Sidewalk Sale Slated Saturday

Local Businesses Are Cooperating

Great savings and many bargains are promised by local merchants for the annual Sidewalk Sale which is planned for Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Secretary Linda Lee, asked that everyone who plans to have a booth on the courthouse lawn, or a parade entry for the July 4th celebration, please contact her.

She has asked that she be contacted sometime today (Thursday) in order to complete plans. The Chamber of Commerce number is 272-4248.

Robert L. Bliss, a former Muleshoe resident, has been elected a vice president of Friona Industries, Inc., announced Ron Davenport, president.

He joined Friona Industries in 1974.

Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements was still a patient at Methodist Hospital at press-time. However, he was expected to be released from the hospital late this week.

He will spend some time at the home of his son, Deputy Sheriff Travis Clements, in Lubbock, before he returns to Muleshoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Franks of Muleshoe were visited, the past nine days, by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brommerick and Becky, and William Koeller of Winona, Minn., and Elvin Brand of Rushford, Minn. During their visit to Muleshoe they toured Muleshoe Co-Op Gin.

David Smith, son of Mrs. Wilma Smith of Muleshoe has been named to the Dean's Honor List for the Spring Semester at Odessa College. His grade point was 3.8.

Scott Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacque Baker; Debra Bouchelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Bouchelle and Staci Vandever, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Butch Vandever, were among the 153 junior and senior high school students in the annual Music Camp at Lubbock Christian College.

The states represented at the camp were Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Colo., Arizona and Louisiana.

INSTANT JUNGLE...Although a wind and sandstorm Monday night failed to leave more than a 'trace' of moisture in the accompanying clouds, Jerry Otwell of 1409 West Avenue B got an instant jungle when this large tree toppled in the wind, landing partially on his house. Otwell planned to use a saw to cut up the tree which had an eight inch trunk.

all day Saturday, July 1, in Muleshoe.

Most merchants are cooperating in the sale which will feature many outstanding sales and good merchandise for the shopper.

For instance, Poyner's White Stores is offering an air mattress for 99 cents and table lamps at one-half price.

Or, if you are looking for camping and fishing supplies, Gibson's will be featuring many bargains in summer merchandise, including ice coolers for $5.99 and Coleman camp fuel for $1.99.

St. Clair's is having a major sale during the sidewalk sale and Albertson's says they are reducing mens' merchandise to drastic cuts in price.

Lindsey Jewelry is offering special buys on jewelry and Harvey Bass is featuring TV, vacuum cleaners and sewing machines, along with other merchandise.

If new walkie talkies are you thing, or how about that smoke alarm you have been planning to buy. It can be found during the sidewalk sale at Gordon Wilson Appliance.

All day, stores in Muleshoe will be featuring such buys, along with many others, to fit the most discriminating taste, and all pocketbooks.

Annually, the sidewalk sale precedes the July 4th Celebration which will be on Tuesday, July 4.

On that day, festivities get underway at 7 a.m. with an Omelette Rodeo by the Bailey County 4-H across the street east of the courthouse. You can watch the young people, with their five burners, cook your omelette just the way you want it.

They will be serving ham, bacon, cheese and Spanish omelettes with your choice of milk, juice or coffee from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Almost all activities will center around the courthouse again this year, with something for everyone. The courthouse activities will get underway right after the Pony Express Race from Needmore to Muleshoe at 7:30 a.m.

FREAK ACCIDENT...Fortunately no one was injured in a freak accident nine miles northwest of Muleshoe on Highway 84, Monday morning. The V.T. Miller family of Vicksburg, Miss., were in the late model car in the background when an axle split, causing the right rear tire to come off. It struck the door on the right front of the car before going into a ditch and hitting a pickup nearby.

Kidnap Victim Rescued At Clovis

A chain of events which began around 10:15 a.m. Sunday approximately five miles southeast of Muleshoe on Highway 84, ended around 2:04 p.m. the same day in Clovis with a Clovis man being charged with false imprisonment.

It was reported by CB radio that a man had stopped a car southeast of Muleshoe, and at gunpoint, took a woman from the car, leaving with her.

Released from the Curry County jail Monday after posting a $5,000 bond on the false imprisonment charge was Marvin Edward Sehestedt, 31, of 2945 Mandell Circle in Clovis. He was charged with abducting his wife, Leslie, from the location in Bailey County.

On receiving the report, Bailey County Deputy Sheriff Monte Phipps found the car with the two people southwest of Muleshoe at the intersection of FM746 and FM1731. He followed the car to Portales, after asking for Roosevelt Co. (N.M.) officers to meet him at the state line.

However, on being advised that the man was armed, officers did not stop the car, but followed it on into Portales where the man stopped at a truck stop for gas.

Unmarked state police cars kept up with the car said to be driven by Sehestedt as he drove toward Fort Sumner.

He asked by CB radio for Clovis psychologist Dr. William R. Lowe to meet the car near town. However, he failed to arrive at the location where Dr. Lowe was waiting. Instead he once again was reported by police in Clovis to be driving toward Fort Sumner, west of Clovis.

According to Clovis police, Sehestedt then asked for Dr. Lowe to meet them at his office. When he arrived at the office, he gave his handgun, said to be a .38 revolver to Dr. Lowe. At that point, he was apprehended by two Clovis City Police officers who were waiting in the psychologists' office.

Sharla Farmer At Range Camp Near Junction

Sharla Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farmer of the West Camp community, was chosen to attend Range Camp at Junction this week. Selection was based on outstanding projects and interest in range management.

Sharla's local sponsors are Blackwater Soil and Water Conservation District and Bailey County 4-H Adult Leaders Association, who are both strong supporters of range education and leadership development of local youth.

The weeklong Range Camp, sponsored by Texas Section, Society for Range Management, is arranged to honor outstanding range and ranch youth and provide them an opportunity for complementary training in range management and leadership skills.

According to Dan Rodgers, Range Camp Chairman of College Station, participants are learning to identify range plants, evaluate rangeland potential. Cont. Page 3, Col. 4

Summer Activities For Youth Approved

Jim Nolen of Transportation Engineering Associates was at the Tuesday meeting of the Muleshoe City Council to present the recently completed Traffic Engineering Survey. He explained the recommendations of the surveying group and said that if even a few of the suggestions would be implemented it would help traffic in the city.

Nolen said, "In the survey report are suggestions only. We would like to emphasize that the city is under no obligation or pressure to accept any of the recommendations made, but any or all of them would help alleviate traffic problems."

When asked by Council Member Bob Finney why the engineers recommended eliminating angle parking, Nolen said, "The minor collisions in angle parking do add to property damage figures compiled for state and federal governments. Both agencies see only the number of accidents not that they were minor. It is our suggestion that a long range program be instituted to phase out angle parking, although your Main Street has plenty of room for driving lanes with angle parking."

According to the survey, a recommendation was also made to eliminate traffic signals on Main Street and replace the signals with stop signs on side streets and install traffic islands at the corners of the streets.

Nolen told councilmen the elimination of the signal lights would help keep a steadier flow of traffic on Muleshoe's Main Street and provide easier access to the street with the control islands.

Also discussed was coordinating the traffic signals on American Blvd. and at First and Ave. D. By coordinating lights, a person driving the speed limit would hit the lights all green and eliminate stopping and starting.

Also suggested was removing the traffic bumps between junior high and high school, closing the two blocks of West Ave. G between the street and turning it into a parking lot for both schools.

Most of the four way stop signs in Muleshoe were recommended to be removed, also for a smoother flow of traffic, according to the traffic engineer.

He said that in school zones, that would allow the traffic to move slowly, but steadily.

Nolen said the railroad crossing at Highway 84 and Ithaca Street would probably be stenciled denoting the crossing ahead.

Nolen also said, "We believe that a traffic control device should not be used for speed control, and that speeding should be handled through enforcement," in response to a question about removing the lights on Main Street.

Also meeting with the city council was George Wall, Jr. and Ray Bradley from the Texas Department of Public Transportation and Highways, of Lubbock.

They propose to remove the median between West Eighth and the road side park on American Blvd., and convert the former median locations to a continuous left turn lane.

He said the state plans to completely tear out the existing highway and rebuild it, and don't foresee any cost to the city.

When questioned about the dip at the corner of West American Blvd. and West Twelfth Street, Bradley said they will improve the riding quality of the dip, and said they would study the feasibility of installing a storm sewer system at the location. However, the city would be expected to share in the cost of the extensive system.

They also agreed to check into raising the traffic signal poles on First and American Blvd. and First and Main Street as the signs are frequently knocked down by overheight loads on trucks.

Council members approved applying for a park grant to construct at least one new softball field and remodel an existing field.

A summer Youth Program was adopted. Kerry Moore will be director of the program which will run from July 5 to August 18. Activities for youth between the ages of eight and 15 are planned.

Awards will be given at the end of the program.

Water Heater Fire Culprit At Progress

Shortly after 6 a.m. Sunday, the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department was called to a fire at a home in Progress. When the firemen arrived, flames were just beginning to come through the roof of a six room house owned by Marion Howard.

When firemen donned Scott Air Packs and entered the home, the residents were not home, and the firemen found the bathroom and a back bedroom burning.

They traced the fire to a hot water heater which had burned through and had fallen through the floor of the house. They speculated that the water heater malfunctioned causing the fire.

Most of the damage was confined to the bathroom and one bedroom, with considerable smoke damage in the rest of the house.

Polish Group Study At Lubbock

"The accurate, scientific method of mixing feed employed at the Texas Tech Feed Milling Plant is very impressive, and something I have not seen before," noted Dr. Zenon Szumera, leader of a three-man team of Polish engineers in charge of designing a new feed mill in Poland. The team visited Lubbock last week as guests of Grain Sorghum Producers Association and Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board.

Sponsored by the U.S. Feed Grains Council (USFGC), the team will spend two weeks in the United States observing and studying the technology behind different methods of feed processing so that they can incorporate these techniques into their new mill. Their U.S. tour includes visits to feed mills in Georgia, North Carolina, Texas, Kansas and Colorado.

In the Lubbock area the team toured Producers Grain Corp. Feedlot in Mayfield, Olton Grain Co-op in Olton, Taylor Feedlot in Dimmitt, Pre-Feeders Feedlot in Hereford, and the Experimental Feed Milling Plant at Texas Tech University.

The need for a new feed mill in Poland was determined by members of a team of Polish animal scientists who visited the High Plains last fall. Also sponsors by USFGC and hosted by Grain Sorghum Producers Association, the team of scientists saw great advantages in the methods of feed processing practiced in this area and asked that an experimental feed mill which would utilize some of these processes be built in their homeland. The Polish government agreed and the present team of engineers was named to design the mill.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek takes a sidelong glance at a new ruling by the Supreme Court. Dear editor:

Newspapers, especially big city newspapers, are upset over a ruling by the Supreme Court that police, merely by getting a simple search warrant, can barge into their offices unannounced and search through desks and files for whatever they can find.

It is not that the police think the newspaper has done anything criminal or even anything at all. It is that they think maybe they might find a photograph or notes that might lead them to some third party they are investigating.

Newspapers naturally object to this odd interpretation of the Constitution and what I am wondering is, how broad is it? Does it mean that newspapers can get a search warrant and go into the Supreme Court Justices' offices to see if they can find any notes or scraps of papers that would account for such a haywire decision?

Also, does it mean the police have to put everything back on a desk just like they found it?

Furthermore, does the decision mean the office of somebody like me who only writes for a newspaper can be searched?

If so, I would like to ask a favor. Six months ago I stuck an important letter with some notes scribbled on the envelope in a special place on my desk. When I put it there I made a mental note to remember where it was. It was right there on the right side under some clippings from The Journal, some from The Clovis News Journal, some personal letters that maybe needed answering, some government forms for a farm census (third notice, it said) and a few other odds and ends that gradually accumulate on a desk in an office where the wastebasket is already full. I can't find that letter.

I don't know what evidence Sheriff Dee Clements might be looking for on my desk, but if you can, arouse his suspicions. If he can turn up that missing letter, I sure would appreciate it.

Yours faithfully, J.A.

William B. Briggs, P.E., a feed mill engineering consultant from Atlanta are accompanying the team.

Through May 31, 1978, Poland has purchased 13.8 million bushel of Grain sorghum. The new Polish feed mill is another step toward USFGC/Grain Sorghum Producers Association's goal of expanding the demand for U.S. grain sorghum in Poland.

Statler Bros. To Entertain During Fair

The Statler Brothers, who have racked up more than three dozen major awards since breaking into the country music field in 1964, will be entertaining at the 61st annual Panhandle South Plains Fair here Sept. 23-30.

Fair general manager Steve L. Lewis said the popular group which is neither Statlers or brothers will be on stage in Fair Park Coliseum for two performances-5 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Sept. 25.

They join the Johnny Rodriguez show, also featuring Linda Hargrove which has been signed for one show on Sept. 26, and the Jim Ed Brown Show, featuring Helen Cornelius and Wendy Holcombe, for a single show on Sept. 27.

Three other shows will be announced later, Lewis said.

The Statlers are four young men from Virginia, including Harold Reid and Don Reid (the only two brothers), Lew DeWitt and Phil Balsley. All were reared in the Shenandoah Valley.

Discovered by Johnny Cash while making an appearance in Roanoke, Va., in 1964, they later joined his road show and were signed to a Columbia Records contract by Cash.

Shortly thereafter, the group made its first million-seller, "Flowers on the Wall." In 1965, the Statler Brothers were nominated for four Grammy awards and won two of them. Since then, they have scored consistently, winning many major awards--some more than once.

Appearances have taken them to England, Ireland, Scotland, Italy, Germany, Australia, New Zealand, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Canada and Hawaii. They have played in the London Palladium, Carnegie Hall, The Astrodome and Hollywood Bowl, to name a few, plus countless television programs, recording dates, etc.

Tickets for all the shows on tap for the 1978 fair are priced at $4, $5 and $6. All seats are reserved.

Driver of the car was Susan Murrell, said to be a former drill team sponsor. In another car following the Murrell car was another car with three drill team members and an additional sponsor.

When Sehestedt was apprehended, his wife was reported to be unharmed.

space or residual treatments of insecticides such as malathion, Dibrom, methoxychlor, or Dursban, he suggested. Space treatments, generally fogs, have very little residual activity and require repeating at frequent intervals. Space treatment should be done during the cool hours of the night or early morning and when wind velocity is less than five miles an hour.

Residual treatment applied as mists or sprays to the resting sites of adult mosquitoes gives longer-lasting control than space treatments, Tanksley noted. These should be applied to vegetation, eaves of roofs, under porches, and similar shaded areas where adult mosquitoes rest by day.

"The hot, dry summer weather that is normal for the South Plains should dry out these temporary pools of water and give people some eventual relief from these biting mosquitoes," Tanksley said.

Bob Bullock Announces Allocations

Comptroller Bob Bullock announced Thursday he has made the ten year allocation of state ad valorem tax money among 17 senior colleges and universities as required by the Texas Constitution.

Bullock warned, however, that "this tax is under a cloud because of the suit filed by Representative Wayne Peveto and this office will not distribute the money to those schools until that lawsuit is settled."

Peveto filed suit in Travis County District Court April 5 challenging the legality of the tax, which is used to finance new construction at the colleges and universities named in the Constitution.

Bullock, defendant in Peveto's suit, wrote Attorney General John Hill urging that Hill not contest the suit because "our ad valorem tax system in the State of Texas is being unconstitutionally applied in many ways. This is unquestionably the most inequitable and unpopular tax on the books."

The Comptroller added that even though the suit has been filed his office is still bound by the Constitution to make the allocation.

"I hope the litigation is resolved quickly," Bullock added. "I know that these schools depend heavily on this source of funds."

Letters To The Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

Last Wednesday Evening the Ranch House Motel was endangered by what could have been a very serious fire, caused by a truck breaking the cable TV line stretched over the highway in front of the motel.

The city police, sheriff's dept., Public Service Co. and the cable TV people all responded quickly and efficiently to this emergency and we thank them all from the bottom of our hearts.

Our greatest thanks however must go to the very fine Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Dept. The line was broken at 7:30 p.m. and these marvelous people were on the job within minutes. Although the motel was full and many spectators were often in the way, these men went about their job with a calm and efficient manner that told anyone watching, they knew their business.

We are very thankful to be living in a community with such a fine Fire Dept. and feel that everyone living in this area should be grateful for the feeling of well-being that watching these men at work can bring.

Consumer Food News

Best food buys at Texas grocery markets this week include dairy, poultry and fresh produce items, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, reports.

Fish also offers budget buys, says Mrs. Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Her summary of current price-quality trends is as follows: DAIRY--With production at a peak, look for features on milk, skim milk, yogurt, sour cream and several cheeses.

POULTRY--Egg prices are low, but buy now, since they will go higher. Fryer chickens have attractive prices, and the summer outlook says they will stay "reasonable." Whole birds are the "key" feature.

Turkey roasts offer economy buys, along with whole birds weighing 10-14 pounds.

FRESH VEGETABLES-- Best values are carrots, corn, onions and soft-shell squash. Moderate prices appear on blackeye and cream peas, cucumbers, peppers and okra.

Lettuce supplies are down, and some prices are drastically higher.

FRESH FRUITS-- Watermelon prices are down about 12 cents, or less, per pound in most stores, and peach prices are dropping. Banana imports are heavy, and they may have lower prices. Moderate prices appear on cantaloupe and honeydew melons.

High prices, generally, show on cherries, seedless grapes, apricots, plums and nectarines, along with first-of-the-season Granny Smith apples.

RED - MEAT (BEEF AND PORK)--Supplies are not expected to increase during summer, so consumers wanting lower-cost cuts should become "expert" bargain hunters.

Beef specials may include liver, chuck roasts and steaks, sirloin and round steak.

Pork features may include semi-boneless hames, liver, end chops, rib and loin-end roasts and frankfurters.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES-- Several markets have "specials" on tomato products, macaroni, pork and beans and peanut butter.

FROZEN FOODS' Look for feature prices on orange juice, lemonade, ice cream, frozen yogurt, strawberries and complete dinners.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS-- Main dishes with cheese as the star ingredient usually save money, because it is a nutritious concentrated food-with hard cheeses containing more protein than cream cheeses.

Senior Citizens Met Monday

The Senior Citizens met June 26 in fellowship hall of the United Methodist Church at 2 p.m.

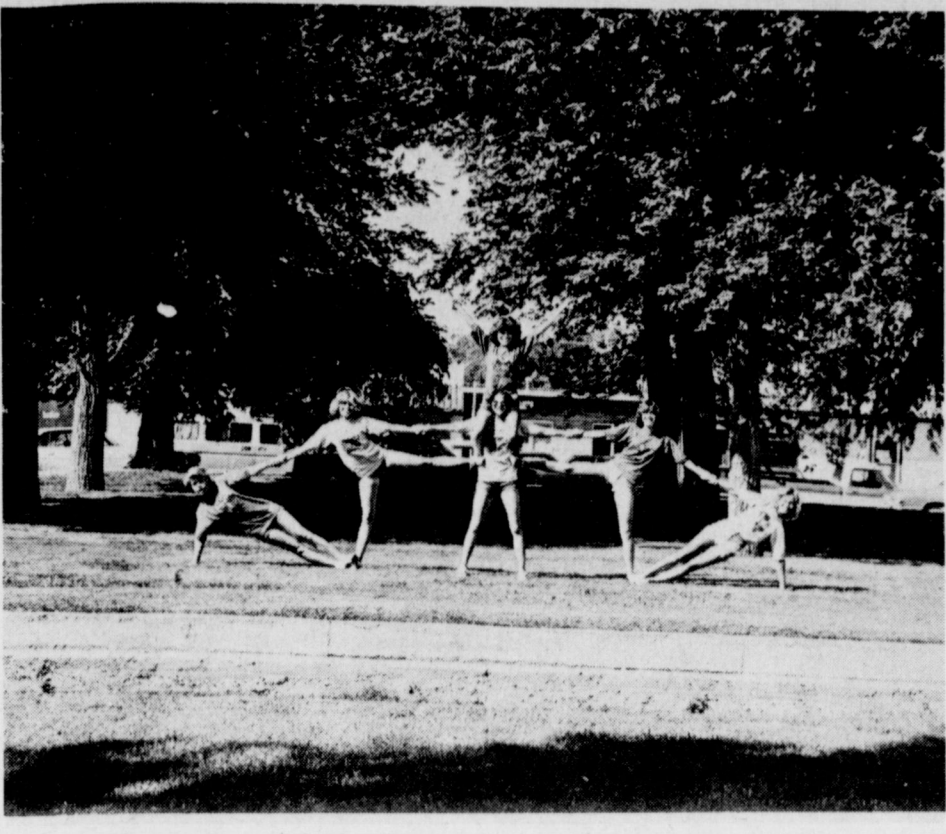

Mr. Bill Moore was in charge of the meeting. The prayer was given by Mr. Durward Head. The minutes were read by Mrs. Eva Ashford.

Army Women Win Medals For Shooting

Today's counterparts of Annie Oakley, the famous American woman crack shot with a gun, are women members of the US Army's medal-winning marksmanship unit at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Hailed as one of the best women pistol shooters in the United States today, Army Specialist Five Kimberly Dyer holds more than a dozen national records in pistol competition. Last year she won the 1977 Women's National Pistol Championship as well as two gold medals during the 1977 Championship of the Americas in Mexico City. She hopes to win this September in Korea at the World Shooting Championship.

A winner with a rifle, Army markswoman Specialist Five Karen Elizabeth Monez also carried off two gold medals in rifle shooting at the Mexico Championships in 1977 and was hailed in the local press as "la sensacion de los Estados Unidos".

Still another champion with the rifle, Specialist Five Diane L. Klimas, a graduate of Penn State University, joined the Army Marksmanship Unit in 1977 and promptly won the Women's National Service Rifle Championship for that year.

All three women will be competing for the Army in national and international marksmanship championship during 1978.

Cattle Raisers Ask New Limit Placed On Tax

A constitutional limitation on state and local taxes similar to California's Proposition 13 has been called for by the president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, John Armstrong of Kingsville, Texas, representing one of the larger groups of land-owners in Texas.
In a letter to Governor Dolph Briscoe, Armstrong said, "I would like to request that you give serious thought to calling a special session of the Legislature to consider a constitutional limitation on state and local taxes. This would provide the people of our state with the power of initiative and referendum. In this way, the people of Texas will have the same mechanism to influence a state government on this issue as the people of California."

Armstrong referred to the landslide vote for Proposition 13 in California which has caught the attention of public officials and private citizens all over the nation. "We must strike while the sentiment is strong to limit taxation, thus slowing down the over-development of bureaucracy. In six or eight more months, this enthusiasm and concern may well have cooled. Meaningful tax limitations put on by the Legislature depend on the backing of an aroused citizenry." Armstrong added that the upward trend of property taxes must be stemmed.
The Texas Constitution provides for regular sessions of the Legislature only in odd numbered years from January to June. Unless called into a special session by the governor, the Legislature will not meet until January, 1979.

Crime Decreasing According To Report

Crime, as measured by the Uniform Crime Reports' Index, decreased four percent during the first quarter of 1978 when compared with the same period of 1977, Attorney General Griffin B. Bell announced today.
This figure was included in Crime Index statistics released today by William H. Webster, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.
"While the volume of crime has declined consistently in recent quarters, lawlessness remains a pervasive national concern," Mr. Bell said. "It is imperative that our determination to conquer the crime problem does not weaken."
As a group, the number of violent Index crimes reported to law enforcement agencies across the country fell one percent. Within that group, two offenses showed increases. Forcible rape was up four percent, and aggravated assault rose one percent. Decreases were reported for the remaining two violent crimes. Murder declined two percent and robbery four percent.

Collectively, the property crimes of the Index showed a decline of five percent. Each offense within this category registered a decrease. Reports of larceny-thefts were down seven percent, while burglary and motor vehicle theft notifications decreased two percent each.
Mr. Webster echoed Mr. Bell's comments concerning the three-month figures and added, "I am extremely pleased with this downward trend and hope that it continues. I know that all responsible citizens share my concern with the problem of crime in the United States."

Reported Crime Index offenses in cities with more than 50,000 inhabitants, like the national experience, decreased by four percent. The suburban areas recorded a six-percent decline; the rural areas showed a five-percent drop; and a three-percent decrease occurred in cities outside metropolitan areas.

Geographically, the only increase in reported offenses occurred in the Western States, where a one-percent rise was recorded. The largest decline was reported in the North Central States, nine percent; the Northeastern States followed with a seven-percent drop; and the Southern States experienced a five-percent decrease.

Osteoarthritis May Be Caused By Sports

A passing sports injury to a joint today can mean a major arthritis problem much later in life unless proper early care is taken.

This warning was given here today during a panel presentation on osteoarthritis at the Arthritis Foundation's annual scientific meetings.

A Physician, a nurse, a physical therapist and an occupational therapist, all arthritis experts, agreed that tens of thousands of youngsters active in football and other contact sports are unwitting candidates for serious and painful difficulties with their joints when they get older, due to traumatic arthritis.

Traumatic arthritis—arthritis resulting from injury—is a form of osteoarthritis, which medical professionals like to call degenerative joint disease.

By whatever name, osteoarthritis is the most prevalent kind, affecting an estimated 15 million Americans. And the problem is increasing because the population is aging. People are living longer.

Dr. Colon H. Wilson, Jr., of Emory University in Atlanta, was first to sound the alarm, saying that the nation's passion for sports at all ages obscured the long term risks being taken by children.

"Professional football players, for example, often develop traumatic arthritis as early as the 20's and 30's," he said, "but they are adults and know the chances they are taking."

"With youngsters it is different. There are about one and a half million boys who play football in their communities, in high school, or in college, sometimes in all three. Many of them do not have orthopedists as team doctors to watch over them and treat their injuries. Many don't have sophisticated equipment to protect them."

"Fifty to eighty percent will sustain some injuries," Dr. Wilson continued. "Most of these will be minor. But a great many will require topnotch early care if osteoarthritis is to be prevented from developing later."

He cited Joe Namath's knees as a famous example. "The way his knees have been banged around for years, going back to his high school days, I don't have to examine them to know he's got a dandy case of traumatic arthritis right now," Dr. Wilson said.

Dr. Wilson and the other panelists pointed out that the medical community, parents, and the young athletes themselves must become aware of the potential seriousness of sports injuries, and be sure they are treated appropriately to prevent long-term complications.

Joan U. Sutton, a nurse specialist in rheumatology at Johns Hopkins University, stressed the particular danger of re-injury of a previously damaged joint, and urged that victims take special precautions to protect such joints.

YOU'RE DOLLARS AHEAD

On Wall Street By Bob Hill

A continuing concern among our government leaders is the prospect of higher oil prices. The only factor holding off a well head tax on oil produced in this country is the present oil glut. The surplus of oil comes about from new and increased production of oil from Mexico, the North Slope and the North Sea.

This causes a problem for the OPEC countries, the primary source of crude oil. Saudi Arabia, the largest producer of oil and a staunch friend of the U.S. has been a strong influence both against a price increase and for continued payment in U.S. dollars.

Iraq, Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates have been pushing for a price increase to offset world inflation and have also been insisting on another form of payment other than U.S. dollars. Any switch from dollars to another currency or combination of currencies would collapse the U.S. dollar overseas.

Saudi Arabia can hold off a price increase by the OPEC countries by pointing out the huge surplus of world oil which could now extend into the 1980's. But it will be more difficult to prevent the OPEC countries from insisting on some other form of payment for oil.

Oil is the largest single commodity in world trade. Saudi Arabia has over 80 percent of its foreign reserves and assets, around $65 billion, in dollars. Any substitute of another currency for the payment of oil would cause a severe decline in the value of those assets.

Fortunately, the law of supply and demand is at work. It forestalls any action by the OPEC countries which would work to the detriment of the U.S. But time, now on our side, may be running out. A couple of years is one thing. Twenty years is another.

View From The Plains

by J.D. Peer
I & E Field Officer

The high daily temperatures are producing plenty of plant growth and a flurry of insects which are on the diet of nearly all birds in the Panhandle and on the South Plains.

A wild turkey killed by a passing vehicle was examined and found to contain nearly a quart of grasshoppers in its crop in the Panhandle. Most landowners realize the importance of birds for the control of injurious insects that eat important crops such as corn, wheat, and vegetables.

Only a small percent of the million or so species of insects in the world are detrimental to the food producer, but a torrent of noxious compounds and toxic chemicals commonly called insecticides or pesticides are being released against the few plant enemies. This spread of poison, often released in areas containing wildlife, is having an affect on all life.

There is no doubt, of course, that chemical insecticides and pesticides have reduced insect-borne diseases the world over and buoyed agricultural productivity in the U.S. However, the very success of the chemicals have led to a heavier and heavier reliance on them, even though their efficiency has decreased in some areas.

These developments include public concern about the effects of chemicals on human health, wildlife and the environment; the increasing genetic resistance of insects to the chemicals; and the disruption of naturally-occurring biological control agents.

Many food producers have turned to an "integrated control" strategy which involves an array of techniques, used singly and in concert, that hold down pest populations to tolerable levels without jeopardizing human health or economic loss or wildlife.

Among these techniques are: beneficial insects that either prey on or parasitize pests; bacterial, fungal and viral infections that decimate pest populations; sex attractants that lure injurious insects to their destruction; sterilization programs that result in negative pest population growth; insect hormones that throw a figurative wrench into the creatures' developmental timetable; the development of pest-resistant crops; the synthesis of repellent compounds occurring naturally in certain plants; judicious, timely and limited applications of certain toxic chemicals.

The effects of careless or indiscriminate use of toxic chemicals have been noted by wildlife experts in many areas. For example, certain insecticides used on "bad" bugs and eaten by wild pheasants can result in failure of the unhatched chick to emerge from the egg.

Results of ingestion of insects that are either sick or dying from a dose of insecticides are still being studied. Birds that have eaten these treated insects have become weak and are then more apt to be caught by their enemies such as the hawk, coyote or other ground animal. The total effect on wildlife and the environment by toxic chemicals will be difficult to tabulate due to the often subtle effects on the birds' digestive and reproductive systems.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department suggests that anyone using toxic chemicals read the label before spraying or dusting and limit the application where beneficial wildlife species reside. The amount of toxic chemicals used will determine the wildlife population on your property and through the use of "biological" controls, wildlife will flourish and assist you in controlling insects that prefer your crops for lunch.

ANTELOPE COUNTED

The annual Panhandle antelope count was flown June 4-18 by personnel of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department with the tally about the same as 1977. "This was the earliest the survey has been taken by air and with the low number of antelope fawns spotted, we will run a ground survey later this summer to verify the total population," said David Dvorak, project wildlife biologist.

"The western part of the Panhandle showed an increase in the number of animals and the eastern Panhandle was down even though both areas have excellent range conditions from the good spring rains," Dvorak continued.

The doe, fawn and heel count to be run later will probably show an increase in the number of antelope fawns. These counts along with comments from game wardens, landowners, and other interested individuals will be presented to the Parks and Wildlife Commission for study. The P&W Commission will then decide upon the best season for the Panhandle.

Comparisons with the 1977 survey will be difficult since this recent survey was conducted on different ranches in the Panhandle. A better view of the overall antelope population should be gathered by the P&W with the running of the count on new ranges.

Other interesting notes kept by the P&W spotters showed a total of 76 coyotes counted over the entire route. No comparisons have been made as the increase or decrease in the coyote population.

Hereford-Farmers are beginning to look for sunshine and residents of the Caprock are hoping for low water reports, but the resident nesting species of wild ducks in the Panhandle and South Plains are having a great time.

"The rains received over the last three weeks are too late to increase the wild duck production since most of the ducks went north in March searching for adequate nesting habitat and water," said Max Traweck, assistant waterfowl biologist.

"Ducks remaining in northwest Texas are finding ample water and as soon as the sun shines, there will be plenty of natural cover around the lakes for nests," Traweck continued.

The rising water levels in the lakes will not drastically affect the ducks already nesting as most of the nests are built quite some distance from the edge of the lake. If any nests have been destroyed or damaged, ducks could build new nests through the middle of August according to past P&W nesting surveys.

Any rain in northwest Texas this summer will insure plenty of water for the incoming northern ducks next fall. Many of the natural or "playa" lakes have received enough water to sustain them till winter.

Waterfowl populations should show a significant increase next fall due to the available water. This increase would be a drastic change over last winter when only a fraction of the waterfowl stayed in northwest Texas while most went on to the Texas Coast for the winter.

Snail Darter Still Creates Controversy

The Department of the Interior and the Tennessee Valley Authority issued a joint statement Friday in the aftermath of the United States Supreme Court's six to three decision affecting the Tellico Dam and the endangered snail darter. The statement follows:

TVA Chairman S. David Freeman and Assistant Secretary of the Interior Robert L. Herbst met this morning in a working session to expedite the consultation initiated at a May 12 meeting with Secretary Andrus. Chairman Freeman and Secretary Herbst agreed that the Tellico Project should be redesigned in a manner that gives high priority to the human needs in the region while remaining within the constraints of applicable law.

Freeman and Herbst agreed to an expedited schedule of weekly consultations beginning with a visit to the Tellico site next Tuesday by them and a high level Task Force from the Interior Department and TVA. The joint team will also visit with local citizens and with Indian groups.

The Department of Interior and TVA agreed to drop the previous constraints each agency had imposed on the study of alternatives. A full range of options will be considered by the Task Force, including examination of all possibilities for transplantation of the snail darter as well as alternatives for the project. Preliminary information suggests that an alternative may be fashioned that can provide benefits for people equal or hopefully superior to those which would have been provided by the project which has now been declared unlawful by the Supreme Court. TVA and Interior will provide a report to Congress by August 10.

"We believe that we will be able to reach a solution which both respects the law and benefits the economy," Herbst and Freeman agreed.

The Task Force, which will be chaired by Herbst and Freeman themselves, will also include Deputy Assistant Secretary David Hales; Director Lynn

A. Greenwalt of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; Keith Schreiner, USFWS Associate Director for Federal Assistance; F. Eugene Hester, USFWS Director for Federal Assistance and Research; Jane Parker, TVA's Tellico Coordinator; Dr. Thomas Ripley, TVA Director of Forestry, Fisheries, and Wildlife Development; Bill Bond, TVA Assistant Director of Agricultural Development; and George Kimmons, TVA Manager of Engineering.

Utility Commission Completes Testimony

The Texas Public Utility Commission finished hearing testimony concerning electric rate structures for Texas from major consumer groups early Tuesday afternoon.

Monday morning the Commission staff heard from Texas ACORN (Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now) which contends that there is a direct relationship between low household income and low electrical usage. ACORN's position is that the poor cannot substantially change their consumption level as a result of higher rates because they are down to essentials now. ACORN believes residential rates should reflect marginal cost pricing and that the customer charge should be eliminated. According to ACORN, this should result in much lower rates for residential consumers with low usage.

Another major group, Texas League of Women Voters, voiced its concern about energy conservation. The League proposed that the state set forth standards for air conditioner efficiency. They also suggested that the Commission consider allowing no new air conditioners to be sold or hooked-up unless they meet state standards for energy efficiency.

In general the League supports peak load pricing. Peak load pricing is the price of a HWH according to whether or not consumption is at the utility's peak period. However, the League emphasized that decisions on rate structure should be on a case-by-case basis.

During the hearings for utility companies the week before, the utilities generally indicated they did not want the PUC to mandate a certain type of rate structure, given the size and diversity of Texas. However, most of the utility companies opposed lifeline rates, because they stated utility studies showed little correlation between electric usage and income, demonstrating that lifeline rates may not benefit the intended low-income family.

A consultant from Ebasco Services added that low-income families may be high users of electricity because they live home-oriented lives and live in homes which are energy inefficient.

Some utility companies suggested that utilities should not be involved in social issues, such as welfare, but that governmental agencies should handle such matters (i. e. energy stamps).

All hearings will be conducted in Hearing Room A of the Commission.

For a consumer to make a statement, the consumer need only to sign an appearance form.

The information compiled from the three weeks of hearings will result in an interim staff report to be issued on August 31st.

October 2, the Commission will hold a one-day hearing for utilities, major consumers and private consumers to question the staff on the interim report. On December 31, the Commission will issue its final report to the Texas Legislature.

In 12 games. Members of the team are: Andy Rogers, Todd Gregory, Steffan Moore, David Lust, Ariel Sanchez, Martin Mendoza, Bart Elliott, Danny Powell, Kerry Winders, Mark Lust, Jimmy Garcia, Evaristo Sanchez Jr., Joe Dan Tarter, and Stephen Schilling. The 13 year old Muleshoe All-Stars were picked and 6 members of the Lazbuddie team were picked. They were Bart Elliott, Danny Powell, Kerry Winders, Jimmy Garcia, Evaristo Sanchez Jr., and Joe Dan Tarter, alternate.

The 14-15 year old All-Stars were picked and 5 members of the Lazbuddie team made this team. They were Andy Rogers, Steffan Moore, Todd Gregory, David Lust, and Ariel Sanchez.

Howard Carpenter underwent surgery Monday at Methodist hospital in Lubbock.

The Consumer Alert
 by John L. Hill
 Attorney General

AUSTIN—If you are like most consumers, your investment in your home is the largest single investment that you have made, or will make in your lifetime. Partial or total destruction of your home, as a result of fire or severe weather, could result in tremendous loss. The need for insurance to protect your home and goods is obvious. But determining how much homeowner's insurance you need is sometimes difficult. Attorneys in our Insurance, Banking and Securities Division and Consumer Protection Division say many homeowners are under-insured without being aware of it. This is primarily the consequence of rapidly increasing property values. For example, if you bought a home in 1965 for $20,000, it might cost as much as $40,000 to replace that house today. If you have not increased your insurance coverage in accordance with the increase in replacement value, you may have assumed a potentially serious financial burden. This is particularly true because many homeowner policies require that you carry insurance in an amount equaling 80% of the replacement value of your home.

If you do not, then you are subject to a penalty in the form of reduced benefits, for depreciation. For example, if you have to replace your roof, and you have the required 80% coverage, the insurance benefit will be the total cost of the repair, less the deductible. If you have not maintained 80% coverage, you will be charged for depreciation. In other words, you will receive a benefit which is less than full replacement value, based upon a depreciated value of the roof. In order to avoid such penalties and expenses, you must maintain your level of protection at 80% of its replacement value, not of its original cost.

In reviewing your needs for homeowners insurance, you should be aware that there are three types of homeowners policies: basic, broad, or comprehensive. A basic policy usually protects against such things as fire, lightning, wind, hail, explosion, riot, aircraft, theft, vandalism, vehicles, breakage of glass, loss of property removed from premises endangered by fire and other perils. A broad homeowners policy usually adds to that basic coverage protection against falling objects, snow damage, partial or total building collapse, and water heating system breakdown. Finally, a comprehensive policy covers all perils except earthquake, landslide, floods of certain kinds, backing up of sewers, seepage, war, and nuclear radiation.

In purchasing homeowners insurance, as in purchasing any insurance, be sure that you work with a reputable and responsible company and agent. You may wish to contact several agents to assure yourself the best possible coverage within your financial means.

If you have a consumer problem regarding insurance, contact our Insurance, Banking, and Securities or Consumer Protection Divisions in Austin, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Lubbock, El Paso, or McAllen. If you live outside these areas, call toll-free: 1-800-252-9236.

Cadet Stovall Has Training In Leadership
 Cadet Robert D. Stovall, son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Stovall, Jr., Route 2, Muleshoe, Texas, is receiving practical work in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps advanced camp at Fort Riley, Kansas. The five-week ROTC advanced camp provides an opportunity for cadets to develop and demonstrate leadership capabilities in a field training environment. Most cadets are fulfilling their advanced camp requirement during the summer between their junior and senior years in college. However, there will be a number of graduating seniors who will receive Army commissions at the completion of camp. Stovall is a student at New Mexico State University, Las Cruces. The cadet is a 1975 graduate of Muleshoe High School.
