Police Chase Ends In Wreck, Arrests

A high speed police chase ended early Sunday morning north of Progress, when a car driven by Tony Cereceres slammed into a dirt embankment on a dead end road at a speed estimated to be around 100 miles per hour.

Cereceres and a passenger in the vehicle received minor injuries in the crash that occurred as they were being pursued by Deputy Sheriff Bobby Henderson. Both were jailed with the driver, Cereceres facing multiple charges.

Henderson had joined the chase after hearing the pursuit start on Main Street in Muleshoe. He said he had just retired, when he heard Sgt. Wayne Holmes of the Muleshoe City Police report the chase to the dispatcher at the Law Enforcement Center. Deputy Henderson dressed and joined the high speed chase.

Although the pursued vehicle was headed north on Highway 214, the officers soon turned back went onto a county dirt road. Sgt. Holmes said the pursued vehicle was driven at a high rate of speed with the car's lights turned out. In the dust raised by the vehicles, the city police car soon lost the other car.

Soon the city officers were back in town, but Deputy Henderson decided to drive around a little more before going back to his home. He came across the vehicle parked in a lake bed and the chase started again.

As officers started moving into the area as the officer chased the car, Deputy Henderson drove over a small hill and saw dirt and smoke boiling up. He said his speed at the time was above 85 and the pursued vehicle was pulling away from him. He called for an ambulance, then found the two persons in the car apparently only had minor injuries.

Sgt. Holmes said the initial chase started on Main Street in Muleshoe, when he and Patrolman Hal Bynum saw the car come off a side street onto Main Street at a high rate of speed, turning sideways in a skid as it turned onto Main Street.

Efforts to stop the vehicle before it left the city limits failed, and the vehicle was pursued as it dashed down country dirt roads.

Cereceres was fined 1200 for fleeing an officer, $200 for reckless driving and $30 for no driver's license when he appeared before Municipal Judge Linda Huckaby on Monday morning.

The second major police chase in less than 24 hours occurred Sunday night when DPS Troopers Don Thomas and Paul Hernandez watched a vehicle run a stop sign. In an effort to stop the vehicle, speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour were driven by the officers and the car they were attempting to stop.

Read-A-Thon Underway In Muleshoe

Schoolchildren in grades three, four and five in Muleshoe and across the nation are currently 'reading for the need of others' -- and just for the fun of it -- in the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's MS Read - A - Thon. They have all become Mystery Sleuths, looking for the cause and cure of MS. The South Plains Chapter of the NMSS launched its internationally recognized reading program -- aimed at stimulating reading among elementary school students here -- on March 5. The MS Read - A - Thon will end on April 5.

"The MS Read - A - Thon, originated and developed by the Society, is widely recognized as an outstanding motivational tool that has succeeded in getting millions of schoolchildren across the country to read books," according to coordinator Barbara Finney.

Guidelines for the program are simple. The MS Read - A - Thon begins in the schools where the children learn about the program at a special assembly. Each child who registers receives an MS Read-A-Thon kit. The child then reads books of his choice and obtains pledges from his family, friends and neighbors. The child reads as many books as he wants and gets as many pledges as he wishes.

At the end of the program, April 5, this year in Muleshoe, the student brings his kit back to school and the money received is used to help buy wheelchairs, crutches, leg braces for patients. It also goes for other patient services, including an MS clinic at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock, and toward the support of research to help find the cause and the cure of MS, the mysterious crippler of young adults.

Mrs. Finney said Xi Omicron Xi conducts the MS Read-A-Thon in Muleshoe through Mary DeShazo Elementary School.

Most people may not realize that Muleshoe holds one of the lowest average key rates for fire insurance of any town of this size in Texas. They also probably do not know the reason for the lower fire insurance rates.

The fact that local residents can acquire fire insurance at a much lower rate in Muleshoe and Bailey County is because of Muleshoe's highly trained and efficient volunteer fire department.

In compiling figures on the 29 member department, it is noted that they have a combined total of 500 years of firefighting experience; that 22 of the 29 are certified firemen and the other seven are working on their certification.

Also, almost unheard of for a small town, is the fact that six of the members of the Muleshoe Fire Department are instructors at the Lubbock Fire School. They include J.O. Parker, Jack Dunham, Wayne Wauson, H.E. Reeder and Earl Ladd Sr., Safety Officer.

Another outstanding facet of the local fire department is the rescue team, a sophisticated team of dedicated men with specialized training. Approximately a year and a half ago, the firemen conducted a campaign and quickly acquired the several thousand dollars necessary to purchase a 'Jaws of Life' rescue tool.

Three of the firemen graduated from the Texas A&M Rescue School. They are J.O. Parker, Alton Parker and Johnny Zeigenfuss. An average of two firemen per year attend the Texas A&M Fire School, as they continually update firefighting techniques and rescue operations.

And, consider the way they are paid for the weekly meetings and training sessions, as well as leaving their jobs, their beds and tables, regardless of the time of day or night, including holidays, and fighting adverse weather conditions as they effectively fight fires.

The firemen are paid with your 'thanks' and expressions of appreciation for their efforts on your behalf.

He took his instruction from Morgan Locker, operator of Muleshoe Flying Service.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lackey and their two children, of the Pleasant Valley Community, were brought to West Plains Medical Center by two ambulances early Sunday morning.

The family was treated for inhalation of gas fumes and released from the hospital with very little ill effect, according to a spokesman for WPMC.

Debbie Pecina, Muleshoe High School student, was hospitalized for 24 hours after being injured in an accident in the school gym Monday morning.

She was taken to the hospital by ambulance for treatment of a head injury received when a ladder fell on her.

TMA Opposes New Senate Drug Bill

The Texas Medical Association (TMA) has attacked upcoming drug substitution legislation as being unpopular, not economical and dangerous. The Association also revealed plans to step up its program to encourage communication between patients and physicians about drugs.

SB 601 by Sen. Chet Brooks (D - Pasadena) would allow pharmacists to substitute without a doctor's permission. The bill will be heard next week by the Senate Human Resources Committee.

"If cost savings are the basis for SB 601, the pharmacist should pass the savings on to consumers instead of keeping them," said Mylie Durham Jr., M.D., TMA president, in a Friday news conference.

But even if patients got some of the savings, it would not be that much. A 1977 study by the Task Force for Evaluation of Medicaid in Texas said that the Texas Medicaid program would have saved only $28,000 by substituting generic drugs in 1976. Administrative costs alone would have exceeded the $28,000 saved. The task force concluded that present Texas law insures quality care and should not be changed just to save money. At the news conference,

Dr. Durham, a Houston surgeon, revealed results of a statewide public opinion poll done in the fall of 1978. The poll showed that 87 percent of Texans thought a pharmacist should obtain the doctor's permission before substituting drugs in a prescription.

Dr. Durham also said drug substitution can be dangerous in some cases. There still is controversy over the therapeutic equivalency of many drugs that have the same chemicals in them. Manufacturing processes, quality control and many other factors can affect how a drug works in the body. In case of problems, patients benefit when doctors know exactly what drugs are being administered.

Since physicians are not opposed to generic prescribing in general, TMA is stepping up a program to encourage better communication between doctor and patient on the subject. Right now it is legal for a pharmacist to substitute drugs with a doctor's permission. So the association is producing materials to encourage doctors and patients to talk about cost savings and health aspects of generic drugs.

Margie Hawkins And Girls Return From Hawaiian Tour

Following her seven days and seven nights tour of the Wakai and Honolulu islands in Hawaii, Margie Hawkins described her trip as 'paradise'. Mrs. Hawkins won the trip for two for sales and management of Dairy Queen. She has been a manager for almost six years. Accompanying her on the trip was her daughters, Donna of the home and Suzi Copeland of Lubbock, and their friends, Jan Whitt of Muleshoe and Gale Reppy of Lubbock. They departed Lubbock on February 20 and returned February 28. Upon arrival at Hawaii, the group was met by men in Hawaiian costumes and were presented with a lei. On their first day, they went to Pearl Harbor on the boat, "The Oklahoma". On the tour they were shown the graves of soldiers that were at Pearl Harbor when it was bombed by Japan.

The next day, they took a sea life tour and had a beach picnic. They saw whales and dolphins perform and the girls learned to snorkel. Mrs. Hawkins stated that the beaches were full of people.

Mrs. Hawkins said that the weather was always pleasant and there were quiet a few light showers but they were not like the showers we get in Texas.

Mrs. Hawkins said that every morning she stood on the terrace of her motel room, Wakai Village, and admired the greenery. She said that it looked as though someone went out everyday and polished the leaves on the trees because they gleamed in the sunlight. Hawaii has several palm trees, coconut trees and macadamian trees and ivy that grows wild.

At night, the girls went to the discos. They said that there seemed to be two or three discos on every block.

The group visited a mall that was several stories tall and had the same stores that we have in Texas. Mrs. Hawkins said that all the buildings on the islands are about 25 to 30 stories high.

On another tour, the group visited the location where 'Gilligan's Island' and 'Hawaii Five-O' were filmed. They also saw the homes where the stars lived when they were filming.

During another tour, they saw a rose garden and were told it was bad luck to pick the roses. They also viewed the Diamond Head Volcano.

Mrs. Hawkins remarked that there were no snakes in Hawaii except for two that were shipped in from California and placed in a zoo.

There were a lot of Chinese restaurants and pineapple was served with every meal. Mrs. Hawkins stated that they served a lot of chicken.

Mrs. Hawkins said that she loved her trip and was glad to be home but her girls wanted to stay.

People who hurry through this life meet death that much earlier.

UPON ARRIVAL...When Margie Hawkins arrived in Hawaii she received a warm welcome and was presented with the traditional Hawaiian lei. On the right is Suzi Copeland, her daughter from Lubbock. Another daughter, Donna of the home; Gale Reppy of Lubbock and Jan Whitt also accompanied them.

Mrs. Foster, president, presided over the meeting. She asked everyone to be thinking of who they would like to have as officers for 1979-80. Each present officer explained their

Select Disease Resistant Trees To Save Money

Selecting disease resistant shrubs and trees now can save time and money later.

"To get started in the right direction, first find out from your county Extension agent, nurseryman or other knowledgeable plant authority which diseases are most troublesome in your area," suggests Dr. Wendell Horne, plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

If powdery mildew is an annual problem in your location, you may want to watch such plants as euonymus, certain lines of crape myrtle, and roses. While roses are beautiful and contribute handsomely to a landscape, they require spraying every 10 days during certain times of the year for black spot and mildew control. In some cases it is possible to select varieties that are more resistant to these diseases, suggests the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Boxwood is a popular plant for formal gardens and basic landscape plantings, but it is highly susceptible to the root-knot nematode. If you have problems with this microscopic roundworm that causes knots or galls on plant roots, stay away from boxwoods, advises Horne. Consider dwarf yaupon or a similar type plant for a substitute.

In the blackland soils of Central Texas cotton root rot fungus attacks fruitless mulberry, mimosa and certain elms. Oaks and pecans are usually more resistant after they get past the seedling stage, explains the plant pathologist.

Mimosa have been dying over much of the state the past several years due to attacks from the fungus that causes Fusarium wilt. While this tree is highly attractive, it may be rather short-lived in most areas.

"Shrubs that are most often disease-free include wax leaf ligustrum, pittosporum, oleander and elaeagnus. While they are certainly not immune to all disease problems, they require less attention for disease control," points out Horne. "Of course, be sure to check other characteristics such as cold tolerance and landscape potential."

When selecting plants it is often a good idea to determine what is doing well throughout the area. Check to see if certain species seem to be thriving and free of disease damage. Also, a well established nurseryman who has had several years of experience can serve as a good source of information on this subject. His future business will depend on the accuracy of his information and the quality of his merchandise.

"Spending more time on tree and shrub selection and less time correcting problems will put more pleasure in landscape maintenance," contends Horne.

Nervous tension is an expensive trait.

A live shopping center depends on two groups: wide-awake merchants and ready buyers.

Have you ever paused to reflect upon what you spend most of your time thinking and talking about?

Tower Talks About Circuit Court Judges

Citing the need for "parity and fairness", Sen. John Tower today called on President Carter to assure an equitable distribution to Texas of the new positions created on the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

In a letter to the President, Tower discussed the allocation plans for the 11 new judges for the fifth circuit.

"On the present court of 15 active judges, four are allocated to Texas. Reports I have received indicate that five of the new judges are to come from Texas, and Louisiana, with five from the eastern four states. I understand that the origin of the eleventh judge has not been decided," Tower said.

The senior Texas senator cited appellate filings as the correct basis for judge-ship distribution.

"If two of the western five judges are to come from Louisiana, which seems justified by its filings, this would leave only three for Texas which, with those presently authorized, would make a total of seven. Thus, of the 26 active judges now authorized, Texas would have approximately 27% or just over one-fourth. Yet, for court year 1977-78, the total of appeals for the six states to the fifth circuit were 3,020 with Texas generating 1,016 or over one-third. Thus, based on filings, Texas should have one-third, or approximately nine judges."

Tower also noted in his letter that recent recommendations for revision of the appellate court system made full representation for Texas important.

"In view of the recommendations of the Commission on Revision of the Federal Court Appellate System that the fifth circuit be split so as to create two circuits in place of one, it becomes increasingly important that Texas be fully represented on the present court. If the split should take place, this could mean that the Texas-Louisiana Circuit could be left to deal with almost half the court's total docket with only 11 judges while the other half is serviced by 15 judges."

"The failure to maintain the appropriate allocation of judges on the circuit court of appeals could seriously affect the efficiency of our judicial system and adversely impact upon the citizens of Texas," Tower concluded.

In addition to Texas and Louisiana, the fifth circuit is comprised of Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama and the Canal Zone.

"Two Days With Maybelline by...Shelley Sain, Barbie Seaton and Jodi Cruikshank

One A Day, the Parker Brothers Dialed up Maybelline and asked her if she wanted to go to a movie. She asked the name of it. He said, "The Earth Born Today", starring Eve Salem and Fall Mall as the Red Man. She said, "Yes." We will pick you up at 7 p.m.

After they got back she said, "Let's go to the Ivory Coast and watch the Tide come in." The next day they went to the Ivory Coast and played in the Mudd while listening to the Sea Breeze. While they were there it rained a White Rain. When they got home Oscar Mayer scolded them because they didn't give the Signal they were leaving.

The Parker Brothers took Maybelline home and everything was Fantastik. When the Parker Brothers left, Hungry Jack called. Mrs. Goodcooke answered. "Let me talk to my Gleaming white Dove. She said, "No, because I want to get a Gold Medal for being my daughter's Lifesaver." Then she hung up on him.

All of the bands did a great job. Both the high school and junior high bands have contests coming up and we wish them GOOD LUCK!!!!

"Bell, did you have a joy while you were a little frisky last night? Bell Agreed. In the background you could hear Toni, her little girl, saying "Hush, Pappy!" to a Mighty dog. Merle Norman said, "Cover Girl, I mean Toni, I have a Signal to tell you a secret that will have a lasting hold on your tickle bone." "Did you see Mrs. Goodcooke with the Safeguard over at the Maxwell House? All she said was, "Are you Hungry, Jack?"

Bell said, "Did you hear about Betty Crocker cloping with Dr. Pepper? They are figuring on going to a Log Cabin on the Ivory Coast when the Tide Crests a peak on the beach."

Merle Norman said, "But did you hear that Safeguard's Final net from his earthen bounty hunter is at the Quakerstate bank?"

Maybelline replied, "No, but we had better Finish this conversation because Kenney's here and you know how he gossips. Bye!"

Severe Weather Data Sought By Researchers

While some are always chasing rainbows, several Texas Tech University researchers are preparing to chase 1979's spring storms in the hope of collecting cloud, tornado and hailstorm data.

The researchers, working through the Texas Tech Institute for Disaster Research (IDR), are working on three kinds of studies.

Dr. Richard E. Peterson of the atmospheric science faculty and his graduate students want to document the growth and maintenance of thunderstorms and to learn why certain storms become severe.

Dr. Milton L. Smith of the industrial engineering faculty will be studying hailstone properties and their possible effects, particularly on sola collectors. His work is supported by the Energy Foundation of Texas. For his studies he is counting on research teams retrieving hailstones for him, but he also is asking the public to collect and keep for him large or oddly shaped hail.

Dr. Joseph E. Minor, IDR director, and his colleagues in civil engineering specialize in wind engineering and are most interested in pictures of ground level wind fields as tornadoes move across the land. Faculty working with him are Drs. James R. McDonald and Kishor C. Mehta.

The ultimate goal of each researcher is to obtain sufficiently complete understanding of severe storms to protect lives and property.

The IDR Storm Chase organization for 1979 will include four teams, each equipped to bring in useful data. Teams of three will rotate duty and no more than two teams are likely to chase one storm.

On the chase will be a team director, recorder and cameraman. They will be supported by a fourth team member, the radar observer, stationed at the National Weather Service Office in Lubbock and in communication with the traveling teams.

Teams will have ready to go at a moment's notice equipment including binoculars; motion picture and still cameras; an ice chest with numbered plastic bags to store hailstones; tape recorders, maps and a compass; CB radio and antenna; stakes and ribbon for marking camera locations for future reference; and rain gear, including hard hats to protect against hail.

The nationally televised Skywarn program will be monitored by team members during the spring season. If threatening weather is predicted, Peterson's group will make a late morning forecast for research teams. Based on that forecast, a decision will be made whether or not to send a radar observer to the Lubbock weather station. Even before severe weather develops, the chase team will be dispatched to be in position to get long distance pictures of cloud formations and to move in as close as possible to eventual wind damage or tornado areas to gather pictures and other data.

Teams do more than watch and wait and take pictures. All data gathered must be documented, either by tape recorder or on data forms during the chase. For each hailstone collected, for instance, researchers must note the hour, date and location it was picked up.

Team training will begin the week of March 26. The active chase period has been set for April 2-20. During May, although students will participate only if their schedules permit, faculty will continue the research.

Public participation is helpful, Minor said. If anyone takes tornado pictures or can collect hailstones, the IDR can use the data. Pictures and hailstones should be labeled with time, date and location. Hailstones should be packaged and labeled separately in plastic bags and kept in a freezer until IDR team members can pick them up from the collector. Hail that is golf-ball size or larger or that has spikes or some other unusual formation is of value.

To notify researchers that photographs or hailstones are available, write or call the Institute for Disaster Research, Department of Civil Engineering, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas, (806) 742-3476.

If you're looking for the surprise in a box of corn flakes... don't look inside. Look at the price.

That means you're paying 80¢ a pound for the corn used in corn flakes. That's $44 a bushel.

A bushel that a farm family sold for less than three dollars.

Yet America remains the best fed, best clothed nation in the world, thanks to the American farm family.

Pioneer Gas President Testifies At Hearing

K.B. Watson, president of Pioneer Natural Gas Company, said, March 9, in a statement presented at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (F.E.R.C.) hearing in Amarillo that, "Strictly speaking, Pioneer and its agricultural customers are not critically effected by the least favorable implication in the Commissions proposed rules."

In his presentation to the F.E.R.C. hearing, Watson pointed out that the Act does not apply to sales from an intrastate system such as Pioneer's. He went on to say, "...virtually all of Pioneer's irrigation and other direct agricultural use customers are served from our general system - wide supply. Less than 15 percent of our total gas supply comes from interstate pipelines and two thirds is exchange gas rather than purchased gas. Further, 60 percent of Pioneer's sales are to customers with a lower priority than irrigation customers. The threat of interstate curtailment, particularly irrigation curtailment during the heaviest watering period of July and August, is therefore very remote to Pioneer and most of its customers."

Watson's testimony pointed out several inconsistencies in the Commission's proposed rules to implement Section 401 of the Natural Gas Policy Act, and indicated Pioneer's support for the initial intent as expressed in the joint Conference Report during the finalization of the Natural Gas Policy Act. Watson concluded his remarks as follows, "The clearly expressed intent of Congress in enacting the pertinent provisions of the NGPA was to afford maximum curtailment protection to essential agricultural users. We believe this protection was intended to cover the farmer's full present and future natural gas requirements except in specific instances where the dual tests of availability and practicability of alternate fuels are met. In our part of the country at least, there is no reasonably available, economically practicable alternate fuel to relieve the farmer if he is given less than total gas requirements for his operation. Without the fuel to run his irrigation pumps and grain driers, he will face destruction of his product which is the first link in the food - fiber chain."
