have prime consideration, but workers should be afforded protection in the most cost-effective way."

He also noted that CWPS calls for more emphasis on identifying the unknown agent that causes byssinosis, and describes the disease as being "imperfectly associated" with cotton dust.

"We in the cotton industry question the wisdom of imposing a dust standard throughout our industry when nobody yet knows exactly what causes byssinosis or whether the disease actually exists in all sectors," the Cotton Council president said.

Stone pointed out that the industry has been giving the byssinosis problem top priority since 1972. He said extensive research programs have been stimulated in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, state universities, textile trade associations, and individual textile mills. In addition, cotton producers themselves have invested millions of dollars in byssinosis research.

"Testimony presented during public hearings on the proposed standard encourages us to believe that within two years or so a fraction of the dust that contains the byssinotic agent or agents may be identified," Stone said. "If so, we would have a far better basis for deactivating the dust or—at the very least—for establishing a more reasonable, less costly standard that would provide worker protection."

"We will continue to give this effort top priority, and I know we will succeed if we are given

Boy's Ranch Gets Check From Speaker

The second of two $6,000 checks from House Speaker Bill Clayton to children's homes in his legislative district will be presented Sunday (June 26).

Clayton, who is state representative of District 74, will make the contribution to Boy's Ranch at Old Tascosa. The presentation will be to Virgil Patterson, ranch president, following the 11 a.m. church service and conducted on the chapel's steps.

Girlstown at Whiteface received a check for a similar amount in a presentation June 12.

The money is the total of contributions presented Clayton by friends and employees at Speaker's Day observance during the recently concluded legislative session.

No stipulations as to use of the funds was made by Clayton, who indicated that it could either be used for general expenses or for special projects the homes might undertake.

Bank Deposits Show Strength

Strength of the Texas economy shows in the growth of bank deposits.

Deposits at Texas banks totaled $53 billion at the end of last year. Three years before, they totalled $38.6 billion. A gain of over 37 percent, that is close to twice the rate of increase nationwide.

Across the country as a whole, deposits increased from $682 billion in late 1973 to $816 billion in late 1976. That was a gain of less than 20 percent.

With the increase in business, which slowed comparatively little in Texas during the recession, demand deposits were up a hefty $4.4 billion. But the big increase was in interest-bearing deposits, which expanded $10 billion.

At the end of 1973, demand deposits totaled $20 billion. Time and savings accounts totalled $18.6 billion.

Three years later, the relative importance of these two general types of deposits had been reversed. Demand deposits totalled more than $24.4 billion. But time and savings accounts totalled nearly $28.6 billion.

Where demand deposits had expanded 22 percent, time and savings deposits expanded 54 percent.

Most of the increase came from growth in personal and business accounts.

Banks, which also hold balances, made net additions to their accounts, as did all levels of government. And some foreign banks and governments increased their balances in Texas banks.

Altogether, year-end totals for these deposits that do not belong to individuals and businesses rose from $8.5 billion in 1973 to $11 billion in 1976.

But balances held by people and businesses increased faster. From $30.1 billion in 1973, the year-end total increased to $42 billion in 1976.

That was a 40 percent increase in private accounts, compared with a 29 percent increase in other accounts.

News isn't always what happens; it's what you happen to read or hear.

A diet may be good for the health, but a good menu can do wonders also.

Tips On How-- To Beat The Heat!

You can't really beat the heat. Whether it's the heat or the humidity, or both, it's hot in almost all of the United States in July. After weeks of sweating and steaming, it's not uncommon to find the heat is beginning to wear you down.

You can't do anything about the outside temperature. You can avoid it if you're fortunate enough to work and live in air-conditioned comfort, but it still will be hot outside.

The American Medical Association points out that there are some things you can do to be more comfortable--things that can help you beat the heat.

Stay out of the sun as much as possible, especially during the middle of the day when rays are hottest. Wear light, loose clothing. The ladies have the edge over the men in this respect. Drink more liquids than usual, but take extra salt only on your physician's advice, particularly if you have liver or kidney trouble or a heart condition.

Take a shower or dip in the pool once or twice a day to cool off. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat your regular diet and don't go overboard on cold cuts and salads, unless you like them anyway.

Get up early in the morning to do your heavy work on the lawn or garden. Or work at dusk in the evening, but try to avoid heavy exertion during the hottest hours of the day. There is sound physical reason behind the siesta custom of the tropics.

You need exercise in the summer as well as in the winter, but don't overdo it, especially on extra hot days. Don't overdo physical exertion, whether at work or at play.

The more relaxed outdoor life of the summer months has many advantages to compensate for the heat. Stay relaxed and use common sense and you can beat the heat--at least somewhat.

SAFE BOATING WEEK
Governor Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed July 3-9 as "Safe Boating Week."

In the proclamation, the governor cited the importance of boating safety as individuals head for the many lakes and streams across Texas.

Figures compiled by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the water safety regulating agency, show over 498,889 boats registered by April 1977 in Texas.

With this number of boats ready to hit the water over the 4th of July holiday weekend, the P&WD predicts 25 individuals will lose their lives from water-related mishaps.

The increase in the number of water fatalities is climbing at a faster rate than the number of registered boats and P&WD wardens will be out in full force during the holiday period.

The most flagrant violation noted by the wardens has been the insufficient number or entire lack of Coast Guard-approved life vests for each person on board.

State law requires these CG-approved vests on all public water and persons 12 years of age and younger are required to wear the CG-approved vest at all times while underway.

Local lakes might have more restrictive rules concerning life vests and boaters are reminded to check the local regulations before putting afloat.

Boating regulations concerning proper equipment and safe operation of your boat can be found in the "Digest of the Texas Water Safety Act" available at most boat marinas, boat dealers and all P&WD offices.

BOB BULLOCK
Comptroller of Public Accounts

DEAR MR. BULLOCK:

I was at the nursery recently and bought a pecan tree, a peach tree and some tomato plant seeds. The clerk charged sales tax on the trees, but not on the tomato seeds. Why?

The sales tax law requires that fruit trees be taxed unless purchased by commercial orchard operators who are in the business of producing food for human consumption.

Tomato and other seeds that produce food for human consumption are exempt from the sales tax.

Please note, however, seeds of flowering and other plants used for beautification are subject to the tax.

DEAR BOB:

I recently bought a used electric can opener and some clothing from a second-hand shop, and the clerk there charged me sales tax. I thought you had to pay the sales tax only on items purchased new. Was I cheated?

No. The clerk was correct in charging you the tax. Sales taxes are based on the fact that a sale was made, the age or condition of an item has no bearing on its taxability.

If you have a question, write Ask Bob Bullock, c/o Tax Information, LBJ Building, Austin, Texas 78774 or call toll-free 1-800-252-5555.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—If you haven't bought a product that comes with a warranty lately, you may be surprised at how that warranty has changed. The Federal Trade Commission has recently put into effect certain rules assuring compliance with the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act passed by Congress in 1975. It's important to realize, though, say our Consumer Protection Division attorneys, that these changes won't eliminate all potential warranty problems. For one thing, they note, neither the FTC rules nor the Warranty Act require manufacturers to give warranties or guarantees (which are the same thing). For another, they only cover written warranties on products costing more than $15. But consumers still have protection under the implied warranty that comes with every product guaranteeing that it will do the job it was intended to do. As an example, a consumer whose new microwave oven doesn't cook would be covered by this implied warranty.

What the new warranty rules do is make warranty tags easier to read and understand, so consumers will know what coverage they have. Now, written warranties must be available for consumers to read before they buy an item. Sometimes in the past, warranties and other information were enclosed in plastic or got lost, making it impossible for a consumer to comparison shop for warranty coverage before a purchase. Warranties must now be easy to read and understand. In other words, legal jargon and fine print will be eliminated. All warranty conditions must be in writing. Promises given by a salesperson are not valid. In addition, written warranties fall into two categories—full and limited. The differences sometimes are confusing.

Full warranties provide the following: Defective products will be fixed at no cost, including picking up the product and re-installing it later. A product that cannot be fixed will be replaced or its purchase price refunded.

Product repairs must be done within a reasonable time, and consumers won't have to take any unreasonable actions to get their warranty service. Our attorneys point out, however, that the rules don't precisely define what "reasonable" and "unreasonable" mean, but that the FTC has said that having to return a piano to a factory for service would be "unreasonable." Full warranties cover the product during the entire warranty period no matter how many times it may change hands. But a full warranty may not cover the entire product. On an air conditioner, it might cover only the compressor, for example. Other parts, though, may carry limited warranties. It's important for the consumer to be fully aware, in such cases, what coverage the two combined warranties on the product may give.

Limited warranties also cover repair and parts replacement, although they do not offer the extent of coverage of a full warranty. A limited warranty on a toaster, for example, might cover parts and not labor and might require you to take the toaster back to the same store where you bought it for service.

If you have a consumer complaint involving a warranty problem, get in touch with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, El Paso, or McAllen. Outside those areas, call this toll-free number: 1-800-252-9236.

Researchers Look At New Production Methods

With the prospect of new taxes on energy, growers will be looking for ways to farm with less fuel.

Recent research on limited tillage in the Great Plains will help solve the problem. These conclusions were reached by Ron Allen and Dr. Bill Fryrear, Agricultural Engineers at USDA Research Centers at Bushland and Big Spring, Texas. They reported these findings at a recent meeting of The American Society of Agricultural Engineers held at Raleigh, North Carolina, June 26-29.

The two Engineers with the Agricultural Research Service say that conservation tillage research has been underway in the Southern Great Plains since 1942. In that landmark year a sweep plow was built and tested at the Bushland Center. Back then scientists at Bushland were looking for ways to control wind erosion. Their machine not only controlled wind and water erosion but conserved soil moisture and increased yield. Since the advent of the sweep plow many other limited tillage practices that conserve water have been developed in the Great Plains. Recent experiments with tractor power requirements show that fuel conservation is an added benefit for limited tillage systems.

The scientists point out that efficient agricultural production will not solve the national energy crisis because farmers only use three to four percent of the nation's energy budget to produce food and haul it to market. From the growers' standpoint conserving fuel will help keep farming profitable in an era of constantly rising energy prices.

"Limited tillage will definitely help control wind and water erosion," the scientists pointed out. They found examples of research that prove this in the Great Plains as far north as Madison, South Dakota, where investigators conducted experiments on a 5.8 percent slope. They compared the moldboard plow, sweeps and disk as methods of seedbed preparation for corn. Disking and planting were combined into one operation. Soil loss from water erosion was six tons per acre where moldboard plowing was used. This was reduced to 3.5 tons per acre with sweeps and the disk-till plant system. It took 13 gallons of fuel per acre to till and plant corn when a moldboard plow was used. Sweep tillage was more efficient and reduced fuel required to nine gallons per acre. Disking and planting in one operation reduced fuel needs to seven gallons per acre. Corn yields were 4,000 pounds per acre with the two efficient systems and only 3,700 pounds per acre with moldboard plowing.

Scientists at Alliance, Nebraska, had a similar experience producing wheat in a wheat-fallow sequence. Soil loss during the fallow year was 6.5 tons per acre with moldboard plowing. Soil loss between wheat crops dropped to three tons per acre with oneway plowing and two tons per acre with sweeps. Moldboard plowing after wheat harvest required 50 percent more fuel than tillage with sweeps or a oneway plow.

"Further south in the Great Plains, controlling wind erosion is a big conservation challenge," the scientists stated. At Bushland, Texas, sweep plowing leaves more residue on the soil surface and gives better wind erosion control than oneway plowing. The two plowing methods have been compared in a wheat-fallow cropping sequence since 1942. In addition to decreasing erosion, soil moisture storage during the fallow was increased 1.5 inches per year by sweep tillage. This extra soil moisture increased wheat yield 13 percent or 1.3 bushels per acre. "Over the long haul, that makes a lot of difference in the potential for profit," Engineer Allen pointed out.

In a recent experiment at Bushland, Jack Musick and Dr. Allen Wiese used herbicides to replace disking during fallow periods in irrigated wheat-sorghum-fallow cropping sequence. Weeds were controlled with AAtrex and 2,4-D from wheat harvest to sorghum planting. This new procedure increased soil moisture storage 1.5 inches during the 11-month fallow over disk tillage. Grain sorghum yields after the fallow were increased 900 pounds per acre in the 3-year study. Fuel needed to control weeds between the crops was cut from 18 to five gallons per acre when herbicides were substituted for tillage. This included fuel used to manufacture herbicides. Similar results were obtained by Dr. Paul Unger at Bushland when dryland sorghum was grown on chemically fallowed land after harvest of irrigated wheat.

In Hays, Kansas, no-tillage was evaluated in a dryland wheat-sorghum-fallow cropping sequence. After the study had progressed several years, atrazine did not control certain grass weeds. The problem was solved by sweep plowing once after wheat harvest and again before sorghum planting. This system saved 1.5 gallons of fuel compared to sweep tillage during the entire fallow. The big benefit was increasing sorghum yield an average of 1,000 pounds per acre during the 5-year study. "Double-cropping sorghum after irrigated wheat harvest is another cropping sequence where no-tillage does a good job," Allen stated. In addition to saving a lot of time and fuel, grain sorghum yields were increased 500 pounds per acre. Sorghum was planted immediately after wheat harvest about one inch deep with a grain drill.

Furrow irrigation supplied water to germinate sorghum and volunteer wheat. Volunteer and weeds were controlled with AAtrex when sorghum was six inches tall. Allen summarized his presentation by stating that past research in the Great Plains will help farmers reduce fuel consumption. "In cropping systems where limited or no-tillage is feasible, wind and water erosion are controlled, and fuel savings frequently exceed 50 percent," Allen concluded.

Bitter Cucumber Explanation Vague

Every year about this time a seemingly serious problem occurs in home gardens in nearly all parts of Texas—bitter cucumbers and oftentimes bitter eggplants.

Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that explanations for the bitter fruits range from old wives tales to seemingly accurate scientific explanations. Commonly heard causes include planting by the wrong sign of the moon, harvesting after noon, improper watering and fertilization, and high temperatures during fruit growth and development.

What is the real reason for this phenomenon?

"It is safe to say that the exact cause is unknown even though numerous tests have been conducted to investigate this problem," points out Cotner. Research has determined that bitterness is genetic and therefore can be inherited. This simply means that some varieties can be more bitter than others, but does not explain how differences within a variety can exist, or how bitterness can vary from fruit to fruit on the same plant. Such differences tend to indicate that bitterness is affected and controlled by other conditions.

"It appears that any conditions that place the plant in stress can lead to bitter fruit," explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. "Without a doubt, in Texas these conditions are low moisture, high temperature and low fertility. Any one of these conditions by itself may cause the problem, but generally it's a combination of more than one of these factors.

"Reports of bitter fruit generally occur in Texas during June, July and August but seldom early in the spring or late in the fall," says Cotner. "Young, vigorous growing plants seldom produce bitter fruit. Conditions early in the year are generally favorable for good growth, but as the season progresses, high temperature, moisture stress and perhaps low fertility conditions occur."

To help prevent bitter fruit, Cotner recommends that gardeners should try to maintain favorable growing conditions during the hot summer months, realizing that in some areas of Texas it is almost impossible to raise some crops during the heat of midsummer. Periodically apply light applications of fertilizer around cucumbers and eggplants to maintain their vigorous growth. Mulching will also help to reduce water loss. Water more often as the temperature increases toward midsummer.

"In spite of the proper care and attention given to cucumbers and eggplants even when growing conditions are favorable, bitterness can still occur," notes Cotner. "If this happens, home gardeners should peel their eggplants and cucumbers a little deeper as bitterness is generally associated with the skin."

An interesting fact, notes the specialist, is that on cucumbers, the stem end is always more bitter than the blossom end.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek examines a theory on crime this week. We guess he's serious, but you never know.

Dear editor: According to an article I read in a magazine last night because there wasn't anything to watch except re-runs, some experts have come out with a theory on why people go bad. They say it's something they ate.

According to them child delinquency, which leads to adult delinquency, which leads to crime, which leads to jail or would if the cops could catch them and if the courts would ever get around to trying them and some lawyer didn't get them off and if he doesn't let them go to jail they weren't let out soon to start robbing all over again—anyway, to get hold of this sentence before it wrestles me to the ground, according to them child delinquency is caused by inadequate or improper diet. Kids either don't get enough protein-rich food or they eat too much junk food.

In many cases this is probably true, but the trouble with theories is that if you keep reading you'll run into something else that makes you scratch your head.

For instance, when former Attorney General John Mitchell went to prison the other day, the newspapers reported that he was the 25th member of the Watergate group to be jailed.

This got me to thinking. What did those 25 men eat when they were kids?

Like the rest of the nation, I saw all of them on television and they all looked like they'd had a well-fed childhood, and were all eating good at the time they were caught. Not a one looked like he'd ever been under-nourished.

It's pretty hard for me to believe you can blame Watergate on sodawater and potato chips.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Texas High In Cotton

The 1977 Texas cotton crop is off to a good start. With good market conditions, farmers have planted fence row to fence row, and this year's crop could yield well over four million bales.

Barring weather and insect problems, the Texas cotton crop has the potential of surpassing the 1973 crop of 4.6 million bales.

That analysis comes from Charles Baker, marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Furthermore, prices should be good," says Baker, "because we have a worldwide shortage of cotton. World stocks at the beginning of the August 1 crop year have averaged 40 per cent of world consumption the past 10 years. Beginning stocks on August 1, 1977 will be a low 30 per cent of projected consumption. Low world stock levels in 1972 and 1973 preceded the sharp price rise of 1973. Low stock levels in 1976 were accompanied by price increases for the 1976 crop. Yet, those levels for 1972, '73 and '76 were not nearly as low as current levels.

"Prices have been down for the last month because of the expected big crop for 1977," notes Baker.

Service Stations Keep Tires 'Up'

"Once I could depend on the corner service station to check my wife's car," a businessman complained to a friend recently. "Now, she saves money at a self-service station and is probably driving a time bomb with bad tires and no oil."

With the increasing popularity of self-service gasoline stations, the Tire Industry Safety Council advises motorists to seek out those stations with air pressure towers in order to keep their tires properly inflated.

The American Petroleum Institute reports that of the 189,000 service stations in operation in 1976, more than 68,000 of them offered some form of self-service. Of that number, more than 25,000 were total self-service stations and approximately 43,000 were split island stations, offering both self-service and full, attended-service, but at separate pump islands.

"Correct tire pressure is necessary for safe driving, good tire mileage and responsive steering," according to Council Chairman Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr. "Industry experts say properly inflated tires can add five percent to gasoline mileage, or an extra mile per gallon, because they roll easier."

Proper tire inflation is one of the most neglected aspects of maintenance and care related to passenger automobiles in the United States," according to a report by the Sub-Council on Product Safety of the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs. "The consequences of this neglect are serious to the American consumer in many respects," the Sub-Council held.

Government studies have found that underinflation by four to 12 pounds can reduce tread life by 10 to 40 percent and that more than one out of four cars has at least one seriously underinflated tire. Overinflation, on the other hand, causes excessive tread wear to the center of the tread, and causes tires to run hard and makes them vulnerable to impact damage.

Regarding the dwindling number of air towers at service stations, an official of the American Automobile Association remarked, "We have said it's going to be an increasing problem as the trend goes to 'gas and go'. We advise motorists to make each third fillup at a full-service station."

J.K. Aldous, managing director of AAA's Public Affairs Division, added, "We also encourage people to use an accurate hand tire gauge because service station air pumps are very rarely accurate. The reason for making every third fillup at a full-service station is so a motorist may have his tires, oil, battery, window washer wells, wiper blades and lights checked in order to prevent damage to the car and insure longer car life and carefree driving."

"Air pressure should be checked when tires are cold every two or three weeks and before long trips," Lovell said. "The best time is in the morning when you have driven less than a mile."

Lovell said that some air escapes from all tires over a period of weeks. A tire with four or more pounds of pressure below the amount recommended by the vehicle manufacturer in the owner's manual is considered seriously underinflated, he pointed out. Underinflation by four pounds can cut tread life by 10 percent, he continued.

"The proper amount of free air is the cheapest service you can give a tire, and it will do the utmost toward extending its useful life while saving gasoline at the same time," Lovell said.

American motorists could save at least 800 million gallons of gasoline a year if they would only inflate their tires properly, he concluded.

Six Flags Plans Country Concert This Weekend

Six Flags Over Texas has scheduled two concerts by singer-songwriter Don Williams on Saturday, July 2.

Williams' popularity as a country singer has been increasing in the United States as well as England where he was voted the Country Music Entertainer of the Year for 1976. His latest album, "Visions," had already sold a million copies in England before the official release date and is doing well in the United States.

Williams has penned some 500 songs for himself and other entertainers. The top hits include "Amanda," "Come Early Morning," "The Shelter of Your Eyes," "Till The Rivers Run Dry" and "You're My Best Friend."

While living in Corpus Christi, Williams formed the Pozo Seco singers group and recorded his own pop-folk song, "Time."

After the group broke up, Williams continued to write and began performing the country and western music that he has stayed with ever since.

Concerts are scheduled at 8 and 10 p.m. in the theme park's Music Mill Theater.

Six Flags Over Texas will be open from 10 a.m. to midnight on Saturday, July 2.

Texas Cattleman Registered

Registration figures in the nation's first Beef Referendum are in and it appears that over 42,000 cattlemen registered in Texas. In the U.S., over 295,000 producers have registered. These figures were released today by the Texas Beef Development Taskforce (BDT).

"We're extremely pleased with the interest and turnout," says J.D. Sartwell, a rancher from Sealy and chairman of the Texas BDT. "More than 1,000 cattlemen on the Texas BDT have worked to inform cattlemen about the merits of the program and pushed for a high registration," says the rancher. "This dedicated work and widespread news coverage by the Texas media are responsible for the large registration turnout," he adds.

Only cattlemen who registered during the June 6-17 sign-up at their local ASCS office are qualified to vote July 5-15.

"With the passage of the Beef Referendum, the cattle industry will have means of stabilizing our industry and increasing profits for cattlemen," Sartwell says. He points out that the Beef Referendum, if approved by two-thirds of the producers voting next month, would raise an estimated $30 million to $40 million annually. This money would be used for beef research, education, promotion and foreign market development.

Cattle producers would assess themselves 3/10 of one percent (30 cents per $100 value) for each animal they sell. The money would be "passed through" at the point of each sale, but money would be remitted only at the time the animal is slaughtered. The funds would be sent to a national Beef Board, administered by 68 cattle producers from the major cattle producing states.

"The 68 producers will be nominated by cattle organizations in each state. The nominees will be selected from these associations either by a membership election or through appointment by the directors of each group," Sartwell points out. The Secretary of Agriculture will confirm the appointees and assure that the funds are properly invested in accordance with the law, he adds.

"In order for the Referendum to be valid at least 50 percent of those who registered must return to their ASCS office and vote. Then, at least two-thirds of those voting must vote 'Yes' before the program will be put into effect," the BDT chairman says.

"This may be the last opportunity that producers have to vote on a self-help program," concludes Sartwell. "So we urge every producer who registered to return and vote 'Yes' for a more profitable beef industry."

AUSTIN — Rep. Frank Hartung, backed by House Speaker Bill Clayton, has made a bid to have his state money management bill revived on the agenda for the forthcoming special legislative session.

The Houston Republican told a news conference this week he and Clayton have both written Gov. Dolph Briscoe asking that HB 1984 be included on the agenda of the session now scheduled to begin July 11.

HB 1984, which died in a Senate committee during the last days of the regular session, requires the State Treasury and Depository Board to invest more of the state's money in interest-paying time deposits.

It would also grant the state agency new power to invest in savings and loan accounts, as well as government securities, authority the Treasury doesn't have under present law.

Hartung said the state is currently losing $2 million monthly on money deposited in non-interest paying checking accounts scattered in more than 1,300 banks state-wide.

He said it was appropriate his bill should be included in the special session called to pass a public school finance bill for the next two years.

The approximately $42 million lost every two years because of poor money management could be used to help finance public schools in Texas, he said.

Hartung admitted he hasn't had any indication from the governor that his bill is being considered as a special session agenda item.

Also bidding for a spot in the session are bills to repeal the state sales tax on utilities and to reform the state property tax code.

So far, however, Briscoe had indicated only public school finance will be on the agenda and all other matters are merely under consideration.

Water Agencies
The Texas Water Development Board began last Monday the work of reorganizing the present three state water agencies into one entity to be known as the Texas Water Resources Board.

The WDB is responsible for carrying out the reorganization under a new law passed by the 65th Legislature and effective Sept. 1. The Texas Water Quality Board, Water Development Board and Water Rights Commission are to be combined.

All three of the current executive directors are vying openly for the job as head of the super agency including Hugh C. Yantis (WQB), Gen. James M. Rose (WDB) and Robert Schneider (WRC).

However, WDB Chairman A. L. Black said after the first meeting of the final choice might come from outside the present executive circle. "I wouldn't want to narrow the field down to any one, two or three individuals," Black said.

Hill Will Sue
Atty. Gen. John Hill said this week he will take the Texas Water Rights Commission to court if necessary to overturn its latest order.

Last week the WRC okayed a $50 million, 55-year contract by which the Lower Colorado River Authority will sell water to the South Texas Nuclear Project at Bay City.

Hill maintains the water in the state's rivers and impoundments belongs to the people and while river authorities have the right to control it, they have no right to sell it.

Reminded that several other river authorities in the state are selling water under similar contracts, Hill remarked "I've learned a lot from this case and we'll be looking at some of these other contracts too."

Appointments
Just before leaving on vacation, Gov. Briscoe handed out appointments to various state agencies and institutions by the bunches.

These included three new members to the Texas Southern University Board of Regents, the Rev. Moses L. Price and Ronald Pruitt of Houston, Milledge A. Hart III of Dallas, and the reappointment of Ernest S. Sterling of Tyler.

Texas Tech University also got three new regents in Clint Formby of Hereford, Roy K. Furr of Lubbock and James I. Snyder of Baird.

James R. (Jim Bob) Paxton of Palestine was appointed to a six year term on the Parks and Wildlife Commission replacing longtime member Jack R. Stone of Wells who is resigning.

New Judgeship
Olin G. Wellborn Jr. of Alvin is Briscoe's choice for the bench of the newly created 239th Judicial District Court in Brazoria County.

Judge Wellborn is formerly judge of the 23rd Judicial District Court.

He said he will not be a candidate for election to the judgeship in 1978, stating "my successor should be elected by the people."

AG Opinions
Atty. Gen. John Hill has held a sheriff may not make an arrest outside of his county for an offense even if it is committed in his presence or within his view. He can only make a citizen's arrest but not act in his official capacity as sheriff, Hill held.

In another opinion Hill held the state auditor should disclose information on charges involving state employees who received payment for non-reimbursable travel expenses.

"The public is entitled to certain factual information from the records prepared in connection with an audit," Hill said in an opinion requested by State Auditor George W. McNeil.

"Whether particular records are exempted... must be determined on a case-by-case basis by examining them in the light of policies underlying that exemption... circumstances might justify withholding of factual information," Hill wrote.

Courts Speak
Fear of nuclear accident can be considered by juries in land condemnation cases involving nuclear power plants, the Supreme Court has held.

In another case, the court set a July 13 hearing on a $500,000 judgment against General Motors and in favor of a Houston man who was blinded when a window of his car shattered in an accident.

A lower court jury had awarded Curtis Lee Simmons $1 million but a Court of Civil Appeals reduced it to half that amount. GM appealed the case to the high court saying the lower court ruling would set a precedent that probably would be used against auto manufacturers in every accident case involving pre-1972 cars and injuries from flying glass.

Conserve Moisture In Home Landscape

Drouth conditions in many areas mean homeowners and gardeners must decide how to best use irrigation water. Sometimes, certain plants may have to be sacrificed to save others, says Everett E. Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In general, plants used in the home landscape can be categorized in the following manner: lawn and ground covers, shrub borders, flower beds and trees. Since trees usually serve a multipurpose role in the landscape, providing enfacement, background, screen and shade, they are difficult to replace and should generally receive priority when it comes to watering.

Trees require years to become large enough to be effective in the landscape whereas a lawn or shrub area can be replaced in a season or two if weather conditions are favorable. So, if the water supply is limited, Janne suggests using it to keep trees as healthy a condition as possible even if it means sacrificing other choice plants.

The horticulturist also suggests a number of cultural practices to aid the homeowner in reducing water needs and conserving available water:

Exception Made For Day Centers

A tax provision which denied a business expense deduction to persons providing child care service in their homes has been lifted.

This exception to the law, part of the tax bill signed into law on Monday, May 23, 1977, eliminates the exclusive use requirement if the residence is used to provide day care services to children, handicapped persons, or persons age 65 or older.

Previously, the law specified that deductions for business use of the home for child care services would be allowed only if the part of the home claimed was used exclusively and regularly for business.

For example, a taxpayer could not deduct a family room used for child care by day and for family entertainment by night.

The exception applies for tax years after December 31, 1975. However, the IRS cautioned, after September 1, 1977, the exception applies only to day care services which comply with any applicable state licensing, certification, or approval requirements.

Taxpayers who wish to claim the deduction for 1976 should file an amended return using Form 1040X, available from IRS offices.

Septic Tanks May Create Problems

The move to the suburbs has created quite a few unexpected problems for many home owners, and one with public health implications is the widespread use of septic tanks.

To their dismay, says the Texas Department of Health Resources, many residents have discovered that their soil won't soak up all the effluent being generated in their homes. This leads to the surfacing of septic tank effluent, which results in odorous standing water and breeding places for flies and mosquitoes. It also prevents direct contact with disease-carrying water by humans and pets.

New standards for construction of private sewage facilities are being developed by the Department of Health Resources. A hearing is scheduled on July 7 at 10 a.m. at the Texas Department of Health Resources, 1100 W. 49th St., in Austin.

Sherman W. Hart, P.E., Chief of the Plans and Specifications Branch of the Division of Wastewater Technology and Surveillance, says private sewage systems are usually single-owner types. "In addition to residential systems, however," said Hart, "these can also include a motel, laundry, service station, or other commercial establishment system."

"With very few exceptions, the typical private sewage system is composed of a septic tank followed by a soil absorption system for the effluent. Normally, this is what the home owner has," said Hart. Hart said approximately 20 percent of the Texas population uses septic tanks, and about 95 percent of the private systems use the absorption system with lateral lines leading from the septic tank.

The residents of subdivisions, lake developments and individuals residing in the smaller towns and cities-as well as other rural residents-use septic tank systems, says Hart.

Some of the areas where private sewage facilities are constructed are just not suitable for septic tanks, said Hart. Under ideal conditions, a septic tank system should be located where soils have good permeability, such as sandy loam and sandy clay. "However," he said, "we're finding that many of the private facilities are installed in rocky areas with no permeability, or in tight clay soils which won't allow passage of water."

"Where you have many residents and business establishments moving into subdivisions or other areas outside cities which have ordinances governing the regulation of private sewage facilities, problems have arisen with developers marketing small lots and contractors providing facilities which do not meet recommended standards. This has resulted in a variety of problems," said Hart.

Home owners find themselves with an individual disposal system which doesn't work, he said. In some cases, residents of these residential areas have had to construct and operate a central, or public, collection system and treatment plant at considerable costs, or tie in with nearby municipal systems, he said, to eliminate public health nuisances.

The new standards offer alternatives to conventional septic tank design, including eliminating wastewater by evaporation and plant transpiration. "This method will work very well in the drier areas of the state," said Hart. Where sufficient land area is available, an inoperative absorptive system can be changed to an evaporative system which has a much better chance of functioning properly, he said.

Through the cooperation of the Texas Water Quality Board, counties have the option of adopting private sewage facility orders for regulating the installation of septic tank systems in their jurisdictions. Some 35 counties, many of them in problem areas, have adopted these orders, said Hart. River authorities and other local water-oriented agencies, such as water districts, have adopted similar orders through the Texas Water Quality Board to control the pollution of streams and lakes under their jurisdictions. The Lower Colorado River Authority, Trinity River Authority, Upper Guadalupe River Authority and others have adopted these orders for areas around certain specified lakes.

The catchall for bringing legal pressure to bear against someone who has a defective private sewage system is the Texas Sanitation Law which has existed for years to control and abate public health nuisances. Improperly functioning septic tanks can lead to transmission of disease. Two of the more common diseases which may be transmitted by exposure to human wastes are infectious hepatitis and typhoid fever.

Hart and the Department of Health are hopeful that new standards will alleviate problems which have existed too long and put a blemish on the Utopia of suburban living.

A mid-afternoon car/truck accident at the intersection of Highway 84/FM1731 sent the driver of the car to West Plains Medical Center for treatment of slight injuries received in the accident. The price at which typical High Plains cotton will enter the Commodity Credit Corporation loan in 1977 will be about 5.6 cents higher than the same qualities in 1976 according to calculations of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The national base loan rate for Strict Low Middling 1-1/16 inch cotton this year is 44.63 cents, up 5.71 cents from 1976. USDA set the loan at High Plains warehouse locations at 44.60 cents, up 5.75 cents from the 38.85 cent rate on the Plains last year.

But a small portion of this base increase will be lost to High Plains farmers by reason of increased discounts for qualities below the base. Grade and staple discounts in 1977 are an average 27 points (.27 cents) greater than 1976, but smaller discounts on cotton with below 3.5 micronaire will offset about 13 points of this.

Basis for these calculations, PCG officials state, is the average of qualities produced on the High Plains in the 1971 to 1975 crop years.

"Hopefully market prices this Fall will be such that we won't need to use the loan," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, "but if the loan is needed, the higher average loan value will certainly be helpful."

The chart below shows a comparison of 1976 and 1977 physical loan prices on selected qualities common to High Plains production. Also shown are micronaire discounts for the two years.

Cattle Prices Gain, Producers Receive Less

A slow, steady increase in retail beef prices may soon be giving cattle producers a slightly bigger piece of the beef profit pie, notes Dr. Ed Uvacek, a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Cattlemen have been suffering from an extended period of low prices, but retail beef prices have increased about five per cent in recent weeks. The national average composite retail price for beef was $1.41 per pound the third week of May," notes Uvacek.

Choice fed steers in that same week averaged $40.86 per hundredweight, up 11 per cent over the March average price.

Consumers have been paying more for their beef mainly due to both the higher cattle prices and an increase in the cost of marketing. This latter cost, of course, does not benefit cattle producers, says the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"The marketing part of the beef industry has accounted for a larger and larger portion of the consumer's dollar spent on beef," says Uvacek. "More money was paid into higher labor rates, transportation costs and packaging. This left the producer with a smaller piece of beef profit pie."

While the farm-to-retail price spread dropped substantially in April and early May, it has jumped back up again during recent weeks. The only hope for cattlemen, therefore, is higher retail prices to the consumer.
